"One (the Chinese Communists) would be allied to and, in a sense, dependent on Russia; the other (the Chungking Government) would be, in a sense, anti-Russian but would be dependent on itself for survival and not on any outside power. I cannot envisage, if this comes to pass, the United States maintaining more than a passive interest in Chinese affairs," he said, "because to do otherwise would place us in an extremely embarassing position."

Two Moves Made At Capital To Increase Basic Wage Rate

Washington, May 22 (AP)—Two new moves to permit general wage increases in excess of those allowed by the Little Steel formula developed today in the Capital.

The CIO recommended to President Truman that a twenty per cent increase in prevailing basic wage rates be granted "to restore prewar relationships between wage rates, prices and productivity per man-hour."

Representative Gearhart (R., Cal.) introduced a House resolution calling on the Executive Department to permit pay boosts up to 30 per cent of January 1, 1941, rates. The Little Steel formula limits increases to fifteen per cent.

Work-Hour Cut Expected

Philip Murray, CIO president, said, after he had called on the President, that immediate increases were necessary in view of an expected general reduction of working hours from 48 to 40 per week.

"Such a policy would not require any upward price adjustments," Murray said, "nor, with proper price controls, initiate any inflationary spiral. In 1944, price levels were far enough above costs to yield $25,000,000,000 of profits before taxes. Production for war purposes has passed its peak, and production for civilian purposes will be on the increase. Thus, purchasing power is declining as more goods become available for consumers."

Rising Cost Of Living

Gearhart said rising costs of living justified higher wages, and noted that the House only recently authorized a tax-free expense allowance of $2,500 for its own members.

"There is no doubt in the world," said Gearhart in a statement, "but that the cost of living has risen far above the compensating increase in pay which my resolution recommends.

"Even the most conservative economists, economists who ignore the impact of war taxes, admit that the cost of living has increased 29.4 per cent over January 1, 1941."

TRUMAN FRISCO TRIP INDICATED

Other Travels Become Likely On President's Schedule

Washington, May 22 (AP)—President Truman will follow in the footsteps of Franklin D. Roosevelt as a great traveler if he goes all the places being added to his potential schedule.

It was strongly indicated today that he might look in on the San Francisco world organization conference before it winds up. A caller also quoted him as expressing the hope he could find time to visit the annual governors' conference at Mackinac Island, Michigan, June 2-4.

Other Trips Possible

Other business that may call the President away fro... Washing...n are:

1. A meeting with Prime Minister Churchill and Marshal Stalin, date and place to be determined, to discuss peace problems.

2. A conference with G. Charles de Gaulle, head of the French Provisional Government, time and location also yet to be determined.

3. A voyage to Manila for the inauguration of the independent republic of the Philippines, whenever that is created. The President has said he hopes to be able to accept the invitation of President Sergio Osmena to attend this ceremony.

In addition, the President plans a quick trip to North Carolina in October to address a special session of the State Senate. He has promised Representative Doughton (D., N.C.) that he would make this journey.

San Francisco Not Ruled Out

Charles G. Ross, White House press secretary, said today there were no developments on the impending Big Three or de Gaulle meetings. But when asked about reports that the President might go to San Francisco to close the world security conference Ross said significantly:

"I can't talk about that at the moment."

When it was recalled that Mr. Truman had said he would not go to San Francisco because his business was "right here," Ross said the Chief Executive merely had said he would not "open" the conference.

Speculation about a Big Three meeting place, meanwhile, ran the geographical span from continental United States and Alaska to Berlin, Prague, Vienna, and the French and Italian Rivieras.

Berlin Speculations

Those figuring on Berlin had nothing to bolster their reasoning except that it would be "dramatic" or "symbolic." Persons guessing other locations argued Berlin was wrecked and had a hostile population.

There are some officials who believe Mr. Truman might prefer a meeting in this country on the ground there are too many things warranting his remaining on home soil for an indefinite period.

It was Gov. Harry F. Kelly of Michigan who added Mackinac Island to the President's potential itinerary. As host to the July governors' conference, he added his personal invitation to a formal one from the conference executive committee for the President to attend one of the sessions.

Governor Kelly said the President expressed a "great desire and hope to be there."

7,500 REACH U.S. ON BRITISH VESSEL

NEW YORK, May 22.—(AP) More than 7,500 cheering American and Canadian servicemen and civilians returned from Europe today—all agreeing it was "wonderful to be home, "and the majority wishing they could stay.

"It's the most wonderful feeling in the world to be home," said Capt. Fred Larsen of New Orleans, an Eighth Air Force P-51 pilot with 61 missions and four enemy planes to his credit.

"I am very glad to get home. I wish I could stay," said Capt. William D. Clark, Jr., of Wilsonville, Ala., a veteran of 85 fighter missions who has bagged six Nazi planes.

A WAC band serenaded the soldiers, aviators, nurses, diplomats and civilians as they came down the gangways of the huge, camouflaged British liner.

The happiest men were 231 veterans who were 42 years or older. They came home to be discharged. Most of the others will have 45 days' furlough before shoving off for the Pacific.

The Army group of 2,953 persons, the majority from the 8th, 9th and 12th Air Forces, entrained for Camp Kilmer, N. J. They included 2,092 in the rotation group, 404, miscellaneous; 230, temporary duty, 188, Royal Air Force; 36, civilians, and three Frenchmen.

Sforza Urges Yugoslavs To Study Unity With Italy

NEW YORK, May 22 (AP).—Count Carlo Sforza, former Italian foreign minister, in a Rome radio broadcast last night urged Yugoslavia "to consider the advantages of deep and cordial understanding with the Italian people who morally, democratically and geographically will always count in Europe."

Obviously referring to the current dispute over Trieste, Count Sforza said:

"The present period is no more than a fleeting instant in Europe's history, and any effort at enforcing a policy of conquest of strategic points and national restriction against the people of Italy, whom no one can destroy, is paramount to the desire to create those situations which led to two world wars."

U. S. Sailor Finds German Cousin on U-boat

Boston, May 22 (A. P.).—An 18-year-old Coast Guard man—youngest member of the prize crew which brought the surrendered German submarine U-873 into Portsmouth, N. H.—discovered a German cousin aboard the undersea raider, Coast Guard headquarters announced today.

Seaman second class Charles Sebastian Kogler, of Donora, Pa., boarded the U-873 in the darkness of early morning May 11, with two Coast Guard officers and eighteen other enlisted men. They laid a course for Portsmouth, arriving last week.

While Kogler stood his watches, Coast Guard officers said, he came in contact with one of the German prisoners, Rudolf Beck, an electrician and veteran of five years service in the German navy.

Kogler could speak a little German and Beck a little English. After some halting conversation, they discovered they were either third or fourth cousins. Beck knew and was a patient of Kogler's uncle, a physician in Hannover, Germany.

Coast Guard officers said Kogler obtained some information from Beck, including the fact that the submarine had been out of Norway since about February 1, and had sunk a tanker off Newfoundland two weeks before receiving radio orders from Admiral Doenitz to surrender. Then other members of the U-boat crew told Beck to keep quiet.

The young Coast Guardsman enlisted when he was 17 and participated in the taking of the surrendered "pig boat" after less than four months in service. He is the son of Frank P. Kogler and has two brothers serving in the Army.

6,500,000 Tons Of Ships Lost

Mobile, Ala., May 22 (AP)—More than 6,500,000 tons of American shipping has been lost since the war began in Europe in 1939, Vice Admiral Emory S. Land, chairman of the United States Maritime Commission, said in an address here tonight.

This figure represents more than half of the entire pre-war merchant fleet, he said, but has been made up seven times over by the construction in American shipyards of approximately 56,000,000 deadweight tons.

The announcement of the shipping losses was made in Admiral Land's Maritime Day address before the Mobile Propeller Club.

What Should Be Done

Admiral Land ... breakdown of his idea on what should be done with the huge merchant fleet in the postwar period. He estimated total shipping available at 63,000,000 tons, less 6,500,000 tons lost to enemy action.

He proposed:

Operating 17,000,000.

Asignment of 6,000,000 tons for military service.

Scrapping 7,000,000 tons as obsolete.

Sale of 10,000,000 tons to foreign lines.

"National defense reserve" to be "in sanctuary by statute" of 21,500,000 tons.

Bleak Axis Future

"I would like to emphasize that the increase i nour foreign trade merchant fleet," he said, "should be supported primarily from trade formerly carried by the Axis powers, and, so far as we are concerned, primarily from Japan."

A sfor the future of the German and Japanese merchant fleets, he said, "so far as I am concerned, they have none. There should be no ocean-going merchant fleets in either of these countries for many years. They used them before the war primarily to promote their military objectives and, in my opinion, thus forfeited their right to have them."

He added that foreign trade must be on a 50-50 basis, and asserted he was "very much in favor of reciprocal trade agreements."

Clark to Fly From Italy For Chicago Memorial Day

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, May 22 — Gen. Mark W. Clark, American commander whose Allied forces beat the Germans in Italy, will fly to Chicago from Europe for a Memorial Day celebration, the Army disclosed today.

About fifty soldiers from the Chicago area who fought under General Clark will be brought back with him and during the public ceremonies will receive discharges under the point system. Each has received many medals. The Army said names of the men would be released later.

TROOPS EN STRIKE A..

Federal Action Seen Imminent In Chicago Dispute

Chicago, May 22 (AP)—Troops encamped on Chicago's Lake Shore tonight as Federal intervention was expected in a truck drivers' strike which has tied up food and vital materials for nearly a week.

A detachment of military policemen from Fort Custer, Mich., estimated unofficially to number 700 men, arrived in Chicago late today and set up camp on Northerly Island, part of the 1933-34 Century of Progress Exposition grounds in Burnham Park.

Freight Backing Up

Some form of Federal intervention became assured after the National War Labor Board referred the dispute over wages and hours to Economic Stabilizer William H. Davis in Washington.

Effects of the walkout of 6,500 independent union members were being felt beyond the metropolitan area.

Some railroad freight was backing up for lack of interline transfer service, waste paper saved in the war-salvage campaign was piling up, and over-the-road trucking was hampered by a shortage of loading and unloading facilities.

Warplant Shut down

At least one war plant, the Automatic Electric Company, manufacturer of signal and telephone equipment for the armed forces, was compelled to shut down. Police labor detail squad cars were convoying within Chicago trucks handling war materials, drugs for hospitals and perishable foods.

A suit demanding damages of $1,000,000 was filed against the striking Independent Chicago Truck Drivers Union by the Keeshin Motor Express Company, headed by John L. Keeshin.

The suit, filed in Federal court, alleged the concern would be forced out of business unless the strikers were ordered to comply with the War Labor Disputes Act. The suit was the second one filed since the strike began.

Sanctions Possible

On Saturday the Motor Express, Inc., and the Chicago Tunnel Transport Company sued for a total of $1,100,000 on similar grounds.

Referral of the strike, in effect since midnight Wednesday, to Davis raised the possibility of wartime sanctions upon the strikers.

These sanctions could include cancellations of draft deferments and disallowance of retroactive pay granted under the WLB wage award which the strikers are protesting.

WLB Defied By Men

The War Labor Board had directed the men to return to work before the board, under established policy, could reconsider the wage question. At a meeting last night the men defied the WLB instructions and voted to stay off the job.

The union struck in protest against refusal of their full demands for shorter hours and more pay. The WLB granted a wage increase of 8 cents an hour for a 51-hour week. The strikers, receiving $42 to $51.50 for a 51-hour week, demanded $42 to $56.50 for a 48-hour week.

Hundreds of boxcars stood unloaded at railroad terminals. New York Central Railroad officials said the line's freighthouse contained 800 tons of merchandise, much of it perishable, and was filled to capacity.

Transferred By Rail

Eastern and Western railroads avoided some delays by consolidating less than carload shipments and transferring cargoes through the Chicago terminal area by rail.

The Office of Defense Transportation said the strike had affected more than local trucking because intercity or interstate drivers found themselves without facilities for disposing of cargoes.

John Robinson, chairman of the Chicago Wastepaper Salvage Committee, said the strike was hurting the paper drive because many concerns were compelled to burn collections at their premises because of lack of storage space.

3 Japanese Prisoners Escape At Camp McCoy

Camp McCoy, Wis., May 22 (AP)—Three Japanese prisoners of war escaped last night and were still at large today, the public-relations office said. They were the first Japanese prisoners to escape internment in the United States.

The missing prisoners, civilians who had been attached to Japanese labor battalions, apparently burrowed under a barbed-wire fence.

PLAN FOR LEAGUE RULE IN PACIFIC BLOCKED BY U.S.

Egyptian Amendment Turned Down by Committee in Peace Conference.

AFFECTS TRUSTEESHIPS

Stettinius Leaves Conference to Confer with President Truman.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 22—(AP) With Britain and the United States leading the fight, a proposal which would have placed some strategic Pacific islands automatically under international rule in a new world organization, was blocked today at the United Nations conference.

Turned down in a committee considering trusteeships for dependent and strategic areas of the world, was an Egyptian amendment which would have placed mandates from the last World War under supervision of a new league.

Yank Won Territory

That would have covered such islands as the Marshalls, Marianas and Carolines, mandated to Japan after the last conflict and snatched from her in this one at the cost of American lives and blood.

The United States, above all else in a trusteeship system, wants to make sure that she can control Pacific bases which the Army and Navy consider vital to the maintenance of peace in the Pacific.

The Egyptian amendment, which got only six affirmative votes, would have upset the whole trusteeship theory which the committee has been considering—that areas should be placed under jurisdiction of the world organization only by consent of the powers possessing the mandated territories.

Commander Harold E. Stassen, for the United States, and Lord Cranborne for the British, argued vigorously against that.

The ballot, Stassen said, "should clear the way for other points. It was an important decision affecting the core of the trusteeship system."

Stassen also reported to the committee that progress was being made toward a compromise on whether independence or self-government, or both, should be listed as ultimate objectives for the people of dependent territories.

He told reporters he was working personally on a compromise and was discussing the project with the British and French. He hopes to report on the plan at a committee meeting tomorrow.

Put over for further discussion tomorrow was a Guatemalan amendment which provides that trusteeship should not be applied to territories over which two members of the world organization are in dispute.

Stettinius Leaves

The conference was running smoothly enough, on the whole, to let Secretary of State Stettinius take time off to hurry to Washington for consultation with President Truman.

Possibly among those problems were a British - Russian - American deadlock over a new Polish government, occupation of Germany and Austria, a Truman-Churchill-Stalin meeting, a conference between Mr. Truman and General Charles De Gaulle of France, plans for a peace conference, and a ticklish situation in the Middle East.

The latter had its repercussions here at the Golden Gate, where representatives of the Arab states got together to discuss troubles in the Levant arising from the movement of French troops into Syria and Lebanon.

As Stettinius, official host of the conference, packed up for a flying trip to the capital, issues at the San Francisco World parley stacked up this way:

1. Big and little powers are fussing about the right the great nations have cut out for themselves to determine what the new world organization will do about enforcing peace. A voting formula worked out at a Big-Three meeting at Yalta this spring requires unanimity among China, France, Britain, Russia and America. Any one of them could veto peace-keeping action in the organization's proposed security council. It may take a few days to settle this issue.

2. The Big - Five nations are agreed, and so are most of the Latin American states, on a formula which would let groups of states take collective defensive measures against an aggressor until the security council stepped in with necessary peace-enforcement moves. The Arab states have asked more time to study it, but a conference committee has announced it will dispose of the matter this week.

3. A committee considering creation of a council for economic and social cooperation among nations has voted that the council should rank in importance with other agencies of the world organization. But the United States is balking on a committee-approved proposal that the council promote full employment. Seeking to avoid interference in domestic affairs, America now wants to say the council should work toward the solution of "International economic problems, including full employment," thus putting the matter on an international basis.

4. Committees working on a new international court were well along with their task. Still to be decided is whether the court should have compulsory jurisdiction, and how to transfer functions of the old Hague tribunal to the new one.

No Full Agreement

One the veto-voting question, not even the major powers are in complete agreement on how the Yalta formula would work out.

In an effort to dissolve some of the confusion, small powers on a conference subcommittee wrote out a series of questions and handed them today to the four nations sponsoring the conference—Britain, Russia, China and the United States.

They wanted to know just how the Big Four interpreted the Yalta formula. They may get the answer in a day or two. In the interval, there will be no committee balloting on the issue.

There was a chance the big powers might take a licking on the issue of vetoing peaceful settlements. Australia was getting considerable support for an amendment to limit application of the veto to actions involving use of military or economic coercion.

The possibility the Australian amendment might carry, raised another point: What will be the Russian attitude toward a charter in the event of a Big Five defeat on this proposal?

Delegates hinged their hopes that Russia would accept the charter in whatever final form it takes, on evidence that the Soviets have been able to take previous beatings at the conference with apparent good grace.

MILITARY BASES FORECAST FOR U.S. AND ALLIES

A Free Hand in Selecting Spots to Fortify Is Assured Victors.

MAY 22 1945

TWO NATIONS OPPOSE PLAN

Egypt and Greece Seek in Vain to Upset Theory About Mandated Territory.

San Francisco, May 22 (A. P.).—Eventual approval by the United Nations Conference is forecast today for a trusteeship policy giving the United States and its Allies a free hand in establishing future strategic military bases.

Despite differences of opinion among the Big Five nations on the future treatment of dependent peoples, it is reported that the right of this war's victors to pick the spot they wish to fortify for future defense was nailed down.

A conference committee gave substance to this view in a 31 to 1 vote to limit a world organization's supervision over mandated areas to territories voluntarily placed under its administration.

Thus the victors will settle at the peace table which areas taken from the enemy in this war should be placed under international control and which would be retained by an individual country for its own use.

Two Seek to Upset Plan.

Egypt and Greece sought to upset this theory. They wanted to eliminate from the five-Power trusteeship proposal a claim directing that the mandated areas should be designated by subsequent individual agreement.

United States and British delegates objected that this would destroy the right of a possessor nation to lay down the terms under which it should be administered by a world league sponsorship. The motion was voted down.

The committee then approved a provision stating that league members agreed their policies on trusteeship territories would be based on "good neighborliness."

On Iraq's motion, the committee agreed to insert in a policy statement the word, educational as a part of the pledge of the mandate-holding power to promote the economic and social advancement of the dependent peoples concerned.

The choice of language to describe objectives of trusteeships has proved the greatest obstacle thus far to complete five-Power agreement on this question.

Stettinius to See Truman.

Secretary of State Stettinius leaves the United Nations conference today for a hurried trip to Washington to confer with President Truman on mounting war-end crises in Europe. Mr. Stettinius plans to return within a few days. In the meantime leadership of the American delegation falls to Senators Connally (D.-Tex.) and Vandenberg (R.-Mich.).

Mr. Stettinius himself gave no clew as to the purpose of his Washington trip, except to say it was not to discuss conference questions with the President. A dispatch from Rijssen, Holland, however, offered a possible hint on what may come up.

The story disclosed that plans for joint Allied occupation of Berlin—which were agreed upon months ago by Russia, Britain and the United States—had hit a snag and the whole situation now is uncertain.

Two Latin Republics May Unite

Guatemala and El Salvador Are Reported Ready for an Early Federation.

San Francisco, May 22 (A. P.).—The Chronicle today said the new revolutionary governments of Guatemala and El Salvador are ready to announce plans for a federation of the two Central American republics almost immediately.

The article said that the Presidents of Guatemala and El Salvador, Juan Jose Arvalo and Castenada Castro, have been meeting in their countries while the United Nations conference was in progress.

If the report is confirmed, it will be the first concrete step in more than a century of efforts on the part of Central American Liberal politicians to achieve a federated state of Central America.

The program, the account said, calls for the two nations to revied their constitutions to make them parallel, then to set up an interchangeable monetary system, do away with passports, and institute a joint police force. Finally, the two countries would fuse into one State with one President and one Legislature, tentatively to sit at Santa Ana, El Salvador, near the present Guatemalan border.

The Chronicle article suggests that the Government of Costa Rica is the only other Central American Government that might be interested in joining such a movement, but that it is separated from its two sister "progressive" nations by Nicaragua and Honduras.

The movements which recently overthrew the Ubico governments of Guatemala and the Hernandez Martinez regime in El Salvador, and have shaken other Central American governments have given rise to some recent speculation as to the possibility of realizing the old dream of federation, the article said. The almost completed construction of the Pan-American highway in part overcomes one of the major obstacles to past accomplishment of the idea—the lack of communications between the Central American republics.

Connally Calls Parley 'Democracy in Action'

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 22.—Chairman Connally of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee predicted last night that the charter of the proposed new world organization—like the American Constitution—will be "a bundle of compromises."

He hastened to add, in an address to an American Bar Association dinner, his opinion that delegates from 49 nations are settling their differences around the conference table in a new example of "international democracy in action."

Noting that a great deal had been said about differences in opinion at the United Nations Conference, Senator Connally said the wide area of agreement seemed to have been overlooked in some cases.

"I want to point out that such differences are bound to arise when the representatives of 49 nations sit down to frame a constitution as momentous and important as this new charter," he said.

"There were differences, far-reaching differences, at Philadelphia in the hot summr of 1787 when our own Constitution was agreed upon.

"Like that Constitution, our new charter will be a bundle of compromises. Each paragraph, each clause, each word is being slowly but surely hammered out on the anvil of discussion."

Senator Connally said the American delegation is confident that the charter to be drawn here "will be acceptable to the people of the United States, and will receive Senate ratification."

British Delegate Pulls a Boner On Baseball

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 22.—George Tomlinson of the British delegation retreated quickly to cricket today, after striking out in an attempt to use baseball language in the United Nations Conference.

Mr. Tomlinson, parliamentary undersecretary to the Labor Ministry, was discussing the place of top-flight powers in the economic council of the proposed world organization.

Of course, they'll have to be there, he told a committee. He explained that he could no more imagine leaving Russia off the economic council than he could imagine leaving the New York Giants out of big league baseball.

An Egyptian delegate observed that this might lead to domination by the Giants.

Gordon Graydon of Canada said this would not necessarily follow because the St. Louis Cardinals are the baseball champions.

"All right," Tomlinson replied, "I'll stick to cricket after this."

ASK FRENCH CURB

SAN FRANCISCO, May 22.—(AP) Accusing France of using Senegalese trops for coercion, the Syrian and Lebanese governments disclosed today they had protested to the big powers against employing in their countries armed forces which are not directly concerned with prosecution of the war.

Faris Al-Khouri, prime minister of Syria and chairman of its delegation to the United Nations conference, told a news conference that the pact of the Arab league contained a clause providing for military action in event of aggression by another state.

He said he expected the Arab league to give help in the present crisis with France.

The Syrian prime minister added that the council of the Arab league "would take up the matter and decide what steps to take."

Super Destroyer Launched.

San Francisco, May 22 (A. P.). Bethlehem Steel Company's San Francisco Bay area shipyard last night launched its fiftieth world war II combat vessel, the 2,200-ton super destroyer William C. Lawe, named for a rear gunner on a torpedo plane of the original Squadron Eight at the battle of Midway.

Polish Americans Assail Decisions Made at Yalta

SAN FRANCISCO, May 22 (AP).—The Polish American Congress yesterday accused the Soviet Union of violating international law, and asked the United States Government to denounce the Yalta decisions affecting Poland.

Claiming that it represents 6,000,000 American citizens of Polish descent, the congress declared the London Polish regime was the only legal government of Poland and should be represented at the United Nations Conference.

In a memorandum submitted to Secretary of State Stettinius, the Polish Americans asked that Russian forces be withdrawn from Polish territory. The memorandum also called for the release of the 16 Polish underground leaders recently arrested by Russia.

PARIS, MAY 22-(AP)-HEALTH CONDITIONS IN GERMANY AND IN EUROPEAN COUNTRIES LIBERATED BY THE WESTERN ALLIES ARE GENERALLY BETTER THAN EXPECTED AND IN FRANCE AND BELGIUM ARE APPROACHING NORMAL, MAJ.GEN. WARREN F.DRAPER, CHIEF OF THE PUBLIC HEALTH BRANCH OF THE CIVIL AFFAIRS DIVISION, REPORTED TODAY.

HE QUOTED FIGURES SHOWING THAT THE DEATH RATE IN FRANCE AND BELGIUM, WHICH INCREASED MARKEDLY DURING THE EARLY PART OF THE WAR, HAD BEEN DECLINING IN THE LATTER YEARS UNDER GERMAN OCCUPATION. HE OFFERED THESE FIGURES ON PERCENTAGE OF DEATHS PER 1,000 OF POPULATION:

1940--FRANCE 18.6, BELIUM 16.1; 1941--FRANCE 17.3, BELGIUM 14.6; 1942--FRANCE 16.4, BELGIUM 14.7; 1943--FRANCE 16.9, BELGIUM 13.4.

IN 1944 THE CITY OF PARIS HAD A DEATH RATE OF ONLY 15.4 HE SAID. FOR THE FOUR YEARS COVERED IN THE FIGURES FOR FRANCE AND BELGIUM, THE DEATH RATE IN THE UNITED STATES RANGED FROM 10.1 TO 10.5.

IN TRIESTE ITSELF, THE ATMOSPHERE IN THE LAST 24 HOURS CHANGED NOTICEABLY, WITH ARMED ALLIED PATROLS MOVING THROUGH THE CITY FOR THE FIRST TIME IN DAYS.

ALL ALLIED TROOPS IN TRIESTE HAVE BEEN ORDERED TO CARRY ARMS.

THE ACTION QUIETED DOWN UNTIL 10 O'CLOCK WHEN THE ENEMY COUNTER-ATTACKED, LAYING DOWN A KNEE MORTAR AND HEAVY ARTILLERY BARRAGE AND BLANKETING THE MARINE LINE WITH PHOSPHOROUS SMOKE.

"THEN THEY BEGAN COMING," SAID LT. COL. BRUNO A. HOCKMUTH, 2034 COLQUITT ST., HOUSTON, TEX. "I'VE NEVER SEEN SO MANY ARTILLERY FLASHES IN MY LIFE. THE FRONT LINE THOUGH ALL HELD HAD BROKEN LOOSE."

THEY HIT SEXTON'S COMPANY HEADON WHILE ANOTHER COMPANY LED BY LT. MARVIN PERSKI, ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., TOOK THE REST OF THE ATTACK. IT DEVELOPED INTO A FREE-FOR-ALL GRENADE DUEL WITH LITTLE RIFLE FIRE.

COLONEL HOCKMUTH SAID DEAD JAPANESE WERE LYING ALL AROUND AND 200 OF THEM WERE COUNTED THIS MORNING, 30 IN HOCKMUTH'S BATTALION COMMAND POST.

AFTER RESHAPING THEIR LINES THIS MORNING, COLONEL HOCKMUTH'S MEN PUSHED 200 YARDS SOUTH OF SUGAR LOAF HILL TO A LIMESTONE RIDGE FROM WHERE THEY DOMINATED THE ASATO RIVER, SOME 1,200 YARDS

MAY 22 1945

TO HIS LEFT, MARINES LED BY LT. COL. REYNOLDS HAYDEN, 2929 CONNECTICUT AVE., WASHINGTON, D.C., WERE IN A FIERCE BATTLE FOR HALF MOON HILL. THEY HAD REACHED THE CREST OF HALF MOON HILL BUT WERE UNABLE TO TAKE THE REVERSE SLOPES BECAUSE THE ENEMY HELD A TINY KNOLL FROM WHICH THEY WERE COVERING THE CREST WITH MACHINE GUN FIRE.

[illegible] EFFORTS BY GERMANS

THE AMERICAN BISHOP SAID THE FAMOUS PASTOR APPEARED THIN, BUT WAS IN GOOD HEALTH AND REPORTED THAT HE HAD SUFFERED MAINLY MENTAL TORTURES DURING HIS EIGHT YEARS IMPRISONMENT.

DISCUSSING THE GERMAN HORROR CAMPS, NIEMOELLER TOLD OXNAM THAT ALL THAT HAD BEEN PUBLISHED ABOUT THEM WAS TRUE, BUT THAT THE WORLD WOULD NEVER BE ABLE TO LEARN THE FULL TRUTH. THE AMERICAN BISHOP, WHO HAD VISITED THE BUCHENWALD CAMP DURING HIS TOUR, COMMENTED THAT IT SURPASSED ANYTHING THE IMAGINATION COULD PICTURE.

HE SAID NIEMOELLER WAS NOT SURE, NOW THAT HE IS IN CUSTODY OF THE AMERICAN ARMY, WHETHER HE COULD RETURN TO HIS CHURCH DUTIES.

BEFORE COMING TO CAIRO, OXNAM VISITED ARCHBISHOP DAMISKINOS, REGENT OF GREECE, AND SAID HE WAS GLAD OF THAT CONFERENCE BECAUSE OF "THE GROWING CLOSENESS OF THE PROTESTANT AND GREEK ORTHODOX CHURCHES."

CALCUTTA, MAY 22-(AP)-BRITISH AND INDIAN FORCES ROOTED OUT AND DESTROYED SCATTERED JAPANESE UNITS IN BURMA TODAY AS FIGHTING DIMINISHED ON THE MAIN FRONT EAST OF TOUNGOO TOWARD THE THAI FRONTIER.

EMPIRE TROOPS, WHICH YESTERDAY BEAT OFF A DESPERATE REARGUARD COUNTERATTACK IN THE TOUNGOO AREA, ADVANCED A HALF MILE TO THE PYSAKAN CROSSROADS ABOUT 10 MILES EAST OF TOUNGOO AND LESS THAN 50 MILES FROM THE THAILAND BORDER. TOUNGOO IS SOME 150 MILES NORTHEAST OF RANGOON.

PATROLS WHICH CROSSED THE SITTANG RIVER NEAR MOKPALIN AND PATROLLED SOUTH ALONG THE EAST BANK WITHDREW AFTER ENCOUNTERING OPPOSITION. SHORE FORCES ALONG THE RIVER BAGGED FIVE BOATS AND KILLED 65 JAPANESE.

BRITISH PATROLS ON THE KOKKOWA RIVER 20 MILES NORTH OF RANGOON SANK FIVE CRAFT FILLED WITH JAPANESE.

AIR ACTIVITY WAS CURTAILED BY BAD WEATHER. MISSIONS THAT DID TAKE OFF CONCENTRATED THEIR ATTACKS ON THE JAPANESE HEADQUARTERS EAST OF TOUNGOO AND STORAGE AREAS EAST OF MOKPALIN.

THE WIDESPREAD MOP-UP OF ABANDONED JAPANESE SUPPLY DUMPS, HEADQUARTERS ANNOUNCED TODAY, YIELDED 15,000 PAIRS OF SHOES, 30 TONS OF BISCUITS, 250 TONS OF AMMUNITION, 50 TONS OF MOTOR PARTS, 150,000 BASKETS OF RICE, AND TWO DUMPS FULL OF HEAVY MACHINERY AND REPAIR EQUIPMENT.

THE COUNTER-THRUST, ON THE MAWCHI ROAD, WAS APPARENTLY HURLED AGAINST BRITISH TROOPS WHICH YESTERDAY REACHED A POINT NINE AND ONE-HALF MILES EAST OF TOUNGOO AND ABOUT 50 MILES FROM THE BORDER. TOUNGOO IS SOME 150 MILES NORTHEAST OF RANGOON.

FORTY MILES NORTHWEST OF RANGOON, THE COMMUNIQUE SAID, A BRITISH MOTOR LAUNCH SANK FIVE JAPANESE PATROL BOATS LOADED WITH ENEMY TROOPS IN THE KOKKOWA RIVER.

MOPPING UP OPERATIONS WERE PROCEEDING "SATISFACTORILY" ALL OVER REOCCUPIED BURMA, AND THERE WAS EVIDENCE THAT THE JAPANESE WERE ABANDONING LARGE STORES OF SUPPLIES IN AN ATTEMPT TO EVACUATE AS MANY MEN AS POSSIBLE.

CALCUTTA, MAY 22-(AP)-AN AMERICAN SERGEANT RESCUED FROM THE JAPANESE PRISON AT RANGOON TOLD TODAY HOW HIS JAPANESE GUARD AMUSED HIMSELF BY TEARING BITS OF BURNED FLESH FROM THE GI'S TIED HANDS WHEN HE WAS MARCHED TO THE PRISON AFTER BAILING OUT OF A BLAZING BOMBER.

"SEE THOSE HANDS," SAID TECH. SGT. JOHN W.BOYD, OF MAYFIELD, KY. "I WOULDN'T HAVE THEM AND WOULDN'T BE LIVING IF IT WASN'T FOR AN INDIAN DOCTOR."

THE DOCTOR HE REFERRED TO WAS CAPT. D.W.SUDAN, A CHRISTIAN INDIAN DOCTOR IN THE INDIAN ARMY MEDICAL CORPS WHOM THE AMERICANS SAY SAVED MANY LIVES AT CONSTANT RISK OF HIS OWN IN TREATING WOUNDED PRISONERS THE JAPANESE LEFT BEHIND TO DIE.

BOYD SAID HE WAS SERIOUSLY BURNED ABOUT THE HANDS AND FACE WHEN HE BAILED OUT. THE JAPS TIED HIS HANDS BEHIND HIM ON THE MARCH TO PRISON, WHERE BOYD WAS THROWN INTO SOLITARY CONFINEMENT. HIS HANDS BECAME INFECTED. SUDAN, WHO WAS ALSO A PRISONER, PREVAILED ON THE JAPANESE TO LET HIM TREAT BOYD.

BOYD SAID ALSO THAT SUDAN RISKED HIS LIFE TO STEAL MEDICINES FOR OTHER SICK PRISONERS.

"ONCE I HAD DYSENTERY, BERIBERI AND JUNGLE SORES AT ONCE AND THEY HAD A SLAB WAITING FOR ME," SAID BOYD. "SUDAN WENT TO WORK ON ME AND PULLED ME THROUGH. A LOT FOUR BOYS OWE THEIR LIVES TO HIM."

PRINCE ALBERT, SASK., MAY 22-(AP)-THREATENING TO GIVE PRIME MINISTER W. L. MACKENZIE KING HIS FIRST PERSONAL DEFEAT AT THE POLLS IN 20 YEARS IS A BROAD SHOULDERED, 210-POUND FARMER-PREACHER WHO HAS THROWN A RELIGIOUS ZEAL INTO HIS WORK FOR THE COOPERATIVE COMMONWEALTH FEDERATION, CANADA'S SOCIALISTIC THIRD PARTY.

HE IS EDWARD LEROY BOWERMAN, 53, ORDAINED IN 1917 AS A MINISTER OF THE REORGANIZED CHURCH OF JESUS CHRIST, LATTER DAY SAINTS, FREQUENTLY REFERRED TO AS MORMON BUT HAVING NO CONNECTION WITH THE MORMON ORGANIZATION IN UTAH AND NOT AN ADVOCATE OF POLYGAMY.

KING, A LIBERAL, AND BOWERMAN ARE THE LEADING CANDIDATES IN THIS CONSTITUENCY IN THE JUNE 11 ELECTION OF A NEW FEDERAL PARLIAMENT AT OTTAWA. THE PROGRESSIVE CONSERVATIVES AND THE SOCIAL CREDIT PARTY ALSO HAVE CANDIDATES HERE, BUT THEY ARE NOT REGARDED AS HAVING MORE THAN AN OUTSIDE CHANCE.

BOWERMAN IS IN MANY RESPECTS A DIRECT OPPOSITE OF THE PRIME MINISTER. ALTHOUGH BORN IN THE LARGE CITY OF TORONTO HE CAME WEST AND HOMESTEADED AS A YOUNG MAN AND HAS WORKED THE SOIL ALL HIS ADULT LIFE. RUDDY, HORNY-HANDED, PLAIN-SPEAKING WITH THE PHRASES OF A MAN MORE AT HOME IN THE VILLAGE STORE THAN IN THE DRAWING ROOMS OF A CAPITAL, BOWERMAN HAS LITTLE APPARENT IN COMMON WITH THE SHORT, DELICATE-SKINNED AND URBANE PRIME MINISTER, BILLED TO THE NATIONAL ELECTORATE AS "CANADA'S ONLY WORLD STATESMAN."

ACTIVE IN PROGRESSIVE FARMERS' MOVEMENTS SINCE HE FIRST CAME WEST, BOWERMAN DECLARED IN AN INTERVIEW TODAY THAT HE HAD FOUND THE C. C. F. THE MOST EFFECTIVE PRESENT-DAY OUTLET FOR SOCIAL REFORMS HE HAS BELIEVED IN ALL HIS LIFE. HE SAID HE HAD BEEN ABLE TO USE THE C. F. F ON THE TEMPORAL LEVEL TO PROMOTE SOCIAL VIEWS HE ALWAYS HAD PREACHED IN HIS CHURCH.

C. C. F. WORKERS DECLARE THERE HAS BEEN NO FALLING OFF OF THE PARTY'S TIDAL WAVE IN THE PROVINCIAL GOVERNMENT BY AN OVERWHELMING MAJORITY. ALTHOUGH THE PROVINCIAL AND FEDERAL CONSTITUENCIES ARE NOT EXACTLY THE SAME, THE APPROXIMATE ELECTORATE NOW BEING ASKED TO RETURN KING TO OTTAWA GAVE THE C. C. F. CANDIDATE A MAJORITY OF 5,000 OVER THE LIBERAL CANDIDATE IN THE PROVINCIAL VOTING.

B31 (S E C G)

BOWERMAN DOES MIXED FARMING ON 480 ACRES ABOUT 50 MILES NORTHWEST OF THE TOWN OF PRINCE ALBERT, HIS 19-YEAR-OLD SON GLENN DOING MOST OF THE WORK DURING THESE CAMPAIGN DAYS. HE HAS THREE OTHER SONS AND TWO DAUGHTERS. ONE OF THE SONS IS WORKING IN A CHEMICAL PLANT AT RICHLAND, WASHINGTON, AFTER HAVING SERVED IN THE U.S. NAVY.

SOON AFTER HIS ORDINATION BOWERMAN SERVED FOR THREE YEARS AS PASTOR OF A CHURCH AT ANDES, MONTANA. LATER HE WENT TO SWANSON, SASK., AND FINALLY TO HIS PRESENT HOME NEAR THE TOWN OF SHELLBROOK.

ALTHOUGH HE HAS WORKED IN THE C. C. F. ORGANIZATION SINCE ITS EARLY DAYS A DOZEN YEARS AGO, THIS IS HIS FIRST CANDIDACY FOR PUBLIC OFFICE.

WHEREAS PRIME MINISTER KING, WHO NEVER HAS LIVED HERE AND VISITS HERE RARELY EXCEPT WHILE CAMPAIGNING, IS A COMPARATIVE STRANGER TO HIS CONSTITUENTS, BOWERMAN IS OUT AMONG HIS PEOPLE MOST OF THE TIME. IN HIS CAMPAIGN SPEECHES HE STRESSES THAT THE CONSTITUENCY NEEDS A REPRESENTATIVE IN OTTAWA FAMILIAR WITH ITS EVERY-DAY PROBLEMS.

WASHINGTON, MAY 22-(AP)-THE TEXT OF A JOINT ARMY-NAVY STATEMENT ON THE ATTACKS BY JAPANESE LONG-RANGE BALLOONS ON THE WESTERN U.S. MAINLAND:

AS A MEANS OF CIVILIAN PROTECTION AGAINST POSSIBLE DAMAGE AND PERSONAL INJURY FROM SPORADIC JAPANESE LONG-RANGE BALLOON ATTACKS ON THE WESTERN PART OF THE NORTH AMERICAN MAINLAND, THE WAR DEPARTMENT, WITH THE CONCURRENCE OF THE NAVY DEPARTMENT HAS UNDERTAKEN AN EDUCATIONAL PUBLIC SAFETY CAMPAIGN IN COOPERATION WITH SCHOOLS AND CIVIC ORGANIZATIONS.

DURING THE PAST SEVERAL MONTHS JAPANESE FREE BALLOONS ARE KNOWN TO HAVE LANDED OR DROPPED EXPLOSIVES IN ISOLATED LOCALITIES. NO PROPERTY DAMAGE HAS RESULTED. THERE IS ALWAYS THE POSSIBILITY THAT UNEXPLODED BOMBS MAY BE FOUND LYING IN ISOLATED SPOTS OR CONCEALED IN WOODED AREAS. SOME MAY BE BURIED BENEATH MELTING SNOW. WITH THE COMING OF WARM WEATHER AND THE END OF THE SCHOOL SEASON, IT IS DESIRABLE THAT PEOPLE AND ESPECIALLY CHILDREN LIVING WEST OF THE MISSISSIPPI RIVER BE WARNED OF THIS POSSIBLE HAZARD AND CAUTIONED UNDER NO CIRCUMSTANCES TO TOUCH OR APPROACH ANY UNFAMILIAR OBJECT.

THESE BALLOONS ARE OF GRAY, WHITE OR GREENISH-BLUE PAPER, ABOUT 33 FEET IN DIAMETER. THEY CARRY A FEW SMALL BOMBS SUSPENDED BENEATH THE BALLOON. IT IS BELIEVED THAT THE MAIN PURPOSE OF THE BOMBS IS TO SET BRUSH AND FOREST FIRES. THEY ARE DANGEROUS AND SHOULD NOT BE TOUCHED BY ANYONE NOT FAMILIAR WITH BOMBS. THESE BALLOONS CANNOT BE CONTROLLED BY THE ENEMY. IT IS IMPORTANT THAT A CAREFUL WATCH BE KEPT FOR POSSIBLE FOREST FIRES STARTED BY INCENDIARY BOMBS. THUS FAR, NO SUCH INCIDENT HAS OCCURRED.

THE WAR AND NAVY DEPARTMENTS MAKE THIS STATEMENT SO THAT THE PUBLIC MAY BE AWARE OF THE POSSIBLE DANGER AND TO REASSURE THE NATION THAT THESE ATTACKS ARE SO SCATTERED AND AIMLESS THAT THEY CONSTITUTE NO MILITARY THREAT. THEY SHOULD NOT BE VIEWED WITH ALARM. DUE TO THE LARGE AREAS OF THE UNITED STATES AND THE VARIABLE NATURE OF THE WINDS, THE POSSIBILITY OF A HIT IN ANY SPECIFIC AREA IS REMOTE. THE CHANCES THAT ANY GIVEN PLACE WOULD BE HIT BY THESE ATTACKS IS ONLY ONE IN MANY MILLIONS.

IT IS THE VIEW OF THE DEPARTMENTS THAT THE POSSIBLE SAVING OF EVEN ONE AMERICAN LIFE THROUGH PRECAUTIONARY MEASURES WOULD MORE THAN OFFSET ANY MILITARY GAIN ACCRUING TO THE ENEMY FROM THE MERE KNOWLEDGE THAT SOME OF HIS BALLOONS ACTUALLY HAVE ARRIVED ON THIS SIDE OF THE PACIFIC. WHAT WOULD AID THE ENEMY GREATLY WOULD BE EXACT INFORMATION AS TO THE TIME, LOCALITY, AND EFFECT OF ANY SPECIFIC INCIDENT OR THE NUMBER OF BALLOONS WHICH LAND OR ARE SIGHTED. SUCH INFORMATION WOULD PERMIT HIM TO EVALUATE THE RESULTS OF HIS FANTASTIC EFFORT AND POSSIBLY CORRECT HIS METHODS. THIS SPECIFIC INFORMATION THE WAR AND NAVY DEPARTMENTS WILL STILL SEEK TO KEEP FROM THE ENEMY.

MOST OF THE FACTS ABOVE HAVE BEEN KNOWN TO MANY NEWSPAPERS AND BROADCASTING STATIONS. EDITORS AND BROADCASTERS, COOPERATING SPLENDIDLY WITH THE OFFICE OF CENSORSHIP, HAVE DONE A REMARKABLY EFFECTIVE JOB OF KEEPING ALL DETAILS FROM THE ENEMY. IT IS THE EARNEST HOPE OF THE WAR AND NAVY DEPARTMENTS THAT THEIR COOPERATION WILL CONTINUE. IN ANY CASE OF A CASUALTY, IT WILL SERVE THE NATIONAL INTEREST IF THE PRESS AND RADIO AND ALL CIVILIANS WILL REFRAIN FROM CONNECTING SUCH CASUALTY WITH ENEMY ACTION.

NEWSPAPER AND MAGAZINE READERS AND RADIO LISTENERS SHOULD UNDERSTAND THAT REPORTS OF JAPANESE BALLOONS ARE BEING OMITTED FROM NEWS COLUMNS AND RADIO SUMMARIES BY EDITORS AND BROADCASTERS TO KEEP FROM THE ENEMY FURTHER INFORMATION OF BALLOON ATTACKS ON THE WESTERN HEIMSPHERE. THE WAR AND NAVY DEPARTMENTS TAKE THE LIBERTY OF RECOMMENDING THAT CIVILIANS THEMSELVES TAKE THE SAME PATRIOTIC COURSE

AND REFRAIN FROM SPREADING NEWS OF ANY SPECIFIC BALLOON INCIDENT OF WHICH THEY MAY HEAR.

BRADLEY FIELD, WINDSOR LOCKS, CONN., MAY 22-(AP)-ONE AFTER ANOTHER, 65 SILVER BOMBERS ROLLED INTO BRADLEY FIELD TODAY TO COMPLETE THEIR FINAL MISSION OF THE EUROPEAN WAR.

BOMB BAY DOORS DROPPED OPEN AND HARDLY HAD THE PLANES TOUCHED THE GROUND WHEN MEN AND EQUIPMENT CAME PILING OUT.

PILOTS AND THEIR CREWMEN, GERMAN OFFICER SWORDS AND PET DOGS, DUFFLEBAGS AND PARACHUTES, COVERALLS AND DRESS PINKS...THE FIRST 1,075 AIRMEN - 800 ENLISTED MEN AND 275 OFFICERS FROM THE 8TH AND 15TH AIR FORCES - WERE BACK IN THE STATES FOR REDEPLOYMENT TO THE PACIFIC.

THEY HUGGED THEIR AIRPLANES, KISSED THE GROUND, POUNDED EACH OTHER ON THE BACK.

ONE LITTLE SERGEANT DANCING MERRILY UNDER THE WING OF HIS PLANE, SCREAMED, "GET ME HOME TO MICHIGAN OR I'LL GO CRAZY!"

HIS PAL, STANDING NEARBY, SUMMED IT UP QUIETLY:

"IT'S WONDERFUL. JUST WONDERFUL - THAT'S ALL."

THE PLANES THAT BROUGHT THE MEN BACK WERE THE SAME B-24S AND B-17S THAT POUNDED BERLIN, BOMBED PLOESTI AND DODGED FLAK OVER FRANCE. EACH CARRIED A 10-MAN CREW AND A MAXIMUM OF 10 PASSENGERS, MOST OF WHOM WILL BE GIVEN FURTHER TRAINING AND SENT TO THE PACIFIC AFTER 30-DAY FURLOUGHS.

HONOR GUESTS THE "SHADY LADY" B-24 WERE TWO THREE-MONTH-OLD GOLDEN RETRIEVER PUPS BOUGHT IN SOUTHERN ENGLAND BY LT.MICHAEL PELUSE OF WILKINSBURG, PA., AND LT.MALON ECHOLS OF TUCSON, ARIZ.

BRADLEY FIELD, WINDSOR LOCKS, CONN., MAY 22-(AP)-THE FIRST OF THE MEN TO BOMB GERMANY INTO DEFEAT ARRIVED AT BRADLEY FIELD TODAY ON THE END OF A ROUND TRIP TO EUROPE AND THE MEDITERRANEAN.

FOR THE GREAT MAJORITY, IT WILL BE JUST A REST STOP BEFORE GOING ON TO THE PACIFIC.

FLYING THE SAME PLANES THEY HAD USED AGAINST THE NAZIS, THE MEN LANDED AT BRADLEY FIELD AT INTERVALS OF FROM THREE TO FIVE MINUTES. A TOTAL OF 1,275 AIRMEN, 800 ENLISTED AND 275 OFFICERS, ARE BEING RETURNED TO THE STATES FOR REDEPLOYMENT.

FIRST OF THE 65 PLANES TO ARRIVE WAS A B24 LIBERATOR BOMBER, THE BAR-V, PILOTED BY LT. H. GORDON KRETCHNAN OF FLINT, MICH. EACH PLANE BANKED SHARPLY OVER THE FIELD AT A 60-DEGREE ANGLE BEFORE COMING IN.

"WE'RE DISTINGUISHED, EH," SAID LT. KRETCHNAN, "WE'VE ALREADY BEEN DISTINGUISHED--WE SHOOK HANDS WITH A GENERAL."

THE MEN PILED THROU H THE BOMB BAY DOORS OF THE SHIP ONTO THE GROUND YELLING "OH BOY, OH BOY." AND "HIT IT REAL HARD," ADVANCED AND HUGGED EACH OTHER AND SHOUTED, "NEXT STOP PHILIPPINES."

A LOT OF GOOD NATURED GRUMBLING BETWEEN CREWS WENT ON AS THE SECOND AND THIRD PLANES LANDED BECAUSE THE THIRD PLANE TO LEAVE LABRADOR HIT BRADLEY FIELD FIRST.

"HOW DID THEY GET HERE AHEAD OF US?" ONE SERGEANT WANTED TO KNOW "DID THEY TAKE A SHORTER ROUTE OR WHAT?"

TAKEN BY TRUCKS FROM THE FLIGHT LINE TO THE RECEIVING HANGAR, THE MEN UNLOADED THEIR GEAR AND STOOD IN GROUPS WAITING TO BE PROCESSED. ON TOP OF THE DUFFLEBAGS AND PARACHUTES WERE AIRPLANE MODELS, GERMAN OFFICERS' SWORDS AND REAMS OF PARACHUTE SILK.

PLANES ARE EXPECTED TO COME IN ALL DAY IN THIS FIRST REDEPLOYMENT OF HEAVY BOMBARDMENT GROUPS FROM THE EUROPEAN AND MEDITERRA ... THEATERS. EACH PLANE CARRIED THE COMPLETE 10-MAN CREW, PL A MAXIMUM OF 10 PASSENGERS.

MEN WILL BE PROCESSED, GIVEN MEDICAL EXAMINATION IN THE NEXT 24 HOURS AND THEN GIVEN FURLOUGHS BEFORE HAVING TO REPORT TO THE AIR SERVICES FORCES RECEIVING STATION NEAREST THEIR HOME FOR TRAINING IN HEAVIER AIRCRAFT BEFORE GOING TO THE PACIFIC.

AS9KX SOVIETS (230)

SAN FRANCISCO, MAY 22-(AP)-D.Z.MANUILSKY, CHIEF UKRAINIAN DELEGATE, PREDICTED TODAY THAT MANY OTHER RUSSIAN SOVIETS WOULD SEEK ADMISSION TO THE UNITED NATIONS AS SEPARATE MEMBERS.

AT PRESENT THE SOVIET UNION IS REPRESENTED AT THE UNITED NATIONS CONFERENCE BY THE UKRAINIAN REPUBLIC, THE WHITE RUSSIAN REPUBLIC AND THE MAIN RUSSIAN SOVIET WHICH HAS ITS CAPITAL AT MOSCOW. THERE ARE MORE THAN A DOZEN OTHERS, INCLUDING THE THREE BALTIC STATES AT LATVIA, LITHUANIA AND ESTONIA.

MANUILSKY, AT A NEWS CONFERENCE, WAS ASKED WHETHER ALL THE OTHERS WOULD SEEK UNITED NATIONS MEMBERSHIP AS WHITE RUSSIA AND THE UKRAINE HAD SUCCESSFULLY DONE, AND HE SAID THROUGH AN INTERPRETER, "YES, IN A VERY GREAT DEGREE."

AFTER HE HAD LAUDED THE INCREASING AUTONOMY GIVEN THE SOVIET UNITS BY THE RUSSIAN GOVERNMENT HE WAS ASKED WHETHER THE ULTIMATE OBJECTIVE OF THIS DEVELOPING AUTONOMY IS "INDEPENDENCE" OR SELF GOVERNMENT." HE REPLIED THAT IT IS "INDEPENDENCE, WITH THE PRESERVATION OF OUR UNION."

MAY 22 1945

MANUILSKY SAID IN RESPONSE TO QUESTIONS THAT THE UKRAINE WOULD LIKE TO HAVE DIRECT DIPLOMATIC RELATIONS WITH THE UNITED STATES AND OTHER GOVERNMENTS, BUT THAT HE THOUGHT ANY SUCH MOVE SHOULD BE MADE BY BOTH PARTIES SIMULTANEOUSLY.

AT ONE POINT HE WAS ASKED ABOUT A SPEECH HE HAD ONCE MADE, AND ITS BEARING UPON THE ARREST OF 16 POLISH UNDERGROUND LEADERS.

"WE ARE POLITICAL MEN," HE ANSWERED SLOWLY, "AND IN DIFFERENT TIMES ON DIFFERENT QUESTIONS WE ARE SEEKING DIFFERENT SOLUTIONS WHICH CORRESPOND TO THE PROPER TIMES."

BOTH THE SYRIAN AND LEBANON DELEGATIONS SAID IN A JOINT STATEMENT THAT THE SENEGALESE TROOPS HAD "FIRED ON THE UNARMED PUBLIC, KILLING AND WOUNDING SCORES IN BEIRUT, DAMACUS, ALEPPO AND MANY OTHER TOWNS."

ADD SAN PAN X X FACE

AL-KHOURI DECLARED THAT NEITHER SYRIA NOR LEBANON HAD ANY OBJECTION TO THE PASSAGE OF ALLIED TROOPS THROUGH THEIR COUNTRIES.

"BUT WE DO OBJECT," HE SAID, "TO TROOPS BEING STATIONED AND CONTINUALLY INCREASED IN OUR COUNTRIES WHO ARE NOT DIRECTLY CONCERNED WITH THE PROSECUTION OF THE WAR."

TALKING IN THE PRESENCE OF THE FULL SYRIAN AND LEBANON DELEGATIONS IN THE AUDITORIUM OF THE VETERANS BUILDING WHERE COMMITTEES WORKED ON PLANS FOR A NEW WORLD ORGANIZATION TO MAINTAIN PEACE, THE PRIME MINISTER ACCUSED FRANCE OF SENDING TROOPS INTO THE LEVANT "AS AN IMPLEMENT OF PRESSURE FOR OBTAINING THEIR DEMANDS" FOR "A PREDOMINANT POSITION" IN THE TWO COUNTRIES.

"WE DO NOT BLAME FRANCE FOR THE SHOOTING AND DISTURBANCES," HE SAID, "BUT WE DO BLAME FRANCE FOR SENDING UNDEVELOPED TROOPS INTO OUR COUNTRIES."

RECALLING THAT THE BIG-FIVE NATIONS--THE UNITED STATES, FRANCE, BRITAIN, RUSSIA AND CHINA--HAD RECOGNIZED THE INDEPENDENCE OF SYRIA AND LEBANON, AL-KHOURI SAID:

"IT IS STRANGE THAT THE FRENCH PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT SEEMS STILL TO RELY UPON OUTWORN METHODS, HEEDLESS OF THE CHANGE OF WORLD TEMPER, ESPECIALLY AT A TIME WHEN THE GREATEST WORLD CONFERENCE IN HISTORY IS CONVENING TO SAFEGUARD THE LIBERTIES OF NATIONS, TO PUT AN END TO AGGRESSION AND TO ESTABLISH THE REIGN OF LAW INSTEAD OF THE ARBITRAMENT OF BRUTE FORCE."

DV722PCW NM

AL-KHOURI SAID SYRIA AND LEBANON WERE CAPABLE OF HANDLING THEIR OWN INTERNAL AFFAIRS WITHOUT ANY OUTSIDE HELP.

THE LEVANT, HE SAID, WANTED TO MAINTAIN FRIENDLY RELATIONS WITH ALL COUNTRIES, BUT WAS DETERMINED THAT NO POWER, NO MATTER HOW BIG, SHOULD HAVE A PREDOMINANT POSITION.

"WE DESIRE TO TREAT ALL COUNTRIES ON THE BASIS OF ABSOLUTE EQUALITY," HE SAID.

THE PRESENT CRISIS, WHICH HAS BROUGHT POPULAR UPRISINGS, PEACEFUL DEMONSTRATIONS AND CLASHES WITH SENEGALESE TROOPS, WAS PRECIPITATED, THE SYRIAN DELEGATE SAID, WHEN FRANCE MADE KNOWN CERTAIN PROPOSALS TO THE LEVANT.

THIS WAS DONE, AL-KHOURI SAID, IN A MEMORANDUM DEMANDING NAVAL AND AIR BASES FOR SAFEGUARDING FRENCH IMPERIAL INTERESTS, THE RECOGNITION BY SYRIA AND LEBANON OF SPECIAL ECONOMIC PRIVILEGES FOR FRANCE AND THE PATTERNING OF THE SYRIAN AND LEBANESE EDUCATIONAL SYSTEMS EXCLUSIVELY ON THAT OF FRANCE.

(THE PARIS RADIO SAID THE MOVEMENT OF FRENCH FORCES WAS NECESSITATED BY MILITARY DEVELOPMENTS IN THE FAR EAST, WHERE FRENCH-INDO CHINA IS UNDER JAPANESE OCCUPATION. THE RADIO SAID FRANCE WAS RESPONSIBLE FOR ORDER IN LEBANON, AND THAT THE TROOP MOVEMENTS DID NOT AFFECT HER RECOGNITION OF THE INDEPENDENCE OF SYRIA AND LEBANON.)

NEW YORK, MAY 22-(AP)-THE UNADORNED TRUTH ABOUT MARLENE DIETRICH'S SCANTIES IS THAT THE SHAPELY-LIMBED SCREEN STAR HASN'T ANY SCANTIES--BY HER OWN ACCOUNT.

SHE WAS MOVED TO EXPLAIN MATTERS AFTER HUNDREDS OF SERVICE MEN, WHO READ ASSOCIATED PRESS PHOTOGRAPHER PETE CARROLL'S RECENT STORY OF ACCEPTING A PILOT'S CAP IN LIEU OF THE GARMENT HE SAID SHE HAD OFFERED HIM, WROTE TO ASK IF THEY COULDN'T HAVE A PAIR OF SOUVENIR SCANTIES, TOO.

"I TRADED MY AVIATOR'S CAP FOR A JUMP JACKET WHICH GEN.JIM GAVIN, COMMANDER OF THE 82ND AIRBORNE DIVISION, HAD WORN MAKING THREE JUMPS UNDER FIRE AND HAD GIVEN TO MR.CARROLL," MISS DIETRICH SAID IN A LETTER TO THE NEW YORK WORLD-TELEGRAM.

SHE DIDN'T MIND THE SCANTIES STORY, SHE SAID, ESPECIALLY SINCE IT HAD MADE PETE'S WIFE PROUD OF HER HUSBAND'S RESISTANCE POWERS, BUT SHE ADDED:

"I WOULD LIKE TO FIND HIM (CARROLL) SO THAT HE CAN ANSWER ALL THE LETTERS FOR ME AND MAYBE ASK MRS.CARROLL TO HELP ME OUT WITH THE 'SCANTIES,' AS I DON'T HAVE ANY."

MISS DIETRICH, WHO IS ENTERTAINING THIRD ARMY TROOPS IN GERMANY, MIGHT MEET UP WITH CARROLL ANY DAY. HE'S IN GERMANY, TOO.

4,500 Tons of Bombs Dropped on Industrial Areas in Jap City.

REPORT LARGE FIRES

Returning Crews Tell of Flames Visible 200 Miles from Jap Capital.

MAY 24 1945

GUAM, Thursday, May 24—(AP) Striking before dawn, more than 550 Superfortresses today dropped 4,500 tons of bombs on important Tokyo industrial targets, the greatest load of destruction hurled on the Japanese capital to date.

The target area included the highly important Shinagawa sector. The railroad marshalling yards there, through which a third of Japan's rail traffic passes, was a key objective.

The assault equalled two 1,000-plane raids by B-17s or B-24s on Berlin from England.

Tokyo radio, saying that Yokohama and Kawasaki also were raided, made the unconfirmed claim that 19 Superforts were shot down.

A spokesman for Maj. Gen. Curtis Le May, commander of the 21st Bomber Command, pointed out the Shinagawa area provided "one of the happiest combinations of inflammability and congestion" that could be found for the Superfortresses.

The first returning crews reported they could see the sky aglow over the Japanese capital as far as 200 miles.

Sgt. Charles Holder, Santa Monica, Calif., blister-gunner in the plane "City of Santa Monica" said that when he first saw the glowing sky he checked with his navigator on the distance and was told: "It's 200 miles."

Sgt. James Grady of Glendale, Long Island, N. Y., said: "I saw half a dozen fires starting and the sky was lit up considerably."

Grady added that he saw "six or eight 'fireballs'—presumably jet-propelled fighters—in the air. One came parallel to us but it gave us no trouble."

Grady was flying in the "City of Burlington" commanded by Lt. John H. Martin, of Tataum, Tex. who said that the plane was picked up by searchlights as it went over the target but he saw little flak.

Fly from Marianas

Taking off from bases in the Marianas, the B-29s carried thousands of pounds of deadly fire bombs to be hurled on flimsy residences built as temporary shelters for thousands of homeless after the devastating Tokyo earthquake in 1923 but never replaced. It was estimated probably 750,000 Japanese lived in the Shinagawa area.

This area has more small producers of light machine, aircraft precision instruments and technical aircraft component parts than any other Japanese district with the exception of Nagoya which, too, has been heavily hit by the Superforts. Nagoya is Japan's principal aircraft center.

Wave after wave of the big war birds struck at a target area which extended from the Tama river on the south of Tokyo to a boundary only three miles south of the Imperial palace. Pathfinder planes, operating after the British pattern in their night assaults on European objectives, dropped oil bombs to light the Tokyo target.

Lucrative Target

Tokyo has been a lucrative target for the B-29s since they began their incendiary campaign against Japanese key industries. Prior to today's assault 32.8 square miles of the Nipponese capital were burned out in previous fire bomb raids. In addition, 8.37 square miles in Greater Tokyo and adjoining Kawasaki, south of the Tama, have been destroyed.

Bomb loads now falling on Japanese targets from B-29 bomb bays equal or exceed the weight hurled on short-range European targets. Last week the planes dropped more than 9,000 tons in three raids including a pair of 500-plane strikes against Nagoya.

Six months ago today, 111 Superforts left Marianas bases for their first assault on Japan .

The fire bomb being used by the American planes is so powerful and deadly that reconnaissance photographs have disclosed nothing is safe from them, not even reinforced concrete.

While today's assault was the 23rd against the Tokyo area, 16 of the raids have been directed against Tokyo itself.

This latest pounding of the Japanese capital, third largest city in the world, was the heaviest since the big assaults of April. Those attacks, aimed at industrial areas including the great Tokyo arsenal, left huge fires burning that were visible more than 100 miles at sea.

The Superforts then started hammering Japanese air bases on Kyushu and Shikoku, joining American carrier aircraft in the campaign to neutralize enemy airfields mounting aerial attacks on Yank invasion forces on and around Okinawa, 325 miles south of Kyushu.

In this campaign nearly a score of airfields were hit on Kyushu and others on nearby Shikoku. The B-29s made as many as four strikes in five days, and also carried out attacks on other target areas on Honshu.

On May 10, more than 400 of the sky giants hit naval oil storage on southeast Honshu as well as airfields on Kyushu and Shikoku. This was the first B-29 raid in force on Japan's vital oil reserves on Honshu and every plane returned from the attack.

Two Heavy Assaults

Prior to today's foray, the two heaviest assaults of the stepped-up B-29 campaign—May 14 and 17—fell on Nagoya, Nippon's third largest city. A fleet of 500 planes smacked the city with 3,500 tons of fire bombs in the first visit and returning crews reported "sweeping devastation," with fires visible far at sea.

While these fires still burned, an even larger force, reported as exceeding 500, returned to Nagoya May 17, striking shortly after midnight. They flew in low with their incendiary missiles and ignited the entire southern section of the city, including the Mitsubishi Airplane Engine works and the dock area. Only two planes were lost in both of these raids.

Two days later a large task force of B-29s attacked factory areas near Tokyo and at Hammatsu. Because of bad weather conditions in the Tokyo area, most of the force diverted to the Hammatsu target. It was the second Superfort smash in sizeable force on Hammatsu, former textile manufacturing center that has been converted to war production.

These raids indicate the rising fury of the Superfort sweeps over Japan, now well past the 500-plane mark in strength. But there are even greater raids in store. Only last week it was disclosed that there are field facilities on a single island in the Marianas to mount 800-plane B-29 attacks. The island was not identified.

Equal to Two Berlin Raids

GUAM, May 24 (Thursday) (AP).—The B-29 assault on Tokyo today equalled two 1,000-plane raids by Flying Fortresses or Liberators on Berlin from England.

A spokesman for Major General LeMay said the Shinagawa area provided "one of the happiest combinations of inflammability and congestion" that could be found for the Superfortresses.

The fire bomb used by the American planes is so powerful that reconnaissance photographs have disclosed nothing is safe from them, not even reinforcd concrete.

While today's assault twenty-third against the Tokyo area, sixteen of the raids have been directed against Tokyo itself. This latest pounding of the Japanese capital, third largest city in the world, was the heaviest since the big assaults of April. Those attacks, aimed at industrial areas including the Tokyo arsenal, left fires that were visible more than 100 miles at sea.

The two heaviest previous assaults of the stepped-up B-29 campaign—May 14 and 17—fell on Nagoya, Japan's third largest city. A fleet of 500 planes hit the city with 3,500 tons of fire bombs in the first visit and returning crews reported "sweeping devastation." A force reported as exceeding 500 returned to Nagoya May 17.

PRESIDENT ACCEPTS THREE RESIGNATIONS

Tom Clark Will Be Attorney-General—Anderson Heads Agriculture, Schwellenbach Labor.

MAY 24 1945

Washington, May 23 (A. P.).—President Truman today announced acceptance of the resignations of the Secretaries of Agriculture and Labor and the Attorney-General.

Marvin Jones, War Food Administrator, also has resigned, the President said.

Mr. Truman told his news conference that Attorney-General Biddle will be succeeded on June 30 by Tom Clark of Texas, now an assistant Attorney-General.

Claude Wickard, Secretary of Agriculture, is resigning immediately to become Administrator of the Rural Electrification Administration and will be succeeded by Representative Clinton Anderson (D.-N. M.), now chairman of the House Food Committee, as Secretary of Agriculture.

Federal Judge Lewis B. Schwellenbach, former United States Senator from Washington State, will succeed Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, also on June 30.

The President said Mr. Anderson would become War Food Administrator as well as Secretary of Agriculture when Marvin Jones steps out on June 30. Jones will return to the Court of Claims from which he took leave for war service.

Asked if he had requested the various resignations, the President said he had not; that he had the resignations already on hand of every man in the Government who could resign.

The resignations were submitted as a matter of custom when Mr. Truman became President on April 12.

In response to questions, Mr. Truman said flatly that he did not contemplate any changes in the State Department, presided over by Secretary Edward R. Stettinius Jr. He also said he would not accept the resignation of Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau.

The President previously had replaced Postmaster-General Frank C. Walker with Robert E. Hannegan, chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

A Terse Announcement.

Opening the brief news conference, Mr. Truman announced bluntly that he had some Cabinet changes to report. He then proceeded to announce acceptance of Attorney-General Biddle's resignation and the appointment of Mr. Clark as his successor.

He made public a letter from Mr. Biddle, dated Monday, submitting his resignation and asserting that the relation of the Attorney-General to the President is a particularly personal one, "and I think the time has come when you will wish to choose your own Attorney-General."

Mr. Biddle added that he had "nothing but admiration and praise for the courageous and wise manner in which you have undertaken your great responsibilities."

The President replied under date of today with an expression of appreciation for Mr. Biddle's services and expressed the hope that "I may have the privilege of consulting you in the future whenever occasion arises."

Mr. Truman said he had a very fine letter from Miss Perkins and that he had written her a good one, too.

In her letter dated Monday, Miss Perkins recalled that she had been Secretary of Labor for more than twelve years and thought it was desirable that when one party is in office for a long time "that a variety of talents be brought into the service of the Government."

"For this reason and because so large a part of the programs I have long hoped to see inaugurated have now been established," she said, "I desire to present to you my resignation to take effect at your convenience."

Accepting, under today's date, the President told Miss Perkins he did so "with great regret and with deep appreciation for all of the untiring service which you have rendered to our country."

She served in the Labor post throughout the late President Roosevelt's administration.

Wickard's Letter.

Mr. Wickard's resignation, dated April 17, said he wished to give the President an absolutely free hand.

In reply today, Mr. Truman thanked Mr. Wickard "for consenting to remain in Government as the administrator of the Rural Electrification Administration."

"The work of this agency means much for the comfort and efficiency of our rural dwellers," the President wrote. "I am delighted it will be in the hands of one who has so competently and tirelessly worked for their welfare."

Judge Jones, tendering his resignation as War Food Administrator in a letter dated yesterday, suggested merging the War Food Administration and the Agriculture Department.

While the war was being fought on both fronts, he wrote, "there was considerable logic in having an independent War Food Administration."

Sees Saving Possible.

Now that victory has been achieved in Europe, he went on, he felt the work of both could be carried on by the Secretary of Agriculture "with somewhat less expenditure of funds."

Judge Jones wrote the President that the Chief Justice of the Court of Claims had told him he would "like for me to return to the bench as soon as my work here will permit."

Mr. Truman wrote that it was "to the everlasting credit" of the WFA that even after supplying demands from all over the world "the American people as a whole not only did not go hungry but actually enjoyed a better diet than in the days before the war."

"It is an accomplishment of which you can be very proud," he wrote Judge Jones.

A reporter asked the President if he knew that Mr. Anderson ha made "very critical reports" on administration of some aspects of the food program as a congressional committee chairman.

The President said he was familiar with the reports but that he felt they helped the over-all situation and that he had planned to appoint Mr. Anderson before they were made.

Churchill Quits Post; Forces Early Election

King Appoints Prime Minister to Form Temporary 'Caretaker Government.'

LONDON, May 23.—(AP) Prime Minister Churchill forced Britain's first general election in 10 years by resigning today as chief of the nation's wartime coalition government in the midst of an old-fashioned, slugging political campaign.

King George VI, to whom the 70-year-old Premier formally tendered his resignation, appointed Churchill to form a temporary "caretaker government" to serve until after the elections, which promised fireworks between the aggressive labor party and the long-dominant Conservatives.

Dissolve Parliament June 15

At Churchill's request the King announced that the present parliament would be dissolved by royal proclamation on June 15, the next step toward calling a general election probably on July 5. The results will remain locked in the ballot boxes for 20 days, until the servicemen's vote has been tallied.

At the hour Churchill was breaking up the wartime cabinet he formed in Britain's darkest days in 1940 his conservative party was undergoing a searing attack at Blackpool by two laborite cabinet ministers, Ernest Bevin, minister of labor and Clement Attlee, deputy prime minister.

Addressing a convention of the Labor party, Bevin—a possible successor to Churchill as premier—blamed the conservative party for the suspicion which he said was growing in British-Russian relations and bound the labor party, if elected, to correct the situation.

Bevin said he always had believed that the tragedy after the last great war was the failure to invite Russia to Versailles.

Attlee, joining Bevin in outlining the Labor party's policy, declared the problems of peace could be solved only by "building upon international organization." The convention overwhelmingly adopted a resolution charging that:

"British government policy, now and for the future of certain liberated countries in Europe, particularly Belgium, Greece, Italy and Poland, was more concerned with the preservation of vested interests than for the welfare, liberty and equality of social security of these peoples."

The Labor party has given its cabinet ministers a clear-cut mandate against participating in Churchill's "caretaker government" or taking any part in the administration until after the election.

Churchill, whose suggestion that the coalition government function until the Japanese war ended was rejected by the laborites, turned in his resignation initially at noon. Four hours later he returned to Buckingham Palace through a violent electric storm to accept the task of forming a stop-gap government.

An announcement from the Premier's residence said:

"The Right Honorable Winston Churchill, C.H., M.P., was received in audience by the King at 4 o'clock this afternoon, when his Majesty was graciously pleased to accept his resignation as Prime Minister, First Lord of the Treasury and Minister of Defense.

"His Majesty invited Mr. Churchill to form a new administration. Mr. Churchill accepted his Majesty's offer of the post of Prime Minister and kissed hands upon his appointment."

The heavily Conservative Parliament will continue to sit for three weeks under an interparty agreement before it is dissolved by the King. Labor party Ministers were expected to return to London from Blackpool tomorrow to clear up outstanding business. Their personal resignation is not necessary.

Who Will Go Out

Withdrawal of labor support from the Government will leave eight senior and eighteen junior ministerial posts available, but some of these might be abolished in Churchill's "caretaker" government. The most important Laborites expected to pull out were:

A. V. Alexander, First Lord of the Admiralty; Herbert Morrison, Home Secretary; Sir Archibald Sinclair, Secretary of State for Air; Sir Stafford Cripps, Minister of Aircraft Production; Hugh Dalton, president of the Board of Trade; Sir William Jowitt, Minister of Social Insurance; Ben Smith, resident Minister for Supply in Washington, and Attlee and Bevin.

Step Forces Election In July; Will Head Interim Regime

MAY 24 1945

Singleton

London, May 23 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill resigned today and King George VI accepted the resignation and asked him to form a new administration.

The resignation formally broke up the wartime coalition cabinet formed in Britain's darkest days in 1940. A general election, the first in Britain in ten years, is expected to be called for July 5.

Churchill was expected to form a new government within a few hours to serve until after the election. Labor party ministers, who share in the Cabinet the responsibility for prosecuting the war, have signified their determination to have no part in the administration until elections are held.

To Dissolve Parliament

The King's acceptance of Churchill's resignation was announced formally at 10 Downing Street through the Ministry of Information. The announcement said Churchill "accepted his Majesty's offer of the post of Prime Minister and kissed hands upon his appointment."

Three weeks must elapse under an interparty agreement before the King dissolves the heavily Conservative Parliament.

Labor ministers, who have served in the coalition Cabinet since 1940, were given a mandate by their party earlier this week to resign if an election was forced at this time. Labor is the second most numerous party.

Churchill is expected to lead a new "caretaker" government into Commons when it reassembles Tuesday.

The British Press Association predicted that the new government would include such men as Sir John Anderson, Sir James Grigg, Sir Andrew Cuncan and Lord Leathers, who were pre-war businessmen without political backgrounds. All were called into the Government to do special jobs.

The full list is not expected to be ready before Sunday or Monday, as Churchill will need the intervening time to fill vacancies left by the departure of Labor and Liberal ministers.

Churchill, who led Britain from its most desperate days of the war to the unconditional surrender of Germany, gave King George his resignation at noon as Prime Minister, First Lord of the Treasury and Minister of Defense.

Churchill resigned at noon. He returned to Buckingham Palace later in the day for his second audience with the King, presumably to be invested as Prime Minister of the "caretaker" Government.

Puffing on a long cigar, he drove from No. 10 Downing Street to the palace in a violent electrical and rainstorm. He waved beneath his umbrella as he entered his car to a group collected on the sidewalk outside the official residence.

The British Press Association predicted that the new Government would include such men as Sir John Anderson, Sir James Grigg, Sir Andrew Duncan and Lord Leathers, who were prewar businessmen without political backgrounds. All were called into the Government to do special jobs.

Only Three Posts

The full list is not expected to be ready before Sunday or Monday, as Churchill will need the intervening time to fill vacancies left by the departure of labor and Liberal Ministers.

Churchill gave King George his and Minister of Defense, posts he had held since 1940.

He had held the office since May 10, 1940, when he succeeded Neville Chamberlain.

Campaign Under Way

Meanwhile, an old-fashioned political campaign already was under way, with the opposition press lampoonin gthe Prime Minister.

Meanwhile, the Conservative press editorially denounced the Laborites for their decision not to remain in the coalition Government.

The election will be held with Churchill at the peak of his popularity.

In the last election in 1935, the voters returned 431 Conservatives to Commons. Churchill is leader of the Conservative party. The Labor party is led by Deputy Prime Minister Clement Atlee.

Text Of Announcement

The Ministry of Information made this announcement, issued from No. 10 Downing Street:

"The Hon. Winston Churchill had an audience with the King at 12 noon today and tendered his resignation as Prime Minister and First Lord of the Treasury and Minister of Defense."

Churchill only yesterday, in a letter to Attlee, rejected Labor's proposal that the coalition be continued until autumn, arguing that Britain would suffer in the eyes of the world if forced to carry on while the present spirit of "electioneering" prevailed.

Fall Election Urged

The Labor party had advocated an election in the autumn as a counterproposal to Churchill's request that the coalition be continued until after Japan is defeated.

Labor party leaders contended that the Conservatives, by forcing the issue now, were trading on Churchill's popularity as a war leader in order to gain votes. They maintained that an election in July would provide inadequate time to allow service men full representation at the polls.

Only Promised To Fight

When Churchill assumed power in 1940, he rallied Britain to a desperate stand against Germany. One of his first addresses promised the British nothing "but blood, toil, sweat and tears."

When the British Expeditionary Force left virtually all its equipment and hundreds of its men on the shelled and bombed beaches of Dunkerque, the sturdy voice of Churchill promised that the British would fight in the streets and woods of their islands and carry on the battle, if necessary, from across the sea.

The Labor party, which is in conference at Blackpool, challenged Churchill's leadership with a sweeping reform program calling for ultimate establishment of a British socialist commonwealth.

Truce Okayed In 1939

When the war broke out in September, 1939, the major parties agreed to void wartime political dissension by a truce under which the party which held a seat in Commons would be permitted to fill it without opposition in case a vacancy occurred because of death or resignation.

Britain was able to avoid a wartime election because there is no law calling for elections at specified intervals. Instead, an election can be forced at any time by the government in power.

One Minor Reshuffle

Stanley Baldwin was chosen to lead the Government following the Conservative victory in 1935, and continued as Prime Minister until May 5, 1937, when he gave way to the late Neville Chamberlain.

Chamberlain re-formed his Cabinet on a war basis on September 3, 1939, and continued to hold the reins until he was succeeded by Churchill—simultaneously with the German invasion of the Low Countries.

Churchill set up a coalition Cabinet, bringing all major parties into a win-the-war Government, which has survived intact except for one minor reshuffle in March, 1942.

Despite the wartime truce among the three major parties, the political composition of the House of Commons has been changed slightly by the occasional successful entry of a minor party into a by-election to fill vacancies.

Such by-elections have been too few and too local in character to provide more than the vaguest clues to the prevailing political temper. About half the 140 by-elections since 1935 have been unopposed, and in most cases Government candidates have been returned. There have been only a few notable upsets—two of which were suffered by the Conservatives and one by the Labor party.

Pipelines Fed Gas To Armies

H-B JAN 20

London, May 23 (AP)—In one of the most outstanding engineering feats of the war, twenty 3-inch pipelines were laid under the English Channel soon after D-day to supply gasoline to the Allied armies.

Since early last fall these lines have carried an average of 1,000,000 gallons a day to the Continent. When the war ended, gasoline was being pumped through an unbroken chain of pipelines all the way from Britain to Frankfurt, across the Rhine in Germany.

Details of the secret project were disclosed today by the British Ministry of Fuel and Power, under whose direction the pipelines were constructed.

General Eisenhower and Prime Minister Churchill have paid high compliment to everyone connected with the unprecedented undertaking.

It was an almost entirely British amphibious engineering achievement. The United States Army had considered the possibility of laying its own pipeline under the Channel, but abandoned the plan to avoid duplication of the English lines.

2 Months After D-Day

The pipelines still are being used as the main artery of gasoline supply to the Continent for the armies of occupation in Germany, thus releasing much tanker tonnage for use in the Pacific war, ministry officials said. It was disclosed that the idea of laying the pipelines came first from Lord Louis Mountbatten in 1942 when he was chief of combined operations.

The first four lines were laid across the widest part of the Channel, from the Isle of Wight to Cherbourg to feed American invasion armies in that sector. The first was tapped on the Normandy coast on August 12—just two months and six days after D-day.

On the far shore the lines linked up with newly laid high-pressure mains that followed the armies right into Germany. Today the network runs from Liverpool and other tanker dumps along the English coast to Cherbourg, Paris, Boulogne, Antwerp, Eindhoeven, Egerich and Frankfurt.

French Firm In Refusing To Move Troops From Syria

London, May 23 (AP)—Tension remained high in Syria and Lebanon today as the French Government gave no sign of withdrawing troop reinforcements whose arrival in the two countries brought from their governments assertions that their sovereignty had been violated.

Dispatches from Cairo said the French attitude apparently remained firm and that there were scant prospects for an early settlement of the situation, which already has resulted in scattered clashes and bloodshed.

French Cabinet Meets

Advices from Paris, meanwhile, reported that the French Cabinet had held a long night session, presumably in connection with Levantine affairs, but there was no immediate indication of the outcome. A Paris broadcast said French troops in Syria had been ordered to take up "protective dispositions" and "to remain on the defensive."

The Arab newspaper Atdifaa in Jerusalem said Arabs were observing a general strike throughout Palestine "in sympathy with the Syrians and Lebanese over violation of their independence." The Pan-Arab League previously had denounced the French action.

Protest To Frisco

From San Francisco came news that the Syrian and Lebanese delegations at the World Security Conference had accused France of using Senegalese troops in their homelands as "instruments of political pressure and coercion" to obtain a privileged position.

A spokesman for the French delegation, Raymond Offroy, told a news conference in San Francisco that France planned to use the Levant states for airbases, depots and ports in the war against Japan, and added that France must maintain a "dominant position" in the area or some other power—which he did not name—would replace her. Furthermore, he stated, Syria and Lebanon could not guarantee their security in modern warfare and some great power must serve as their protector.

Linked To Far East

Previously, the Paris radio had said the French forces were moved into the Levant states because of military developments in the Far East, where French Indo-China is occupied by the Japanese. It added that France was responsible for order in Lebanon.

[The French press agency said the Syrian and Lebanese Ministers in Paris had handed a joint note of protest to the French Ministry of Foreign Affairs. The Beyrouth radio said the Lebanese Government had broken off negotiations with France over demands for concessions and that the break had been approved by the Chamber of Deputies. The broadcasts were heard by the FCC.]

Britain Reported Ready To Withdraw Troops

London, May 23 (AP)—Britain was reported today by a responsible source to be ready to withdraw its troops from the Levant provided the French reach an agreement with the Syrians and Lebanese.

There was no indication of the French reaction, but diplomats believed the proposal might allay an apparent French fear that Britain would seize the opportunity to jockey for a stronger position in the Middle East.

A source close to the British Government said that Britain's interest was mainly to preserve tranquility in the area while waging the war against Japan in Southeastern Asia.

Dispatches from Cairo, meanwhile, said that the violence in Syria and Lebanon had subsided but that tension continued. No new incidents were reported today and general strikes scheduled in both countries were suspended.

Britain's Exports To Reds Cited

London, May 23 (AP)—Sir Francis Joseph, chairman of the United Kingdom Commercial Corporation, said today that about $480,000,000 worth of civil goods had been sent to the Soviet Union by Britain from the empire and neutral sources during the war.

By civil goods, he explained, he meant materials not strictly of a military nature.

At a luncheon for members of a Soviet trade delegation, Sir Francis declared his corporation—supply channel for these goods—had dispatched material ranging from small packages of needles to electric generators weighing hundreds of tons.

99 Power Plants

In process of delivery, he said, are 99 electric-power plants with a total capacity of 750,000 kilowatts.

Among the supplies sent to Russia by the corporation were 257,000 tons of foodstuffs, more than 3,000,000 pairs of boots, $5,000,000 worth of industrial diamonds and 3,000,000 yards of khaki cloth.

Sir Francis said the corporation had participated in the organization of ocean convoys to carry these materials and declared that losses were only two and a quarter per cent.

The corporation shipped 628,000 tons of supplies to Russia overland from the Persian Gulf.

British Ship Cut In Two

London, May 23 (AP)—The 35,000-ton British battleship King George V collided with the British destroyer Punjabi off the west coast of Eire in May, 1942, and "only a handful" of the destroyer's crew of 200 escaped, Naval Correspondent W. A. Crumley, of the London Daily Express, reported today.

Crumley's account, the first made public concerning the accident, said the Punjabi was cut in two at the engine room in the same way and in the same waters as was the cruiser Curacao by the liner Queen Mary five months later.

The King George V, her bow buckled, was patched up at Liverpool and later was fully repaired in the United States, Crumley said.

Roseneath Naval Base To Revert To British

London, May 23 (AP)—The big United States naval base at Roseneath, Scotland, where American ships and sailors were prepared for two invasions, is being turned back to the British, United States naval headquarters announced today.

Roseneath, located near the famous Loch Long, was the largest funnel port in the United Kingdom. It was the fleet training base for both the North African and Normandy invasions.

Commander Arnold T. Pamperin, USNR, of Green Bay, Wis., is commander of the base. Lieut. Com. G. W. Graves, of Salem, Mass., is executive officer.

Japs Take Indo-China Airport

London, May 23 (AP)—The Paris radio said tonight that a new Japanese offensive had been launched against French forces in Indo China. The broadcast said French forces were obliged to make some withdrawals and an airfield had been captured by the enemy.

The radio said fighting occurred in the region of Mekong just inside the Burma-Indo-China border where an airfield, which "was the sole means for French troops to contact the outside world," was lost after bitter fighting.

London, May 23 (AP)—The Rome radio, quoting unconfirmed dispatches from Madrid, said today that serious disorders in Algeria had resulted in 3,000 Europeans being killed or wounded and 10,000 native casualties. The broadcast said the French Foreign Legion had gone into action.

Thousands Are Indicted By War Crimes Group

London, May 23 (AP)—A War Crimes Commission spokesman said here today thousands of persons, including some Japanese, have been labeled as war criminals by the commission.

There has been no official announcement of the exact number, but the spokesman indicated 3,000 or more have been indicted so far.

A responsible source close to the commission said recently if the pool-punishment plan advocated by Judge Samuel N. Rosenman, former White House adviser, is adopted, between 4,000,000 and 6,000,000 persons eventually would be punished in some form as war criminals.

The Czechs alone have turned in a list of 500 and France, Poland, Belgium and Yugoslavia probably will accuse as many.

BEVIN ASSAILS CONSERVATIVES

Laborites Open Campaign on Foreign Policy.

Blackpool, England, May 23 (A. P.).—Two Labor members of the old Churchill coalition war cabinet attacked the Conservative party foreign policy today, with Ernest Bevin charging that it sowed suspicion in Russia.

Their remarks were regarded as opening Great Britain's first national election campaign in ten years.

Bevin, Labor Minister in the Coalition government, asserted that the first job of a Labor government, if elected, would be to wipe out the suspicion which he said was growing in Anglo-Soviet relations.

"We have no bad past to live down," Bevin asserted. "We pledge ourselves that we intend to place our cards on the table face upward, and we pledge ourselves never to use small States to play up against big States.

To Remove Fear.

"I believe there is a suspicion in the back of some peoples' minds that we will use these small States as a springboard against the Soviet Government, or that the Soviet Government will use them against us. It is the duty of the Labor party to remove this fear and restore confidence."

Clement R. Attlee, Deputy Prime Minister in the Coalition government, joined Bevin outlining Labor's international policy before a national party convention. The convention overwhelmingly adopted a resolution charging:

"British Government policy, now and for the future of certain liberated countries in Europe, particularly Belgium, Italy, Greece and Poland, was more concerned with the preservation of vested interests than for the welfare, liberty, equality of social security of these peoples."

Comment on Poland.

Neither Bevin nor Attlee mentioned Churchill, the Conservative leader, by name.

Attlee said the problem of peace could be solved only by "building up an international organization." He emphasized there must be "continued co-operation and mutual understanding between the United States, Russia and Great Britain."

Both he and Bevin touched on the Polish problem.

"Some people have said the Poles are Fascists," Bevin said. "I knew Gen. Sikorski (the late Premier of Poland) intimately, and no one can tell me he was a Fascist, nor Mikolajczyk (resigned Premier.)"

When word that Churchill had resigned reached the convention, Ellen Wilkinson, chairman of the Labor party annual conference, declared:

"Well, the fight is on and we are in to win. Now let us stop personal bickering and get down to the big issues."

87,500 ARE DUE FROM EUROPE BY END OF MAY

Total to Include 11,000 Men in Transit to Pacific Theater of War.

JUNE FIGURE PUT AT 25,500

Troop Transport Planes to Be in Service Then—Many Going Directly to Asia.

Paris, May 23 (A. P.).—A total of 87,500 Army and Navy personnel will have been returned to America by the end of this month, and will be followed by 255,500 others in June, according to official figures. The totals include troops to be redeployed to the Pacific, plus sick and wounded men and liberated prisoners.

In addition, other men are being sent directly to the Pacific.

The Eighty-sixth, Ninety-seventh, Ninety-fifth and 104th Infantry divisions, latecomers to the European theater, will leave in June in the order named for the Pacific via the United States, minus personnel with discharge credits, an official announcement said yesterday.

Total May repatriations will include 29,500 sick and wounded men, 28,000 liberated prisoners, 15,000 men for discharge and 11,000 members of redeployed units. In addition there will be 4,000 American naval personnel.

Full-scale in June.

Full-scale redeployment will begin in June. The plans call for the repatriation of 20,500 sick and wounded men, 15,000 liberated prisoners, 35,000 for discharge and 180,000 in redeployed units. Also in that month troop transfers by plane are scheduled to begin. The Navy will send over 5,000 men in June.

At Casablanca yesterday it was announced that the first group from the Mediterranean theater arrived there on Monday by plane. They will be the first passengers on the new combined ferry service of the Fifteenth United States Air Force and the Air Transport Command, scheduled to take 15,000 men each month from Italy to the United States starting in August. Headquarters said that top priority on shipping space will go to units being deployed in the Pacific, either directly or by way of America.

The first four divisions being redeployed will have their personnel readjusted before they leave. Soldiers with adjusted service ratings of 85 points or more are being replaced here to the extent possible in the limited time left. The remainder with discharge ratings will be replaced during their outfits' stopover in the United States.

Furlough for Pacific Men.

Every man scheduled to go on to the Pacific will get a furlough in America, and the divisions will probably receive extra training before they move on.

The Eighty-sixth Division, which landed in Europe on November 10, 1944, was one of the first to cross the Danube after going into action west of Regensburg, Germany, last March.

The Ninety-seventh landed on August 12 and was first stationed on the west bank of the Rhine as part of the Fifteenth Army. It was transferred later to the First Army and assisted in liquidating the Ruhr pocket.

The Ninety-fifth, after arriving on September 19, took part in the capture of Metz, crossed the Moselle and was commended for its operations on the Thionville bridgehead, the taking of Saarlautern and the Saar River crossing.

The 104th arrived on September 15. It co-operated with the British in clearing the Scheldt estuary, saw action in the Roer breakthrough and took part in the capture of Dueren and of Cologne.

German Rulers In Flensburg Arrested

Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Force, Paris, May 23 (AP)—All members of the acting German Government as well as members of the German high command in Flensburg have been taken into custody as prisoners of war, supreme headquarters announced today.

Those arrested included 300 officers, a number of men of other ranks and civilians, the announcement said.

[Grand Admiral Karl Doenitz, who succeeded Hitler as Führer, presumably was among those arrested as prisoners of war.]

"1,500,000 Criminals"

New York, May 23 (AP)—Joseph Pulitzer, editor and publisher of the St. Louis Post Dispatch, said last night that "possibly 1,500,000" Germans would have to be dealt with as war criminals and that he believed it would be necessary to occupy Germany "for at least one and possibly two generations to come."

Pulitzer, a member of the delegation of newspaper editors who toured concentration camps in Germany at General Eisenhower's invitation, spoke at a Carnegie Hall rally sponsored by the Society for the Prevention of World War III.

Urges Speedy Trials

The publisher urged that the groups primarily responsible for the horrors, such as "the gangsters who make up the Gestapo and the SS," be given fair but speedy trials and those found guilty "be put out of this world with army bullets through their heads."

He added, "all this applies to the German financiers and industrialists, those slick, smooth, English-speaking, London-tailored chaps who give such good parties but who, like the others, are up to their necks in blood guilt."

"It is difficult to get any accurate figures on the numbers involved," Pulitzer said. "The War Department for some reason has been reluctant to release information on the subject. But I estimate that somewhere between 1,000,000 and 2,000,000 is a reasonable figure. Possibly 1,500,000 may be the final total."

"No Sense Of Guilt"

Senator Alben W. Barkley (D., Ky.) told the meeting that in Germany "there is apparently no sense of guilt or remorse for either the inauguration of the war or for the unspeakable horrors which were visited upon the victims, whether military or civilian."

He urged that "punishment should not be delayed or more in effectual by too great an accompaniment of legalistic tendencies."

LEVANT STATES WARN FRANCE

MAY 24 1945

Would Resist Use Of Force On Syrian And Lebanese Soil

Paris, May 23 (AP)—The Syrian and Lebanese ministers in a joint statement said today that "no nation in the world has the privilege of using force" in their homelands, and declared that if a settlement could not be reached with France their nations, backed by the Arab world, "would use every means at their disposal to resist."

Negotiations between the Levant states and France have been broken off, they told a press conference, although they expressed hope a settlement still could be reached on the question of French troop reinforcements in their countries.

Stand Of Arab States

Reading a prepared statement, the two ministers said in part:

"They (the ministers) declared it is still their firm hope that an agreement can be reached, but if not the two countries, backed by the Arab world, would use every means at their disposal to resist. The Arab states as a whole will support any single state whose national sovereignty is threatened.

"No nation in the world has the privilege of using force on Syrian and Lebanese soil."

Tense Situation Created

The arrival of additional French troops in the Middle Eastern states after previous protests from the Levant governments has created a tense situation. The arrival was at a time when France was reported insisting on special concessions and the right to control Syrian and Lebanese armed forces whose expenses are largely defrayed by France. The Levant governments condemned the troop arrivals as "an action which naturally savors of pressure and intimidation."

The French have said that the troops were being sent to the Middle East as a staging area for eventual movement to the Far East against Japan, and France has retained the right to station troops in both countries owing to a League of Nations mandate which has not lapsed.

Independence Recognized

At the same time, the two countries have been declared independent and the French Government has recognized their independence.

The French War Office said tonight that disturbances had broken out in Beirut and Damascus, but said these were local with only a few persons involved. Police quelled the demonstrators, an official said.

The Levant ministers said their governments had been negotiating with the French Levant delegate, Lieut. Gen. Paul-Etienne Beynet, on two major points—demanding the transfer of the "special troops" to their own control and on the signing of an economic agreement. They said Beynet refused the two Levant proposals and did not reply to their formal representations.

Seen Aimed At Pan-Arab Union

They said their governments were "greatly surprised" when additional French troops arrived in view of the fact that the European war had ended.

The ministers expressed a personal belief that the French reinforcements were sent as a precaution against the potentiality of the Pan-Arab Union, and said they did not believe that the French reinforcements were en route to the Far East.

French Say Laval Is Still In Barcelona

Paris, May 23 (AP)—The Surete Nationale said today that Pierre Laval remained in Barcelona despite a flurry of rumors last week that he was en route to France. He will be tried on a charge of high treason as soon as he arrives.

The Spanish Government, for reasons undisclosed in Paris, has declined to hand over the former chief of the Vichy Government to French authorities at the border. As a solution, the Spaniards have agreed to put him aboard a British warship which would deliver him to some French port.

The French said the British Admiralty, for security reasons, refused to name the port where the ship will enter. Army guards now are waiting for him at every major Atlantic port and most minor ones.

ALGERIAN RIOTS SPREAD

French Report 300 Europeans, 1,000 Arabs Slain or Hurt

PARIS, May 23 (AP)—The French War Office said tonight that 300 Europeans and 1,000 Arabs had been killed or wounded in disturbances in Algeria, where Berber tribesmen were fighting French authorities.

French patrols were reported scouring the wild country, which two years ago was a gigantic Allied base for the invasion of Sicily and Italy. The Berbers began attacking villages and isolated French farm houses several weeks ago. They were incited, the French said, by German agents and by distorted propaganda respecting the Pan-Arab Union.

ALL DOENITZ GROUP TAKEN INTO CUSTODY

MAY 24 1945

Flensburg 'Government' Members Made Prisoners Of War

Flensburg, Germany, May 23 (AP). Allied supreme headquarters, acting in concert with the Russian high command, arrested Grand Admiral Karl Doenitz and other German leaders today, destroying the socalled Flensburg government and remnants of the Nazi high command.

NIGHT

Doenitz, who succeeded Hitler as Führer of the shattered Third Reich, was taken into custody along with Col. Gen. Gustav Jodl, army chief of staff; Admiral von Friedeberg, head of the German Navy; and Reichsminister of production Albert Speer. Jodl and von Friedeberg represented Doenitz at the German surrender to Gen Dwight D. Eisenhower at Reims.

Taken To A Prison

At the same time it was disclosed that Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, who preceded Jodl as German chief of staff, and who signed the surrender to the Russians at Berlin, had been arrested ten days ago when the Allied mission of less than three dozen officers and men arrived in this North Sea port where 175,000 German soldiers still carried arms.

Doenitz, Jodl and Speer were taken from Flensburg by plane today to an undisclosed prison.

[The Exchange Telegraph Agency reported that von Friedeberg committed suicide by taking poison 45 minutes after the arrests. There was no immediate confirmation of this report.

SHAEF Hears Of Suicide

[Supreme headquarters in Paris also heard the report that von Friedeberg had killed himself—but was not yet able to confirm it officially.

[After the German officers had been informed of the arrest aboard the command ship, they were permitted to return to their quarters to pack personal belongings.

[Friedeberg was said to have asked permission of his escort to go into a toilet and while there swallowed poison.]

A high ranking SHAEF officer said all members of the German general staff probably would be sentenced to from 10 to 15 years imprisonment.

Jodl Packs

Doenitz came to the SHAEF command post aboard a captured German liner in the Flensburg harbor when he was sent for and did not return to his office afterward. A freshly opened package of cigarettes and papers giving the position of Wehrmacht forces as of May 9 were lying undisturbed on his desk.

Jodl, who became Wehrmacht chief of staff after Keitel's arrest, returned to his office after his arrest and packed his own bag while his aide, Capt. Herman Brudemuller, picked up odds and ends.

Friedeberg was arrested at his home near the Oberkommando Wehrmacht headquarters and Speer was arrested in his private castle in Gluckbord. Capt. Tony Solomon, of London, said he found the Nazi Production Minister in his bath.

Tanks Rumble In

While Maj. Gen. Lowell W. Rooks, whose appointment as General Eisenhower's representative at Flensburg was announced only yesterday, read the arrest orders to Doenitz, Jodl and Friedeberg in Keitel's old headquarters aboard the American-Hamburg Line steamship Patria, British Tommies rounded up lesser members of the German headquarters.

NIGHT

The British soldiers moved swiftly, lining the German men and women workers up against walls with their hands behind their heads, while tanks rumbled into the German compound and took over the remnants of the Wehrmacht.

British ships, commanded by an officer who served as piermaster during the evacuation at Dunkerque, rode in Flensburg harbor, their guns trained on the German shore and on surrendered U-boats and E-boats that floated near by, their white ensigns fluttering in the damp air.

Doenitz Looks Worn

Doenitz looked tired and worn as he trudged up the Patria's gangplank, just 23 days after he assumed Hitler's role as head of the German state. Jodl, who had been named commander of the Wehrmacht, after Keitel was arrested May 15, was accompanied by his aide, Major Wilhelm Oxenius.

In the brightly painted bar of the Patria, the Germans faced a long table covered with a white cloth at which were seated Rooks, Gen. Nicolai Trussov, representing the Soviet high command, and a British naval captain, Guy Maund, commander of the Allied ships in the harbor.

"Gentlemen, I am in receipt of instructions from supreme headquarters AEF and from the supreme commander, General Eisenhower, to call you before me this morning and tell you that he has decided, in concert with the Soviet high command, that today the acting German Government and German high command is to be taken into custody and several of its members made prisoners of war," Rooks said.

Dissolution In Progress

"Thereby the acting German Government is dissolved. This is now going on. Troops of the 21st Army Group are now taking the several members of the civilian and military and certain records into custody.

"In conformity with the instructions, each of you is to consider yourself a prisoner of war from this moment. When you leave this room an Allied officer will attach himself to you and escort you to your quarters where you will pack, have lunch and complete your affairs. After that they will escort you to the airfield at 1.30 P.M., emplaning. You may take the baggage you require"

General Rooks added "that is all I have to say," and then turning to the Russian representative asked, "does General Trussov have anything to say?" A moment later the American officer asked the Germans if they desired to comment.

"Any Word . . . Superfluous"

"Any word now would be superfluous," Doentiz said as Jodl slumped in his chair.

Doenitz and Jodl had been cool throughout the interview, the Grand Admiral walking up and down the room at first and commenting: "It is now quite clear what is going to happen."

Later, when faced by a group of correspondents in the compound at brigade headquarters, the two Germans refused to talk.

"We are prisoners of war and will give nothing more than our names and ranks," he said.

The Nazi guards at Doenitz's headquarters offered no resistance when Lieut. Allan Thorp, of West London and his Cheshire Platoon descended on the old naval school building at 10 A.M. Officials said about 400 officers, 2,300 enlisted men and an unspecified number of civilians were arrested.

German Government and High Command Are Both Dissolved—General Staff Officers Said to Face Long Jail Terms.

Flensburg, Germany, May 23 (A. P.).—British Tommies, acting on orders from Supreme Headquarters, today arrested Grand Admiral Karl Doenitz and all the other members of the so-called Flensburg government of Germany and disbanded the German High Command.

A British tank force took part in a display of power as some 300 German officers and many other ranks and civilians were taken into captivity.

All German General Staff officers will probably be sentenced to from ten to fifteen years' imprisonment, a high-ranking SHAEF officer said.

The action was taken in concert with the Russian Command.

Col.-Gen. Gustav Jodl and Admiral von Friedeberg, both of whom signed the German surrender instrument at Reims, also were placed under arrest and taken away by Allied military guards. They followed Doenitz up the gangplank of the ship in Flensburg harbor which ever since the German capitulation has served as Allied Supreme Headquarters post here.

[In a broadcast picked up at New York today by NBC, the British radio said that Friedeberg committed suicide.]

British Tanks Move In.

As Doenitz was mounting up the gangplank, British tanks from the Eleventh Armored Division clanked into the Nazi compound here and took over the remnants of German Army headquarters scattered throughout Flensburg.

In Flensburg harbor British ships commanded by a captain who was the piermaster at Dunkirk rode at anchor with their guns trained on the German shore and on surrendered German U-boats and E-boats.

British Tommies lined the German Government attaches, men and women alike, against the walls and ordered them to put their hands behind their heads.

Doenitz had been head of the German State for just twenty-three days when, showing signs of fatigue, he trudged up the gangplank of the headquarters ship.

Doenitz, Jodl, Freideberg and Jodl's aid, Major Wilhelm Oxenius, were summoned to the ship by Major-Gen. Lowell Rooks, Deputy Chief of Staff to Gen. Eisenhower, who informed them that Eisenhower had ordered them arrested and the German Government disbanded.

Since the surrender at Reims Flensburg has been neither fish nor fowl. Even though the Germans all were technically prisoners of the Twenty-first Army Group, Flensburg was left as the control point for Doenitz to turn over the Wehrmacht and what was left of the German government. The German officials rode to work every morning and one out of every ten German soldiers kept his arms to guard military installations.

According to the best information SHAEF intelligence has been able to gather, the Germans had earlier planned to split into north and south groups and prior to April 22 all that was left of the Nazi hierarchy had planned to go south into the Alps for a last stand. After the Germans in Denmark, Norway, western Germany and Holland had surrendered and arrangements were made through Doenitz for the capitulation of the entire Reich, the Admiral tried to convince the Allies that his government was the only means of forcing the Wehrmacht to put down its arms.

'Each of You Is a Prisoner.'

But it all ended today aboard the old Hamburg-American liner Patria when Gen. Rooks said:

"Gentlemen, I am in receipt of instructions from Supreme Headquarters of the A. E. F. and from the Supreme Commander, Gen. Eisenhower, to call you before me this morning and tell you he has decided, in concert with the Soviet High Command, that today the acting German government and German High Command is to be taken into custody and several of its members made prisoners of war.

"Thereby the acting German Government is dissolved. This is now going on. Troops of the Twenty-first Army group are now taking the several members, civilian and military, and certain records into custody.

"In conformity with instructions, each of you is to consider yourself a prisoner of war from this moment.

"When you leave this room an Allied officer will attach himself to you and escort you to your quarters where you will pack, have lunch and complete your affairs.

"After that they will escort you to the airfield at 1:30 P. M., emplaneing. You may take the baggage you require.

"That is all I have to say."

'Tried to Blackmail Us.'

Russian Gen. Trusso Nicolai was present while Rooks addressed the Germans.

In reply to a question by Rooks if they had anything to say, Doenitz replied: "Any word now would be superfluous."

Jodl slumped in his chair.

German guards at Doenitz's headquarters appeared surprised when the British troops raced into the compound of the old naval school but they offered no resistance

A high SHEAF official said that Doenitz "tried to blackmail us into thinking disarmament of the Wehrmacht would be impossible without his sham government to fall back on, but we figured him for the shrewd, cunning Nazi which he is."

When the SHAEF mission came here to set up headquarters the twenty Allied officers and fewer than twenty Allied enlisted men expected any minute that they would be set upon by the Nazis. He told them the farmers would balk and refuse to produce much needed crops. Furthermore, he said, there was not enough money in the banks in northwestern Germany to keep trouble from rising.

After their arrest Doenitz and Jodl refused to be interviewed.

"We are prisoners of war and will give nothing more than our names and ranks," Doenitz said as he and Jodl glowered at the battery of cameras facing them.

REDS SAY M.D. KILLED HITLER

Fuehrer Was Euthanasia Case, SHAEF Hears

Flensburg, Germany, May 23 (AP). A Russian report said today that Adolf Hitler, who sanctioned mercy killings, died that way himself—put out of his misery by an injection.

A high Allied headquarters official quoted an unidentified Red Army general as saying that Hitler was paralyzed and insane with pain during the last days of his life.

The Germans have asserted that Hitler died at his command post in Berlin. The Russian general reportedly confirmed that Hitler had died in his underground bunker.

Injection Reported

"A Professor Morel was said to have given Hitler an injection of some sort that put him to sleep forever," the SHAEF official quoted the Russian.

[A Dr. Theodore Morrell, a 59-year-old physician who said he was Hitler's personal doctor since 1938, was found in a hospital near Berchtesgaden two days ago. He said he had given Hitler glucose and caffeine injections for several months.

[Morrell, however, said that the last time he saw Hitler for a medical consultation was in Berlin on April 21. Then the Nazi leader refused to have his regular injection, went into a rage and ordered Morrell away. Morrell said he collapsed at Hitler's feet.

[Later in the day he saw Hitler again. Morrell did not state whether he had tried to give an injection once more. He left Berlin the next night.]

Changed His Mind

The Russian general asserted that Hitler had planned to make a last-ditch stand in the southern redoubt, but changed his mind April 22 and decided to face it in Berlin.

Allied authorities today arrested in Flensburg a Dr. Brandt who said he had been Hitler's physician for several years.

[In 1938, a Dr. Brandt was sent by Hitler to Paris to attend to a Nazi official shot by a Polish youth.]

Brandt said he knew nothing of the report that Dr. Morel had administered a mercy dose of morphine or some other deadly injection.

"I left Berlin quite a while ago," he said.

Brandt said that Hitler was a sick man much of the time and that he himself had operated on the Nazi leader twice.

Denies Cancer

Brandt helped perform the second of the ex-Führer's greatly publicized throat operations, but he denied that Hitler ever had cancer. "He had a slight throat ailment, a growth that really was not serious," he said.

Brandt denied that Hitler ever had epileptic fits, but said that he had given Hitler various types of injections for minor ailments. Brandt emphasized that he did not know anything of Hitler's state of health in his last days.

Brandt said the German leader aged greatly in the last year; his hair turning gray.

According to the Russian report quoted by an Allied officer, Hitler suffered a cerebral hemorrhage in Berlin as the Third Reich was tumbling around him. The hemorrhage reportedly resulted in his complete paralysis.

The Russians say that "Morel" took it upon himself to end Hitler's suffering with a mercy dose.

Aged German Catholic Top Official in Reich

MAY 24 1945

By DANIEL DE LUCE

TOENNISTEIN, Germany, May 23.—(AP) An aged German Catholic became the highest civil official in the occupied Reich today and voiced a plea for the German people "to relearn the principles of brotherly love."

As oberpraesident of the Rheinprovinz Military District 70-year-old Dr. Hans Fuchs has been resurrected from the political scrap heap where the Nazis tossed him 12 years ago, writing the word "traitor" on his house.

Fuchs has been charged by Lt. Gen. Leonard T. Gerow, military governor and commander of the U. S. 15th Army, with responsibility for carrying out the administration, under American supervision, of the largest political entity yet carved out of Germany by any Allied power.

In his first public statement on the policy he hopes to follow in his 14,000-square-mile military district of 11,000,000 peacetime population, Fuchs told the Associated Press: "My greatest aim is to inculcate a new Christian spirit in our youth, a spirit in which both Catholic and Protestant churches must collaborate in teaching."

Forced in Retire in 1933

Bald and granite faced, Fuchs was forced into retirement by the Nazis in 1933 after he had been oberpraesident of the Rhine province, core of the present military district, for 11 years and government employe under the Kaiser and the Weimar republic for more than 30 years.

Himself a German army captain in the First World War, Fuchs blamed the rise of Hitler on the German people's discontent with the Versailles treaty, "by which everything we made went back into the reparations fund and we could not recuperate."

He says he believes "the German language newspapers issued by the Allied psychological warfare department bring the people the news, but are less effective in changing their mental attitude," which should be done by Germans.

"Yesterday, in a conference with educational leaders of the Rhineland, I told them the combined efforts of all of us would be necessary to rid the Nazi thoughts from our people's minds, and in this the Christian church, regardless of creed, would have to be the leading factor and carry the greatest responsibility," he said.

Tells of Plans

The oberpraesident, wearing a well cut gray business suit, a spotless white collar, with a gold tie pin and cufflinks and a large topaz ring, told of his plans at this woodland resort where he has been living under military government protection. With him is Col. Charles T. Johnson, Chicago, Ill., who will be supervisor of his administration.

Regarding his program for occupied Germany, Fuchs expressed these views:

RECONSTRUCTION—It would be helpful if German war prisoners skilled as farmers, tradesmen, technicians, teachers and civil servants could be released quickly." He especially feared starvation conditions next winter if the crops are not harvested.

PRESS—"We have some editors left over from old times. By publishing our own newspapers we could contribute more directly to German re-education."

JEWS—"They will be able to live in the new Germany as unhindered as they were before the Nazis took power. I feel every true German Christian opposed the anti-Semitic persecutions."

EDUCATION—Fuchs urges a revival of elementary schools along the lines of the Weimar Republic and the re-establishment of higher schools under religious auspices, which had been liquidated by the Nazis.

AGITATION — "In wide stretches of our country you will not see one occupation soldier. Yet there are no demonstrations of unrest by the Germans there." He said he did not believe the military government ban on meetings of more than five Germans achieved anything "at this time."

NON-FRATERNIZATION—He called this "very wise now when the memory of the war is very sharp on both sides."

MILITARY GOVERNMENT—He said that his administration would iron out inconsistencies in local Military Government regulations which, he said, forbid the ringing of church bells in some localities and permit it in others, ease the civilian travel restrictions here and increase them there. He believes more uniform policies would create "better feeling."

COMMUNISTS—Fuchs said he had not conferred with any German Communists while he and

Johnson hunted out candidates for the super-province administration. "Communists are not very prominent around here."

POLITICS—He envisaged a new "Democratic party" formed for collaboration "In rebuilding the Fatherland." He added: "The only requirement for membership in such a party would be that applicants be men of good will. I would like to see it include Catholic Centrists, National Liberals, Liberals, Social Democrats and, if the Communists wish to enter it, then Communists, too. Of course, it is only an idea of mine. I do not know if it is possible."

Of himself, Fuchs said that under Nazism he had lived in retirement and did not indulge in political activity of any sort. "Of course, I spoke critically of the Nazis in private, but I did not speak publicly," he added.

He lived in the Saar Basin, which was under League of Nations tutelage until a plebiscite was held.

"Because I had no Nazi flag to display when the Saar voted for German rule, some Nazis came at night and painted an inscription on my front porch, 'I Am a Traitor to My Country.' But they never attacked me openly. I was too well known in the Rhineland."

STREICHER, MAIN JEW-BAITER, TAKEN

Jewish Major Captures Him In Bavaria Hideout

Berchtesgaden, May 23 (AP)—Julius Streicher, the Nazis' principal Jew-baiter, was captured today by a Jewish officer from New York, Hitler's unkempt, bald-headed anti-Semitic leader was hiding away on a farm in the Bavarian hills.

The once-strutting ex-publisher of the anti-Jewish Der Stürmer tried to pretend he was an eccentric artist.

His captors were Major Henry Plitt, a New Yorker, and three companions of the American 101st Airborne Division. When he arrived here after a rough 40-mile ride, Streicher, bearded and scraggly, stumbled from a jeep and limped slightly.

Carried Long Whip

It was Streicher who once likened Hitler to Christ—and who for many years ruled Franconia with the long whip he always carried.

With the capture of Streicher, the Gestapo chief, Heinrich Himmler, and Nazi Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop, the top men in the Nazi heirarchy yet to be caught.

It was announced here that Gen. Ritter Franz von Epp, former governor of Bavaria, also had been captured recently.

Streicher was found on a farm near Waldring, a little village in an area thick with American soldiers of the 101st Airborne and the 42d divisions. The countryside is dotted with hundreds of tiny farms, hillside huts and hilltop chalets. It was an ideal hiding place.

Streicher Misunderstands

As Plitt and his three companions approached, Streicher was on the balcony of a Tyrolean-type house daubing at a canvas. He said his name was "Sailer" and that, as an artist, he didn't pay much attention to world affairs.

Plitt went without an interpreter and it was his faulty command of the German language that trapped Streicher.

Plitt tried to say: "You look so much like Streicher I have a notion to take you." Streicher misunderstood and believed the officer recognized him.

Forces Woman To Change Shoes

At the farmhouse—occupied by several other persons—Streicher demonstrated some of his old arrogance. When Plitt told him he must change to more comfortable shoes.

He sat down at ease in a soft chair, stretched out and forced a handsome woman—who may have been his wife—to change his shoes for him.

On the long, bumpy trip here, Plitt informed Streicher that his mother, in America was Jewish. Streicher grunted with what seemed contempt and Plitt described him as still arrogant.

Looks Older Than 59

With Plitt were Capt. Hugh Robertson, of Utica, N.Y.; jeep driver Pfc. Howard Huntley, of Portland, Ore., and Private Victor Nelson, of Houghton Lake, Mich.

Streicher looked older than his 59 years when he arrived here. He wore a tan raincoat and a faded blue shirt without a tie. Instead of the whip he used to carry so jauntily in Nuernberg he had a cane to support his limping leg.

Streicher revealed he had been at the farm since April 24. He was taken to the 15th Corps and passed from the jurisdiction of the 101st Airborne Division which has been setting up a record for running down Nazi big shots.

Believes Hitler Dead

Streicher was caught in the same general area—once considered the heart of the Nazis' vaunted redoubt region—where Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering and Dr. Robert Ley, Hitler's labor-front leader, lately were among top Nazis taken into custody.

Officers tried to get from Streicher some inkling of where Himmler and other Nazi fugitives might be. Streicher said he didn't know where they were. He said he believed Hitler was dead.

Military announcements did not reveal when Gen. Ritter von Epp, the defender of Munich, was seized, but he had been reported among those in Goering's party in the Luftwaffe chief's surrender near Schloss Fischhorn on the Zeller See.

In Jail with Hitler

Streicher just missed capture by American forces last month when he got out of Nuernberg a day or two before the Nazi shrine city was captured.

He was one of Hitler's early companions and before the Nazi movement gained power served several jail terms. He was with Hitler during the famous Munich beer hall Putsch in 1923 and went to Landsberg penitentiary with Hitler as a result.

Streicher always regarded Nuernberg as having been personally won by himself for Nazism. He assumed the title of Franken fuehrer or leader of the Franconians, the North Bavarians.

He strode around the town dressed in high boots and brown uniform, his bullet-like head bare and his whip in hand.

But his thefts from the winter relief funds were said to have become such a scandal that even Hitler could not defend him, so Hitler paid him off about 1940 with a big farm outside Nuernberg.

STREICHER CAUGHT BY YANK TROOPS IN BAVARIAN HILLS

Notorious Nazi Jew-Baiter Is Prisoner of 101st Airborne Division.

Berchtesgaden, May 23 (A. P.).—Julius Streicher, the notorious Jew-baiter, has been captured on a farm in the Bavarian hills by officers of the 101st Airborne Division.

With [illegible] Streicher, Heinrich [illegible] and Joachim von Ribbentrop are foremost among the top Nazis still at large. Streicher was taken in the same general area where Goering and other Nazi leaders lately have been seized. It also was announced that Gen. Franz von Epp, the defender of Munich, was in custody. He had been reported among those in the Goering party after the surrender near Schloss Fischhorn on the Zeller Zee.

Nazi Home Guard To Work On Farms

With the U. S. 3d Army in Southern Germany, May 23 (AP)—Thousands of members of the Volkssturm, the home guard that Hitler hastily formed in the closing stages of the war, are being freed from prison camps in the 3d Army's occupation zone to work on farms.

"We don't want to have to feed these people next winter, so they are going to have to get out and grow their own food," a military government officer explained.

POLES INVITED TO COME HOME

Warsaw Regime Insists It Be Recognized, However

Moscow, May 23 (AP)—The Warsaw Polish Government has invited war-scattered Poles to return to their homeland, providing they recognize the Russian-backed administration of President Boleslaw Bierut, the Polish press said today.

Some foreign diplomats stationed here regarded the overture to the London Polish Government in exile, soldiers in various Polish units of the Allied armies and refugees in many lands, as a possible means of establishing a united Polish Government.

In Switzerland, the Berner Tagwacht said that most of 6,000 Poles of the 2d Polish Division, interned in that neutral country since June, 1940, had refused to go to France for fear they would come under the jurisdiction of the London Polish Government.

The One Requisite

The Warsaw invitation was extended by Vice Premier Wladislaw Gemolka in an address to a convention of the Polish Peasant party in the Polish capital. He asserted that if a Pole would recognize the Polish Provisional (Warsaw) Government, he could find a place in the new Poland regardless of past party affiliation.

Apparently this opened the way for such returning Poles to seek a place in the Government. Several diplomats here said that if numbers of Poles from London, the Polish home army and from armies under the London Government's direction accepted the invitation it might change the attitude of many countries toward recognizing the Polish Provisional Government.

One diplomat, outside the Big Three, said if a representative number of Poles returning on the Gemolka invitation found places in the Warsaw Government, it would seem to him that "a broadening of the Government" would have been carried out and that "future discussions would be little short of quibbling."

A broadened Polish Government was agreed on at the Crimean conference of President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Marshal Stalin. Britain and the United States have refused to recognize the Warsaw Government headed by Bierut and Premier Edward Osubka-Morawski. Stalin, in a recent formal statement, declared that Russia insisted the Warsaw regime form the "core" of any reorganized Government.

Meanwhile, a Russian commentator writing in the Soviet newspaper Izvestia, today leveled a new attack at General Bor, leader of the Polish underground, asserting that new disclosures afforded proof of his connections with the German Governor of Poland.

The article described the sixteen Polish leaders arrested for diversion against the Red Army as Bor followers who were "caught with the goods of provocation against the Red Army."

Warsaw Invites London Poles To Come Home

But Stipulates They Must Recognize New Regime; Gen. Bor Attacked Anew

MOSCOW, May 23 (AP).—Vice-Premier Wladislaw Gemolka of the Warsaw Polish administration has invited Poles to return from abroad, saying that a proper place would be found for them in Poland if they united on a basis of recognizing his government.

Vice-Premier Gemolka told a Peasant party convention that the invitation held for adherents of the London Polish government in exile and members of the detachments under its command, the Polish press reported today.

One diplomat said: "It may mean the breaking of the log jam which has blocked any progress on the tough Polish problem."

It was noted, however, that the Vice-Premier made recognition of the Warsaw administration a provision. If the intention is to broaden the admnistration, it will probably be on the basis that the Warsaw group must be the core of a united Polish government decided on at the Crimean conference of Marshal Stalin, Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt.

Commenting on what he said was a statement by the Polish commander that during the German occupation, Frank frequently came to him with proposals of joint action against the Russians, the writer said that this was a "unique underground" in which the Poles could be approached by the Nazi Governor.

The article described the sixteen Poles recently arrested by the Russians as followers of Komorowski who were "caught with the goods of provocation against the Red Army."

(Komorowski, who led the unsuccessful Polish uprising in Warsaw last August, said in an interview in London on May 18 that he had attempted to establish liason between his underground forces and the Russians, but that his men had been arrested by the Soviets.)

Red Army Undertakes Vast Training Schedule

Even Occupation Forces Get Strict Study Program

MOSCOW, May 23 (AP).—The Red Army is now in the midst of the greatest training period in its twenty-seven-year history.

Dispatches from all over the nation, including the far-flung garrisons of Siberia, have reported an intensive schedule of practice in marching, firing, military tactics and strategy.

"Red Star," the official Army newspaper, declared: "A serious, thorough, all-around training period has replaced war. Relying on the experience gained in battle, commanders are called upon to stiffen and improve the skilled tactics learned in contemporary actions."

The newspaper urged strict diligence on the part of commanders and junior officers in maintaining discipline and seeing that each man participated in the broad training program.

The training schedules are being carried out even in the garrisons of Berlin, Budapest and Vienna.

The garrisons are also engaged in bringing the cities back to life. In Berlin and Budapest, particularly ,they are helping to clear the streets and restore utilities to operation.

Japan's Optimism Held Unfounded

Moscow, May 23 (AP)—A recent Tokyo declaration that by severing relations with Germany Japan has wiped out her tripartite background and thereby placed her "on completely friendly terms with the Soviet Union" seems to reflect unfounded optimism in Tokyo, foreign diplomatic circles here said today.

"While there has been no official Soviet comment on the declaration, made by a Japanese radio commentator, foreign missions in Moscow interpreted the statement as being provocative and not an interpretation of the situation. It goes without saying in diplomatic circles that the U.S.S.R. is not this gullible.

There has been no official change in Russian-Japanese relations since the end of the war, but it is no secret here that Japan has been genuinely interested in arriving at a new basis for discussing relations with Soviet Russia since the latter denounced their nonaggression pact. Her rupture with Germany obviously was a legal move the Japanese considered a first step in that direction.

Marshal Stalin's reference to Japan as an "aggressive" nation and Soviet assertions in denouncing the treaty that Japan was an ally of Hitler during the war with Germany still is uppermost in Soviet minds. It is said here there is no reason to believe Russian sentiments or the situation may have changed because of Tokyo's breaking off after the German defeat.

"If the Japanese think this then it is extreme optimism," an Allied diplomat said.

Mannerheim Sends Stalin Congratulations

Moscow, May 23 (AP)—Tass, official Soviet news agency, said today Field Marshal Baron Carl Mannerheim, of Finland, had sent a message to Marshal Stalin congratulating him on the "termination of the war and the Red Army's brilliant victories over Germany unparalleled in history."

"I ask you, Mr. Marshal, to accept on my behalf and on behalf of the Finnish people the enthusiastic congratulations and expressions of our firm intention to endeavor with all our strength to develop friendly relations based on trust with the great neighbor of our country," Mannerheim's message continued.

Quisling To Face Charge Of Treason

Oslo, May 22 [AP—Delayed]—Attorney General Sven Arntzen said today that Vidkun Quisling, Norway's dictator during five years of German occupation, would be charged with treason at a preliminary hearing probably to be held tomorrow.

The state prosecutor said the charge would be temporary and would be made only to hold Quisling in jail until time of the trial. He will let it stand as treason, or change it, after investigating the material to be presented by the state, he added.

Arntzen pointed out that there was much research work to be done.

Reds Reassure Danes On Bornholm Action

Copenhagen, Thursday, May 24 (AP)—The supreme command of the Red Army has assured the governor of Danish Island of Bornholm that Russian troops will remain on the island only "until questions arising from the war with Germany are settled."

An official statement issued after a conference Wednesday between Russian General Korotov and Governor von Stemann said: "Bornholm is part of Denmark and it is occupied only because it is situated behind our German occupation zone. . . . The Red Army has no intention of disrupting the normal life of the inhabitants or interfering with Danish administrative problems."

GERMANS QUITTING HOLLAND BY BARGE

Den Helder, Holland, May 23 (A. P.).—A fleet of twenty-five German barges left here yesterday for Wilhelmshaven loaded with 4,000 German sailors, soldiers, women and children—the first Germans to be evacuated from Holland since V-E day. They are part of a contingent of 12,000 civilians and sick or wounded soldiers who will be returned to Germany by this route.

On Friday 160,000 German troops will begin to leave. Landing craft will ferry them across the Zuider Zee to Harlingen in daily blocks of 10,000 to 12,000. From Harlingen they will be marched to concentration areas in the Emden-Wilhelmshaven sector, halting en route at twelve transit camps which have been established at fifteen-mile intervals.

Tito-Allied Row Nearing End

Settlement on Trieste at Hand—Yugoslavs Attend Dinner for Alexander

Heinzerling MAY 24 1945

Trieste, May 23 (A. P.).—The dispute between Allied governments and Marshal Tito over occupation of Trieste appeared near a final settlement today after a tense period which brought a sharp exchange between Field Marshal Sir Harold Alexander and the Yugoslav leader.

A new feeling of calm seemed to spread through the Adriatic port. Alexander arrived late yesterday and Lieut.-Gen. Sir Bernard C. Freyberg, commander of the New Zealand Second Corps, gave a dinner last night which several high Yugoslav officers attended.

Alexander, Supreme Allied Commander in the Mediterranean theater, inspected New Zealand troops here. A few Yugoslav patrols filtered through the streets, but in greatly reduced strength. Fewer Partisans armed with machine-guns and German hand grenades were seen.

[The Rome radio said a communique was expected hourly on solution of the Trieste problem, since Tito has accepted "in principle" the proposal advanced by Alexander. The New Zealand High Commissioner in London, W. J. Jordan, said in a formal statement "there is little indication" that Tito intended to wait for the peace conference to settle Yugoslav claims to the Trieste area. Jordan reported "minor incidents," but relaxed tension. He said Tito's forces have occupied villages neighboring Trieste, changing their names to Yugoslav versions.]

No announcement has been made of any change in the situation, although it was learned that new Yugoslav proposals were made and that these were believed generally in accord with the principles laid down by Alexander. Yugoslavs had occupied the port and claimed it as a part of their kingdom. The Allies insisted that any territorial change must be enunciated at the peace conference and not by unilateral action.

The movement of Allied forces into new areas east of the Isonzo River was accomplished without reported incidents. Allied officers were saluted briskly and with respect by Yugoslav sentries at most places, although they obviously were surprised by the sudden appearance of so many Allied vehicles.

It was believed here that the Yugoslavs may wish to keep some troops in the Trieste area even after turning the disputed area over to the Allied Military Administration. This question may delay final settlement of the controversy. Trieste civilians, predominantly Italian, seem to sense that the dispute could not continue indefinitely. A subdued holiday spirit prevailed along the water front last night.

Trieste Accord Delayed By Slavs

Heinzerling

Trieste, May 23 (AP)—Yugoslav determination that the mixed Italian-Yugoslav Council of Liberation continue to function in Trieste and the Venezia Guilia area threatened tonight to delay complete settlement of the dispute over these territories, despite Yugoslav agreement to the principle of Allied military administration.

This point and a number of other questions were believed to be obstacles to normal Allied Military Government administration of this bristling city.

Nevertheless, a strong note of optimism was apparent here that all issues soon would be settled as a result of new Yugoslav proposals which were believed generally to be in accord with the principles laid down by Field Marshal Sir Harold Alexander.

Yugoslavs' Decree

The Yugoslav-established Council of Liberation drew up a decree yesterday establishing a tribunal for judgment of Fascist crimes "against the existence and liberty of the people and of democratic institutions." The tribunal consists of nine Italians and two Slovenes.

A few Yugoslav patrols were still to be seen in the streets here, but in reduced strength, and there were fewer armed Partisans.

Movement yesterday of British and American forces into the area from Trieste northward to a point 5 miles east of Gorizia was accomplished without any reported incidents.

SEES FRENCH PLOT IN AOSTA VALLEY

MAY 24 1945

Rome, May 23 (A. P.).—The Communist party organ L'Unita declared today that French nationalists are attempting to seize portions of the western Piedmont region from Italy to gain a "political-military success." The paper said that the move was designed to gain the unified support of French reactionaries and war-mongers and help offset the Leftist swing shown in the recent French elections.

The Paris Socialist newspaper Le Populaire reported yesterday that a group called the Committee of Liberation of Northern Italy had proclaimed the independence of the French-occupied Aosta valley in the Piedmont region. The French Foreign Office said it had received no word of any such development.

The independent Rome newspaper Il Tempo said that Premier Ivance Bonomi told a French journalist that he hoped Italo-French relations could be improved and "the frontier problem resolved in a friendly spirit."

FISHER GETS TOP MEDAL

Brooklyn Lieutenant in Italy Receives Congressional Award

ROME, May 23 (AP)—The Congressional Medal of Honor was presented today to Lieut. Almond E. Fisher, 32, of Brooklyn, N. Y., who wiped out five enemy machine gun nests in one night and then, after he was shot through both feet, crawled about helping his men repulse furious Nazi counter-attacks.

Lieutenant Fisher's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Fisher, live at 326 Sixtieth Street, Brooklyn, and his wife at 5611 Sixth Avenue, Brooklyn. He was decorated by Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, commanding United States Army forces in the Mediterranean theatre, in the presence of several officers of his old outfit, the Forty-fifth Infantry Division.

The lieutenant now is a mortar instructor at an infantry conversion training center in Italy.

CHINESE PRESS ON TOWARD AIR BASES

American Fliers Help Drives at Paoking and Liuchow, Formerly Their Fields

MOOSE

CHUNGKING, China, May 23 (AP)—Chinese troops battled toward two Japanese-held former American air bases in south-central China tonight while the Japanese were reported pulling mechanized forces out of Shanghai, transferring them to Manchuria.

In bold bids to rewin air strips lost in Japan's offensive that rolled up the central line of United States bases last year, the Chinese struck out, closely supported by American bombers and fighters.

Two hundred and fifty miles southeast of Chungking, the Chinese in a two-pronged drive toward Paoking knifed within nineteen miles west and northwest of that Hunan Province base.

Four hundred miles southeast of the Chinese capital, assault troops battered forward on a fifty-mile front toward the former base at Liuchow. They were fifty to seventy-five miles from the former United States Fourteenth Air Force airfield.

Meanwhile, Fourteenth Air Force fliers took off from fields deep in China and struck into the area west and northwest of Shanghai, blasting heavily loaded Japanese troop trains moving northward.

The trains were jammed with soldiers, artillery and trucks, and the American air attacks tended to confirm recent Chinese reports that the enemy was transferring forces from Shanghai northward. Long-range P-51 Mustang fighter-bombers bombed the railway yards at Hsuchow, 320 miles northwest of Shanghai, and scattered explosives on a long, northbound train moving up the Tientsin-Pukow railroad north of the Yellow River town of Pengpu.

On a spur line south of Pengpu, 260 miles northeast of Shanghai, the Americans fired another troop train and also struck another on the parallel Peiping-Hankow Railroad north of Hankow.

Chungking Americans doubt that the Chinese have enough strength to reconquer the United States air bases in Hunan and Kwangsi, but Fourteenth Air Force fliers joined the fighting and strafed Japanese forces which an American communiqué said were "retreating."

On an eighty-mile arc northwest, west and southwest of Paoking the Chinese gained up to four miles along the Paoking-Chihkiang highway, but they encountered stiff resistance nineteen miles west of the town. They also were attacking Japanese positions nineteen miles northwest, and an American statement said that most enemy elements were fleeing, leaving only scattered pockets to be mopped up.

The Chinese High Command meanwhile said that Chinese forces attacking toward Liuchow had reached Tungkiang, seventy-five miles from the big railroad junction city, while others battled near Hwaiyuanchen, fifty miles west.

Liuchow and Paoking are key points on the west flank of the broad Japanese corridor across China linking Manchuria with Indo-China and Burma. If the Chinese can take Paoking and Liuchow they will seriously imperil Japanese communications along the corridor—the only good avenue of retreat for Japanese forces that eventually may have to abandon southeast Asia to Anglo-American arms.

In the east coast province of Fukien, the Chinese continued attacks in the vicinity of Lienkong, seventeen miles northeast of liberated Foochow with the Japanese offering strong resistance. Chinese forces south of the Min River estuary east of Foochow crossed to the north bank to join the drive.

In Honan province the Chinese completed encirclement of a large group of enemy forces trapped west of Hsihsiakow, 400 miles northeast of Chungking, capturing five heights in the face of tough enemy opposition.

Japanese Battered in Shansi

The Chungking radio said yesterday that continuous Allied bombing and guerrilla attacks had virtually disrupted Japanese communication lines in western Shansi.

Regular and guerrilla forces of the Chinese Communists have been active against the Japanese in Shansi. Previous reports indicated that no Nationalist land forces had been operating in the area.

The Chungking broadcast, which was reported by the Federal Communications Commission, said Japanese forces were reported concentrating along the Taiyuan-Chengting and Tatung-Puchow railways.

Recent gains of the Chinese Communist Eighth Route Army were summed up in a communiqué issued yesterday and transmitted in English from Yenan, Communist headquarters, to North America. The communique, as recorded by the Federal Communications Commission, said:

"During the spring offensive this year, in response to Chairman Mao Tze-tung's call for expansion of liberated areas and encroachment on Japanese-occupied territory, our units recovered 2,140 square miles of territory, 1,312 Japanese and puppets came over to the Eighth Route Army and 2,783 were taken prisoner."

The French National Defense Headquarters issued a communiqué yesterday announcing that the Japanese had launched a new offensive against French forces still holding out in the upper Mekong area of Indo-China.

GIRLS INSULTED BY CHINA MOBS

Friends of Yanks Scorned and Hooted in Streets

MAY 25 1945 DAY

Chungking, May 23 (A. P.).—The Chungking edition of the American-owned Shanghai Evening Post and Mercury said today that "scandal mongers appear to be persuading the Chinese that every American in uniform is a lecher and every Chinese girl allowing herself to be seen with him in public is a prostitute."

"Fanciful stories about jeep girls are rapidly building up a wall of hatred between the Chinese and Americans that may take years to dispel," the newspaper said. "It is no longer safe for an American officer or soldier to take a respectable Chinese girl out. Their presence on the street together is a signal for a howling mob of hoodlums to swarm around shrieking at the top of their voices, hurling insults and generally humiliating the couple.

"Frequently hotheads in the crowd slap the girl's face, pull her hair. The venom of the crowd is usually leveled at the girl, but fist fights often occur when the American tries to save his companion from insult."

The paper said the situation was "pleasing the Japanese by threatening to create a rift between the two Allies."

The matter has evoked the attention of the highest Chinese and American authorities. One restaurant popular with American soldiers was placed out of bounds by military officials after girls leaving the place with men in uniform were insulted by crowds outside.

JAP TROOP TRAINS BOMBED IN CHINA

Chungking, May 23 (A. P.).—Pending to confirm recent Chinese statements that the Japanese were transferring forces from the Shanghai area into Manchuria, United States Fourteenth Air Force planes attacked heavily loaded northbound enemy troop trains yesterday. A communique from Lieut.-Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer's headquarters told of the action today.

North of Pengpu, in north central Anhwei Province, a thirty-car train loaded with troops, heavy artillery and motorized vehicles was bombed. South of Pengpu another troop train was attacked. A third train was fire-bombed on the Peiping-Hankow Railroad north of Hankow. In addition American planes attacked railyards at the Hsuchow rail junction in Kiangsu Province, and hit a heavily loaded northbound train of thirty flat cars.

Chinese troops moving eastward along the main Shaoyang (Payoang)-Chihkiang Railroad in a four-mile advance reached a point nineteen miles from Shaoyang. A statement from headquarters of the Chinese combat command—an American advisory unit—said that in general Japanese forces in Hunan Province kept up their retreat eastward and that Chinese troops continued mopping up isolated enemy pockets. However most observers here expressed doubt that the Chinese yet possessed the strength to take Shaoyang, key point in the west flank of the enemy's corridor into Indo-China.

Jap Force Annihilated In Burma Operations

Calcutta, May 23 (AP)—Annihilation of a small Japanese force at Kabaing, 24 miles southwest of Thayetmyo, was reported today as British 14th Army troops continued to clean up remaining resistance in southern Burma.

To the east, casualties were inflicted on Japanese units caught in villages east of Pyu, 33 miles south of Toungoo on the Mandalay-Toungoo-Rangoon road, a Southeast Asia command communique said.

A new, but slight advance was made by forces moving eastward from Toungoo along the Mawchi road, pursuing enemy troops attempting to escape across the border into Thailand. The advance was made against stiff opposition, and additional enemy guns were captured.

Heavy bombers of the Eastern Air Command bombed Bangkok-Singapore communications and attacked two enemy air fields in southern Burma after a day of inactivity because of weather conditions.

Rescued Flyer Gets Purple Heart

Calcutta, May 22 (Delayed) (A. P.).—Awards and decorations were presented today by Major-Gen. Howard C. Davidson, United States Tenth Air Force commander, to a group of released American war prisoners under observation at Calcutta Hospital after their rescue in Rangoon.

The awards included the Purple Heart to Second Lieut. David B. Parmelee of Guilford, Conn. and Sergt. Karnik A. Thomasin 601 West 190th street, New York city.

Disease Among Natives In Islands Left By Japs

Sydney, Australia, May 23 (AP)—Frank Gaines, acting UNRRA director, said here today he found in a recent tour of liberated Dutch islands in the Pacific that the Japanese had left behind a serious trail of disease among the natives.

On one island, only 18,000 of the 30,000 natives there before the Japanese came remained, Gaines said. Some had been killed and others were taken away for forced labor.

Gains Past Yonabaru Double Okinawa Front

Guam, May 23 (AP)—A spectacular lunge by the United States 7th Infantry Diviison through and beyond strategic Yonabaru virtually doubled the length of the southern Okinawa line today and imperiled Japanese defenses of Naha and the fortress city of Shuri.

The flanking drive, aimed at supply roads vital to the enemy, added nearly 4,000 yards to the front which had been so narrow American troops had little room to maneuver to advantage, Maj. Gen. Archibald V. Arnold, Brentville, N.Y., commander of the 7th, said.

The 7th, refreshed by a two-week rest, followed the 96th Infantry Division into ruined, muddy Yonabaru yesterday, then moved on into the hills 1,000 yards beyond in a surprise predawn attack.

Shuri Supply Routes Menaced

The doughboys seized the northern end of a strategic line of ridges along the east coast between Rioi and Intarashiku and occupied heights from which their guns overlook supply roads to Shuri in the center of the line.

Yonabaru, second largest Okinawa town, was entered by Maj. Gen. James L. Bradley's 96th Division late Monday and was the first major town on the island to fall into American hands.

In the darkness Tuesday morning, elements of the 7th Division, opposed only by sniper fire, drove through Yonabaru, cut the east-west traffic artery between that town and the capital city of Naha, and established strong positions on the ridges.

Five U.S. Divisions In Action

Officers expressed confidence the men could hold the ridges against enemy counterattacks. The return of the 7th to action pitted five American divisions—three Army infantry and two Marine—against the hard fighting Nipponese.

This thrust cut off some Japanese between Yonabaru and the heights. It extended an enveloping arm a considerable distance south of Shuri.

If the men of the 7th succeed in pushing south along the north-south ridge line, they will have positions completely dominating Okinawa's Okinawa's major roads and two rail lines running southeast from Naha. Once the rear is cleared, the Seventh would be able to mount artillery on the ridges and stymie Jap supply for the Shuri line with directly observed fire.

Vern Haugland, Associated Press front line reporter, said men of the 96th had a tough scrap while moving down heights on the approaches to Yonabaru, but the actual entry was virtually unopposed.

In the center and on the west, Marine and infantry operations were curtailed by heavy rains. On the west side of the line, the Japanese threw in one of their frequent counterattacks before dawn Tuesday but the 1st Marine Division o Maj. Gen. Pedro A. Del Valle crushed it, killing 80 of the enemy.

Maj. Gen. Lemuel C. Shepherd, Jr.'s 6th Marine Division strengthened its position along the Asato River in the northern edge of Naha.

Attack On Fleet

At dusk Monday, twelve or more enemy planes attacked ships of the United States Pacific Fleet supporting the Okinawa operation. Today's communiqué, disclosing the raid, said eight planes were shot down and "the remainder retired from the area without causing damage."

[Japanese broadcasts claimed Nipponese aircraft "struck heavily" at United States warships and transports off Okinawa at dawn today and "seriously damaged" an aircraft carrier. The broadcast, heard in San Francisco, asserted that airfields were also hit.]

Sunday and Monday, carrier-based planes of the British Pacific Fleet attacked airbases, docks and other facilities in the Sakishima group, southernmost of the Ryukyus, and shot down an enemy plane.

Jap Raid On Iwo

The communique said Japanese planes caused a few casualties but lost two raiders in a low-level night attack, Monday on American-won Iwo where the Yanks still are picking off enemy stragglers. Between May 13 and 19, 94 more Nipponese were killed on Iwo and 134 taken prisoner.

American planes, operating off the main Japanese homeland island of Honshu, shot down a glider, probably destroyed an enemy plane and sank two small cargo ships Monday. More small shipping was hit in the same sector yesterday.

JAPS WILT UNDER U.S. ATTACKS ON OKINAWA FRONTS

Both Flanks of Enemy Bent Back Despite Rain and Mud.

MARINES ENTER NAHA

Other Divisions Enlarge Hold on 'Little Siegfried' Line Supply Roads.

GUAM, Thursday, May 24—(AP) Both flanks of the stoutly defended Japanese line on Southern Okinawa were bent back yesterday by U. S. 10th Army forces, fighting through rain and heavy mud.

On the west side, the Fourth Regiment of the Sixth Marine Division crossed the Asato river to enter the capital city of Naha in force. On the east side, the Seventh Infantry division captured two hills, expanding its flanking bulge south of Yonabaru, whose occupation was completed against scant resistance.

The Fourth Marine regiment, including veterans of the old Marine raider battalions, forded the Asato and apparently won a secure bridgehead in the northeastern sector of Naha which previously had been explored by patrols.

Dominate Supply Roads

In the Yonabaru sector, the 32nd and 184th regiments pushed to about 1,200 yards south of that town, enlarging the American hold on heights from which artillery can dominate supply roads to the enemy's "Little Siegfried" line. The infantrymen took a height south of Taira town.

The Yanks also captured a hill west of Yonabaru in sharp fighting. This attack apparently was designed to widen the corridor beyond Yonabaru through which the Seventh could bring supplies to its front in the Ozata Mura hills. The Japanese between the Ozata Mura hills and the Okinawa east coast have not yet been cleared out.

Cut East-West Road

The Yanks already have cut the east-west road from Naha on Okinawa's west coast to ruined Yonabaru and presently are seizing heights from which guns can blast vital supply roads to fortress Shuri in the center of the line.

Sixth Division Marines on the northern edge of Naha sent elements yesterday across the Asato river 1,000 yards from the river mouth under cover of artillery and warship guns.

Weather Slows Battle

Continued rains and heavy mud made the going slow in all sectors.

On the East Coast side, the 96th Infantry division west of Conical hill beat off a stiff Nipponese counter-attack, killing 150 of the foe.

Near the center of the line, 77th division troops attacked hills fronting fortress Shuri.

In the same general sector, the First Marine division repulsed a Japanese counter-attack.

In support of the Okinawa fighting, escort carrier planes of the Pacific fleet pounded airfields and installations in the Sakishima group, southern Ryukyus Tuesday and Wednesday. One enemy plane was set afire and five strafed on the ground.

Seach planes ranged north to Japan itself. Privateers and Liberators of fleet air wing 18 sank three small craft south of Tokyo and strafed radar equipment on the homeland island of Shikoku Tuesday. A search plane sank a net tender and small cargo ship off the Honshu coast and shot down a Japanese plane.

Tarakan Invasion Pays Allies Dividends

San Francisco, May 23 (AP)—The invasion of Tarakan Island by Australian and Dutch forces has already paid oil dividends to the Allied cause.

The Netherlands news agency, Aneta, in a dispatch from Tarakan, just off the northeast coast of Borneo, said Allied forces found 300 tons of paraffine refined from oil produced by Tarakan wells. The material, it added, was being used in connection with repair work on the Tarakan air field.

The Aneta dispatch added: "Even at this stage of the twelfth day of the battle of Tarakan—it is impossible to give an accurate estimate of damage done to Tarakan's oil installations by Allied air attacks and by Japanese scorched-earth policy. N.E.I. oil experts who landed here right behind Australian troops still are unable to give any approximate time schedule for resumption of production."

U. S. FORCES DRIVE TO SPLIT MINDANAO

Two Columns Are Eight Miles From a Junction on Plateau —Foe Battered on Luzon

MANILA, Thursday, May 24 (AP)—Converging American columns are only eight miles from a junction on the high plateau of north-central Mindanao, Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today. Their meeting with bisect the big island along the main north-south highway.

(AP) Fighting in the Manila watershed area increased in violence Monday as the 38th division, behind a tremendous fire-bomb air strike, drove to the junction of the Marikina and Bosoboso rivers and established a river line several miles in length.

Flame - throwing tanks added their destruction to that of hundreds of fighter planes which dropped jellied gasoline incendiaries as the infantrymen moved through acres of Japanese hillside positions.

Light Counter-Attacks

The Doughboys counted 136 Japanese dead during their push. The enemy tried several more night counterattacks, but only in small force.

Improvised weapons were effective in the mountain fighting. A medieval-type catapult hurled cans and barrels of jellied gasoline over ridges into Japanese-held gorges and against hillsides which planes had been unable to hit accurately.

Despite these fearsome weapons and thunderous artillery, the Japanese clung bitterly to their positions and fought back with what they had until they died.

In Central Mindanao, Gen. Douglas MacArthur Reported today, the 31st raced toward a juncture with the 40th and Americal divisions along the North-South Sayre highway as enemy resistance melted. They were only eight miles apart by Monday midnight.

Yanks of Maj. Gen. Clarence Martin's 31st division moved 10 miles north from captured Malaybalay to seize Dalwangan. The northern spearhead, composed of the 40th and Americal divisions, advanced several miles south of Maluko.

To the southwest, meantime, Maj. Gen. Roscoe Woodruff's 24th division pushed along the Davao gulf shore one mile to secure Tambungon and was closing in on the Lincanan Airdrome, the last in that sector still in enemy hands.

On Luzon island the reduction of enemy strongpoints in the mountainous Balete Pass proceeded under close air support. Planes dropped more than 300 tons of explosives in covering the ground operations.

Planes Start Fires

Patrol bombers at night bombed the Takao and Keeling airdrome areas of Formosa, starting large fires. Installations at Shanghai and Canton were heavily hit. A 5,000-ton freighter and another smaller cargo ship were sunk in that area and a number of large schooners damaged. Rail and highway targets at French Indo-China were other targets.

While mopping up proceeded on Australian-invaded Tarakan Island, off Borneo, heavy bombers pounded Brunei Bay, Emalak, Sandakan and Jesselton on the Borneo mainland, cratering runways, setting oil fires and destroying buildings.

Bombers sweeping East Indies waters sank three freighters and damaged four other vessels.

Australian troops on southern Bougainville island crossed the Hongorai River in force and captured strong enemy positions near Tohu, two miles behind Japanese defenses guarding the Buin road ford. This was executed with effective air support.

RIDGE IS TAKEN EAST OF MANILA

Flame Throwers Are Used to Burn Path for Yanks.

Manila, May 23 (A. P.).—Flame-throwing tanks used in the Luzon Island campaign for the first time led strong American ground forces in successfully storming a mountain ridge in the Manila watershed yesterday.

The new offensive tactics by Major Gen. William C. Chase's Thirty-eighth Division coincided with announcement of important advances on Mindano Island in the southern Philippines, topped by the Thirty-first Division's occupation of Malabalay.

Jungle growth was burned out of ravines and off hillsides as though swept by forest fires as the flame-throwing tanks led Thirty-eighth Division doughboys in a spectacular assault on Woodpecker Ridge. The ridge, for which the Yanks have been fighting for [illegible] took its name from enemy machine guns on it.

Rough Country for Tanks.

Tanks fanned down wooded draws which have been concealing enemy guns. Other tanks crashed in with direct gunfire while field artillery, anti-aircraft guns and precision dive bombers concentrated on the ridge. When the ridge was taken the Americans counted 330 Japs, raising the division's total to 16,334 since it opened the Bataan campaign nearly four months ago.

Woodpecker Ridge was the dominating height between the Thirty-eighth and the Marikina River and had been one of the main barriers in its drive to recapture Wawa Dam. Japs were still intrenched in lower ridges and mountains beyond the ridge.

Immediately to the north the Forty-third Division counted 300 dead making a toll of 1,964 trapped Japs who have been killed in that area.

Strong Jap defensive caves on a pock-marked ridge stalled the Twenty-fifth Division on the northern Luzon front. The ridge is just north of Balete Pass, American-held entrance to fertile Cagayam Valley. The ridge held out against four days of continuous assault.

Gains Made on Mindanao.

On Mindanao the Thirty-first Division liberated the Bukidnon provincial capital of Malaybalay, an agricultural and governmental center of 18,000 population. Its small airfield, of little military value, was overrun. Opposition was slight. Some enemy artillery shelling was received from hills which rise abruptly two miles northeast of the city.

To the south the Twenty-fourth Division, finding only moderate resistance, advanced four miles to within two miles of Licanan airdromes, the only airfield remaining in Jap hands in southeastern Mindanao. The Twenty-fourth occupied Ilang town on the northwest shore of Davao Gulf.

On the east coast of Luzon the First Cavalry Division gained two miles to take Port Real, on the coastal highway south of Inranta.

Air Action Drops Off.

Long-range aerial activity dropped off after six days of intensive blows across the China Sea. The heaviest bombing delivered by fifteen Liberators of the Thirteenth Air Force which, with a Lightning fighter cover, sank an 8,000-ton freighter-transport in Balikpapan Harbor, Eastern Borneo. Mitchell bombers sank three freighters, two of them at Balikpapan, and two small coastal vessels. A Fifth Air Force bomber destroyed a medium freighter Monday in Hangchow Bay, China.

Twenty Mitchell bombers raked targets on Formosa in a follow-up to Sunday's 250-plane assault on that oft-hit industrial island.

TYDINGS, OSMENA VISIT MACARTHUR

Committee Head And President Confer With Army Chief

Manila, May 23 (AP)—President Sergio Osmena of the Philippines commonwealth, and the Tydings senatorial investigating committee arrived here today to receive a gold-braided welcome headed by Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

The President and his family and Senator Tydings (D., Md.), head of the committee, hurried to the Malacanan palace from the airport, refusing [illegible] questions. Osmena said he would hold a press conference tomorrow.

Waits To Study Situation

Tydings said "no comment until I've studied the situation and conferred with President Osmena and General MacArthur."

Despite the brilliance of the reception as the officials stepped from their plane at Nichols Field the feeling of challenging political problems were present.

One of the first of American-Filipino leaders to greet Osmena was Brig. Gen. Manuel A. Roxas, considered one of the strongest men in current political affairs, although he has not officially announced his plans. It was the first meeting of these two political chiefs since they said farewell at an airfield on Mindanao, March 21, 1942, when Osmena departed for the United States and Roxas remained to be captured by the Japanese.

The men greeted each other soberly and simply said "Hello."

Test Of Strength Expected

Many observers expect a test of strength is imminent between them over the questions of treatment for collaborators. Roxas has opposed the current policy of eliminating from the Government and army jobs all who worked for the Japanese in any capacity.

Osmena likewise will face a demand for an immediate session of the Legislature, many members of which have been impatiently awaiting a first meeting since the liberation of the Philippines.

At a caucus this morning Jose Zulueta, of Iloilo, was elected speaker. He was on hand to greet the President. He said there are 73 assemblymen in Manila now, far more than needed for a quorum.

Independence Date Issue

Over everything hangs the question of the date for independence which was one of the purposes of Osmena's trip to Washington. Many Filipinos are skeptical of the desirability of immediate independence.

As the Osmena party left the airport General MacArthur told the President:

"I am anxious to see you when you get settled. Remember you can count on me."

THEY FLOORED BRIDGE PROBLEM

Manila, May 23 (A. P.).—Engineers of the Thirty-second Division finally solved the problem of putting the deck on a bridge over a small stream in northern Luzon, but that was only the beginning of their troubles.

The bridge was needed quickly. Engineers took the flooring of an abandoned house because it was the only adequate material available. As the fighting passed beyond, Filipinos drifted back, among them the family of the floorless house. The father promptly began removing the flooring from the bridge to his house. The engineers stopped that.

So that night the Filipinos moved onto the bridge and built a roof over it. The morning traffic found the family at breakfast on the bridge they had to cross. The engineers huddled with the family again and finally loaned the Filipinos tools and other supplies sufficient to build another house with a bamboo flooring, and everybody was happy.

Name Flyer Who Sank Whole Convoy

Manila, May 23 (A. P.).—It was Lieut. Warren R. Lasser of Waterloo, Iowa, pilot of a Navy Mariner plane, who annihilated a five-ship Jap convoy off the northern tip of Formosa, Seventh Fleet Headquarters disclosed today. The attack took place the night of May 18 and was announced by Gen. Douglas MacArthur in his communique May 21. At that time he did not disclose the name of the pilot.

JURY DUTY LOOKS GOOD FROM CEBU

With the Americal Division, Cebu, Philippines, May 23 (A. P.).—When Pfc. Eugene Weidman of 603 Midwood street, Brooklyn, opened a letter recently he found inclosed a summons to report for jury duty in Brooklyn or pay a $250 fine.

But the specified date had already passed and anyhow the Army had other plans for Weidman.

"Well, at least sending a summons to G. I.'s overseas is one way to make jury duty attractive," he commented.

Pfc. Weidman's brother, Morris, who lives at 605 Midwood street, Brooklyn, said today that Pfc. Weidman had written to him about the incident and he had written to the Commissioner of Juries.

"I wrote that my brother would be very happy to serve on a jury, if transportation could be arranged so that he could get back to Brooklyn," Weidman stated." It's a wonderful idea but I have my doubts as to whether the Commissioner will feel it his patriotic duty."

Pfc. Weidman, he said, is 29 years old and entered the Army in June, 1943. He went overseas in September last with the Signal Corps.

SUICIDE PLANES JAPS' LAST HOPE

Arms Expert Puts Dependence On Them For Victory

San Francisco, May 23 (AP)—Japanese heard today they must depend upon suicide planes for victory.

This view, expressed in an interview by Lieut. Gen. Reikichi Tada, head of the cabinet board of technology, was broadcast by the Tokyo radio, which also reported bombardment of coastal positions on Paramushiro, in the northern Kuriles, by an Allied surface force late Sunday.

The Tokyo radio said the bombarding force entered Suribachi Bay in southern Paramushiro but retired within 20 minutes when the island garrison "promptly launched counterattacks." There was no confirmation.

Called Arms Expert

When he assumed the presidency of the board yesterday, Tada was described by Radio Tokyo as "a great authority on the matter of arms manufacture and chemical elements."

Tada told the Japanese press that the board would devote "its main energies to one problem—namely, the improvement of technique for special attack corps (suicide) planes."

"I honestly believe," he continued, "that there is no other way to overcome the present war crisis. . . . The study of new 'sure-hit, sure-live' weapons is proceeding apace. It is all the more fortunate that the enemy is unable to infuse the spirit of our special attack corps even though he tries."

To Give Employers Power

Another Domei transmission, also recorded by the FCC, said the Government would promulgate tomorrow an ordinance empowering employes to assume quasi-military control over their employés.

This move to bolster Japan's war production under the mounting American air raids, Domei said, would authorize employers, if they see fit, to disregard "any existing regulations concerning hours of work and rest periods or other regulations affecting employment."

The measure requires employers to utilize any leisure time of war workers "which may result from the factory being destroyed or being subjected to other disasters."

'20-Odd' B-29's Over Kyushu, Japs Say

San Francisco, May 23 (AP)—An unconfirmed enemy report that "twenty odd" B-29's were over Kyushu, southernmost of the Japanese home islands, early today was broadcast by Tokyo radio.

The Japanese Domei news agency was quoted in the broadcast as saying some raiders "are believed to have sown mines in the Kanmon Straits" but left open the possibility that some land targets were attacked.

Kuriles, Okinawa Bombarded, Japs Say

San Francisco, May 23 (AP)—American naval bombardments of the Kurile islands north of Japan and Okinawa Island to the south were reported today by Tokyo radio.

A broadcast recorded by the Federal Communications Commission said "small warships and five surface craft" entered Suribachi Bay on Paramurshro, northernmost Kurile Island, Sunday and shelled the shore for twenty minutes.

"Small islands" off Nakagushuku Bay on southern Okinawa were bombarded today, Tokyo said, as the United States 7th Division advanced down the shores of the bay.

Japan Demands U.S. Apology

San Francisco, May 23 (AP)—The Japanese Government demanded the United States "apologize to Japan" for the purported sinking of the relief ship Awa Maru, "punish those persons responsible" and pay indemnity, the Nipponese Domei News Agency reported today.

In a broadcast it quoted Sadao Iguchi, propaganda spokesman, as saying that the demand asked "an indemnity for the loss of lives of the crew and passengers, for injury done to the survivors and for loss of the vessel," which, Japan claims, was sunk by an American submarine.

Aussies Capture Last Wewak Fort

San Francisco, May 23 (A. P.).—Australian troops have captured Cape Moen, last of the former Jap strongholds in the Wewak area of northern New Guinea, the Melbourne radio reported today.

Cabinet Shifts Hailed by Labor And Congress

Republicans Cheer Merger of Agriculture and W.F.A. Posts; Anderson Lauded

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP).—In Congress and labor circles, President Truman's Cabinet changes met favorable response today.

First reaction to the broadest Cabinet reorganization in years augured well for the appointments when names for the three Westerners go before the Senate for confirmation.

A Republican cheer went up quickly for the move to combine the duties of Agriculture Secretary with those of War Food Administrator under Representative Clinton P. Anderson, New Mexico Democrat.

"That's exactly what we've been advocating for two years," asserted Representative Thomas A. Jenkins, Republican, of Ohio, chairman of the unofficial Republican Congressional food committee.

"I am glad the President got around to putting the authority in one man. If it had been done two years ago the food situation today would be much better. I hope Mr. Anderson will be given full authority to do the job."

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, expressed "confidence and satisfaction" in the appointment of Judge Lewis B. Schwellenbach to succeed Frances Perkins as Secretary of Labor.

Phillip Murray, head of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, was en route to Pittsburgh, but others connected with the C. I. O. indicated satisfaction with Mr. Schwellenbach's record in the Senate.

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, could not be reached at once but associates expressed doubt he would comment.

Mr. Anderson's appointment will make certain extension of price-control legislation in the opinion of Senator Edwin C. Johnson, Democrat, of Colorado. Some threatening clouds had gathered around the legislation. The Senate Banking and Currency subcommittee handling it has scheduled a meeting for Friday.

"Anderson certainly is an able man," Senator Johnson commented. "He'll storm around and get the job done."

Selection of Tom C. Clark as Attorney General was hailed by a fellow Texan, Speaker Sam Rayburn, Democrat, as "a fine appointment. He is an able warrior. He will make an outstanding Attorney General."

Senator Walter F. George, Democrat, of Georgia, declared Mr. Clark is "level-headed and a good administrator. His appointment is satisfactory with me in every way."

Congressmen from Judge Schwellenbach's home state of Washington expressed gratification that the West should be given the Cabinet places.

PRESIDENT ALSO SIGNALS ATTACK ON FOOD PROBLEM

Clark Succeeds Biddle; Schwellenbach Replaces Mrs. Perkins.

2 JOBS FOR ANDERSON

New Secretary of Agriculture Will Also Be Food Administrator.

By ERNEST B. VACCARO

WASHINGTON, May 23 — (AP) President Truman shook up his cabinet today by naming three new members and signalled a new, streamlined attack on the nation's No. 1 home front problem — food shortages.

The new cabinet members:

Attorney General—Tom C. Clark, succeeding Francis Biddle. Clark, 45-year-old Texan, is now assistant attorney general.

Secretary of Agriculture — Rep. Judge Lewis B. Schwellenbach, former Democratic senator from Washington. He succeeds Miss Frances Perkins.

Secretar yof Agriculture — Rep. Clinton P. Anderson, New Mexico Democrat, succeeding Claude R. Wickard.

Anderson Food Administrator

Mr. Truman disclosed that Anderson also will become War Food Administrator when Marvin Jones steps out of that position June 30 to resume his position as judge of the Court of Claims.

Anderson heads the House Food committee which has been critical of government food policy and has been calling for a new, coordinated attack. The fact that he was put into the twin posts of Agriculture secretary and War Food Administrator was taken to mean that new measures to combat food problems are in store.

On May 2 the House committee urged the President, among other things to coordinate the program from grower to consumer to break up black markets and ease shortages.

It advocated top priority for farmers in the matter of manpower and machinery, revised price policies to assure profits to producers and distributors, and special inducements to ward off threats of developing black markets in eggs and sugar.

Wickard to Run REA

Wickard, the retiring Agriculture secretary, has been picked as Rural Electrification Administrator, the President also disclosed at his busiest news conference yet, a session lasting less than 15 minutes. This is the post for which the Senate recently rejected Aubrey Williams, former head of the National Youth Administration.

The extent of the sweeping changes in Mr. Truman's official family was greater than had been generally expected today. The White House had reported earlier that the President would have an announcement respecting Biddle's resignation.

As reporters streamed into the Oval Room, they were greeted by the President's announcement that he had some cabinet changes to report. He started rattling them off in rapid-fire order, reading from both the letters of resignation and his replies.

The President said he had planned to appoint Rep. Anderson as Agriculture secretary even before the House committee's reports were published, but he added that the reports would help solve agricultural problems.

The resignation of Marvin Jones as WFA administrator, to become effective not later than June 30 the President said, paves the way for the merger of that post with that of Agriculture secretary.

This was a course Jones recommended to the President when he asked to be relieved of his job in order to return to the United States Court of Claims from which he has had a leave of absence.

Jones wrote that while there was logic in having an independent War Food Administration during the two-front war, the defeat of Germany makes possible the merger of the two posts and probably will result in expenditure of less money.

Though there have been some differences in the past between Mr. Truman and Biddle over federal appointments in Missouri, they were not reflected in the exchange of letters between the two.

Biddle, who has served as attorney general nearly four years, and prior to that time as solicitor general, wrote the President that the relation of the holder of his post to the President is "a particularly personal one and I think the time has come when you will wish to choose your own attorney general."

Biddle Pledges Support

Biddle closed by pledging his support and expressing "admiration and praise for the courageous and wise manner" in which the President has undertaken his great responsibilities.

The President replied by expressing appreciation for Biddle's services during the war and during the preparation of war and adding:

"I shall always look back with pleasure upon my association with you while I was in the Senate as well as during the past months."

All Quit June 30

The President added that he wanted to cousult Biddle in the future whenever the occasion arose. The resignation, like those of Miss Perkins and Judge Jones, is effective June 30.

Miss Perkins, one of the original members of the Roosevelt cabinet, wrote that during her more than 12 years as labor secretary, a large part "of the programs I have long hoped to see inaugurated have been established."

She added that when one party has been in office for a long time she thought it was desirable "that a variety of talents be brought into the service of the government."

The President replied that during her administration "unsurpassed progress in position, influence and prestige, has been made by American organized labor."

"During this period," he wrote her, "Such far reaching legislation as the fair labor standards act, the national labor relations act and the social security act have been enacted—carrying out the social philosophy you have so often expressed."

The President also wrote Wickard that under his administration as Agriculture Secretary the nation's farmers had performed "miracles of production" and thanked him for consenting to remain as rural electrification administrator.

Legislation to divorce the REA from the Department of Agriculture is now pending in Congress. The President has never expressed himself on this legislation.

Ickes Lone Surviver

The President indicated that today's cabinet changes may be the last for some time. They leave Secretary of Interior Ickes as the only remaining member of the original Roosevelt cabinet of 12 years ago.

Mr. Truman flatly stated that he had not received any new offer of resignation from Henry Morgenthau, Jr., Secretary of the Treasury, and added that he would not have accepted it if the latter had made the offer.

He also said he did not plan any changes in the State department, presided over by Secretary Edward R. Stettinius, Jr.

Schwellenbach long had been rumored as the President's likely choice for Labor secretary. He and the President are old friends and he recently visited Mr. Truman at the Blair House when the President made his temporary living quarters there. The two were sworn in as senators on the same day.

Mr. Truman had opportunity for close association with Clark, assistant to the attorney general in charge of the criminal division, during his chairmanship of the Senate War Investigating committee. The committee was in frequent consultation with Clark over cases referred to the criminal division growing out of committee inquiries.

Brief Sketches Of Men Named To the Cabinet

Clark, Schwellenbach and Anderson All Have Given Service at Washington

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP).—The three new members President Truman will nominate for his Cabinet:

Tom C. Clark

Genial six-foot Tom C. Clark, of Dallas, Tex., didn't know until this morning he was to be named Attorney General.

The dark-haired, smiling Texan, forty-five, who has been an assistant in the department he now will lead, said President Truman informed him of the appointment when he called at the White House this morning.

As soon as he left the President's office, Mr. Clark called his wife, Mary Jane, to let her know the news.

The son of a well known Texas lawyer who died several years ago, Mr. Clark was married in 1924 to Mary Jane Ramsey, daughter of the late W. F. Ramsey, once a member of the Texas State Supreme Court.

Mr. Clark has two children, William Ramsey, seventeen, and Mildred, twelve.

Although he was the immediate successor to Thurman Arnold in the anti-trust division of the Justice Department and has been outspoken against practices he deemed monopolistic, it remained to be seen whether he would maintain the prosecution pace set by Attorney General Frances Biddle.

Mr. Clark was educated at Virginia Military Institute and the University of Texas and was engaged in private law practice in Dallas from 1922 to 1927. He was Civil District Attorney for Dallas County from 1927 to 1932.

After holding various positions in the Justice Department, he succeeded Mr. Arnold as head of the anti-trust division in March, 1943. In August of the same year he became Assistant Attorney General in charge of the criminal division.

Lewis B. Schwellenbach

Federal Judge Lewis B. Schwellenbach, fifty, who today was named to be Secretary of Labor, is a close friend of President Truman and was an intimate of the late President Roosevelt.

While serving in the Senate from 1934 to 1940, he frequently was called to White House conferences with President Roosevelt and made several yacht trips on the Potomac with the Chief Executive.

He and President Truman were sworn into the Senate together and were members of a group of five who worked closely together in legislation.

While a Senator, Mr. Schwellenbach was a consistent supporter of the program of the late President Roosevelt, including labor legislation. He voted for such measures as the Wagner act and the wage-hour act.

His stand with labor was indicated during the last general election when, he said, both American Federation of Labor and Congress of Industrial Organizations leaders in Washington State urged him to run for Governor or for the Senate. He declined.

Outstanding among his activities during his six years in the Senate was his personal campaign, as a member of the Foreign Relations Committee, to prevent the sale of scrap iron to Japan. He sponsored legislation to prevent such shipments and spoke often on the Senate floor and over the country from early 1937 on urging that action be taken.

Chief among his interests outside of public life has been education. A graduate of the University of Washington Law School in 1917, he taught in the university's department of liberal arts during that year. He served as president of the board of Washington State College from 1941 to 1944. Last September he was appointed dean of the Gonzaga University Law School in Spokane.

Clinton P. Anderson

Clinton P. Anderson, forty-nine-year-old New Mexico Congressman appointed Secretary of Agriculture today by President Truman, is an exponent of "abundant production" of food.

As chairman of the special House committee which has been struggling with the problems of food shortages, he recently told a reporter: "The way to kill off the black markets and food-price inflation is abundant production, and the time to plan abundant production is now."

Mr. Anderson also has advocated co-ordination of the entire war-food program. President Truman made a move in that direction today by merging the War Food Administration with the Agriculture Department.

Mr. Anderson was born in Centerville, S. D., Oct. 23, 1895, the son of a Swedish immigrant.

He owns farms in South Dakota and New Mexico, is president of the Mountain States Mutual Casualty Company, of Albuquerque, N. M., and is a former president of Rotary International.

Mr. Anderson was in charge of rural rehabilitation and relief in New Mexico during the 1930s. He was elected to Congress in 1941 as one of his state's two at-large House members.

He and Mrs. Anderson have two children, Corporal Sherbe Anderson, twenty, stationed at Camp Carter, Mo., and Nancy Anderson, fifteen, a student at Mt. Vernon Seminary, Washington.

As a farmer his principal operation is an 800-acre irrigated farm in New Mexico, where he engages in a large dairy operation.

Mr. Anderson never has been engaged in organization work in agriculture and is not a member of any one of the national farm organizations.

Gas Rations Increased For Civilian Motorists

'A' Coupons to Be Boosted to Six Gallons; 'B' Card Ceilings Raised.

WASHINGTON, May 23 — (AP) Gasoline rations for America's civilian motorists were ordered increased tonight as a result of victory in Europe.

Effective June 22, the A card value will increase 50 per cent, from four to six gallons. On June 11 B card ceiling will be increased to 650 miles per month throughout the country.

At present, the B card ceilings differ in various sections, being 325 miles a month in the East, 475 in the midwest, and 400 in the far west.

Not all B cards will rate an increase. It will be necessary for holders of these cards to show their local rationing boards that they have a real need for more gasoline than they are now using.

The Petroleum Administrator for War and the Office of Price Administrator issued the glad tidings to motorists in these words:

"The value of A coupons will be increased from four to six gallons on June 22, when coupon A-16 becomes valid. B card ceilings will be raised to 650 miles per month uniformly over the country on June 11."

Petrolium Administrator Ickes said:

"This is the first time since July, 1941, when we first called upon the public to restrict its use of gasoline, that I have had the satisfaction of reversing the process and providing more for civilians. We in the petroleum administration have looked forward to this day for a long time, and victory in Europe together with the amazing performance of the petroleum industry makes it now possible. This supply is distributed equitably across the country. Every state in the union now receives the same treatment."

Chester Bowles, OPA administrator, said, "I share with the Petroleum Administration the pleasure of announcing increases in gas rations for the civilian motorists.

"The car owner who has had only the A ration during the war period has been severely limited in the use of his car. That is why we are particularly pleased that there will be enough gasoline to increase his ration by 50 per cent starting June 22. B and C card holders, also, of course, have an A ration.

"I must make it very clear, however, that the increase in the B ceiling will not mean more gasoline for all B users. Both B and C rations are based on the individual needs of the car owner. Many B ration holders now have all the gasoline they need. Unfortunately there is not enough gasoline to give these people more than the increase in their A rations. They will not receive any more gasoline as a result of the increase in the B ration ceiling. But those who do need more gasoline will be able to get it by applying to their local war price and rationing board after June 11 and showing their need for it up to a ceiling of 650 miles a month."

PRIORITY ORDERED ON RELIEF SUPPLIES

Washington, May 23 (A. P.).—The Government today undertook to provide liberated Europe's minimum civilian needs with official assurance this action will help speed Allied troops to the Pacific.

President Truman directed the four agencies controlling food, fuel, production and exports to grant priority on such shipments to the extent possible without harming the war effort or impairing the domestic economy. Mr. Truman referred to the friendly nations of northwestern Europe.

War Production Board spokesmen quickly followed yesterday's presidential order with a pledge that manufacture of relief goods will ge[illegible]r priority proved necessa[illegible]umably this will be the [illegible]ng given "essential req[illegible]s" of civilians at home.

Foreign Economic Administrator Leo T. Crowley, who controls exports, simultaneously reported to Congress that France, Belgium and Holland were supplying ports, warehouses, transportation, factories and the services of thousands of laborers, under reverse lend-lease, to the Allied armies.

Railroad locomotives, rails, repair parts for rolling stock, farm machinery and industrial equipment are likely to be the major "hard goods" needs of Europe, said John D. Small, WPB chief of staff.

Oversea Hotse Junkets Are Called Off

Washington, May 23 (AP)—House leaders called a halt today to proposed overseas inspection jaunts of several Congressmen.

The crackdown was reported by members of a group scheduled to leave this week for Europe. Some had made all preparations, including required immunization "shots."

They said Speaker Rayburn (D., Texas) had asked them "politely, but firmly" to call off their tour "while important business is before the House."

"Not Elected To Tour Europe"

In addition, House Majority Whip Ramspeck (Ga.), whose duty it is to round up members for important votes, issued a statement criticizing the touring legislators.

"There are about fifteen House members now in Europe who ought to be here for important votes," he declared. "They were not elected to Congress for the purpose of touring Europe."

The controversial reciprocal trade bill is now before the chamber and the Bretton Woods monetary agreement is expected to come up soon. Also, several appropriation bills must be cleared before the fiscal year ends June 30.

Says Truman Approved

The cancellation move came only a few days after Representative Dondero (R., Mich.), one of those set to go, reported that President Truman had given the overseas trips his blessing. Dondero said the President told him the jaunts would be "helpful" in giving members a chance to study conditions in war-torn lands.

Representative Wickersham (D., Okla.), another who had his plans changed, said Rayburn agreed with Mr. Truman but was opposed to having the trips interfere with key legislation.

He said he was certain Mr. Truman held the same belief.

Later Trips Held Probable

"Accordingly, we have called off our trip," Wickersham said. "However, when the House calendar gets clear again we hope to still arrange to go."

Representative Merrow (R., H.N.) commented that "we Republicans who planned to go could have gone without the Democrats I suppose, but we decided to wait, too, in view of the important business before the House."

A group of senators was reported still planning to leave this week, despite the House move.

GEN. HODGES BACK IN U.S.

Georgia To Give Official Reception To 1st Army Chief

New York, May 23 (AP)—Gen. Courtney H. Hodges, the Georgian whose troops led all others across the Rhine after a dramatic sweep through France and Belgium into Germany, said today practically all of his staff officers will accompany him to the war in the Pacific.

The General, who worked his way through the ranks from buck private in a 40-year army career, arrived today aboard an Army Transport Command plane en route from Paris to Atlanta, where he will be given an official welcome.

Hodges said he expected a "tough" fight for the Pacific-bound units of his veteran 1st Army when they meet the Japanese.

To Return To Nagasaki

But the Perry (Ga.) native avoided speculating on when he expected to return to Nagasaki, Japanese city, where he spent three days some time before the war.

"I don't know—the sooner the better," he said.

General Hodges said it was difficult to state which divisions of his command would see Pacific action.

"They're all good," he commented.

Hodges said he would leave tomorrow to visit Perry and Atlanta, Ga., and that immediately afterward he would go to Washington to prepare for the Pacific campaign.

No Tricks Up Sleeve

The General wore a plain brown uniform, including a battle jacket with rows of campaign ribbons and a 1st Army blue "A" as a shoulder patch. His gray hair and cropped gray mustache were in sharp contrast to his deeply tanned and lined face.

"I have no tricks up my sleeve," Hodges answered when asked whether he had any "new surprises for the Japanese."

Among the officers who accompanied Hodges from Paris were: Lieut. Gen. Lewis H. Brereton, commander of the Allied 1st Airborne Army; Lieut. Gen. Walton H. Walker, Washington, D.C.; Brig. Gen. Doyle O. Hickey; Maj. Gen. S. E. Anderson, Alexandria, Va.; Brig. Gen. H. B. Thatcher, Chevy Chase, Md., and Lieut. Gerald Reeves, Lonaconing, Md.

Atlanta Prepared For Hodges

Atlanta, May 23 (AP)—Tomorrow's the day for the official welcoming of Georgia's Gen. Courtney H. Hodges and Atlanta is looking for the biggest "time out" since "Gone with the Wind" was premiered here.

The Perry (Ga.) here will be accompanied by five generals, Mayor William B. Hartsfield, general chairman of the ceremonies announced yesterday. They are:

Lieut. Gen. Lewis H. Brereton, commander of the Allied 1st Airborne Army; Lieut. Gen. Troy H. Middleton, commander of the 8th Army Corps; Maj. Gen. John B. Anderson, commander of the 16th Army Corps; Maj. Gen. Ira Wyche, commander of the 79th Infantry Division, and Brig. Gen. Doyle O. Hickey, commander of the 3d Armored Division.

Half Holiday For Schools

Atlanta schools and stores will observe a half holiday to join throngs viewing the 40-car parade which will proceed from the municipal airport to a downtown hotel.

Thirty-six P-40's will be overhead during the parade and above the P-40's will be a formation of B-29's.

At the hotel a cannon salute will be given. After that, the officers and men will have an opportunity to greet their families. The Army has engaged 50 rooms and suites for the party.

ARMY TO RELEASE MANY OFFICERS

Washington, May 23 (A. P.).—The Army expects to release, under the point system proportionately as many officers as enlisted men. This means, roughly, that one officer will get out of service for every nine enlisted men discharged. Approximately 1,300,000 officers and men will be released this year under the point system.

However, point scoring is secondary in determining whether any individual officer will be released after he attains the necessary 85 points. His particular value to the Army takes precedence over his score. Some eligible for release may be kept in service as a "military necessity."

The War Department explains that the stricter plan for release of officers was adopted primarily because they had received additional training, have greater responsibilities and have developed specialized skills and leadership ability. They must be handled more on an individual, rather than a group basis.

A theater commander may decide that an officer is surplus and should be released, but this decision is subject to review by the commanders of the ground, air and service forces under the general supervision of the War Department. In other words, if the officer's abilities are needed elsewhere he will be retained regardless of his point score.

However, the Department said that special consideration for discharge will be given to officers who have had long overseas and combat service. Another factor, too, may be the officer's desire to stay in the Army.

Ask Army to Release Railroad Workers

Washington, May 23 (A. P.).—The War Manpower Commission's national management-labor committee today urged release from the Army of former railroad workers so they could return to their old jobs. A resolution adopted by the committee asked the War Department to "screen and demobilize" soldiers who formerly were railroad workers. The resolution was sent to Paul V. McNutt, chairman of the WMC, for his action.

Dr. J. H. Parmelee, director of the Bureau of Railway Economics, Association of American Railroads, a management member of the committee, told the committee that demands on the railroads will continue heavy for many months to come. He reported an increase in movement of war materials to the West Coast has already started and will increase rapidly.

Reverse Help Reported By Crowley

Washington, May 23 (AP)—The Government today undertook to provide liberated Europe's minimum civilian needs, with official assurance that this action will help speed Allied troops to the Pacific.

President Truman directed the four agencies controlling food, fuel, production and exports to grant priority on such shipments to the extent possible without harming the war effort or impairing the domestic economy. Mr. Truman referred to the friendly nations of northwestern Europe.

Will Be Given Preference

War Production Board spokesmen quickly followed yesterday's presidential order with a pledge that manufacture of relief goods will get whatever priority proved necessary.

Presumably this will be the same rating given "essential requirements" of civilians at home. He said the relatively small quantities to be shipped would impose no substantial burden on the domestic economy.

Foreign Economic Administrator Leo T. Crowley, who controls exports, simultaneously reported to Congress that France, Belgium and Holland—among the war-ravished countries—were supplying ports, warehouses, transportation, factories and the services of thousands of laborers, under reverse lend-lease, to the Allied armies.

Called Necessary

These will be used for the transhipment of men, supplies and weapons to the Pacific battle zones, he said, adding:

"The continued shipment of food, medical and other essential civilian supplies to these countries is required, in support of these military activities, to prevent starvation and extreme hardship."

To meet the food needs of Europe, the Government already has acknowledged, will need sacrifice on the part of American civilians. Ration cuts in sugar, fats and oils ordered earlier this month were attributed in large part to the needs of hungry Europe.

Decent Diet Promised

The interagency committee on exports, headed by Crowley and responsible for deciding the volume of overseas shipments, nevertheless promised that "a decent American diet will be maintained."

Coal may prove an equally grave problem, in view of a sizable world deficit and predictions that next winter will be the coldest of the war for the liberated peoples.

Gravity of the clothing supply problem depends largely on the speed which Europe's textile industry is rehabilitated.

Presumably the shipments for northwestern Europe will go in two ways:

Under lend-lease, as provided by recent agreements reserving this country's rights to withhold supplies whenever it is in the national interest.

Under direct sale, the method by which Holland and Belgium have been placing sizable orders.

Major "Hard Goods"

Railroad locomotives, rails, repair parts for rolling stock, farm machinery, and industrial equipment are likely to be the major "hard goods" needs of Europe, said John D. Small, WPB chief of staff.

The quantities so far requested, Small said, are slight in comparison with this country's industrial potential and their export should not retard reconversion in any appreciable degree.

85% Of Draftees Seen As Being Youths 18

Washington, May 23 (AP)—An army officer predicted today that by fall youths turning 18 will probably be filling 85 per cent of draft calls.

This official, qualified by his position to speak authoritatively, made the prediction after noting Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey's estimate that 18-year-olds will make up only 45 per cent of the July call for 90,000 men.

That percentage, the army officer said, is "too conservative" for the succeeding months, assuming the call remains at about the same level.

Big Increase Foreseen

Asserting the total of 18-year-olds will increase from about 40,500 in July to about 78,000 thereafter, he explained it this way:

The navy, which expects to reach peak strength in July, has been enlisting large numbers of 17-year-olds, thus sharply reducing the total of youths 18 available for the draft.

This drain from potential selective service rolls will be largely eliminated when the Navy goes on a replacement basis, the official predicted, adding that this will ease the pressure considerably on registrants through 29 years old.

Hershey yesterday made it clear that in July at least these men under 30 will make up nearly all of the remaining 55 per cent of the reduced call, which at 90,000 men will be 25 per cent lower than at present.

Plans For Men Over 30

He announced an indefinite deferment for all men 30 and over who stay in "useful" work. This, Hershey explained, results from the war's end in Europe and the services' needs for younger men.

As has been the case with men 34 through 37, registrants 30 through 33 now need only be engaged in work that draft boards—instructed to be liberal-minded—consider important. They no longer are required to be "necessary men," as well to be eligible for occupational deferment.

Hershey especially urged "sympathetic consideration" for fathers who have reached the thirtieth birthday. He told local boards to give them the benefit of any doubt and to think twice about the cost to the Government of dependency allotments.

HOPKINS LEAVES TO VISIT MOSCOW

WASHINGTON, May 23.—(AP) Harry L. Hopkins, ailing confidant of presidents and premiers, tonight was embarked on a new mission to Moscow to tackle unsettled issues between the United States and Russia.

In a surprise announcement, the White House made known that President Truman had sent Hopkins in company with Ambassador Averell Harriman to the Russian capital "to converse with Marshal Stalin upon matters now in discussion between the Soviet government and the government of the United States."

Simultaneously it was announced that Joseph E. Davies, former ambassador to Moscow, would leave immediately for London, there "to discuss with Prime Minister Churchill and other members of the British government certain matters of common interest to the United States and Great Britain arising out of the war."

Hopkins, one time Roosevelt Commerce secretary and WPA head, was perhaps the late President's most intimate adviser but there had been no advance hint that he was to be chosen by Mr. Truman for such a major assignment.

He has met Stalin on several occasions and the two are said to get along very well together. He accompanied Mr. Roosevelt to many international meetings, including the last Big-Three meeting at Yalta.

Recently he has been recovering from a recurring stomach ailment.

Davies served as ambassador to Moscow after a diplomatic assignment in Belgium and later made two visits to the Russian capital on special missions for Mr. Roosevelt.

HOSPITAL DATA TURNED DOWN

House Veteran Body Rejects Second-hand Information.

Washington, May 23 (A. P.).—An offer by Albert Q. Maisel to give second-hand information about alleged physical mistreatment of war veterans was turned down, temporarily at least, today by the House Veterans Committee.

Representative Rankin (D.-Miss.), chairman, told reporters later that Maisel, New York author of magazine articles criticizing the Veterans Administration, might be allowed to give the information when the committee meets again tomorrow.

Maisel emphasized that his information concerning the alleged beating of patients in veterans' hospitals was second-hand, having come from relatives of veterans.

The subject was sidetracked when Representative Gibson (D., Ga.) asserted that the testimony would be of no value unless Maisel had first-hand knowledge of mistreatment.

The witness read into the record a press release from the Veterans' Administration last November which said there was some subsantiation to charges of abuses at the Veterans Hospital at Lyons, N. J. Despite the administration's contention that corrective measures had been taken at Lyons, Maisel said, the employees responsible had not been discharged when he visited the hospital several months later.

Northport Hospital Mentioned.

Maisel, discussing conditions at the Northport, N. Y., hospital, said that it was "a terrible thing" that veterans of the second world war received "such a low level" of medical treatment "even in New York."

Rankin accused Maisel of attempting to smear the committee by the remark. The committee adjourned without taking any action in the case of Albert Deutsch, New York reporter, against whom it instituted contempt proceedings last week for refusal to disclose news sources. Rankin notified Deutsch that he could return to New York but suggested that he hold himself in readiness for further committee inquiry.

WAR HERO'S DATE FLIES TO CAPITAL

Washington, May 23 (A. P.)—A grinning young sergeant from Lucedale, Miss., and a pretty blonde from Lexington, Mass., were the capital's favorite sightseers today. They were Technical Sergt. Jake W. (Bill) Lindsey, winner of the Congressional Medal of Honor, and the girl he left behind four years ago, Miss Beverly Hargreaves.

Beverly missed the ceremony on Capitol Hill Monday when President Truman presented the nation's highest military honor to the boy she met at Fort Devens, Mass.

Nineteen-year-old Beverly and her father, James R. Hargreaves, arrived by plane at the National Airport this morning to meet not only the sergeant but a battery of reporters and photographers. Their plans? "Well, we're going to do quite a bit of sightseeing," said Beverly. "Because we never seen Washington before. And in a couple of days, Bill is coming up to visit me."

Bill's girl met his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jake Lindsey, for the first time today. At the airport to greet her was the sergeant's sister, Mrs. Pauline Smith, who came up with her parents for the Capitol Hill ceremony.

The sergeant has a thirty-day furlough in which to decide whether he will remain in the Army or return to civilian life.

Himmler's 'Reliability' Conceded By Truman

Washington, May 23 (AP)—President Truman told his news conference today that his record verification of Adolf Hitler's death was based on a report by Heinrich Himmler.

Questioned as to the basis for his assertion some weeks ago that he was convinced of Hitler's death, the President replied:

Himmler, head of the Nazi Gestapo, had told our minister in Sweden that Hitler had suffered a stroke and had only 24 hours to live.

No Other Substantiation

Then he evoked a round of laughter by asserting that when Himmler ever said a man had 24 hours to live that's about how long the man has lived.

The President added, however, that he had no further substantiation of the Führer's death or the circumstances under which he died.

Truman Reported Backing Aid To China

Washington, May 23 (AP)—President Truman today was reported as determined to see that China gets as "much assistance as possible" in her war with Japan.

Representative Mike Mansfield (D., Mont.) described Mr. Truman's attitude after discussing the Chinese situation with the President for 25 minutes today.

Mansfield, who served as a personal observer for the late President Roosevelt in the India-China-Burma theater, told reporters Mr. Truman "wanted to get all the information he could on China to bring his study up to date."

The Montanan predicted yesterday that Russia would join the war against Japan. He added at that tim ethat unless China was unified soon such a development might split China into two separate states, one allied to Russia and the other, "in a sense, anti-Russian."

Russ To Get Lend-Lease During May, Says Truman

Washington, May 23 (AP)—President Truman told his news conference today that lend-lease to Russia will continue during May, when the last lend-lease protocol with Russia expires.

Asked whether lend-lease would continue to the Soviets after expiration of the protocol, Mr. Truman suggested that we wait to see what the situation is then.

He expressed belief the matter would be handled in a manner satisfactory to the United States and the peace of the world.

A reporter wanted to know if lend-lease could continue to go to countries not at war with Japan. The President replied in the affirmative, adding present commitments can be carried out.

House Urges U.S. Join Cultural Organization

Washington, May 23 (AP)—The House believes the United States should participate in an international educational and cultural organization.

It passed without debate yesterday a resolution by Representative Mundt (R., S.D.) which urges the United States to join other nations in exchanging students and educational and cultural leaders.

Vote To Rescind Deutsch Contempt Action Seen

Washington, May 23 (AP)—The House Veterans Committee all but abandoned today its attempt to have a newspaper reporter punished for refusing to name his news sources.

Just how the group would dispose of the case of Albert Deutsch was a matter of speculation. Indications were, however, it would vote formally to rescind the contempt action it started last Friday against the 39-year-old reporter for the New York newspaper PM.

Chairman Rankin (D., Miss.) declined to discuss his next move, but told reporters nothing would be done until the committee had been consulted further. Earlier, Rankin had said he would ask the House this week to urge the Federal District Court to punish Deutsch.

Questioning Of Writer

The committee, investigating the Veterans Administration, today was to continue questioning Albert Q. Maisel, New York writer. Maisel and Deutsch wrote articles for different publications criticizing the veterans' medical program.

In a four-hour session yesterday, Maisel reviewed criticisms he had made in magazine articles after a first-hand inspection of veterans' hospitals. He acknowledged that some of his statements could not be proved factually, but insisted all his charges were based on conditions as he found them.

Congressman Reports Cruiser Houston Hit

Washington, May 23 (AP)—Representative Albert F. Thomas (D., Texas) said tonight the cruiser Houston was damaged severely by torpedoes off Borneo and is being repaired at the Brooklyn Navy Yard.

Thomas said the warship launched less than two years ago was hit by two torpedoes, presumably aerial.

Both struck below the water line, tearing off 50 feet of the stern, including turbines and rudder gear, crippling the big vessel so severely she had to be towed to drydock, the Congressman said.

The Navy Department declined comment.

Dempsey To Tour In War Bond Drive

Washington, May 23 (AP)—Commander Jack Dempsey, just back from Okinawa, is starting out to tell American workers how their weapons and war-bond money are being used to whip Japan.

Ted R. Gamble, directing the seventh War Loan drive, announced today that the former heavyweight boxing champion will open a speaking tour Friday at Chicago.

Dempsey, in the Coast Guard, has made a 68,000-mile air tour of the fighting fronts. He went ashore from an assault transport in the first landing on Okinawa.

Gamble said "It was Commander Dempsey's own desire to go out and tell war workers how tough the Japanese war is and impress them with the need of extra bond buying."

Retraining Of Veterans For Pacific War Slated

Washington, May 23 (AP)—Veterans of the European campaigns destined for the Pacific front will be given the "maximum possible" retraining under instructors who have fought the Japanese, the Army reported today.

The training will be "tough and realistic" and will be carried on in Europe, the United States and, to a limited extent, in the Pacific.

In addition to training in Japanese tactics and weapons, the soldiers also will be drilled on health measures and upon weather and terrain conditions in the Pacific area.

Roosevelt, Jr., Assigned To Naval War College

Washington, May 23 (AP)—Lieut. Com. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr. has been assigned to the Naval War College at Newport, R.I. effective June 30, it was learned today.

Until recently he was commanding officer of a destroyer escort in the Pacific. His ship participated in the Lingayen Gulf action. Earlier he served aboard a destroyer escort in the Mediterranean.

Truman Discusses Prisoners

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP).—President Truman was asked at his news conference today when German war prisoners would cease to be prisoners. He replied nothing could be done about war prisoners in Germany until a government is established there. When a reporter said that might be the end of time, the Chief Executive replied that the reporter's guess was as good as his.

Wallace Lauds R. F. C. Plan on Private Loans

Calls It Helpful to Small Business; Harmony With Lending Agency Is Seen

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP).—The Commerce Department and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, separated by Congress after a bitter struggle, showed signs today of working together in unexpected harmony.

Secretary of Commerce Henry A. Wallace said the R. F. C. has made "a step in the right direction" toward helping small business.

Replying to a reporter's question, Mr. Wallace expressed approval of the new R. F. C. program of guaranteeing private loans to business firms.

He said, "This will cover part of the needs in the small business field." There may be further needs, he indicated, particularly "equity capital" obtained by selling stock rather than by borrowing from banks.

The Commerce Department and the R. F. C. used to be under the same man, Jesse H. Jones. When Mr. Jones was ousted by President Roosevelt in January and former Vice-President Wallace was appointed to succeed him, Congress separated the R. F. C. from the Commerce Department and thus prevented Mr. Wallace from controlling the R. F. C.'s huge lending powers.

During the fight over this, Mr. Wallace declared on Jan. 25 that "the real issue is whether or not the powers of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and its giant subsidiaries are to be used only to help big business or whether these powers are also to be used to help little business and to help carry out the President's commitment of 60,000,000 jobs."

Other factors in the increasingly friendly relationship between the Commerce Department and the R. F. C. are:

1. Mr. Wallace has always got along well with John W. Snyder, who as Federal Loan Administrator is the new boss of the R. F. C. There is no personal antagonism between them, as there was between Mr. Wallace and Mr. Jones.

2. Mr. Snyder is a member of Mr. Wallace's Small Business Advisory Committee, and as such can be counted as one of Mr. Wallace's advisers. Mr. Wallace appointed him on March 2 when he was a private banker in St. Louis. This advisory committee has been studying the financial needs of small business and is understood to have made a report which now is under consideration by Mr. Wallace.

3. Ever since becoming Secretary of Commerce on March 2, Mr. Wallace has apparently been seeking to work smoothly with business. In a much-discussed magazine article he said business loans ought to make sense to a private lending institution before they are guaranteed by the government.

FEPC Lead Seen In Senate Group

Washington, May 23 (AP)—Senator Ellender (D., La.) said today a majority of the Senate Labor Committee apparently is supporting legislation to create a permanent Fair Employment Practices Commission.

The committee met to consider a measure, sponsored by seven Senators, which would declare it an unfair employment practice to refuse to hire, discharge, or to discriminate in compensation against any person because of race, creed, color, national origin or ancestry.

Would Have Court Backing

The measure would establish a permanent FEPC to police this declared policy. When it found an unfair employment practice, it would issue an order for its discontinuance. If the order were not obeyed, the FEPC could seek a Federal Court enforcement order.

Southern Senators, protesting that such an agency might upset race relations in their section, have been endeavoring to work out a compromise.

A group of Southerners from the committee met yesterday with Senator Pepper (D., Fla.) to talk over the problem.

No Basis For Compromise

"We didn't get anywhere," Pepper told reporters afterward. "There just does not seem to be a basis for a compromise."

Ellender, Senator Johnston (D., C.) and others have talked of a filibuster if the measure is brought to the Senate floor, but Pepper said "I won't join in any filibuster."

The bill is sponsored by Senators Chavez (N.M.), Downey (Cal.), Wagner (N.Y.) and Murray (Mont.), Democrats, and Capper (Kan.), Langer (N.D.) and Aiken (Vt.), Republicans.

A similar measure has been approved by the House Labor Committee, but the Rules Committee, where Southern influence is strong, thus far has refused to let it come to the floor.

U.S. To Issue Four Roosevelt Stamps

MAY 24 1945

Washington, May 23 (AP) — Four memorial stamps bearing Franklin D. Roosevelt's portrait will be issued beginning June 27 in tribute to the late President, Postmaster General Walker announced today.

Each bearing Mr. Roosevelt's likeness, the stamps will be in these denominations and colors: 1-cent, green; 2-cent, red; 3-cent, purple, and 5-cent, blue. They will be of the special-delivery stamp size.

Mr. Roosevelt's portrait will appear at the left on each stamp, with the dates "1882-1945" and the name "Roosevelt" underneath the portrait. At the right on the 1-cent stamp will appear a picture of Mr. Roosevelts home at Hyde Park, while the "Little White House" at Warm Springs, Ga., will be pictured on the 2-cent stamp, and the White House on the 3-cent stamp.

The design for the 5-cent stamp will be announced later, Mr. Walker said.

The 3-cent stamp will be the first to be placed on sale, June 27, at Washington.

The stamps will be the first issued by this country to picture Mr. Roosevelt, who was a ranking stamp collector while President.

Tobey and Aiken Back Bretton Woods Program

Republicans Assure Truman of Aid on Foreign Policy

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP).—Senators Charles W. Tobey, Republican, of New Hampshire, and George D. Aiken, Republican, of Vermint, pledged their support to President Truman today on administration international proposals, including the Bretton Woods monetary plan.

"We told the President that we are not in sympathy with any effort to make party issues out of matters vitally affecting the welfare of our country and the peace of the world," they said in a statement as they left the White House.

The statement added that the two intended to support the Bretton Woods plan, extension of reciprocal trade agreements, establishment of international food and labor organizations, the proposals of the Chicago aviation conference "and any other proposals which will encourage an expansion of our national economy and make war between the nations less likely in the future."

"We shall oppose any efforts . . . toward adoption of a reactionary course which in our judgment would result in increased misery and bloodshed," the Senators continued.

"Our common purpose should be to insure co-operation and unity among the nations in the complicated and difficult negotiations for world peace. Technicalities and minor differences must not be permitted to turn us from this supreme objective."

Survey Reveals Pig Crop To Fall Short of 1945 Goal

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON, May 23 — (AP) A new government survey of farmers' 1945 production plans disclosed today that improvement in the nation's meat supply situation next fall and winter may be far short of hopes expressed by food officials.

The survey, made by the Agricultural Adjustment Agency on May 15, indicated that this year's pig crop may fall 5,300,000 head short of the goal set by the War Food administration.

Plantings of such important food and feed crops as corn, potatoes, dry beans, sweet potatoes, domestic sugar beet and cane crops, peanuts and flaxseed will fall below WFA goals, the survey also indicated.

Pig Crop Dwindles

The pig crop prospect declined materially between mid-April and mid-May. A similar survey made on April 16 indicated that the pig crop would fall more than 2,000,000 head short of the goal.

The goal is 92,500,000 head. The latest survey indicates a crop of about 87,200,000 head, or about 500,000 head more than last year's small wartime crop. The biggest crpo of the war was that of 1943, when about 123,000,000 head were produced.

The prospective deficit in the hog goal would reduce pork supplies more than 1,000,000,000 pounds below that sought by the government. This deficit is equivalent to about 8 puonds of pork per capita per year.

The disclosure of the possibility of a short pig crop came after Senate and House food investigating committees had urged that the war food administration's price support or guarantee be increased above the figure of $13 per hundred pounds, Chicago basis, being offered until Sept. 1, 1946. The House committee recommended a price of $13.50. The support price was $13.75 in 1943, when the war's large pig crop was produced.

The AAA survey is expected to lead the government to reconsider the support price. Some officials expect it to be increased to at least $13.25, a figure recommended several months ago by AAA leaders.

Another factor believed to be influencing hog farmers is the fact that the present price support program is a conditional or limited one. The WFA has explained that it cannot support prices beyond the capacity of packing plants to handle hogs. Thus in the event of a plant closedown by reason of a strike or other difficulties, or a reduced capacity because of labor shortages or machinery breakdown, the farmer would have no price support.

For statistical and other reasons, the government breaks yearly pig production into two groups — the spring crop and the fall crop. The spring crop is composed of pigs borne between Dec. 1 and the following June 1. This crop is marketed during the fall and early winter.

The AAA survey indicated that this year's spring crop would total about 52,900,000 head compared with the goal of 55,500,000. This deficit, if actually borne out, would be felt largely between next October and March, 1946.

The fall crop is made up of pigs born between June 1 and Dec. 1. The AAA survey indicated the fall crop would total about 34,267,000 head compared with the goal of 37,000,000. The Spring pigs are marketed largely between March and September of the following year. Thus the indicated shortage in the spring crop would be felt during the summer of 1946.

Other Crop Goals

The indicated acreages of other crops compared with the goals included:

Corn 96,617,000 and 99,098,000 acres; soybeans for processing for vegetable oils and oher foods 11,492,000 and 10,757,000 acres; flaxseed for vegetable oils for food and industrial products 4,816,300 and 5,000,000 acres; dry beans, large quantities of which are needed for foreign relief, 2,179,000 and 2,277,000 acres; dry peas 520,700 and 457,000 acres; peanuts for vegetable oil and other foods 3,060,000 and 3,230,000 acres; potatoes 2,945,400 and 3,137,400 acres; sweet potatoes 723,000 and 841,000 acres; sugar cane 310,000 and 337,000 acrcs; wheat 68,576,000 and 67,731,000 acres.

TRUMAN PLANS TALK AT FINAL PARLEY SESSION

Stettinius's Announcement Follows a Conference With President.

MAY 24 1945

Washington, May 23 (A. P.).—President Truman will go to San Francisco to address the final plenary session of the United Nations world organization conference.

Secretary of State Stettinius made this announcement today after conferring with the President on conference matters and what he described as a "wide range of subjects" dealing with world affairs.

The Secretary arrived here by plane at 7:30 A. M. He made his announcement to reporters at the usual morning news conference with Charles G. Ross, White House press secretary.

"I am delighted to say," he said, "that the President has agreed to come to San Francisco to speak to the final plenary session. It is impossible to say the exact date, but I am confident it will be early in June."

He said he had "full confidence that the conference will come to a successful conclusion some time in the early part of June."

Wouldn't Discuss Yugoslavia.

He added that he had some work to do at the State Department today on a wide range of subjects which the President had asked him to take up and expected to leave for San Francisco again tonight or tomorrow. Asked whether the Yugoslav situation was discussed, Mr. Stettinius said that the President would have to speak on any specific items. He confined his comment to the statement that he and Mr. Truman had a "general exchange of views."

Ross told reporters that the President plans to make occasional trips this summer to his old home at Independence, Mo., where his family will go early in June to spend the summer months.

The press secretary said that Mrs. Truman, their daughter, Margaret, and Mrs. David Wallace, Mrs. Truman's mother, plan to leave for Independence about June 1.

The President, Ross said, hopes to make occasional visits to Independence whenever it is possible for him to do so.

The old Truman house is being refurnished in preparation for the occasion.

But Russians Appear to Demand Big Five Unanimity on Acts of Security Council.

MAY 24 1945

San Francisco, May 23 (A. P.).—Small nations asked the Big Four sponsors of this conference today whether the Yalta agreement would permit a major Power to deadlock a United Nations organization simply by declining to vote.

This new issue was raised in a list of twenty-two questions submitted to representatives of the United States, Great Britain, Russia and China by a sub-committee representing the smaller countries at the United Nations Conference.

The twenty-two questions covered every phase of activity under the Yalta voting formula which would permit any of the Big Five, including France, to veto important moves of a World Security Council in attempting to settle international disputes.

Faced with interpreting the voting agreement made by President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin at Yalta, the Big Four representatives appeared divided among themselves. The British suggested renouncing the veto in so far as it might apply to investigation of international disputes.

The Russians, on the other hand, appeared determined that the voting procedure should require unanimity among the big five on all substantive actions taken by the security council.

The small Powers framed their questions in terms of their present determination to break down the veto as it concerns council action designed to obtain "peaceful" settlement of international friction. In this connection, they asked specifically whether abstention from voting by any of the big five would have the same effect as a negative vote.

Small Nations' Questions on Veto Plan

SAN FRANCISCO, May 23 (AP).—Small powers fighting veto rights of the Big Five in a proposed world Security Council submitted a list of twenty-two collective questions seeking clarification. The Greek delegation added question No. 23. The text:

1. If the parties to a dispute request the Security Council to make the recommendations with a view to its settlement, would the veto be applicable to a decision of the Security Council to exercise its power to investigate the dispute for that purpose?

2. If the Security Council has investigated a dispute under this paragraph (Chapter 6 Section 6 Paragraph 3 and Big-Four amendment Paragraph 1 Chapter 8 Section A) would the veto be applicable to a decision of the Security Council to recommend to the parties certain terms, with a view to the settlement of the dispute?

3. If the attention of the Security Council is called to the existence of a dispute, or a situation which may give rise to a dispute, would the veto be applicable to a decision of the Security Council to exercise its power to investigate the dispute or situation?

4. If the Security Council has investigated the dispute, would the veto be applicable to a decision by the Security Council that the continuance of the dispute is likely to endanger the maintenance of international peace and security?

5. If the Security Council has decided that the continuance of a dispute is likely to endanger the maintenance of international peace and security, would the veto be applicable to a decision of the Security Council to call upon the parties to settle their dispute by the means indicated in Paragraph 3 (negotiation, mediation, conciliation, arbitration, judicial settlement or other peaceful means).

issue an order for its discontinuance. If the order were not obeyed, the FEPC could seek a Federal Court enforcement order.

Southern Senators, protesting that such an agency might upset race relations in their section, have been endeavoring to work out a compromise.

A group of Southerners from the committee met yesterday with Senator Pepper (D., Fla.) to talk over the problem.

No Basis For Compromise

"We didn't get anywhere," Pepper told reporters afterward. "There just does not seem to be a basis for a compromise."

Ellender, Senator Johnston (D., C.) and others have talked of a filibuster if the measure is brought to the Senate floor, but Pepper said "I won't join in any filibuster."

The bill is sponsored by Senators Chavez (N.M.), Downey (Cal.), Wagner (N.Y.) and Murray (Mont.), Democrats, and Capper (Kan.), Langer (N.D.) and Aiken (Vt.), Republicans.

A similar measure has been approved by the House Labor Committee, but the Rules Committee, where Southern influence is strong, thus far has refused to let it come to the floor.

U.S. To Issue Four Roosevelt Stamps

MAY 24 1945

Washington, May 23 (AP) — Four memorial stamps bearing Franklin D. Roosevelt's portrait will be issued beginning June 27 in tribute to the late President, Postmaster General Walker announced today.

Each bearing Mr. Roosevelt's likeness, the stamps will be in these denominations and colors: 1-cent, green; 2-cent, red; 3-cent, purple, and 5-cent, blue. They will be of the special-delivery stamp size.

Mr. Roosevelt's portrait will appear at the left on each stamp, with the dates "1882-1945" and the name "Roosevelt" underneath the portrait. At the right on the 1-cent stamp will appear a picture of Mr. Roosevelts home at Hyde Park, while the "Little White House" at Warm Springs, Ga., will be pictured on the 2-cent stamp, and the White House on the 3-cent stamp.

The design for the 5-cent stamp will be announced later, Mr. Walker said.

The 3-cent stamp will be the first to be placed on sale, June 27, at Washington.

The stamps will be the first issued by this country to picture Mr. Roosevelt, who was a ranking stamp collector while President.

APPROVE FORMULA TO HALT ATTACKS

Corrected

United Nations Conference to Allow Regional Groups to Band Together.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 23—(AP) Committee approval of a formula for letting regional groups of nations band together to resist attack dissolved tonight what had been one of the biggest issues of the United Nations conference.

Another of equally grave proportions moved into its place. It centers around a tug of war between great and small powers over big-nation control of peace-enforcement machinery in a world organization. The results may determine the effectiveness of the mechanism and the organization.

Accepted in a committee on regional arrangements was a proposal which says that up to the time the world organization takes necessary steps to maintain peace, groups of nations may use mutual defense measures if any of their number is attacked.

Latin States Agree

Latin states had approved this formula as granting adequate recognition to their Pan-American defense system, which was one of the things they wanted most at this conference.

A treaty for permanent mutual defense, to replace a wartime arrangement set up by the Act of Chapultepec at Mexico City last March, still must be negotiated by the United States and the 20 other American Republics. That may be done this Fall.

A committee handling another hot problem—trusteeships for dependent and strategic areas of the world—was making progress toward reaching complete agreement by the end of the week.

One big question to be decided is whether peoples of trusteeship areas should be assured independence or self government.

American Delegate Harold E. Stassen is trying to work out a compromise on that in consultation with other big power representatives and delegates of Australia and New Zealand.

The committee definitely approved today the principle that strategic trusteeship areas—such as key military bases—should be supervised by the world organization's security council. No area is to be placed under trusteeship, however, without the consent of the nation possessing it.

Also accepted was a provision for classifying three types of territory as eligible for trusteeships: areas mandated after the last war, land taken from the enemies in this war, other areas voluntarily submitted by the countries controlling them.

Alberto Lleras Camargo of Colombia, chairman of the regional security committee, announced approval of the collective security formula at a news conference.

He said in a statement to the committee, speaking as a Colombian delegate, that the formula is to be interpreted so that under the Act of Chapultepec "If an American nation is attacked all the rest consider themselves attacked" and their action against aggression "would be in accord with the (world) charter."

It may be deduced, he said, "that the approval of this article implies that the Act of Chapultepec is not in contravention of the charter."

Camargo told reporters that all the Latin nations agreed with this statement and that no other country opposed the interpretation.

Except for acting on a couple of points, such as a definition of collective security desired by Egypt, the committee has completed its work.

5 BRITONS RESIGN AT SAN FRANCISCO

MAY 24 1945

San Francisco, May 23 (A. P.).—Five British delegates to the United Nations conference turned in their resignations today as members of the Churchill Government. British spokesmen promptly emphasized that this conformance with parliamentary practice will not fundamentally affect efforts to write a world organization charter.

In his capacity of Ambassador to Washington, the acting chairman of the delegation, Lord Halifax, did not resign. He will continue to represent Britain here and see the conference through. And, pending London action on their resignations, the other delegates, too, will stick to their jobs.

It was taken for granted by the British delegation here that Lord Cranborne, Secretary of State for Dominion Affairs, would be almost immediately renamed as a member of the new Government. He thus would be able to carry on with Lord Halifax here for the duration of the conference.

Miss Florence Horsbrugh, a delegate, was elected to Parliament as a member of Churchill's Conservative party and may be renamed to the new government. She probably would have to leave San Francisco shortly, however, to take part in the coming elections.

Of the other members remaining here—after the departure of Deputy Prime Minister Clement Attlee and Miss Ellen Wilkinson, Laborites—George Tomlinson is a Laborite, Dingle Foote, a Liberal, and William Mabane, a National Liberal. Only Mabane appeared to have a chance to be renamed. He has been serving as parliamentary secretary for the Ministry of Food.

Sir Alexander Cadogan, Permanent Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, has had charge of another troublesome question—Big Five veto power—and he would continue on here. He is not a member of the delegation, however.

DEAN GILDERSLEEVE WINS JOB REVIEW

San Francisco, May 23 (A. P.).—Through Dean Virginia Gildersleeve, the American delegation obtained review by a conference committee today of a declaration that a United Nations organization promote full employment.

MAY 24 1945

There was stiff opposition, led by Australia's foreign minister, Herbert V. Evatt but Miss Gildersleeve, dean of Barnard College, asked and obtained reconsideration of the committee's vote last week that full employment should be promoted by any world organization chartered here.

In a three-hour meeting last night, Dean Gildersleeve offered instead an amendment which would obligate the United States to promote solutions of the problems relating to full employment

It's Next Stop Pacific For Flyers Who Hit Reich

Bradley Field, Windsor Locks, Conn., May 23 (AP)—To 1,075 airmen who have arrived home from Europe redeployment is just the Army's fancy name for the Pacific.

Of the first unit of heavy bombardment personnel to be brought back for furloughs and training "in heavier aircraft" before going to Pacific war areas some men are eager for a double dose of warfare.

Others will go only "if I can't get out of it."

And the majority agree with Tech. Sergt. James (Horizontal) Marshall, of St. Louis: "It's up to the Army. I just work here."

Fleet Of Bombers

Arriving yesterday in a fleet of 65 Liberators and Flying Fortresses—the same planes with which they bombed Germany—the 800 enlisted men and 275 officers gave the United States a typical GI greeting.

They piled out of the bomb-bay doors of their planes helter-skelter, yelling, "Hit it hard, boys!" They patted the ground, hugged each other and their planes. Some admitted that companionship with an American girl—a treat they had not enjoyed for some time—would be "interesting."

Only when the big army trucks had transported them with their gear and souvenirs to the receiving hangar for processing did they get around to talking about the "other war" still to be won.

In Europe Two Months

Capt. George Cline, of De Ridder, La., a former instructor, lamented that he had been in Europe only two months and said: "I missed it over there. Now I'd like to go to the Pacific."

Mast. Sergt. Jesse Johnson, of Du Quoin, Ill., who put in 23 months as a ground-crew chief and won seven battle stars, declared: "I'd just as soon go."

Lieut. Joseph Kostek, Fall River, Mass.: "The only thing I came back for are the women. The pictures of the ones in the Pacific look all right."

Staff Sergeant Joe Wasil, of Cleveland: "I'll stay on the ground and buy bonds and wave the boys off."

"Had Enough"

Staff Sergeant Warren S. Jefferson, of Sandy Level, Va.: "Between jets and flak we've had enough."

Tech. Sergt. James P. Gillis, of Greenwich, Conn., and Tech. Sergt. Carl E. Mills, of Oklahoma City, Okla: "We're more or less expecting it. We'll be surprised if we don't go."

Staff Sergeant Donald Laher, Jr., of Everett, Pa.: "If the cards are stacked right, I'll stay here."

Staff Sergeant Harold E. Levenson, of Philadelphia: "We don't want to go but say we do, anyway."

The men were the first of the large group of air forces personnel scheduled to be brought back for redeployment to the Pacific. After a 30-day R.R.&R. (Rehabilitation, Recuperation and Recovery) leave, they will report to designated central assembly stations.

And from there it's "next stop Pacific."

SERVICE WIVES ARRIVE IN U.S.

To Get Their First Glimpse Of New Homeland

Boston Port of Embarkation, May 23 (AP)—The foreign-born wives of 110 American service men got their first glimpse of their new homeland today through the portholes of a navy transport mess hall.

They brought their 24 children with them and all were thrilled at their first limited glimpses of the United States.

The women folk were below decks in the mess hall as the big transport steamed up Boston harbor, while topside the soldiers of Lieut. Gen. Jimmy Doolittle's 453d Heavy Bombardment Group and repatriated American soldiers jammed the deck rails.

There were English girls, Irish lassies and Scots, Belgian and Dutch among the service wives. Eighty-four of them had married soldiers, and 26 were the wives of sailors.

They met their husbands while the latter were on duty in England and on the Continent.

Many A Romantic Tale

There was a romantic tale behind many of the marriages, but perhaps the most dramatic was the courtship of Nelly Hubbard, a Belgian, who was accompanied by her husband, Lieut. Col. Thomas H. Hubbard, of Fort Worth, Texas.

Colonel Hubbard was a member of the 8th Air Force and he met Nelly nearly a year ago after he was shot down in his fighter plane over Belgium.

The city where he landed was occupied by the Nazis and Nelly was a member of the family that took care of Colonel Hubbard.

Mrs. Hubbard, who is 23 years old, speaks little English, but her broad smile told the thrills she felt.

On Way To Iowa

In the rush and bustle of debarkation, the names of many of the soldiers and sailors husbands were unobtainable.

Mrs. Ann Julius, who is on her way to Cherokee, Iowa, met her Air Corps lieutenant-husband a year ago.

As soon as they get together they're going on a Florida vacation.

Mrs. Julius was one of the wives who is not really new to American ways. She was secretary in the American Embassy in London, she explained, and "knows American ways very well."

Mrs. Helene M. Guastello, 26, who is going to Grantwood, N.J., with her infant son, Richard, seemed undaunted by the confusion of customs inspection, and immigration officials.

Looks Like His Father

"Richard has been so good all the way across," she said.

"He looks just like his father," she added proudly. The couple were married in June, 1943, and he is still overseas.

Mrs. Doreen I. C. Shanklin, who will go to Columbia, Mo., is a statuesque red-head. She met her husband in London two years ago last Christmas and they were married the following June.

"I'm so excited," she said. "I've heard so much about your wonderful country. I can't wait for the trip on the railroad to see some of it."

Red Cross personnel will arrange with army officials for the transfer of the service wives to their destinations.

All Germans To Blame, Adler Says After Tour

New York, May 23 (AP) — Brig. Gen. Julius Ochs Adler (retired), vice president and general manager of the New York Times, arrived at LeGuardia Field tonight after a tour of German concentration camps and declared "the whole German people should be held responsible" for war atrocities.

Also on the plane was Amon G. Carter, publisher of the Fort Worth (Texas) Star-Telegram, who accompanied Adler and sixteen other editors to Europe to view Nazi concentration camps.

"As far as the concentration camps are concerned, the story cannot be told too often to the American people," Adler said. "It was organized brutality.

"Until we have eliminated the German General Staff we are going to have the seeds of another war."

He said he had spoken to many liberated American soldiers "and in not one instance did I find that the provisions of the Geneva convention were lived up to."

Camp Upton to Get 500 War Prisoners

Camp Upton, N. Y., May 23 (A. P.).—Col. Raymond E. Scott, post commander, announced today the activation of a prisoner of war base camp here comprising 500 German PWs.

He said that the prisoners would relieve soldiers for work in the Army Service Forces Convalescent hospital, which occupies all of the post except the PW camp.

Punish Nazis, Russian Demands

New York, May 23 (AP)—Russian demands for quick punishment of German war criminals were reiterated today by a Moscow radio commentator, who asserted there was nothing "mysterious" about Soviet desires that the Nazi menace be eradicated without delay.

"I think the term could, with better effect, be applied to the conduct of certain British and American authorities with regard to the defeated Hitlerites," said the commentator, Boris Izakov.

"We in the Soviet Union," Izakov added, "want only one thing: To be consistent to the end. The war was waged to destroy the Nazi menace; and in my opinion, now that the enemy is defeated, that menace must be eradicated without tears or shilly-shallying.

"Why exchange compliments with hardened Nazi murderers? Better send them straight to the gallows."

Truck Drivers' Strike Ended; WLB To Review Wage Policy

Chicago, May 23 (AP)—Chicago's week-old paralyzing truck strike was called off tonight after a series of rapid developments beginning in Washington with President Truman's authorizing seizure of the lines.

Raymond F. Hayes, attorney for the Independent Chicago Truck Drivers Union, notified Capt. George Barnes of the police labor detail that union members were being instructed to return to work tomorrow morning.

Hayes's announcement followed within a few minutes one from the War Labor Board in Washington that it had been advised the strike of 6,500 drivers would be terminated as a result of assurances the WLB would review the industry's wage policy.

Seizure Authorized

The strike started a week ago in protest over a WLB award of a wage increase that fell short of union demands.

Earlier, President Truman authorized the Office of Defense Transportation to seize the trucking concerns. The ODT announced the seizure would be made at 12.01 A.M. (Central war time) Thursday, exactly a week since the strike started.

The ODT asked the Secretary of War to put into motion machinery to provide "the necessary military protection, equipment and operators," a detachment of military police from Fort Custer, Mich., arrived in Chicago yesterday and camped on the lake front.

WLB To Hear Problems

In a telegram, the WLB promised the union to hear the wage problems as soon as work is resumed and war materials and foodstuffs, backed up in rail and truck terminals throughout the Middle West as well as in Chicago, begin moving. The WLB said it had assurances from the union that work would be resumed.

Presidential authorization of seizure came a few hours after the striking drivers offered to end their walkout if Mr. Truman would intervene personally to obtain from the WLB a rehearing of the wage case which touched off the strike.

Announcement of the time of seizure was made by Col. J. Monroe Johnson in Washington, who said:

"These trucking lines with about 20,000 employés handling vitally needed war and civilian goods have been unable to operate for nearly a week because of a labor disturbance.

"The Secretary of War has been requested by the Office of Defense Transportation in accordance with the President's order to set in motion the machinery for providing the necessary military protection, equipment and operators."

The union appealed to President Truman this afternoon to work in the strikers' behalf to obtain WLB reconsideration of the wage issue. Some violence occurred during the day as the severity of the walkout intensified.

French-Argentine Pact In Prospect

Buenos Aires, May 23 (AP)—A commercial agreement marking re-establishment of war-interrupted trade relations with France is expected to be signed early in June after the arrival of the first French mission to visit Argentina since 1940.

The Associated Press was informed by reliable sources that negotiations for a trade agreement were under way between Argentine officials and the French Embassy early in May and that only the formalities of signing the papers would remain by the time the mission arrived.

Awaited With Expectancy

The mission, headed by Valery Rodot, is awaited with expectancy by those Argentines impatient to resume economic ties with France, but scores of items could not be duplicated and importers are preparing to resume their purchase as soon as shipping conditions permit.

How extensive the importation of French luxury items, such as perfumes and champagnes, will be in the immediate postwar period is conjectural. Argentina already has announced that import priority will be given to goods essential to the national economy.

Plans Hinge On Shipping

Hides and foodstuffs, principally meat and cereals, are the basic Argentine products which France will be asked to buy, but a temporary exportation of textiles is a possibility. Argentina's textile industry increased tremendously during the war.

All trade plans for the immediate future hinge on shipping developments, however. Three ships in the Argentine state merchant fleet are French vessels acquired when they were caught in Argentine ports following the fall of France.

WHERE AMERICAN DIVISIONS OPERATE

The following summary of action covers only those Associated Press reports in which divisions were specifically mentioned:

32d Infantry—Attempting to outflank Balete Pass; slowed by terrain.

43d Infantry — Counted 300 more dead Japs at captured Ipo Dam, east of Manila; continued annihilation of large encircled enemy force.

LONDON--SECOND ADD NIGHT LEAD CHURCHILL, AMS BUDGET X X X AND BEVIN.

IT WAS BELIEVED THAT LIBERAL NATIONALS, WHO HELD THREE PLACES IN THE COALITION GOVERNMENT, WOULD CARRY ON AS HEADS OF DEPARTMENTS UNTIL THE RESULT OF THE ELECTION WAS KNOWN. THEY ARE ERNEST BROWN, CHANCELLOR OF THE DUCHY OF LANCASTER; VISCOUNT SIMON, LORD CHANCELLOR; AND W. MABANE, MINISTER OF FOOD.

MAY 24 1945

THE CONSENSUS AMONG POLITICAL WRITERS WAS THAT CHURCHILL WOULD CONTINUE TO HAVE THE COLLABORATION OF SEVERAL EMINENT MINISTERS WHO HAVE A STATUS AS INDEPENDENTS, SUCH AS SIR JOHN ANDERSON, CHANCELLOR OF THE EXCHEQUER; SIR JAMES GRIGG, SECRETARY OF WAR; SIR ANDREW DUNCAN, MINISTER OF SUPPLY; LORD WOOLTON, MINISTER OF RECONSTRUCTION, AND LORD LEATHERS, MINISTER OF WAR TRANSPORT.

SHOULD THE LABOR PARTY WIN A MAJORITY IN PARLIAMENT IN THE ELECTIONS, ATTLEE PRESUMABLY WOULD HAVE THE INSIDE TRACK FOR CHURCHILL'S JOB, THOUGH EITHER BEVIN OR MORRISON MIGHT BE GIVEN THE POST. ATTLEE FOR THE TIME BEING WILL RESUME HIS PRE-WAR POSITION OF LEADER OF THE OPPOSITION, WHICH ES NOT OPPOSITION, WHICH HAS NOT BEEN OFFICIALLY FILLED SINCE THE NATIONAL GOVERNMENT WAS FORMED.

A LOBBY CORRESPONDENT OF THE PRESS ASSOCIATION SPECULATED THAT CHURCHILL'S SON, MAJ. RANDOLPH CHURCHILL, WHO RECENTLY RETURNED FROM THE MIDDLE EAST AND RESUMED HIS SEAT IN COMMONS, MIGHT BE GIVEN A JUNIOR PLACE IN THE WAR OFFICE IN THE "CARETAKER" REGIME.

DESPITE TODAY'S CLEAN BRAK WHICH ENDED FIVE MEMORABLE YEARS OF COALITION, THE LABOR MINISTERS WERE EXPECTED TO CALL AT 10 DOWNING STREET AND SHAKE HANDS IN PARTING WITH THEIR WARTIME LEADER. THEY ALSO WERE EXPECTED TO MEET AT A SERIES OF "GOODBYE" PARTIES BEFORE SEPARATING FOR THE ELECTION BATTLE.

THE CAMPAIGN ALREADY WAS WELL UNDER WAY, WITH THE LABOR AND LIBERAL PRESS ACCUSING CHURCHILL OF SEEKING TO RUSH THE ELECTION TO CAPITALIZE ON HIS CURRENT POPULARITY AND LAMPOONING HIM IN CARTOONS AS A MAN DEVOTED TO "TORY" INTERESTS.

MAY 24 1945

THE CONSERVATIVE PRESS DENOUNCED THE LABORITES FOR THEIR DECISION NOT TO REMAIN IN THE COALITION GOVERNMENT UNTIL JAPAN WAS BEATEN.

THE LAST ELECTION IN 1935 SAW THE CONSERVATIVES AND ALLIED PARTIES WIN 431 SEATS OUT OF THE COMMONS' TOTAL OF 615.

ELECTION SIDEBAR

LONDON, MAY 23-(AP)-BRITISH VOTERS HAVE NO OPPORTUNITY TO ELECT DIRECTLY THEIR PRIME MINISTER, WHO IS APPOINTED BY THE KING, UPON SELECTION USUALLY BY THE PARTY WITH THE LARGEST NUMBER OF MEMBERS IN THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

IN A CHANGE OF GOVERNMENT, BRITISH PROCEDURE VARIES FROM THAT OF THE UNITED STALAS WHERE THE PRESIDENT AND VICE PRESIDENT ARE NAMED IN A NATIONAL ELECTION. THE VICE PRESIDENT BECOMES HEAD OF THE GOVERNMENT IN THE EVENT MF A VACANCY IN THE PRESIDENCY DURING THE FOUR-YEAR TERM.

THE BRITISH PRIME MINISTER MUST BE A MEMBER OF COMMONS AND IS ELECTED TO THAT SEAT BY VOTERS IN A DISTRICT HE REPRESENTS. THERE ARE 615 SEATS IN THE HOUSE. THE PRIME MINISTER SELECTS HIS CABINET FROM MEMBERS OF PARLIAMENT, A PRACTICE DIFFERING SHARPLY WITH THAT IN THE UNITED STATES WHERE THE EXECUTIVE AND LEGISLATIVE BRANCHES ARE SEPARATE.

PARLIAMENT SERVES INDEFINITELY UNTIL DISSOLVED BY THE KING, WHO CALLS A NEW ELECTION. A CHANGE OCCURS NORMALLY WHEN THE PRIME MINISTER'S GOVERNMENT IS BEATEN BY COMMONS ON A MAJOR ISSUE.

THE PROCEDURE FOR THE PRESENT CHANGE IS THIS:

1. THE PRIME MINISTER RESIGNS TO THE KING FOR HIMSELF AND CABINET.
2. THE KING CALLS UPON SOMEONE, IN THIS CASE CHURCHILL AGAIN, TO FORMA "CARE TAKER" GOVERNMENT TO SERVE UNTIL THE ELECTION IS HELD.
3. THE PARTY WINNING THE MOST SEATS SELECTS A PRIME MINISTER, WHO IS APPOINTED BY THE KING ON ADVISE OF THE PRIVY COUNCIL.
4. THE PRIME MINISTER SELECTS A CABINET.
5. THE NEW PARLIAMENT AFFIRMS THE CHOICE BY A VOTE OF CONFIDENCE IN THE GOVERNMENT AND THE ADMINISTRATION CONTINUES IN OFFICE UNTIL COMMONS BEATS IT ON SOME MAJOR QUESTION OR REFUSES A REQUESTED VOTE OF CONFIDENCE.

WITH BRITAIN'S CABINET SITTING IN COMMONS, THEY ARE AVAILABLE FOR DAY BY DAY QUESTIONING BY MEMBERS ON OPERATIONS OF THE GOVERNMENT. IN THE UNITED STATES, CABINET MEMBERS HAVE TO BE CALLED BEFORE CONGRESSIONAL COMMITTEES WHEN INFORMATION IS WANTED.

YONABARU, OKINAWA, MAY 22-(DELAYED)-(AP)-SEVENTH DIVISION TROOPS POURED THROUGH YONABARU IN A COLD DRENCHING RAIN TODAY TO SEIZE DOMINATING HILLS ON THE EAST COAST OF OKINAWA AND POSE A NEW THREAT TO THE CENTRAL JAPANESE FORTRESS CITY OF SHURI.

DOUGHBOYS OF MAJ.GEN.ARCHIBALD V.ARNOLD OF BRONXVILLE, N.Y., CAUGHT THE JAPANESE OFF GUARD. THEY MOVED OUT THROUGH THE 96TH DIVISION, WHOSE PATROLS ENTERED YONABARU LATE YESTERDAY, AT 2:30 THIS MORNING, AND MET NO RESISTANCE EXCEPT OCCASIONAL SNIPER FIRE AS THEY SLOSHED THROUGH THIS IMPORTANT EAST COAST PORT TOWN -- REDUCED TO A SHAMBLES OF BROKEN WALLS.

JUMPING OFF WITHOUT ARTILLERY SUPPORT, THE 184TH REGIMENT PRESSED INTO HIGH GROUND 1,000 YARDS SOUTHWEST OF YONABARU BY 7:30 THIS MORNING. SPEARHEADING THE ASSAULT WERE DOUGHBOYS LED BY LT.JOHN W.BROKAW, 43 MULBERRY ST., TRENTON, N.J.

THESE VETERANS OF ATTU, KWAJALEIN AND LEYTE SLIPPED THROUGH A NARROW BOTTLENECK INTO HIGH COUNTRY, AND BY NIGHTFALL HAD WIDENED THE CORRIDOR TO A POINT WHERE THEIR OFFICERS WERE CONFIDENT THEY COULD HOLD SHOULD THE HARD-PRESSED JAPANESE COUNTERATTACK.

THEY CUT THE IMPORTANT EAST-WEST TRAFFIC ARTERY BETWEEN YONABARU AND THE CAPITAL CITY OF NAHA.

ONE COMPANY WHICH SWARMED SOUTH TOWARD SHIMII, SURPRISING NUMEROUS JAPANESE IN CAVES AS IT PASSED, WAS LED BY LT.HOMER GRAFF, 15 CARLISLE ST., [illegible]ERSENFIELD, N.J.

TANKS WERE BOGGED DOWN BY MUD BUT THE TROOPS PUSHED AHEAD WITHOUT ARMOR. FLAMETHROWERS WORKED ON CAVES WHILE COVERED BY INFANTRYMEN.

THE JAPANESE HAD LEFT ROAD BLOCKS OF CORAL BOULDERS AND HAD BLOWN CULVERTS IN APPARENTLY ABANDONING YONABARU.

RESISTANCE INCREASED DURING THE LATE AFTERNOON, WITH JAPANESE ARTILLERY SPASMODICALLY AND INEFFECTIVELY FIRING ALONG THE YONABARU ROAD.

LATE TODAY, 7TH DIVISION TROOPS WERE RUNNING INTO MACHINEGUN AND 47 MILLIMETER ANTITANK FIRE FROM A 500 FOOT ESCARPMENT 1,000 YARDS DIRECTLY IN FRONT OF THEIR POSITION ON A 400 FOOT HILL.

THE 7TH DIVISION, WHICH REFUSED ARTILLERY PREPARATION FOR ITS PREDAWN ATTACK, WHEELED ITS BIG FIELD PIECES INTO ACTION DURING FIGHTING TODAY AND TWO ROCKET SHIPS OFFSHORE REPEATEDLY SHOWERED THE ESCARPMENT, KNOWN AS HILL 155.

CAPT.JAMES W.PARKER, SAN FRANCISCO, AND LT.WILLARD C. WHITE, 177 MAIN ST., KINGWOOD, W.VA., FANNED THEIR MEN OUT OVER RIDGES, CLEANING OUT CAVES IN THE MORNING AND AFTERNOON.

AS THE DOUGHBOYS SLOSHED ALONG, CHILLED BY THE COLD RAIN, ONE OF THEM, PFC.JIM LOWE, EAST LIVERPOOL, OHIO, GRINNED AND SHOUTED:

"EVERYTHING NORMAL. THE 7TH IS MOVING UP IN RAIN AND MUD AGAIN."

OKINAWA, MAY 23-(AP)-SECOND LT. RICHARD CHRISTENSEN OF MANTI, UTAH, BLAMES A CARELESSLY TOSSED PONCHO FOR HIS SLEEPLESS NIGHT LAST NIGHT.

CHRISTENSEN WAS ESTABLISHED IN A HILLTOP FOXHOLE OBSERVATION POST WITH SGT. JAMES BOLT OF ANDERSON, S.C AND CPL. ALFRED RATZOW DETROIT, MICH., HAVING JUST RELIEVED CAPT. PRESTON LAMPTON OF SAPULPA, OKLA. AND HIS CREW FROM A 48-HOUR STRETCH OF DUTY.

"TOWARD DUSK THE INFANTRY WITHDREW," SAID CHRISTENSEN, "AND WE FELT MIGHTY LONELY UP THERE.

"BUT SOME SOLDIER TOSSED HIS RAINCOAT CARELESSLY ON THE GROUND AND THE WIND BLEW IT OVER THE RIDGE INTO THE VIEW OF THE JAPS. THEY KNEW WE WERE THERE THEN AND SO ALL NIGHT LONG THEY BLASTED US WITH MORTAR FIRE.

"AT ONE POINT BOLT SAID LET'S MOVE TO ANOTHER HOLE, THIS ONE'S GETTING TOO CLOSE -- AND THE VERY NEXT SHELL LANDED RIGHT WHERE WE HAD BEEN SITTING.

"BOLT A FEW NIGHTS EARLIER NARROWLY ESCAPED DEATH WHEN A SHELL FRAGMENT KILLED AN OFFICER LYING IN THE SAME FOXHOLE WITH HIM."

"BOLT," REMARKED CORP. JOHN ASHE, GOLDENHILL, STILLWATER, N.Y., "IS ONE OF THE FINEST AND MOST MODEST MEN IN OUR OUTFIT."

LT.COL. JOHN T. MARSHALL OF HINGHAM, MASS., CREDITED CHRISTENSEN AND HIS TEAM OF FIGHTING MEN WITH KNOCKING OUT A JAPANESE DUAL PURPOSE 75MM GUN.

"WE SAW A BUNCH OF JAPS TRYING TO MOVE THIS GUN OUT TO A POSITION TO SHOOT," CHRISTENSEN SAID. "WE WAITED AND FINALLY ABOUT 30 JAPS GOT TO WORK ON THE GUN. THAT IS WHEN WE CALLED TO A BATTERY TO LET THEM HAVE IT.

B27FX

"BODIES AND DEBRIS FLEW EVERYWHERE. OUR FIRE GOT SO CLOSE TO OTHER GUNS THAT THE JAPS LAID DOWN A SMOKE SCREEN. IT LIFTED JUST ENOUGH TO LET US SEE THIS ONE GUN LYING ON ITS SIDE.

"IN THE MORNING WE FOUND THERE HAD BEEN 200 JAPS IN CLOSE TO US DURING THE NIGHT. ON A NEARBY HILL ONE SOLDIER TOSSED 96 GRENADES--ONE AFTER ANOTHER--ALL NIGHT LONG TO KEEP THEM OFF."

MARSHALL SAID JAPANESE ARTILLERY FIRE HAS DECREASED MARKEDLY, ESPECIALLY IN RECENT DAYS.

"WE HAVE ACCOUNTED FOR A LARGE NUMBER OF THEIR GUNS," MARSHALL REPORTED, "IN THE 77TH AND 96TH AREAS."

MARSHALL IS PROUD TO BOAST THAT HIS UNIT FIRED THE FIRST SHORE GUNS OF THE OKINAWA CAMPAIGN. THEY OPENED UP ON NAHA FROM KIESE SHIMA--AN ISLAND TO THE WEST--ON SATURDAY EVENING A FEW HOURS BEFORE EASTER MORNING, WHEN THE YANKS LANDED ON OKINAWA.

IN RETALIATION THE JAPANESE USED TO SHELL KIESE HEAVILY, BUT ONLY INJURED FOUR AMERICANS. ONE DUD JAPANESE SHELL LANDED HARMLESSLY AT THE FEET OF PFC COLEMAN HAYES OF PRESCOTT, ARIZ.

MANILA, MAY 23-(AP)-ENGINEERS OF THE 32ND DIVISION FINALLY SOLVED THE PROBLEM OF PUTTING THE DECK ON A BRIDGE OVER A SMALL STREAM IN NORTHERN LUZON, BUT THAT WAS ONLY THE BEGINNING OF THEIR TROUBLES.

THE BRIDGE WAS NEEDED QUICKLY. ENGINEERS TOOK THE FLOORING OF AN ABANDONED HOUSE BECAUSE IT WAS THE ONLY ADEQUATE MATERIAL AVAILABLE.

AS THE FIGHTING SWIRLED BEYOND THE RIVER, FILIPINOS DRIFTED BACK, AMONG THEM THE FAMILY OF THE FLOORLESS HOUSE. THE FATHER PROMPTLY BEGAN REMOVING THE FLOORING FROM THE BRIDGE TO HIS HOUSE. THE ENGINEERS STOPPED THAT.

SO THAT NIGHT THE FILIPINOS MOVED ONTO THE BRIDGE AND BUILT A ROOF OVER IT. THE MORNING TRAFFIC FOUND THE FAMILY AT BREAKFAST ON THE BRIDGE THEY HAD TO CROSS.

THE ENGINEERS HUDDLED WITH THE FAMILY AGAIN AND FINALLY LOANED THE FILIPINOS TOOLS AND OTHER SUPPLIES SUFFICIENT TO BUILD ANOTHER HOUSE WITH A BAMBOO FLOORING, AND EVERYBODY WAS HAPPY.

SUCH NAMES AS SUGAR LOAF HILL, CARBUNCLE, CONICAL AND CHOCOLATE DROP WHICH HAVE FIGURED PROMINENTLY IN THE FIGHTING WERE EASY FOR THEM.

CONICAL AND CHOCOLATE DROP WERE SO NAMED BY THE MARINES BECAUSE OF THEIR PHYSICAL CHARACTERISTICS. SUGAR LOAF LOOKS LIKE A BIG LUMP OF BROWN SUGAR.

AS THE DOUGHBOYS AND MARINES CONTINUE TO RUN INTO HILLS THEIR IMAGINATION IS BEGINNING TO FAIL THEM AND WHEN THEY GET ATOP ONE RIDGE THEY MERELY POINT AND SAY

OKINAWA,MAY 22-(DELAYED)-(AP)-THE ENTRY OF 96TH AND SEVENTH DIVISION TROOPS INTO YONABARU AND THEIR CAPTURE OF HIGH RIDGES TO THE SOUTH OVERSHADOWED OTHER DEVELOPMENTS TODAY IN THE BATTLE OF OKINAWA.

JAPANESE MADE FRUITLESS COUNTERATTACKS AGAINST THE MARINES ON THE OPPOSITE , WEST SIDE.

THE COUNTERATTACKS WERE PRECEDED BY HEAVY MORTAR FIRE AND A FLURRY OF GRENADES.

JAPANESE, ESTIMATED AT COMPANY STRENGTH, ATTACKED FIRST DIVISION LINES ON THE NORTH SIDE OF NAHA AFTER MIDNIGHT. IT IS ESTIMATED THAT ABOUT 150 WERE KILLED.

THE ENEMY ALSO MADE A SMALL COUNTERATTACK AGAINSST THE SIXTH DIVISION NORTH OF NAHA BUT FAILED TO PREVENT A JUMPOFF BY THE FOURTH REGIMENT ALONG A 1,000-YARD FRONT WHICH GAINED ABOUT 200 YARDS TOWARD THE NORTHEASTERN END OF THE MUDDY ASATO ESTUARY.

MAJ.GEN.JAMES L.BRADLEY'S 96TH DIVISION HAD A TOUGH FIGHT LATE MONDAY AFTERNOON AS COL.MICHAEL HALLORAN'S 381ST REGIMENT MOVED DOWN THE RIDGES APPROACHING YONABARAU BUT ENTERED THE RUINED TOWN FAIRLY EASILY.

MAJ.GEN.ARCHIBALD V.ARNOLD'S SEVENTH DIVISION'S ADVANCE ALONG THE EAST COAST TO A HIGH HILL MASS SOUTH AND EAST OF THE SEAPORT WAS MADE IN PITCH DARKNESS AND HEAVY RAIN. IT TOOK THE ENEMY BY SURPRISE. THERE WAS NO RESISTANCE UNTIL DAYLIGHT BY WHICH TIME THE 184TH REGIMENT HAD CUT THE MAIN ROAD TO NAHA AND GAINED HIGH GROUND.

OKINAWA,MAY 22-(DELAYED)-(AP)-THE ENTRY OF 96TH AND SEVENTH DIVISION TROOPS INTO YONABARU AND THEIR CAPTURE OF HIGH RIDGES TO THE SOUTH OVERSHADOWED OTHER DEVELOPMENTS TODAY IN THE BATTLE OF OKINAWA.

JAPANESE MADE FRUITLESS COUNTERATTACKS AGAINST THE MARINES ON THE OPPOSITE , WEST SIDE.

THE COUNTERATTACKS WERE PRECEDED BY HEAVY MORTAR FIRE AND A FLURRY OF GRENADES.

JAPANESE, ESTIMATED AT COMPANY STRENGTH, ATTACKED FIRST DIVISION LINES ON THE NORTH SIDE OF NAHA AFTER MIDNIGHT. IT IS ESTIMATED THAT ABOUT 150 WERE KILLED.

THE ENEMY ALSO MADE A SMALL COUNTERATTACK AGAINSST THE SIXTH DIVISION NORTH OF NAHA BUT FAILED TO PREVENT A JUMPOFF BY THE FOURTH REGIMENT ALONG A 1,000-YARD FRONT WHICH GAINED ABOUT 200 YARDS TOWARD THE NORTHEASTERN END OF THE MUDDY ASATO ESTUARY.

MAJ.GEN.JAMES L.BRADLEY'S 96TH DIVISION HAD A TOUGH FIGHT LATE MONDAY AFTERNOON AS COL.MICHAEL HALLORAN'S 381ST REGIMENT MOVED DOWN THE RIDGES APPROACHING YONABARAU BUT ENTERED THE RUINED TOWN FAIRLY EASILY.

MAJ.GEN.ARCHIBALD V.ARNOLD'S SEVENTH DIVISION'S ADVANCE ALONG THE EAST COAST TO A HIGH HILL MASS SOUTH AND EAST OF THE SEAPORT WAS MADE IN PITCH DARKNESS AND HEAVY RAIN. IT TOOK THE ENEMY BY SURPRISE. THERE WAS NO RESISTANCE UNTIL DAYLIGHT BY WHICH TIME THE 184TH REGIMENT HAD CUT THE MAIN ROAD TO NAHA AND GAINED HIGH GROUND.

LIKE THE MARINES, THE 77TH DIVISION, COMMANDED BY MAJ.GEN.ANDREW D.BRUCE, FOUND ITSELF BOGGED DOWN DEEP IN MUD AND MOTORIZED EQUIPMENT WAS STALLED.

WITH THE 5TH AIRFORCE,PHILIPPINES,MAY 21 (DELAYED)-(AP)-SLEEK FIGHTER BOMBERS IN THEIR MOST SUCCESSFUL FIREBOMB RAID OF THE LUZON CAMPAIGN TODAY CLEARED ONE OF THE LAST MAJOR JAPANESE BARRIERS BLOCKING THE AMERICAN ADVANCE TO LONG CONTESTED WAWA DAM, SECONDARY SOURCE OF MANILA'S WATER SUPPLY.

I WATCHED FROM A RECONNAISSANCE BOMBER AS 175 P-38S AND P-47S SMASHED JAPANESE ARTILLERY POSITIONS ON A HIGH PROMONTORY WITH 350 FIRE BOMBS AND SEVERAL TONS OF FRAGMENTATION MISSILES.

A FEW HOURS LATER, THE 38TH DIVISION REPORTED INFANTRYMEN HAD CAPTURED A KEY HILL FROM WHERE ARTILLERY AIMED ON THE ONLY ROAD APPROACHING THE DAM HAD STOPPED THE YANKS FOR SOME TIME.

THE RAID WAS SO SUCCESSFUL IT ACTUALLY DID FOUR DAYS WORK IN ONE. AS A RESULT, ATTACKS PLANNED FOR THE NEXT THREE DAYS ON THE SAME AREA WERE CANCELED.

IT FURTHER UNDERLINED THE EFFECTIVENESS OF THE NEWLY DEVELOPED TECHNIQUE IN RUGGED MOUNTAIN COUNTRY WHERE THE JAPANESE HAVE HOLED UP. THE TERRAIN WAS SIMILAR TO OTHER LAST DITCH POSITIONS EXPECTABLE AS THE AMERICAN OFFENSIVE ENGULFS CHINA AND APAN.

MAJ. GEN. ARCHIBALD V. ARNOLD, COMMANDER OF THE 7TH, TOLD AL DOPKING, ASSOCIATED PRESS WAR CORRESPONDENT IN THE FIELD, THAT ONE KEY ACHIEVEMENT OF THE DIVISION'S DRAMATIC THRUST ALONG OKINAWA'S EAST COAST WAS TO LENGTHEN BY 4,000 YARDS THE FRONT WHICH THE JAPANESE MUST DEFEND WITH A RAPIDLY DWINDLING GARRISON.

WHILE DOUGHBOYS OF THE 7TH SLOGGED THROUGH KNEE-DEEP MUD ALONG THE COAST THE 96TH INFANTRY DIVISION ENTERED YONABARU TO FIND IT DESERTED. IT WAS THE LARGEST OKINAWA CITY TO FALL INTO AMERICAN HANDS. THE 184TH REGIMENT OF THE 7TH CUT THE MAIN NAHA-YANABRU HIGHWAY.

BY DRIVING FORWARD TO A 400-FOOT HILL BEYOND YONABARU, THE 7TH ALMOST DOUBLED THE LENGTH OF THE FRONT AND CONFRONTED THE JAPANESE WITH A NORTH-SOUTH ELBOW JOINING THE PREVIOUS EAST-WEST FRONT LINE WEST OF YONABARU.

ALTHOUGH DOUGHBOYS OF THE 7TH, VETERANS OF FURIOUS FIGHTING AT ATTU, KWAJALEIN AND LEYTE, ACHIEVED COMPLETE SURPRISE WITH THEIR MANEUVER, THEY ENCOUNTERED TROUBLE SCALING THE HILLS DUE TO SLIPPERY MUD. MAY 24 1945

SHOVING OFF AT 2:30 A.M. THE FORWARD ATTACKING ELEMENTS REACHED THEIR HIGH GROUND OBJECTIVES IN FOUR HOURS. JAPANESE RESISTANCE WAS NEGLIGIBLE UNTIL LATE IN THE DAY WHEN THE NIPPONESE OPENED UP WITH MACHINE GUN AND 47MM ANTI-TANK GUN FIRE FROM A 500-FOOT ESCARPMENT ABOUT 1,000 YARDS DIRECTLY SOUTH OF THE AMERICAN-HELD HEIGHT.

BY AFTERNOON ARNOLD'S DIVISION HAD BROUGHT UP ARTILLERY AND BEGAN SHELLING THE JAPANESE WITH SUPPORT FROM TWO ROCKET SHIPS OFFSHORE. GENERAL ARNOLD SAID THE JAPANESE APPARENTLY TRIED TO MOVE IN TWO COMPANIES TO REINFORCE THE HILL POSITION TAKEN IN THE AMERICAN ADVANCE THE DAY BEFORE THE ASSAULT OPENED. THIS EFFORT WAS SHATTERED BY ACCURATE ARTILLERY FIRE.

ABOUT 20 SUICIDE BOATS, SOME IN OPERATING CONDITION, WERE FOUND IN THE YONABARU SECTOR, HIDDEN ALONG A WINDING STREAM. OTHER CAPTURED ENEMY MATERIEL INCLUDED A SIX-INCH GUN.

THE JAPANESE ATTEMPTED A COUNTERATTACK BEFORE DAWN TUESDAY ON THE WEST SIDE OF THE LINE. EIGHTY OF THE NIPPONESE WERE KILLED AND THE ATTACK BROKEN UP BY MARINES OF MAJ. GEN.PEDRO A. DEL VALLE'S FIRST DIVISION.

ALONG THE ASATO RIVER ON THE NORTHERN EDGE OF NAHA, OKINAWA'S CAPITAL CITY, MAJ. GEN.LEMUEL C. SHEPHERD, JR.'S SIXTH MARINE DIVISION IMPROVED AND STRENGTHENED ITS POSITION.

OTHER HIGHLIGHTS OF THE OKINAWA CAMPAIGN AND SUPPORTING OPERATIONS INCLUDED:

EIGHT OUT OF 12 OR MORE JAPANESE PLANES WERE SHOT DOWN AT DUSK MONDAY WHEN THEY ATTACKED AMERICAN FLEET UNITS. NO AMERICAN SHIPS WERE DAMAGED.

BRITISH CARRIER-BASED PLANES ATTACKED AIR BASES, DOCKS AND OTHER FACILITIES IN THE SAKISHIMAS, SOUTHERNMOST OF THE RYUKYUS. THEY SHOT DOWN A JAPANESE PLANE.

(AP)-DESPERATELY FIGHTING JAPANESE, HOLED UP IN CAVES ALONG RIDGES OF THE JUNGLE-CLAD CARABALLO MOUNTAINS, USED HAND GRENADES AND MACHINEGUN FIRE TODAY TO STALL THE DRIVE OF AMERICAN TROOPS TOWARD THE LAST GREAT NIPPON STRONGHOLD IN THE PHILIPPINES--THE RICH CAGAYAN VALLEY OF NORTHEASTERN LUZON.

AS THIS MOUNTAIN FIGHT RAGED IN THE BITTERLY CONTESTED SECTOR JUST NORTH OF YANK-HELD BALETE PASS, OTHER AMERICAN DOUGHBOYS, LED BY FLAME THROWING TANKS, WERE REPORTED WEDNESDAY TO HAVE STORMED AND TAKEN A STRONG MOUNTAIN RIDGE IN THE MANILA WATERSHED SECTOR.

ON MINDANAO ISLAND, FAR TO THE SOUTH, THE YANKS LIBERATED MALAYBALAY, BUKIDNON PROVINCE CAPITAL, AND CAPTURED ITS SMALL AIRFIELD.

IN THE BALETE PASS AREA THE JAPANESE HAVE WITHSTOOD FOUR STRAIGHT DAYS OF ASSAULTS ON ONE CAVE POCKED RIDGE. PATROLS OF THE 25TH DIVISION SCOUTED BEYOND THE RIDGE AND REPORTED FEWER DEFENSIVE STRONG POINTS NORTHWARD, TOWARD THE CAGAYAN VALLEY. JAPANESE ARTILLERY FIRE IN THE SECTOR DECREASED BUT THE NIPPONESE HELD ON DOGGEDLY WITH HEAVY MACHINEGUN FIRE AND SHOWERS OF GRENADES.

LT.GEN.CHARLES H.GAIRDNER, BRITISH OBSERVER WITH THE MACARTHUR COMMAND, VISITED THE VILLA VERDE TRAIL FRONT WHERE THE 32ND DIVISION HAD BEEN PLUGGING AGAINST TREMENDOUS TERRAIN OBSTACLES IN AN EFFORT TO OUTFLANK THE BALETE PASS REGION. THE BRITISH OFFICER DESCRIBED THE CARABALLO MOUNTAIN FRONT AS "JUST LIKE BURMA WHICH I THINK WAS THE WORST IN THE WORLD."

BALLOON BOMBS

BY EDWARD H.HIGGS

WASHINGTON, MAY 23-(AP)-JAPAN, GRADUALLY BEING BLASTED TO BITS BY SUPERFORTRESSES, IS STRIKING BACK AT THE UNITED STATES WITH BOMBS HITCHED TO BIG, FREE-FLYING PAPER BALLOONS.

SO FAR, HOWEVER, SPORADIC ATTACKS DURING THE PAST SEVERAL MONTHS HAVE NOT CAUSED ANY PROPERTY DAMAGE AND, IN NO SENSE, ARE THE BALLOONS CONSIDERED A "MILITARY THREAT."

THE ARMY AND NAVY SO SAID LATE YESTERDAY IN A JOINT ANNOUNCEMENT.

IT WAS THE FIRST PUBLIC DISCLOSURE THAT THE UNMANNED BALLOONS--WAFTED PERHAPS FROM SUBMARINES OR THE JAPANESE HOMELAND--ARE HITTING NORTH AMERICA, AIMLESSLY. HOWEVER, THE ATTACKS HAVE BEEN AN OPEN SECRET WITH MANY NEWSPAPERMEN AND TO HUNDREDS OF RESIDENTS IN THE WESTERN PART OF THE COUNTRY.

THE BALLOON BOMBING WAS THE FIRST REPORTED JAPANESE ATTEMPT TO ATTACK THE UNITED STATES SINCE OCCASIONAL SUBMARINES AND SUBMARINE-BASED PLANE STOLE UP TO THE WEST COAST IN 1942 TO STRIKE AT OIL FIELDS AND DEFENSE INSTALLATIONS.

THE WRAPS WERE TAKEN OFF THE STORY BECAUSE THE TWO SERVICES THOUGHT THE PUBLIC SHOULD BE WARNED ABOUT THE POTENTIAL DANGER OF UNEXPLODED BOMBS DROPPED BY THE BALLOONS.
EMPHASIZING THAT THERE IS NO NEED FOR ALARM, THE SERVICES SAID THEY FELT THAT SAVING EVEN ONE AMERICAN LIFE THROUGH PRECAUTIONARY MEASURES WOULD MORE THAN BALANCE ANY BENEFIT THE JAPANESE MIGHT GET FROM LEARNING SIMPLY THAT THE BALLOONS HAVE REACHED NORTH AMERICA.
THE ENEMY WOULD LIKE TO LEARN SPECIFIC DETAILS AS TO THE POINTS AT WHICH THE BALLOONS LANDED AND THE EFFECT THEY HAVE HAD, THE ARMY AND NAVY ADDED, BUT THEY HAVE NO INTENTION OF LETTING THE JAPANESE FIND OUT.
"SUCH INFORMATION WOULD PERMIT HIM TO EVALUATE THE RESULT OF HIS FANTASTIC EFFORT AND POSSIBLY CORRECT HIS METHODS," THE JOINT STATEMENT SAID. THERE WAS NO OFFICIAL HINT, BEYOND THE DESCRIPTION "LONG-RANGE" ATTACKS, AS TO THEIR ORIGIN.
ABOUT 33 FEET IN DIAMETER, THE BALLOONS ARE MADE OF GRAY, WHITE OR GREENISH BLUE PAPER. THEY CANNOT BE CONTROLLED.

THE CHANCES THAT ANY GIVEN PLACE IN THIS COUNTRY MIGHT BE HIT, THE ARMY AND NAVY SAID, "IS ONLY ONE IN MANY MILLIONS."
THE BOMBS, SUSPENDED BENEATH THE PAPER BAGS, APPARENTLY ARE DESIGNED TO SET FOREST OR BRUSH FIRES. ALTHOUGH SOME OF THE BALLOONS HAVE LANDED OR DROPPED BOMBS IN ISOLATED AREAS, NO FIRES HAVE BEEN STARTED SO FAR. THE PUBLIC, HOWEVER, WAS CAUTIONED TO BE ON THE ALERT FOR SUCH INCIDENTS.
MAY 24 1945
TO ACQUAINT THE PUBLIC--ESPECIALLY CHILDREN WEST OF THE MISSISSIPPI--WITH THE DANGERS OF THE BALLOON BOMBS, THE WAR DEPARTMENT HAS BEGUN AN EDUCATIONAL CAMPAIGN IN COOPERATION WITH SCHOOLS AND CIVIC ORGANIZATIONS.
MEANTIME, THE SERVICES CAUTIONED THAT SOME UNEXPLODED BOMBS MAY BE FOUND IN ISOLATED OR WOODED SPOTS OR BENEATH MELTING SNOW. THEY WARNED THAT UNDER NO CIRCUMSTANCES SHOULD ANYONE NOT ACQUAINTED WITH BOMBS APPROACH OR TOUCH ANY UNFAMILIAR OBJECT.
THE STATEMENT PRAISED NEWSPAPERS AND RADIO STATIONS FOR HELPING TO KEEP INFORMATION OF THE BALLOON LANDINGS FROM THE JAPANESE, ASKED FOR CONTINUED COOPERATION AND REQUESTED CIVILIANS TO REFRAIN FROM DISCUSSING ANY SPECIFIC BALLOON INCIDENT.
IN THE EVENT OF A CASUALTY, IT SAID, "IT WILL SERVE THE NATIONAL INTEREST IF THE PRESS AND RADIO AND ALL CIVILIANS WILL REFRAIN FROM CONNECTING SUCH CASUALTY WITH ENEMY ACTION."

PLANS FOR THE VAST JOB WERE LAID NEARLY A YEAR AGO AND THE JOB WAS ACCOMPLISHED BY THE ARMY TRANSPORTATION CORPS' WATER DIVISION HEADED BY BRIG. GEN. J.M. FRANKLIN AND TRAFFIC CONTROL DIVISION HEADED BY BRIG. GEN. WILLIAM J. WILLIAMSON.

THE CODING FACILITATED THE SHUFFLING OF FREIGHT AFTER V-E DAY SO THAT FOOD, CLOTHING, MEDICAL AND OTHER SUPPLIES NECESSARY IN PEACE OR WAR CONTINUED ON ITS WAY TO EUROPE. TANKS, GUNS, AMMUNITION AND OTHER COMBAT MATERIEL WERE STOPPED AND QUICKLY STEERED TOWARD THE PACIFIC.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
MEAT HUNGRY AMERICANS ARE EATING INTO THEIR FUTURE SUPPLIES OF TWO PRIME SUBSTITUTES.
UNABLE TO GET THE MEAT THEY WANT, CIVILIANS ARE TURNING TO EGGS AND MILK IN LARGE QUANTITIES.
AS A RESULT, A SURVEY DISCLOSED TODAY, THE GOVERNMENT IS NOT MEETING WITH AS MUCH SUCCESS AS A YEAR AGO IN SECURING A RESERVE OF BUTTER, CHEESE, EVAPORATED MILK AND EGGS FOR USE NEXT FALL AND WINTER WHEN OUTPUT NORMALLY DROPS BELOW REQUIREMENTS.
SERIOUS SHORTAGES IN THESE FOODS MAY DEVELOP.
ON AN OVERALL BASIS, PRESENT SUPPLY PROSPECTS INDICATE THAT THE QUALITY OF THE CIVILIAN DIET WILL SLUMP TO ITS LOWEST POINT OF THE WAR IN AUGUST. BY THEN IT PROBABLY WILL BE LARGELY A VEGETABLE DIET. FOR THE MEAT SITUATION IS LIKELY TO BE EVEN WORSE. LIKE EGGS AND MILK, SUPPLIES OF FOOD FATS AND OILS WILL BE SOMEWHAT SMALLER. THE GROCERY STORE WILL OFFER LITTLE MORE THAN A GOOD VICTORY GARDEN.
EUROPE FACES DARKER PROSPECTS. MAJ.GEN. WARREN F.DRAPER, CHIEF OF THE PUBLIC HEALTH BRANCH OF SUPREME ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, SAID "THERE ISN'T ENOUGH FOOD IN SIGHT TO KEEP SOME PEOPLE OF EUROPE FROM GOING HUNGRY."
BRITAIN'S BACON AND FAT RATIONS SOON WILL BE CUT BUT SUGAR AND CHEESE ALLOTMENTS WILL BE MAINTAINED AT ABOUT THE SAME LEVEL FOR THE REMAINDER OF THE YEAR. MINISTER OF FOOD J.J.LLEWELLIN ANNOUNCED THE BACON RATION WILL BE REDUCED FROM FOUR TO THREE OUNCES A WEEK BEGINNING MAY 27. DOMESTIC RATIONS OF OILS AND FATS, HE SAID, WILL BE PARED ONE OUNCE A WEEK DURING THE COMING MONTHS.
IN THIS COUNTRY BUTTER, CHEESE AND EVAPORATED MILK RESERVES ARE CONSIDERABLY SMALLER THAN A YEAR AGO DESPITE THE FACT THAT MILK PRODUCTION DURING THE FIRST FOUR MONTHS OF 1945 WAS 2.29 PER CENT LARGER THAN IN THE SAME PERIOD LAST YEAR.

A3WX
DAIRY EXPERTS SAID CIVILIANS ARE CONSUMING WELL OVER HALF THE NATION'S MILK OUTPUT IN THE FORM OF FLUID MILK AND CREAM. CONSUMPTION THUS FAR THIS YEAR HAS BEEN AT THE RATE OF SOME 430 POUNDS PER CAPITA COMPARED WITH AN AVERAGE OF 340 POUNDS FOR THE 1935-39 PERIOD.
EGGS ARE BEING EATEN AT THE RATE OF 400 A YEAR WITH THE PROSPECTIVE SUPPLY SUFFICIENT TO PROVIDE AN AVERAGE OF 366. THUS EGG SUPPLIES MOVING INTO COLD STORAGE FOR CONSUMPTION NEXT WINTER ARE MATERIALLY SMALLER THAN A YEAR AGO. DURING THE LAST HALF OF THE YEAR CONSUMERS PROBABLY WILL HAVE TO DROP FAR BELOW THE 366-EGG RATE.
OFFICIALS EXPECT THE MEAT SUPPLY TO IMPROVE SLIGHTLY IN SEPTEMBER AS FALL MARKETINGS OF GRASS-FED CATTLE BEGIN AND FARMERS START SENDING THIS YEAR'S EARLY SPRING PIGS TO SLAUGHTER.

THE HOME FRONT SITUATION LOOKED THIS WAY TODAY:
MIDDLE WEST
IN DETROIT, MAYOR EDWARD J.JEFFRIES CONSIDERED ASKING OPA TO PERMIT SLAUGHTERERS TO "BORROW" ON FUTURE KILLING QUOTAS AFTER BEING TOLD BY MEAT INDUSTRY REPRESENTATIVES THAT CITY'S MEAT SUPPLY WAS ONLY 25 PER CENT OF NORMAL. DES MOINES REPORTED CONTINUED HEAVY RAINS HOLDING UP PLANTING OF SPRING GRAINS IN IOWA. SOME FARM PRODUCTION LEADERS SAID THIS WOULD MEAN LESS CORN.
IN MILWAUKEE, GORDON GUNDERSON, DISTRICT WFA REPRESENTATIVE, SAID MEAT AND POULTRY STILL ARE CRITICALLY SHORT IN WISCONSIN. FRUITS, FRESH VEGETABLES AND BUTTER ARE ADEQUATE THERE. TOPEKA REPORTED ITS BEEF SUPPLY THE SHORTEST SINCE THE WAR BEGAN BUT WITH FATS. CANNED VEGETABLES, OILS AND MILK PLENTIFUL.
FROM ST.PAUL, E.G.BOOTH, DISTRICT WFA REPRESENTATIVE, REPORTED MINNESOTA'S BEEF AND PORK SUPPLY SHORT, INCREASED VEAL SUPPLIES IN SIGHT AND MILK, EGG AND BUTTER SUPPLIES GOOD. FRESH VEGETABLES FROM THE SOUTH WERE PLENTIFUL. IN OKLAHOMA CITY, THE SEVEREST SHORTAGE ARE IN MEAT, CANNED FRUIT, CANNED MILK AND POTATOES. IN CHICAGO, ALL MEATS, FISH AND POULTRY ARE SCARCE. A MAJORITY OF CLEVELAND'S RESTAURANT AND HOTEL OPERATORS HAVE ASKED MAYOR THOMAS A.BURKE TO DECLARE TWO MEATLESS DAYS EACH WEEK.

TEXAS, COLORADO, NEW MEXICO, KANSAS, OKLAHOMA, ARKANSAS AND LOUISIANA ARE EXPERIENCING A CRITICAL LARD SHORTAGE. MEAT STILL IS VERY SHORT. POULTRY PRODUCTION IS INSUFFICIENT TO MEET EVEN ARMY DEMANDS. THE EGG SUPPLY IS NORMAL BUT CANNED FRUITS AND FANCY GRADE CANNED VEGETABLES ARE SHORT. CANNED VEGETABLES OF LOWER GRADES GENERALLY ARE PLENTIFUL WITH CARROTS, CABBAGE AND TOMATOES ABUNDANT.
NEW ENGLAND
THE REGIONAL OPA SAID MEAT WAS SO SCARCE EVEN THE BLACK MARKET COULDN'T FIND IT. EGGS ARE BEING RATIONED ONE DOZEN TO A CUSTOMER WHEN AVAILABLE. POULTRY WAS ALMOST NON-EXISTENT AND WHEN AVAILABLE LON

LONG LINES OF CUSTOMERS FORMED AT MARKETS BEFORE DAWN. FISH--COD AND HADDOCK--WERE HARD TO GET BUT MACKEREL AND LOBSTERS WERE MORE PLENTIFUL. NEW BEDFORD, MAS. ., REPORTED ITS 11 LARGEST MARKETS HAD NO MEAT YESTERDAY (TUES).
EAST
IN NEW YORK CITY THE MEAT AND POULTRY SCARCITY CONTINUED ACUTE WITH SOME STORES SELLING THREE EGGS TO A CUSTOMER. RESTAURANT ASSOCIATIONS LABELED "IMPOSSIBLE" MAYOR F.H.LAGUARDIA'S PROPOSAL THAT RED POINTS BE COLLECTED FROM RESTAURANT MEAT-EATERS. ALMOST NO MEAT OR POULTRY WAS AVAILABLE IN ALBANY. LARGE ALBANY MEAT PACKERS SAID RECEIPTS WERE "VERY FAIR", BUT THAT GOVERNMENT PURCHASES LEFT LITTLE FOR CIVILIANS.
WFA REPORTED THE SUPPLY OF COLD MEATS IN THE PITTSBURGH AREA "WORSE THAN LAST WEEK BECAUSE THE GOVERNMENT HAS TAKEN PRACTICALLY ALL BULLS FOR SAUSAGE MEAT FOR THE ARMED SERVICES." PORK RUNS CONTINUED LIGHT. BUTTER, CHICKENS AND CHEESE WERE VERY SCARCE. FISH WERE FAIRLY ADEQUATE. FROM PHILADELPHIA, FRED S.DAVIS, EXECUTIVE SECRETARY OF THE FOOD DISTRIBUTORS ASSOCIATION, SAID SOME 19,000 STORES IN EASTERN PENNSYLVANIA AND SOUTHERN NEW JERSEY HAVE ONLY ENOUGH MEAT TO SUPPLY ONE OF EVERY FOUR CUSTOMERS. AVAILABLE MILK WAS 15 TO 20 PER CENT MORE THAN NEEDED. SOME

IS GOING TO WASTE.

SOUTH

EGGS WERE VERY SCARCE IN ATLANTA BUT THE POULTRY SITUATION WAS EASING. EVERY KIND OF MEAT--EVEN WEINERS--WAS GONE FROM COUNTERS. THE VIRGINIA MEAT SHORTAGE REACHED AN ALL-TIME LOW WITH EVEN SAUSAGE A HARD-TO-GET ITEM. ONE RICHMOND BUTCHER, OUT OF MEAT SEVERAL DAYS, FILLED HIS SHELVES WITH STRAW HATS "JUST TO KEEP BUSY." IN THE SHENANDOAH VALLEY AREA, RESTAURANTS WERE CLOSING SUNDAYS. BIRMINGHAM PACKERS SAID VIRTUALLY ALL MARKETS WERE WITHOUT MEAT BUT PREDICTED THE SITUATION WOULD IMPROVE SOME IN THE NEXT 30 TO 45 DAYS WHEN ALABAMA GRASS CATTLE MOVE TO MARKET.

A7WX

IN THE JACKSONVILLE, LFA., AREA MEAT AND BUTTER SHORTAGES CONTINUED ACUTE. POULTRY WAS HARD TO GET, FRESH VEGETABLES PLENTIFUL. THE EGG AND MEAT SCARCITY CONTINUED ACUTE IN BALTIMORE. THE INDEPENDENT RETAIL ASSOCIATION REPORTED MOST MARYLAND STORES RECEIVING ONLY A THIRD OF THEIR FORMER QUOTAS OF MEAT AND EGGS OR EVEN LESS. CANNED MILK WAS SCARCE. BACON WAS EXTINCT IN MEMPHIS AND POULTRY VERY SCARCE.

MAY 24 1945

WEST

COLORADO AND MONTANA WERE FEELING THE PINCH MORE ACUTELY WITH MEAT AND POULTRY SCARCE AND EGGS AMPLE. CROP PROSPECTS ARE GOOD BUT FIELD LABOR IS BARELY ADEQUATE. PORTLAND REPORTED MEAT PLENTIFUL IN OREGON EXCEPT FOR SOME SMALL TOWNS. IN LOS ANGELES, SOME SMALL BUTCHER SHOPS WERE CLOSING SEVERAL DAYS A WEEK.

AND WITH THE SHORTCAKE SEASON APPROACHING, INDIANAPOLIS SAID A STRAWBERRY SHORTAGE ALSO LOOMED.

Himmler Kills Himself, Swallows Hidden Poison After British Seize Him

GESTAPO LEADER HAD SMALL VIAL HIDDEN IN MOUTH

Nazi Hangman Was Captured Two Days Ago by British Troops.

EXAMINED BY DOCTORS

NIGHT

LONDON, May 24—(AP) No. 1 war criminal Heinrich Himmler took his own life yesterday by biting into a vial of poison hidden in his mouth as he stood before his British captors at Lueneberg, Germany.

Supreme headquarters at Paris confirmed tonight the death of the most sinister of all the Nazis, who as head of the dreaded Gestapo and the SS had ordered the ruthless extermination of thousands.

Three days earlier Himmler—object of history's greatest manhunt—had been picked up in disguise as he tried to cross a bridge at Bremervoerde, 25 miles west of Hamburg, in the company of two tough-looking Nazis.

No one knew then that the British Tommies on guard at the bridge had in their hands at last the man who ordered the destruction of Lidice in Czechoslovakia, and who had been held responsible for the deaths of hundreds of thousands of Jews and political prisers in Nazi murder camps.

Shaved Off Mustache

He had shaved off his toothbrush mustache. A black patch over his right eye replaced his horn-rimmed glasses.

He was in civilian clothes and forged identity papers bore the name of one "Hitzinger," discharged member of the German field security police.

For three days he hid the vial of poison in his mouth as he was questioned, stripped and searched from toe to ear, then finally admitted his identity by ripping off the eye patch last night in the parlor of a house in Luneberg, 25 miles south of Hamburg.

Wrapped only in blankets—his clothes had been taken from him for fear he might have poison hidden in them—an examining doctor told him to open his mouth.

When the doctor saw a small blue vial hidden there, Himmler bit into it and 25 minutes later, at 11:04 p.m. (5:04 p.m. E.W.T.) was dead.

His discovery and death left only Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop among the big-shot Nazis to be accounted for, although reports of Hitler's death have never been given official Allied substantiation.

Only a few hours earlier, the same death route had been taken by Gen. Admiral Georg von Friedeburg, chief of the Nazi Navy who had signed the unconditional surrender papers.

Supreme headquarters confirmed that Friedeburg slipped unaccompanied into a bathroom at Flensburg and bit into a vial of poison.

A dramatic account of Himmler's ignominious last days was given in a dispatch by Terence Duncan, Exchange Telegraph correspondent at British Second army headquarters.

Two British soldiers guarding the Bremervoerde bridge stopped three men on Monday. They produced papers which aroused the guards' suspicions.

Taken to Camp

They were placed under close arrest and passed on to a camp guarded by field security police at Westertinke. Himmler's identity still was unknown.

Then Himmler requested an interview with the camp commander and without giving his name disclosed his identity by removing the black eye shield.

Duncan, quoting a senior intelligence officer of Lt. Gen. Miles C. Dempsey's staff, said Himmler's identity was confirmed by the chief of counter intelligence at the camp and later beyond all question by Dempsey's counter-intelligence officers.

In order to prevent attempts at suicide, Himmler was immediately stripped despite a vehement protest.

He was given three choices, to remain stripped, to wear British battledress, or to wrap himself in blankets. He chose the blankets, and it was in them that he later died.

After the interview, the blanket-wrapped Himmler was taken by automobile from the camp to Lueneberg, where a house was set aside for his confinement.

Duncan said it was arranged for medical officers to examine Himmler further last night, the fourth search since the Gestapo head man was arrested.

This last examination was very thorough, Duncan reported. Himmler's feet, hands, legs and the back of his ears were closely examined.

The medical officer then asked Himmler to open his mouth and roll his tongue around. The response was unsatisfactory, and the doctor led him to a light and again told him to open his mouth.

Duncan said that when the doctor put one finger inside Himmler's mouth, the hangman gave a quick shake of his head and dropped unconscious to the floor.

Bites Through Vial

He had bitten through a glass vial of poison concealed in his teeth and gulped down the contents. He died despite attempts to revive him with artificial respiration.

A similar vial was found in the clothes taken from Himmler earlier.

"I am certain," said an intelligence officer, "that at the time he was first searched the vial already was in his mouth."

The two Himmler companions, one of whom was identified as his adjutant, are held under close arrest.

Meanwhile it was announced that seven of Grand Admiral Karl Doenitz's dissolved German cabinet had been picked up by Allied troops and an eighth possibly had been arrested.

That would leave only Dr. Julius Dorpmueller, reichsminister of communications, still unaccounted for.

A Supreme headquarters control party at Paris said Dorpmueller still was in Malente, a town in Oldenburg province on the Baltic seacoast between Kiel and Luebeck in the British zone of occupation.

The Russian-controlled Berlin radio gave the greatest prominence to the news of Himmler's capture and suicide.

MAY 25 1945

Russians View Body

Three commissioners for Marshal Gregory Zhukov saw Himmler's body in the Lueneburg village tonight, Duncan said, and were given relevant photographs and reports.

Of the Nazi hierarchy, five are dead or reported dead, and only Ribbentrop, the former champagne salesman, is still at large. He fled Berlin before it fell to the Russians and is believed hiding somewhere in the mountains of Bavaria.

Besides Himmler and Von Friedeburg, Hitler was reported to have died in Berlin under circumstances still undetermined or proved to the satisfaction of the Allies.

Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels was reported to have killed himself, his wife and family in Berlin, and Martin Bormann, Hitler's deputy, was reported to have died in Berlin with Hitler, but none of these deaths has been absolutely proved.

Hermann Goering, former chief of the German air force, is a prisoner of the Allies.

So are Doenitz, self-appointed successor to Hitler, Field Marshal Wilhelm Kietel, chief of the German general staff, and Field Marshal Alfred Jodl, chief of staff.

Dr. Robert Ley, notorious chief of the German labor front; Julius Streicher, Jew baiter; Alfred Rosenberg, philosopher of the Nazi movement; Franz von Papen, troubleshooting Nazi diplomat, Hans Frank, governor of Poland, and a host of other Nazi smaller fry are other Allied captives.

Rudolf Hess, who was Hitler's designated successor at the outbreak of the war, has been a prisoner of war in England since he parachuted into Scotland just before the German attack on Russia.

GESTAPO CHIEF TAKES POISON AFTER CAPTURE

Dies While in Custody of British Second Army in Germany.

MAY 25 1945

SEIZED THREE DAYS AGO

Carried Vial of Lethal Fluid in His Mouth—Bit It Open as He Was Examined.

Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force, May 24 (A. P.).—Heinrich Himmler has been captured and has killed himself by poison.

Captured by British.

London, May 24 (A. P.).—Heinrich Himmler bit into a vial of poison and killed himself last night, three days after his capture by the British Second Army.

DAY

The 44-year-old chief of the Gestapo and Fuehrer of SS troops had succeeded in hiding a vial of potassium cyanide in his mouth. He took the potion in the parlor of the Lueneberg house where he was held and died last night at 11:04 o'clock, twenty-five minutes after swallowing the contents of the blue vial.

Gen.-Admiral Georg von Friedeburg, commander in chief of the German Navy, killed himself a few hours previously at Flensburg. Von Friedeburg was one of those who signed the German surrender pact.

In Routine Check.

Himmler had been picked up by British Tommies in a routine check of pedestrians crossing a bridge at Bremervoerde, thirty-five miles west of Hamburg. His mustache was shaved off and a black patch hid one eye. He remained unrecognized until he dramatically removed the eye patch in an interview he had requested with a British camp commandant.

Thus Himmler, who vied wih Hitler in blackening the pages of German history, robbed the Allies of perhaps their No. 1 war criminal. Hermann Goering is a captive. Joachim von Ribbentrop is still unaccounted for.

Tells Dramatic Story.

The senior intelligence officer of Gen. Sir Miles C. Dempsey's staff told a dramatic story of Himmler's arrest, along with two thuglike SS (Elite Guard) bodyguards, and of the final act in which he committed suicide while undergoing a medical examination.

Two British soldiers guarding a bridge at Bremervorde stopped three men on Monday in a routine check of passing civilians. One man had a black patch over his right eye and was clean shaven. He gave the name of Hizinger. Papers he produced aroused the suspicion of the guards.

"Hizinger" and his two companions, all in civilian clothes, were arrested. Himmler, unrecognized, passed on to the Field Security Police at Westertinke with his bodyguards. Then the captive requested an interview with the camp commander.

At the interview he dramatically disclosed his identity by removing his eye shield and putting on his glasses. Later the identification was confirmed beyond a doubt by Counter-Intelligence officers from Gen Dempsey's headquarters.

In order to check against the possibility of concealed poison, Himmler was stripped — much against his will—and thoroughly searched.

Wrapped in Blankets.

There was no violence when Himmler was stripped, although he protested orally. Since the civilian clothes he was wearing had been confiscated and there were no others available, he was given three choices, to remain stripped, wear British battledress, or wrap himself in blankets. He decided to wrap himself in blankets.

Before the interrogation, Himmler had been separated from the two SS men he insisted upon calling his adjutants. Both of these are now being held under very close arrest.

After the interview and identification, the blanket-wrapped Himmler was taken in an intelligence officer's car from the camp to Lueneberg, where a house was set aside for his confinement. It was arranged as soon as possible on Wednesday night for a medical officer to carry out a further inspection—the fourth since Himmler's arrest, to verify that he was not concealing any poison.

He was made to strip again. The examination was thorough. Himmler's feet, hands, his whole body, limbs and the back of his ears were examined. He was then asked to open his mouth and roll his tongue around.

This action was not satisfactory to the medical officer, who brought Himmler forward to the light, and told him to open his mouth again.

When the doctor put one finger inside Himmler's mouth, Himmler gave a quick shake of his head and dropped unconscious on the floor. He had bitten the vial concealed in his mouth and had swallowed the contents. Attempts were made to revive him.

A similar vial was found in the clothing taken from him earlier.

An Intelligence officer said: "I am certain that at the time he was first searched the vial was in his mouth."

One of the officers in the car that caried Himmler to Lueneburg noticed that he was continually rubbing his cheek, as if it was a mannerism. The action later suggested the possibility that he was feeling to be sure the vial was still in his mouth.

He traveled to Lueneburg dressed in a shirt, a pair of pants, marching boots and sweater, and wrapped in two blankets. He died wearing a pair of socks.

Russian officers attached to the staff of Marshal Zhukov saw Himmler's body in the Lueneburg villa tonight. They also received photographs and official reports.

CHIEF OF GESTAPO BITES INTO TINY CYANIDE VIAL CONCEALED IN HIS MOUTH

Dies In 15 Minutes; Reveals Identity After Being Taken Prisoner

British 2d Army Headquarters, May 24 (AP) — Heinrich Himmler, arch-executioner for Hitler's Third Reich, died last night by biting into a tiny glass vial of poison he had concealed in his mouth.

The chief of the German Gestapo and of Hitler's SS troops, whose orders condemned hundreds of thousands of conquered civilians and Germans to death, took his own life in the parlor of a house in Lueneberg as a British medical officer searched him.

The man for whom the Allies had conducted an intensive manhunt since Germany capitulated died clad only in a pair of socks.

Civilian clothes had been stripped from him as a medical examiner made an exhaustive check.

Forces Back Tongue

It was when the physician ordered him to open his mouth and forced back his tongue for a closer look that Himmler decided the end had come.

With a quick shake of his head, Himmler dislodged a tiny glass container which he apparently had kept lodged along his gums since his capture three days before.

He crushed the vial between his teeth and fell to the floor. Fifteen minutes later, at 11.04 (5.04 P.M., Eastern War Time) the No. 1 German war criminal was dead.

The British 2d Army headquarters disclosed that he had been picked up unrecognized three days before as he and two SS bodyguards attempted to slip across a bridge west of Hamburg.

Dark Patch Over Eye

At the time of his arrest, Himmler was disguised with a black patch over his right eye. His mustache was shaved from his thin, upper lip.

He was in civilian clothes and he carried forged papers purporting to identify him as "Hitzinger."

The papers failed to satisfy the guards, who took all three men to the field security police, who in turn passed the trio back to a detention camp.

There Himmler still remained unrecognized, but some time later he demanded an interview with the camp commander.

Summoned before a British officer at 7 P.M. Wednesday, he calmly removed the black patch and donned glasses.

The Second Vial

Thus, with a dramatic touch, he revealed himself.

British officers immediately ordered Himmler stripped of all clothing and, despite vigorous protests, searched him carefully for hidden poison.

A small blue vial was found in his clothing, but developments proved that this was not Himmler's trump card with which he intended to cheat the Allies of vengeance.

Unknown to his captors, he apparently had a second vial in his mouth and, presumably, had kept it there continuously since he was taken into custody.

Choses Blankets

To forestall an attempt to take any poison which might still be hidden, his captors took his clothing from him.

Himmler was given the choice of donning British battle dress or wrapping himself in blankets. He chose the latter and was removed by automobile to a house in Lueneberg for detention.

There he quickly was confronted by a British medical examiner who ordered him stripped for the fourth inspection since his arrest. He cast aside the blankets and doffed his shirt, pants, marching boots and sweater which he had been allowed to put on.

The physician then made a painstaking examination of his feet, hands, his entire body—even the ears. Then Himmler was ordered to open his mouth and roll back his tongue.

Quick, Less Painful

His response was unsatisfactory and the doctor ordered him to approach the light and open his mouth again. The examiner probed inside with his finger and as he did so Himmler jerked back and shook his head. There was a crunch of glass and he fell to the floor.

Efforts were made by the medical officer and others to revive him; but the potassium cyanide brought death in a quarter of an hour—a far quicker and less painful death than that of the thousands he condemned during the days of Nazi power.

To observers, there was not even the satisfaction of being able to say he died a grim death, for his face looked smug.

It was an odd coincidence, that Himmler was picked up at Bremervoerde, for that was one of the last places where British troops fought.

Among Poles

But it was not surprising that Himmler had been able to keep out of Allied hands for so long, because the entire area was thronged with displaced persons.

It was peculiar justice that Himmler should have been driven to hide there, for vast numbers of the displaced persons are Poles, the people whom Himmler helped to massacre.

In this area, entire villages have been taken over by the Poles. You see little red and white Polish flags flying from farmhouses.

Nearly everyone in sight is wearing either the Polish colors or small badges with the letter "P" on their lapels.

But that doesn't soften the harsh fact that the Allies have been cheated completely of the chance of bringing the chief Nazi gangster to trial.

Friedeburg Also Suicide

Only a few hours earlier, the same death route had been taken by General Admiral Georg von Friedeburg, chief of the Nazi Navy who had helped arrange the unconditional surrender.

Supreme headquarters confirmed that Friedeburg slipped unaccompanied into a bathroom at Flensburg and bit into a vial of poison.

Reds Play Up Himmler

It has been announced that seven of Grand Admiral Karl Doenitz's dissolved German cabinet have been picked up by Allied troops and an eighth possibly has been arrested.

That would leave only Dr. Julius Dorpmueller, Reichsminister of Communications, still unaccounted for.

A supreme headquarters control party at Paris said Dorpmueller still was in Malente, a town in Oldenburg province on the Baltic seacoast between Kiel and Luebeck in the British zone of occupation.

The Russian-controlled Berlin radio gave the greatest prominence to the news of Himmler's capture and suicide.

Hiding In Bavaria

Three commissioners of Marshal Gregory Zhukov saw Himmler's body in the Lueneburg village tonight, Duncan said, and were given relevant photographs and reports.

Of the Nazi hierarchy, five are dead or reported dead, and only Ribbentrop, the former champagne salesman, is still at large. He fled Berlin before it fell to the Russians and is believed hiding somewhere in the mountains of Bavaria.

Millions Hated Himmler

Cold-eyed Slayer Used Nazi Party in His Ambitious Scheme to Rule Germany.

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER.
Associated Press Staff Writer.

Heinrich Himmler, whose suicide was reported today, probably was the most sinister character produced by the Nazi movement.

As police chief for much of continental Europe in world war II, this bespectacled executioner was feared and hated by millions.

It was the cold-eyed Himmler who ordered the massacre of all residents of the Czech village of Lidice in reprisal for the assassination of his right-hand man, Reinhard Heydrich, in June, 1942. Thousands of Czechs were executed because of the death of "the hangman" Heydrich.

In Germany he ran the Gestapo, the secret police organization which persecuted Jews and ruthlessly put down opposition to the Nazis. He instituted "mercy killings" in state institutions.

Commanded Home Front.

Adolf Hitler named him commander in chief of the home front in 1944 and assigned him the task of stamping out every vestige of revolt.

He had perhaps the most ominous spy network in the world, with Gestapo branches in every dominated land as well as in Germany.

Himmler looked something like a provincial school master. But Sir Nevile Henderson, Great Britain's last ambassador to Germany before the outbreak of the global conflict, once branded Himmler as the worst of all the Nazi hierarchy when he said:

"If given a gun and told to take two shots, I would first shoot Himmler, then von Ribbentrop (German Foreign Minister) and brain Hitler with the butt of the rifle."

Himmler rose faster and climbed higher than any of his Nazi contemporaries except Hitler himself. And gradually he assumed many of the Fuehrer's prerogatives.

Speeches of policy were delivered by him. It was Himmler who exhorted the German people to fight "a sacred people's war." It was he who decreed total mobilization. It was he who issued instructions as to how to conduct guerrilla warfare. Himmler told the Germans in the fall of 1944 that "now or later we shall again extend over our frontiers and secure the living space which our Germanic country needs." And it was he who on November 12, 1944, read the belated proclamation allegedly written by the Fuehrer, commemorating the Munich beer hall putsch of 1923.

Was Police Official.

There was a report that he had a set of postage stamps, bearing his face and his name as chief executive of the German Reich, already printed and ready for distribution when his chance came.

When the Hitlerites came into power on January 30, 1933, Heinrich Himmler contented himself with the relatively modest job of Bavarian police commissioner.

But the tight-lipped, near-sighted, methodical, seemingly unimaginative Heinrich Himmler watched with patience and restraint. "I have time," he would say to his innermost circle of adherents. "Meanwhile I am getting experience."

Within the party he remained the equal of all the climbers. For, like Goebbels, Ley, Rosenberg, Ernst Roehm, Rudolf Hess and Hermann Goering, he was a "Reichsleiter" — leader of the realm—and as such ranked with Cabinet ministers.

This whole ambition was centered around the one idea of making himself indispensable to Germany's number one man.

Outwardly, he gave no intimation of such a purpose, however. He seemed primarily interested in proving that he was a good police department executive, and, after that, interested in eradicating the Jews and re-establishing ancient Nordic cults in the place of Christianity, and in preaching, in season and out of season, the bearing of more and ever better German babies, both in and out of wedlock.

His efficiency in putting fear into the heart of all Bavarians who were not eager to embrace National Socialism soon yielded him his first national position of power—Hitler in April, 1934, appointed him head of the German secret police.

The secret police became his chief instrument for the subjugation of the German people.

Trapped Niemoeller.

In the spring of 1934, for instance, octogenarian President Paul von Hindenburg insisted that Hitler make his peace with Rev. Martin Niemoeller. The ground was carefully cleared for a meeting between the two opponents. In to that meeting, like a bomb shell, was dropped the stenographic record, supplied by Himmler, of a telephone call by the unsuspecting Niemoeller to a brother-of-the-cloth, in the course of which the Lutheran pastor said some indiscreet words about the Fuehrer. Niemoeller was arrested.

By June, 1936, Himmler had so ingratiated himself with Hitler by his efficient system of reports that the Fuehrer named him chief of all of Germany's police.

One of the state authorities who was thus shorn of power was Hermann Goering in his capacity of combined premier and "Innenminister" of Prussia. A cousin of his remarked at the time:

"My cousin Hermann has given his 'Hausmacht' (meaning his Praetorian Guard) out of his hand by yielding the Prussian police to Himmler. His many titles and Hitler's evident intention to name him his successor are empty shells. Himmler is now the real power in Germany, second only to Adolf Hitler."

Often With Hitler.

From then on, Hitler seldom went anywhere without Heinrich Himmler. He was at the Fuehrer's side during the Austrian "Anschluss" of 1938 as Hitler triumphantly entered Linz and Vienna; accompanied Hitler to Memel in March, 1939, as that city and district were again wrested from Lithuania; sat by him on various state occasions.

Foreign statesmen learned to their dismay that Himmler had listened in on their most private talks with Adolf Hitler and secured transcripts of what took place "off the record" between them.

Himmler's ascendancy was further seen when he accompanied Hitler to various sectors of the front from time to time after the outbreak of the war. The army keenly resented this.

Wherever the Nazi forces conquered a country, the military administration soon had to give place to one from Himmler's SS.

Technically, Himmler was still subordinated to the aging Nazi Reich's Minister of the Interior, Wilhelm Frick, although for some of his functions he was responsible to Hitler only. But this slight "fault" was corected in August, 1943, when Hitler eased Frick out and made Himmler Minister of the Interior.

Himmler controlled every sector of German life except one. The unending battle for power between himself and the military leadership was still undecided. The attempt on Hitler's life on July 20, 1944, seemed to be so made to order for Himmler that many observers of the German political scene insisted he had staged it so as to clamp down at last on recalcitrant generals and to purge other political adversaries.

Heinrich Himmler then was appointed commander in chief of the armed forces of the Reich in the interior of Germany. That meant he could determine what contingents were to go to the front, what draftees should be selected for different categories of the armed services, and it put him in charge of the entire communications system of the armed forces, including that of coded messages.

Born In Munich.

He was born in Munich on October 7, 1900, and in "Wer Ist's"—the German version of "Who's Who"—he was careful to note that his origin was Aryan. He studied agriculture at the Munich technical academy and his youth was uneventful until he crossed paths with Hitler when the National Socialist party was being formed in Bavaria.

He organized the SS—Schutz Staffel—and offered it to Hitler as a tight group of thoroughly dependable and, if necessary, thoroughly desperate men. So the pleased Hitler made Himmler chief of the political police in Bavaria. As the Nazi movement grew, Himmler's powers grew in proportion.

When Hitler started his drive against the Jews, Himmler carried out the orders with a flourish and the exodus of Jews from Germany was started.

When Hitler purged his party in 1934—now known in history as "the blood purge"—Himmler sat as a judge of a drumhead tribunal which condemned rebellious Nazis to wholesale deaths before the firing squad as the rest of the world shuddered.

HIMMLER MILD IN HIS MANNER

But Gestapo Chief's Power May Have Eclipsed Hitler's

[By the Associated Press]

Heinrich Himmler probably was the most sinister character produced by the Nazi movement.

As police chief for much of Continental Europe in World War II, this bespectacled executioner was feared and hated by millions. Russians, Poles, Czechs, Yugoslavs, Dutch, French and many other nationalities were among his victims, but German nationals also fell because of him.

It was Himmler who ordered the massacre of all residents of the Czech village of Lidice in reprisal for the assassination of his right-hand aide, Reinhard Heydrich, in June, 1942. Thousands of Czechs were executed because of the death of "the hangman" Heydrich.

Instituted 'Mercy Killings'

In Germany he ran the Gestapo, the secret police organization which persecuted Jews and ruthlessly put down opposition to the Nazis. He instituted "mercy killings" in state institutions.

Adolf Hitler named him commander in chief of the home front in 1944 and assigned him the task of stamping out every vestige of revolt. That was after an army officers' plot to kill Hitler had failed. The German press said Himmler symbolized "hard realism and fanatical idealism."

The killings inside the Reich were not much publicized. Those revealed were held up as examples. One such example was the execution in Hamburg of a woman condemned without trial for saying, "Adolf is a murderer of German youth." Her accuser was a 13-year-old servant—an example of how Himmler's agents bored into every home.

Had Spy Network

He had perhaps the most ominous spy network in the world, with Gestapo branches in every dominated land as well as in Germany.

Yet Himmler was a somewhat diffident man, almost deprecatory in manner. He looked something like a provincial schoolmaster. But Sir Nevile Henderson, Great Britain's last Ambassador to Germany before the outbreak of the global conflict, once branded Himmler as the worst of all the Nazi hierarchy when he said:

"If given a gun and told to take two shots, I would first shoot Himmler, then von Ribbentrop (German Foreign Minister) and brain Hitler with the butt of the rifle."

Passed Contemporaries

While Himmler never seemed in a hurry to advance, he rose faster and climbed higher than any of his Nazi contemporaries except Hitler himself. And gradually he assumed many of the Führer's prerogatives.

Speeches of policy were delivered by him. It was Himmler who exhorted the German people to fight "a sacred people's war." It was he who decreed total mobilization. It was he who issued instructions as to how to conduct guerrilla warfare. It was he who told the Germans in the fall of 1944 that "now or later we shall again extend over our frontiers and secure the living space which our Germanic country needs."

And it was he who on November 12, 1944, read the belated proclamation allegedly written by the Führer, commemorating the Munich beer hall Putsch of 1923.

Reported Awaiting Chance

There was a report that he had a set of postage stamps, bearing his face and his name as chief executive of the German Reich, already printed and ready for distribution when his chance came.

When the Hitlerites came into power on January 30, 1933, Heinrich Himmler contented himself with the relatively modest job of Bavarian police commissioner.

Other top men scrambled madly for position. Joseph Goebbels carved out a new ministry, that of propaganda and public enlightenment, for himself, Robert Ley, with troops of brown-shirted SA men (storm troopers), overran the German trade unions by force and made himself the Reich's labor leader. Alfred Rosenberg set up a sort of party foreign office in the hope of becoming the Reich's foreign minister.

"I Have Time"

But the tight-lipped, nearsighted, methodical, seemingly unimaginative Heinrich Himmler watched maneuvers with patience and restraint.

"I have time," he would say to his innermost circle of adherents. "Meanwhile, I am getting experience."

Within the party he remained the equal of all the climbers. For, like Goebbels, Ley, Rosenberg, Ernst Roehm, Rudolf Hess and Hermann Goering, he was a Reichsleiter—leader of the realm—and as such ranked with Cabinet ministers.

His ambition was centered around the one idea of making himself indispensable to Germany's No. 1 man. That accomplished, he apparently calculated there would follow a dependency of Hitler upon him which would place this erratic, nervous man under his domination.

Eradication Of Jews

Outwardly, he gave no intimation of such a purpose, however. He seemed primarily interested in proving that he was a good police department executive, and, after that, interested in eradicating the Jews and re-establishing ancient Nordic cults in the place of Christianity and in preaching, in season, the rearing of more and ever better German babies, both in and out of wedlock.

His efficiency in putting fear into the hearts of all Bavarians who were not eager to embrace National Socialism soon yielded him his first national position of power—Hitler in April, 1934, appointed him head of the German secret police.

The secret police became his chief instrument for the subjugation of the German people. Himmler prepared a dossier on every official, every member of the party, every military officer. At critical m[illegible] these secret records pl[illegible] decisive role.

Arrange For Meeting

The ground was carefully cleared for a meeting between the opponents. Into that meeting, like a bomb shell, was dropped a stenographic record, supplied by Himmler, of a telephone call by the unsuspecting Niemoeller to a brother-of-the-cloth, in the course of which the Lutheran pastor said indiscreet words about the Führer.

The meeting broke off. Niemoeller was arrested later and for years languished in a concentration camp.

By June, 1936, Himmler had so ingratiated himself with Hitler by his efficient system of reports that the Führer named him chief of all of Germany's police. It was the first time that a chief of police had been chosen on a national basis. Until then, each of the federated states of Germany had had a state police under the direction of the state minister of interior, and the chiefs of police of cities and rural districts had been responsible to their minister of interior.

Called 'Real Power'

One of the state authorities who was thus shorn of power was Hermann Goering in his capacity of combined premier and "Innenminister" of Prussia. A cousin of his remarked at the time:

"My cousin Hermann has given his Hausmacht (meaning his Praetorian Guard) out of his hand by yielding the Prussian police to Himmler. His many titles and Hitler's evident intention to name him his successor are empty shells. Himmler is now the real power in Germany, second only to Adolf Hitler."

From then on, Hitler seldom went anywhere without Himmler. He was at the Führer's side during the Austrian Anschluss of 1938 as Hitler triumphantly entered Linz and Vienna; accompanied Hitler to Memel in March, 1939, as that city and district were again wrested from Lithuania; sat by him on state occasions.

Dismay Of Foreign Group

Foreign statesmen learned to their dismay that Himmler had listened in on their most private talks with Hitler and secured transcripts of what took place "off the record" between them.

German Ambassador Ulrich von Hassell, who was executed during the generals' purge of July, 1944, at one time ventured, at the conclusion of his report on Italy, to intervene on behalf of a Protestant pastor held in a concentration camp.

"Why, I ordered the release of that man a fortnight ago," Hitler said, in surprise.

"But he is still in camp," the diplomat asserted.

Resignedly, Hitler observed, "Even my orders are no longer executed."

Sharp Warning Given

It was a revealing confession that Hitler was no longer undisputed master of Germany. Himmler felt strong enough to thwart his will.

For von Hassell, there came a sharp warning on Himmler's orders. As he emerged from his interview with Adolf Hitler, the Gestapo official in the anteroom brusquely said: "You have taken up a matter with our Führer that was not indicated on the agenda. That must never happen again."

Resented By Army

Von Hassel quietly passed the word on to his colleagues in the diplomatic service that they could never speak to Hitler in complete privacy—that every word was being listened to by one of Himmler's agents.

Himmler's ascendancy was further seen when he accompanied Hitler to various sectors of the front from time to time after the outbreak of the war. The army keenly resented this.

Wherever the Nazi forces conquered a country, the military administration soon had to give place to one from Himmler's SS organization (the Elite Guard).

Foreign nations trembled every time the changeover took place. Himmler knew but one method of dealing with occupied countries—the merciless execution of recalcitrants.

He had proven to his satisfaction that that was the best method of governing at home—he now applied the method to all who came under the Nazi heel. His name became a byword for cruelty, ruthlessness and mercilessness.

"I know that there are people who feel sick at their stomachs every time they see the black uniform of the SS," Himmler once said. "We do not expect to be loved by too many. . . . We, the SS, put ourselves at the disposal of the Gestapo. . . . Never again will the revolutionary forces of the underground raise their head. Without leniency we shall be the executioner's sword of all those forces, for decades and for centuries."

His Control Extended

Technically, Himmler was still subordinated to the aging Nazi Reich's Minister of the Interior, Wilhelm Frick, although for some of his functions he was responsible to Hitler only. But this slight "fault" was corrected in August, 1943, when Hitler eased Frick out and made Himmler Minister of the Interior.

Himmler by that time controlled every sector of German life except one. The unending battle for power between himself and the military leadership was still undecided. The attempt on Hitler's life on July 20, 1944, seemed to be so made to order for Himmler that many observers of the German political scene insisted he had staged it so as to clamp down at last on recalcitrant generals and to purge other political adversaries.

Himmler then was appointed commander in chief of the armed forces of the Reich in the interior of Germany. That meant he could determine what contingents were to go to the front, what draftees should be selected for different categories of the armed services, and it put him in charge of the communications system of the armed forces, including that of coded messages.

NEW CABINET BEING FORMED BY CHURCHILL

Prime Minister Is Expected to Complete Task by End of Week.

PRESS SALUTES COALITION

Laborites Say They Never Again Will Join Coalition With Conservatives.

London, May 24 (A. P.).—Prime Minister Churchill began today the task of choosing the members of his new "caretaker government," as sections of the London press saluted the now dissolved coalition which, under his leadership, piloted Britain through five perilous years.

Political correspondents of London newspapers agreed generally that the Prime Minister would have most of the Cabinet offices filled by the week end, and that the new interim government would be ready to meet when Commons sits again next Tuesday.

With Labor and Liberal Ministers leaving the Cabinet, the independent Daily Mail predicted that "several junior ministers who have done good work during the war will be promoted to Cabinet rank and posts will be found for those on war service."

Laborites to Step Down.

Deputy Prime Minister Clement Attlee, Minister of Labor Ernest Bevin, Home Secretary Herbert Morrison and other labor leaders, now at a Labor Party conference at Blackpool, were expected to hand over their seals of office to the King by Monday.

With Britain facing serious international and domestic problems, the 70-year-old Prime Minister tendered his resignation yesterday to King George, who appointed Churchill to form the temporary government to serve until after the election.

The heavily Conservative Parliament will continue to sit until dissolved by the King on June 15. The election will be on July 5.

All Parties Warned

The Times of London reminded all parties that the Japanese war still remains to be fought. It said that "what may be legitimately asked of all parties is that they shall remember that there is still a deadly enemy in the field and keep domestic controversy within the bounds of moderation."

"This has been a great administration," the Times said, praising all Cabinet members individually. "Its strength, at a time when without strong Government the nation might have perished, derived from a virtue not always found in coalitions — that it really coalesced."

Will "Live In History"

The liberal News Chronicle said the Government was one which would "live in history."

Lord Beaverbrook's independent Daily Express declared the coalition "drew to its side the might and resources of America and Russia."

"Mr. Churchill's resignation," said the conservative Daily Mail, "ends a coalition government which will always be known as one of the great ministries in our annals."

25 New Seats

The new house of Commons will have 640 seats instead of the 615 in the present body. Subdivision of several abnormally large constituencies will create 25 new seats. More than 1,500 candidates are expected to enter the race.

A three-weeks' delay before the official result is made known will be caused by recording of the service vote. About 90 per cent of members of the armed forces is believed eligible to vote.

Special arrangements have been made for those serving overseas to vote by ballot or by proxy. Planes will carry ballots to far places and return them. British men and women serving in seventeen areas, including the United States and Canada, thus will have the opportunity to vote.

Campaign Literature Rationed in Britain

London, May 24 (A. P.).—Candidates in Britain's election campaign face paper rationing. Each candidate of a recognized political party may use one ton of paper. An extra 500 pounds will go to those campaigning without support of an organization.

Meeting Delay Seen by British

LONDON, May 24—(AP) The possibility of a Big Three meeting before mid-July appeared extremely remote tonight as Premier Churchill plunged into the task of forming a temporary cabinet and rallying his Conservative party for a finish fight in the general elections July 5.

The powerful and challenging Labor party served notice it would be a no-quarter battle for the control of Britain when it voted unanimously in convention at Blackpool never again to join the Conservatives in a coalition government and called for "complete extinction" of Churchill's "Tory" party.

Responsible government quarters took the position that the acrimony certain to be engendered by the country's first general elections in 10 years would rule out any possibility of a Big Three meeting before mid-July, at the earliest. Results of the election bill will not be known until July 27 or 28, due to the necessity of counting the service vote.

Until Churchill suddenly broke up his wartime coalition cabinet yesterday it had been generally believed here that a Big Three conference was imminent because of the necessity of ironing out differences of opinion on such issues as Poland, Trieste, the Balkans and Austria.

Churchill has said now, however, that he needs a new mandate from the people to speak on the problems of reconstruction, and there is the added fact that his hands will be full with the election and management of an interim cabinet.

R.A.F. Mines Sank 500 Ships

LONDON, May 24 (AP).—The Royal Air Force Bomber Command announced today that its planes laid in German waters 47,000 mines, which sank more than 500 ships and damaged 480 during the war.

12 U-Boats Still Missing, Are Hunted as Pirates

Allied Navies Search Ocean, Have Orders to Sink Them

LONDON, May 24 (AP).—Allied navies are searching the Atlantic on the possibility that twelve to fifteen German "pirate" submarines still are at large there. The U-boats have had more than two weeks to answer surrender signals, and are subject to being sunk at sight.

Unofficial figures account for approxiatemly 250 Nazi submarines at various Allied and controlled ports. Surrender instructions still are being broadcast daily for U-boats that might ont have heard the warnings.

A total of forty-five U-boats have arrived in British, Canadian and United States ports. The latest unofficial totals report at close to 100 the number taken in and around various bases on the French Atlantic seaboard, forty at Bergen in Norway, fifty at Willhelmshaven and one at Kiel.

CHANNEL PIPELINE STILL AIDS ALLIES

London, May 24 (A. P.).—Twenty hitherto secret pipelines under the English Channel are supplying most of the gasoline for the Allied occupation armies in Europe, releasing tankers for use in the Pacific, it was disclosed today.

The British Ministry of Fuel and Power said the three-inch pipelines have been pumping an average of 1,000,000 gallons a day since early last Autumn to points as far away as Frankfurt-on-the-Main, Germany.

Laid down by British engineers the first pipe was tapped at Cherbourg on August 12, D Day plus sixty-seven. It was one of four lines built across the widest part of the Channel, from the Isle of Wight to the Cotentin Peninsula in Normandy.

40,000 IN AIR FORCE WILL FLY HOME SOON

LONDON, May 24 (AP)—United States Eighth Air Force headquarters announced today that 40,000 air and ground-crew members from nineteen American heavy-bomber bases in England would be flown back to the United States within thirty to sixty days.

About 20,000 remaining men from the same groups will follow by water. The announcement said that leaves and furloughs would be granted to all "as soon as possible" after arrival. Of the remaining forces, it was announced, some will go directly to the Pacific.

After home leaves, all men moved to the United States will return to their original organizations "and will not be assigned to replacement or redistribution centers," it was stated. Lieut. Gen. James Doolittle, before relinquishing command of the Eighth Air Force and returning to the United States, said that the group had approximately forty bomber and twenty fighter bases in England.

Not more than ten of the Eighth Air Force's sixty bomber and fighter groups are expected to remain as part of the Allies' occupation forces.

More than 2,000 bombers that a few weeks ago were attacking Germany will ferry the 40,000 men back home in one of the largest air movements ever undertaken. Each bomber will carry twenty men, including its normal complement of ten combat crew men. The passengers will include crew chiefs, armorers and other ground personnel.

Interned Airmen Fly Bomber From Sweden

U.S. Bomber Base in England, May 24 (AP)—Two United States 8th Air Force bombers which had been interned in Sweden, arrived here today, the first of approximately 80 such planes expected to return to England soon.

One was a B-24 Liberator manned by a crew of airmen who had been interned in Sweden. The other was a Flying Fortress flown by an Air Transport Command crew sent to Stockholm for the ferrying job.

Crewmen aboard the Liberator, all of whom plan to return to Sweden to help ferry back more interned bombers, were Lieut. Roger F. Hicks, Belvidere, N.J., pilot; Flight Officer Joseph M. Sirognak, Throop, Pa.; Flight Officer William H. Haslauer, Cairo, Ill., navigator; Sergt. Edward Guarford, Iron River, Mich., engineer, and Sergt. John Derdar, Jr., Salem, Pa., radio operator.

German Cruisers Moved by Allies

London, May 24 (A. P.).—The captured German cruisers Prinz Eugen and Nuernberg have been moved under an escort of British warships from Copenhagen to Wilhelmshaven for security reasons.

A naval spokesman explained today that the security considerations did not mean the ships were in any danger at Copenhagen but that since they were part of the German surrender booty it was necessary to move them to a port controlled by Supreme Allied Headquarters.

Anti-Nazi Germans Held Hope Of Reich

London, May 24 (AP)—The Archbishop of Canterbury said today that anti-Nazi Germans who suffered in concentration camps provided the chief hope of cleansing and refreshing Germany.

The primate of England said in a letter to his diocese that disclosures in the concentration camps shocked the world and showed how perverted the German people were.

"Let us remember that thousands of Germans suffered and died in those camps in their resistance to the Nazi regime," the letter said. "They were and are ashamed of their own people. . . . We should thank God that there are such, for in them is our chief hope of the cleansing and refreshing of the German nation."

The Poles Issue a Denial

LONDON, May 24 (AP)—A military authority of the London Polish Government in a statement today described as "entirely untrue" charges made by the Russian Army newspaper Red Star against Polish generals. The statement, dictated by an authority who insisted upon anonymity, said:

"Charges published by Red Star are entirely untrue. Polish forces everywhere are acting under Allied tactical command and executing their military tasks in accordance with orders from Allied military commands. Organizational matters are settled in complete agreement and within the framework of existing treaties."

London to Honor Eisenhower

LONDON, May 24 (AP).—The Council of the City of London voted today to give General Dwight D. Eisenhower a sword of honor and freedom of the City "in appreciation of the distinguished and valuable part he played in the defeat of the Germans." A committee was named to fix a date.

Indian Kills Two Japs Despite Mortal Wound

London, May 24 (AP)—An Indian non-commissioned officer in the British Army has been awarded the Victoria Cross posthumously for the amazing feat of killing two Japanese with an enemy officer's sword—after the same sword had passed entirely through his body.

The Japanese officer withdrew the sword and the Indian tore it from his grasp and killed him with it. Mortally wounded, the Indian then killed another Japanese who was struggling with a second British soldier.

The non-com, Naik Fazal Din of the 10th Baluch Regiment, next waved on with the sword the troops under him and staggered to platoon headquarters near-by to make a report. He died a short while later.

EIRE RELEASES I. R. A. PRISONERS

Dublin, May 24 (A. P.).—Hundreds of Irishmen, mostly members of the extremist Irish Republican Army, who were interned during the period of emergency, were released with the ending of the war in Europe, it was disclosed today. More than 300 have been freed from Curragh Camp, where only about fifty now remain.

Interned German sailors and airmen still are being held at Curragh. Their future has not yet been decided.

The American Navy film "The Fighting Lady" and the American motion picture "The Story of Dr. Wassell" open today in Dublin theaters with the lifting of a ban on war films. More than forty war films have arrived at the motion picture censor's office.

Memorial For Dead Yanks

Norwich, England, May 24 (AP)—Officers and men of the United States 2d Air Division have donated $80,000 to establish a permanent memorial here to their comrades killed in the air war against Germany. The memorial will be in the form of an entrance hall and two rooms of the new Norwich municipal library.

Evidence Too Heavy To Bring To Court

Bristol, England, May 24 (AP)—Robert Boston, 33, was sentenced to six months at hard labor for receiving an article stolen from the storage room of Bedminster Church—but Exhibit A was missing from the court hearing.

It was a 300-pound church bell.

Scots Catching Too Many Fish

Stornaway, Scotland, May 24 (AP). Catches of herring are so large at this center of the Scottish fishing industry that the Herring Producers Association tonight advised fishermen to dump their catches back into the sea in order to maintain prices. More than 750,000 herring were brought in Thursday by 50 boats.

Germany Destroyed as Nation

Country at Mercy of Allies Enters Era of Atonement, Completely Disarmed.

Paris, May 24 (A. P.).—Germany entered an era of atonement today as the dissolution of the last vestiges of her Government markedt he end of the phase of disarmament through which she has been passing.

Germany has ceased to exist as a nation. She has no boundaries except as defined by the Allies. She is not united, because of the zones cut through the heart of the Reich marking off the various occupying armies. She has no political life, no economic life except as dictated by the Allies, and no social life.

Expressed fears that the Allies might install a puppet government from the remnants of Admiral Karl Doenitz's regime faded as the entire Government and High Command headed for prison camps. American and British military authorities had used the German High Command to accomplish the Allied end of disarming the German Army—and then wiped out that High Command with a single stroke.

Screening of Prisoners Begins.

Almost simultaneously came Gen. Eisenhower's order that German prisoners be screened and those over age and not war criminals be returned to Germany to work farms and perform other duties necessary under the Allied occupation. This screening will sift out the war criminals and those Nazis who will be headed for labor in war-ravaged countries—reparations in the form of work.

The only Germans left in any authority in the Reich were those municipal officials appointed by the Allies, and a few underlings of the Flensburg Government, kept on the job under Allied supervision to straighten out and turn over essential records.

Probably at no time in history has a nation been so completely and so efficiently destroyed. Not even the Germans ever took over any country so completely in so short a time. Most of this has been accomplished by the Allied Supreme Command under Gen. Eisenhower, which has been handicapped by the lack of any single fixed policy for all Allied Governments.

Cause of Friction Removed.

Now that the wreckage of Germany is complete, a situation which might have resulted in British-American friction over the degree of control to be given the Germans has been averted. Recently when Lieut.-Gen. Lucius D. Clay, Gen. Eisenhower's deputy in Germany, was telling correspondents that the Germans would be under strict military control and would know it, Prime Minister Churchill was saying the Germans would in considerable measure govern themselves.

The removal of Germany's policy makers by arrest now means that the only difference between the American and the British zones of occupation will be the extent to which Germans are used for administration. Administration by Germans under American control may be only on a city official level, while in a British zone it might be set at a county level.

The Russians have said nothing regarding their own zone. They have their Free German Committee headed by captured German generals, but little has been heard of it since the Nazi collapse. It, too, may have served its purpose and may be headed for the discard.

Now for Political Phase.

Dissolution of the Wehrmacht ended the normal military task of wiping out the enemy, and now the military is embarking on a new mission where political considerations will weigh as much or more than military ones. It is a new problem for military men and one fraught with the greatest difficulties, because nothing like it ever before has been attempted.

It is more difficult because most decisions must be improvised on the spot in the field by military men. And if the Allies have agreed on any single overall policy for handling Germany for any definite term in the future, it has not yet become apparent.

Suicide of Friedeburg By Poison Is Confirmed

EVNSON

MAY 5 1945

Last Head of German Navy Takes Life After Arrest

PARIS, May 24 (AP).—Supreme headquarters confirmed today that General Admiral Georg von Friedeburg, last commander of the German Navy, committed suicide yesterday afternoon by taking poison in the bathroom of his home in Flensburg, Germany.

The successor to Grand Admiral Karl Doenitz when the latter became head of a short-lived German government was arrested at 10 a. m. by a British colonel who went to Friedeburg's home.

Friedeburg was escorted to the Hamburg liner Patria, which was used as a command post by the Supreme Headquarters Control Party to Flensburg during the arrangements for the final German surrender. He was in the Patria's bar with Doenitz and Colonel General Gustav Jodl when the order from General Dwight D. Eisenhower dissolved the German state.

He took calmly the announcement that he was a prisoner of war, and went to his home with an escorting officer to pack his bags prior to leaving for prison with others of the general staff. During the afternoon he asked permission to go to the bathroom, and while there he bit into a vial containing poison.

ENVOY RECALL REQUEST SEEN

MAY 25

France May Demand Action By Syria And Lebanon

Paris, May 24 (AP)—Responsible quarters indicated today that France might demand the recall of the Syrian and Lebanese Ministers who told a press conference yesterday that their two countries were determined to resist alleged "bullying" by the French.

Official circles regard the action as a breach of diplomatic practice.

The joint statement by the two Ministers said that if their governments could not reach a settlement in their dispute with France, the Syrian and Lebanese homelands, backed by the Arab world, "would use every means at their disposal to resist." It said "no nation in the world has the privilege of using force" in their countries.

Protests In Middle East

The arrival of French reinforcements in the Levant states, assertedly as a staging area for eventual movement to the Far Eastern battle theater, has caused bitter protests in the Middle East.

The joint statement circulated here by the Levant ministers stirred French official circles considerably, not only because of its contents but because, officials said, it still has not been communicated to the French Government.

Background Os Dispute

A French Government expert on Middle Eastern affairs gave this background of the dispute:

He said that for the last month France had been negotiating with the two countries for an agreement whereby France would relinquish some administrative functions and some of her controls. In return the French delegate, Lieut. Gen. Paul-Etienne Beynet, was instructed to obtai nthere types of "guarantees."

France sought assurance that her merchants and traders would not be subjected to discrimination ,asked certain strategic military bases and proposed that the two countries guarantee maintenance of what is described as the French "cultural position."

Differ About Troops

These negotiations were proceeding when a ship arrived with some 500 French troops. The Government has insisted these were dispatched to the Middle East en route to the Pacific along with other troops France hopes to use against Japan.

The official expressed the opinion that Syria and Lebanon used the arrival of the troops as a pretext for breaking off negotiations with General Beynet and at the same time to arouse public opinion in Britain and the United States during the San Francisco conference.

REPATRIATION PLAN ACCEPTED BY REDS

Paris, May 24 (A. P.).—The western Allies have agreed with the Soviet military authorities on the greatest mass repatriation program in history, involving the movement of 2,500,000 persons, Supreme Headquarters announced tonight. Among those to be repatriated are between 15,000 and 20,000 American prisoners of war and from 25,000 to 30,000 British prisoners behind the Russian lines.

The prisoners will be exchanged directly across the lines now held between the British, Americans and the Russians. Prior to the agreement the Russians insisted upon repatriating prisoners through Odessa, a process which took many weeks.

ARMY TO FREE FEW WACS

Small Number to Be Sent Home From Europe, Says Area Chief

PARIS, May 24 (AP)—A token force of Wacs will be sent home for discharge under the Army's point system, but additional units will be assigned to the European theatre of operations, which is still below its 10,800 quota, it was disclosed today.

Lieut. Col. Anna W. Wilson of Studio City, Calif., theatre commander, said 8,000 Wacs now are in the ETO and that the occupation quota has been set higher.

"In the interim the score is 44 points for discharge eligibility," Colonel Wilson said, "but that is not final and the score does not apply to personnel considered essential. Theoretically all Wacs can be considered essential.

"Regardless of that, however, some Wacs are going home, but the number is necessarily small."

LAVAL DEMANDED

Paris, May 24 (A. P.).—A strongly worded note demanding the surrender of Pierre Laval has been dispatched to Spain by France, an informant close to the Foreign Office said today. Laval, who reached Spain three weeks ago, faces treason charges here. The French previously had agreed to an arrangement whereby Laval would be placed aboard a British warship and moved to a French port. The informant said that the plan had broken down, but could not state a reason.

SPAIN GETS STRONG DEMAND FOR LAVAL

France Makes Second Effort To Secure Vichyite

Madrid, May 24 (AP)—The French Government through its chargé d'affaires, Jacques Truelle, made strong representations to the Spanish Foreign Ministry today requesting that Pierre Laval, former Vichy chief of state, be surrendered to French authorities for trial as a war criminal, it was reported here.

This was the second French effort to obtain custody of Laval, who reached Spain three weeks ago. The first attempt was rejected by the Spanish Government on the ground that it was unable to give up a political prisoner, although Foreign Minister Jose LeQuerica promised to hand Laval over to an Allied commission.

Strong Note Reported

Franco-Spanish relations were described recently as being "cool." The Spanish said unofficially that the French Government in Paris is giving protection to Spanish Republican leaders, some of whom are still considered by the Spanish régime as "civil war criminals."

[A source close to the French Foreign Office said in Paris today that a strongly worded note had been sent to Spain demanding that Laval be surrendered.]

No Truman Bid To De Gaulle Yet

Paris, May 24 (AP)—Foreign Office circles said today that a formal invitation for General de Gaulle to visit President Truman has not yet been extended to the French Provisional President.

Foreign Minister Georges Bidault returned last night and will see de Gaulle this evening to report fully on the San Francisco conference and his talks with the American President.

De Gaulle was represented as still hoping to participate in the next conference of President Truman, Premier-Marshal Stalin and Prime Minister Churchill.

Admiral Kirk Honored By France

Paris, May 24 (AP)—Vice Admiral Alan G. Kirk, commander of the United States naval forces in France, has received the Croix de Guerre with Palms from the French Navy.

Kirk's decoration carried with it the title of officer of the Legion of Honor. His deputy chief of staff, Capt. R. A. F. English, and Lieut. Com. P. S. Brine, who was liaison officer with the French Navy, also received the Croix de Guerre and were named chevaliers of the Legion of Honor

White-Collar Strike Averted In France

Paris, May 24 (AP)—Emergency police measures were rescinded today after an agreement between representatives of the Government and the French Federation of Labor averted a threatened strike of between 200,000 and 350,000 white-collar workers.

The agreement, reached yesterday, raises the salaries of office, bank and department store clerks from a minimum of 3,100 francs monthly to 3,990 francs ($62 and $78.80, respectively, at the official exchange rate). In addition, the French clerk is to get a thirteenth month's salary for every twelve-month period.

Negotiations regarding the payment of other workers still are continuing.

SCIENTIST REVEALS STERILIZATION IDEA

Says Nazis Planned To Treat Whole Peoples

MAY 25 1945

Dettelsau, Germany, May 24 (AP). A Nazi plan to sterilize non-German eastern Europeans by use of an extract from a Brazilian plant was reported today by Dr. Carl Taubak, a Czechoslovak botanist who had an unwitting hand in the experiments.

He said the extract came from a plant known as dieffenbachia seguine, which the Germans had nurtured in greenhouses.

[Dieffenbachia seguine is known also as dumb-cane. It is a tropical herb of the arum family, with fleshy canelike stems and an acrid juice whose properties cause the mouth to swell and prevent speech. The plant reaches a height of 4 to 6 feet.]

Tried On Russians

"It was tested on three Russians, and on rats, mice and dogs," said the 40-year-old Dr. Taubak, "but there was not enough of the leaf extract at the time of the Nazi Government's collapse to put the wholesale sterilization plan into effect."

Dr. Taubak, a former professor at Vienna University, told 4th Infantry Division officers who found him that he was sent to Holland in 1942 to find additional plants of the species.

"On my return to Berlin the officials questioned me about the results of my chief, Dr. Madaus, and asked me if I thought he was justified in his claims as to the effectiveness of the extract as a sexual sterility agent when used on humans," Dr. Taubak related.

Ordered To Do Research

"It was then I realized what we were working on and I knew I was opposed to those who ordered our work.

"I had been ordered to do this research in connection with the dusting of plants and, though I knew Brazilian Indians had used dieffenbachia to promote sterility, I had no idea until these officials came to question me about the success of my chief's work what further purpose there could be in our work.

"The high officials' plan called for increase in the breeding and production of this plant, and its use in sterilizing all non-German peoples to the east—Poles, Russians and Balkan citizens.

Works On Males, Females

"It worked equally well on males and females and could be taken orally, mixed with food."

Dr. Taubak said that in their Berlin laboratory where he had worked the Germans made normal appearing rifle cartridges filled with ampules of a deadly acid to be carried by high government officials for quick self-destruction.

He asserted that more than 5,000 cases were distributed. He said that the poison was tested on Russians, who died in from three to eight seconds after placing it in their mouths. He said he did not know whether Hitler had a supply handy.

NAZI RAILWAYS NOT WIPED OUT

Bonn

U. S. Experts Find Hamburg System 95 P. C. Running.

Hamburg, May 23 (Delayed) (A. P.).—Two American railroad men today quoted German railway officials as having told them that the Allied bombing would have been more effective if it had been concentrated against the main lines rather than the city yards, where repair crews were immediately at hand.

The Americans are Ralph Russell of Haverford, Pa., an official of the Pennsylvania Railroad, and his assistant, Warren Caswel of Rockville Centre, L. I. They said they had been surprised to find the Hamburg railway system 95 per cent operative and the electric subway, elevated street car and suburban railway services in that much-bombed German port being run at 60 per cent of the pre-war scale.

"Of all the major bombing targets in western Germany we have seen Hamburg least affected in that respect," said Russell. "That, mind you, is on a relative basis, for Hamburg is also by far the largest city. Others we have seen include Cologne, Essen, Muenster and Hamm, the latter being the largest marshaling yard in Germany."

Russell is touring western Germany as head of the rail transport section of the United States Strategic Bombing Survey. It is the task of his section to assess bomb damage of various targets in order to determine the value of air raids and to apply the lessons learned to the Japanese war.

Russell and Caswel said that there were a great many cars and a good number of locomotives now in good repair at the Hamburg yards and stations.

Russell said that one of his most interesting discoveries was a type of German locomotive which embodies a new condenser principle. If adopted by American railroads it might save them considerable money now spent to insure adequate water supplies, he said. With the condenser a German locomotive is able to run 700 miles on 500 gallons of water, Russell was told by a German engineer.

Hitler Believed None Qualified Successor

Berchtesgaden, May 24 (AP)—Anna Schroeder, since 1943 one of Adolf Hitler's personal secretaries, said today that the Führer didn't believe anyone was really qualified to succeed him.

Miss Schroeder told American officers that Hitler during his relaxed moods often chatted freely with her and that he once told her Hermann Goering was unfit to replace him, Rudolph Hess was crazy and Heinrich Himmler was not acceptable to the Nazi party.

On one occasion, Miss Schroeder said, she ventured the suggestion that Himmler was popular, whereupon the Führer pouted and appeared jealous.

Hitler once left a Chancellery luncheon with the remark, "Go on breaking your heads over who is to succeed me," she related.

RUSSIANS PROMISE TO QUIT BORNHOLM

Copenhagen, May 24 (A. P.).—The Supreme Command of the Red Army has assured the Governor of Danish Island of Bornholm that Russian troops will remain on the island only "until questions arising from the war with Germany are settled."

An official statement issued after a conference Wednesday between Russian Gen. Korotkov and Gov. Von Stemann said, "Bornholm is part of Denmark, and it is occupied only because it is situated behind our German occupation zone. The Red Army has no intention of disrupting the normal life of the inhabitants or interfering with Danish administrative problems."

Painting Authentic, German Insists

With the U.S. 7th Army, May 24 (AP)—Walter Hofer, who was Reichmarshal Hermann Goering's fine arts scout, said today he would take his reputation that a painting entitled "Christ and Adultress" in Goering's collection is from the brush of Jan Vermeer.

"And it would bring considerably more than $1,000,000 in your country," he told American correspondents visiting a mountain inn outside of Berchtesgaden, where the captive marshal's foot is on exhibition.

[A previously cabled account of the collection, which mentioned this Vermeer picture, was received iw htskepticism in the United States.]

Latest Discovery

Hofer said the painting was the most recent Vermeer discovery and brought to 42 the known number of the Dutch artist's masterpieces. The painting was completed in 1665, ten years before the death of Vermeer, Hofer said.

He said he acquired the painting February 2, 1944, by swapping 137 other pictures for it after an Amsterdam art dealer asked 1,500,000 guilders (about $1,020,000).

Other Experts Agree

"The painting was brought to Berlin and placed in a valut," said Hofer. "I summoned the best art experts in Germany and Holland, and like me, they agreed instantly it was a genuine Vermeer and one of the most excellent."

He said it was not surprising that the painting was not known throughout the world, since it came to light while Europe was isolated by war.

The painting, about three feet by four feet, shows Christ as the central figure with hand raised in an admonishing gesture to a woman with a bowde head. In the background are two men, glaring balefully at the Master.

2D GI HOLDS ALL MEDALS

2 Men In Same Unit Win Every U.S. Honor For Valor

Warren, Austria, May 24 (AP)—Lieut. Audie L. Murphy, of Farmersville, Texas, wears the Congressional Medal of Honor today—and that makes him the second man in the Army to win every existing American medal for valor.

The Medal of Honor, the nation's highest, was conferred on the boyish-looking 21-year-old Texan after he beat off 250 attacking enemy infantrymen—and six tanks—almost single-handedly in the battle of the Colmar Pocket.

Murphy also wears the Bronze Star, two Silver Stars, the Distinguished Service Cross, and the Combat Infantryman's Badge, as well as a unit Presidential Citation.

Other Man In Same Unit

The only other man entitled to wear every existing individual medal is Capt. Maurice ("Footsie") Britt, Fayetteville, Ark., one of Murphy's fellow officers in the 3d Division. The 3d has 29 Congressional medals — more than any other division in the Army.

The young Texan chalked up a personal score of nearly 100 killed and wounded Germans in the action that won him his country's highest military honor.

He was huddled in a foxhole well in front of his company, directing artillery fire.

A tank destroyer ten yards to his rear was hit and abandoned. He left his position and clambered onto the machine while it was still burning.

Spraying Enemy Tanks

Then, silhouetted against the skyline, he manned the tank destroyer's 50-caliber machine guns, spraying German tanks and infantry while smoke curled above him and enemy fire centered on him.

Twelve enemy infantrymen tried to outflank his position, but Murphy shifted the gun and killed the entire group.

Swinging the gun back, he concentrated his fire on the tanks, which lost their maneuverability. The enemy infantry began to withdraw—and the tanks followed.

Murphy was wounded but he continued to fire.

Wins Battlefield Commission

Later, refusing medical aid, he organized his company and pursued the retreating Nazis.

When news of the award came, Murphy was sunning himself on the Riviera beaches, having a well-earned holiday, but today he is back at his regular duties.

The Texan has risen in 30 months from buck private to company commander.

He landed in southern France as a staff sergeant and promptly won the DSC for knocking out an enemy strong point, including two machine guns.

He already had the Bronze Star for action on the Anzio beachhead. One of his Silver Stars came for the bloody action at Montelimar.

He won a battlefield commission, to second lieutenant, in the Vosges campaign last winter.

enereal Rate Up For GI's In Reich

With American Occupation Forces in Germany, May 24 (AP)—A sharp increase in venereal disease among American combat troops since assignment to guard duty in Germany was disclosed tonight by army medical reports.

One typical veteran infantry division in which the rate of venereal infection was more than doubled in three weeks was known to have intensified its system of prophylactic safeguards in an effort to cope with the growing problem.

Medical officers of battle-tested regiments now converted into security patrols in German towns and countryside said they believed most of the current venereal cases were acquired in contact with displaced women workers of foreign nationality.

Medical statistics up to the end of April for the two American army corps that are now on occupation duty showed a venereal rate of 56 men per 1,000 per year for white troops and 238 men per 1,000 per year for Negro troops.

Most Of Goethehaus Spared, Says Keeper

Weimar, Germany, May 24 (AP)—The name of Wolfgang von Goethe, greatest literary genius of all time in the opinion of Prof. Hans Julius Wahl, custodian of the Goethe and Johaan von Schiller archives, can continue to attract devotees of liberalism to Weimar once peace again is established.

Although blockbusters fell only a short distance from the house where Goethe spent 50 years of his life, most of his home was spared the ravages of bombing. Nine of the ten garret rooms are gone and the so-called Urbino room is ruined, but Wahl said other damage can be repaired.

Everything in Schiller's home also was taken to safety, Wahl said. While badly battered, the rooms can be restored, experts said.

Munich Museum: Story Of World Gone Mad

By Wade Werner

Munich, May 24 (AP) — The Deutsches Museum of Munich with its 70,000 technological exhibits once was a fascinating cross-section view of modern mechanized civilization.

It portrayed graphically for small boys and grownup visitors from many lands just what made the wheels go round in the complex Twentieth Century world where nothing was impossible to the inventive mind of man—except perhaps the machinery for maintaining peace.

Today, it is a desolate cross-section of a mechanized world which somehow went haywire and began chewing itself to bits.

Hit By Fifty Bombs

Like Europe in general, the Deutsches Museum is by no means completely wrecked. It was hit by some 50 bombs of various sizes and many exhibits were destroyed and others damaged. But enough remains to show what the museum founded 42 years ago by Oskar von Miller, liberally helped by the American philanthropist Julius Rosenwald, was trying to portray.

The first German submarine built by Krupp in 1906 is still there with portions of the hull cut away to show the interior mechanism.

The great shipbuilding, aviation, land transport, power and engine halls look like a stage setting for a melodrama entitled "End of Civilization." The floor of the shipbuilding hall is piled with wreckage of models of ocean liners and famous sailing ships, topped by the tangled and twisted remnants of airplanes, which formerly hung from the ceiling.

One Plane Still There

One plane still hangs there—a Klemm-Daimler monoplane, built in 1919, but it hangs by its neck, the fusilage dangling and the fabric burned away. It looks startlingly like some great metallic insect convicted of crime and "hanged by the neck until dead." One can almost hear the sentence spoken amid the wailing of the wind, the desolate flapping of loose roof sections and the rustling of torn canvas backgrounds of the wall exhibits.

There are many exhibits in the section illustrating how man has tried to build safe, secure, comfortable and attractive homes down through the ages to the modern skyscraper apartment. One could guess it without bothering to look and, sure enough, even the "Dwelling of Prehistoric Man" was cracked open in the pounding the museum took from the air.

It is bitter cold in here, with the chill wind off the Alpine glaciers coming in through the open roof, the chattered windows and the broken walls. The puddles of water on the floor seem ready to freeze.

Maybe the ice age is coming back. Then, if the geological and anthropological exhibits here can be trusted, mankind might eventually make a new start, trying some other type of civilization.

RUSSIAN TIES POLES AND BRITISH IN PLOT

Red Star Commentator Holds 'Intervention' Is Planned—Izvestia Denounces Bor

MOSCOW, May 24 (AP)—A commentator in Red Star charged today that a group of exiled Polish generals was plotting intervention in the new Poland, the Soviet Union and other European countries from bases in northwest Germany assigned to the British army of occupation.

The writer, Konstantin Hoffman, said they had as their basic idea "the liberation of Europe from the Bolshevik danger." He declared that among the group were Gen. Wladyslaw Anders, Commander in Chief of the London Polish Government's armed forces; Gen. Kazimierz Sosnkowski and Lieut. Gen. Tadeusz Komorowski (Bor).

"Lessons of the war," he said, "did not change some politicians to the new course in the reorganization of free Europe, but have given them new desires for their old plans of Balkanizing Europe."

Sees "Intervention Force"

The article in the official Red Army officers' newspaper left the impression that Hoffman believed the Poles had duped the British in gaining permission to operate in the British-occupied zone of Germany, which he said was "a territory convenient for the creation of military bases" under the guise of aiding the Allied occupation. He charged that 300,000 Polish troops in Britain and on the Continent were being trained for special assignments. He termed the Polish units abroad "an intervention force."

Hoffman said a Polish reserve army in Scotland "from the very beginning was not intended for front line action but to carry out special assignments in Poland." In addition groups of Poles who were mobilized by the Germans and now are captives in Italy are "not being sent back to their own country, but are being enlisted into Polish units of this intervention force," he added.

The article quoted British correspondents in regard to the arrival in northwest Germany of an adjutant of General Anders. The correspondents were quoted as reporting that the adjutant demanded that the German population work all night turning out Polish flags to be hung about buildings. Hoffman said the correspondents had described the Poles there as being in an "anti-Soviet" frame of mind. He added they were not far from the Red Army occupational zone.

These reports, the commentator said, "lead one to believe that these Polish Fascists in the British zone of occupation have special privileges and that the solution of the problem of territory that could be used as a base for a 'Polish Fascist' command apparently has met with no difficulties."

Hoffman charged the London

Polish generals were "working out plans for intervention against the Soviet Union, democratic Poland and other European countries and covering the preparations for their new adventures with such slogans as removing Poland and all Europe from the Bolshevik danger."

Izvestia Accuses General

Izvestia, Soviet Government newspaper, has charged General Komorowski, known as General Bor, with complete responsibility for the uprising of the Polish underground forces in Warsaw last August, declaring that General Komorowski was "unable to deny these accusations for the simple reason that his own statements only served to confirm them."

Izvestia declared that it "certainly takes a lot of courage for a man of Komorowski's caliber to face the world." It added:

"Anyone else in Bor's place would prefer to make himself inconspicuous until completely forgotten. For, come to think of it, the responsibility for the massacre in Warsaw and the death of many thousands of Poles is nothing to brag about. But General Bor's bravery is of a different kind. He bravely herded the Warsaw populace beneath the falling German bombs, bravely marched off to German imprisonment and, with the same bravery, attacked the London correspondents."

visit to Florence on Nov. 23, 1940. The unhappy start of this campaign gave the English courage to unleash the successful campaign in Libya and caused Franco to vacillate for the first time."

All efforts to influence the Spaniards thereafter failed, the letter said.

The last chance to obtain Spanish co-operation in an attack on Gibraltar was in the spring of 1941, the letter continued, and then it was possible only by a united Italian-German effort.

"But you yourself told me you considered a neutral Spain advantageous," the document said.

"I wanted to be in Gibraltar in January, 1941," it continued, "and I have no doubt the blow would have succeeded, thanks to the enormous superiority of our arms at that time.

"If in 1941 Italy, instead of attacking Greece, had together with Germany resolved the Spanish problem, the war might have taken a different course."

Tension Lessens In Trieste Sector

Trieste, May 24 (AP)—The Yugoslavs have moved additional forces into the region north of Trieste and have notified Allied troops that several of the villages they occupied there on Tuesday were in the Yugoslav occupation zone, it was learned tonight.

Disputes over the villages were being worked out at the scene, with no incidents reported. In general, Allied forces were informing the Yugoslavs that they could not move out of places they occupied in Tuesday's "peaceful penetration," but they were permitting Marshal Tito's men to billet in available buildings.

In Trieste itself the tension appeared to have relaxed as few Yugoslav patrols moved about the streets, but the population was growing quieter with each day. Food supplies brought in by the Allies have been going directly to their troops. Lines formed at dawn for the daily bread ration, now reduced to about the size of a hamburger roll.

Discussions On High Level

New Zealanders were the only Allied troops left in Trieste. The United States 91st Division was at Gorizia, north of Trieste, and the 10th Mountain Division held positions northwest of Gorizia, near Caporetto.

Discussions toward settlement of the dispute continued on a high level. There was no indication whether the Allies would find acceptable the three-point proposal which Tito was said to have handed Allied representatives in Belgrade two days ago.

A Yugoslav-controlled Italian newspaper published today an account of a speech it said Marshal Tito delivered yesterday in Belgrade in which Tito was quoted as having reaffirmed his intention of keeping troops in the Trieste region.

One Of Thorniest Issues

One of the thorniest issues was believed to be Tito's insistence on representation in the Allied Military Government and retention of the administrative bodies created by the Yugoslavs in the last three weeks.

The last demand, if accepted, would pose a problem for Allied administrators, who were prepared to move into the region as soon as an agreement was reached. It was doubtful the Allies could administer the area under such conditions without being accused of partiality to the Yugoslavs prior to the peace conference.

[It was reported in London that exchanges between Tito and the American and British governments had continued within the last 24 hours, with Russia being kept informed of developments.]

Last Hitler Letter to Mussolini Cited Failure to Take Gibraltar

MILAN, May 24 (AP).—The Communist newspaper "L'Unita" reported today that Adolf Hitler, in what it described as his last letter to Benito Mussolini, had declared that "the war might have taken a different course" if the Fascists had concurred in a Nazi plan to attack Gibraltar in 1941.

"L'Unita" printed the letter and said it had been found among Mussolini's possessions when he was captured by Partisans. It was dated Dec. 27, 1944. The newspaper said it had photostatic copies of the original and the Italian translation.

"In 1940 and again in 1941," the letter said, "I had decided to close the Mediterranean toward the west. My meeting the head of the Spanish government (Generalissimo Francisco Franco) was to have served that purpose. Accord could have been realized.

"Suddenly I was notified that Italy intended to war in Greece. This was the reason for my hasty

3 Trieste Issues Remain To Be Ironed Out

Trieste, May 24 (AP)—Military might of the British-American 8th Army and the Yugoslav Army still packed Trieste today as the governments involved in the occupation controversy argued out the remaining points of difference in a new spirit of friendliness.

Marshal Tito's acceptance of the main Allied principles, including administration of the important Adriatic port city by the Allied Military Government, left only three important Yugoslav reservations to be decided, it was understood. It was felt that the final settlement must be near.

Russia Kept Informed

[In London, American and British Government officials were reported re-examining the Trieste problem and keeping Russia informed.

[A Belgrade dispatch of Wednesday afternoon said important details remained for agreement, but that Americans and Britons at the Yugoslav capital no longer feared open hostilities which threatened last week. The Yugoslav Government was said to have made it clear that it had no intention of annexing the disputed territory before the peace conference.]

Freed City, Slavs Claim

These were the remaining Yugoslav reservations to be resolved:

1. The Yugoslavs feel that some units of their army should remain in the area under Allied command. Their propoganda repeatedly has stressed that the city was liberated by Tito's army. The feeling among Allied troops who accepted the surrender of 7,000 Germans in the city has been that the Yugoslavs certainly were fighting in the city and contributed to the final capture, but that the Germans would have held out much longer if faced only by Yugoslav troops.

Asks For Representative

2. Yugoslavs hold that the Allied military government should function through the Council of Liberation set up by the Yugoslavs after a number of Fascist undesirables had been eliminated. The Council includes Slovenes and Italians and established a tribunal on Tuesday to try Fascist criminals.

3. The Yugoslavs insist that a representative of their Army should have a place in the Allied Military Government.

The Yugoslavs also are understood to be asking some minor modifications of the demarcation line on which Field Marshal Alexander and Tito agreed.

Warships In Harbor

Twenty-seven Yugoslav tanks which lumbered through Trieste two nights ago still are there. The Yugoslavs still hold a number of German prisoners and parade them three times a day, but the length of the parades has diminished. The number of Yugoslav patrols also has been cut down.

New British naval units have anchored in the harbor. British sailors are prominent on crowded waterfront streets and Yugoslav sentries smartly salute British officers. A general improvement has been noted in military courtesy.

Food remains the most urgent problem. Allied food ships can move in swiftly, however, once the remaining points of controversy are dissolved.

Syria-Lebanon Trouble Blamed On Reich's Fall

San Francisco, May 24 (AP)—The official France Journal suggested today that "resentment at the collapse of Germany" lay behind disturbances in Syria and Lebanon.

Distribution of this publication among delegates at the United Nations conference followed the protest Tuesday of Syrian and Lebanese delegates that France was bringing Senegalese troops into their countries for the purpose of coercion.

Jury Of 7 To Try Vidkun Quisling

San Francisco, May 24 (AP)—Norwegian officials disclosed today that a seven-man jury soon will try Major Vidkun Quisling in Oslo for treason.

The jury will be composed of three professional judges and four laymen.

Paal Berg, former chief of the Norwegian Supreme Court, is expected to preside at the trial of Quisling and thousands of other collaborators.

Berg resigned as Supreme Court justice in December, 1940, when he could no longer carry on normal juridical proceedings under the Germans. He joined the Norwegian underground forces and became one of the leading resistance leaders.

Members of the Norwegian delegation to the United Nations conference said that the Oslo bar association had offered to defend Quisling and all other traitors and collaborators at their trials.

"The bar association," an official said, "considers it a duty to offer legal assistance. This is in line with justice and orderly procedure which we practice."

Foe's Warships Land Troops Above Foochow

Chinese Say Japanese Fear a U. S. Invasion There; Seaport City Mopped Up

CHUNGKING, May 24 (AP).—The Japanese have rushed reinforcements by warships into the Chinese east coast sector thirty miles northeast of the liberated port of Foochow, where they fear American forces may soon strike from the sea, the Chinese high command announced here tonight.

A communique said the enemy, routed from seaboard positions, had sent the fresh forces into battle in an attempt to stem a Japanese retreat which had rolled back to near Loyuan, thirty-one miles northeast of Foochow.

The landings were made Tuesday north of Loyuan from "several warships," all fully loaded with enemy troops, but the high command said the Japanese were being checked with the help of "local militia."

While the Chinese braced to meet this fresh onslaught, they were bolstering their positions about Foochow, mopping up the last enemy resistance on the north bank of the Min River, the old treaty port's outlet to the sea.

The Chinese were nearing Loyuan after advancing nine and a half miles yesterday beyond captured Lienkong, twenty miles northeast of Foochow. Kwanton, four miles southeast of Lienkong near the coast, also was seized.

Far to the west, Chinese troops broke a Japanese stand nineteen miles west of Shaoyang (Paoking) and pressed on east toward that former air base 340 miles southeast of Chungking.

Japs Fall Back On Ishan

The Japanese, 250 miles to the southwest, were falling back on Ishan, 43 miles west of the railway junction city of Liuchow along the corridor to Indo-China.

Severe fighting also broke out in western Honan Province north of Kwantaokow, 430 miles northeast of Chungking, where the Chinese said they lost 500 troops as against 600 enemy killed in a battle twenty-five miles south of the Yellow River and thirty miles east of the Shensi border.

An American communique said fighters and bombers of the 14th Air Force raked Japanese communications all the way from the Yellow River 580 miles southward to Siantan, in Hunan Province to the rear of the Japanese lines at Shaoyang. Against this challenge to their mainland communication lines, the Japanese failed to put aloft a single plane and all Allied planes returned.

Bombers destroyed sixteen spans of a Yellow River bridge and damaged 24 locomotives. Hundreds of enemy troops were killed in strafing runs.

Enemy Stand Broken

Japanese troops long cut off in the lost battle for Chihkiang airbase were trying to beat their way toward Shaoyang through Taohwaping, which has been in Chinese hands for more than a week. Four miles east of Taohwaping, a Japanese stand was broken and the enemy suffered heavy casualties, the Chinese communiqué said.

The Chinese claimed fresh successes to the south in Kwangsi province, where they are pressing against the west flank of the Japanese corridor. The high command said the Chinese completed the encirclement of Szengen, 73 miles northwest of Liuchow.

Along the Honan front, where the Chinese said they checked a Japanese drive toward Shensi province, there was severe fighting in the area of Kwantaokow, and the Chinese said counterattacks had stopped another thrust 45 miles farther east in the area of Changsuichen on the Lo River.

Chinese Bank Official Arrested

CHUNGKING, China, May 24 (AP)—Fu Yuan-chun, manager of the Chungking branch of the Honan Provincial Agricultural and Industrial Bank, was charged today with the embezzlement of 299,000,000 Chinese dollars. The amount is equivalent to about $4,000,000 in American money in the black market or $75,000,000 at the official exchange rate. Fu was accused of withdrawing funds of the bank under false names, using the money for private business deals, hoarding and making loans at exorbitant interest rates.

BRITISH TROOPS CLASH WITH JAPS IN BURMA

CALCUTTA, May 24 (AP) British Fourteenth Army troops have clashed with "a strong enemy force" 10 miles northwest of Pegu in the area above captured Rangoon, an Allied communique said today.

No details of the operation in the area west of the British-controlled Mandalay-Rangoon railway were given in the brief communique. Pegu is approximately 40 miles northeast of Rangoon.

Patrolling and mopping up activities continued elsewhere in Burma where several British columns are pursuing the Japanese toward the Thailand border. Air operations were restricted by weather, the bulletin said.

APO Faces New Test With Shift To Pacific

Honolulu, May 24 (AP) — Army postal officers disclosed today that their biggest job yet will be keeping track of American fighting men from Europe transferred to the Pacific.

The officers at headquarters of United States Army Forces in Pacific Ocean areas said a division is the smallest unit having an army post office number.

Thus, in cases of divisions or corps moving intact, the APO numbers move with them and the forwarding of mail is simple. But, they added, the redeployment to the Pacific will mean that individual soldiers in great numbers will be going to outfits with different APO numbers. The problem of forwarding the mail from the old APO's will be a grand scale job.

Asato Spanned Under Fire as Battle Rages in Okinawa Capital.

MUD SLOWS OPERATIONS

Infantry on East Coast Pounds Japs for 'Important Advances'.

GUAM, Friday, May 25—(AP) Across bridges thrown over the Asato river under enemy fire, Sixth division Marines reinforced their forces fighting inside the capital city of Naha on the west coast of Okinawa Thursday.

Marine patrols fought throughout the day inside the rubble of the city to reduce Japanese strongpoints.

On the east coast, Seventh division infantrymen in the face of stiff resistance drove further south below captured Yonabaru in what today's fleet communique reported as "important advances."

Mud Slows Fighting

Heavy mud restricted operations elsewhere along the "little Siegfried line."

In the Naha sector, while Japanese artillery poured shells on the river area, Marine engineers built two bridges across the Asato. One was of sufficient size to accommodate vehicles bringing supplies for the expanding bridgehead inside the ruined capital.

The Seventh division again expanded a bulge to heights south of Yonabaru from which the Yanks are in position to swing in behind fortress Shuri.

Bomb-harassed Japan sent down more planes to relieve the worsening situation of the Nipponese garrison on southern Okinawa. Raiders succeeded in damaging a "light unit" of the American fleet Wednesday night.

Thursday numerous groups of Japanese planes began attacking American forces ashore and afloat on the island of Ie a mile west of Motobu peninsula on the northwest coast. Acknowledging "some damage to installations," the communique said that at 10:30 p. m. the attacks were continuing. By that time, 15 raiders had been destroyed.

U. S. military government authorities are developing facilities on Okinawa for the administration of more than 139,000 civilians already under their control. Eighty-two per cent of these are women and children under 17. The majority of adult males were drafted into labor service by the Japanese prior to the U. S. landings April 1.

Planes Pound Airfield

American escort carrier planes continued Thursday to pound Japanese airfields on Sakishma, in the southern Ryukyus.

Today's communique reported that light naval units, presumably destroyers, bombarded Surabachi port and installations on the east coast of Paramushiro in the Kuriles Sunday. Fires and explosions resulted. Two enemy planes were driven off before they could cause damage to the warships.

Mud-caked American doughboys are on the point of isolating the Japanese defense keystone of Shuri on Okinawa, field despatches reported today.

Elements of the Tenth army's Seventh division captured an important hill some two miles southeast of the Shuri bastion and continued their drive through Ozara Mura heights.

From the heights, the Americans will have artillery domination of all Japanese supply routes to Shuri.

Driving rain hampered operations.

Yank Pincers Are Closing On Shuri

FARON 1945

Guam, May 24 (AP)—Leathernecks and doughboys of the 10th Army held the Japanese key fortress of Shuri in a giant cup-shaped pincers today as they turned both ends of the Okinawa battle line.

Fierce close-in fighting raged across the front as the Yanks increased their pressure, entering Naha on the western flank and expanding gains made at the Yonabaru breakthrough on the east.

In the center the battle continued unabated as the 77th (Statue of Liberty) Division pressed forward toward the hill line overlooking Shuri. There a unit assaulting the hills was caught in a murderous crossfire from Japanese cave positions and pinned down.

Counterattack Repulsed

Just to the left of the 77th a battalion of the 96th threw back a fierce Japanese counterattack which penetrated American lines more than a third of a mile before it was stopped with a loss of between 150 and 200 Japanese.

Seventh Division troops expanded their corridor below Yonabaru, increasing the pressure against Shuri on the left and at the same time heightening the threat of complete isolation for Japanese garrisons in the hills of Chinen Peninsula commanding Nakagusuku Bay, former Japanese fleet anchorage.

The east-west supply lines to the Chinen forces already have been cut.

Tanks Stalled

With mechanized equipment mired in the rear, gains were made on a foot-slogging, slug-it-out basis, but patrols reaching high ground west of Yonabaru reported good tank country beyond.

Patrols of the 6th Division's 4th Marine Regiment spearheaded the drive into Naha, rubble-strewn Okinawa capital, yesterday, wading the muddy Asato River in a surprise predawn strike from the northeast.

The initial drive carried as deep as 800 yards into the city, but the tough former Marine raiders and paratroopers who make up the 4th expect fierce house-to-house fighting as they move through the city.

With Naha entered in force, both of Okinawa's main cities and terminals of the Naha-Shuri-Yonabaru defense line have been penetrated. Yonabaru as well as its nearby airstrip, fell to the Ninety-sixth Infantry Division Tuesday while the Seventh made a quick encircling movement by nightfall, isolating it from possible Jap reinforcement.

Counter-attacks are continuing in other parts of the front lines but are being thrown back. Just west of Conical Hill, keypoint on the four-mile east-west defense line, Major-Gen. James L. Bradley's Ninety-sixth Division stopped one counter-attack in which the 382d Regiment killed 150 enemy troops.

Rocket Ships Aid

Part of yesterday's advance was made with the assistance of two rocket ships.

In support of the ground action, escort carrier planes hit the potential staging airbases in the Sakishima group, Southern Ryukyus, Tuesday and Wednesday. Okinawa-based search planes ranged off Tokyo harbor, sinking three small craft.

Two small groups of enemy aircraft attacked American forces in and around Okinawa Tuesday evening, but inflicted no damage.

TOKYO IN FLAMES HOURS AFTER RAID

Nine Million Pounds of Incendiary Bombs Hurled on Jap Capital.

FARON

GUAM, Friday, May 25.—(AP) Flames swept the Shinagawa industrial area of Tokyo hours after the biggest Superfortress raid in history—more than 550 planes—showered 9,000,000 pounds of incendiary bombs on the Nipponese capital yesterday.

Japanese imperial headquarters, never prone to give an expansive report on aerial raid damage to the homeland, said that five and one-half hours after the big planes struck the city at 1:30 a. m. (12:30 p. m. Wednesday, U. S. Eastern War Time) "almost all fires" were extinguished.

NIGHT

Kyushu Airdromes Hit

Tokyo radio broadcast also an unconfirmed report that around 180 American carrier planes raided Nipponese airfields on the southernmost home island of Kyushu. Domei, Japanese news agency, said the attack lasted about two hours and inflicted "relatively light damage."

The Superfortress squadrons smashed Tokyo under a full moon, dumping their loads on a concentrated area of Japan's precision instrument and machine tool industry.

Returning fliers said the flames licked through factories and waterfront rail yards which handle one-third of Japan's rail traffic, and the fires were visible 200 miles away.

Japanese headquarters reported only "some 250" B-29s made the attack and while omitting mention of damage to industrial plants said an arbor in the imperial palace was hit and "an establishment" inside the Akasaka palace grounds was destroyed.

Nips Claim 27 Downed

The Nipponese communique also made the unconfirmed claim that 27 Superforts were shot down and 30 more heavily damaged.

High winds helped spread the flames over the target area, returning fliers said, consuming flimsy home-shops surrounding the big plants. Vivid flashes indicated that stores of explosives were destroyed.

Brig. Gen. Thomas S. Powers, commander of the Superfortresses on Guam, held his early comment on raid results to "very good," pending receipt of further information to be supplied by reconnaissance photos.

High winds helped spread the flames over the target area, the flyers said, consuming flimsy home shops surrounding the big plants. Vivid flashes indicated that stores of explosives were destroyed.

Some of the flyers said they met no fighter opposition over Tokyo, but others reported meeting some planes which, however, were reluctant to accept battle. Anti-aircraft fire was heavy but inaccurate, they said.

Major Luther A. Jones, Monroe, La., told how eight Japanese fighter planes trailed his B-29, one of them coming in within 150 yards, but all withholding their fire.

TOKYO IN FLAMES MORE THAN FIVE HOURS AFTER RAID

4500 Tons of Fire Bombs Loosed on Jap Capital by Superfortresses.

ERICKSON

Guam, May 24 (A. P.).—Tokyo burned for five and a half hours today, the Japanese themselves admitted, after more than 550 Superfortresses had plastered the city's war factories and facilities with 4,500 tons of fire bombs in the mightiest single air blow of the Pacific war.

In a broadcast communique, Imperial Headquarters said that almost all the fires were out by about 7 A. M. The raid began shortly after midnight.

Also today the Tokyo radio said that about 180 American carrier planes raided air bases on Kyushu, the southernmost of the home islands of Japan. This report was not confirmed. Jap suicide plane attacks against the American positions on Okinawa are reported from these bases, however, and they have been frequent targets of attack.

Fires Visible for 200 Miles.

Superfortress flyers who returned to base from the Tokyo raid told vivid stories of wide destruction in the Japanese capital, declaring that the fires were visible for 200 miles.

One pilot, Major Luther A. Jones of Monroe, La., reporting direct hits on the yards which handle one-third of Japan's railway traffic, said: "I'm afraid they're going to do a hell of a lot of walking."

A brilliant moon and a ring of oil fires set by lead planes illuminated the target area, the Shinagawa industrial section, which is populated by 750,000 of Tokyo's millions and crowded with highly inflammable shops making precision instruments for Nippon's air force.

Explosives Set Afire

Pilots saw their incendiaries spread huge fires. Flashes indicated the flames had spread to stores of explosive materials.

Brig. Gen. Thomas S. Powers, commanding general of the Superforts on Guam, received reports that high winds spread the fires over a widening area.

Staff Sergeant Max Sampson, of Bellefonte, Pa., gunner on a plane piloted by Lieut. Carroll H. Payne, of San Antonio, Texas, said:

"I don't think there is any doubt about it. They burned hell out of the place."

The raiders had the rare experience of finding the target without a covering cloud.

Palace Arbor Hit, Japs Say

A Japanese communiqué ignored industrial damage but charged that an arbor in the Imperial Palace garden, 3 miles north of the designated target area, was attacked and "an establishment within the compounds of the Akasaka detached palace" was burned.

The Tokyo broadcast made the claim that 27 of the raiders were shot down and "some 30" others damaged.

Pilot reports were at variance on the extent of night fighter opposition. Some flyers told of seeing "fireballs" but disagreed as to whether they were robot bombs, jet-propelled fighters or harassing flares.

Sixth Months After First Raid

Maj. Gen. Curtis E. Lemay, who contends that air power alone can wipe out Japan's industries, sent out the record force from his 21st Bomber Command six months to the day after Marianas-based B-29's struck Tokyo for the first time.

Tokyo radio said the raid lasted two hours; also took in Kawasaki and Yokohama, south of Tokyo, and that some fires still were burning four hours after the attack began.

The 4,500 tons of incendiaries dropped equaled the weight of two 1,000-plane raids on Berlin from English bases by Flying Fortresses or Liberators.

Fires In Homes

Tokyo radio said "many fires broke out among civilian dwellings in the areas attacked." In Tokyo small dwellings serve as small factories and subsidiary assembly plants.

A bomber command spokesman said that the target area provided "one of the happiest combinations of inflammability and congestion." The onslaught extended the destruction wrought by five previous fire raids which burned out 32.8 square miles of Tokyo. The Shinagawa sector is second only to Japan's principal aircraft center at much-bombed Nagoya in the number of its small producers of precision instruments and aircraft parts.

Tokyo radio told the populace that some of the fireworks they saw were B-29's exploding in mid-air "with terrific detonations, lighting up the entire locality where they met destruction." The enemy broadcast said anti-aircraft batteries and night fighter planes treated Tokyo residents "to thrilling sights."

Much of the area bombed today was covered by flimsy residences built as temporary shelters for thousands of homeless after the 1923 earthquake and never replaced. These "shadow" factories would be like tinder for the fire bombs.

APO Faces New Test With Shift To Pacific

Honolulu, May 24 (AP) — Army postal officers disclosed today that their biggest job yet will be keeping track of American fighting men from Europe transferred to the Pacific.

The officers at headquarters of United States Army Forces in Pacific Ocean areas said a division is the smallest unit having an army post office number.

Thus, in cases of divisions or corps moving intact, the APO numbers move with them and the forwarding of mail is simple. But, they added, the redeployment to the Pacific will mean that individual soldiers in great numbers will be going to outfits with different APO numbers. The problem of forwarding the mail from the old APO's will be a grand scale job.

Asato Spanned Under Fire as Battle Rages in Okinawa Capital.

MUD SLOWS OPERATIONS

Infantry on East Coast Pounds Japs for 'Important Advances'.

GUAM, Friday, May 25—(AP) Across bridges thrown over the Asato river under enemy fire, Sixth division Marines reinforced their forces fighting inside the capital city of Naha on the west coast of Okinawa Thursday.

Marine patrols fought throughout the day inside the rubble of the city to reduce Japanese strongpoints.

NIGHT

On the east coast, Seventh division infantrymen in the face of stiff resistance drove further south below captured Yonabaru in what today's fleet communique reported as "important advances."

Mud Slows Fighting

Heavy mud restricted operations elsewhere along the "little Siegfried line."

In the Naha sector, while Japanese artillery poured shells on the river area, Marine engineers built two bridges across the Asato. One was of sufficient size to accommodate vehicles bringing supplies for the expanding bridgehead inside the ruined capital.

The Seventh division's gain expanded a bulge in the line south of Yonabaru from which the Yanks are in position to swing in behind fortress Shuri.

Bomb-harassed Japan sent down more planes to relieve the worsening situation of the Nipponese garrison on southern Okinawa. Raiders succeeded in damaging a "light unit" of the American fleet Wednesday night.

Thursday numerous groups of Japanese planes began attacking American forces ashore and afloat on the island of Ie a mile west of Motobu peninsula on the northwest coast. Acknowledging "some damage to installations," the communique said that at 10:30 p. m. the attacks were continuing. By that time, 15 raiders had been destroyed.

U. S. military government authorities are developing facilities on Okinawa for the administration of more than 139,000 civilians already under their control. Eighty-two per cent of these are women and children under 17. The majority of adult males were drafted into labor service by the Japanese prior to the U. S. landings April 1.

3 FORCES JOIN ON MINDANAO

Meeting Of Divisions Along Highway Bisects Island

Hampson

Manila, Friday, May 25 (AP)—Three American divisions joined along a north-south highway in central Mindanao Wednesday, and Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported today the campaign on that island had reached the "mopping-up stage."

The juncture bisected Mindanao from Macajalar Bay on the north to Davao on the south, and served to doom remnants of an enemy garrison once estimated at 50,000 troops.

31st Drives North

Maj. Gen. Clarence Martin's 31st Division made contact with the 40th, under Maj. Gen. Rapp Brush, and the Americal Division under Maj. Gen. William H. Arnold along the Sayre highway against only slight resistance.

The biggest part of the central Mindanao Japanese force withdrew to the hills east of the road to fight it out.

Maj. Gen. Roscoe Woodruff's 24th Division to the southeast fought a slugging battle with a large Japanese force entrenched between the Davao and Talomo rivers on Davao Gulf, one regiment going up the coast joined a guerrilla force moving south.

Three airfields in the Davao area already are in use by American planes.

Stiff Fighting On Luzon

On Luzon, stiff fighting continued in the Ipo trap northeast of Manila but a headquarters spokesman said organized resistance ceased on Wednesday, with the Japanese no longer under central control.

The 43d Division under Maj. Gen. Leonard Wing killed 174 Japanese in mopping up operations there Wednesday.

In the same general sector, Maj. Gen. William C. Chase's 38th Division counted 262 bodies, sealed 25 caves and knocked out eight machine-gun nests Tuesday and Wednesday.

A powerful aerial blow against Formosa was reported. Escorted heavy and medium bombers dropped 235 tons of explosives on airbases, rail yards, barracks and industrial plants in widely separated parts of the island

Three Freighters Sunk

Three freighters and a large ocean-going tug were sunk and nine landing craft set afire in raids on the Asiatic coast. Rail yards in French Indo-China were severely pounded.

Bombers sprayed 130 tons of bombs on targets in the East Indies and sank a cargo ship.

Australian ground troops secured Cape Moem, 4 miles east of Wewak on northeastern New Guinea. The Aussies have killed an additional 1,091 Japanese and captured 57 in operations on Bougainville and N lands.

Elsewhere in the Philippines, on Tarakan off the northeast coast of Borneo and in the by-passed New Guinea-Bismarcks-Solomons areas United Nations ground forces were engaged in slowly moving clean-up campaigns.

Outstanding among these was the fight on the Santa Fe area at the southern entrance to the rich Cagayan valley on northern Luzon. There Maj. Gen. Charles L. Mullin's Twenty-fifth Infantry Division, which has faced bitter opposition all the way, had a pleasant surprise. Prepared to knock out twenty-five enemy cave emplacements, it found them all abandoned.

action for nearly 130 consecutive days.

The 35th Regiment of the 25th Division, commanded by Col. Stanley R. Larson, of Talladega, Ala., pushed up Highway 5 beyond Balette toward the mouth of the vital Cagayan Valley, at Santa Fe village. Planes dropped 300 tons of bombs in support of the drive.

Fire-Bomb Attack

Previous heavy enemy resistance melted as Maj. Gen. Charles L. Mullin's Tropic Lightning Division took high ground near Santa Fe against almost no opposition, while other elements drove on the town itself. The 27th Regiment in a coordinated push girded for a fight against 25 cave emplacements east of Highway 5, but found all abandoned.

In the watershed area northeast of Manila, a tremendous fire bomb attack enabled the 38th Division to move through acres of Japanese hillside positions. Planes dropped jellied gasoline incendiaries. Tanks threw flames. A medieval-type catapult hurled cans and barrels of jellied gasoline over the ridges.

Afterward, 136 enemy dead were counted. The 38th was able to drive to the juncture of the Marikina and Boscboso rivers.

Near Ipo Dam, chief water source for Manila, an enemy force encircled by the 43d Division has been squeezed into an area of three square miles. The division counted 125 Japanese dead Monday. The Yanks captured a command post west of the dam.

8 Miles From Juncture

In the central part of Mindanao the 31st, 40th and Americal Divisions neared a juncture on the North-South Sayre Highway. Reports covering development through Monday night placed the 31st within 8 miles of the 40th and Americal.

In the Davao sector, Associated Press Correspondent Richard Bergholz reported that 24th Division infantrymen had taken Hill 550 after several days of fighting.

Yanks Make Slow Progress On 7 Philippine Fronts

Hampson

Manila, May 24 (AP)—The yard-by-yard cleanup fight against Japanese in the Philippines made slow progress on seven fronts Wednesday while 6th Division Aussies hunted down Nips on north Borneo's Tarakan Island. Far to the rear, Aussies locked with Japanese in sporadic fights around Wewak, British New Guinea, and along the Buin trail on south Bougainville in the Solomons.

Some of these campaigns are almost two years old. Some Philippine battles represent continuation of a campaign now nearly six months old.

OSMENA PLEDGES GRANT OF BASES

President Says Philippines Will Supply Ground Troops for U. S. Installations

Brines

MANILA, May 24 (AP)—Military bases will be granted to the United States with "full support of the Filipino people" when the Philippines become independent some time before July 4, 1946, President Sergio Osmena said today.

At his first press conference since his return to the Islands Mr. Osmena said he thought that Aug. 13 of this year would be "too soon" for independence. He had proposed that date last February in accepting civil administration of the islands from Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

On the question of military bases the President said:

"I am ready to go to the people, but I don't think that will be necessary. The Filipino people recognize the necessity of American protection and welcome you people here."

Mr. Osmena said that details for military bases were now being worked out and he was unable to state whether they would be acquired by lease or grant. He added that Filipinos would supply whatever ground troops the Americans deemed necessary for the protection of the bases.

Stating that independence would be granted before July 4, 1946, but that the exact date would "depend upon developments."

The Chief Executive said that he would call a session of the Philippine Legislature within ten days, the first in more than three years.

When asked about the future role of Brig. Gen. Manuel Roxas, potentially his most influential opponent, his only comment was that he did not know the plans of General Roxas. They are expected to meet soon.

"I think the future will mark close cooperation between the Filipino and American peoples," Mr. Osmena said, adding that the administration intended legislation granting to Americans the same property rights as Filipinos.

"We want you to feel at home here," he said.

Air Transport Help On Okinawa Praised

Okinawa, May 24 (AP)—The Army's Air Transport Command and the Navy's Air Transport Service were credited today by the commander of the fighting troops on Okinawa with giving vital support to the campaign for the Japanese doorstep island.

Lieut. Gen. Simon Boliver Buckner, Jr., 10th Army commander, said these services had brought in great quantities of essential supplies and evacuated thousands of wounded.

Both transport services commenced operations seven days after the American landing April 1.

Shell Hits Photographer

Barking

OKINAWA, May 24 (AP).—W. Eugene Smith, "Life" magazine photographer was hit in the face by a shell fragment and seriously wounded yesterday while taking pictures of American soldiers on the 7th Division's front line here. Smith, a former Wichita, Kan., newspaper photographer, had just fifteen minutes left on a twenty-four-hour tour of the front. He was photographing a machine gunner when the fragment struck him, cutting his tongue and emerging from his jaw. Several of his teeth were knocked out. At a field hospital he scribbled a note saying: "I forgot to duck but I got a good picture of those who did."

Friend Or Foe?

Okinawa, May 24 (AP)—In the 77th Division sector an American with a knee wound, waiting through the night in a slit trench to be moved to a hospital, grappled with an intruder.

Major Eugene Cook, of Dadeville, Ala., who was near by, said he overheard this conversation:

"You're a dirty Jap."

"I'm not so—I'm an American."

The wounded soldier: "You got wrap-around leggings like a Jap."

They wrestled and argued until Pfc. James E. Satterfield, of Pisgah, Ala., shouted from his foxhole: "If you're sure he's a Jap, hold his head up."

The wounded American pushed the intruder's head above the trench and Satterfield fired.

Come daylight, they found a dead Japanese in the trench with the wounded American. He'd been shot through the head.

Okinawa [Delayed] — Riding a bosun's chair through a tropical storm 60 miles from here two days before the invasion, a Baltimore doctor transferred from his ship to another to treat a Marine stricken with spinal meningitis.

Navy Lieutenant August L. Ewald, Jr., of 36 York court, volunteered to change ships when the Marine's condition became worse after an all-night consultation by blinkers and radio between three LST's.

Two nights before the invasion, as the convoy was fighting its way through a tropical monsoon in the east China Sea and attacks by Jap planes, LST "1" blinked frantically to LST "2," the ship carrying the squadron's senior medical officer. There was no doctor aboard LST "1" and a navy hospital corpsman sought aid for a sick Marine.

Consultation By Radio

The second LST blinked to Lieutenant Ewald's ship, LST "3," for a consultation. The Baltimorean made a diagnosis of cerebral spinal meningitis from symptoms described by the corpsman.

The storm broke into a torrential downpour which blacked out the ships' blinkers, and they continued the consultation by radio.

Lieutenant Ewald directed the corpsman to give penicillin, which was brought aboard by a pulley rope from a submarine chaser.

All through the night the three LST's kept hourly contact and the first LST shot down a Japanese plane.

The following day the Marine's condition was worse, and Lieutenant Ewald volunteered to go to his side.

As two destroyer escorts pulled in behind the rolling LST's to pick him up in case the pulley rope snapped, Lieutenant Ewald successfully completed the 75-to-100-foot trip in a bosun's chair.

Lieutenant Ewald stayed with his patient until the following day.

"He was much better then," the doctor said, "and I believe his chance for full recovery was very good."

The son of August L. Ewald, of 3600 Parkside drive, Baltimore, Lieutenant Ewald is married to the former Audre Saunders, of Baltimore. They have two children, Joann, 6, and Gordon, 3.

A Member Of Phi Chi

Lieutenant Ewald, 36, was graduated from City College in 1926 and from the University of Maryland four years later. Following this he spent five years at the University of Maryland Medical School and four years at the Maryland General Hospital. He is a member of the Phi Chi medical fraternity.

The Baltimorean performed an appendectomy aboard ship twelve days after going overseas in April, 1944.

Japs Report Carrier Raid

San Francisco, May 24 (AP)—"About 180" American carrier planes raided Japanese airbases on Kyushu, southernmost Nippon island, Tokyo Radio reported today. The report said the carrier aircraft, striking in midafternoon, inflicted "relatively light damage."

Another Japanese radio report said 23 American Liberators bombed Singapore yesterday afternoon, but caused "practically no damage."

Japs 20-Year War Food Plan

San Francisco, May 24 (AP)—Tokyo radio today reported a new food-production program designed "to withstand the test of war for the coming 20 or 30 years" and to make each section of Japan self-sufficient if the country is cut up by an invasion.

The program, advocated by Agriculture and Commerce Minister Tadaatsu Ishiguro, also anticipated the loss of normal supply sources from Manchuria and Korea.

Another broadcast, recorded here, told of plans to establish a civilian volunteer corps in Korea, similar to an organization in Japan designed to increase food and munitions production. The Korean Corps was ordered set up by June 10.

Jap 'Counterlanding' On Morotai Reported

San Francisco, May 24 (AP)—A "daring counterlanding" on Morotai Island, south of the Philippines, was made by a Japanese assault force on "an undisclosed date this month," Radio Tokyo said today.

The Japanese broadcast, heard here, said "hot engagements" ensued between United States PT boats and Japanese landing craft.

Tokyo boasted the Americans were driven off and the landings carried out with all Japanese "completely unscathed."

Three American divisions joined forces in north central Mindanao Wednesday, Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today, splitting in two the remnants of the Japanese garrison.

The juncture was made above Malaybalay by the 40th and Americal divisions, driving from the north, and the 31st Division, which pushed up from the south.

Doughboys of the 25th, 32d and 37th divisions on Luzon pressed forward in the Balete Pass sector and in the watershed mountains east of Manila.

Australian troops in northwestern New Guinea secured Cape Moem, 4 miles east of Wewak.

Heavy rains hampered the American drive on southern Okinawa, but on the west flank the 6th Marine Division built two bridges over the Asato River under fire and put units across, while on the east flank the 7th Infantry Division made advances against stiff opposition.

Fifteen Japanese planes were shot down in continuing enemy attacks on the American airfield at Ie Shima, off Okinawa. The field sustained some damage.

The Japanese landed reinforcements from warcraft on the east coast of China, 30 miles northeast of the recently liberated port of Foochow, where the Nipponese fear American forces may land.

The Chinese seized Kwantow, 4 miles southeast of Lienkong near the coast, and reported they had bolstered their positions around Foochow.

HODGES GIVEN BIG WELCOME

1st Army General Comes Home To His Native Georgia

Atlanta, May 24 (AP)—Gen. Courtney H. Hodges came home today to his native Georgia and the wife he left behind fifteen months ago to lead the United States 1st Army in its victorious march through France, Belgium and Germany.

He returned to the cheers of countless thousands who lined the streets to witness the biggest parade in the history of this city which loves parades.

The four-star general had his first glimpse of Mrs. Hodges when he arrived at the hotel where a reception had been arranged. As he lead the procession of generals and GI's, he heard the voice of his wife call, "Remember me?" His look, and the kiss that followed, showed that he did.

Brereton In Party

With the General came 46 officers and enlisted men, including seven other Georgians. Met by scores of army bombers and fighters, the huge transport planes which brought them here from New York landed at the army airbase at 1.05 P.M., Central War Time.

The party included: Lieut. Gen. Lewis A. Brereton, San Antonio, Texas; Lieut. Gen. Walton H. Walker, Washington; Major Generals Samuel E. Anderson, of Alexandria, Va.; Troy H. Middleton, of Baton Rouge, La., and Ira T. Wyche, of Pinehurst, N.C.; and Brigadier Generals Herbert B. Thatcher, of Chevy Chase, Md.; Ewart C. Plank, of Lawrence, Kan., and Dow N. Hickey, of Indianola, Mississippi.

Greeted at the airport by Gov. Ellis Arnall, Mayor W. B. Hartsfield and Maj. Gen. Frederick E. Uhl, of the 4th Service Command, the bronzed gray-haired Hodges said, "I am very glad to be here." He kept looking around, apparently seeking that "little red hat."

40 Cars Carry Visitors

But the quiet, mustached General described by his wife as "the most patient man in the world" seemed to enjoy it all even though Mrs. Hodges and many of the other army wives were waiting in specially reserved hotel suites to see their men.

The folk went wild as the 40 cars carrying the visitors wound along historic Peachtree street. Confetti and ticker tape poured from windows of downtown buildings. The city finally found a use for its air-raid sirens and their shrill screeching joined the roar of the planes overhead.

As the cars moved along, crews of two of them fired machine guns loaded with blanks to the crowd's enjoyment. The next stop was a hotel near that where the wives waited. A seventeen-gun salute and speech making featured the reception there.

Hodges's home town of Perry, Ga., virtually closed for the day as all of the 2,000-odd residents who could arrange transportation flocked to Atlanta. The old-timers remember Hodges as a boy, when he worked in a grocery store before starting as a buck private his 40-year army career. They held out hope he could come to Perry Saturday for a celebration before going to Washington for conferences preceding transfer to the Pacific.

General Hodges took Atlanta, and thousands of Atlantans had shouted themselves hoarse by nightfall.

Hodges Arrives in Atlanta

MAY 25 1945

Civic Celebration Arranged in Honor of First Army's Commander.

Atlanta, May 24 (A. P.).—Gen. Courtney H. Hodges of the American First Army and forty-six other overseas veterans landed at the Army air base here at 1:05 P. M., Central war time, today after a flight from New York.

The general, who led his troops across the Rhine to seal the doom of Germany, returned to his native State to be honored at a civic celebration.

Scores of army bombers and fighters soared overhead as the general arrived at the army air base.

Mrs. Hodges hasn't seen the General for fifteen months. And now, when she had "hoped, but not really expected," that he would be here for a while, she learned that he was preparing for the Pacific campaign, along with his veteran First Army.

Leaves New York.

Gen. Hodges, who arrived with his staff by plane from Paris yesterday afternoon, left LaGuardia Field today for Atlanta. He was in the last of three planes to leave the field.

The General, who had stayed at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, and his staff were driven to the field in Army cars and boarded the planes quickly.

During his brief stay in New York city, Gen. Hodges told reporters that virtually all his European staff would go to the Pacific with him and that his tactics against the Japs would be pretty much the same as those employed in Europe. He also reported that a percentage of his G. I. veterans would be in his forces in the Pacific.

Carefully considering questions that were put to him, Gen. Hodges answered in soft tones. Asked how he thought the Asiatic climate might affect his men, he replied, "It gets cold in Japan, too." A reporter wanted to know if he had any special surprises for the Japs and he said, "No, nothing. As a matter of fact, I don't know. I have no special tricks."

"I just want to get home and see the folks—I wouldn't care if it was only for 10 minutes."

Maj. Gen. Manton S. Eddy, of Columbus, Ga., former commanding general of the 12th Corps of the United States 3d Army, who was amon gthe arrivals said. "Unlike the last war, Germany is decisively and completely defeated."

General Helps A Private

The men who returned with General Eddy told their favorite story about the commander.

On a rainy night in Tunisia, a private banging a tent stake spotted a flashlight.

"Hey, bud, bring that light nearer and give me a hand," yelled the private. The holder of the light moved closer, held the rays on the soldier's cold, wet hands, and assisted in erecting the tent.

When the job was finished, the soldier looked up and gulped as he saw the two stars and insignia of the man behind the flashlight—General Eddy.

General Clark Expected Soon

WASHINGTON, May 24 (AP)—Gen. Mark Clark, commander of the Fifteen Army Group in Italy, is expected to arrive in the United States within a few days, a War Department spokesman said today.

No details were given on Gen. Clark's visit except that he was scheduled to participate in Memorial Day ceremonies in Chicago.

Five Ships Bring 7,000 GI's Back

New York, May 24 (AP)—Swing music, played by an army band on a pier, blared over the North River today to greet 7,000 army personnel who returned from Europe's battlefields aboard five camouflaged transports.

Debarking were 3,937 wounded, 910 reassignment troops, 397 rotational troops and 295 liberated prisoners of war. In addition, the ships carried 300 military hospital service troops, 557 ground crew and service men of the 453d Heavy Bombardment Group of the 8th Air Force and 697 British rotational troops.

The long hikes and short rations he experienced during his ten months in a German prison camp were the principal recollections of 28-year-old Lieut. Arnold Gruber, of Byron, Neb.

"Thank God, It's Over"

"Some of those marches were really tough," he said, recalling a 146 kilometer march that lasted nine days. "Send word to my folks that I'll be seeing them in a few days—thank God it's over and we're home."

Lieut. Abigail Arkins, of Milwaukee, a 25-year-old army nurse who has been stationed in England, said that she was going home "as quickly as I can because I only have a ten-day leave plus traveling time and my orders read that I report back to England.

ITALIAN-BASED AIRMEN RETURN

Bradley Field, Windsor Locks, Conn., May 24 (A. P.).—Eighteen heavy planes that bombed Vienna, Linz and other objectives of the Fifteenth Air Force came into Bradley Field today, the third day's group to complete a trans-Atlantic hop in the tremendous movement of planes from Europe.

The sixty-six officers and 162 enlisted men who came in this morning were part of the air force that served so conspicuously in the Mediterranean theater of war.

Outstanding among the eighteen planes, perhaps, was Toggle Annie, veteran of 107 missions and with so many flak holes that the crew had been unable to make an exact count.

Planes coming in today had come by way of Newfoundland, where they refueled. They left fields in Italy on Sunday.

The Bradley Field redeployment force take from the arriving groups their Mae West parachutes, blankets, canteens and other flying equipment. Officers and enlisted men clear their personal equipment with the inspecting force. The number of dogs flown across the Atlantic as mascots has jumped to about a dozen, and customs officials seem to take the attitude that they just don't see the livestock as it appears, so several Italian dogs are on the way to new homes throughout the United States.

Truman's Frisco Trip Will Be By Air, His Office Also Says

Washington, May 24 (AP)—The White House said today that an early meeting of the "Big Three" definitely "is in the works."

At the same time it was announced that President Truman would fly to San Francisco to address the concluding session of the United Nations Conference.

MAY 25 1945

Press Secretary Charles G. Ross said the special missions of Harry L. Hopkins and Joseph E. Davies to Moscow and London were preliminary to, and not "a substitute" for, the projected meeting of the Russian, American and British chiefs of state.

Not Parley Substitution

"They do not take the place of the Big Three conference which definitely is in the works," Ross told his news conference. "They are not a substitute for the projected meeting of President Truman, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin.

"They are part of the general pattern which will include the Big Three meeing."

Then the conference definitely has been decided upon? a reporter asked.

"The conference is projected," Ross replied.

Where Or When Undecided

Ross said he thought the British elections in July would not affect the time of the meeting, but added that he could not say when or where the Big Three would get together.

"I have no idea of the time or of the place," he said.

He said Hopkins and Davies each "has a special mission to perform" and that both "fit into the general pattern of the projected meeting of the Big Three."

Ross's statement was made shortly after he had announced that President Truman would fly to San Francisco to address the closing session of the postwar international security conference after witnessing the signing of a proposed international peace organization charter.

May Take Brief Rest

Ross said the Chief Executive also had under consideration a side trip to the Pacific Northwest for a few days of rest and recreation after the conference engagement and would also return to the White House by plane.

His absence from Washington, however, probably will be for less than a week.

Ross also said the President would arrive in San Francisco a few hours before the time for his speech to the plenary session in the San Francisco Opera House, which seats 3,500 persons.

Mr. Truman plans to speak for about fifteen minutes and the address will be carried over a worldwide radio hookup.

Olympia, Wash., In Mind

He will leave San Francisco shortly after attending a reception to meet the conference delegates. It was stated the President had in mind a visit to Olympia, Wash.

In any case, Ross said, the President will be back in the National Capital shortly.

No members of the President's family will go West with him, Ross and Matt Connelly, appointment secretary, will be in the party.

Ross said if the President decides to make the side trip to the Northwest, an announcement on it may come from that area.

"It is purely for rest and recreation, if he goes," Ross said.

Proposal About the Colonial Areas

Special to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 24—The revision of the United States' trusteeship plan, as approved by this country, Britain, France and China for insertion in the new chapter dealing with colonial peoples and strategic bases, is as follows:

A. General policy.

1. States members of the United Nations which have responsibilities for the administration of territories inhabited by peoples not yet able to stand by themselves under the strenuous conditions of the modern world accept the general principle that it is a sacred trust of civilization to promote to the utmost the well-being of the inhabitants of these territories within the world community, and to this end:

(I) To insure the economic and social advancement of the peoples concerned;

(II) To develop self-government in forms appropriate to the varied circumstances of each territory; and

(III) To further international peace and security.

2. States members also agree that their policy in respect of such territories, no less than in respect to their metropolitan areas, must be based on the general principle of good-neighborliness, due account being taken of the interests and well-being of other members of the world community, in social, economic and commercial matters.

B. Territorial trusteeship system.

1. The organization should establish under its authority an international system of trusteeship for the administration and supervision of such territories as may be placed thereunder by subsequent individual agreement and set up suitable machinery for these purposes.

System's Objectives Set

2. The basic objectives of the trusteeship system should be:

(A) To further international peace and security;

(B) To promote the political, economic, social and educational advancement of the trust territories and their inhabitants and their progressive development toward self-government or independence, as may be appropriate to the particular circumstances of each territory and its peoples and as may be provided in each trusteeship arrangement;

(C) To encourage respect for human rights and for fundamental freedoms for all without distinction as to race, language, religion, or sex, and recognition of the interdependence of the peoples of the world; and

(D) To insure equal treatment in social, economic, and commercial matters for all members of the United Nations, and their nationals and equality in the administration of justice, without prejudice to the attainment of (A) and (B) above, and subject to the provisions of Paragraph 5 below.

Application to Categories

3. The trusteeship system should apply only to such territories in the following categories as may be placed thereunder by means of trusteeship arrangements:

(a) Territories now held under mandate;

(b) Territories which may be detached from enemy states as a result of this war; and

(c) Territories voluntarily placed under the system by states responsible for their administration.

It would be a matter for subsequent agreement as to which territories would be brought under a trusteeship system and upon what terms. The trusteeship system should not apply to territories which have become members of the United Nations.

4. The trusteeship arrangement for each territory to be placed under trusteeship should be agreed upon by the states directly concerned, including the mandatory powers in the case of territories held under mandate by one of the United Nations and should be approved as provided for in Paragraphs 8 and 10 below.

5. Except as may be agreed upon in individual trusteeship arrangements placing each territory under the trusteeship system, nothing in this chapter should be construed in and of itself to alter in any manner the rights of any state or any peoples in any territory, or the terms of any mandate.

6. The trusteeship arrangements in each case should include the terms under which the territory will be administered and in the case of territories detached from enemy states should designate the state which should exercise the administration of the territory or designate the United Nations organization itself to exercise the administration of the territory.

7. In addition, there may also be designated, in the trusteeship arrangement, a strategic area or areas which may include part or all of the territory to which the arrangements applies, without prejudice to any special agreements made under Chapter 8, Section B, Paragraph 2.

Security Council Empowered

8. All functions of the organization relating to such stategic areas, including the approval of the trusteeship arrangements and their alteration or amendment, should be exercised by the Security Council. The basic objectives as provided for in Paragraph B2 above should be applicable to the people of each strategic area. The Security Council may avail itself of the assistance of the trusteeship council provided for in Paragraph 11 below to perform those functions of the organization under the trusteeship system relating to political, economic and social matters in the strategic areas, subject to the provisions of the trusteeship arrangements.

9. It shall be the duty of the state administering any trust territory to insure that the territory shall play its part in the maintenance of international peace and security. To this end the state shall be empowered to make use of volunteer forces, facilities and assistance from the territory in carrying out the obligations undertaken by the state for the Security Council in this regard and for local defense and the maintenance of law and order within the territory.

10. The functions of the organization with regard to trusteeship arrangements for all areas not designated as strategic should be exercised by the General Assembly.

Trusteeship Council Outlined

11. In order to assist the General Assembly to carry out those functions under the trusteeship system not reserved to the Security Council, there should be established a trusteeship council which would operate under its authority. The trusteeship council should consist of specially qualified representatives, designated (a) one each by the states administering trust territories; (b) one each by the states named in Chapter 6, Section A (United States, Britain, Russia, France and China) which are not administering trust territories; and (c) one each by a sufficient number of other states, named for three-year periods by the General Assembly, so that the total number of representatives is equally divided between administering and non-administering states. The trusteeship council shall, when appropriate, avail itself of the Economic and Social Council and of other bodies attached to the organization in matters concerning them.

12. The General Assembly, and under its authority, the trusteeship council, in carrying out their functions, should be empowered to consider reports submitted by the administering state, to accept petitions and examine them in consultation with the administering state, to make periodic visits to the respective territories at times agreed upon with the administering state, and to take other action in conformity with the trusteeship arrangements.

13. The administering authority in each trust territory within the competence of the General Assembly should make an annual report to the General Assembly upon the basis of a questionnaire formulated by the trusteeship council, on the political, economic and social advancement of the inhabitants of the territory.

PARLEY STUDIES USE OF MILITARY TO PREVENT WAR

United Nations Seek Formula for Handling Troops to Meet Emergency.

RUSSIA WINS TIME

Division of World into Regions, Each with General Staff Urged.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 24—(AP) The United Nations conference for the first time tonight dipped into the question of how armed forces will be put at the disposal of a world organization so it may take "urgent military measures" to prevent war.

With gold braid, Navy blue and Army khaki of many lands present in profusion, a committee deferred a decision on whether the new league should be able to strike originally with an air force alone or with a mixed contingent.

Part of Dumbarton Formula

What the committee tackled was a portion of the Dumbarton Oaks formula for a world charter dealing with how a proposed security council would use forcible means to keep peace if diplomatic, economic or other pressure failed.

The blueprint says the council "should be empowered to take such action by air, naval or land forces as may be necessary to maintain or restore international peace and security."

Members of the new league would be expected to sign special agreements on the size of the forces they would make available to the council on call. Dumbarton Oaks says, however, that for urgent military measures, members of the organization should hold air force contingents immediately available for peace-enforcement action.

Action was postponed on French and Australian amendments proposing that mixed forces be held in readiness for emergency operations. Some delegates said the Big-Four nations sponsoring the conference wanted delay because they are still consulting on the subject.

A military staff committee, made up of chiefs of staff of the Big Four powers plus France, would have "strategic direction" of the forces used by the council. An amendment of the sponsoring nations to let the staff committee establish regional subcommittees was approved 40 to 0.

Coming up for a vote, probably by tomorrow, is an amendment by Uruguay suggesting that the world be divided into regions, each with its general staff representing all the member states in the individual regions. The regional staffs would elect a chief, who thereupon would become a member of the world organization's general staff committee.

Russia Wins Time

Russia asked more time to study the Uruguayan amendment and won delay by a 16 to 14 vote.

The way the argument on the Uruguayan proposal went today, it looked like four of the great powers would try to head it off and probably would succeed.

Nothing is to be done at this conference about the size of the forces to be made available by various states. The world league would do that after organizing.

The great nations continued efforts to stave off a small-power revolt against the veto power over use of force—or over investigation or peaceful settlement of disputes—which they would exercise in the security council under the Yalta Big-Three agreement.

Technicians of the Big-Four were reported working on a general statement of policy that may supply an interpretation along these lines:

Action on any international controversy would require a unanimous vote of the Big Four and France. Any of these Big-Five thus could veto action. But the council could discuss disputes without the veto applying.

The problem of rebuilding war-ravaged lands came into the conference as a new problem today. A proposal was put forward that the world organization assume general supervision over reconstruction problems.

Greece Presents Idea

Greece, battered as war swept her land, and pillaged under enemy occupation, advanced the idea in a committee considering creation of a council for social and economic cooperation.

It was so well received that a drafting committee was asked to put the proposition in final form for a vote at the next committee meeting.

Apparently, delegates said, it would mean that the economic council would go far beyond any objectives outlined for it thus far, and become a central clearing house for handling reconstruction problems, perhaps smoothing the way for loans or the flow of materials.

France came along with a suggestion that the social and economic council try to promote logical and orderly distribution of raw materials throughout the world. This, too, was turned over to a drafting committee.

The French argued that proper distribution of such supplies would help promote full employment among nations.

In the same committee, American delegate Virginia Gildersleeve dropped her battle against listing the promotion of full employment as an aim of the council. Some United States delegates feared inclusion of this goal might open way for a world organization to interfere in domestic affairs.

To counter this apprehension, the committee was reported to have revised the wording to make clear that international collaboration in the interest of full employment did not mean dabbling in a country's internal business.

Many statesmen assembled from over the globe have felt that how well the proposed world charter works will depend upon the answer worked out to this question:

How much power should great nations wield in enforcing peace: should any one of five big nations be able to say the world league can't even investigate a dispute or try to settle it peacefully, much less veto use of force to stop a war?

Secretary of State Stettinius, who has been conferring with President Truman in Washington, may fly into San Francisco tomorrow with an enunciation of American views.

FULL EMPLOYMENT PHRASE WINS OUT

San Francisco, May 24 (A. P.).—The United States was reported today to have abandoned its fight to pull the phrase "full employment" out of the statement of aims of a United Nations economic and social council. Dean Virginia Gildersleeve, delegates reported, finally withdrew her motion to change the wording after strong opposition from small countries, especially Australia's quick-tongued Foreign Minister, Herbert Evatt.

Delegates who attended the closed floor meeting of a conference committee gave this further account:

At the request of the United States, a clause was added to make clear that "full employment" doesn't give the world organization any right to interfere in a nation's domestic policies. The United States delegates had been particularly concerned lest the employment phrase be so construed, and prove a stumbling block in obtaining Senate ratification of a world charter.

"I'd like to say," Mr. Evatt boomed in his Australian drawl, "that I think Dean Gildersleeve conducted her campaign in a very gentlemanly way."

Negro Council Opposes Tom Clark Nomination

San Francisco, May 24 (AP)—The National Negro Council today telegraphed President Truman a request that he withdraw the nomination of Tom C. Clark, of Texas, as Attorney General.

Edgar Brown, council president, said the plea emphasized that Clark as assistant attorney general failed to carry out a Supreme Court decision nullyfying the Texas State Democratic "white primaries," which barred Negroes from a vote in that State.

Brown added that inasmuch as Clark, to his knowledge, has never issued any statement to uphold the decision, he must be a party "to disfranchise more than 500,000 Negroes in Texas."

China And Chile Hold Commercial Talks

San Francisco, May 24 (AP)—Foreign Minister Joaquin Fernandez y Fernandez of Chile and Foreign Minister T. V. Soong of China, held what Chilean sources described as a "long talk" yesterday about commercial relations between the two countries.

Soong was reported to have told Fernandez that China intends to build up a great number of heavy industries and will be a good customer for Chilean nitrates.

Cuban Blames U.S. For Sugar Shortage

Havana, May 24 (AP) — Senator Jose Manuel Casanova, president of the National Association of Millowners, declared in a statement last night that the United States alone was responsible for its sugar shortage and that Cuba in no way was to blame.

Dispatches from Washington, published here yesterday, quoted Representative Clinton P. Anderson, chairman of a special United States of Representatives committee studying food shortages, as saying he was informed by a Cuban sugar millowner that production had been curtailed here.

Dr. Viriato Guitierrez, the owner so quoted, replied in a statement that some of his remarks had been lifted from their context.

Anderson is the newly appointed United States Secretary of Agriculture.

U.S. Cancels Portion Of Aluminum Contract

Montreal, May 24 (AP)—The Aluminum Company of Canada announced that it had received cancellation from the United States of more than half of a 250,000,000-pound aluminum contract with the original contract reduced to 100,000,000 pounds.

"This contract was placed in March of this year when production was 'all out' in accordance with the War Production Board policy at that time, but because of the possibility of an early end to the European conflict, a cancellation clause gave the United States the option of canceling 150,000,000 pounds on 65 days' notice," the announcement said.

The company said that there would be no "general layoff" as a result of the cancellation and that "insofar as possible the rate of operations will be reduced gradually to preclude the necessity of any future extensive layoffs."

COMMUNISTS PLAN REVIVAL

Possible Resuming Of Direct Political Activity Seen

New York, May 24 (AP)—American Communists, who disbanded as a political party a year ago, are making "a most careful inventory" of their position and may resume direct political activity.

This was disclosed today by Earl Browder, president of the Communistic Political Association, who urged "most respectful consideration" of a French Communist leader's assertion that the American party should not have been dissolved.

The Daily Worker, edited by Browder, published in full an 11,000-word article in which Jacques Duclos, prominent French Communist, asserted that Browder's policies had "swerved dangerously from the victorious Marxist-Leninist doctrine."

MAY 25 1945

Wants Careful Inventory

Browder, former secretary of the American Communist party and its presidential candidate, said in a foreword that Duclos's article "reflects the general trend of opinion of European Marxists in relation to America, and thus demands most respectful attention."

"It has been clear at all times that the end of the war in Europe would require a fundamental review of all problems by American Marxists," Browder said, adding:

"We must make the most careful inventory, balance our political books, and know clearly how we stand as we enter a new period of sharpening struggles, crisis and profound changes."

Cites Support For F. R.

Browder emphasized that all discussions would be conducted "within the Communist Political Association . . . according to its own rules," and said "all practical work now under way in the labor and progressive movement should continue along established lines."

Duclos declared that Browder and his supporters were "sowing dangerous opportunist illusions" in interpreting the Tehran declaration by Russia, Great Britain and the United States as "a political platform of class peace in the United States."

American Communists were right in supporting President Roosevelt for a fourth term, the French leader said, but "nothing justifies the dissolution of the American Communist party."

Browder reported when the party dissolved last May that it had 90,000 members, including 10,000 in the armed forces.

He said that in the interest of national unity "we will participate in political life as independents, through the established party organizations of our progressive associates, without committing ourselves to any party label."

The Communist Political Association which suceeded the party was formed, Browder said, "to enable the Communists to function most effectively in the changed political conditions and to make still greater contributions toward winning the war and securing a durable peace."

American Communists had severed relations officially with the Communist International in 1940. The International—devoted to spreading Communism throughout the world—was dissolved in 1943, after Germany attacked Russia.

WALLACE ASKS LOWER TARIFFS

Urges Trade With World On 'Live And Let Live' Basis

MAY 24

New York, May 24 (AP)—Henry A. Wallace, Secretary of Commerce, urged today that the United States lower its tariffs and trade with other countries on a "live-and-let-live" basis.

Failure to do so after World War I resulted in decreased world trade and the depression of the 1930's, Wallace said in a speech before the Foreign Trade Week Committee.

"Sooner or later sound business demands that we import more than we export, or that we accept from foreign countries a very large volume of tourist services or gold," he said.

Opposes Federal Control

Once the danger of inflation is past, Wallace said, "the Government must get out of export licensing with all possible speed. . . . Every true American will be glad to see the end of governmentally managed trade."

He added, however, that "concentration of economic power in the hands of a few private individuals can do even more to restrict the opportunities of small business men, farmers and workers than concentration of economic power in hands of Government."

"In extending the trade-agreements program and providing authority for further cuts in import duties," Wallace said, "we are looking ahead to an eventually sound two-way trade between the United States and the rest of the world.

Business Goal Set Forth

"We are doing our part to create a situation where the American business man can have, say, a larger share of an expanding market instead of a small share of a small, contracting market."

Pledging the Commerce Department's full assistance in the development of foreign trade, Wallace said one of the first steps would be "an examination into the special problems of those businesses which may be damaged by larger imports."

"We have no prejudice against large business firms in the Department of Commerce," he said, "but it is my hope that in the future we may be able to pay more attention than in the past to the needs of the small and medium-sized business firms, who find it more difficult to get certain types of information about foreign markets."

GO AHEAD SIGN GIVEN BY WPB ON MOTOR CARS

Industry Is Told It May Begin Manufacture of 200,000 Units

Dewey Wilkie

IF IT CAN GET MATERIALS

Individual Quotas Will Be Assigned Manufacturers—Rationing to Continue.

Detroit, May 24 (A. P.).—The nation's automobile industry was authorized today to proceed with the manufacture of approximately 200,000 passenger cars this year, if it can obtain the necessary materials.

In making this announcement today, the War Production Board said that the manufacturers would be permitted to order production materials immediately, with delivery of these materials to start after July 1. Today's announcement formalizes an understanding reached by the WPB and the Industry Advisory Committee last week in Washington.

The exact date individual automobile manufacturers will begin production after July 1 will depend on their individual situations—such as the extent of their tooling up, availability of facilities and materials, etc.

The WPB announcement said the board is not in a position to assure the industry that it will get whatever supplies it needs nor is WPB according the industry priority. "Manufacturers will have to find whatever materials they need on the free market," the statement said.

400,000 for Early in '46.

It was also said that present indications are that the production of 400,000 cars may be authorized for the first quarter of 1946, assuming the availability of materials, and that authorized production may approximate 2,000,000 cars at the end of the industry's first year of production. Individual production quotas will be assigned by WPB to each manufarturer.

Arrangements also have been made, WPB said, to provide for the possibility of newcomers in this field. The board's statement, quoting J. A. Krug, chairman, cautioned the public not to expect the easy "free purchase" of cars until greater production is in sight. Krug said that Chester Bowles, Administrator of the Office of Price Administration, had informed him that cars will continue to be rationed until essential users' needs can be met.

Chairman Krug's statement disclosed that the decision to get the automobile industry ready to resume production as quickly as possible was made in Detroit last April 5. On that date, WPB met with the industry and dedustry's preliminary reconcided to move rapidly on the inversion needs, such as priorities assistance for the purchase of tools, equipment and for necessary construction work.

Medal-Of-Honor Holder Returns To Home Town

Lucedale, Miss., May 24 (AP)—Twenty-four-year-old Tech. Sergt. Jake W. Lindsey, tuckered out from his long plane ride from Washington, slipped quietly into town today and decided to rest up for a big celebration the home folks are planning for him Saturday.

The Mississippi war hero, on whom President Truman pinned the one hundredth Congressional Medal of Honor May 21, was accompanied home by his "best girl," blond Beverly Targreaves, 19, of Lexington, Mass., his parents and Mrs. Pauline Smith, of Lucedale, who went to the capital city for the ceremonies.

The feted party left the plane at Mobile, Ala., and came to Lucedale by automobile, accompanied by an official welcoming committee of Lucedale citizens.

Gov. Thomas L. Bailey will be here Saturday to extend the State's welcome, along with Lucedale's 2,000 residents and other thousands from George and near-by counties.

JAILING OF GI IS PROTESTED

Yank Reported To Have Hit 9 Nazis—Case Mysterious

MAY 25 1945

Worcester, Mass., May 24 (AP)—The reported imprisonment of a Yank soldier for hitting nine Nazi prisoners of war was protested today, but Army spokesmen said they could find no record of the case.

The family of Private Joseph McGee, of Worcester, made the protest through the Worcester YD Veterans Association, of which Joseph L. McGee, the boy's father, is a member.

A spokesman for the veterans' organization—an association of 26th (Yankee) Division men of World War I—said McGee was serving two years for the offense at Camp Upton, N.Y., bup the 2d Service Command insisted there was no prisoner by that name at the camp.

Forwarded To McCormack

Members of the boy's family said that McGee had been sent either to Upton or to Slocum, also in New York, but the 2d Service Command said it had no information on where the boy was being kept.

The protest was forwarded to Representative John W. McCormack (D., Mass.), and was based, a YD Association spokesman said, on a 25-page copy of the transcript of the courtmartial procedings that McGee sent to his family.

Nazis Refused To Work

McGee, the spokesman added, was accused of hitting the prisoners near Le Mans, France, and the courtmartial was held in France.

Alderman James D. O'Brien, member of the association, said McGee was guarding a group of POW's on work detail. Nine of the Nazis, he said the association had learned, refused to work and McGe "socked" each of them.

Another Yank testified at the courtmartial, O'Brien said, that the prisoners were untractable. He said the courtmartial found McGee guilty on the ground that under the Geneva Convention POW's may neither be "humiliated nor insulted," and that the nine testified they had been.

MRS. DWIGHT MORROW CHRISTENS SS SMITH

BALTIMORE, May 24 — (AP) Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, widow of the former ambassador to Mexico and mother-in-law of Charles A. Lindbergh, christened today the S.S. Smith Victory, named for the Women's College in Northampton, Mass., for which she was acting president in 1939 and 1940.

Preceding the launching at Bethlehem-Fairfield Shipyards, Mrs. Morrow was guest of honor at a luncheon attended by Admiral Emory S. Land, chairman of the U. S. Maritime Commission and the War Shipping Commission, and Mrs. Land.

Submarine Men Honored

SAN DIEGO, Calif., May 24 (AP).—Three of the Navy's undersea raiders were decorated today for outstanding service aboard submarines in enemy waters. Commodore Byron C. McCandless, commander of the Naval Repair Base, presented Bronze Star medals to Captain Ralph C. Lynch jr., of 226 Carroll Avenue, Mamaroneck, N. Y.; Lieutenant Commander Hubert T. Murphy, of Brighton, Mass., and Joseph A. Stoeckel, chief torpedo man, of Cincinnati.

1,500 M.P.H. Jet Planes Seen

CHICAGO, May 24 (AP).—The principle of jet propulsion some day may be developed to the point where jet planes fives times as large as the B-29 will carry passengers around the world at speeds up to 1,500 miles an hour, G. Edward Pendray, a director of the American Rocket Society, said today. Such speed would make every point on earth eight hours' flying time away from every other point, he said. Jet propulsion now is a $1,500,000,000 industry in America, Mr. Pendray told a press conference, despite the fact that up to ten years ago there was no profession of rocket engineering in the world.

Italian Nationals Being Deported

Missoula, Mont., May 24 (AP)—A large group of Italian nationals, former detention camp internees given their freedom after Italy capitulated, have been assembled here for deportation to their native land.

The group, some of whom were sent here from San Francisco and other West Coast areas, is scheduled to sail from Ellis Island, N.Y., Monday, Earl E. Martin, Immigration Service officer, said.

Most of the deportees, Martin added, are voluntary repatriates, although there are a few who expressed the desire to return to Italy, but changed their minds at the last moment.

Yank Gets Top Medal For Halting Nazi Push

Washington, May 24 (AP) — A young officer who manned a machinegun atop a blazing, abandoned tank destroyer and beat back a tank-led assault by 250 Germans will receive the nation's top decoration.

He is First Lieutenant Audie L. Murphy, 21, of Farmesville, Texas, who won the Congressional Medal of Honor near Holtzwihr, France, last January 26. He was still a second lieutenant and new to the command of his company in the 3d Infantry Division.

The citation accompanying the medal, which will be given to Murphy in Europe, credited him with killing or wounding 50 of the Germans with machinegun fire and with directing artillery fire earlier in the fighting which killed "many" more. Some of Murphy's buddies estimated that he accounted for 100 Nazis in the hour-long battle.

Stays To Direct Fire

Murphy was in front of his company when the two German infantry companies, paced by six heavy tanks, swept from a woods. He ordered his men to fall back to prepared positions while he stayed at his advance post to call for artillery fire to smash the Germans in the open. He was alone except for a tree and the tank destroyer about 10 yards to his right.

First Lieutenant Walter W. Weispfennig, an artillery officer of Fredonia, N.D., who witnessed the action, said later the artillery fire that Murphy directed "had a deadly effect."

"I saw Germans disappearing in clouds of dirt and snow," he related.

Then a German 33-mm. shell crashed into the tank destroyer and its crew bailed out, falling back to join the remainder of the company.

Destroyer Set Afire

Smoke and flames spurted from the destroyer. The German tank crews swung wide around it, fearing that its gasoline and ammunition would blow up.

With the German infantry only 100 yards away, Murphy dashed over to the destroyer, climbed onto the turret and began blasting the Nazis with its .50-caliber machine gun. Weispfennig called it the "bravest thing I've ever seen a man do in combat," adding:

"He was completely exposed to the enemy fire and there was a blaze under him that threatened to blow the destroyer to bits. Machine-gun, pistol and 88-shell fire was all around him.

"Twice the tank destroyer was hit by direct shell fire and Lieutenant Murphy was engulfed in smoke and flame. His clothing was riddled by flying fragments of shells and bits of rocks. I saw that his trouser leg was soaked with blood."

Gets Twelve At Once

Twelve Germans tried to sneak up along a ditch and flank him, but he swung the machine-gun and killed all of them at a 50-yard range. The Nazi infantry was stalled. Without the infantry, the enemy tanks couldn't advance and the whole attack collapsed.

Murphy dropped wearily off the destroyer, all his ammunition gone, and limped back to his company. Refusing treatment, he reorganized his company and led it in an attack that routed the Germans.

Murphy, a native of Farmersville, joined the Army on his eighteenth birthday and fought through the African, Sicilian, Italian and French campaigns. He has been thrice wounded and wears the Purple Heart with two clusters.

Army and Navy Casualties Now Total 996,089

Rise of 9,875 in Figure Given Last Week Reflects Halting of European War

WASHINGTON, May 24 (AP).—Army and Navy combat casualties since Pearl Harbor have reached 996,089, including 224,546 killed, 602,511 wounded, 68,307 missing and 100,725 taken prisoner.

This total, released today, added only 9,875 to last week's figure, apparently reflecting the gradual cessation of fighting in Europe during the latter part of April.

Navy casualties now total 109,564 and those of the Army 886,525 on the basis of names compiled through May 14.

The War Department also disclosed preparations to take care of increasing casualties in the war against Japan. Two additional hospital ships are now en route to the Pacific and hospital ships operating in the Atlantic soon will be shifted there. More nurses, doctors and other medical personnel also will be sent to the Pacific.

In addition, Surgeon General Norman T. Kirk told a news conference, evacuation and general hospitals are being established on Luzon and other islands to back up "any advance on the mainland of Japan itself."

General Kirk said the Army Medical Department also is prepared to safeguard troops from diseases peculiar to the Pacific and to prevent their spread to this country. So far in this war, it was disclosed, only 12,000 soldiers have died of disease, compared to 62,670 in the first world war.

With added burdens in the Pacific and the job of evacuating wounded from Europe, the medical department probably will not reach its peak of activity until late this year, Under Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson told the conference.

Army hospitals in the United States, Mr. Patterson said, are now caring for 290,000 patients, and by September this number will rise to 315,000. Approximately 44,000 sick and wounded are being returned to the United States from overseas each month, he said, but it will take about ninety days yet to complete the evacuation of all patients from the European and Mediterranean theaters.

For these reasons, Mr. Patterson added, there will be a continuing "critical need" for all medical department personnel.

General Kirk said no medical department personnel will be released immediately, although some may be discharged by the end of the year.

PROMISES HEAVIER ATTACKS ON JAPAN

Washington, May 24 ((A. P.).—Under-Secretary of War Patterson said today that men and equipment will be massed against Japan in such superiority that in the end victory will come more quickly and with less cost.

The arrival in the United States of Gen. Courtney Hodges and the reassignment of Gen. Hodges's First Army to the Pacific, Mr. Patterson told a news conference, are a criterion of current activities and of things to come.

"We are taking the steps to bring the full weight of American military power to bear upon Japan," he declared.

He praised the "Fighting First" for its exploits in Europe and said that, while all the armies pitted against Germany have splendid records, the professional accomplishments of the First Army and the courage and skill of its officers and men are second to none.

Reviewing operations in the Pacific, he said that the liquidation of the Japanese in the Philippines is proceeding with comparative swiftness and he expressed belief that the enemy cannot hold out on Okinawa a great deal longer.

Army planes based in the Philippines, he said, are hitting Formosa daily and, in conjunction with the Fourteenth Air Force in China, are now regularly patrolling the Asiatic coast from French Indo China to the Shanghai area.

Treasury Bars Sending Out Philippine Funds

Washington, May 24 (AP)—The Treasury today moved against persons in the Philippines suspected of profiting through deals with the Japanese.

Regulations were issued to prevent collaborationists from hiding their gains by sending them outside the islands.

Treasury officials said the regulations also were designed to bring more order to the confused Philippine financial picture, making it possible to reopen the banks sooner, and eventually to resume trade transactions.

One of the rules prohibits anyone in the Philippines from sending gold, selver, currency, and certain financial instruments to the United States (or to any foreign country), without specific authorization by the Treasury.

MEDICAL SERVICE SHIFTS TO PACIFIC

With European Wounded Due Back in 90 Days, Army Turns to War Against Japan

MAY 25 1945

WASHINGTON, May 24 (AP)—The War Department disclosed today preparations to care for increasing casualties in the war against Japan.

Two additional hospital ships are now en route to the Pacific and hospital ships operating in the Atlantic soon will be shifted there. More nurses, doctors and other medical personnel also will be sent to the Pacific.

In addition, Surgeon Gen. Norman T. Kirk told a news conference, evacuation and general hospitals are being established on Luzon and other islands to back up "any advance on the mainland of Japan itself."

General Kirk said the Army Medical Department also is prepared to safeguard troops from diseases peculiar to the Pacific and to prevent their spread to this country.

Record of Disease Control

"With proper preventive measures and medical service the disease rate in the Pacific will be kept to a minimum," he said.

So far in this war, it was disclosed, only 12,000 soldiers have died of disease as compared with 62,670 in the first World War.

With added burdens in the Pacific and the job of evacuating wounded from Europe, the medical department probably would not reach its peak of activity until late this year, Under-Secretary of War Patterson told the conference.

Army hospitals in the United States, he said, were now caring for 290,900 patients, and by September this number would rise to 315,000.

About 44,000 sick and wounded were being returned to the United States from overseas each month, he said, but it would take about ninety days yet to complete the evacuation of all patients from the European and Mediterranean theatres.

For these reasons, Mr. Patterson added, there would be a continuing "critical need" for all medical department personnel.

Rotation for Personnel

General Kirk said that no Medical Department personnel would be released immediately, although some might be discharged by the end of the year. Some 14,000 to 15,000 army doctors in this country, he said, eventually would be sent overseas.

Army commissioned nurses who have had long service in Europe, North Africa and the Pacific will get first call for duty at hospitals in the United States.

Under present plans, War Department officials said, these nurses would be brought back under a rotation policy to base hospitals here while nurses now in training and those now on duty at base hospitals who have not had overseas service, would be sent to the Pacific.

However, they said, some nurses in the European theatre had expressed a desire for duty in the Pacific and probably would be assigned there after a rest in this country.

U. S. Planes Sank 81 U-boats

Washington, May 24 (A. P.).—Of the 126 German U-boats sunk by United States naval forces in the Atlantic, eighty-one fell prey to naval aircraft.

Vice-Admiral P. M. L. Bellinger, commander of the Atlantic Fleet Air Force, told a news conference yesterday that the eighty-one were officially credited to air power, but that he believed the actual number was much higher.

Cruiser Houston Reported Damaged

Washington, May 24 (AP)—The cruiser Houston was damaged severely by two torpedoes off Borneo and is being repaired at the Brooklyn Navy Yard, Representative Thomas (D., Texas) disclosed.

The lawmaker said the torpedoes struck below the water line, ripping off 50 feet of the stern and crippled the warship so severely she had to be towed to dry dock.

Thomas estimated the cost of repairing the vessel at $6,000,000. The Navy declined comment.

Minesweeper Lost In War

Washington, May 24 (AP)—The motor minesweeper YMS-481 has been lost in the Philippines as a result of enemy action, the Navy announced today.

Casualties among the ship's complement, normally about 30 officers and men, were described as moderate.

The vessel's skipper, Lieut. (jg) Theron O. Anglin, of Wadley, Ga., was reported wounded in action.

Next of kin of all casualties have been notified.

Total Ship Losses 309

The loss brought to 309 the total of all United States naval vessels lost since the start of the war.

The YMS 481 was built at the Bellingham Iron Works, Inc., of Bellingham, Wash. She was launched January 1, 1944, commissioned April 21, 1944, was 136 feet long and displaced 207 tons.

Franklin Attack Plane Downed

Washington, May 24 (AP)—The Japanese bomber that damaged the aircraft carrier Franklin didn't get away—two California fighter pilots bagged it.

In a delayed dispatch released today Marine First Lieutenant Ken Linder, of Arcadia, and Navy Commander Edwin B. Parker, Jr., of San Francisco, are credited with the kill.

Second Lieutenant Jim Hardin, a Marine Corps public relations officer, related that Linder got to the enemy bomber first with several bursts. He was followed by Commander Parker, who finished it off.

Lieutenant Hardin disclosed that two Marine fighter squadrons were aboard the Franklin. These were the famed Black Sheep, formerly led by the 26-plane ace, Major Gregory Boyington, of Okanogan, Wash., now listed as missing, and the recently organized Sky Raiders.

The Black Sheep were in the air and navy planes were rendezvousing above the carrier for a strike at Kobe, Japan, when the Japanese plane dived from the overcast.

Trade As Peace Force Under Attack

Washington, May 24 (AP)—Representative Woodruff (R., Mich.) asserted today that Administration contentions that reciprocal trade agreements promote world peace is "a grotesque absurdity."

"It is not trade agreements, but intelligence, enlightenment and unselfishness—that, and nothing else—that will ever bring universal peace among the nations of the world, if it should be achieved," he said.

MAY 25 1945

"Atmosphere Of Sweetness"

In his speech, prepared for delivery as the House resumed its tariff battle, the Ways and Means Committee member declared the Administration is negotiating "treaties in an atmosphere of sweetness, wishful thinking and foolish disregard of the needs of our own people.

"It assumes that foreign nations are looking to our interest before protecting their own interest."

Woodruff recited what he called "the monumental sacrifices we have made for the benefit of other nations" in the present war and in World War I.

"Complete Unselfishness"

If these "have not impressed them of our complete unselfishness," he said, "certainly they will not be impressed by the surrender of our home markets to the products of their poorly paid labor."

In urging defeat of the bill to extend the Reciprocal Trade Act and grant additional duty-cutting authority to the President, Woodruff said:

"We might just as well face the fact that world commercial policy among the other nations is every nation for itself and 'the devil take the hindermost.'"

TRUMAN MOVES FOR REVAMPING OF U. S. AGENCIES

He Asks for Legislation to Permit Reorganization of Executive Branch.

Washington, May 24 (A. P.).—President Truman asked Congress today for legislation enabling him to reorganize the executive branch of the Government.

He called for legislation covering all agencies of the executive branch which would be flexible enough to permit "any form of organizational adjustment, large or small, for which necessity may arise."

The President said that while Congress has legislated "with foresight and wisdom" on plans for orderly conversion from war to peace in other fields, "adequate" provision has not yet been made for conversion of the executive branch of the Government.

He said that the first war powers act and its amendments empowering the President to make necessary adjustments in the organization of the executive branch will expire after the war. With its expiration, "every step" taken under one section of the act will automatically revert to the status existing before the 194 act.

Points to Need for Change.

Automatic reversion, he said, will result in the re-establishment of some agencies that should not be re-established, and added:

"Some adjustments of a permanent character need to be made, as exemplified by the current proposal before the Congress with respect to the subsidiary corporations of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Some improvements heretofore made in the Government under the first war powers act, as exemplified by the reorganization of the Army under (an) executive order . . . should not be allowed to revert automatically or at an inopportune time."

The White House said that the President took steps during 1939 and 1940 setting up the Federal Security Agency, the Federal Works Agency, the Federal Loan Agency and centered agricultural credit functions in the Department of Agriculture and established the fiscal service of the Treasury Department.

Mr. Truman asked similar authority to group, co-ordinate, consolidate and abolish agencies and eliminate overlapping and duplication.

GREATER POWER TO MAKE CHANGES ASKED BY TRUMAN

WASHINGTON, May 24 — (AP) President Truman asked today for continuing authority, subject only to an affirmative veto from Congress, to make unlimited changes in the administrative set-up of government.

Such legislation is needed, he said, to make the executive branch, "more business-like and efficient."

The requested legislation would extend to non-war operations, and into peacetime years, the reshuffling power which the chief executive now holds on a wartime basis over government offices and affairs having to do with the war.

Mr. Truman, in a message to Congress asking for the authority, was very specific that he wanted no strings on it other than the veto.

"The legislation should be of permanent duration," he said.

"No agency of the executive branch should be exempted from the scope of the legislation.

"The legislation should be sufficiently broad and flexible to permit of any form of organizational adjustment, large or small, for which necessity may arise."

The veto proposed for Congress would arise from a provision which Mr. Truman suggested be incorporated direct from the reorganization act of 1939. Under that legislation administrative shifts proposed by the President went into effect unless both Houses of Congress by majority vote within 60 days, passed a resolution of disapproval.

The permanent nature of the power asked by Mr. Truman would be a major departure from past practice. The 1939 act was called permanent legislation but it provided only for shifts made effective by January, 1941. It therefore was permanent only insofar as it gave continuing legal backing to reorganizations carried out by that date.

Truman Reorganization Plan

WASHINGTON, May 24 (AP).—Following is the complete text of President Truman's statement to Congress on reorganizing the government:

The Congress has repeatedly manifested interest in an orderly transition from war to peace. It has legislated extensively on the subject, with foresight and wisdom.

I wish to draw the attention of the Congress to one aspect of that transition for which adequate provision has not as yet been made. I refer to the conversion of the executive branch of the government.

Immediately after the declaration of war the Congress, in Title 1 of the first war powers act, 1941, empowered the President to make necessary adjustments in the organization of the executive branch with respect to those matters which relate to the conduct of the present war. This authority has been extremely valuable in furthering the prosecution of the war. It is difficult to conceive how the executive agencies could have been kept continuously attuned to the needs of the war without legislation of this type.

The first war powers act expires by its own terms six months after the termination of the present war. Pending that time Title 1 will be of very substantial further value in enabling the President to make such additional temporary improvements in the organization of the government as are currently required for the more effective conduct of the war.

However, further legislative action is required in the near future because the first war powers act is temporary and because, as matters now stand, every step taken under Title 1 will automatically revert, upon the termination of the title, to the pre-existing status.

Automatic Reversion Won't Work

Such automatic reversion is not workable. I think that the Congress has recognized that fact, particularly in certain provisions of Section 101 of the war mobilization and reconversion act of 1944. In some instances it will be necessary to delay reversion beyond the period now provided by law, or to stay it permanently. In other instances it will be necessary to modify actions heretofore taken under Title I and to continue the resulting agreement beyond the date of expiration of the title. Automatic reversion will result in the re-establishment of some agencies that should not be re-established. Some adjustments of a permanent character need to be made, as exemplified by the current proposal before the Congress with respect to the subsidiary corporations of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Some improvements heretofore made in the government under the first war powers act, as exemplified by the reorganization of the Army under Executive Order No. 9082, should not be allowed to revert automatically or at an inopportune time.

I believe it is realized by every one—in view of the very large number of matters involved and the expedition required in their disposition—that the problems I have mentioned will not be met satisfactorily unless the Congress provides for them along the general lines indicated in this message.

Quite aside from the disposition of the war organization of the government, other adjustments need to be made currently and continuously in the government establishment. From my experience in the Congress, and from a review of the pertinent developments for a period of forty years preceding that experience, I know it to be a positive fact that, by and large, the Congress cannot deal effectively with numerous organizational problems on an individual item basis. The Congressional Record is replete with expressions of members of the Congress, themselves, to this effect. Yet it is imperative that these matters be dealt with continuously if the government structure is to be reasonably wieldy and manageable, and be responsive to proper direction by the Congress and the President on behalf of the people of this country. The question is one that goes directly to the adequacy and effectiveness of our government as an instrument of democracy.

Executive Reshaping Needed

Suitable reshaping of those parts of the executive branch of the government which require it from time to time is necessary and desirable from every point of view. A well organized executive branch will be more efficient than a poorly organized one. It will help materially in making manageable the government of this great nation. A number of my predecessors have urged the Congress to take steps to make the executive branch more business-like and efficient. I welcome and urge the co-operation of Congress to the end that these objectives may be attained.

Experience has demonstrated that if substantial progress is to be made in these regards, it must be done through action initiated or taken by the President. The results achieved under the economy act (1932), as amended, the reorganization act of 1939 and Title I of the first war powers act, 1941, testify to the value of Presidential initiative in this field.

Congressional criticisms are heard, not infrequently, concerning deficiencies in the executive branch of the government. I should be less than frank if I failed to point out that the Congress cannot consistently advance such criticisms and at the same time deny the President the means of removing the causes at the root of such criticisms.

Accordingly, I ask the Congress to enact legislation which will make it possible to do what we all know needs to be done continuously and expeditiously with respect to improving the organization of the executive branch of the government. In order that the purposes which I have in mind may be understood, the following features are suggested: (A) The legislation should be generally similar to the reorganization act of 1939, and Part 2 of Title 1 of the act should be utilized intact, (B) the legislation should be of permanent duration, (C) no agency of the executive branch should be exempted from the scope of the legislation, and (D) the legislation should be sufficiently broad and flexible to permit of any form of organizational adjustment, large or small, for which necessity may arise.

It is scarcely necessary to point out that under the foregoing arrangement (A) necessary action is facilitated because initiative is placed in the hands of the President, and (B) necessary control is reserved to the Congress since it may, by simple majority vote of the two houses, nullify any action of the President which does not meet with its approval. I think, further, that the Congress recognizes that particular arrangement as its own creation, evolved within the Congress out of vigorous efforts and debate extending over a period of two years and culminating in the enactment of the reorganization act of 1939.

Therefore, bearing in mind what the future demands of all of us, I earnestly ask the Congress to enact legislation along the foregoing lines without delay.

Anderson Gets Role Of U.S. Food Czar

MAY 25 1945

Washington, May 24 (AP)—President Truman reached into Congress and came up today with a "czar" to take over this country's biggest and growing ache—food shortages.

He picked for the job Representative Clinton P. Anderson, New Mexico Democrat and chairman of a special House committee that has been investigating the shrinking American food supplies.

As Secretary of Agriculture and War Food Administrator, Anderson will take over virtually complete control of Government food programs as soon as his nomination is confirmed by the Senate. Greater authority probably will follow.

"Boss In Fact"

Although Marvin Jones, present WFA chief, does not retire until June 30, he is expected to follow Anderson's recommendations. Jones will return to the United States Court of Claims. Claude R. Wickard, present Agriculture Secretary, will step down to become Rural Electrification Administrator.

Highly placed officials said Mr. Truman told Anderson he would be "boss in fact" over programs dealing with the production, distribution, rationing and pricing of food.

Since the start of the war, these programs have been divided among several agencies. And, as time went on, authority of the War Food Administration dwindled, while power of some other agencies increased—notably the Office of Price Administration, the Office of Economic Stabilization and the Office of War Mobilization.

Change Is Expected

The point actually had been reached when it could be said truthfully that WFA had less authority over important factors influencing production and distribution than did some of the other agencies.

All this is expected to be changed as a result of Mr. Truman's surprise move.

Anderson will set policies affecting producer prices of food products, leaving OPA to establish processor and distributor price margins and to carry out rationing programs as outlined by the Agriculture Department. In recent months OPA has largely set rationing policies, although WFA originally had been delegated this authority.

Allocation Control

Anderson is also expected to regain for his agency authority to allocate the nation's food supply among civilian, military, lend-lease and foreign relief claimants. Several months ago that authority was taken from WFA and placed under an interagency committee headed by Leo T. Crowley, foreign economic administrator.

One of Anderson's first acts may be a public request that agriculture and the food industry be given top priority rating in Government policies affecting the control of manpower and of materials. He recently joined with Jones in requesting more manpower for agriculture and more machinery for farmers and food processors.

The meat shortage undoubtedly will be marked for early action by the new food chief. His House committee placed much blame for current shortages on Government price policies affecting hogs and cattle.

Lower Pig Crop

Only yesterday a WFA survey indicated that this year's pig crop would fall 5,000,000 head below the Government goal—a development which would lengthen greatly the period of short pork supplies.

A factor said to be influencing farmers is the Government's price guarantee of $13 a hundred pounds, Chicago basis, for hogs. Anderson's committee, terming this insufficient, recommended $13.50. He undoubtedly will follow the committee recommendation in an effort to attain the hog goal.

This impending co-ordination of food programs under one authority could have come at a better time, however. In the case of most crops and of eggs, the season is too far advanced to hope for great improvement. An immediate promise of ample harvesting manpower could have some effect.

Sugar Situation

The sugar situation, which threatens to become serious later in the year, also may draw special attention from Anderson. His committee urged special Government inducements designed to increase domestic production. But here, too, time is late.

On the other hand, Anderson could take immediate steps designed to obtain larger supplies in 1946, by offering Cubans and Puerto Ricans better prices for increasing production. He undoubtedly will lose no time in opening negotiations to buy Cuba's 1946 crop. The WFA had been delaying such negotiations because of Cuban demands for better prices.

Senator Johnson (D., Col.) predicted that Anderson's selection would guarantee enactment of price-control extension legislation now before the Senate Banking Committee.

ANDERSON SETS BIG FOOD PROBE

New Agriculture Secretary Orders Cross-Country Quiz

Washington, May 24 (AP)—The man President Truman chose for Secretary of Agriculture tonight ordered a pantry-wide congressional investigation of food shortages and black markets.

Representative Clinton P. Anderson (D., N.M.), chairman of the House Food Investigating Committee, announced the group will leave Washington June 11 for a cross-country probe of butter, eggs, poultry, fruits and vegetables, meat and fish.

Anderson will become Secretary of a reorganized Agriculture Department on July 1.

Poultry Black Mart Charged

"There is a black market in poultry," Anderson said, "and there is a strong possibility of a black market in eggs.

"We want to finish the food investigation program I planned at the outset, before I leave the committee, so the Congress—and the Government—can have a complete picture of the entire situation."

He will go before the House Committee on Accounts to ask for $15,000 committee expense money to finance the inquiry, which will take the congressmen to the West Coast.

The committee started out two months ago with $10,000—most of which was spent during investigations of meat and sugar.

Public Hearings Planned

It will open public hearings in Washington June 4, dealing largely with poultry and egg black markets.

On June 11 the group will go to Omaha to study the general food situation in that area. Thereafter it will follow this schedule:

June 12, Minneapolis, investigate butter and dairy products.

June 13, Yakima, Wash., apples, peas and other vegetables.

June 14, Seattle, fruit and live stock.

June 15, San Francisco, fruit and poultry.

June 16, southern California, fresh fruit, vegetables and fish.

The June 16 hearing will complete the tour.

Seeks Over-All Report

Anderson said the commitee hopes to return to Washington with an over-all food report before he leaves the chairmanship to become Secretary of Agriculture.

In unanimous preliminary reports already filed, the committee criticized what it called lack of co-ordination in the Government's food policies, particularly in the handling of sugar and meat.

Senator Murray (D., Mont.), chairman of the Senate Small Business Committee, asked Anderson in a letter to "exercise all the authority required" to withhold announcement of the next quarter's sugar allotments and to re-examine claimant-agency requests "so that we may secure a more reasonable distribution of our sugar supply."

Officials Blamed

In an accompanying statement, Murray said reports to his committee "indicate that the principal agencies concerned—WPB, FEA, CCC, Agriculture, State, War and Navy departments—have been extremely reckless in handling sugar.

"According to these reports, the present sugar shortage is due to mismanagement, shortsightedness and repeated blunderings on the part of officials of these agencies."

Wagner Introduces His Bill To Broaden Social Security

MAY 25 1945

Senator Outlines Six-point Program Which Would Increase Costs to Both Employer and Worker and Widen Coverage.

Washington, May 24 (A. P.).—A new, broad concept of social security, including health insurance, is embodied in a bill introduced in Congress today with a plea that the nation needs it as a post-war bulwark. The far-reaching measure, increasing costs to both employees and employers, was proposed by Senator Wagner (D.-N. Y.) and Representative Dingell (D.-Mich.).

Mr. Wagner, explaining the legislation in detail in a speech prepared for delivery in the Senate, listed these principal proposals:

1. Contributions of employers and employees are to be increased from 1 to 4 per cent each.

2. Every citizen would be eligible to health insurance similar to the present voluntary hospital insurance plans now in effect. None of the current plans would be affected; they could continue in business.

3. The Government would embark on a ten-year plan, with an appropriation of $950,000,000 to help states build and improve hospitals and health centers, especially in rural areas. An additional $5,000,000 would be provided to help the States make the necessary surveys.

4. The United States employment service would be established permanently. After the war it would take over the War Manpower Commission and other related services with the Social Security Board set-up.

5. Social security coverage would be extended to an additional 15,000,000 persons, including farm workers, domestics, those in nonprofit institutions and the independent farmer, professional person and small-business man.

6. Increases are provided for unemployment compensation and old age benefits; the jobless insurance would be nationalized, rather than operate on a state-by-state basis.

Says Labor Backs Proposal.

Senator Wagner said that labor organizations endorsed the bill.

He emphasized that the health insurance plan would allow the individual to choose his own physician and hospital; would permit the physician and hospital to pick their own patients, too. "It is not socialized medicine," he insisted.

The Senator said full employment, if it is achieved after the war, "still does not solve the economic problems of widows and orphans, the aged, the sick and disabled."

The medical care insurance would provide for hospital service up to 60 days a year, with the insured person's family included in the benefits.

For illness or disability, a person would get the same payments as if unemployed, and these would be revised.

Duration of unemployment benefits would be extended from the present maximum of 26 weeks to a full year if available funds permitted. The weekly scale would be from $5 to $20 for single persons, with a maximum of $30 based on the number of dependents. Most existing state laws have a maximum betwene $15, and $20.

Women workers would be allowed 12 weeks maternity leave, with the same scale of benefits.

Old Age Assistance.

Changes in the old age assistance phase would provide monthly cash benefits where the worker is totally disabled for six months or more before reaching retirement age. The minimum monthly sum is increased from $10 to $20 for a single person, and $30 for a worker with a dependent wife aged 60 or over. The maximum would be $120 a month. The bill also lowers from 65 to 60 the retirement age for women and for receiving widow's benefits.

Those in the armed forces would be granted a wage credit for $160 a month, thus having this social security credit during their period of service without deductions from Army or Navy pay. Wagner said the program would pay "enormous dividends" in public health. The aid to States and the health insurance plan, he contended, would provide medical care for the low-income family and strike "at an important cause of the shockingly high rate of rejections "experienced by draft boards.

"Health insurance does not involve regimentation of doctors or patients," he declared. "It is simply a method of assuring a person ready access to the medical care that he or she needs by eliminating the financial barrier between the patient and the doctor or hospital." The Senator said the legislation isn't the "final solution" of social problems, but simply "a desirable step that can be put into operation now."

Bretton Woods Plan Faces Showdown Vote

Washington, May 24 (AP)—The House Banking Committee, after months of wrangling, met for a showdown vote today on the Bretton Woods agreements. The Administration voiced confidence of victory for the plan of international postwar monetary co-operation.

Chairman Spence (D., Ky.) said, "We expect to bring out a ratification bill satisfactory to the Administration—one that will not require another meeting of the representatives of 44 nations who drew the Bretton Woods documents."

Representative Wolcott (Mich.), ranking Republican member who has proposed a series of amendments, said he believes a partisan battle can be avoided in the voting.

Paired With Tariff Bill

The Administration has sought to build up the votes on Bretton Woods and the tariff bill, now being debated in the House, as twin tests of America's willingness to participate in postwar international economic cooperation.

Wolcott told newsmen there is virtual unanimity on the purposes of Bretton Woods and that his amendments involve only mechanics of the proposed $9,100,000,000 international bank for reconstruction and development loans and the $8,800,000,000 separate fund for stabilization of international currencies.

HOUSE GROUP VOTES WORLD BANK, 23 TO 3

Bretton Woods Agreement for International Stabilization Fund Is Also Approved

WASHINGTON, May 24 (AP)—The House Banking Committee approved by a 23-to-3 bipartisan vote today the Bretton Woods international monetary agreements.

The agreements, drawn last summer by representatives of forty-four countries, propose to set up a $9,100,000,000 World Bank for reconstruction and development loans and an $8,800,000,000 fund for stabilization of world currencies.

Action of the banking group was the second Congressional victory in a week for the Administration's international economic program.

Legislation now being debated in the House would give President Truman broad new authority to cut tariffs in reciprocal trade agreements with other countries. The House Ways and Means Committee approved the bill, 14—11, last week.

Representative Spence of Kentucky, chairman of the Banking Committee, said the Bretton Woods legislation voted out by the committee today "does not change a word or alter a punctuation in the basic agreements."

Several amendments were written into the bill but Representative Brown of Georgia said they were "just window dressing."

Representative Spence predicted easy sailing in the House and Senate, saying he did not expect seventy-five "no" votes in the House. Speaker Rayburn said the House will begin debate on the measure next Tuesday.

In the committee, fourteen Democrats, eight Republicans and one minor party member joined in the overwhelming vote for the bill. Three Republicans voted against it. They were identified by colleagues as Representatives Sumner of Illinois, Smith of Ohio and Buffett of Nebraska.

Proponents outlined the objectives and purposes of Bretton Woods as follows:

World Bank—Encourage international investment in productive enterprise in war-devastated countries and development of natural resources, public utilities and industries in undeveloped countries; guarantee loans made by private lenders and make some loans out of its own resources, with each member country sharing in the bank's risks in proportion to the stock it holds; make long-term currency-stabilization loans.

The United States would subscribe $3,175,000,000 of the bank's $9,100,000,000 capital. Members would pay in at the start 10 per cent of their subscriptions—$318,000,000 for this country.

International Monetary Fund—Stipulate that all the cooperating countries define their currencies in terms of gold; progressively remove barriers against payments across international boundaries, and provide a revolving fund of foreign exchange for member countries to enable them in times of stress to maintain stable and unrestricted currency relationships.

U. S. Plans Tax Evasion Mopup

Morgenthau, Reporting 'Shocking' Cases, Asks for 5000 More Field Agents.

Washington, May 24 (A. P.).—Secretary Morgenthau is asking the Budget Bureau and Congress for funds to recruit an additional 5,000 Treasury field agents "at once" in a fast-mounting investigation of tax evasion. There now are 1,500 agents at work.

Mr. Morgenthau said: "We are running into so many shocking cases. It is shocking, revolting and disgusting that anybody who has got a fine business in war time should try to make these illegal profits by evading their taxes."

He told his news conference that a man operating restaurants in New York city has come forward through his tax lawyer and made a "voluntary disclosure" of $2,200,000 in gross income over a three-year period that was "overlooked" in filing returns. The secretary declined to name the restaurant owner, but said, "We are going to try to prove he has been dishonest with his Government."

"If we can get a case we will prosecute to the hilt," he added.

Mr. Morgenthau said the $2,200,000 was in cash kept in various vaults. He said evidence indicates that the owner sent an armored truck around to his restaurants every day and picked up a certain amount of cash which was put into a vault.

He declared the "voluntary disclosure" was made after Treasury agents began examining the company's books.

"There are thousands and thousands of cases we just can't process," he added. "We need a minimum of 5,000 more Treasury agents at once. I have been giving a lot of time myself to this drive we are making against people in the black market who are not paying taxes. I'm in dead earnest about this."

When asked whether the New York restaurant case was a black market case, Mr. Morgenthau said that remains to be seen.

Senator Suggests U. S. Cancel 1918 War Debt

Washington, May 24 (A. P.).—Senator Johnson (D.-Col.) suggested today that the United States cancel the $11,000,000,000 war debts of 1918 and give the world a "clean slate" for future financing.

"We can't collect them anyhow," he asserted at a Senate Finance Committee hearing a bill to repeal the ten-year-old act which prohibits private loans to foreign countries in defeault of world war one debts.

Assistant Secretary of State William L. Clayton said the department had not discussed such a debt cancellation, but he agreed that the defaulters "cannot and will not pay." He appeared in behalf of the repealer, declaring that this country must help finance the war-ravaged European nations as a matter of good business policy. Senator Hiram Johnson (R.-Cal.), author of the default law, served notice that he will put up a stiff fight against repeal, and was given a week to prepare his case.

"We've given almost everything away but we still have something left and I don't want to see that given away," the California Senator said.

The Finance Committee indicated almost unanimous support of the repeal move, however, and Senator Johnson took note of this attitude by calling himself "the only man in here representing the opposition."

Mr. Clayton told the committee:

"It will be necessary to do a great deal of reconstruction in Europe. The United States is the only country in position to furnish the tools and the technology. We should furnish them. It is very necessary for us to find markets abroad to maintain anything like full employment here. It will be necessary for the foreign governments to float large loans to reconstruct railways, bridges, public buildings. It is very important to us that these countries restore their economies just as quickly as possible. Not from any humanitarian standpoint but from a purely commercial viewpoint."

Senator Bushfield (R.-N. D.) interjected that "we're operating ourselves on borrowed money now."

"A bank doesn't carry an old debt around, it cancels it," Senator Johnson of Colorado said. "Why not cancel these old war debts. Get them out of the way. Why have them hanging over the world?"

WHISKY GETS GREEN LIGHT

WPB Gives Distillers July Liquor-Making 'Holiday'

Washington, May 24 (AP)—The War Production Board today released the facilities of the nation's distillers for a one-month liquor-making "holiday" in July.

The facilities have been devoted to the production of industrial alcohol for war purposes.

J. A. Krug, WPB chairman, in authorizing the third four-week holiday within a year, said at a news conference that it was made possible by:

1. Suspension of shipments of industrial alcohol to Russia because of diminished need for it there.

2. Increasing use of petroleum instead of industrial alcohol in the manufacture of synthetic rubber in this country.

As in the case of holidays last August and January, liquor producers are expected to be able to turn out more than 50,000,000 proof gallons of distilled spirits. This, the industry has reported, is the equivalent of one year's normal supply of drinking liquor.

Blended And Straight

The alcohol produced will be used for making blended and straight whisky, as well as gin.

Krug announced that regular beverage distillers, converted to production of industrial alcohol since October, 1942, will be permitted to utilize their entire production capacity for liquor.

Plants which historically produced industrial alcohol only will be allowed to convert 30 per cent of their capacity to liquor production, rather than 50 per cent as in January.

As To Corn For Bourbon

Asked whether some corn would be released for making bourbon as was done in January, Krug said he did not know that yet.

At the War Food Administration, it was said no regulations governing the use of grains for manufacture of alcohol during the July-September quarter have been issued.

Regulations in effect during the current quarter permit the use of corn grading No. 3 or lower in the manufacture of industrial alcohol.

Grain experts expressed the unofficial opinion that the present regulations will be continued during the third quarter, inasmuch as the supply of corn now appears ample to meet indicated industrial, food an dlive-stock feed needs.

Distillers, however, normally prefer corn grading better than No. 3. Spirits distilled from corn are used largely in making bourbon whisky.

Krug announced that the WPB will revoke on July 1 a prohibition on the blending and processing in this country of imported cane spirits. This ban has been in effect to prevent the diversion of alcohol from industrial needs.

HERMANN WAGNER, HEAD OF THE MILITARY CABINET.

DR. WILHELM STUCKART, MINISTER OF INTERIOR AND MINISTER OF SCIENCE, EDUCATION AND PUBLIC INSTRUCTION, IS BELIEVED TO HAVE BEEN ARRESTED YESTERDAY BUT HIS IDENTIFICATION HAS NOT BEEN ESTABLISHED DEFINITELY.

THE NINTH CABINET MEMBER, DR. JULIUS DORPMULLER, WAS REPORTED BY THE SHAEF CONTROL PARTY AT FLENSBURG STILL TO BE IN MALENTE, A SMALL TOWN IN OLDENBURG BETWEEN KIEL AND LUEBECK.

A REPORT FROM THE 21ST ARMY GROUP SAID ADM.GEN. HANS GEORG VON FRIEDEBERG COMMITTED SUICIDE BY POISONING AFTER BEING PLACED UNDER ARREST AT FLENSBURG YESTERDAY. SUPREME HEADQUARTERS SAID LAST NIGHT IT HAD HEARD THE REPORT, BUT HAD NOT BEEN ABLE TO CONFIRM IT OFFICIALLY.

DOENITZ SAID HE LAST SAW HIMMLER AT MECKLENBERG ON MAY 6 AND ADVISED HIM "TO TAKE A PLANE AND FLY SOUTH."

COL.GEN.GUSTAV JODL, GERMAN ARMY CHIEF OF STAFF WHO WAS AMONG THOSE ARRESTED AT FLENSBURG, ASSERTED HE AND HIMMLER HAD LEFT BERLIN TOGETHER LATE IN APRIL AND THAT THEY LAST MET IN MECKLENBURG ON MAY 4.

NEITHER DOENITZ OR JODL COULD--OR WOULD--CONFIRM REPORTS THAT BOTH HIMMLER AND VON RIBBENTROP HAD ESCAPED FROM GERMANY AT THE LAST MINUTE BY BOAT OR PLANE.

DOENITZ LIKEWISE INDICATED HE HAD NO DIRECT INFORMATION CONCERNING THE REPORTED DEATH OF HITLER IN BERLIN. HIS KNOWLEDGE APPARENTLY WAS LIMITED TO THE FOLLOWING MESSAGE DATED MAY 1 AND SIGNED "GOEBBELS" WHICH HE TURNED OVER TO ALLIED OFFICERS:

"HITLER DIED 3:30 P.M. TAKE OVER ANY ACTION YOU DEEM NECESSARY UNDER CIRCUMSTANCES."

THERE NOW ARE A HALF-DOZEN VERSIONS CONCERNING THE MANNER IN WHICH HITLER ALLEGEDLY DIED, ALIKE ONLY IN THAT THEY ALL EMPHASIZE THAT THE FUEHRER WAS IN POOR HEALTH THE LAST FEW DAYS HE WAS KNOWN TO HAVE BEEN ALIVE.

NO TRACE OF HIS BODY HAS BEEN FOUND, ALTHOUGH THE RUSSIANS HAVE PLEDGED THEMSELVES TO SEARCH 50 YEARS FOR HIS REMAINS IF NECESSARY IN ORDER TO ESTABLISH THAT HE REALLY IS DEAD.

THE LATEST VERSION OF HITLER'S FATE TURNED UP YESTERDAY IN THE FORM OF A RUSSIAN INTELLIGENCE REPORT--MADE AVAILABLE TO ALLIED SUPREME HEADQUARTERS--WHICH SAID THE FUEHRER, PARTLY PARALYZED AND IN PAIN, HAD BEEN PUT OUT OF HIS MISERY BY A DOCTOR WHO INJECTED AN OVERDOSE OF DRUGS.

THE DOCTOR WAS IDENTIFIED BY THE RUSSIANS AS A "PROF.MOREL."

EARLIER, HOWEVER, A DR.MORRELL, WHO SAID HE WAS HITLER'S PERSONAL PHYSICIAN, HAD TOLD AMERICAN CORRESPONDENTS AT BERCHTESGADEN IN AN INTERVIEW MAY 21 THAT WHEN HE PROPOSED GIVING HITLER AN INJECTION ON APRIL 21--THE LAST TIME HE SAW HIM--HITLER BECAME ENRAGED AND TOLD HIM TO "GET OUT." MORRELL SAID HE HAD BEEN GIVING HITLER INJECTIONS OF GLUCOSE AND CAFFEINE TO SUSTAIN HIS ENERGY.

(PRESIDENT TRUMAN TOLD A NEWS CONFERENCE IN WASHINGTON YESTERDAY THAT HIS ASSERTION SEVERAL WEEKS AGO THAT HE WAS CONVINCED OF HITLER'S DEATH WAS BASED ON A REPORT MADE BY HIMMLER TO THE U.S.MINISTER TO SWEDEN. HE SAID HIMMLER DECLARED HITLER HAD SUFFERED A STROKE AND COULD NOT LIVE MORE THAN 24 HOURS.)

THE ALLIED MANHUNT FOR TOP NAZIS NARROWED DOWN TO HIMMLER AND VON RIBBENTROP WHEN JULIUS STREICHER, THE NOTORIOUS JEW-BAITER, WAS CAPTURED ON A FARM IN THE BAVARIAN HILLS BY OFFICERS OF THE 101ST AIRBORNE DIVISION. THE ONCE ARROGANT PUBLISHER OF THE VIOLENTLY ANTI-SEMITIC DER STEURMER TRIED TO PRETEND HE WAS AN ECCENTRIC ARTIST WHEN HE WAS TAKEN INTO CUSTODY BY A JEWISH LIEUTENANT FROM NEW YORK AND THREE OTHER AMERICANS.

FRENCH EMPIRE (550)

BY RELMAN MORIN

PARIS, MAY 24-(AP)-THE MAP OF THE FRENCH EMPIRE WAS SPLOTCHED WITH RED TODAY AS BLOOD FLOWED IN THREE IMPORTANT AREAS FRANCE CLAIMS AS HER OWN. THEY ARE INDO-CHINA, ALGERIA AND SYRIA-LEBANON.

IN THE FIRST TWO COUNTRIES FRENCH TROOPS ALREADY ARE IN ACTION. IN THE THIRD TROUBLE WAS BUILDING UP, WITH SPOKESMEN FOR THE SYRIAN AND LEBANESE PROTESTING THE ARRIVAL OF FRENCH REINFORCEMENTS AND DECLARING THEY WOULD RESIST WITH EVERY MEANS AT THEIR DISPOSAL ANY INFRINGEMENT OF THEIR SOVEREIGNTY.

IN ALL THREE AREAS THE TROUBLES STEM FROM THE COLLAPSE OF FRANCE IN 1940 AND THE CONSEQUENT WEAKENING OF BONDS BETWEEN THE MOTHER COUNTRY AND THE COLONIES, BOTH IN ACTUAL PHYSICAL COMMUNICATIONS AND FROM THE STANDPOINT OF FRENCH PRESTIGE.

THE JAPANESE ARMY ENTERED RUBBER RICH INDO-CHINA IN THE FALL OF 1940. FOR NEARLY FOUR YEARS TOKYO PAID LIP SERVICE TO THE FICTION OF FRENCH SOVEREIGNTY THERE. EARLY IN MARCH THE PRETENSE WAS DROPPED AND THE JAPANESE OFFICIALLY TOOK OVER THE WHOLE COUNTRY.

THE SMALL AND INADEQUATELY ARMED FRENCH COLONIAL FORCES TRIED TO FIGHT BUT THEY HAVE BEEN DRIVEN INTO DESOLATE INACCESSIBLE MOUNTAINS ON THE BORDER BETWEEN TONKIN AND SOUTH CHINA.

THE JOINT BRITISH AND FREE FRENCH CAMPAIGN AGAINST THE VICHY GOVERNMENT'S HOLD ON SYRIA AND LEBANON ALSO CAME IN 1940. FRANCE HAD ACQUIRED MANDATES OVER THE TWO COUNTRIES FROM THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS. AFTER THE EXPULSION OF THE VICHY REGIME THEY DECLARED THEIR INDEPENDENCE.

NEVERTHELESS THEY WERE COMPLETELY UNDER FRENCH INFLUENCE. ARMED FORCES IN BOTH COUNTRIES REMAINED UNDER THE COMMAND OF FRENCH OFFICERS AND THE POLICIES OF THEIR GOVERNMENTS WERE MORE OR LESS DICTATED BY THE FRENCH, FIRST FROM ALGIERS AND THEN FROM PARIS.

TODAY THE SYRIAN AND THE LEBANESE GOVERNMENTS ARE TRYING TO MAKE THEIR INDEPENDENCE A FACT.

A63

THEY HAVE PROTESTED THE ARRIVAL OF REINFORCEMENTS WHICH THE FRENCH SAY WERE SENT MERELY IN PREPARATION FOR USE IN THE PACIFIC. RIOTS AND STRIKES HAVE BROKEN OUT IN BEYROUTH AND DAMASCUS, THE CAPITALS. YESTERDAY IN PARIS THE SYRIAN AND LEBANESE MINISTERS ISSUED A JOINT STATEMENT THAT THE WHOLE ARAB WORLD WOULD ASSIST THE TWO COUNTRIES IN RESISTING WITH EVERY MEANS AT THEIR DISPOSAL--BACKED BY A STATEMENT EARLIER IN THE WEEK AGAINST THE FRENCH BY THE NEW ARAB LEAGUE OF SYRIA, LEBANON, EGYPT, IRAQ, IRAN, YEMEN AND SAUDI ARABIA.

MEANWHILE IN ALGERIA SOMETHING VERY SIMILAR TO THE AMERICAN INDIAN WARS HAS BROKEN OUT ON A LARGE SCALE. BERBER TRIBESMEN ROSE SUDDENLY TWO WEEKS AGO AND ATTACKED FRENCH VILLAGES AND OUTLYING FARMHOUSES. NEARLY 1,500 EUROPEANS AND NATIVES HAVE BEEN KILLED IN THE FIGHTING, BY THE LATEST FRENCH WAR MINISTRY FIGURES.

THE FAMOUS FRENCH FOREIGN LEGION, SUPPORTED BY AIRCRAFT, HAS GONE INTO ACTION AGAINST THE MOUNTAINEERS. THE GOVERNMENT SAID THE SITUATION IS COMING RAPIDLY UNDER CONTROL.

GEN.DE GAULLE'S GOVERNMENT THUS FACES SERIOUS DIFFICULTY IN REESTABLISHING POSSESSION OF THE HUGE FRENCH EMPIRE. THE JAPANESE SIMPLY GRABBED INDO-CHINA AND EVEN THEIR DEFEAT MAY LEAVE CONDITIONS DISTURBED IN A COLONY WHICH ALREADY HAS HAD NATIVE TROUBLES. THE RISING TIDE OF ARAB UNITY IS THREATENING THE EMPIRE SERIOUSLY IN OTHER AREAS WHERE FRANCE EXERCISES THE BIGGEST SINGLE OVERLORDSHIP OVER THE WORLD'S ARAB POPULATION.

JP728AEW

PARIS, MAY 24-(AP)-GEN.DE GAULLE, HEAD OF THE FRENCH PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT, DEFENDED IN A BROADCAST TODAY THE GOVERNMENT'S RECENT DECISIONS ON FIXING OF PRICES AND WAGES AND EMPHATICALLY STATED THAT THE POLICIES WOULD REMAIN.

THIS ISSUE NEARLY CAUSED A NATIONAL GENERAL STRIKE WITHIN THE PAST FEW DAYS. IT WAS ONLY AVERTED THROUGH A COMPROMISE WITH THE LABOR UNIONS WHICH PROVIDED SMALL SALARY INCREASES IN SOME CATEGORIES.

DE GAULLE SAID THAT FRANCE STILL WAS SUFFERING FROM THE "DEPLORABLE REGIME" CREATED BY THE GERMANS AND CALLED UPON PRODUCERS AND CONSUMERS, AND WORKERS, WHITE COLLAR WORKERS AND CAPITALISTS FOR MUTUAL SACRIFICES.

PREVIOUS REPORTS THAT NATIONALIZATION OF COAL AND ELECTRIC INDUSTRIES AND GOVERNMENT CONTROL OF ALL BANKING WOULD COME "BEFORE THE END OF THIS YEAR" WERE CONFIRMED BY THE GENERAL.

PARIS, MAY 24-(AP)-ROBERT SUEL, A FRENCH NEWSPAPER EDITOR, WAS CONVICTED TODAY OF ECONOMIC COLLABORATION WITH THE GERMANS DURING THE OCCUPATION AND SENTENCED TO LIFE IMPRISONMENT WITH HARD LABOR.

IN MAKING HIS DEFENSE SUEL TOLD THE COURT THAT THE REAL PURPOSE OF SOME OF HIS ACTIVITIES WAS TO OBTAIN INFORMATION FOR ROY PORTER, ASSOCIATED PRESS CORRESPONDENT IN PARIS IN 1941. HE SAID HE UNDERSTOOD PORTER WAS AN AMERICAN SECRET SERVICE AGENT.

PORTER, WHO LEFT PARIS IN NOVEMBER, 1941, BUT RETURNED LAST YEAR AS A BROADCASTER FOR THE NATIONAL BROADCASTING COMPANY, GAVE A DEPOSITION DENYING THAT HE HAD SO REPRESENTED HIMSELF TO SUEL.

COURT RECORDS SHOWED THAT SUEL'S ALLEGED BUSINESS DEALINGS WITH THE GERMANS BEGAN AFTER PORTER'S DEPARTURE FROM PARIS IN 1941.

PORTER'S DEPOSITION SAID HE KNEW SUEL BEFORE THE UNITED STATES ENTERED THE WAR AND FOUND HIM AGAIN IN PARIS WHEN HE RETURNED IN 1944. SUEL, PORTER SAID, DID FURNISH HIM WITH INFORMATION ABOUT GERMAN ACTIVITIES WHICH HE USED FOR ARTICLES AND BROADCASTS.

THE POLICE CLAIM SUEL MADE 100,000,000 FRANCS ($2,000,000) IN OPERATIONS WITH THE GERMANS.

CONFRONTED WITH PORTER'S DEPOSITION SUEL SAID: "I EXPECTED THAT SECRET SERVICE AGENTS CAN'T DISCLOSE THEMSELVES EVEN TO ASSIST PEOPLE WHO WORKED FOR THEM."

MAJ. JOHN E.FELDMAN, BALTIMORE, HEAD OF THE DIVISION'S RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT BRANCH, SAID THE GERMAN BUTTERFLY BOMB WAS THE MOST DANGEROUS ENEMY EXPLOSIVE WITH WHICH THE MEN DEALT.

DE GAULLE WAS REPRESENTED AS STILL HOPING TO PARTICIPATE IN THE NEXT CONFERENCE OF PRESIDENT TRUMAN, PREMIER-MARSHAL STALIN AND PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL.

THE EXCHANGE OF DISPLACED PERSONS AND PRISONERS HAS BEEN ONE OF THE MAIN STUMBLING BLOCKS TO SMOOTH RELATIONS BETWEEN THE RUSSIANS ON ONE SIDE AND THE AMERICANS AND BRITISH ON THE OTHER.

OKINAWA, MAY 19-(DELAYED)-(AP)-THE U.S. TENTH ARMY STARTED A GIGANTIC "RABBIT HUNT" TODAY FOR MORE THAN 1,000 JAPANESE STRAGGLERS IN NORTHERN OKINAWA.

INFANTRYMEN OF THE 27TH DIVISION STEPPED OFF AT 7:30 A.M., ALMOST SHOULDER TO SHOULDER, IN A DOWNPOUR OF RAIN IN THE FIRST FULL SCALE THOROUGH MOPUP OF THE NORTHERN TWO THIRDS OF OKINAWA SINCE THE ORIGINAL SWEEP EARLY IN APRIL.

MAJ.GEN.GEORGE W.GRINER STRUNG THREE REGIMENTS ACROSS THE NARROW ISHIKAWA ISTHMUS AND STARTED THEM NORTHWARD INTO A MOUNTAINOUS 500 SQUARE MILE AREA BELIEVED TO CONTAIN 150,000 OKINWANS AS WELL AS MORE THAN 1,000 ORGANIZED JAPANESE MILITARY AND NAVAL PERSONNEL.

IT WAS THE LARGEST MOPUP CAMPAIGN IN THE PACIFIC. THE 27TH IN A SIMILAR MOPUP ON SAIPAN LAST YEAR KILLED 1,900 JAPANESE AND TOOK 200 PRISONERS BETWEEN JULY 16 AND AUG. 8 IN AN AREA ONLY FOUR MILES LONG.

MOTORIZED PATROLS ROAMED ISLAND ROADS THREE OR FOUR MILES IN FRONT OF THE SLOWLY MOVING LINE OF BUSH BEATERS TO PICK UP ENEMY GROUPS FLUSHED OUT OF CAVES.

DEMOLITION TEAMS FOLLOWED, SEALING THE CAVES WHILE LIGHT ARTILLERY UNITS WERE ON THE ALERT TO QUELL ANY RESISTANCE.

HUNDREDS OF CIVILIAN MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN WERE TAKEN TO REFUGEE CAMPS FOR EXAMINATION AND MILITARY GOVERNMENT TAGGING.

"IT'S LIKE LOOKING FOR LOST GOLF BALLS," ONE STAFF OFFICER SAID.

THE SWEEP STARTED WHERE THE ISTHMUS IS NARROWEST -- ABOUT 2,500 YARDS WIDE. THE ULTIMATE GOAL IS THE NORTHERN TIP OF OKINAWA 40 MILES AWAY.

THE AVERAGE WIDTH NORTH OF THE ISTHMUS IS 10 MILES, WITH AN ADDITIONAL HUNDRED SQUARE MILES IN THUMB-LIKE MOTOBU PENINSULA. THE DRIVE IS EXPECTED TO REQUIRE SIX WEEKS.

THE 27TH DIVISION TOOK OVER NORTHERN OKINAWA FROM THE THIRD AMPHIBIOUS CORPS UPON BEING RELIEVED FROM THE 24TH CORPS LINE ON SOUTHERN OKINAWA, MAY 1.

SAN FRANCISCO, MAY 24-(AP)-A PROPOSAL THAT A WORLD ORGANIZATION ASSUME GENERAL SUPERVISION OVER THE ENORMOUS PROBLEMS OF RECONSTRUCTION IN WAR-RAVAGED LANDS WON A MEASURE OF APPROVAL TODAY IN A UNITED NATIONS CONFERENCE COMMITTEE.

FOREIGN MINISTER HERBERT V.EVATT OF AUSTRALIA, LEADING THE LESSER NATION SCRAP TO WHITTLE DOWN BIG POWER CONTROL OF PEACE ENFORCEMENT MACHINERY, TOLD AUSTRALIAN REPORTERS A BIG FOUR REPLY COULD NOT BE EXPECTED BEFORE LATE TOMORROW NIGHT.

AMERICAN DELEGATES FIND THE VETO OVER PEACEFUL SETTLEMENTS LITTLE LESS PALATABLE THAN THE AUSTRALIANS. BUT THEY CONSIDER THEMSELVES COMMITTED TO IT, AS DOES RUSSIA, BY AN AGREEMENT AT A ROOSEVELT-STALIN-CHURCHILL MEETING AT YALTA LAST SPRING. UNDER IT, THE BIG FOUR AND FRANCE WOULD HAVE TO AGREE UNANIMOUSLY ON ALL PEACE-PRESERVING MEASURES. ANY ONE OF THEM COULD BLOCK ACTION.

BIG FOUR TECHNICAL EXPERTS WERE REPORTED DRAFTING AN INTERPRETATION OF THE YALTA VOTING AGREEMENT AS REQUIRING UNANIMITY BY THE MAJOR NATIONS IN ANY ACTION ON SUCH MEASURES.

THERE WERE INDICATIONS THAT THE EXPERTS WOULD NOT ATTEMPT TO REPLY SPECIFICALLY TO EACH OF 22 QUESTIONS ASKED BY SMALL NATIONS ABOUT THE VETO POWER, BUT RATHER THEY WOULD DRAFT A GENERAL STATEMENT OF POLICY.

THIS TREND APPEARED TOBE HEADING TOWARD A FIRM STAND BY THE MAJOR POWERS ON THEIR RIGHT TO VETO ANY IMPORTANT ACTION IN THE NEW LEAGUE.

ASIDE FROM DIFFERENCES OVER VETO AUTHORITY, THE CONFERENCE WAS SPEEDING SMOOTHLY ALONG WITH ITS WORK. SOME COMMITTEES WON'T GET UNDER THE WEEK-END DEADLINE FOR COMPLETION OF THEIR TASKS, BUT OTHERS PROBABLY WILL.

THE COMMITTEE HANDLING REGIONAL ARRANGEMENTS AND TRUSTEESHIPS WERE SHOOTING AT COMPLETION OF THEIR JOB BY SATURDAY.

SENATOR CONNALLY (D-TEX) CONTENDED THE NORWEGIAN AMENDMENT WAS UNNECESSARY. SIR ALEXANDER CADOGAN, THE BRITISH REPRESENTATIVE, SAID IT WOULD LEAVE A LOOP HOLE FOR LAW BREAKERS.

IN THE SAME COMMITTEE, CONNALLY ASSURED CANADA THE SECURITY COUNCIL WOULD BE UNABLE TO CALL ON ANY COUNTRY TO SUPPLY ARMED FORCES FOR AN INTERNATIONAL POLICE FORCE UNLESS THAT COUNTRY SPECIFICALLY HAD ENTERED INTO AN AGREEMENT WITH THE COUNCIL ON THAT POINT.

CLOSELY RELATED TO POLITICAL PROBLEMS OF THIS CONFERENCE WAS THE ACTION OF THE HOUSE BANKING COMMITTEE IN WASHINGTON IN VOTING 23 TO 3 FOR THE BRETTON WOODS AGREEMENTS FOR A WORLD BANK AND AN INTERNATIONAL MONETARY STABILIZATION FUND.

ANOTHER CONFERENCE COMMITTEE VOTED TODAY TO WRITE INTO THE CHARTER A PROVISION REQUIRING REGISTRATION AND PUBLICATION OF FUTURE INTERNATIONAL TREATIES AND AGREEMENTS. IT SAID:

"EVERY TREATY AND EVERY MILITARY AGREEMENT ENTERED INTO BY ANY MEMBER OF THE ORGANIZATION AFTER THE COMING INTO FORCE OF THE PRESENT CHARTER SHALL, AS SOON AS POSSIBLE, BE REGISTERED WITH THE SECRETARIAT AND PUBLISHED BY IT."

IN ADDITION THE COMMITTEE VOTED TO INSERT THE FOLLOWING LANGUAGE:

"NO PARTY TO SUCH A TREATY OR INTERNATIONAL AGREEMENT WHICH HAD NOT BEEN REGISTERED IN ACCORDANCE WITH THE PROVISIONS OF THE PRESENT ARTICLE MAY INVOKE THAT TREATY OF AGREEMENT BEFORE ANY ORGAN OF THE ORGANIZATION."

MAY 25 1945

THIS, IN EFFECT, WOULD PUT THE INTERNATIONAL ORGANIZATION ON RECORD AS DISCOURAGING FUTURE SECRET TREATIES, BUT IT WOULD NOT SPECIFICALLY REQUIRE THE REGISTRATION OF EXISTING TREATIES.

ASSOCIATED PRESS DIPLOMATIC NEWS EDITOR

SAN FRANCISCO, MAY 24-(AP)-THE UNITED STATES SOUGHT BY FIRM AND FRIENDLY NEGOTIATION TODAY TO PROVE THAT A FOUNDATION EXISTS IN THE RUINS OF POSTWAR EUROPE FOR AN EFFECTIVE UNITED NATIONS ORGANIZATION AROUND THE WORLD.

THAT IS THE REAL SIGNIFICANCE SEEN BY DELEGATES AT THE UNITED NATIONS CONFERENCE IN PRESIDENT TRUMAN'S DISPATCH OF HARRY HOPKINS TO PREMIER STALIN'S KREMLIN OFFICE.

THESE INTERNATIONAL EXPERTS FROM EVERY QUARTER OF THE GLOBE ARE EMPHASIZING ANEW THAT IF THE GREAT VICTORIOUS NATIONS OF THE WAR AGAINST GERMANY MOVE HESITANTLY NOW TO SETTLE THE FIRST ISSUES OF PEACE, THE WORLD CHARTER BEING DRAWN UP HERE MAY NOT BE WORTH ITS PAPER

TOPPING ALL THESE ISSUES IN GRAVITY AT THE MOMENT IS THE QUESTION OF PROVIDING A MORE DEMOCRATIC GOVERNMENT FOR POLAND IN ACCORDANCE WITH THE YALTA AGREEMENT. THE PREVAILING BELIEF HERE IS THAT HOPKINS' MAIN ASSIGNMENT IS TO FIND IN DIRECT CONVERSATION WITH STALIN SOME WAY OUT OF THE DEADLOCK BETWEEN RUSSIA AND HER WESTERN ALLIES.

ON THE SUCCESS OF HIS EFFORTS MAY VERY WELL HINGE THE POSSIBILITY OF A MEETING SOON AMONG THE CHIEFS OF THE UNITED STATES, BRITAN AND RUSSIA. IT IS DOUBTFUL WHETHER MR.TRUMAN WOULD AGREE TO FINAL PLANS FOR SUCH A BIG-THREE PARLEY UNTIL HE IS CONVINCED OF PROSPECTS FOR CONCRETE ACCOMPLISHMENTS ON THE POLISH AND OTHER PROBLEMS.

SELECTION OF HOPKINS FOR THIS DELICATE MISSION CAME AS A SURPRISE TO MANY UNITED NATIONS DIPLOMATS. THEY BELIEVED THAT BECAUSE OF HIS WORK FOR FRANKLIN D.ROOSEVELT, HE WOULD FIND NO PLACE IN THE TRUMAN ADMINISTRATION.

MAY 25 1945

TO MANY UNITED NATIONS DIPLOMATS. THEY BELIEVED THAT BECAUSE OF HIS HEALTH AND THE PERSONAL NATURE OF HIS WORK FOR FRANKLIN D.ROOSEVELT, HE WOULD FIND NO PLACE IN THE TRUMAN ADMINISTRATION.

THEY WERE QUICK TO AGREE, HOWEVER, THAT HE WAS A LOGICAL CHOICE FOR THE JOB BOTH BECAUSE OF HIS INTIMATE KNOWLEDGE OF THE BIG-THREE AGREEMENTS AT YALTA IN FEBRUARY AND HIS LONG EXPERIENCE IN DEALING WITH THE RUSSIANS. HE WAS ONE OF THE EARLIEST AND MOST ARDENT ADVOCATES OF LEND-LEASING ARMS TO THE SOVIET UNION WHEN HE HEADED THE MUNITIONS ASSIGNMENT BOARD UNDER DIRECT ORDERS FROM MR.ROOSEVELT.

IN RECENT WEEKS THE BIG POWERS HAVE ATTAINED A HIGH DEGREE OF COOPERATION IN THE WORK OF THE SAN FRANCISCO CONFERENCE, IRONING OUT SMOOTHLY THEIR DIFFERENCES OVER REGIONAL DEFENSE SYSTEMS WITHIN THE WORLD ORGANIZATION AND THEIR CONFLICTING VIEWS ON INTERNATIONAL SUPERVISION OF DEPENDENT TERRITORIES SUCH AS THE PACIFIC ISLANDS MANDATED TO JAPAN AFTER THE LAST WAR.

A17UN

THIS HAS BEEN POSSIBLE ONLY BECAUSE OF ELIMINATION FROM THE CONFERENCE SCENE OF OTHER CRITICAL ISSUES, SUCH AS RECONSTRUCTION OF THE POLISH WARSAW GOVERNMENT. AT YALTA, MR.ROOSEVELT, PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL AND MARSHAL STALIN AGREED THAT THIS POLISH PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT SHOULD BE "REORGANIZED ON A BROADER DEMOCRATIC BASIS WITH THE INCLUSION OF DEMOCRATIC LEADERS FROM POLAND ITSELF AND FROM ABROAD." SINCE, THE ALLIES HAVE SPLIT WIDE ON APPLICATION, IT IS ON SUCH ISSUES THAT COOPERATION IS BEING TESTED.

THE HARDENING OF LINES BETWEEN BRITAIN AND THE UNITED STATES ON ONE SIDE AND RUSSIA ON THE OTHER HAS CAUSED GRAVE CONCERN AMONG OFFICIALS WHO CONTEND THAT THE PROJECTED WORLD LEAGUE CAN WORK ONLY IF THOSE NATIONS CAN SOLVE WITHIN ITS FRAMEWORK, IN FUTURE YEARS, THE SAME SORT OF DIFFICULTIES THAT NOW DIVIDE THEM.

WITHIN THE CONFERENCE, TECHNICAL COMMITTEES ARE MAKING SWIFT PROGRESS ON THE BASIC DUMBARTON OAKS PLAN OF WORLD ORGANIZATION LAID DOWN BY THE SPONSORING POWERS--THE UNITED STATES, BRITAIN, RUSSIA AND CHINA.

ONE COMMITTEE LAST NIGHT APPROVED PROVISIONS CONFERRING ON AN 11-NATION SECURITY COUNCIL "PRIMARY RESPONSIBILITY FOR THE MAINTENANCE OF INTERNATIONAL PEACE AND SECURITY." THE COMMITTEE UNANIMOUSLY ADOPTED A CANADIAN AMENDMENT WHICH WOULD MAKE IT COMPULSORY ON THE COUNCIL TO MAKE ANNUAL AND SPECIAL REPORTS TO THE ALL-NATION ASSEMBLY.

BUT THE AUTHORITY OF THE GREAT POWERS WITHIN THE COUNCIL, WHERE THEY WILL HOLD FIVE PERMANENT SEATS, REMAINED A SORE POINT OF CONTROVERSY. THE SMALL NATIONS BATTLED THE YALTA VOTING FORMULA REQUIRING THAT ALL FIVE SHOULD BE UNANIMOUSLY AGREED BEFORE THE COUNCIL TAKES ANY IMPORTANT ACTION--OR EVEN INVESTIGATES A TROUBLE-THREATENING SITUATION IN THE WORLD.

30.24 76079

SPECIAL PROVISION ALSO HAS BEEN MADE FOR OBTAINING PRIORITIES ON MACHINE TOOLS AND OTHER MACHINERY TO INITIATE, RESUME OR EXPAND CIVILIAN PRODUCTION IN CANADA, THE STATEMENT SAID. ALTHOUGH MUCH OF SUCH MACHINERY NOW IS AVAILABLE WITHOUT ANY PRIORITY, ARRANGEMENTS HAVE BEEN MADE TO PROVIDE ASSISTANCE THROUGH THE PRIORITIES OFFICER, TO ANY APPLICANT WHO SHOWS THAT HE IS UNABLE TO OBTAIN THE EQUIPMENT HE REQUIRES AND THAT WITHOUT IT, HIS RECONVERSION, AT LEAST TO MINIMUM ECONOMIC PRODUCTION, WOULD SUFFER.

A86

"WITH REGARD TO CIVILIAN PRODUCTION GENERALLY, IT IS NECESSARY IN A FEW INSTANCES TO CONTINUE IN CANADA SOME DIRECTION OF CIVILIAN PRODUCTION IN ORDER TO OBTAIN HIGH PRIORITIES ON UNITED STATES MATERIALS," THE STATEMENT ADDED. "WHERE SUCH IS THE CASE, ADDITIONAL PRODUCTION MAY BE UNDERTAKEN WITH LOWER PRIORITY RATINGS OR WITH NO PRIORITY RATINGS."

THE RIGID SYSTEM OF PRIORITY CONTROLS IN THE UNITED STATES HAD PLACED HEAVY RESTRICTIONS DURING THE WAR ON THE IMPORTATION OF SUPPLIES FOR NON-ESSENTIAL PRODUCTION, BUT AT THE SAME TIME HAD PROVIDED A MEDIUM FOR CANADIAN INDUSTRY TO OBTAIN ESSENTIAL UNITED STATES SUPPLIES ON THE SAME BASIS AS UNITED STATES INDUSTRY.

"THE UNITED STATES PRIORITIES SYSTEM IS TO BE LARGELY DISSOLVED OVER THE NEXT FEW MONTHS, AND CANADIAN INDUSTRY WILL BENEFIT IN FULL MEASURE FROM THIS," HOWE SAID.

REGINA, SASK., MAY 24-(AP)-THIS WESTERN WHEAT-GROWING PROVINCE OF SASKATCHEWAN IS A MAJOR BATTLE GROUND IN CANADA'S JUNE 11 FEDERAL ELECTION, THE FIRST NATIONWIDE ELECTION TO BE HELD IN AN ALLIED COUNTRY SINCE THE DEFEAT OF GERMANY AND ONE WHICH WILL BE WATCHED ABROAD FOR CLUES TO THE GROWTH OF POST-WAR LEFTIST POLITICAL DOCTRINE.

MAY 25 1945

I THE IMPORTANCE OF SASKATCHEWAN LIES NOT IN ITS SIZE--IT ELECTS ONLY 21 OF THE 245 MEMBERS OF THE HOUSE OF COMMONS AT OTTAWA---BUT RATHER IN THE FACT THAT THE PROVINCE HAS A TRADITION OF PROGRESSIVISM AND A YEAR AGO ELECTED THE FIRST PROVINCIAL GOVERNMENT IN THE DOMINION UNDER THE BANNER OF THE SOCIALISTIC CCF (COOPERATIVE COMMONWEALTH FEDERATION).

WITH THE CCF MAKING ITS FIRST IMPORTANT BID IN A FEDERAL ELECTION, THE LEADERS OF ALL THREE MAJOR PARTIES ARE DEVOTING MUCH ATTENTION TO SASKATCHEWAN. IF THE CCF FAILS TO RUN STRONG HERE IT CAN HARDLY FARE WELL ELSEWHERE.

PRIME MINISTER W. L. MACKENZIE KING ON TUESDAY CONCLUDED A THREE-AND-A-HALF DAY TOUR OF HIS OWN CONSTITUENCY OF PRINCE ALBERT IN THE NORTHERN PART OF THE PROVINCE, CAMPAIGNING WITH MORE EFFORT THAN HE HAS EVER BEFORE PUT INTO HIS APPEARANCES THERE IN THE 19 YEARS HE HAS REPRESENTED ITS PEOPLE. HIS CHIEF THREAT COMES FROM THE CCF.

HE ADDRESSED MEETINGS WHICH SOMETIMES INCLUDED ONLY A DOZEN PEOPLE, SO ANXIOUS WAS HE TO GET OUT AMONG THE CONSTITUENTS. CHIDED BY HIS OPPONENTS ON THE GROUND THAT HE SELDOM VISITED THE PEOPLE HE DIRECTLY REPRESENTS, KING EVERYWHERE EXPLAINED THAT THE PRESS OF WAR DUTIES HAD KEPT HIM AWAY. ON MONDAY AND TUESDAY HE SHOOK HANDS WITH HUNDREDS OF SCHOOL CHILDREN, ADDRESSING EACH ONE PERSONALLY AND LEARNING THEIR NAMES.

INTO THE PROVINCE YESTERDAY CAME THE LEADERS OF THE TWO OTHER MAJOR PARTIES, M. J. COLDWELL, FORMER SCHOOL TEACHER HEADING THE CCF, AND JOHN BRACKEN, FORMER FARMER AND FORMER PREMIER OF MANITOBA, LEADER OF THE PROGRESSIVE CONSERVATIVE PARTY.

COLDWELL, WHOSE EARLY POLITICAL CAREER WAS IN REGINA AND WHO IS RUNNING IN A CONSTITUENCY NORTHWEST OF HERE, ADDRESSED ONE OF THE LARGEST MEETINGS OF THE CAMPAIGN TO DATE IN THIS PRINCIAL CAPITAL LAST NIGHT AND PREDICTED CONFIDENTLY THAT HE EXPECTED HIS PARTY TO WIN ALL 21 OF THE SASKATCHEWAN SEATS, ADDING THAT IF THEY DID THEY WOULD WIN ENOUGH ELSEWHERE IN CANADA TO FORM THE NEXT DOMINION GOVERNMENT.

THE UNITED STATES DELEGATION GENERALLY FAVORED A BRITISH COMPROMISE INTERPRETATION WHICH WOULD REMOVE THE BIG-POWER VETO FROM COUNCIL DECISIONS TO INVESTIGATE DISPUTES. IT WAS DOUBTFUL HOWEVER, WHETHER RUX

DECISIONS TO INVESTIGATE DISPUTES. IT WAS DOUBTFUL HOWEVER, WHETHER RUSSIA WOULD ACCEPT THIS VIEW.
A FINAL DECISION AMONG THE BIG-FOUR IS NOT EXPECTED UNTIL AFTER THE RETURN OF SECRETARY OF STATE STETTINIUS FROM WASHINGTON, WHERE HE CONFERRED YESTERDAY WITH PRESIDENT TRUMAN.

A18UN
AMERICAN LEADERS ARE SEEKING PRIMARILY TO AVOID A SHOW DOWN VOTE ON THE ISSUE, BY WHICH THE SMALL NATIONS MIGHT DEFEAT THE BIG POWERS IN A CONFERENCE COMMITTEE. THEY CONTEND THAT SUCH A DEVELOPMENT, WHICH WOULD MEAN SHARP LIMITATION OF THE VETO, MIGHT ENDANGER ACCEPTANCE OF THE WHOLE WORLD CHARTER BY BOTH RUSSIA AND THE UNITED STATES.
TWO MATTERS WHICH WERE BURNING ISSUES A WEEK AGO WERE AT LAST MOVING EASILY THROUGH OTHER COMMITTEES--REGIONAL DEFENSE SYSTEMS AND INTERNATIONAL TRUSTEESHIPS. KEY PROVISIONS OF THE REGIONAL FORMULA, DESIGNED PRIMARILY TO PROTECT THE PAN-AMERICAN SYSTEM, WON COMMITTEE APPROVAL YESTERDAY.
SIMIARLY, AN AMERICAN PLAN FOR INTERNATIONAL TRUSTEESHIPS, WHICH WOULD GIVE THIS COUNTRY PRIMARY CONTROL OF ISLANDS WON FROM JAPAN AS WELL AS CONTROL OF THE DEVELOPMENT OF MILITARY BASES IN THEM, ALSO WAS ACCEPTED IN MOST OF ITS MAIN PROVISIONS.
BOTH COMMITTEES EXPECTED TO WIND UP THEIR WORK THIS WEEK, IN LINE WITH THE CONFERENCE SCHEDULE CALLING FOR THE FOUR BIG COMMISSIONS TO BEGIN HOLDING THEIR SESSIONS, WHICH ARE TO BE OPEN TO THE PUBLIC, (-4)S ,3/5 233(.
THE HOPE

TO BEGIN HOLDING THEIR SESSIONS, WHICH ARE TO BE OPEN TO THE PUBLIC, EARLY NEXT WEEK.
THE HOPE OF LEADERS AT THE MOMENT IS THAT THESE COMMISSIONS WILL HAVE COMPLETED THEIR WORK IN TIME FOR THE FINAL SESSIONS OF THE FULL CONFERENCE TO BE HELD EARLY IN THE WEEK OF JUNE 3, IN THE EVENT THAT IT IS IMPOSSIBLE TO WIND UP THE WHOLE THING BY SATURDAY, JUNE 2.
THUS THE ACTUAL PROGRESS OF THE CONFERENCE WILL DETERMINE THE EXACT DATE OF PRESIDENT TRUMAN'S VISIT TO ADDRESS THE CLOSING PLENARY SESSION.

OTTAWA, MAY 24-(AP)-A NEW PRIORITIES ORDER UNDER WHICH SMALL CANADIAN BUSINESSES WILL BE GIVEN ASSISTANCE IN OBTAINING SCARCE UNITED STATES MATERIALS AND COMPONENTS NECESSARY FOR A SWITCH-OVER FROM WAR TO CIVILIAN PRODUCTION, WAS ANNOUNCED TONIGHT BY MUNITIONS MINISTER HOWE.
THE NEW ORDER WILL OBTAIN PRIORITIES FOR SMALL CANADIAN BUSINESSES, BOTH ESTABLISHED AND NEW, FOR SUPPLIES OF PRODUCTION MATERIALS INCLUDING STEEL AND ALUMINUM AND MACHINE TOOLS AND OTHER MACHINERY OBTAINABLE IN THE UNITED STATES.
"UNDER THE NEW REGULATION, PRIORITY ASSISTANCE FOR MOST UNITED STATES SUPPLIES OF PRODUCTION MATERIALS WILL BE AVAILABLE AUTOMATICALLY TO ANY COMPANY WHOSE TOTAL PRODUCTION IS LESS THAN $50,000 PER QUERTER," HOWE SWID IN A STATEMENT. "THUS MANY COMPANIES WILL BE ABLE TO OBTAIN, WITHOUT DIFFICULTY, THEIR SHARE OF THE UNITED STATES MATERIALS AND COMPONENTS WHICH STILL REMAIN SCARCE.
"STEEL AND METALS CONTROL ORDERS, WHICH HAVE REQUIRED PRIOR APPROVAL FROM THESE CONTROLS BEFORE PURCHASE ORDERS WERE PLACED IN THE UNITED STATES FOR STEEL OR ALUMINUM, ALSO HAVE BEEN REVISED TO ALLOW SMALL MANUFACTURERS TO TAKE ADVANTAGE OF THESE NEW AUTOMATIC PRIORITIES PROCEDURES."

ATLANTA, MAY 24-(AP)--BREAKFAST BACON, A NEW HAIR-DO, A CLEAN HOUSE AND A "FOOLISH RED HAT" WERE ACQUIRED THIS WEEK BY MRS. COURTNEY HODGES AS SHE AWAITED THE RETURN TODAY OF HER FAMED GENERAL-HUSBAND.

"AND I'LL PROBABLY ONLY HAVE A CHANCE TO WAVE AT HIM IN THE PARADE," SHE SAID, AFTER LEARNING THAT HE WOULD LEAVE ATLANTA IMMEDIATELY FOR WASHINGTON AND CONFERENCES PENDING HIS TRANSFER TO THE PACIFIC.

"BUT THAT'S PART OF THE ARMY. AND IT'S WHAT HE WANTS -- TO BE IN UNTIL THE FINISH," SAID THE GENERAL'S WIFE, ADDING, "BUT WE'LL HAVE THE BACON FOR BREAKFAST TOMORROW. AND HE'S SURE TO LIKE MY FOOLISH RED HAT -- BUT HE'S SURE NOT TO ADMIT IT."

MRS. HODGES HASN'T SEEN THE GENERAL FOR 15 MONTHS. BUT SHE READ ABOUT HIM, AS HE LEAD THE FIRST AMERICAN ARMY ACROSS FRANCE, BELGIUM, THE RHINE AND INTO THE HEART OF GERMANY.

AND NOW, WHEN SHE HAD "HOPED, BUT NOT REALLY EXPECTED," THAT HE WOULD BE HERE FOR A WHILE, SHE LEARNED THAT HE WAS PREPARING FOR THE PACIFIC CAMPAIGN, ALONG WITH HIS VETERAN FIRST ARMY.

THE PERRY, GA., FOUR-STAR GENERAL WHO ROSE FROM A PRIVATE IN THE RANKS, WAS SCHEDULED TO ARRIVE THIS AFTERNOON, ACCOMPANIED BY 49 OTHER SERVICE-STRIPED OFFICERS AND ENLISTED MEN. THE MEN ARE ELIGIBLE FOR DISCHARGE, BUT MANY ARE EXPECTED TO FOLLOW THEIR LEADER INTO THE AAR AGAINST THE JAPANESE.

IN ATLANTA, A HEROES' WELCOME AWAITS THEM. STORES AND SCHOOLS ARE CLOSED. THOUSANDS WILL THRONG THE STREETS TO VIEW THE COMBAT VETERANS AS THEIR 40-CAR PARADE PASSES SLOWLY ALONG FLAG-BEDECKED PEACHTREE STREET. AND THEN, AFTER TWO HOURS OF "BELONGING TO THE PEOPLE", THEY WILL GREET THEIR FAMILIES IN ARMY-ENGAGED SUITES AT THE BILTMORE HOTEL.

AT LAGUARDIA FIELD, NEW YORK, WHERE THE PARTY STOPPED YESTERDAY, GENERAL HODGES, THE FIRST FULL GENERAL TO RETURN SINCE V-E DAY, TOLD REPORTERS THAT PRACTICALLY ALL OF HIS STAFF OFFICERS WILL ACCOMPANY HIM TO THE WAR IN THE PACIFIC.

HE SAID HE EXPECTED A "TOUGH" FIGHT FROM THE JAPS, BUT DID NOT PREDICT HOW LONG IT WOULD LAST. AS TO NEW SURPRISES FOR THE JAPS, HE SAID HE HAD "NO TRICKS UP MY SLEEVE."

ATLANTA, MAY 24-(AP)--"REMEMBER ME?" CALLED THE LOVELY ORCHID-BEDECKED LADY IN THE LITTLE RED HAT.

THE TANNED, MILITARY MAN WITH STARS ON THE SHOULDERS OF HIS FIELD JACKET STOPPED, HELD UP THE PROCESSION OF GENERALS, GI'S AND CIVILIAN DIGNITARIES, WHILE THE KISS HE GAVE HER SAID THAT HE DID.

AND THAT IS HOW THE COMMANDING GENERAL OF THE FIRST AMERICAN ARMY GREETED THE WIFE HE LEFT BEHIND 15 MONTHS AGO WHEN HE WENT TO THE EUROPEAN THEATER OF WAR.

THE EPISODE TODAY FOLLOWED A 15-MILE PARADE FROM ATLANTA'S MUNICIPAL AIRPORT, BRINGING GEN.COURTNEY H.HODGES, SIX OTHER GENERAL OFFICERS, FIELD OFFICERS AND ENLISTED MEN BACK FROM A VICTORIOUS CAMPAIGN AGAINST THE NAZIS.

FROM THE MOMENT OF THAT FIRST MEETING, MRS. HODGES REMAINED IN THE BACKGROUND. SHE DID NOT GO TO THE AIRPORT TO MEET HER HUSBAND, BUT REMAINED AT A HOTEL WHERE THE OTHER WIVES AND FAMILIES AWAITED THEIR RETURNING HEROES.

"HE BELONGS TO THE PEOPLEN" SHE SAID, PROUDLY LOOKING ABOUT HER AT THE THOUSANDS WHO CHEERED HIM AND THE HEAVILY SERVICE-STRIPED MEN IN THE MILITARY CORTEGE.

MAY 25 1945

AND HE DID BELONG TO THE PEOPLE FROM THE MOMENT HIS BIG SILVER PLANE LANDED THROUGH THE LINED-STREETS OF SUBURBAN ATLANTA TO THE INSTANT HE STOOD WITH SEVEN OTHER NATIVE GEORGIANS TAKING A BOW WITH THE GI'S BECAUSE "I'M JUST ONE OF THE BOYS, TOO."

HE CONTINUED TO BELONG TO THE PEOPLE THROUGH THE EVENING AS HE ATTENDED A CELEBRATION AT ATLANTA'S MUNICIPAL AUDITORIUM. HE TOLD THEM THAT HE HAD TO "SEE THIS THING THROUGH TO THE FINISH" AND THAT HE WAS GOING TO THE PACIFIC TO FIGHT THE JAPS.

YES, HE STILL BELONGS TO THE PEOPLE, BUT HIS WIFE--A GENERAL'S LADY-SAYS "THAT'S HIS DUTY. I WILL WAIT," AND SHE ADDED, WITH A GRIN, IF A GENERAL'S LADY CAN BE SAID TO GRIN, "BUT I HAVE A STEAK IN THE REFRIGERATOR, SO WE'RE DINING AT HOME--LATER."

BOSTON PORT OF EMBARKATION, MAY 24-(AP)-THE UNFAMILIAR SIGHTS AND SOUNDS OF A NEW HOMELAND TODAY BROUGHT FRESH EXCITEMENT TO 110 FOREIGN-BORN WIVES OF AMERICAN SERVICEMEN JUST ARRIVED IN THIS COUNTRY AND THE 24 CHILDREN THEY BROUGHT WITH THEM.

THEY WERE BELOW DECKS IN THE MESS HALL WHEN THE HUGE NAVY TRANSPORT STEAMED UP BOSTON HARBOR YESTERDAY.

TOPSIDE THE RAILS WERE A BLUR OF OLIVE DRAB AS THE SOLDIERS OF LT.GEN.JIMMY DOOLITTLE'S 453RD HEAVY BOMBARDMENT GROUP AND REPATRIATE AMERICAN SOLDIERS JAMMED ALL AVAILABLE DECK SPACE.

THERE WERE ENGLISH GIRLS, IRISH LASSES AND SCOTS, BELGIANS AND DUTCH AMONG THE SERVICE WIVES. EIGHTY-FOUR OF THEM HAD MARRIED SOLDIERS AND 26 WERE THE WIVES OF SAILORS.

THEY MET THEIR HUSBANDS WHILE THE LATTER WERE ON DUTY IN ENGLAND AND ON THE CONTINENT.

THERE WAS MANY A ROMANTIC TALE BEHIND THE MARRIAGES.

ONE OF THE MOST DRAMATIC WAS THE COURTSHIP OF NELLY HUBBARD, A 23-YEAR-OLD BELGIAN, BY HER HUSBAND, LIEUTENANT COLONEL THOMAS H. HUBBARD OF FORT WORTH, TEXAS.

THE COLONEL PLUNGED INTO HER LIFE WHEN HIS EIGHTH AIR FORCE FIGHTER PLANE WAS SHOT DOWN OVER BELGIUM.

THE CITY WHERE HE LANDED WAS OCCUPIED BY THE NAZIS AND NELLY WAS A MEMBER OF THE FAMILY THAT TOOK CARE OF HIM.

EIGHTEEN-YEAR-OLD CHRISTINE YOUNG, WHO IS HEADED FOR CRYSTAL FALLS, MICH., WAS ALL SMILES AT THE PROSPECT OF MEETING HER HUSBAND'S FAMILY.

"WE'VE BEEN LOOKING FORWARD TO IT FOR SO LONG," SHE EXPLAINED, SPEAKING FOR THE GROUP.

MRS.DOREEN I.C.SHANKLIN, WHO WILL GO TO COLUMBIA, MO., SAID SHE MET HER HUSBAND IN LONDON TWO YEARS AGO AND THEY WERE MARRIED THE FOLLOWING JUNE.

"I'M SO EXCITED," SHE SAID. "I'VE HE[illegible] SO MUCH ABOUT YOUR WONDERFUL COUNTRY. I CAN'T WAIT FOR T[illegible]IP ON THE RAILROAD TO SEE SOME OF IT."

THE COMPANY'S FULL QOTA, INCLUDING 64 MILES OF ITS OWN MANUFACTURE, WAS ACHIEVED SEPT. 16 AND RATED AS "ONE OF THE WAR'S BEST KEPT SECRETS," BROWN SAID. IN ADDITION THE YONKERS PLANT PROCESSED 46 MILES MANUFACTURED BY OTHER FIRMS, HE ADDED.

THIS SECRECY WAS MAINTAINED, HE SAID, BY 300 WORKMEN AND DESPITE THE FACT THAT A PORTION OF ITS EQUIPMENT WAS "CLEARLY VISIBLE" TO HUNDREDS OF COMMUTERS ON A RAILROAD LINE PASSING THE FACTORY.

EXISTENCE OF THE CROSS-CHANNEL PIPELINE, KNOWN AS OPERATION PLUTO, WAS ANNOUNCED YESTERDAY IN LONDON BY BRITISH AUTHORITIES WHO DIRECTED ITS CONSTRUCTION. THEY SAID THE LINES HAD CARRIED AN AVERAGE OF 1,000,000 GALLONS OF GASOLINE A RHCUK

CHICAGO, MAY 24-(AP)-A CAPTURED JAPANESE DOCTOR, IN A LETTER TO AN AMERICAN DOCTOR MADE PUBLIC TODAY, SAID THE INTELLIGENTSIA OF JAPAN REALIZES "THE ACCURATE DEFEAT" OF THE JAPANESE ON OKINAWA "OVERSHADOWS (CW) THE DOWNFALL OF THE SO-CALLED GREAT NIPPON EMPIRE."

A COPY OF THE LETTER, PUBLISHED BY THE CHICAGO HERALD-AMERICAN, WAS SENT BY JOHN E. FAMILARO, PH. M. 2/C, TO MISS MARY ANN MAGDA OF CHICAGO. IT WAS SIGNED "DR. KOSABURO IYASAKA" AND ADDRESSED TO "MY KIND AND GENEROUS DR. FRANKOVEIGA," AN AMERICAN NAVAL SURGEON AT OKINAWA.

DR. IYASAKA SAID HIS OPINIONS REFLECTED THOSE OF THE GREATER PART OF THE INTELLIGENTSIA OF JAPAN.

"FOR WE ALL JAPANESE UNTIL NOW THINK JAPAN AS A LAND OF GODS GOVERNING NEVER TO BE TRAMPLED ON BY OTHER NATION."

MENTIONING JAPAN'S VICTORIES OVER MONGOLIA, CHINA AND RUSSIA IN OTHER WARS, IYASAKA SAID "THIS TIME JAPAN IS WAGING A WAR QUITE DIFFERENT AS COMPARED WITH THREE OTHER CASES ABOVE MENTIONED, WHICH I COULD SEE WITH MY NAKED EYES AND THINK OVER, COOLMINDED WITH THE SCIENTIFIC INVESTIGATION."

"GOD SAVE US, ALAS; THE SAD AND MOST LAMENTABLE CONCLUSION SEEMS TO COVER (SIC) OVER US," HE SAID. PLANES ATTEMPT TO LAND TROOPS ON BIG AIRFIELD

Strong Attack on Naval Forces Lasted 18 Hours, Nimitz Reports.

YANKS GAIN IN NAHA

Army, Marine Casualties from April 1 Invasion Total 25,675.

GUAM, Saturday, May 26—(AP) Eleven light American naval ships were damaged in a strong 18-hour Japanese air attack on America's Okinawa forces Thursday night and Friday, Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced today.

At the height of the attack, Japanese made fantastic attempts to land grenade-armed forces on Yontan airfield on west central Okinawa. One bomber actually landed troops, but all were killed quickly.

111 Planes Shot Down

One hundred eleven Japanese planes were shot down during the prolonged Japanese assault and five more were destroyed in attempts to land small groups of assault forces in Yontan.

Nimitz's action-packed communique, one of his longest, also reported:

American Army and Marine casualties on Okinawa from the April first invasion to Thursday totaled 25,675, of whom 5,332 were killed or missing and 21,343 were wounded. This was exactly 1,000 killed or missing in the past week. Last previous report on Japanese casualties was 48,103 killed through May 17—nine days ago.

Fleet casualties were 4,270 killed or missing and 4,171 wounded from March 18 to Wednesday.

Enlarge Bridgehead

Sixth Division Marines enlarged their bridgehead into rubble-strewn Naha and found the streets mined. The Army's 77th Infantry division turned its heavy artillery on fortress Shuri. Elsewhere, adverse weather limited ground operations in southern Okinawa.

Fast carrier task force pilots attacked the Amami group of islands in the northern Ryukyus Saturday through Wednesday and on Thursday sent fighters to strafe and bomb Kyushu airfields.

Army Mustang fighters attacked Matsudo and Tokorazawa airfields north of Tokyo.

Carrier and land-based planes sank eight Japanese cargo ships and damaged 12 others in attacks off Korea, Amami and Honshu.

Neutralize Fields

The Mustangs' rocket and strafing attack on Matsudo airfield, 10 miles northeast of the imperial palace in Tokyo, and Tokorazawa airfield, 25 miles northwest of the capital city, preceded today's 500-plane B-29 fire bomb raid on Tokyo.

Neutralizing fighters fields from which the enemy might have attacked the giant Superfortresses, the Mustangs destroyed or damaged 58 Japanese aircraft.

Nimitz's communique reported a total of 148 Japanese planes destroyed or damaged in the carrier sweeps of Amami and Kyushu, Navy search missions to Korean waters, other Army sweeps and the Okinawa action.

A grand total of 4,247 Japanese airplanes have been destroyed from the beginning of the Ryukyus campaign March 18 to date. Nimitz said 3,581 Japanese planes were destroyed through Thursday.

In the same period, the 21st Bomber Command reported its Superfortresses destroyed 518 enemy aircraft. These figures did not include planes knocked out of action Thursday and Friday in the Japanese aerial attack.

The Japanese assault on American shipping off Okinawa and on Ie, Yontan and Katena airfields was the strongest since May 4, when 168 attackers were destroyed.

Suicide Troops Killed

In their determined, low-level strafing and suicide attacks on America's Okinawa forces, the Japanese tried to land five planes on Yontan airfield near the west central coast.

One enemy plane succeeded in making a wheels-up landing. Its occupants tumbled out of the craft and tried to rush parked planes and airfield installations with hand grenades.

Four other Japanese planes, trying to make similar crash landings, were destroyed before they could come in on their bellies.

Yontan and Katena airfields on Okinawa and Ie's newly-rebuilt four-runway drome on tiny Ie island west of Okinawa all were bombed during the sustained Japanese attack. All have been in use by Army and Marine fighters.

Seven American aircraft were destroyed on the ground in these attacks.

No estimate of the total number of enemy planes engaged in the long series of raids was made because many approached in darkness.

One Unit Badly Hit

One of the 11 American light naval units hit was damaged heavily.

Nimitz' announcement of this battle damage followed by a few hours a Navy department report in Washington that five small American ships, including one destroyer, had been lost off Okinawa recently. These were in addition to previously Nimitz-announced losses of more than 20 small ships, including five other destroyers.

In southern Okinawa, tanks and tractors still were slowed by mud and soft terrain, making action along the entire five-division front a foot troopers' war. There was little change in front lines anywhere.

First division Marines, approaching Shuri from the northwest, knocked out about 20 Japanese gun emplacements. Fire from these weapons had slowed that outfit's advance.

ing movement to the east for the conquest of Shuri.

With grenades, flame throwers and small arms, the Marines were moving through rubble, virtually all that remained of the city after weeks of heavy naval and air bombardment.

Bridges Built Under Fire

Strong points were being reduced by the slugging Marines, who crossed the Asato River in strength yesterday on bridges their engineers built under heavy enemy artillery fire. One of the bridges appears to be large enough to support mechanized units when weather permits their use.

The weather continued bad and with mechanized units mired in mud the campaign is wholly a foot soldiers' war all the way across the line from northeastern Naha to a point south of Yonabaru on the east coast.

Yanks Tighten Pincers On Key Okinawa Fort Of Shuri

Guam, May 25 (AP)—The 10th Army's flanking pincers on Fortress Shuri in the center of the Okinawa front was pulled tighter today as 7th Infantry troops expanded their bulge below Yonabaru.

The 32d Regiment pushed ahead to 1,800 yards south of the east coast seaport, while the 184th moved into positions 1,500 yards southwest of the town to maintain the pace Maj. Gen. Archibald V. Arnold's units have set, despite mud which mired everything on wheels.

Japanese movements indicated the enemy would attempt to set up another defense line 2 miles to the south.

Villages Seized

Before Shuri, in the center of the line, 77th infantrymen moved through a small village, meeting only small-arms fire, while west and south of the fortress town, Marines seized Asato village, killing a dozen of some Japanese encountered.

Small counterattacks were beaten back by the 96th Infantry east of Shuri, while tough Marines fought through the streets of Naha on the extreme west.

The move by Maj. Gen. Lemuel C. Shepherd, Jr.'s 6th Division of Leathernecks could become a flank-

The 27th Infantry Division of Maj. Gen. George W. Griner, which captured Machinato airfield and led the early assault on Naha, was disclosed as engaged in the biggest mopping-up operation of the Central-Far Western Pacific campaign. Starting at narrow Ishikawa Isthmus and moving almost shoulder to shoulder, three regiments slogged northward to clean out an estimated 1,000 Japanese soldiers and round up some 150,000 civilians who fled into northern Okinawa's rugged hills.

The 27th (Orion) Division had some 500 square miles to cover. A staff officer told Associated Press Correspondent Vern Haugland that hunting Japanese soldiers in that much territory was "like looking for lost golfballs."

Attacks On Fleet Continue

Striving to ease pressure on its Okinawa ground troops, Japan renewed its aerial attacks on American forces off Okinawa. A light unit of the United States fleet was damaged Wednesday night.

The Japanese returned in a series of small groups Thursday night. Shortly before midnight fifteen enemy aircraft had been downed, but the attack was continuing.

Nimitz said "some damage" had been inflicted on installations on little Ie Island. The attack centered on shipping lying off Ie, and on that island itself.

American escort carriers remained in the Sakishima area in the southern Ryukyus, pounding airfields. They destroyed five grounded planes.

Far to the north, light naval units, presumably destroyers, shelled Surabachi port and installations on eastern Paramushiro in the Kuriles Sunday and escaped without damage, although two Japanese planes attacked as they withdrew.

TOKYO PALACE PROBABLY HIT

Pilots Describe Bombing With 4,000 Tons Of Incendiaries

FAKE?

Twenty-first Bomber Command, Guam, Saturday, May 26 (AP)—Tokyo's governmental district was showered early today with 4,000 tons of concrete-cracking fire bombs from 500 Superfortresses. Returning pilots agreed it was unlikely that the Emperor's Imperial Palace area escaped unscathed.

Striking in moonlight while fires still smoldered from the 4,500 tons dropped Thursday in an adjacent industrial sector, the B-29's hit a district corresponding to Washington's Pennsylvania avenue.

The strong possibility existed that the Imperial Palace, the Army and Navy departments and the Diet (Parliament) buildings were hit by the fire bombs although none was set specifically as a target.

Japs Say Royalty Safe

Tokyo radio said both the Imperial Palace and the Omiya Palace were damaged but that members of the royal family were safe.

Tokyo said the raid lasted three hours, starting fires on a "considerable scale."

Returning pilots all agreed that in area bombing such as was called for the raid, chances were slight for the bombs to at least miss the palace grounds. The target area included that part of the Ginza—governmental business district—east of the palace.

MAY 27 1945

Flames Toward Palace

"I wouldn't be surprised if we singed the Emperor's hair a little," said Private Billy Spence, of Gladewater, Texas, tail gunner on the Superfortress, City of Green Bay.

He was in the best spot to watch the results as the planes pulled away.

"I saw our bombs hit and the blaze start whipping right away," he said.

Second Lieutenant John Spangler, York, Pa., on the same plane saw the flames "going toward the palace."

"The palace very probably got hit," said Flight Officer William Fous, Washington, D.C., a copilot on one B-29.

One Big Conflagration

The pilot, Capt. Alex Selm, Tuxedo Park, N.Y. Looked back after dumping south of the palace, noted the fires were "really burning nice" and that "the palacmn is only 1,000 yards away."

Salm saw the bombs fall among Government buildings.

"The whole place looked like one big conflagration with smoke coming up thousands of feet," Salm added. He was unable to identify the buinldings.

The buildings in the area supposedly were fireproof and earthquake proof and earthquake proof but returning pilots reported the flames were making good headway through the sector.

"Like Hail On Tin Roof"

The area attacked also encompasses a large segment of vital precision instruments, machine tool and airplane parts industries. They are concentrated in scores of small home factories.

Among plants in the area, the most modern is the Rikuo Engine Company, built by the Harley Davidson Company a few years ago and now manufacturing automobiles and motorcycles.

Flak was so intense in today's raid that Flight Officer Steven E. Bodolay, Cleveland, said "it sounded like hail on a tin roof."

Huge Fires Still Raging After Big Tokyo Raid

FAKE?

Guam, May 25 (AP)—Huge fires still raged in the heart of industrial Tokyo today after Thursday's 9,000,000 pound fire bomb raid, greatest ever carried out on Japan's capital city.

Tokyo radio said "thousands of homes" were destroyed. It made the unconfirmed report that the mansions of three Imperial Princes either were gutted or partially burned along with the French and Italian Embassies, the Mexican Legation, the official residences of the Minister of Education and the Minister of Transport.

Officials of the 21st Bomber Command here hesitated to estimate results because of difficulties in obtaining clear pictures of the devastation. Clouds of smoke still billowed over the bomber area along Tokyo Bay a few miles south of the Imperial Palace.

Flyers' Accounts

Returning flyers, however, declared the raid was highly successful, because of good visibility when they hit their targets just before dawn yesterday.

Among targets struck were the giant marshaling yards of the principal Japanese railroad lines. Destruction of these yards could be expected to tie up rail traffic for the empire.

The raid celebrated the end of six months' operations of B-29's from Marianas bases. They have pounded all parts of the empire since they first bombed Tokyo November 24.

Every 25 Seconds

For their latest raid, the Superfortresses left the ground at the rate of one plane every 25 seconds until more than 550 were in the air, carrying heavy loads of incendiary bombs to pour on a highly congested area in which were many important factories producing machine tools and precision instruments vital to the enemy's war effort.

Evidence that yesterday's attack was successful in tying up Japanese transportation came today from the Tokyo radio, which broadcast reports of which lines were in operation. The enemy radio also stated a "tea house" in the Imperial Palace garden was destroyed by bombs. The palace is approximately 4 miles north of the northern limits of the assigned target area for the raid.

Met Intense Ack-Ack

Many returning pilots reported encountering intense anti-aircraft fire, some fighter interception and "balls of fire" which might have been phosphorous bombs.

Members of one crew said they saw two B-29's shot down; another crew reported three downed. Whether these men saw the same or different planes was not stated.

Headquarters has not reported on losses. Domei, Japanese news agency, said Tokyo newspapers displayed pictures of three Superforts being destroyed.

U. S. FIRE BOMBS BATTER MODERN JAP BUILDINGS

Government Structures and Imperial Hotel Are in Target Area.

SECOND RAID IN 48 HOURS

4000 Tons of Incendiaries Are Dropped on Business District by American Airmen.

Guam, Saturday, May 26 (A. P.).—A force of about 500 Superforts dropped more than 4,000 tons of bombs on Tokyo's Marunouchi business district and Imperial Government center this morning in the second big fire bomb raid on that city in less than forty-eight hours.

The Nipponese capital still was burning from the record 550-plane fire raid early Thursday (Japanese time) in which preliminary reconnaissance photographs showed at least 3.2 square miles of the Shinagawa industrial center was damaged by fire.

Thursday's raid Washington announced cost America twelve B-29s. It was the heaviest loss yet suffered by a B-29 mission.

Haze and smoke obscured pictures and Major-Gen. Curtis E. Lemay's headquarters said that considerable additional damage probably was inflicted.

The target area for today's task force that struck shortly after midnight, Japanese time (about 11 A. M. Friday, Eastern war time), was south central Tokyo, bordered on the north by the imperial palace and on the south by the Shinagawa area bombed Thursday.

Today's target area runs westward from Tokyo Bay through the city's department store and office building district.

Imperial Hotel in Area.

On the outskirts of the Marunouchi district is the Imperial Hotel, designed by the American architect Frank Lloyd Wright, which survived the 1923 earthquake. Major government buildings also are situated there. One end of the Ginza, which is the city's Broadway, runs into the Marunouchi.

The new area to fall under the B-29 bombsights probably has the best built and most modern buildings in Japan. These include the nation's largest, so-called fireproof and earthquakeproof, office structures.

Damage achieved in this strike will be the supreme test of the effectiveness of the new fire bombs which have laid waste already 35.9 square miles of Tokyo in six previous incendiary raids.

In the target area also are piers, docks, wharves and warehouses of the highly important sector of Tokyo's water front north of the Shinagawa rail marshaling yards, bombed Thursday.

Many War Plants There.

Outside the Marunouchi business district the target area is known to include several important war plants producing aircraft instruments and components, machine tools and electrical equipment. Extensive military torage areas also are situated in this region of Tokyo.

Speed in crossing the target is one key to the performance achievements of the Superfort. The 500-plane force today unloaded its 4,000-ton incendiary cargo in a little more than one hour. One main objective of the quick unloading of the great bomb tonnage is to start so much fire over so great an area the Japanese firefighting effort will be overwhelmed.

Another objective is to give the Japanese anti-aircraft gunners and interceptor plane pilots less time to shoot at the Superforts.

Attack in Darkness.

Today's attack, made in darkness at medium altitude, was the twenty-fourth Superfort smash on the Tokyo area, which embraces 368 square miles. The first B-29 strike with 111 planes took place on November 24, last.

The damage assessment of Thursday's raid, based on pictures which planes were able to make through the smoke of fires still burning, showed 3.2 square miles visibly damaged.

Enthusiastic reports by crewmen returning from the Thursday strike make it virtually certain that when complete pictures are available the Shinagawa damaged area will be considerably increased.

Tokyo radio said that thousands of homes were destroyed in Thursday's raid. It made the unconfirmed report that the mansions of three imperial princes either were destroyed or partially burned along with the French and Italian embassies, the Mexican legation, the official residences of the Minister of Education and the Minister of Transport.

FIVE FLYERS BAIL OUT OVER TOKYO

Guam, May 25 (A. P.).—Five men of a B-29 crew bailed out over Tokyo to an uncertain fate yesterday when the plane went out of control, but the pilot righted the huge ship and flew it safely to Iwo Jima, 725 miles away.

Aircraft fire knocked out one engine, damaged the left wing and destroyed part of the navigating equipment. The plane went out of control.

One member of the eleven-man crew—not the commander—yelled, "Let's get out of here!"

Five did.

CHURCHILL'S CABINET SET

Eden, Grigg Are Retained In "Caretaker" Regime

70 AMUC

London, May 25 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill retained Anthony Eden in the key post of Foreign Secretary in the "caretaker" Cabinet he organized tonight to carry on the British Government until the general election July 5.

Sir James Grigg also was reappointed Secretary for War in the Cabinet which temporarily replaces the coalition government broken up two days ago by a split between Churchill's Conservative party and the Labor party. The latter is campaigning for a British Socialist Commonwealth.

Two major posts, important in the war against Japan, were shifted to new hands, however. The Prime Minister named Brendan Bracken, former Minister of Information, as First Lord of the Admiralty and gave the Air Secretary post to Harold MacMillan, former Resident Minister in North Africa.

Alexander, Sinclair Out

A. V. Alexander, former First Lord of the Admiralty—who directs naval policies—and Sir Archibald Sinclair, former Air Secretary, were among the 30 Labor and Liberal Ministers who stepped out of the coalition government with which Churchill had prosecuted the war since 1940.

It was the Labor party's refusal to stay in the coalition government until the end of the Japanese war which resulted in Churchill's resignation Wednesday and the forcing of the first nation-wide election in ten years.

Churchill immediately was recommissioned by King George VI, however, to head an interim government pending the election which will determine whether Churchill as head of the Conservative party is returned to power or whether he gives way to a successor of another party.

Replacements Of Own Party

Some observers believe that if the Conservatives are returned Churchill will keep most of the interim Cabinet Ministers.

In the new Cabinet Churchill replaced the departing Laborites and Liberals mostly with members of his own party, although he picked up a few from other parties in keeping with a previous announcement that he would invite "all of good will of any party or party" to help bridge the election gap.

Major Gwilym Lloyd George, son of the late Earl Lloyd George, who was named Minister of Fuel and Power is a Liberal, and Ernest Brown, new Minister of Aircraft Production, is a Liberal Nationalist.

Several Non-Partisans

Several in key positions in the old coalition government who have no distinct party affiliation were returned to their jobs, including Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir John Anderson, Supply Minister Sir Andrew Duncan, and Minister of War Transport Lord Leathers.

The post of Lord President of the Council, held by Clement Attlee, Labor leader who also had served as Deputy Prime Minister, went to Lord Woolton, former Minister of Reconstruction.

With the departure of Ernest Bevin, another top Laborite, his post was filled by Richard Austen Butler, former Education Minister.

Olive: Lyttelton's tasks were increased by making him Secretary of the Board of Trade to succeed and published more than a month ago when the July election was Laborite Hugh Dalton. Lyttelton also retains his old job as Minister of Production.

Leslie Hore-Belisha, who resigned as War Secretary in 1940, was brought back into the Cabinet as Minister of National Insurance.

Bracken's former place as Minister of Information went to Goeffrey William Lloyd, former parliamentary secretary for petroleum to the Ministry of Fuel and Power.

Many major offices were left in the hands of Conservatives who held them in the old Government.

Among those retained were:

Lord Beaverbrook, London newspaper publisher, as Lord Privy Seal.

The Secretary for Dominion Affairs, Viscount Cranborne.

The Minister of Food, John J. Llewellin.

The Minister of Works, Duncan Sandys.

The Minister of Civil Aviation, Viscount Swinton.

Two wartime Ministers were abolished now that Germany is whipped. They were the Ministeries of Home Security and Economic Warfare.

Cranborne In Lords

Civil Defense, formerly handled by the Ministry of Home Security, will be taken over by the new Home Secretary, Sir Donald Bradley Somervell, who succeeds Laborite Herbert Morrison. The Ministry of Economic Warfare will be absorbed by the Foreign Office.

Lord Cranborne will be leader in the House of Lords and Eden in Commons.

The announcement also said that the posts of Resident Minister at Allied force headquarters in the Mediterranean, formerly held by MacMillan, and the Resident Minister in Washington for Supply, formerly held by Ben Smith, would not be filled ministerially.

Churchill's new Cabinet was due for a brief but probably stormy existence. It must crowd through pressing legislation in the next three weeks before the 10-year-old Parliament is dissolved June 15, then carry on without a Parliament during what is expected to be one of the bitterest election campaigns in decades.

The Laborites—second only to the Conservatives in the number of seats in Commons—adjourned their convention at Blackpool today and launched an aggressive campaign demanding socialization of Britain's major industries in contrast to the Conservatives' platform of free enterprise.

Churchill was expected to open his own campaign tomorrow with eight appearances in five hours in Woodford, his constituency.

Sir William Beveridge, chairman of the Liberal party, said the Conservatives were trying to capitalize on Churchill's popularity on a national scale, rushing the election "with a frivolous disregard for the international situation now critical and fluid and needing constant handling."

Minister of State Richard K. Law, speaking at a Conservative party rally in Wakefield, Yorkshire, attacked the Laborite "wild men of Blackpool" for refusing to continue the coalition until Japan is defeated.

Churchill Maps Hard Campaign; Plans Tour

London, May 25 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill was reported mapping a fighting campaign with a tour of various parts of Britain as the political cleavage widened today between his dominant Conservative party and the challenging Laborites.

Prof. Harold Laski, speaking for the Labor party's executive committee, sounded the Laborite keynote, indicating clean-cut lines for a battle on the issue of whether the British wanted a Tory or Labor government.

He said the struggle would be one between private enterprise and monopoly on the one hand and socialism on the other, and pledged that Labor would not again enter a coalition with the Tories (Conservatives) following the general election of July 5.

Acrimony Certain

Churchill planned his campaign as the possibility of a Big Three meeting before mid-July faded. Responsible government spokesmen said the acrimony certain to be engendered by this first general election in ten years would rule out any possibility of an earlier meeting of President Truman, Premier Stalin and Churchill. Results of the election will not be known until July 27 or 28.

Already deep in the task of setting up his "caretaker Cabinet," ordered by King George VI as an interim government, Churchill was expected to announce its composition by the week end.

To Open Drive At Woodford

The Conservative Daily Sketch said he planned to enlarge his war Cabinet to aid not only with the prosecution of the Japanese war but with solution of domestic problems.

The Prime Minister was reported ready to open his campaign tomorrow at Woodford, his own constituency in Essex, where he probably will make several addresses.

The Laborite Daily Herald said, "Things are not going so straightforward for Mr. Churchill."

"He apparently is having some difficulties in forming the new ministry to his liking," the newspaper said, "and the list of the new Cabinet to be announced at the week end may be incomplete. At his request, all Labor Ministers for whom he has not found successors will stay in their offices until new appointments are made."

Recall Provision Likely

Political observers here said special legislation may be enacted in the next three weeks to enable recall of members of the dissolved Parliament should outstanding developments occur in international affairs or the war with Japan during the period in which Britain will be without a Parliament. King George will dissolve the Parliament by proclamation on June 15.

Churchill's caretaker Cabinet is likely to include Sir James Grigg, who will continue as Secretary for War, the Conservative Daily Telegraph said, adding that Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir John Anderson and Minister of Reconstruction Lord Woolton also were expected to retain their posts in the interim Government.

"It will cause no surprise if Ben Smith, resident Minister in Washington for supply, is not replaced," the Telegraph said. "Any or all of the other Ministers resident abroad may be recalled to take other offices."

MAY 26 1945

Birthday Of Treaty Observed

London, Saturday, May 26 (AP)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden told Soviet Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov today that Europe could look forward to lasting peace if England and Russia "remain true" to the Anglo-Soviet alliance.

Eden, exchanging greetings with Molotov on the third anniversary of the twenty-year Anglo-Soviet treaty, said:

"The third anniversary of the Anglo-Soviet treaty of alliance takes place at a moment when the first aim of this alliance has been victoriously achieved—defeat of Hitler Germany.

Sees "Lasting Peace"

"Now we are in the postwar stage in which in accordance with our treaty we agreed on close and friendly collaboration, taking into consideration the interests of the other United Nations and without striving for any territorial acquisitions for ourselves as well as refraining from interference into the internal affairs of other states.

"I am confident as ever than if our two countries remain true to the spirit of the Anglo-Soviet alliance and to subsequent agreements in which both our countries participate then all Europe can look forward to lasting peace and general development.

"I am speaking to you and through you to the Government and people of the U.S.S.R. my greetings and good wishes together with the wishes of his Majesty's Government and the people of Great Britain."

Molotov's Greetings

The Moscow broadcast quoted Molotov as saying:

"On the day of the third anniversary of the Anglo-Soviet Allied treaty I send you and the Government of Great Britain from the Soviet Government and from myself personally, friendly greetings and my best wishes.

"The successful military cooperation between our peoples crowned with the historic victory over Hitlerite Germany proved the virility and real strength of the treaty.

"Permit me to express my confidence in further strengthening of friendly relations between Great Britain and the Soviet Union for the well-being of the peoples of our countries and for freedom-loving nations who are striving for insurance of a stable peace and security."

Japs Term Reds Possible Peace Mediators

London, May 25 (AP)—The Tokyo radio said today that if Japan should desire peace "it would be possible that Japan would make proposals through Russia."

The broadcast insisted, however, that "the war is only now starting."

"Others have suggested that Japan intends to propose peace to the Anglo-Americans through Russia," it said. "Russia and Japan are neutral with each other, and therefore if Japan should desire peace it would be possible that Japan would make proposals through Russia. We do not deny this fact.

Anglo-American Rumors

"The Anglo-American propagandists at the same time spread rumors that Russia is to take part in the war against Japan. How, then, is it possible for Russia to play a role of mediator between Japan and the Anglo-Americans and fight against Japan at the same time?"

The broadcast declared that peace rumors were current among the British and Americans and said this indicated that the United States and Britain were tired of war.

Comment On Reich's Fall

In its own version of the Japanese reaction to German capitulation, the broadcast said:

"Anglo-Americans seem to have taken the declaration of Foreign Minister Togo May 7 and of the Foreign Office May 17 as a Japanese peace move. Togo, however, only declared that German's capitulation violated and thus ended the Tripartite Pact."

The broadcast said the recent elimination of the Imperial Rule Assistance Association, Japan's totalitarian party, was not a weakening but an intensification of the Japanese war effort.

Liberated Europe To Get Porridge

London, May 25 (A. P.).—Scotland won't have even a wee bit of porridge—its favorite breakfast food—for some weeks to come.

The British War Office has requisitioned all available oatmeal stocks to help feed liberated Europe.

Davies Arrives In London

London, May 25 (AP)—Joseph E. Davies, former United States Ambassador to Russia, arrived here today on a special mission for President Truman. He was expected to see Prime Minister Churchill and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden soon to discuss problems of liberated Europe.

Flagstad's Husband Accused Of Aiding Foe

London, Saturday, May 26 (AP)—The Exchange Telegraph reported from Oslo today that Henry Johansen, wealthy husband of Kirsten Flagstad, the Norwegian opera singer, had been arrested and accused of co-operation with the Germans.

Exchange Telegraph said there was no accusation against the singer.

The German-controlled Scandinavian Telegraph Bureau announced February 17 that the Germans had arrested Johansen. The German charge against him was not reported. The Norwegian Information Service reported February 23 that he had been released from Grini Concentration Camp in occupied Norway after 15 hours' confinement.

Help Asked In Search For Children Of Lidice

London, May 25 (AP)—The Prague radio appealed tonight "to all people of good will and good hearts" to help trace the children of Lidice.

The broadcast said nothing had been heard of Lidice's children since the Germans consigned them to "educational institutions" after razing the village, killing its men and sending its women to concentration camps in reprisal for the assassination of Reinhard Heydrich, Nazi "protector" of Bohemia and Moravia.

All efforts to trace the children have been in vain, the radio said. Its appeal was directed especially to men and women who have been confined in concentration camps and thus might have clues.

'British Aiding Anti-Red Plot'

London, May 25 (AP)—The Daily Worker, British Communist organ, said today in an editorial that the British Government has "assisted in building up a so-called Polish army whose officers boast they live for the day when they can fight the USSR."

The editorial followed by 24 hours an assertion by the Russian army newspaper Red Star in Moscow that the London Polish Government was training an "intervention force" for use in Poland. Polish authorities in London denied it.

The Daily Worker declared "both Britain and the United States harbor Soviet-haters who avail themselves of every opportunity to create an atmosphere suited to their purpose."

Noting that Saturday is the third anniversary of the British-Russian twenty-year pact of friendship, the editorial declared that "it is time to mark it by ending the toleration extended to those who would organize an anti-Soviet base on British soil."

Elliott Roosevelt Decorated Again

Strategic Air Force Headquarters, Europe, May 25 (A. P.).—Brig.-Gen. Elliott Roosevelt has been awarded an Oak Leaf Cluster to the Distinguished Flying Cross, it was announced today.

He commands the 325th Photo Reconnaissance Wing of the Eighth United States Air Force. The announcement said the decoration was awarded because Roosevelt pioneered night flights in aircraft modified to his specifications, and obtained information resulting "in more complete and accurate photographic coverage of enemy installations."

Britain Bans Bright Lights

London, May 25 (AP)—Decorative and display lighting in Britain, permitted during V-E day celebrations, must cease "owing to the urgent need for continued fuel economy," the Fuel and Power Ministry announced tonight.

FOUR U-BOATS SUNK IN 24-HOUR PERIOD

LONDON, May 25—(AP) Four and possibly five German submarines were sunk in the closing days of the war in what the Air Ministry today called "the greatest U-boat hunt" in the entire conflict.

Long-range Liberators of the coastal command, flying from Scotland, made the kills in a 24-hour period. All but one attack was by daylight.

The surfaced undersea craft resisted fiercely, the air ministry said, tossing up flak in an attempt to ward off the depth charges.

Flying Officer A. A. Bruno of Quebec told of one attack on two U-boats, both of which opened fire as he bored in.

"Our first stick of depth charges," he said, "straddled slightly ahead of the conning tower. The U-boat's stern came out of the water at an angle of 45 degrees and she sank stern first. Five minutes later bodies, wreckage and scum were seen on the surface of the sea."

In still another action, the Air Ministry said RAF coastal command Mosquitos escorted by Mustangs attacked and hit three U-boats and a mine-sweeper traveling in line.

Most Reich Churches Reported Damaged

London, May 24 (AP)—The Universe, London Catholic newspaper, reported today that between 9,000 and 10,000 of the 12,000 Catholic churches in Germany were destroyed or badly damaged in air raids.

Of the famous cathedrals in the Rhineland, the newspaper said, only the edifice at Speyer remains intact. Cathedrals at Cologne, Freiburg, Worms and Mainz were badly damaged and the one at Frankfurt is beyond repair, it said.

The churches' art treasures largely were saved because they had been placed in bombproof vaults.

Seize Von Papen's Daughter.

London, May 25 (A. P.).—Margarethe von Papen, daughter of the Nazi diplomat Franz von Papen, has been arrested on a country estate in Germany, the Luxembourg radio said last night in a broadcast reported by the Exchange Telegraph News Agency.

French Election Suggested

Paris, May 25 (AP)—The newspaper L'Humanité suggested today that France follow Britain's example and hold a general election.

In an editorial commenting on General de Gaulle's recent speech outlining forthcoming policies and internal reforms for France, the newspaper declared:

"Britain gives us an important lesson in democracy which numerous Frenchmen could profitably use. No words were found anywhere in the speech about consulting the electorate."

Another Journal's View

Le Parisien, however, differed with those who criticize the de Gaulle regimen because it has not called an election. The newspaper said the speech showed de Gaulle "has not changed neither in his convictions or in his goal."

In his speech, broadcast to the French people, de Gaulle explained that the Government had adopted price and wage fixing policies to avoid inflation, and confirmed the expectation that the Government would nationalize the coal and electric power industries.

He also indicated that subsidies for families would be inaugurated and immigration laws would be revised in what were apparent steps to check the decline in France's birth rate.

Parisian Throngs Hail Montgomery

Paris, May 25 (AP)—Thousands of Parisians lined the Champs Elysées today to cheer and get a look at Field Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery as he made his first visit to Paris in ten years.

The British military leader, wearing his familiar blue beret and in trim battle dress, placed a wreath on the tomb of France's Unknown Soldier. Then smiling and saluting from an open car he rode down the famous thoroughfare to open formally the British Army exposition in the annex to the royal palace.

To the audience that gathered at the exposition building, and with the flags of the United Nations serving as a background, Montgomery said:

"Britain and France suffered grievous wounds in the war which has ended in Europe. For a time it looked to the enemy as though the wounds were mortal. Britain kneeled but fought back under heavy blows.

"France was prostrate under the heel of the invader. But you cannot quell the spirit of fighting France. The fight went on—long live the history of France!"

Montgomery declared that the liberation of France "restored an inexhaustible well of literature, art and science from which the rest of the world has drawn so freely in the past."

French Treasury To Recall Bank Notes

Paris, May 25 (AP)—All bank notes of 50 francs and over will be recalled by the Government beginning next month, the Treasury announced today. New notes will be issued.

Exchange will be limited to 10,000 francs or $200 a person. For capital value above this sum notes must be left on deposit in banks until a new issue appears, which is expected in twelve days.

Bonds of 50,000 francs to 5,000,000 will be retained by banks against receipts and replaced by new issues later. Financial experts said the Government expected to take a proportion of the paper currency out of circulation in this way.

OUST FRENCH GIRL

Paris, May 25 (A. P.).—A beautiful shopgirl charged with having had relations with both French and foreign officials during the Vichy regime has been sentenced to national disgrace and exiled from her native department, the French agency reported today.

The sentence was imposed by the civil court of the Allier Department, which includes Vichy, on 27-year-old Paulette Roidot. She was charged with being the mistress of Joseph Darnard, chief of Vichy's French Gestapo, and being intimate with "numerous foreign diplomats attached to the Vichy Government as well as officers of the German Gestapo," the agency said.

She was described as married to a French prisoner of war who was in a German camp during this time.

PETAIN DROPS RESERVE, RIPS INTO ACCUSERS

Gives Court Letter Urging Leahy To Appear As Witness

Paris, May 25 (AP)—Aged Marshal Pétain tossed aside today the quiet, confident manner he had assumed since his voluntary return from Germany three weeks ago and in a preliminary court appearance began vigorously fighting the accusation that he collaborated with the Nazis.

First he presented the French High Court with an urgent letter addressed to Admiral William D. Leahy, former United States Ambassador to Vichy, asking that Leahy hasten to France and take the witness stand in the marshal's trial for treason next month.

Secondly, he produced a copy of a letter he said he addressed to Hitler last April 5 in which he demanded permission of the former Führer to return to France and answer the accusations against him.

Says He Opposed Nazis

Then the 89-year-old hero of Verdun pulled from his pocket a formal statement in which he replied to the charges his accusers had intimated they would bring against him when he stands trial for surrendering France.

"I insist upon registering an indignant protest to evidence which presented me as a traitor," he read determinedly.

Far from collaborating with the Nazis, Pétain said, he opposed them secretly throughout his regime. He declared that Admiral Leahy, who now is chief of staff to President Truman, could testify to that effect. He denied vehemently having plotted with Pierre Laval and others to seize power even before the armistice.

Any Franco Link Denied

Until today Pétain's attitude had been one of confidence and frequently of jocularity, but he appeared to be experiencing increased anxiety over the course of the case against him. At one point his eyes swept the conference room and he murmured:

"How is it possible that they have been able to forget to this extent all the services I have rendered?"

Asked about his relations with Generalissimo Franco during his prewar tenure as Ambassador to Spain, the former chief of state replied sharply:

"I saw him just twice—once when I arrived and the second time when I left. I never had any private meetings whatever with him."

Doctor Cites Petain's Health

In his letter to Hitler last month, which was formally placed in evidence, Pétain told the German leader: "It is only in France that I can answer for my acts, and I alone am judge of the risks this attitude may carry. At my age one fears nothing more than a single thing: That is to have failed to do one's whole duty, and I wish to do mine."

30.24 - 26087

At the close of the afternoon session of the court Pétain's doctor entered an official protest, declaring that the Vichy leader's health would not permit more than one interrogation a day.

Pétain's letter to Admiral Leahy will be taken to the American Embassy tomorrow morning for transmission to the United States. Its contents so far have not been revealed.

During the afternoon session Pétain denied collusion with a French radio commentator known as "the Traitor of Stuttgart," who broadcast pro-Nazi propaganda during the early days of the war.

Allied Unit Now Controls German Press And Radio

Paris, May 25 (AP)—Justice Robert H. Jackson, prosecutor of war criminals for the United States, arrived today.

Paris, May 25 (AP)—Brig. Gen. R. A. McClure said today his Psychological Warfare Division had assumed complete control of the German press, "doing the editing and writing ourselves," and all other information services in territory controlled by SHAEF.

McClure said the services gradually would be returned to German hands after all Nazi and militarist influences had been purged from them.

The general outlined at a press conference the program embracing all newspapers, radios, publishing and entertainment enterprises in the German areas controlled by the supreme Allied commander. He said the program was intended to maintain order from a military standpoint and to reorient the German mind after twelve years of Nazism.

Free Press Ultimate Aim

The policy behind the entire program, laid down by General Eisenhower in his recent statement, was that a free press and free flow of information should prevail in Germany in a manner consistent with military security.

Like Eisenhower, McClure emphasized that there could be no restoration of a free Germany press until Nazi and military influence was eliminated.

Phases Of Operation

The Psychological Warfare Division has divided its operations into three phases:

1. Shutting down all German information services.

2. Instituting Allied information services utilizing German newspaper and publishing plants, radios and the like, but "doing the writing and editing ourselves."

3. Gradual transition from Allied information services to German-managed services working under Allied supervision.

McClure said the third phase would come only after detailed reconnaissances and examination of prospective Germans operators.

Loyalty Proof Needed

"The Psychological Warfare Division of SHAEF takes the view that there can be no relaxation of control until Allied authorities are convinced that Germans of unquestioned loyalty to democratic ideas have proved their technical as well as political fitness to manage opinion-forming instruments," McClure said.

"When they are convinced this condition exists, the really long-term work of German re-education can begin. And the Psychological Warfare Division believes that the Germans must finally accomplish this themselves. But when that moment will arrive, no one can now begin to estimate."

Several Groups Participate

The division control program is using military and civilian personnel representing American and British forces; the Office of War Information; the Office of Strategic Services, and the Political Intelligence Department of the British Foreign Office.

When SHAEF disappears, the program will continue under the American Group Council and the British Control Commission, McClure said.

OUST FRANCO, FRENCH URGE

High Committee Would Ask Allies To Take Action

Paris, May 25 (AP)—A demand that France urge the Allies to "invite" the resignation of Generalissimo Franco, whose regime was forced on Spain with the aid "of Hitler and Mussolini," was made today by the French Foreign Affairs Committee.

Should Franco cling to power despite Allied pressure, the committee proposed that the de Gaulle Government sever relations with his regime, which it styled a menace to world democracy comparable to Mussolini's former Fascist state.

The committee—whose members belong to the French assembly—carries weight in its position similar to that of the United States Senate Foreign Relations Committee and its resolution was the result of the Pierre Laval affair.

Laid Before Cabinet

Its resolution coupled these demands with another that France force Spain to hand over the former Vichy chief, who is under death sentence as a traitor and who sought refuge in Barcelona early this month.

The resolution was laid before a full-dress meeting of the Council of Ministers, which corresponds to the American Cabinet, this afternoon.

The British Foreign Office in London declined comment on the committees action, but responsible circles took the position that Britain still had normal diplomatic relations with Franco.

Invitation To Franco

The Communist organ L'Unita, in Rome, called on the Italian Government to break off relations with Franco, asserting Spain was giving refuge to high-ranking Fascists, including Filippo Anfuso, Ambassador to Berlin.

The committee's resolution said the French Government should propose to the Allies "that steps be taken to invite Franco to give up office at once on the understanding that he would be replaced by a Government made up of democrats" and which would be intrusted with the organization of a free election.

Throughout the war, the committee said, Franco's neutrality was a "fiction," and now the security of France required a republican form of government in Spain.

The Laval case has been a point of contention ever since France asked Spain to deliver him to the frontier and the Spanish refused.

Not A War Criminal

While both Britain and the United States were reported to have urged Spain to comply, both pointed out Laval was not regarded as a war criminal and the issue was between Franco and France.

A dispatch from Madrid said Anglo-American negotiations for the surrender of Laval were continuing.

This account said the Spanish Government took the position it was willing to surrender Laval to an Anglo-American commission as a war criminal but was reluctant to hand him over to France as a political refugee.

De Gaulle Asked To Break With Spaniards

Paris, May 25 (AP)—The French Foreign Affairs Committee asked the de Gaulle Government today to break relations with Spain, force extradition of Pierre Laval and propose means to the Allied nations to force Generalissimo Franco from office.

The committee is composed of members of the Assembly and it corresponds roughly to the United States Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

It asserted that the Franco regime was no different from the erstwhile Fascist government of Italy before its surrender and termed the regime a menace to world democracy.

Under Death Sentence

The committee also demanded that the government lose no further time in forcing Spain to hand over Laval to France. Laval, chief of government in the Vichy regime, is under death sentence in France as a traitor and is in custody in Spain after fleeing Germany by air.

The committee said the Allies should take joint action to remove Franco, head of the Spanish Government since the republic was overthrown in civil war, and provide the means of holding immediately a consultative election.

The committee said the Franco regime's neutrality throughout the war was a fiction and declared Franco's resignation was necessary for the security of France.

Serious Dispute Looms

The Laval case has been developing over the past three weeks into a serious dispute. France asked Spain to deliver him to the frontier and the Spaniards refused.

Both the United States and Great Britain were reported to have urged Spain to surrender him. Their attitude, however, was said to have been that the affair should be settled directly between France and Spain.

The Communist party publication L'unita in Rome today also called on the Italian Government to break relations with Spain, charging that Franco was giving refuge to high-ranking Fascists.

Anfuso Case Cited

The newspaper asserted that Filippo Anfuso, Italian Fascist Ambassador to Berlin, had arrived in Barcelona late in April aboard a "Croat plane" and was using the name of Count Monti of Monsassino. The publication said:

"Pending application by the democratic governments of the Yalta decisions, which provide for complete destruction of all remnants of Fascism, let us for once set the example by breaking with Franco."

A London dispatch described British reaction as "wait and see." The British Foreign Office declined comment and officially responsible circles took the position that Britain still had normal diplomatic relations with Spain.

Tangier Discussions

British quarters said discussions with Spain on such questions as Tangier, the African zone opposite Gibraltar which Spain occupied during the war, were inevitable. It was emphasized that the French committee's action was a recommendation and not in itself a break in relations.

It was recalled that a year ago Prime Minister Churchill deprecated the fact "some people think our foreign policy is best expressed by drawing comical or even rude cartoons of General Franco."

He said the Spaniards had "continued absolutely friendly and tranquil" throughout the period of warfare in the Mediterranean, though under German pressure.

"Great Misrepresentation"

Criticism of this speech led Churchill to tell the House of Commons December 8 that "it is one of those great misrepresentations that I have said pleasant words about Franco."

Spain has been under frequent attack in Moscow, especially while the Spanish Blue Legion was fighting beside the Germans on the Eastern front. Today's Pravda said "Spain has become the haunt of Fascist traitors trying to save their hides."

Hoard Of [illegible]0,000 Found By Yanks

Paris, May 25 (AP)—United States troops in Berchtesgaden unearthed today Heinrich Himmler's currency hoard — valued at around $1,000,000 — as the body of the Gestapo chieftain still lay in a Lueneberg villa two days after he committed suicide.

While the British pondered where and how to bury Himmler, American troops at Kitzbuehel, in the Austrian Tyrol, arrested another of his henchmen, SS Gen. Karl Oberg, known as "the butcher of Paris" in the occupation days when he was police director for the capital and northern France.

Jackson Arrives In Paris

As the roundup of war criminals proceeded, Justice Robert S. Jackson, American prosecutor of war crimes, arrived in Paris to begin laying in the groundwork for his assignment.

Himmler's hoard, containing the currency of 26 countries but none from United States, was discovered under a barn near Berchtesgaden by American officers.

They were led to the cache by Waffen SS Lieutenant General Berger, who said he had hidden the money there on Himmler's orders although the money belonged to the Reich.

Capt. Harry Anderson, Ossining, N.Y., of the Military Government, went to the barn with Berger, where boards were pried from the floor and a hole four feet deep was dug.

8 Cloth Sacks

At the bottom of the hole they found eight large cloth sacks, and a metal box, all crammed full of bills, which Major Robert Smith, Indianapolis, Ind., said appeared to be genuine.

The hoard of 132 Canadian dollars, 25,935 English pounds, more than 8,000,000 French francs, nearly 3,000,000 Algerian and Moroccan francs, over 1,000,000 German marks, over 1,000,000 Egyptian bills and 7,500 Palestine pounds was turned over to the division's financial department.

Only a half yen in Japanese currency and two Argentine pesetas were found.

Ribbentrop Believed Near

Two SS officers picked up with Himmler Monday west of Hamburg were being held virtually incommunicado at British 2d Army headquarters and had not yet been told their leader was dead.

The British hoped by withholding the news to pry from them information which might lead to the capture of other Nazis.

As for Himmler's body, the British still were debating whether to bury him at a funeral in the presence of German military and civilian big-wigs.

His body was to be placed in a coffin sometime today, but it last was reported laying just as it fell after Himmler bit into a hidden vial of poison while being searched Wednesday night.

The British suspected that the former Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop, who of all the top Nazis has not been captured or reported dead, might still be somewhere in their zone of occupation, crowded with unnumbered refugees.

Says He Only Obeyed

They thought it still might take some time to catch him. Reports from the Americans in Bavaria and Austria have suggested von Ribbentrop might be in hiding there.

Oberg was found in a prison pen into which the Americans had herded a number of Germans brought out of the hills south of Kitzbuehel.

As has many another Nazi before him, Oberg insisted that he only obeyed orders in directing mass killings in France, and said he last saw Himmler February 15 of this year.

Unidentified at the time, Oberg was taken with two other officers and his blond secretary in a hideout atop a mountain which had taken his captors three hours to climb. He was in civilian clothes.

From Madrid, meanwhile, came word of another member of the German train of collaborators, this one expressing doubt that Hitler is dead.

He is Leon de Grelle, former Belgian Rexist leader, who is at San Sebastian where he fled by plane recently.

A Spaniard who taked with him said de Grelle claimed he was with Hitler the day before the Russians entered Berlin and found the Führer preparing to follow an undivulged escape plan. By this account, Hitler was in no mood either for suicide or a fight to the death.

In London, the secretary of the War Crimes Commission declined to disclose the agenda of the sixteen-nation conference there the last of this month on the grounds that it was confidential.

HIMMLER'S CASH IN HANDS OF YANKS

Berchtesgaden, Germany, May 25 (A. P.).—Heinrich Himmler's hoard of paper money, worth possibly more than $1,000,000, is in the hands of the United States 101st Airborne Division.

A German SS officer who surrendered two weeks ago led division officers to the hoard, containing currency of twenty-six nations, under a barn near here. It is now being catalogued.

HITLER NOTES BARE PLAN TO WAGE WAR

December Report to German Generals Shows He Mapped Conflict in Peacetime

BERCHTESGADEN, May 25 (AP) —Secret notes disclosed today that Adolf Hitler deliberately mapped a blueprint for war in days of peace, belying his own excuses that war came because of Poland's provocation.

Hitler's private report to division commanders last Dec. 12, considered by American officers the most spectacular find to date, reads like a history of those dire days after Hitler seized power when a fearful Europe wondered what he would do next.

German stenographers who took down the statement that Hitler never dreamed would be made known to the world are now transcribing their notes under American scrutiny.

This is the way they wrote down Hitler's account to his generals—made just before the Ardennes offensive—of how he had carefully used the peace to prepare for "the war of the future":

"(1) Immediate introduction of universal military service.

"(2) Re-establishment of German sovereignty through the occupation of the Rhineland and the creation of a fortifications system.

Ready to Take Consequences

"(3) Immediate annexation of Austria, the crushing of Czechoslovakia and the ultimate crushing of Poland in order to bring Germany, territorially, to a position for effective defense."

If these events provoked war, Hitler said, it was "better to accept it then in a moment when we were superlatively prepared, rather than at some other moment in which this advantage might have been lost."

By this account, Hitler said there were "psychological considerations," that enthusiasm and willingness to sacrifice had been achieved "through national socialist education, through a gigantic wave that engulfed the people" that "we could not afford to waste."

Hitler told his generals that he considered himself Germany's greatest opportunity for the p half century to acquire "s guards," which he then admitt were but preliminaries to war.

The generals were sent into the Ardennes offensive, which ended in costly failure, by Hitler, who told them the drive was necessary to convince the Allies that Germany would never capitulate and the war could not be won.

Foreign Troops Assailed

Hitler had little confidence in non-German troops made to fight in the German Army, a transcription of shorthand notes taken his meetings with the Germ High Command disclosed today.

"I don't want to say nothing be done with foreign legions," he said on one occasion, "but it takes time. If one had them six or ten years and controlled their territory they could become good soldiers.

"But if one gets them from a territory which lies somewhere out there, why should they fight? They become victims of every kind of propaganda, and giving them arms when there is no surplus of weapons is irresponsible."

An almost irrational skipping from subject to subject was characteristic of Hitler's outbursts. On the same day that he belittled the foreign troops he showed irritation over air attacks on Berlin.

"We have to do something to fight off the increasing Mosquito attacks," he said.

"They excite us little while we sit in deep cellars, but they are very unpleasant for the population. We need machines with an absolute superiority in speed."

war guilt.

German stenographers, who themselves took down many of these statements the Nazis never dreamed could come to light, were transcribing the notes, brought here from Berlin, when a partial text of Hitler's report was found.

Belies Excuse For War

Made just before the German Ardennes offensive of December 16, Hitler's statement to his officers openly belied the Nazis' excuse that they had started the war because of alleged Polish provocations. Hitler outlined his plans ploit the situation very soon (in 1939) so as to bring about clarification that was necessary—not to bring about war, but to effect safeguards that would be necessary if Germany were attacked."

He then proceeded to outline his "safeguards," only admitting they really were war "preliminaries" as he enthusiastically finished listing them.

Hitler told the division commanders the German Ardennes offensive, which resulted in the month-long battle of the Belgian bulge, was necessary to convince the Allies that the war could not be won and to show Germany's opponents they could never calculate on capitulation.

made in peacetime for war preparation in this order:

"First, immediate introduction of universal military service.

"Second, re-establishment of German sovereignty through the occupation of the Rhineland and the creation of a fortifications system.

"Third, immediate annexation of Austria, crushing of Czechoslovakia and ultimate crushing of Poland in order to bring Germany, territorially, to a position for effective defense.

Territory Needed

"These were the essential preliminaries for the war of the future. There is not only military preparation, there is also territorial preparation for a big war and in this respect we with limited space were very badly off.

"If the course we then proposed to take should lead to a big war," Hitler continued, without specifying what that course was, "obviously war would have to be accepted. Because it was better to accept it then in a moment when we were superlatively prepared, rather than at some other moment in which this advantage might have been lost. That one cannot avoid war by refraining from striking was demonstrated by World War I.

"Only Once In A Revolution"

"Finally, there were psychological considerations, one being the mobilization of spiritual forces of the German nation. One cannot drain off enthusiasm and willingness to sacrifices for any cause and preserve it in a bottle.

"These qualities show only once in the course of a revolution and gradually weaken. The grayness of everyday activities and the comforts of life turn men into accustomed channels and they become petty gossips. What we achieved through National socialist education, through a gigantic wave that engulfed the people, we could not afford to waste."

"Early Action Important"

Hitler worked up to these admissions after telling the officers he had considered himself Germany's greatest opportunity for perhaps the next half century to acquire "safeguards." He said:

"In my life I have had to reach the gravest decisions. Such decisions can be reached only by a man prepared to renounce every personal consideration. I was convinced that in the next 10, 20, 30, maybe 50 years, no man would appear in Germany with more influence on the nation than I, with greater zeal in reaching decisions. I believe the years to come will prove I judged rightly.

"Therefore I held it right to ex-

Early Nazi Plan To Ruin Czechs, Poles Revealed

Berchtesgaden, May 25 (AP) — Stenographic notes the Nazis tried unsuccessfully to destroy have revealed a secret, self-indicting account by Adolf Hitler saying he planned the "crushing" of Czecho-Slovakia and Poland as "essential preliminaries for the war of the future" against the Allies.

Hitler said Germany was "superlatively prepared" for war and that psychologically she "could not afford to waste" Nazi-schooled fanaticism, which he feared might die down.

Hitler's private report, made to division commanders, December 12, was the most spectacular find to date by American officers studying thousands of pages of partly charred notes which are shaping up as a terrific indictment of Nazi

Goering's Curator Claims Three More Vermeers Exist

Berchtesgaden, May 25 (AP)—Walther Andrea Hofer, curator of Hermann Goering's fabulous collection of plundered art, claimed today that he knew of two other previously unreported paintings by Jan Vermeer in addition to "Christ and the Adulteress," a Goering item which he said was done by the Seventeenth Century Dutch artist.

[The discovery of three more Vermeer paintings would be one of the most important art "finds" in history. The value of "Christ and the Adulteress" alone, if proven to be a Vermeer, might approximate $1,000,000. A previous announcement of the "Christ and the Adulteress" by Hofer was received with skepticism in the United States.]

Discovered In '43

Hofer said "Christ and the Adulteress" was part of a triptych, or series of three related religious paintings. The other two paintings in the triptych, he said, are "Christ and the Footwashing," which he said was in Boyman's Museum in Rotterdam, and "Christ in Emmaus Breaking Bread," which he claimed was in the Reichsmuseum in Amsterdam.

The triptych, Hofer said, was discovered two years ago in the Netherlands during the German occupation.

The "Christ and the Adulteress" was found in the Gallery Goudstekker in Amsterdam, he added.

Told that it was believed in the United States that Vermeer had never painted religious subjects, Hofer replied that there was a Vermeer Christus in a gallery in Glasgow.

Plietzsch Quoted

He quoted a Dr. Plietzsch, whom he described as a Vermeer authority, for support of his contention that "Christ and the Adulteress" was actually a Vermeer. Plietzsch, he said, wrote a book on Vermeer a year ago and in it listed the painting and other Vermeer religious works. He said he received a Plietzsch document vouching for the authenticity of the painting when he purchased it.

The painting shows a beardless, long-haired Christus with his left and on the head of an apparently feeling woman. On the left is a dark-faced figure in a red mantle. In the extreme right the view through a window is intended to show Jerusalem buildings.

The Christus has an almost Levantine face, with a slight hook in the nose and full lips. The treatment is reverent.

"This is the scene where Christ tells the woman's accuser, 'Ye who is without sin may cast the first stone'—although I do not know the Bible so well," Hofer said.

The curator had what he said was a photograph from a Leipzig dealer depicting the footwashing painting. The model for the Christus in this painting apparently was the same as the model for the Christus in the adulteress painting. The model who posed for the adulteress apparently also had posed in the footwashing scene.

The authenticity of the adulteress painting, of course, will be subjected to the most minute checks. It has been suggested that all three paintings in the triptych might have been faked.

Himmler's Body Lies on Floor

In Meantime British Consider Having Public Funeral for Gestapo Chief.

British Second Army Headquarters, May 25 (A. P.).—Second Army officials still are undecided whether to hold a funeral for Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler in the presence of German military and civilian bigwigs who are in Allied hands.

Thirty-six hours after the suicide death by poison of the SS chief his body still lay on the bare floor of a Lueneburg villa. It will be placed in a coffin today.

It was generally suspected that the former Nazi Foreign Minister, Joachim von Ribbentrop, the only high Nazi not yet captured or reported dead, was somewhere in the British sector in northwest Germany. However, considering the numbers of refugees on the move throughout the countryside, considerable time could elapse before his capture.

Nazi Butcher of Paris Taken

Gen. Oberg Captured by Americans After 2-hour Climb Atop Mountain.

Kitzbuhel, Germany, May 24 (Delayed) (A. P.).—Gen. Karl Oberg, former chief of all German SS and police activities in occupied France, was arrested today through the combined efforts of the 101st Airborne and the Forty-second divisions.

Oberg was captured at a hideout atop a mountain which took three hours to climb, but was not identified until some time later when he was picked out of a batch of Germans in a prison pen.

The identification was made by Major Cecil Simmons, commander of the Third Battalion of the 502d Parachute Infantry. Simmons hails from Grand Rapids, Mich., where he formerly was a traffic engineer for the Police Department.

Oberg at first denied his identity, but finally admitted who he was. Taken with him were two other officers and his blond secretary, with whom he said he came to this area on May 7.

"I have been looking for this character for seven days," declared Simmons after Oberg admitted his identity. "I'm sure glad I found him."

Oberg, known to the French as the Butcher of Paris, was wearing civilian clothes when captured. His face was deeply tanned and his hair was clipped close in Prussian fashion.

Doenitz's Expensive Tastes Are Thwarted

Flensburg, Germany, May 24—[AP—Delayed]—Grand Admiral Karl Doenitz in one respect was a worthy successor to Hitler as führer—like the late Nazi chieftain he had exceedingly expensive tastes.

British officers charged with handling his luggage when Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower ordered him arrested here said he had eight trunks filled with the most costly clothing, leather goods, medical gadgets and satin pillows encased in the finest white linen covers, and lots of shoes.

"Why, he even wore six sets of silk underwear when he was taken," one captain said, "and he had servants galore busying themselves about him. He left for his unrevealed destination without—I repeat, without—his trunks and with only a small shaving kit."

YUGOSLAV FORCES REMOVE ROAD BLOCKS

TRIESTE, May 25.—(AP) Yugoslav forces have accepted American and British occupation of territory north of here in a friendly spirit. Allied officers said tonight, and have been taking down all concrete road blocks between Trieste and the border of Yugoslavia.

The road blocks were removed to speed traffic and relieve a serious food shortage spreading through the disputed area.

It is assumed that the Yugoslavs took up new positions opposite the new Allied line running east of the Isonzo river, which Marshal Tito's forces originally considered the western line of their occupation zone.

This, however, is considered normal and Allied officers said there had been no display of belligerency.

The officers declared there was not a single "incident" since the British and Americans moved eastward, although the Yugoslavs moved in and bivouacked close by.

A New Zealand officer was injured last night in a great fireworks display put on by the Yugoslavs in celebration of Tito's 53rd birthday.

nrty-third birthday today.

For nearly an hour Yugoslav soldiers put on a fireworks display unlike anything seen in Trieste for years. Rockets arched over the city from the bordering hills. A steady line of lights flickered along a high ridge to the north.

Fire From Windows

Partisans opened the windows of their billets and fired toward the sea. Machine pistols and automatic rifles popped from various squares.

One small hotel lobby was crowded with civilians who ducked in for shelter, inquiring excitedly if fighting had started between Yugoslav and 8th Army troops quartered in Trieste.

Meanwhile, however, Trieste citizens, who have been living on a diet of cauliflower, lettuce and other green vegetables, small amounts of bread and almost no meat for three weeks, began to inquire with some irritation when the political situation would be settled and more food would be available.

Otherwise, tension in the city appeared to have relaxed as discussions toward a settlement of occupation problems continued, but there was no indication whether the Allies would look kindly upon a three-point proposal said to have been handed their representatives in Belgrade two days ago by Marshal Tito.

Tito's insistence on representation in the Allied Military Government and on retention of the administrative bodies created by the Yugoslavs in the past three weeks seemed the knottiest issues.

Reported Holding Firm

Tito also was quoted by a Yugoslav-controlled Italian newspaper as saying in a speech in Belgrade that he held firm in his intention to retain troops in the Trieste region. The Yugoslavs have moved new forces into the region north of the city and have informed Allied troops that several of the villages the Allies occupied there last Tuesday were in the Yugoslav zone of occupation.

Allied troops cannot move out of places they occupied in the "peaceful penetration" of last Tuesday, the Yugoslavs were informed. However, Tito's men were being permitted to billet in available buildings.

Trieste Shooting Called Salute

Trieste, May 25 (AP)—Sudden bursts of machine-gun fire ahd rockets sent civilians in this turbulent city scampering for shelter last night, but Yugoslav troops explained it was just the beginning of a celebration of Marshal Tito's of his coalition Cabinet.

Their reaction recalled, though to a lesser extent, the apprehension that was voiced when they learned of President Roosevelt's death. They believe Churchill tries to understand Russia.

Played Up In Press

Britain's political news was among the topmost stories in the Russian press and on the radio today. The British electoral system undoubtedly will be explained by Soviet newspaper articles which may allay some of the concern arising from the announcement of Churchill's formal resignation, which many Russians did not understand.

The Russian public also showed a lively interest in the announcement from Washington of changes in President Truman's Cabinet.

Americans Grilled

Frequent questions put to Americans here today were:

"Are your policies toward us going to change?"

"What is happening to your governments? Are they falling apart?"

"Are Roosevelt's friends and Churchill losing out with your politicians?"

Hopkins Met By Vishinski

Moscow, May 25 (AP)—Harry Hopkins arrived here by plane today on a special mission for President Truman.

The presidential adviser was met at the Moscow airport by Andrei Vishinski, vice commissar for foreign affairs. They greeted each other warmly, Vishinsky inquiring after Hopkins's health. Hopkins then presented his wife to the Soviet official.

Others meeting the American visitor included Gen. George Catroux, French Ambassador, and British Minister Frank Roberts.

The United States Ambassador, Averell Harriman, his daughter, Kathlyn, and Charles Bohlen, of the State Department, completed the official greeting party.

Appears Well Enough

Hopkins's plane came directly from Paris. It was cold and snowy when he arrived.

The presidential representative, who is not in good health, appeared to have stood the long trip well. He went directly to the home of the American Ambassador, where he will remain during his stay here. An embassy spokesman said he would confer with Russian officials after a rest.

Churchill's Action Amazes Russ

Moscow, May 25 (AP)—The Russian people, by now accustomed to Prime Minister Churchill as a friend, have learned with something like astonishment of the end

Stalin Admits Errors, Hails Russian Faith

Moscow, May 25 (AP)—Admitting that the Soviet high command had made no few mistakes in the dark days of 1941-42, Premier Stalin told a gala victory banquet last night it was the trust of the Russian people in their Government that proved the decisive force in crushing Germany.

Vodga glass in hand, the happy leader told a great gathering in the Hall of St. George in the Kremlin Palace that the Red Army reeled back before the first rush of the Nazis, abandoning thousands of villages and cities "because there was no other course."

"Other people could have said to their Government: 'You have not fulfilled our expectations—go away and we will set up another Government which will make peace with Germany and secure us,'" Stalin told the crowded hall.

Russia Had Faith

"But the Russians did not take to this," he continued, "because they believed in the soundness of the politics of their Government, and made sacrifices in order to guarantee the defeat of Germany. And this trust of the Russian people in the Soviet Government proved to be the decisive force which guaranteed the historic victory over the enemy of humanity—over Fascism."

"Thanks to them," said the beaming marshal, raising his glass. "Thanks to the Russian people for this trust." A tremendous roar filled the hall.

Few Foreigners Present

The victory celebration was attended by all the leaders of the Soviet Union, by marshals and front commanders, by famous inventors and heroes of all ranks. It began at 8 P.M., and the final toast was drunk at about daylight.

The only foreigners present were a group of Polish miners, who last week delivered a trainload of coal to Moscow as a present. Foreign Minister Vyacheslav Molotov offered a toast in their honor, hailing a "Soviet-Polish friendship which should serve as an example of the unbreakable friendship of the Slav peoples."

Stalin Lauds Russians At Victory Celebration

MAY 26 1945

Moscow, May 25 (AP)—Premier Marshal Stalin and other Soviet leaders congratulated themselves at a banquet last night on the triumph over Germany, although the Russian leader said that the Government had made mistakes during the early months of battle.

Perhaps the high point of the tremendous victory gathering in the ancient White Hall of St. George in the Kremlin was Stalin's toast to the Russian people as he raised a vodka-filled tumbler:

"I drink first of all to the health of the Russian people because they are the most outstanding of all nations in the composition of the Soviet Union."

Half Population Russian

The Russian people make up more than half the population of the Soviet Union, which includes vast expanses of Asia. The toast by the Georgian-born Stalin to the Russians was considered equivalent to President Truman, a Missourian, toasting the people of the Eastern United States.

"I raise this toast," said Stalin in one of his best moods in years, "to the health of the Russian people because they have deserved in this war the acknowledgment of the leading force of the Soviet Union among all the people of our country, I raise this toast to the health of the Russian people, not only because they are the leading people, but because they have clear minds, sound character and endurance."

Toasts Molotov

In a toast to the Foreign Commissar, Stalin said:

"I offer a toast to the leader of our foreign policy, Vyacheslav Molotov. Do not forget that a good foreign policy sometimes weighs more than two or three armies at the front."

It was after the toast to the Russian people that Stalin said the Government had made no few mistakes in the war during the desperate period in 1941 and 1942. It was then that the Red Army was retreating, abandoning villages and cities of the Ukraine, White Russia and other provinces, "giving them up because there was no other course."

The celebration started at 8 P. M. It lasted nearly until dawn.

Marshal Stalin declared:

"Other people could have said to their Government, 'You have not fulfilled our expectations—go away and we will set up another Government which will make a peace with Germany and make us secure.'

"But the Russians did not take to this, because they believed in [illegible] soundness of the policies of [illegible] Government and made sacrifices in order to guarantee the defeat of Germany. And this trust of the Russian people in the Soviet Government proved to be the decisive force which guaranteed the historic victory over the enemy of humanity—over Fascism."

Tremendous roars filled the great hall.

Mr. Molotov, in toasting Mr. Stalin, said of the Marshal: "He who was leading and is leading our combat. He who has brought our people to their great victory, a victory unparalleled in history."

Says Army Freed Europe.

Turning to all the guests, Mr. Molotov declared:

"Comrades, our army measured up to our socialistic state and became equal to the great mission of liberating Europe from German Fascism. The famous Bolshevik party has brought up our army. The great Stalin presently leads our party from victory to victory. A toast to the great party of Lenin and Stalin, for the central committee of our Bolshevik party, for the health of our dear, great Stalin."

A group of Polish miners who last week delivered a trainload of coal to Moscow was present and Mr. Molotov raised the Vodka:

"I offer a toast friendly to democratic Poland. For Soviet-Polish friendship, which should serve as an example of unbreakable friendship of Slav peoples."

As the celebration continued, Molotov toasted President Mikhail Kalinin and the military commanders: Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov, Marshals Konev, Rokossovsky, Govorov and Malinovsky, and went on down the line through individual commanders.

He paid special tribute to Marshals Voroshilov, Budyenny and Timoshenko, Russian commanders early in the war whose three army groups felt the first great rush of German power.

6 Bulgarians Refuse To Return To Sofia

Stockholm, May 25 (AP)—The newspaper Aftonbladet reported today that six members of the Bulgarian legation staff had refused orders to return to Sofia and severed all connections with their country's diplomatic service.

All had served under former Minister Nikolaj Nikolajev, who was dismissed by the Provisional Bulgarian Government and sentenced to death.

First U.S.-Sweden Air Link Being Inaugurated

Stockholm, May 25 (AP)—The first direct air connection between Sweden and America will be inaugurated today when a C-54 arrives in Stockholm from Iceland on its maiden trip from New York to Stockholm.

American officials said Brig. Gen. Lawrence S. Fritz, chief of the north Atlantic division of the Air Transport Command, was among those aboard the plane. He is expected to confer here with Brig. Gen. Earl Hoag, chief of the ATC in Europe, who arrived in Stockholm yesterday from England.

Service twice weekly from New York is planned by the ATC.

Sizes Up Himmler.

Stockholm, May 25 (A. P.).—Count Folke Bernadotte, who transmitted Heinrich Himmler's offer of capitulation to the western Allies, told the newspaper Dagens Nyheter today that he considered the SS chieftain to be "rather an engaging man of the lower government employee type."

"He wore the green SS uniform without decorations and was always polished and displayed extraordinarily good nerves despite his obvious lack of rest," Count Bernadotte said. "Despite his demeanor, I got the impression that he was aware that a terrible end was approaching. He even hinted to me that he would never fall into the hands of the enemy alive, but intended to die fighting."

Count Bernadotte, who is vice-chairman of the Swedish Red Cross, met Himmler several times on trips into Germany and on April 21 the German leader gave him a peace message for relay to the Allies. He conferred with Himmler again in Norway on May 1.

"I don't think his offer to capitulate was connected with any hope of personal advantage," the Count said.

Gen. J. T. McNarney Decorated By British

Rome, May 25 (AP)—Field Marshal Sir Harold Alexander conferred the Order of Knight Commander of the Bath today on Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, commander of United States forces in the Mediterranean theater.

"A large proportion of the credit for the successful conclusion of the Italian campaign must go to General McNarney," Alexander said.

LUZON TOWNS LOST BY JAPS

Guerrillas Provide Allies Wide Pacific Coast Control

Manila, Saturday, May 26 (AP)—Guerrilla forces, absorbed into the Philippine Army, captured the towns of Infanta and Misua on the east coast of Luzon Wednesday, Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported today.

This gave Allied forces control of the Pacific coast from the tip of the Bicol peninsula north to central Luzon. The Filipino guerrillas joined forces with the United States 1st Cavalry Division after making an amphibious landing on the peninsula.

Headquarters gave no specific reason for occupying this region. The coast, however, is favorable for naval installations.

Jap Resistance Broken

Elsewhere on Luzon, American doughboys continued their advances behind the bombing and strafing of 400 aircraft.

The 32d Division, moving along the Villa Verde trail, broke a pocket of Japanese resistance near Santa Fe and pushed within 3 miles of that Cagayan Valley town. The 25th Division, approaching Santa Fe on Highway 5, already has patrols in the outskirts.

Doughboys of the 43d Division, cleaning out the Ipo Dam trap northeast of Manila, killed 68 Japanese and counted 87 more Nipponese bodies. The 38th Division in the Marikina sector southeast of Ipo killed 156 enemy and counted another 114 bodies.

Licanan Airdrome Taken

The 38th still was fighting around Mount Purro, at the confluence of the Marikina and Bosoboso rivers, and was not yet in position to attack the Wawa Dam, a lesser source of Manila's water.

On Mindanao Island the 24th Division captured the Licanan airdrome Thursday against light opposition and now holds all six airfields in the Davao sector.

The 31st, 40th and Americal divisions consolidated along central Mindanao's Sayre highway preparatory to attacking the Japanese in near-by hills.

Djoeata Cape Shelled

Several small-scale Japanese counterattacks were repulsed by the Australian and Dutch Indies troops on Tarakan Island, off Borneo. One group of eight Nipponese carried 75-mm. shells as grenades and spears made of bamboo.

Seventh Fleet P-T boats shelled north Tarakan's Djoeata Cape, setting off several munition explosions.

Reconnaissance bombers at night bombed the Taihoku sector of Formosa, near the northern coast, and by day penetrated adverse weather to attack communications on the southeastern coast.

Philippine-based bombers sorely harassed shipping in the China Sea.

Heavy bombers sank a medium tanker north of Hainan, bombed the White Cloud airdrome near Canton, China, and pounded Shanghai's petroleum storage areas and shipping.

Australians secured the entire Wewak coastline of northeastern New Guinea as two converging divisions linked up at the Bradi plantation.

Australian troops on New Guinea captured Cape Moem, 4 miles west of Wewak.

Belgian Fascist Thinks Nazi Führer Is Hiding

Madrid, May 25 (AP)—Leon Degrelle, former Belgian Rexist leader, under sentence of death in his homeland for collaboration with the Germans, was quoted today as expressing his belief that Adolf Hitler, is alive and is hiding.

A Spaniard who talked with Degrelle at San Sebastion, where the Belgian is recovering from a shoulder injury, said he asserted he had talked with Hitler in Berlin the day before the Russians entered the city.

"Not In Suicide Mood"

Degrelle was quoted as saying Hitler was preparing for an attempt to escape and that he did not appear to be in a mood either for suicide or a fight to the death.

According to Degrelle, he obtained Hitler's permission to go by plane to Oslo, where he was to join Joseph Terboven, Nazi commissioner in Norway, for a flight to Spain. Terboven, however, preferred suicide to flight, the Belgian was quoted as saying.

With Five Germans

Degrelle, accompanied by five Germans, landed in a plane on a San Sebastian beach on May 8.

Like Pierre Laval, Degrelle now is in the custody of the Spanish Government, which has promised to surrender them to an Allied commission as war criminals, but has refused to turn them over directly to their countries on the grounds that this would constitute surrendering political prisoners.

Degrelle was sentenced to death in absentia by a Belgian court on December 28, 1944.

Early Election In Norway Seen

Oslo, May 25 (AP)—The Norwegian Government in London will be coming home from exile shortly to face the prospect of an early, brisk election after the country settles down to a normal existence.

Political leaders say Prime Minister Nygaard Vold probably will have little difficulty at the polls if he seeks to continue in office.

On the whole they expect little of the difficulties which have arisen in other liberated countries because of conflicts between underground leaders and heads of the exiled governments.

Most of Norway's underground leaders held posts of importance before the war and many of these already have resumed their duties.

Blackshirt Gets Long Term.

Rome, May 25 (A. P.).—Milan dispatches said today that the Assizes Court had sentenced Attilio Teruzzi, former commander of the Blackshirts and Minister of Colonies, to thirty years imprisonment, following his conviction on charges of political and military collaboration with the Germans.

5 Air Units Leave Italy, Bound For Pacific

Rome, May 25 (AP)—Five veteran heavy bombing groups from the United States 15th Air Force already have left Italy for rest and re-equipment in the United States before going on to the Pacific, Lieut. Gen. John K. Cannon, commander of the Allied Mediterranean Air Forces, announced today.

The announcement said the departure presaged a "mass movement of units from both the 12th and 15th Air forces."

The groups which have left are the 485th, 449th, 450th, 98th and 376th. All except the 485th group have been part of the 47th Bomb Wing under Brig. Gen. Hugo P. Rush, of New Providence, Pa. The wing held the 15th Air Force record for accuracy.

Mindanao Mopping-Up Task Still A Big One

Manila, May 25 (AP)—Fighting on Mindanao Island was officially termed in the "mopping-up stage" today but thousands of Japanese still had to be dug out of mountain positions before the big southern Philippine island could be considered won.

The Japs' Mindanao garrison, once estimated at 50,000 troops, was bisected Wednesday when the 31st Infantry Division, sweeping north along the Sayre highway, met the 40th and Americal divisions which came down from Macajalar Bay.

Associated Press Correspondent Richard Bergholz reported that advance units met near Impalutao village. The Japanese pulled into the hills east of the highway, and the juncture was lightly opposed.

Another Cave-To-Cave Job

Splitting the island from north to south was largely a victory for the engineers. Scores of blown-up bridges were speedily rebuilt to keep the Yanks moving.

The campaign forced the Japanese from the central plateau into mountains where the inevitable cave-by-cave cleanout now confronts the doughboys.

North of Davao the 24th Division was still rooting out last-stand Japs between the Davao and Talomo rivers. Licanan airdrome near by was still in Japanese hands, although the doughboys were approaching it against moderate resistance.

The Luzon Situation

On Luzon Island, organized resistance ceased Wednesday in the Ipo Dam trap northwest of Manila. Bitter fighting was still in progress but a headquarters spokesman said the Japanese were no longer under central control.

To the north, three Yank divisions maintained steady pressure along Balete Pass, closely supported by bomber and fighter planes.

Formosa took another heavy aerial pasting. Escorted heavy and medium bombers dropped 235 tons of bombs on air bases, railway yards, barracks and factories. The 13th Air Force and 7th Fleet sent 90 planes against Borneo targets.

Tydings Vows 'No Strings' On Philippine Freedom

Calls Independence Before June, '46, 'Fixed Policy' of U. S.

MANILA, May 25 (AP).—There are "no strings attached" to the granting of freedom to the Philippines, Senator Millard E. Tydings, Democrat, of Maryland, head of a special mission to the islands, emphasized here today. Independence for the islands before June 4, 1946, is a "fixed policy" of the United States, he told a press conference.

He expressed confidence that the United States will find no difficulty in negotiations with the island government later over the establishment of naval and military bases.

Senator Tydings described war-ravaged Manila as "worse than I expected." "I had seen many photographs," he said, "but it is one of those things you really have to see to get a full picture of the devastation."

The question of financial assistance to the Philippines for rehabilitation will be up to Congress, he said, but "I feel and hope Congress will want to deal fairly with the Philippines. To what extent, no one can predict, nor what form it will take, but America will want to do its part within reason and fairness."

President Sergio Osmena sat beside Senator Tydings during the conference.

In response to a question, Senator Tydings denied that any strong Cuban sugar lobby ever advocated immediate independence for the islands, asserting: "I have never had such a lobbyist in my office."

Osmena Won't Help 2 Sons

Manila, May 25 (AP)—President Sergio Osmena of the Philippines said today he had again declined to see his two sons who are in prison on charges of collaborating with the Japanese.

Osmena told the Associated Press he had no knowledge of when they might be tried.

"The entire matter is in the hands of the Army," the President said. "I am remaining completely apart from them."

He said his sons—Nicassio and Sergio, Jr.—had asked to see him in order to present their side, "but I refused to see them because the matter is entirely out of my hands and I want to show them they cannot expect any special consideration because of me."

The President said he was confident his sons would be given a fair hearing when and if brought to trial, but "they are on their own." Osmena said he had formed no opinion himself on their guilt or innocence.

Two U.S. Chaplains Killed On Okinawa

Okinawa, May 25 (AP)—Two of 300 American chaplains with the armed forces on Okinawa have been killed and five others wounded, Col. Roy N. Hillyer, of Hiawatha, Kan., 10th Army chaplain, said today.

One of those killed was a Negro chaplain, hit by shell fragments. The other was fatally wonded as he ran to help wounded under artillery fire.

Hillyer said that despite the fierce fighting, plans are under way to hold patriotic services Memorial Day for the American dead on Okinawa. He expressed hope that enough flowers could be gathered on the island to decorate all graves in the white cross cemeteries, which are still growing.

US. Destroyer Survives Terrific Jap Assault

Aboard Vice Admiral Richmond K. Turner's Flagship Off Okinawa, April 18 [AP—Delayed by Navy Censorship]—The galliant little destroyer Laffey took everything the Japanese could throw at her from the air for two hours and survived.

Six suicide planes hit her—the engines of the three were recovered on her fantail. Two bombs hit her and two more scored damaging near misses.

Thirty-one members of the Laffey's crew were killed and 60 others wounded.

Bagged Eight Japs

With her guns going until the last enemy plane disappeared, the Laffey shot down at least eight Japanese planes and saw one friendly plane crash nearby after chasing another Japanese craft into the sea.

"I'll never abandon ship as long as a gun will fire," the Laffey's skipper, Commander Frederick Julian Becton, of Hot Springs, Ark., declared. He kept his promise.

The destroyer's communications officer, Lieut. Frank Manson, 24, of Tahlequah, Okla., related the epic battle of two days ago at a news conference today.

First Bomb Missed

"The first Japanese plane taken under fire dropped a bomb which missed and shortly afterward was shot down by another ship," Manson related.

"Almost countless planes were all around—lots of ours and at least 30 of theirs. Twenty started converging on us from the north. Gunnery Officer Lieut. Paul B. Smith, of Olean, N.Y., spotted four Vals with five-inch guns and shot one down a thousand yards off and another close aboard.

"The other two circled to the stern, and No. 3 mount shot both down, one so close we got our first casualty—one man killed.

Gun Out Of Action

"A moment later a Val exploded just off the starboard quarter, injuring several men. A plane from the port bow grazed the No. 3 mount and exploded near enough to put one gun out of action.

30.74 76091

30.24 — 26091

"Two planes approached on the starboard beam. Anti-aircraft fire got one. Another came in low on the port side, struck and swept across the deck house, knocking out some of our guns and starting fires in the 40-mm. magazine.

"Within 30 seconds two planes hit the after deckhouse, sealing several men to their deaths in compartments below. Just then a Corsair came chasing a Japanese right over the mainmast. The Jap took off half of the yardarm, and the Corsair took off the other half.

Corsair Crashed

"The Jap crashed in the water. The Corsair pulled out with a wing damaged, shot down another plane and then crashed. Another ship rescued the pilot.

"Then a large plane carrying a 500 or 1,000 pound bomb came from the starboard. Mount 2 put a 5-inch projectile squarely into it and the plane disintegrated 200 yards from us.

"Another plane apparently hit by the air patrol came by in a mass of flame and crashed off the port bow. The next Jap plane knocked off the other yardarm and crashed alongside.

"The last plane approached from the starboard and dropped a bomb amidships, killing several men in the wardroom where a doctor was treating the wounded. The air patrol shot that plane down.

Gallantry Of Crew

"Every man stayed on his battle station. If one was killed, a radioman or pharmacist's mate would take his place. One boy, Coxswain Calvin W. Cloer, from Burbank, Cal., in mount 3, was seriously burned. He went to the wardroom, saw the many casualties needing treatment and went back to his battle station. Wounded again, he returned to the wardroom for attention just as a bomb hit, killing him.

"For a while we thought we were going to sink, but a tug pumped us out and saved us."

Malaybalay Razed, Deserted

WITH THE THIRTY-FIRST DIVISION, at Malaybalay, Mindanao, May 23 (Delayed) (AP)—A charred church, one house and four children—that's all there was to Malaybalay, capital of Bukidnon Province in north-central Mindanao, when American troops entered.

This once prosperous city of 18,000 people is just another provincial capital that the Japanese destroyed while fleeing from the Yanks.

Like Manila, Cebu, Iloilo, Zamboanga and many others, Malaybalay was destroyed by Japanese demolition squads.

Both the church and the lone house, the only building left standing in Malaybalay, were heavily mined and booby trapped. The provincial capitol, municipal buildings, the postoffice and telegraph buildings, all the pre-war landmarks—have been reduced to rubble and ashes.

Just outside the city the Commonwealth Government had a modern two-story building housing the forestry bureau. It is nothing but a shapeless hull now. Near by, a pre-war warehouse, reportedly used by the Japanese as a jail, had been destroyed by an American 1,000-pound bomb.

Except for four children, Malaybalay is absolutely deserted. Scared and hungry, the youngsters told officers that the Japanese had driven all Filipinos out of the city into the hills to work on defenses and to keep them from talking to the Americans. The Malaybalay airstrip, a mile and a half outside the city, was relatively undamaged.

Jap Radio And Nimitz See Things Differently

Guam, Saturday, May 26 (AP)—Tokyo radio and Admiral Chester W. Nimitz disagreed today on the success of Japan's west suicide idea—the Giretsu (heroic) unit of the Kamikaze special attack corps.

A broadcast of an Imperial communiqué said the Giretsu troops, armed with grenades and flown by suicide pilots, made an "attack landing on the north and central airfields of Okinawa the night of May 24 and inflicted huge losses on the enemy."

Admiral Nimitz's communiqué today reported that only one of five planes attempting belly landings on the Yontan airfield reached the airstrip. The Giretsu men all were killed as they spilled out of the plane.

The General Has His Way, But Pfc. Has Own Ideas

With the 38th Division on Luzon (AP)—One of Gen. Walter Krueger's strong aversions is against the common misuse of the term "shrapnel" for shell or bomb fragments.

As he stopped at a medical clearing station on a visit to this "Avengers of Bataan" Division, the four-star general of the 6th Army asked a young soldier how he hurt his wrist.

"Shrapnel, Sir"

"I got hit with a piece of shrapnel, sir," replied Pfc. Casimir Kryston, of Newark, N.J.

"You mean a shell fragment, don't you?"

"No, sir; this was a piece of shrapnel."

"Did you see it? Was it a jagged piece of metal?"

"Yes, sir," the doughboy replied.

"Then it was a shell fragment," the General insisted. "They haven't used shrapnel in twenty years."

"They did on me, General."

More Explaining

"No, they didn't. Shrapnel are small round pieces of metal. They haven't been used since the first World War. Now, what was it that hit you?"

With serious expression, and yielding only under protest, Kryston answered: "A shell fragment, sir, but it sure felt like shrapnel."

JAP OVERLAND ROUTE PERILED

Chinese Rolling Ahead Toward Buffer City Of Ishan

Chungking, May 25 (AP)—The Chinese counteroffensive in the south rolled ahead today toward the buffer city of Ishan, only 43 miles from Liuchow, which is a keystone to Japan's overland route to Indo-China.

An army spokesman said the Chinese drive was no more than 7 miles from Ishan after a 23-mile gain that overwhelmed Hwaiyuanchen, on the Kwangsi-Kweichow railway 50 miles northwest of the rail lines and airbase of Liuchow.

Japs Reforming Divisions

Back of these bending enemy lines in Kwangsi province the Chinese said the Japanese were reforming their 54th and 80th divisions, which were badly mauled in the lost Battle of Burma.

The ultimate objective of an all-out drive against the Indo-China corridor would be to cut off such forces along with other enemy troops in the south to prevent their moving north for the climactic battles of China.

Already by Chinese reports the Japanese were shifting their forces in the north for such an eventuality.

Japs Land Fresh Troops

The spokesman said that in the last month the Japanese withdrew three divisions from their western positions and moved them either to Manchuria to help meet a "possible emergency" or to strengthen their defenses on the east coast against a United States invasion.

"There is a possibility this withdrawal is being continued," he said.

The Chinese high command reported yesterday that the Japanese had landed fresh troops from warships north of Foochow in one of the areas where the enemy fears an American invasion armada may sweep in from the sea.

Shanghai Defense Stronger

Chinese forces who recaptured Foochow last were reported fighting about 30 miles northeast of the old treaty port and herding the Japanese from their fortified seaboard positions.

The spokesman repeated previous assertions that the Japanese might be withdrawing garrisons from such ports as Amoy and Swatow, south of Foochow, and Wenchow, north of Foochow, for the defense of such strategic ports as Canton and Shanghai.

He said that the defenses of Shanghai and Canton, greatest of the ports on the east and south coasts, respectively, were being constantly strengthened.

Chinese Capture Kwangsi Town

Chungking, May 25 (AP)—Chinese troops sweeping down the Kweichow-Kwangsi railroad last night captured Hwaiyuanchen, important Kwangsi strongpoint, 50 miles northwest of Liuchow, a Chinese Army spokesman announced today.

The Japanese have been reported by the Chinese high command to be falling back toward Ishan, 43 miles northwest of Liuchow. The Chinese drive evidently was aimed at Liuchow itself, a former American air base in Kwangsi which now is a strategic railroad junction strongpoint along the enemy lifeline corridor between Manchuria and Indo-China.

Preceded By 23-Mile Gain

Capture of Hwaiyuanchen was effected after a 23-mile gain from Szengen (Szeenhsien), which the Chinese reported earlier to have been encircled.

MAY 26 1945

On the East China coast the Japanese, swept from positions which they had fortified against possible American landings, have hurled fresh troops into an attempt to stem their own retreat northeast of Chinese-held Foochow.

Reinforcements Landed

A special Chinese communiqué said last night that warship-borne enemy troops were rushed into the sector where the Japanese have fallen back to a point near Loyuan, 31 miles northeast of Foochow. Landings were made Tuesday north of Loyuan, from "several warships," but the enemy was being checked with the aid of local militia, the Chinese said.

The Chinese were reported advancing close to Loyuan, after driving 9½ miles beyond captured Lienkong, 20 miles northeast of Foochow. Meanwhile, other Chinese bolstered their positions in the Foochow area and mopped up enemy remnants on the north bank of the Min River, the treaty port's outlet to the sea.

Troop Shifts Reported

The army spokesman said that during the past month the Japanese had replaced three veteran divisions in their west wall in China, moving them either to Manchuria to help meet a "possible emergency" or to strengthen major garrison points on the coast against an American invasion.

"There is a possibility," he said, "that this withdrawal is being continued."

Other Possible Withdrawals

The Japanese also may be withdrawing from isolated pockets on China's east coast—such as Swatow, Amoy and Wenchow—and moving to such cities as Shanghai or Canton, where defenses continually are being strengthened.

There has been virtually no reduction in the strength of forces manning the hinterland bulwark of the enemy's defenses, the spokesman said, He said the badly mauled enemy 18th and 54th divisions had been transferred from Burma by way of Indo-China into Kwangsi, where they are being reformed.

British Find Japs Deserted Bassein

Calcutta, May 25 (AP)—British troops taken by boat up the Bassein River, in southern Burma, found the inland port city of Bassein deserted by the Japanese, a southeast Asia communiqué said today.

The Japanese destroyed the main jetties but the small jetties were in fair condition in the city, which had a peacetime population of approximately 46,000 and is an important seat for the rice trade. The port is about 88 miles west of captured Rangoon and about 65 miles from the mouth of the Bassein River.

In central Burma the Japanese were maintaining a bridgehead west of the Irrawaddy at Kama, 22 miles southwest of Thyetmyo, but were trying to withdraw to the east.

A broadcast Domei dispatch recorded by the Federal Communications Commission said that Subhas Chandra Bose, Indian renegade leader of the Japanese-sponsored "provisional government of Free India," had arrived in the Thailand capital of Bankok with his staff. He was last reported by Tokyo to be working with Japanese occupation troops trying to stem the Allied advance in Burma.

British Occupy Burmese Inland Port

Calcutta, May 25 (AP)—British 14th Army troops have occupied the inland port of Bassein in southern Burma without opposition, the Southeast Asia Command announced today.

Bassein is about 88 miles west of Rangoon and about 65 miles from the mouth of the Bassein River. Forces occupying the port found the main jetties had been destroyed by the Japanese.

Holding Irrawaddy Bridgehead

In central Burma, the announcement said, the Japanese still were maintaining a bridgehead west of the Irrawaddy River at Ka Ma, 22 miles southwest of Thayetmyo, but were attempting to get their troops across and withdraw to the eastward.

Allied air operations were again restricted by bad weather.

Refugees Keep Up With U.S. War Role

CAIRO (AP) Refugees returning to their Greek and Yugoslav homes from desert camps in the middle east, where they have been sheltered from the war for periods up to three years, have kept up with America's part in the war with a special service by the Office of War Information's Cairo bureau.

The refugees were assembled in the middle east camps from widely scattered points in their homelands and they will scatter as widely when they return. Besides the refugees, Yugoslav and Greek troops also receive a regular service from the OWI.

In one month recently Yugoslav and Greek camps and troops received 5,000 booklets in Croat, Slovene, Serbian and Greek, 700 news pictures, two large exhibition pictures for each large camp depicting life in the United States and the American contribution to the war, daily OWI morning and evening news releases and science news letters, over 1,000 U. S. commercial publications, 1,600 U. S. Army news maps, translated into Greek and Yugoslav, and a large amount of educational material and cultural films.

Besides that the camps have their own OWI film circuit featuring newsreels, Army features and OWI shorts.

San Francisco, May 25 (A. P.).—An unconfirmed Japanese communique claimed today that airborne Nipponese troops "daringly landed" on two American-held airfields on Okinawa last night and blasted grounded aircraft, munitions depots and airfield installations in rapid succession.

Tokyo Reports Another Raid

San Francisco, May 25 (AP)—Mustang fighters from Iwo Jima and a "small number" of Superfortresses raided the Tokyo-Yokohama district of Japan for nearly an hour at midday today, the Japanese Domei news agency reported.

Two B-29 mine-laying expeditions were also reported by Domei in dispatches intercepted here.

About ten Superforts were said to have bombed the adjacent tips of Kyushu and Honshu islands and laid mines in Kanmon Strait, which separates them and forms the western entrance to the Inland Sea. Twenty others sowed mines in Toyama Bay on the west coast of Honshu, almost due west of Tokyo.

About 60 P-51 fighters in today's raid struck "formations of about 30 planes each." Domei made the usual assertion that "practically no damage was done."

YANK INVASION OF RYUKYU ISLE FEARED BY JAPS

SAN FRANCISCO, May 25—(AP) Tokyo talked obliquely of "peace proposals" today, worried over a possible new American invasion and declared there was no reason for Russia to war on Japan.

A London-recorded broadcast from Tokyo said that if Nippon should seek peace "it would be possible" that the proposals would be made "through Russia." The commentator insisted, however, that the peace "rumors" originated in the United States and England, indicating the Allies were tired of war.

Another broadcast, recorded by the Federal Communications Commission, said only Anglo-American "trickery" could involve the Soviet Union in war with Japan. There is no reason, this emission said, for Russia "to throw away" reconstruction opportunities and engage in such a war.

Tokyo radio predicted that American troops soon would attempt to invade the Ryukyu island of Amami, 125 miles north of Okinawa and only 200 miles from Nippon's mainland.

A Japanese communique declared that Japanese air-borne troops had been dropped on two American-held airfields on Okinawa Thursday night and had caused much damage and confusion. There was no American confirmation.

Domei News agency said that during Thursday's record B-29 raid the palaces of three Japanese princes had been destroyed or damaged.

The Tokyo municipal government, in a domestic broadcast, pledged free hospital treatment and "free ration cards" to air raid victims. Bombed-out residents of the city were instructed to apply for monetary relief grants.

Jap Sees Amami Landing Attempt

San Francisco, May 25 (AP)—A Tokyo radio commentator today predicted American troops would soon attempt to land on Amami Island, in the northern Ryukyu chain, some 200 miles south of Japan.

In a broadcast, recorded here, Hiroshi Kawasaki said the "enemy has to open up a second front some place and thus secure bases from which he can check our offensive on Okinawa and, at the same time, sever the rear lines of our air power.

"Second Front" Try

"The enemy is attempting to make Amami the second front in the Okinawa area.

"We must smash this new enemy offensive before he can get started."

Kawasaki admitted that Japanese suicide tactics were not strong enough to check the ability of Americans to reinforce the United States fleet around Okinawa.

TELLS HOW JAPS WOULD SEEK PEACE

San Francisco, May 25 (A. P.).—A Tokyo broadcast declared today there was "no reason" for Russia to "engage in war with Japan" and also said that if Japan should desire peace with Britain and the United States her proposals possibly would be made through the U. S. S. R.

The broadcast, recorded by the FCC, asserted that although "Britain and America are doing all they can to drag Russia in, Russia needs to reconstruct first of all and there is no reason for her to throw away this opportunity" by engaging in war with Japan.

The suggestion that peace proposals might be made through Russia was contained in a Tokyo broadcast recorded in London.

The broadcast insisted, however, that "the war is only now starting."

"Others have suggested that Japan intends to propose peace to the Anglo-Americans through Russia," it said. "Russia and Japan are neutral with each other, and therefore if Japan should desire peace it would be possible that Japan would make proposals through Russia. We do not deny this fact.

DESTROYER LITTLE LOST OFF OKINAWA

Navy Also Reports as Sunk in Area Minesweeper Swallow, LSM's 195, 190, LST 447

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP)—The destroyer Little and four other small craft have been lost in the Okinawa area from enemy action, the Navy announced today.

The small craft lost were the LSM 190, the LSM 195, the fleet minesweeper Swallow and the LST 447.

Casualties were described as moderate and next of kin of all casualties have been notified.

The losses brought to 310 the total naval vessels of all types lost since the beginning of the war.

The normal complement of the Little was about 200 officers and men, of the LSM's, about forty each, of the Swallow about seventy-five and of the LST 447 about ninety.

The 2,050-ton Little was under command of Comdr. Madison Hall Jr. of Ruston, La., who went aboard her as skipper when she was commissioned on Aug. 19, 1944.

The skipper of the Swallow was Lieut. Commdr. Whitefield F. Kimball, of Newburyport, Mass.

hTe skipper of the LSM 195 was Lieut. William E. Woodson Jr., of Liberty, S. C.; of the LSM 190, Lieut. Richard H. Saunders, of Montezuma, Ga., and of the LST 447, Lieut. Paul J. Schmitz, of Willmar, Minn.

Commanders Believed Safe

The Navy recorded no casualty status for any of the five commanding officers, and all were therefore presumed safe.

The Swallow was built by the American Shipbuilding Company of Cleveland, Ohio, and was commissioned Jan. 14, 1943. She displaced 890 tons.

The Little was built by the Seattle-Tacoma Shipbuilding Corporation, Seattle, Wash., and was the second destroyer to bear the name. Loss of the first, in the Solomon Islands area, was announced Sept. 24, 1942.

The LSM 195 was built at the Charleston, S. C., Navy Yard and commissioned Nov. 24, 1944. She displaced 605 tons. The LSM 190 was built at the Charleston, S. C., Navy Yard and commissioned Nov. 21, 1944. She displaced 700 tons.

The LST 447 was built by the Kaiser Company, Inc., of Vancouver, Wash., and commissioned Dec. 13, 1942. She displaced 1,490 tons.

The destroyer Little had previously participated in the bombardment of Iwo Island, acting as part of the screening force in that operation. The Swallow took part in the landings on Guam as a unit of the transport screen, and was engaged in mine-sweeping operations at Okinawa.

Five Men of LST 447 Missing

Loss of the LST 447, her skipper told a news conference, cost five men listed as missing and seventeen severely injured. None was known killed.

The skipper, Lieutenant Schmitz, said his vessel was hit by bombs after it had completed its mission landing equipment on the beach and was proceeding to an anchorage to fuel destroyers.

The attacking plane, he said, was "taken care of" by the ship.

His ship was one of the oldest LST's in Pacific service. It saw its first operation at Woodlark Island in the Coral Sea action. Subsequently it participated in actions in Vella la Vella, New Georgia, Treasury Island, Bougainville, Green Island, Hallandia, Guam and Tinian.

HOME FOOD SUPPLY DIVISION CREATED

Washington, May 25 (A. P.).—President Truman announced today the creation of a home food supply division in the War Food Administration.

The division will co-ordinate the work of Government agencies affecting the food supply "produced or conserved in the home." Marvin Jones, War Food Administrator, designated Paul C. Stark of Louisiana, Mo., to direct the new office.

"The co-ordination of activities of the various Government agencies affecting the food supply produced or conserved in the home is the object of this new position in the WFA," said a White House statement. It added:

"The need for maximum effort in home food production and conservation is emphasized by the severe damage to food crops, especially vegetables and fruits, resulting from extremely unfavorable weather of recent weeks. Excessive and continued rains have also seriously delayed planting and growth of garden and farm crops."

The President urged that all citizens try to enlarge food production by increasing the size of their victory gardens.

"Home preservation of food this year, in his opinion," the statement said, "is just as important as production, in view of the increased war requirements for commercially processed foods."

Stark has been vice-chairman of the National Garden Advisory Committee named by the Secretary of Agriculture. He also has served as president of the National Victory Garden Institute which mobilized industry in the victory garden effort.

IWO FLAG SURVIVOR GOES BACK AGAIN

Washington, May 25 (A. P.).—An American Indian, one of the three survivors of the historic flag raising on Iwo Jima, is being returned to overseas duty—at his own request.

He is Marine Pfc. Ira H. (Chief) Hayes, 22 years old, of Bapchule, Ariz. He is the second from the left, with rifle slung over shoulders, in the noted photo by Joe Rosenthal of the Associated Press.

Hayes, who already has served two tours of duty overseas, didn't want to leave his outfit, the Twenty-eighth Regiment. For that reason he was reluctant to acknowledge his role in the flag raising when questioned in the field.

But he and the other two survivors were brought home by order of the late President Roosevelt to open the Seventh War Loan drive. Three others in the group were killed on Iwo Jima.

The survivors were honored by President Truman and the United States Senate. They were photographed and written about and were cheered by thousands at bond rallies.

But Hayes was unhappy.

A Treasury official quoted him as saying that he realizes the importance of selling War Bonds but he just isn't cut out for that kind of job.

CHIEF OF STAFF PRAISES M'NAIR

Gen. Marshall Says Infantry's Task Was Monumental.

Washington, May 25 (A. P.).—Gen. George C. Marshall said today that the job of building an efficient ground army had been hampered before the war by many who thought the day of infantry had passed. They thought, he said, that tanks and planes alone would win wars.

The Chief of Staff spoke at Army War College ceremonies in accepting for the Army a memorial plaque dedicated to Lieut.-Gen. Lesley J. McNair, former ground force chief who was killed in Normandy last summer.

Recalling that Gen. McNair was given the "monumental" assignment of forming an army at the time the Germans were sweeping across Europe, Gen. Marshall said in his prepared address:

"His task was made more difficult by the many of that period who thought and proclaimed that the day of the ground army and especially of the infantry had passed, that war would be won by tanks and planes alone."

History, however, Gen. Marshall said, already has "placed the seal of approval on Gen. McNair's achievement."

"Since the tragedy of Bataan and Corregidor, our armies have never suffered a serious defeat," he said, adding that "credit for much of our successes in battle may be placed squarely on the type of training which our units have received."

The aggressive spirit which Gen. McNair instilled into the Army was "the driving force of his own character."

"He knew," the Chief of Staff added, "that the only way to win wars was to crush large forces of the enemy in the shortest possible time. He trained his men to this point of view."

Gen. McNair was named Chief of Staff of General Headquarters in July, 1940, to train the expanding United States Army and in March, 1942, became the first commanding general of the ground forces.

The bronze memorial plaque carries this legend:

"To commemorate the quiet thoroughness of this outstanding soldier."

CALLS WICKARD UNFIT FOR REA

Senator Shipstead Says He Is Poor Administrator.

Washington, May 25 (A. P.).—Senator Shipstead (R.-Minn.) contended today that Claude R. Wickard is "unfit" to be Rural Electrification Administrator. His confirmation in the office for which he was nominated by President Truman Wednesday, Mr. Shipstead said, "would perpetuate the hopeless political muddle that exists in REA today."

He declared in a statement that as Secretary of Agriculture Mr. Wickard had been "stripped of practically all his functions because he was a bad administrator." "By the same token he is unfit to be administrator of REA," he added.

"The nomination of Secretary Wickard for REA administrator is a complete shock to nearly all REA systems who have been struggling to remove REA from the political domination of Secretary Wickard in the Department of Agriculture. As a one-year Senate investigation of REA discloses, under Mr. Wickard's regime, REA has become a political football. His confirmation as administrator of REA would perpetuate the hopeless political muddle that exists in REA today.

"Under that regime Mr. Wickard appointed William J. Neal as acting administrator of the REA. The Senate documentary evidence all reveals Mr. Neal was the former president of the worst managed of all REA cooperatives in this country. Mr. Neal's former system is $180,000 in the red in operations. This is the kind of political administration Mr. Wickard has in REA today and which will continue under Mr. Wickard if he is approved.

Senate, House Deadlocked On Tax Free Allowance

WASHINGTON, May 25—(AP) Senate and House were tightly deadlocked tonight on whether members should get a $2,500 annual tax-free expense allowance.

Two House members stalked out of an informal conference with senators on the matter, standing on the dignity of the House as an independent body whose expenditures should be no concern of the Senate.

Spirited debate in the Senate yesterday developed much opposition to the expense allowance plan, originated in the House for its own members and paralleled by a similar provision for senators written by the Senate Appropriations committee.

Senators Overton (D-La.) and Bridges (R-N.H.) tried to talk over things with Representatives O'Neal (D-Ky.) and Poeser (R-Mo.). The meeting was very brief.

The representatives were reported to have told the senators that the House had been running its own fiscal affairs for 150 years and proposed to continue to do so. They scorned suggestions for a compromise.

The senators were undecided on their next move. The trend of yesterday's debate left no doubt that the Senate would not approve a tax-free expense account, although a majority of the members who expressed themselves conceded the desirability of a higher income.

On another troubled food front OPA Administrator Chester Bowles reported growing success against the meat black market with a recent increase in his investigating staff.

Mr. Truman announced that Stark's office will coordinate the work of all government agencies concerned with the food supply "produced or conserved in the home."

"The need for maximum effort in home food production and conservation," the statement said, "is emphasized by the severe damage to food crops, especially vegetables and fruits resulting from extremely unfavorable weather of recent weeks."

While urging more and bigger victory gardens, the White House statement added the President's opinion that home preserving this year "is just as important as production, in view of the increased war requirements for commercially processed food."

Stark, whose assignment was announced by Marvin Jones, war food administrator, has been vice chairman of the National Garden Advisory committee set up by the secretary of agriculture. He was president of the National Victory Garden Institute which enlisted industry's aid in the victory garden campaign.

President Boosts Campaign For Home Growing, Preserving

WASHINGTON, May 25—(AP) President Truman laid new stress on the ever-tightening food shortage today by giving White House backing to an intensified campaign for home growing and preserving.

A special division for home food supply, headed by Paul C. Stark of Louisiana, Mo., was set up in the war food administration.

The White House announcement, which urged citizens to increase their victory garden efforts and called preserving "as important as production," came just after a congressional food investigator had reported plans for a deep cut in industrial sugar supplies.

The report on OPA plans for sugar came from a congressman interested in food inquiries, who asked not to be identified by name. He said the industrial supply might be cut to half that of 1944, or less, for the third quarter of this year beginning July 1. He said he did not know whether the cut would extend to household sugar.

Industrial users now are getting 80 per cent of their 1941 use. The congressman said OPA plans call for a cut to 40 per cent, with some indications that the figure might be 30.

At the Office of Price Administration, however, officials said no decision has been made yet, because OPA is waiting to learn from WFA how much sugar there will be for civilians. At WFA, in turn, it was said that agency is waiting for information on overseas allotments, from the inter-agency committee headed by Leo. T. Crowley, foreign economic administrator.

Senator Murray (D-Mont.), meanwhile wrote to Rep. Clinton P. Anderson (D-N.M.), secretary of agriculture-designate, asserting that many small business establishments may be forced to close unless the sugar distribution system is improved. He requested postponement of July 1 allotments and re-examination of supplies, asserting that the threatened shortage results from "gross mismanagement."

Murray is chairman of the small business committee of the Senate, and Anderson heads the House food investigating committee.

PLANE OUTPUT CUT, EXCEPTING SUPERFORTS

Army Air Forces Eliminate 17,000 Aircraft—May Save $4,000,000,000

Washington, May 25 (AP)—The Army Air Forces cut plane production back tonight to a one-front war basis, eliminating an estimated 17,000 aircraft planned for the next eighteen months.

Renewed emphasis, however, was placed on construction of the B-29 Superfortress at the expense of other very heavy types. The B-29, which now is hammering Japan almost daily, will continue to come off production lines in great numbers, though even production of that giant will be leveled off. Construction of the B-32, not yet reported in combat, will be ended this month at San Diego and this year at Fort Worth.

The B-32, like the B-29, a "very heavy bombardment" type of aircraft, is comparable in size to the giant Superfortress. Details of its appearance, performance or production have not been disclosed.

To Cut Shorter-Range Craft

Shorter-range aircraft not considered suitable for vast Pacific distances, even including the B-17 Flying Fortress, will be cut heavily.

The Army gave no figures on the financial saving, but other Government production sources guessed more than $4,000,000,000 was involved in plane cutbacks since V-E day.

Combined with a previous aircraft reduction ordered April 18, these sources said the cut amounted to at least 30 per cent on an annual basis. Yearly outlays for aircraft have been running about $15,000,000,000. Applying the 30 per cent to this would give a figure of $4,500,000,000.

May Affect 200,000 Workers

Detailed manpower figures were lacking, but War Manpower Commission officials estimated that the cuts would take something like 200,000 workers off aircraft plant pay rolls by the end of the year in a dozen cities. The number was called purely an estimate on the basis of incomplete information.

Both army and production sources emphasized that most of the cuts are on a tapered basis, so that layoffs will be more or less gradual.

One effect of the reduction in plane output will be the release of vast quantities of aluminum, which presumably can go into civilian goods. Another item will be considerable amounts of high-grade steel no longer needed for aircraft. One production source said the release of steel might run to 50,000 tons in the last half of this year.

Due To Victory In Europe

The War Department said the cutback "was made possible by the end of the war in Europe, and curtailment of lend-lease."

The reduction, Army Air Forces said, affects "most of the nation's leading aircraft producers in various sections of the country."

The cutbacks were approved by the production readjustment committee of the War Production Board and manufacturers were notified of the downward revision in schedules.

On the basis of the weight of airplanes, total production during the second half of 1945 will be 70 per cent of the total weight produced in the first six months of the year.

Production in the first half of 1946 wi[illegible]op to 60 per cent and in the s[illegible] half to 55 per cent.

[illegible]cipal Revisions

Here is how the AAF described the principal production revisions:

BOEING B-29—Production will increase for several months and will be sustained substantially above the present rate of output. Some increases previously scheduled in late 1945 are eliminated. However, it is planned to have each plant assembling B29's incorporate engineering changes necessary to modify completely each bomber during production. By permitting each plant to do this "the net effect on employment at B-29 plants will be negligible."

CONSOLIDATED B-32—Production at the Fort Worth Consolidated plant will be leveled off at the current rate for the remainder of 1945 and will terminate at the end of the year. At the San Diego Consolidated plant production will end with this month's output.

DOUGLAS A-26—Production at the Douglas Long Beach plant will continue at approximately the present level. At the Tulsa (Okla.) plant production will taper off and terminate by January 1, 1946.

To Continue Trainer Type

BELL P-63—Two types of this plane are produced at the Buffalo (N.Y.) plant, one the regular fighter and the other a plane used in training gunners who fire at it with frangible bullets. Production of the regular fighter will be cut substantially by July and eliminated by September 1. Production of the trainer type will continue virtually unchanged for the remainder of this year and on a reduced schedule through the first half of next year.

DOUGLAS C-47—Production of this cargo plane at Oklahoma City will taper gradually until December and continue during 1946 at a rate approximately half that originally scheduled.

BEECH C-45—The production of this plane, made at Wichita, Kan., will continue with little change until fall, when the output will start tapering and continue into 1946 at approximately half the scheduled rate.

To End Output In June

CURTISS C-46—Production at the Louisville (Ky.) plant will end with the June output, as previously announced. The St. Louis plant, which formerly produced parts and recently went into final production, will terminate final production after June deliveries and resume output of parts only. After June the C-46 will be produced only at the Buffalo plant, where the output will continue unchanged through June, decline in July and August and level off at approximately two thirds of the current scheduled rate.

BOEING B-17—The Flying Fortress now is produced at the Douglas plant at Long Beach and Lockheed plant at Burbank, Cal. Production at the Douglas plant, where a 50 per cent cutback already had been planned, will be tapered further and stabilized by August at approximately one-quarter the current rate. Lockheed, with heavy commitments on its program for P-80 jet-propelled planes, will halt B-17 production in August.

LOCKHEED P-80—Production will continue unchanged at the Lockheed Burbank plant. North American had planned production on the P-80 late in 1945 at its Kansas City plant but this production has been canceled.

Engine Production Cuts Next

LOCKHEED P-38—Production of this plane originally had been scheduled to end by 1946, but under the revised schedule Lockhe[illegible] will taper production to end by November. Consolidated, at its Nashville (Tenn.) plant, will terminate production after June.

The AAF also disclosed that cutbacks in propeller and engine production are in the offing, saying that revised schedules affecting such production now are being prepared and "will be announced at an early date."

The announcement said that "for some time it had been the planned policy of the AAF to put into effect immediately upon V-E day all possible cutbacks. It had been further planned to make an immediate post-V-E day recapitulation utilizing actual rather than estimated data, for possible further reductions. With completion of that computation the additional cutbacks were found to be justified."

General Arnold To Producers

Gen. H. H. Arnold, chief of Army Air Forces, told aircraft manufacturers and employés:

"Working with your Government, you produced aircraft of high qualities in great quantities. You furnished the planes we asked for when we asked for them. And you well know the vital part those planes played in winning the war in Europe.

"Now, tactical and strategic requirements are changed. Our attrition rate in Europe decreased as the Luftwaffe was destroyed, so many of the planes that fought in Europe will fight again against the Japanese.

To Make Only What Is Needed

"We do not propose to ask for more aircraft than are necessary for successful prosecution of the war. We are, therefore, cutting back production where possible consistent with our goal of winning the war as quickly as possible with a minimum loss of life."

The last previous cutback in plane production was announced on April 18 when the AAF reported over-all aircraft production would be reduced about fifteen per cent, measured in airframe weight. This production included B-17, B-24 and P-38 production. Airframes are planes less engines and certain other parts.

In Congress

Washington, May 25 (AP)—A hot protest by a congressional leader started a War Department review tonight of a two-year sentence imposed on a soldier accused of punching or kicking nine German prisoners of war.

Representative McCormick (D., Mass.), House majority leader, termed the sentence meted out to Private Joseph McGee, of Worcester, Mass., "ridiculous" in view of the treatment the Nazis accorded their prisoners. He demanded that the office of the Judge Advocate General look into the case, and a prompt review was ordered.

"Socked" Loafing Germans

McCormack said McGee was convicted by a court-martial at Le Mans, France, on October 17, 1944. At Worcester, Alderman James D. O'Brien said McGee was reported to have "socked" the German prisoners when they refused to work.

The alderman is a member of the Worcester YD (Yankee Division) Veterans Association, which relayed to McCormack a protest by the soldier's family.

A YD official said the protest was based on a transcript of the court-martial proceedings sent by McGee to his family. On receiving a copy of the transcript, Representative McCormack wrote to Maj. Gen. M. C. Cramer, judge advocate general, asking for "exoneration of this soldier and his immediate restoration to duty."

No Serious Injuries

Quoting from the transcript, he wrote:

"In relation to the charges it is stated: 'It is not the contention of the prosecution that the alleged assaults and batteries on nine different prisoners of war were serious injuries. The prosecution does not contend that medical treatment was given these nine different prisoners of war.

"'However, it is the contention of the prosecution that at nine different times, the accused struck nine different prisoners of war, involving no serious injuries. The prosecution contends that the nine different acts were in violation of the rules of the Geneva Convention.'"

Geneva Convention Clause

The portion of the Geneva Convention which the prosecution referred to was quoted in the transcript as follows:

"They (prisoners of war) must at all times be treated with humanity and protected, particularly

"Another illustration of the bad administration of Secretary Wickard in REA today is that in the Senate hearings, the present acting chief of one of the most important divisions in REA was alleged to have forced the sale of certain materials to REA systems, and was alleged to have changed plans and specifications.

"Under Mr. Wickard's bad administration in REA, the cost of legal services today is more, when REA is only building 16,000 miles of line a year, than previously when REA built over 118,000 miles of line a year.

"Under Mr. Wickard's bad administration in REA, at a time when veterans and faithful civil service employees were discharged, one employee, whose services can easily be dispensed with, receives $50 a day. Although he spends only one or two days a year in Washington, and all of the rest of his time while working in St. Louis, his headquarters are nevertheless listed as Washington."

FIRST ARMY TO RETRAIN IN SOUTH CAROLINA

WASHINGTON, May 25.—(AP) Fort Jackson, South Carolina, will be the base for retraining the First Army for Pacific operations, the War department said today. The First Army, commanded by Gen. Courtney H. Hodges, is now returning from Europe.

The establishment, one of the larger camps in the country, was a national guard camp until shortly before the war when the government took it over and established it for infantry training.

20th Shooting Attempt On Jap-American Fails

Washington, May 25 (AP)—Secretary of Interior Ickes reported today the twentieth shooting attempt since January 2 on the homes of relocated Japanse-Americans on the West Coast.

Last night, he said, two shots were fired shoulder high from an automobile into the home of Kauby Minura, 30, near Orosi, Tulare county, California.

Minura, his wife and 5-year-old son and three other relatives were in the house. None was injured.

Ickes said it was the second such shooting in Tulare county.

Admiral I. H. Mayfield On Chile Naval Mission

Washington, May 25 (AP)—Rear Admiral Irving H. Mayfield has been named head of the newly authorized naval mission to Chile, the Navy announced today.

Others assigned to the mission include:

Capt. Oberlin C. Laird, Savannah, Ga.; Capt. Charles R. Watts, Arlington, Va., and Commander Porter F. Bedell, Coronado, Cal.

BLIND LIEUTENANT VISITS PRESIDENT

Washington, May 25 (A. P.).—Lieut. Hiram Shumway of Lovell, Wyo., blinded in the Normandy campaign, visited President Truman today.

"He certainly is a friendly man," the lieutenant said as he left the White House. "He puts you right at ease."

Lieut. Shumway emerged from the conference wearing a red carnation which the President had placed in his coat lapel. He said he would keep it as a souvenir of the occasion.

Lieut. Shumway was accompanied by Senator O'Mahoney (D.-Wyo.), Lieut. Harry O. Anderson, chaplain, and Lieut. James C. Whittaker of Oakland, Cal Lieut. Anderson, one-time pastor of the Grand View, Mo., Baptist church where President Truman's parents were members, is president of the United States Christian Commission, organized to serve blind veterans.

The group discussed plans for rehabilitation of blinded soldiers for twenty minutes with the President.

Lieut. Shumway, who lost his sight two months after participating in the D day invasion, is a patient in Dibble General Hospital at Menlo Park, Cal.

Reorganization Delay Urged By Taft

Washington, May 25 (AP)—Senator Taft (R., Ohio) hoisted a go-slow signal today on President Truman's request for greater authority to reorganize Government agencies.

"The first War Powers Act (under which the President is empowered to reshuffle Federal offices dealing with the war) will not expire until six months after the end of the war with Japan, Taft told newsmen. "So I see no hurry about considering a new reorganization bill."

Mr. Truman, in a message to Congress yesterday asking that his present authority be broadened and made permanent, said such action is necessary to increase the efficiency of the executive branch.

Democrats Favorable

Senator Murdock (D., Utah) said he was in "full agreement" with the President, and Senator McClellan (D., Ark.) told reporters, "I will support legislation to carry out his request."

Taft, however, added: "I believe Congress should pass a law reorganizing the Government after the war. After that is done, I believe the President should be given limited powers to combine or eliminate or reorganize departments and bureaus."

BILL WOULD DRAFT DOCTORS, NURSES TO CARE FOR VETS

WASHINGTON, May 25—(AP) A war-time draft to provide medical personnel for the Veterans administration was called for in legislation introduced today by Representative Rankin (D-Miss.) after a conference with President Truman.

The chairman of the House Veterans committee told reporters the legislation, which he said, would enable the Veterans administration to improve its medical organization, had the backing "in principle" of Mr. Truman.

Details Not Discussed

Its details, he added, were not discussed at the conference with the President, which was attended also by Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, head of the Veterans administration. "It will untie the administration's hands in the selection of doctors and nurses and permit the payment of sufficient salaries to obtain the best available medical personnel to care for veterans," Rankin said. "It will permit the replacement of incompetent doctors with the type of medical personnel the veterans are entitled to."

Rankin said that one of the major obstacles that now faces the Veterans administration is the requirement that it obtain most of its medical personnel through the Civil Service commission.

By establishing a bureau of medicine and surgery within the Veterans administration and giving it status similar to that held by the Army and Navy Medical corps, the legislation would give the administration exclusive responsibility for its medical corps.

The bureau would include a medical corps, a dental corps, a nurse corps and an administrative corps under which would be dietitians, therapists and similar personnel.

At the head of the bureau would be a surgeon general and working with him would be five assistants paid from $9,000 to $12,000 annually.

By providing that the Veterans administration, in time of war, shall become a part of the nation's military forces, the legislation would permit the drafting of personnel for assignment to the administration. However, the draft would apply only to male personnel. Rep. Rogers (R-Mass.), who introduced a bill almost identical to Rankin's, explained that under the proposals women nurses could not be inducted unless there is a change in the Selective Service act, which applies only to males.

FRENCHMAN SEIZED AS SPY

Former Paris Air Force Officer Arrested In New York

Washington, May 25 (AP)—The FBI announced today the arrest of a 43-year-old former French air force officer on a charge of serving as a German agent.

The FBI identified the man as Paul Jean Marie Cavaillez.

He was arrested, the announcement said, in a fashionable New York hotel, where he has been living. The hotel was not otherwise identified.

Cavaillez's arrest, the FBI said, was made possible through the cooperation of the former trans-Atlantic flyer Dieudonne Costes, who was working with the Federal agents on the case.

Did Research In Washington

J. Edgar Hoover, FBI director, said that Cavaillez divided his operations between New York and Washington, and that he was in Washington as recently as March 27, where he did considerable research work in the Library of Congress.

He tried, according to the FBI, to gain access to various plants producing secret electronic devices for the Government.

The announcement asserted that Cavaillez planned to continue working for the German intelligence service even after Germany's fall.

The FBI said that Costes, who in 1930 flew from Paris to New York with Maurice Bellonte, joined the German intelligence service in 1942 under Nazi pressure.

Given Espionage Training

"He received extensive espionage training, including codes, secret writing and various other methods of transmitting information," the announcement related.

"Costes left France in September, 1942, and a month later made known his espionage role to the American authorities in Spain. He arrived in this country in June, 1943, by way of Buenos Aires, Argentina, where he remained for a considerable time.

"Before leaving France Costes was told by the Germans that Cavaillez would follow him. Cavaillez, an electrical engineer, helped establish and operate a clandestine radio in the German espionage headquarters in Paris.

Built Transmitters

"He also built three powerful transmitters for use in Berlin, and one of his assignments was to set up a radio station for the Germans in this country."

The announcement added that when Cavaillez arrived in the United States, docking in New Orleans on October 12, 1944, he got in touch with Costes, unaware that Costes then was working under FBI supervision.

The FBI said Cavaillez, having previously served in the French air force, managed to have himself reinstated as a lieutenant on November 30, 1944, but was demobilized the following February. He wore his French uniform around Washington while working for the Nazis, the announcement said.

Writes To Germans

"Shortly after his arrival in this country Cavaillez sent a postcard from New York to a German intelligence service address in neutral Europe," the announcement continued.

"It bore a plain-text code message. Other similar communications followed, at least one being mailed from Washington.

"Cavaillez purchased a powerful short-wave radio receiving set and acquired materials for construction of a transmitter. On one occasion he set up his receiver on an estate near Locust Valley, Long Island, N.Y., and attempted to get word from Hamburg, Germany."

Cavaillez was arraigned in New York late today before Federal Judge Francis G. Caffey, and held in $50,000 bail for a hearing June 4 before a United States commissioner. He was charged with violating wartime espionage statutes.

POINT SYSTEM FOR OBJECTORS

Army Plans To Discharge 10 Per Cent Of Group

Washington, May 25 (AP)—Selective service today announced a point discharge system which it said will release more than ten per cent of the conscientious objectors in work camps and other projects.

The agency estimated that about 900 of 8,368 men will be discharged over a year's time, beginning in August.

The plan, patterned after the Army's demobilization program, provides no arbitrary number of points that will automatically make a conscientious objector eligible for release. Officials explained that those having the highest number will be discharged during the first year.

Crediting Of Points

The points will be credited as follows:

One point for each month of service or fraction thereof; twelve points for each child born prior to midnight May 12, 1945; and three points for a wife provided the marriage occurred before midnight, May 12, 1945.

Selective service said no man will be eligible for release who has been assigned to a camp or other work project less than one year.

New Program Limitations

The new program does not apply to conscientious objectors in non-combat military service. These men must qualify for release under the Army's plan.

The program provides for consideration of conduct through a system of deductions from each objector's total number of credits. One point will be deducted for each day's absence without leave, also one point for each day of refusal to work.

Maj. Gen. Lewis B Hershey, selective service director, said that no conscientious objector will be considered for release while a case against him is pending before a law-enforcement agency. He stated also that the discharge of key men and those necessary to completion of projects will be delayed.

113 Camps

At present there are 113 camps and other projects to which conscientious objectors are assigned. Selective service said that distribution of release applications to objectors will begin in a few days.

There is no provision for between 3,500 and 4,000 men claiming to be conscientious objectors who have been convicted of draft-law violation and imprisoned.

against acts of violence, insults and public curiosity."

The transcript indicated that McGee did not testify in his own behalf at the court-martial. He pleaded innocent to all charges.

"It certainly seems to me," McCormack said, "that the evidence in the case justifies reconsideration and restoration of the soldier to duty. The evidence against this man came from—practically if not wholly—German people and certainly one cannot remove their testimony from the realm of prejudice."

"Insulting" To Germans

The transcript showed that the nine prisoners involved, three American Army men, and another German prisoner were witnesses at the court-martial.

In nearly all cases, when the Germans took the stand as witnesses, they were asked whether the alleged kicking or punching was "insulting" and they replied that it was.

The War Department, declining further comment, said McGee is confined at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind.

'Kid Got A Raw Deal,' McGee's Father Asserts

Worcester, Mass., May 25 (AP)—Joseph McGee was ready tonight to go the limit in battling a two-year sentence imposed upon his soldier-son on charges of punching or kicking nine German prisoners of war.

"Whatever they (the German prisoners) got," McGee said, "they got what was coming to them."

The veteran of World War I, a widower with two sons in the service, was pleased with the progress made by House Majority Leader McCormack in starting a War Department review of the case against his son, Private Joseph McGee.

Out To Clear Son's Record

The father said that, while he was pleased with the progress to date, his boy was not yet exonerated and that he would carry the protest to any limit necessary to clear the lad's record.

"The kid got a raw deal," he commented.

McGee said that he received a letter from his boy from Camp Upton, N.Y., saying that he was back in this country, but not on furlough.

About ten days later, McGee said, he first heard of the son's troubles when the boy sent him a transcript of the court-martial proceedings, which charged him with punching or kicking the German war prisoners and noted the two-year sentence.

Comments On Testimony

McGee said that he took a copy of the proceedings to a meeting of the Worcester YD Veterans' Association—he was with the Yankee Division in France in the first World War—and they drew up the protest.

Commenting on the testimony in the transcript, the father said that in one instance a German 300 yards away testified he saw the soldier hit a German prisoner of war, and he added:

"I wish I had that guy's eyesight."

McGee said that his son enlisted in 1939 within a few days of his eighteenth birthday and served in Panama for three years. The boy was sent to New Orleans at the end of that time, McGee said, and from there went with a military police outfit to France, where the alleged offense occurred and where the court-martial was held.

Moscow Launches Attack On Vatican

New York, May 25 (AP)—The Moscow radio said yesterday that Heinrich Bruening, German chancellor in 1930-32, was being proposed by "reactionary Catholic circles" as the postwar "re-educator of Germany."

The broadcast, reported by the Federal Communications Commission, declared Bruening was a "rabid militarist" and "sworn enemy of democracy."

Moscow asserted it was "reactionary Catholic circles which cleared the way for Hitler in 1932," and continued:

"It was Bruening's first Cabinet, formed in March, 1931, which introduced the so-called emergency laws that helped the German ruling clique to paralyze the democratic movement within the country on the very eve of the Fascist coup d'etat.

Treachery Charged

"On January 9, 1932, when the Germans were spending no small effort and means to arm Germany, Bruening made an official announcement of Germany's inability to pay off the reparations. One month later, on February 9, he addressed a treacherous declaration to the League of Nations stating that Germany was completely disarmed.

"A rabid militarist, active champion of the army of Germany by all and any means, the sworn enemy of democracy, a sly and treacherous hyprocrite, such is Bruening, whom the reactionary Catholic circles have now chosen as their hero."

Inside Germany, the broadcast added, "high-standing officials connected with the church are pro-Nazi."

No Word Of Responsibility

The course of the Vatican, "which is backing certain German Catholic circles, is of primary concern," Moscow declared. "In the Pope's Christmas message, in which he came out in defense of the rights of the conquered, that is, in defense of Hitler-Germany, the Vatican's pro-Germany activity showed a marked increase.

"Pope Pius, in calling for mercy and a more forgiving attitude, had not a word to say about the responsibility of those who had inundated the world with blood and carried out the most monstrous of crimes.

"Such a position on the part of the Vatican naturally determines the attitude of the numerous Catholic organizations scattered over the world."

Ex-Naval Reserve Officer Gets 9 Years For Spying

MAY 26 1945

New York, May 25 (AP)—Laurent H. J. Brackx, 51-year-old former United States Naval Reserve officer, who was convicted of wartime espionage and violation of the censorship code, was sentenced today to nine years' imprisonment by Federal Judge Mortimer W. Byers.

Assistant United States Attorney Richard J. Burke, who prosecuted Brackx, recommended that the court impose a 40-year sentence—30 years on the espionage count and ten years on the censorship count.

The court imposed nine years on the espionage conviction, and nine years on the censoship count, the sentences to run concurrently.

Resident Of Brooklyn

Brackx, who lives in Brooklyn, was accused of conspiring with Axis agents in Italy. The Government contended that he had told Commander Max Ponzo, chief of Italian naval intelligence, that he would try to get information about radar an dairplane construction when he returned to this country in 1941.

Brackx was convicted May 15.

Lectured By Judge

"Personally, I think you are very lucky," Judge Byers said in imposing sentence. "I think your heart was evil in 1940, 1941 and 1942, as far as the Uinted States was concerned. You were under a duty, holding a commission in the United States Naval Reserve, to report to your superior officer at once upon your arrival here in 1941 with respect to the engagements you entered into in Rome. I cannot believe your visits to Vienna were as innocent as you would have the jury believe.

"Apparently your commission had no real meaning to you."

At the three-week trial of Brackx, the Government charged the defendant with giving Carl Dold, second steward of the S.S. Excambion, now serving ten years for espionage, a map of the harbor installations at Tripoli.

Bard Urges Postwar Training

New York, May 25 (AP)—Ralph A. Bard, Under Secretary of the Navy, today urged the adoption of compulsory postwar military training as a guarantee to other nations that the United States will "never again retreat into isolationism."

Bard told the Citizens Committee for Military Training of Young Men, Inc.:

"The adoption of such a plan now will reassure other peace-loving nations that the United States proposes to co-operate with them in outlawing war and that this country will never again retreat into isolationism."

Asserting that "the need for universal military training is so urgent and so logical that it is difficult for many of us to understand why we have to 'sell' it," Bard said:

"Although one of the objectives of Dumbarton Oaks is to eliminate militarism as an instrument of national policy for all time, we must admit from sad experience that any world organization established to keep peace must be ready to use force—to be effective.

"The big powers must be able to muster a sufficient force at a moment's notice to counteract a threat of force from an aggressor nation. A paper threat is no threat at all. Those who want universal peace must use universal military training."

2,500 Seek Clipper Passage To Europe

New York, May 25 (AP)—Pan American World Airways said today it was checking a "waiting list" of 2,500 names to determine whether applicants now are eligible for Clipper trips to Europe.

U.S., Red Aims Don't Conflict, Says Wallace

New York, May 25 (AP)—Secretary of Commerce Henry A. Wallace, declaring that Russia and the United States have emerged as the two most powerful nations, says there is nothing "irreconcilable in our aims and purposes."

Those who proclaim otherwise, he said last night, "are wittingly or unwittingly looking for war, and that in my opinion is criminal."

Addressing the Institute of World Affairs at the new School for Social Research, Wallace said:

"Both the Russians and Americans in their different ways are groping for a way of life which will enable the common man everywhere in the world to get the most good out of modern technology."

Japs Order All Ships To Bases, Bern Says

New York, May 25 (AP)—The Bern radio said today:

"It is reported that all Japanese ships at sea have received the order to return to the Japanese bases as soon as possible. This leads to the conclusion that strong Allied forces are approaching the Japanese mainland."

CBS recorded the Swiss broadcast, which gave no source for this information, but added: "This assumption was confirmed by Radio Tokyo, which declared that an Allied large-scale attack against the Japanese islands is feared."

Hodges Is Eager For Jap Test

Atlanta, May 25 (AP)—Pacific-bound officers and men accompanying Gen. Courtney H. Hodges here from Paris "can't wait" to ply their experience against the Japanese.

The 1st American Army commander told thousands of cheering Atlantians on arrival yesterday that "this is wonderful, but it's just a pause for men of the 1st Army. There can be no real rest until we give the final blow to Japan."

"Learned Plenty From Nazis"

And Lieut. Gen. Walton H. Walker, of Belton, Texas, and Washington, D. C., a veteran of the first World War, says "we learned plenty fighting the Nazis. It'll be mighty useful against the Japs."

This veteran of 38 years in the Army who just relinquished command of the 20th Corps in General Patton's 3d Army, is looking forward "to fighting with Patton again in the Pacific."

But Walker won't go to the Pacific, at least for a while. Announcement was made yesterday at Dallas, Texas, that he had been named commanding general of the 8th Service Command there and would report for duty next month.

Seven Generals In Group

The military party, the first to bring back the commanding general of an army in the European theater, arrived in Atlanta early in the afternoon.

The 40 combat veterans, wearing service stripes and military honors, included seven generals, a number of other officers and 24 enlisted men, all of whom are eligible for discharge if they desire it.

Hodges leaves today for Washington for conferences pending his Pacific assignment.

Battered Vessel Home In Triumph

Seattle, May 25 (AP)—The Navy will back the battered little destroyer Laffey into the McCormick dock tomorrow and throw her open to public inspection for five days—an unprecedented action.

The hope is that out of the throngs who see her twisted guns and the gaping holes left by bombs and suicide-plane explosions will come some of the 10,000 workers urgently needed in Puget Sound ship repair yards.

The Laffey came home under her own power from Okinawa after suffering the worst that 22 Nipponese planes could throw at her. Thirty-one of her crew were killed or missing. Sixty more were injured. But her gunners shot down nine of the attacking planes.

Eight Planes Hit Laffey

Eight planes struck the Laffey, seven with suicidal intent, and one accidentally clipped the mast.

"Besides this," said her skipper, Commander Frederick J. Becton, Hot Springs, Ark., "we had been struck by four bombs, three on the fantail and one near the bridge."

And near the end of the 79 minutes of the hottest kind of action—with her steering gear out of commission and the ship running in a circle and two great plumes of smoke rising from the fires raging in her—the Laffey had but two of her three 5-inch-gun mounts which could shoot, only eight 40-millimeter barrels and only four 20-millimeter guns still operative.

Veteran From Normandy

One of the 5-inch guns' electric power had been severed but, operating it manually, the crew made a direct hit on a Jap fighter plane headed in on the starboard bow. The plane disintegrated. Immediately after the pointer and trainer of the other 5-inch mount smacked down a dive bomber 500 yards from the Laffey.

Rescue tugs came out after the Laffey and American airplanes had driven off the last of the Japanese, and she was towed to Okinawa the next day, after the fires and flooding had been brought under control.

The Laffey, namesake of an earlier Laffey lost at Guadalcanal, was transferred to the Pacific after supporting the Normandy invasion and the bombardment of Cherbourg.

JAP 'SUICIDE BOAT' IS SHOWN TO PRESS

SEATTLE, May 25—(AP) A Japanese "suicide speedboat," brought home by the suicide plane-battered destroyer Laffey, was shown the press by the Navy today.

The little craft, of cheap construction, still is capable of doing 30 to 40 knots, even after having been sunk, lifted, reconditioned and partly rebuilt. It was given the crew of the Laffey by the crew of an LST.

The speedboats were constructed in caves on an island near Okinawa and are able to approach in virtual silence through a system of running water in the exhaust.

"They're one-man affairs," said Chief Boatswain's Mate W. [illegible] Keyes, San Francisco, who is in charge of the Laffey's "souvenir." "They're fitted to be loaded with TNT, fore and aft, and exploded on contact."

STETTINIUS BACK, JUNE 6 IS HINTED AS PARLEY'S END

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

SAN FRANCISCO, May 25—(AP)

Secretary of State Stettinius returned to the United Nations conference today as it edged into its second month with enough progress on the books to let military experts talk of joint maneuvers of armed forces to be pooled in an international police force.

June 6 was being discussed as a tentative date for winding up the deliberations of 49 nations represented at the Golden Gate.

But still to be settled before a charter for a new international organization can be signed is a hot issue centering on big power domination of peace enforcing mechanism to be set up in a projected world security council, on veto authority over peaceful or forceful settlement of disputes.

For the most part, conference committees were moving along easily, drafting various segments of the charter so they can be fitted together next week.

U. S., Britain Frame Proposal

To clear the way for action in one committee considering the creation of a police force, Britain and the United States were reported framing a plan for joint maneuvers of the contingents to be supplied by the various countries.

Since these contingents presumably would be used as an integrated striking force, the Anglo-Americans had an idea they ought to get in some practice together. They are talking particularly of air squadrons, since the Dumbarton Oaks blueprint for a charter contemplates letting the security council use hard-hitting planes for "urgent military measures" against aggressors.

But land and sea forces may enter the picture. Australia has proposed that other forces than air power be employed for emergency action. The committee handling the problem delayed a vote on that to give Britain and the United States time to finish their discussions and submit them to Russia, China and France.

Stettinius Calls Conference

Back from consultations with President Truman in Washington, Stettinius immediately called a meeting of Big Five chiefs of delegations to go into methods of accelerating the conference.

The secretary noted that June 6 is the anniversary of the invasion of France. That produced suggestions that the date should be appropriate for completing and signing a charter for a new world league intended to prevent war in the future.

On the veto-voting controversy, diplomatic maneuvering in the next few days will determine whether the conference can squirm away from a deadlock.

Technical experts of the Big Four sponsors have turned out several drafts of a general statement to be offered in reply. The American delegation, without deciding exactly how it wants the answer framed, was reported to have rejected the latest draft as making too firm and rigid an interpretation of the veto formula worked out at the Roosevelt-Stalin-Churchill meeting at Yalta this spring.

The Americans were reported leaning toward what they termed a "liberal" interpretation.

Some British delegates would like to see the veto lifted from investigations or peaceful settlements of disputes, but are aware of the strength of Russian opposition. They are considering a compromise.

The Big Four statement is expected to be one of generalities, not an effort to answer each small nation inquiry point by point. It was shaping up into a document of some 12 paragraphs and was reported to reiterate some of the arguments the big powers already have used in conference committees.

to Russia at Yalta, they cannot press it. Russia has been standing firm on the Yalta formula which provides that any one of the big powers can "veto" a council decision to take action.

Big Nations' Statement

Last night a committee of United States, Russian, British and Chinese officials drafted a statement in reply to small-nation questions about this formula. This statement promises that any nation, great or small, may bring a dispute before the security council and that the council may discuss it, without taking a vote. Thus the veto could not be used to prevent the airing of charges and countercharges.

Beyond that point—when the council was deciding whether to investigate the dispute or what other action to take—a vote would be required and any one of the big powers—Russia, Britain, the United States, France or China—could prevent council action by voting "No."

The Yalta Formula

The only limitation under the Yalta formula is that if one of the Big Five, or any other of the eleven members on the council, was itself

After that point, however, the shoe will be on the other foot. The big nations will need two thirds to win affirmative approval of the Yalta formula. That means that the small nations may have to decide, in effect, whether they want a United Nations organization with the veto or no organization at all.

Arabs Balked On Mandates

The Big Five, meanwhile, held a firm line against attempts of the Arab states to freeze mandated territories, such as Palestine, so that they could not be changed under a new world organization.

The present mandate system was set up under the old League of Nations. Palestine, mandated to Britain, is one of its hottest spots because of the ceaseless struggle there between the Jews and Arabs.

The United States, Britain, Russia, China and France have proposed to replace this system by international trusteeships, giving Britain and the other mandatory powers the right to convert their mandates into trusteeships.

The Arabs evidently fear that in the process some of the present rights of their people in Palestine might be lost.

In its essence, that formula gives each of the Big Five powers a veto against any important action by the proposed league.

There is no doubt that some American delegates would like to meet at least part way the demand of smaller nations for relaxation of this over-riding authority.

Gives Freedom Of Action

But they are reminded that such revision might also invite a strong Senate attack on the charter. The Senatorial delegates are reported to estimate that probably more than one third of the Senate—or enough to defeat ratification—are opposed to giving an international organization authority to involve this country involuntarily in an attempt to settle world disputes.

That's where the veto gives the United States freedom of action. As the Yalta agreement now is interpreted this country alone could stop any investigation by the World League of the Western Hemisphere situation. If it couldn't, there would be many in the Senate who would say the United States

The two western Allies, it was learned, have agreed on the idea in principle and turned it over to experts for detailed drafting. It then will go to other members of the Big Five and to any other nation whose forces might be employed under a United Nations charter.

The Anglo-Americans are thinking primarily in terms of air maneuvers, but it was said that land and sea forces eventually might become involved. Extensive Anglo-American experience in joint operations during the war is being drawn upon in planning for the future.

The basic principle is that since each nation in a future world organization would place a contingent of air forces at the disposition of a world council, and since any actual operation is likely to be undertaken jointly, the forces should practice together. It was because of these discussions that a conference committee was asked yesterday to postpone a vote on an Australian amendment to the Dumbarton velopments during his brief absence.

The big Powers are reported to have lined up enough votes in the conference to block any change in their absolute control of world machinery designed to preserve peace.

This issue—the veto power of any of the Big Five over settling international disputes or using force to smash an aggression—is the most critical one remaining for this assembly of forty-nine nations. The decision hour comes as the conference enters its second month.

Many committees are striving to wind up their work by this week end in order to allow public discussion of their reports to begin in the four big conference commissions early next week.

Among their latest accomplishments are agreement on provisions designed to strengthen the economic and social work of the new league, and to outlaw secret treaties, once the world organization is functioning.

In the veto dispute many small nations are demanding that the authority of the big powers in a projected world organization be restricted sharply so that an eleven-nation Security Council could try by peaceful means to settle troubles between nations even over big-power objections.

The British delegation has proposed a compromise to meet that demand. Some United States delegates like the compromise idea, but say that in view of commitments already made to Russia at Yalta they cannot press it. Russia has been standing firm on the Yalta formula, which provides that any one of the big powers can veto a council decision to take action.

Last night a committee of United States, Russian, British and Chinese officials drafted a statement in reply to small nation questions about this formula. This statement promises that any nation, great or small, may bring a dispute before the Security Council and that the council may discuss it, without taking a vote. Thus the veto could not be used to prevent the airing of charges and countercharges.

Yalta Accord Snags Compromise On Veto

San Francisco, May 25 (AP)—The big powers are reported today to have lined up enough votes in the United Nations conference to block any change in their absolute control of world machinery designed to preserve peace.

This issue—the power of any of the Big Five to veto proposed settlements of international disputes or the use of force against an aggressor—is the most critical remaining. The decision hour comes as the conference enters its second month and Secretary of State Stettinius returns from talks in Washington with President Truman.

Small Nations' Demand

In the veto dispute many small nations are demanding that the authority of the big powers in the projected world organization be sharply restricted so that an eleven-nation security council could try by peaceful means to settle troubles between nations even over big-power objections.

The British delegation has proposed a compromise to meet that demand. Some United States delegates like the compromise, but say that, in view of commitments made involved in a dispute, it could not vote as long as only (1) investigation and (2) peaceful-settlement decisions were being made. Once it came to a question of using force, however, each of the powers would have a vote, accused or not.

The statement worked out by the Big Four technicians now goes before Stettinius, Britain's Earl of Halifax, Ambassador Gromyko, of Russia, and Foreign Minister Soong, of China—the chiefs of their respective delegations. They could change it drastically, but there is no indication that they will.

Parley Voting Procedure

Once they have put it in final form, it goes before a conference committee which has been debating the big-power voting proposal for the past two weeks. There the test will come. To block the small-nation amendments the big powers need at least seventeen votes—their own five plus twelve others. The word today is that they have at least that many assured.

It takes two thirds of the members voting to put over an amendment. If the top powers can swing at least 17 the two thirds will be lacking even though all 49 nations vote.

Senate Termed 'Silent Partner' Of U.S. Delegates At Frisco

MAY 26 1945

San Francisco, May 25 (AP)—The Senate has moved in as a silent partner of the United States delegation and its weight is being felt in decisions of this world conference.

Represented by two of its leading members—Chairman Connally (D., Texas), of the Foreign Relations Committee, and Chairman Vandenberg (R., Mich.), of the minority opposition—the Senate's influence has crept into almost every deliberation of the American group at the United Nations conference.

Duck Major Alteration

The first question most members have come to ask when any important issue is placed before them is "what will the Senate think about this?" for always in their minds is the knowledge that if the Senate declines to give the necessary two-thirds approval to the charter that is drawn here, there will be no world organization.

Their judgment of what the Senate's reaction may be has influenced delegates to shy away from any major alteration in the voting formula drafted by President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin at Yalta.

had abandoned the Monroe Doctrine.

"Submitted To Senate"

The American delegation has kept the Senate in mind during many other actions. For instance, it has attempted to nail down in the proposed charter the proposition that there shall be no international interference in domestic affairs. If it didn't do that trouble could be expected in the Senate.

As it comes up, each decision figuratively is submitted to the Senate. There are times when the Senate silent vote outweighs all others.

Oaks plan, which would add other types of armed forces to the air strength contemplated for immediate use of the world council.

Stettinius Back on Job.

Secretary of State Stettinius returned from Washington today and promptly called in top ministers of the four other big nations for a conference. Prior to this meeting, the head of the United States delegation met with his colleagues, both to report on his conference with President Truman and receive a detailed account of conference de-

The United States, Britain, Russia, China and France have proposed to replace this system by international trusteeships, giving Britain and the other mandatory powers the right voluntarily to convert their mandates into trusteeships.

The Arabs evidently are fearful that in the process some of the present rights of their people in Palestine might be lost.

Egypt proposed at a meeting of the conference trusteeship committee last night that the Big Five plan be amended to prevent any change in the administration of any mandate, and Irak sought postponement of the whole question. Egypt also offered an amendment designed to preserve all the rights of the peoples in any mandate, regardless of what happens to the mandatory power.

Original Language Approved.

Altogether the debate lasted about three hours and ended when the committee approved, 29 to 5, the original language of the the Big Five. This stated, in effect, that no provision of the trusteeship system "in and of itself" should alter the rights of any State or any peoples in any territory.

As the session broke up, Australia circulated among committee members a proposed new chapter for the trusteeship plan. It would set out specifically projects to be undertaken by the administering powers to advance the welfare and development of dependent peoples.

LONDON, MAY 25-(AP)-A U.S. ACE TOLD A STORY TODAY OF A FORCED LANDING IN GERMANY, OF BEING SHOT AND LEFT TO DIE BY SS TROOPS AND OF EVENTUALLY ESCAPING TO BE MET BY AMERICAN TANKS.
HE IS CAPT. WILLIAM J. CULLERTON, 21, OF 1719 NEW ENGLAND AVE., CHICAGO, A MUSTANG PILOT CREDITED WITH DESTROYING 15 ENEMY PLANES ON THE GROUND AND FIVE IN THE AIR BEFORE FLAK FORCED HIM DOWN INSIDE GERMANY A MONTH BEFORE V-E DAY.
CULLERTON, NEARING COMPLETE RECOVERY IN A U.S. ARMY HOSPITAL, SAID HE WAS SHOT DOWN APRIL 8 ON A STRAFING RUN OVER THE ANSBACH AIRDROME NEAR NUERNBERG.
SOLDIERS AND CIVILIANS USING DOGS TO TRACK HIM CAPTURED CULLERTON THAT EVENING AFTER HE HAD KILLED SEVERAL OF THE DOGS THAT OVERTOOK HIM.
AN OLD SOLDIER WAS LEFT TO GUARD HIM, FELL ASLEEP AND AWOKE TO FIND HIMSELF A PRISONER BECAUSE CULLERTON HAD WORKED LOOSE FROM THE ROPES WITH WHICH THE GERMANS BOUND HIM AND TOOK HIS PISTOL OFF A WALL IN A HOUSE IN WHICH HE WAS IMPRISONED.

PARIS, MAY 25-(AP)-FRENCH AUTHORITIES WERE REPORTED CONSIDERING ASKING FOR RECALL OF THE SYRIAN AND LEBANESE MINISTERS TODAY AFTER THE LATTER ISSUED A STATEMENT DECLARING THEIR GOVERNMENTS, BACKED BY THE ARAB WORLD, WERE READY TO RESIST TO THE UTMOST IF THEIR CURRENT DIFFERENCES WITH FRANCE WERE NOT ADJUSTED.

FRENCH GOVERNMENT SPOKESMEN SAID THE JOINT STATEMENT OF THE TWO MINISTERS TO A PRESS CONFERENCE YESTERDAY STIRRED OFFICIAL QUARTERS CONSIDERABLY, NOT ONLY BECAUSE OF THE CONTENTS BUT BECAUSE THE STATEMENT BY LAST NIGHT STILL HAD NOT BEEN COMMUNICATED TO THE GOVERNMENT. THE ACTION WAS REGARDED AS A BREACH OF DIPLOMATIC ETIQUETTE.

DEMONSTRATION AGAINST THE PRESENCE OF FRENCH TROOPS--CORE OF THE DISPUTE--CONTINUED MEANWHILE IN BOTH SYRIA AND LEBANON.

THE LEBANESE NATIONAL CONGRESS YESTERDAY VOTED SUPPORT OF ITS GOVERNMENT'S POLICY IN REJECTING FRENCH NEGOTIATIONS FOR AN AGREEMENT WHICH WOULD WITHHOLD UNQUALIFIED RECOGNITION OF SYRIAN AND LEBANESE INDEPENDENCE. DEMONSTRATORS IN BEYROUTH URGED IMMEDIATE RECRUITMENT OF AN ARMY, WHILE IN DAMASCUS ALL PUBLIC PLACES WERE CLOSED YESTERDAY, AS STRIKES CONTINUED THROUGH THE SIXTH DAY IN PROTEST AAGAINST THE PRESENCE OF THE FRENCH TROOPS.

THERE WERE NO REPORTED INCIDENTS, BUT TO AVOID TROUBLE FRENCH FAMILIES IN SYRIA WERE ADVISED TO LEAVE THEIR HOMES AND GATHER AT MESSE, A DAMASCUS SUBURB.

A FRENCH GOVERNMENT EXPERT ON MIDDLE EAST AFFAIRS SAID THE LEVANT DISPUTE AROSE AFTER A MONTH OF NEGOTIATIONS IN WHICH FRANCE SOUGHT SEVERAL GUARANTEES IN RETURN FOR RELINQUISHMENT OF SOME OF HER ADMINISTRATIVE FUNCTIONS AND CONTROLS IN THE TWO COUNTRIES. THE FRENCH SOUGHT ASSURANCE THEIR MERCHANTS WOULD NOT BE SUBJECTED TO DISCRIMINATION; THE RETENTION OF CERTAIN STRATEGIC MILITARY BASES, AND A GUARANTEE OF MAINTENANCE OF WHAT WAS DESCRIBED AS THE FRENCH "CULTURAL POSITION."

ARRIVAL OF A SHIP WITH SOME 500 FRENCH TROOPS, WHICH THE GOVERNMENT SAID WERE EN ROUTE TO THE PACIFIC FOR USE AGAINST JAPAN, INTERRUPTED THE NEGOTIATIONS.

THE FRENCH SPOKESMAN DECLARED SYRIA AND LEBANON USED THE ARRIVAL OF THE TROOPS AS A PRETEXT FOR BREAKING OFF NEGOTIATIONS AND AROUSING PUBLIC OPINION IN BRITAIN AND THE UNITED STATES DURING THE SAN FRANCISCO CONFERENCE.

Gauting, Germany, May 25-(ap)-At the war's start, Frau Charlotte Friedrich had four sons, one in the United States, and a daughter, all doing well in their chosen professions.

The three sons and daughter who remained in Germany came home frequently to gladden the heart of their widowed mother.

She heard often from her other son--her first born, Dr. Carl J. Friedrich, a professor at Harvard, whom she last saw in 1939 in London.

The only good news to reach the substantial Friedrich home on tree-shaded Waldpromenade of late was about the son [redacted] in the United States, who now heads the Harvard Civil Affairs Training School. All the rest has been bad. And, ominously, of some of Frau Friedrich's children there has been NO news at all.

Here's the score on members of the Friedrich family who stayed in Germany:

Otto Friedrich, director of the rubber factory at Hamburg, and Wolfgang Friedrich, a preacher at Pasewalk, Pomerania, visited their mother last Easter. Nothing has been heard from them since.

Hans Friedrich, the third son, a non-com, and his wife, a photographer, last were heard from in Italy.

The daughter, Charlotte, a physician, killed herself at her home in Grunwald, a suburb of nearby Munich, two weeks ago because of worry over the absence of news from her two sons, Jochen, 22, and Wolfgang, 19. Jochen was last reported in Berlin, Wolfgang in Silesia. Their mother and father were divorced several years ago.

"It is nice to hear that Carl is doing so well," said Frau Friedrich, who lives with her sister, Augusta Herr. " You see, the rest of us haven't."

BRITISH SECOND ARMY HEADQUARTERS--FIRST ADD HIMMLER (BY WILLIAM F. BONI) XXX HIS CAPTURE (A76).

HIMMLER TOOK HIS LIFE WEDNESDAY NIGHT BY CRUSHING A TINY GLASS VIAL OF POISON BETWEEN HIS TEETH AS A BRITISH MEDICAL OFFICER WAS EXAMINING HIM.

HE WAS WEARING ONLY A PAIR OF SOCKS. HIS CLOTHING HAD BEEN STRIPPED FROM HIM IN A PREVIOUS EXAMINATION.

MAY 26 1945

NUMBER ONE ON THE LIST OF GERMAN WAR CRIMINALS, THE ONCE DREADED HEAD OF THE GESTAPO HAD BEEN ARRESTED LAST MONDAY AS HE AND TWO BODY-GUARDS TRIED TO CROSS A BRIDGE AT BREMERVOERDE, WEST OF HAMBURG.

HE WAS WEARING A PATCH OVER HIS EYE, WAS IN CIVILIAN CLOTHES, AND WAS CARRYING FORGED PAPERS WHICH IDENTIFIED HIM AS "HITZINGER."

HIS MOUSTACHE HAD BEEN SHAVED OFF. HIS PAPERS DID NOT SATISFY THE GUARDS, AND ALL THREE MEN WERE TAKEN TO A DETENTION CAMP.

HIMMLER REMAINED UNRECOGNIZED, BUT LATER DEMANDED AN INTERVIEW WITH THE CAMP COMMANDER. SUMMONED BEFORE A BRITISH OFFICER AT 7 P.M. WEDNESDAY, HIMMLER REMOVED THE PATCH FROM HIS EYE, DONNED HIS GLASSES, AND THUS REVEALED HIS IDENTITY.

A SMALL BLUE VIAL OF POISON WAS FOUND IN THE CLOTHING THAT HAD BEEN TAKEN FROM HIM, BUT THE VIAL WITH WHICH HE ENDED HIS LIFE WAS NOT DETECTED. APPARENTLY HE HAD KEPT IT LODGED ALONG HIS GUMS THE THREE DAYS THAT PRECEDED HIS DEATH.

THE PHYSICIAN IN LUENEBURG HAD MADE A PAINSTAKING EXAMINATION OF HIMMLER, SEARCHING EVEN BEHIND HIS EARS. THEN HIMMLER WAS ORDERED TO OPEN HIS MOUTH AND TOLL BACK HIS TONGUE.

BECAUSE THE RESPONSE WAS UNSATISFACTORY HIMMLER WAS ORDERED TO APPROACH THE LIGHT AND OPEN HIS MOUTH AGAIN, AS THE EXAMINER PROBED INSIDE WITH HIS FINGER HIMMLER JERKED BACK AND SHOOK HIS HEAD.

THERE WAS A CRUNCH OF GLASS. HIMMLER SLUMPED TO THE FLOOR.

IN 15 MINUTES--AT 11:04 P.M. WEDNESDAY--HIMMLER WAS DEAD.

21ST BOMBER COMMAND, GUAM, SATURDAY, MAY 26-(AP)-A B-29 WITH ONE ENGINE AFIRE WAS CAUGHT IN SEARCHLIGHT BEAMS FOR SEVERAL MINUTES IN TODAY'S TOKYO RAID BUT JAPANESE FIGHTERS FAILED TO TAKE ADVANTAGE AND THE BIG BOMBER GOT HOME SAFELY.

FLIGHT OFFICER STEVEN E.RODOLAY, 2774 EAST 125TH ST., CLEVELAND, SAID THE FIRE BROKE OUT JUST AS THE PLANE WAS GOING OVER FOR ITS BOMB RUN AND THAT THE ENEMY FIGHTERS WERE MOVING TOWARD IT.

"IT WAS JUST LIKE FLYING THROUGH A DOUGHNUT WITH FLAK ALL AROUND," REPORTED SGT.MARCEL M.MARLSOL, INDEPENDENCE, WISC.

FLIGHT OFFICER HERBERT RICE, 417 SOUTH OAK, LITTLE ROCK, ARK., TOLD OF SEARCHLIGHTS HOLDING HIS PLANE ON THE TARGET RUN WHILE IT MADE ASUCCESSFUL BOMBING.

"I DON'T THINK WE WILL BE BOTHERED WITH THAT PLACE ANY MORE," HE SAID OF HIS TARGET.

FR1220ACW

MURPHY BLUSHED AT THAT AND REMARKED, "NO SIR, I'M AFRAID WHEN I GO HOME I'LL HAVE TO GO IN THE BACK DOOR. I COULDN'T GO FOR BEING TREATED AS A HERO."

MURPHY ONCE LIVED AT GREENVILLE, TEXAS. HIS SISTER LIVES IN FARMERSVILLE, TEXAS.

O'DANIEL AND MURPHY INSPECTED THE CONGRESSIONAL MEDAL BUT THE ACTUAL AWARD CEREMONY WILL NOT COME UNTIL GENERAL PATCH, AS SEVENTH ARMY COMMANDER, CAN MAKE THE PRESENTATION.

O'DANIEL REMARKED THAT MURPHY HAD MATCHED CAPT. MAURICE "FOOTSIE" BRITT, OF FAYETTEVILLE, ARK., IN WINNING EVERY DECORATION BUT MURPHY DEMURRED.

"I HAVEN'T GOT THE LEGION OF MERIT, SIR," HE SAID.

"YOU CERTAINLY DESERVE THE LEGION OF MERIT FOR WINNING ALL THE OTHERS," THE GENERAL REPLIED.

THE LIEUTENANT TURNED DOWN A PROFERRED CIGARETTE AND AN OFFER OF A DRINK. HE DOESN'T DRINK OR SMOKE.

LOOKING AT HIM OR LISTENING TO HIS SOFT TEXAS DRAWL NO ONE WOULD GUESS THAT HE BROKE UP A TANK AND INFANTRY ATTACK ALMOST SINGLE-HANDEDLY IN THE COLMAR POCKET BATTLE TO WIN HIS COUNTRY'S HIGHEST AWARD.

HIS WOUNDS, IN THE LEGS AND THIGH, SUFFERED JUST BEFORE HE TURNED BACK 250 INFANTRYMEN AND SIX TANKS BY MANNING A BURNING TANK DESTROYER'S GUN, HAVE ENTIRELY HEALED NOW. THE ONLY CONCESSION HE MADE TO THE INJURIES WAS THE COMMENT:

"I GET A LITTLE TIRED WHEN I TALK UP AND DOWN THESE MOUNTAINS FOR SEVERAL HOURS."

COPENHAGEN, MAY 25-(AP)-BY CAREFUL CONSERVATION MOST DANES HAVE BEEN ABLE TO KEEP THEIR CLOTHING FROM BECOMING SHABBY, AND THE NEAT APPEARANCE MANY CITIZENS PRESENT TODAY IS A TRIBUTE TO THEIR RESOURCEFULNESS.

FOR AT LEAST THREE YEARS STOCKS OF WOOL AND COTTON HAVE BEEN EXHAUSTED. IT HAS BEEN POSSIBLE TO OBTAIN THESE MATERIALS ON THE BLACK MARKET--BUT AT TREMENDOUS PRICES.

MORE THAN ONE BRIDEGROOM HAS PAID OVER 1,000 CROWNS ($200) FOR BLACK CLOTH SUFFICIENT TO MAKE A DRESS SUIT. MANY OTHER PERSONS PAID SIMILAR AMOUNTS FOR ORDINARY SUIT MATERIAL. THERE WERE SOME STOCKS OF GERMAN SUBSTITUTE MATERIALS DURING THE OCCUPATION, BUT THESE NEVER WERE SUCCESSFUL.

ONLY SMALL QUANTITIES OF THE GERMAN PRODUCT WERE AVAILABLE, AND IT WAS EXPENSIVE, THIN AND SUBJECT TO SEVERE SHRINKAGE. A GROWNUP, FOR INSTANCE, WHO BOUGHT A PAIR OF SOCKS, ALWAYS COULD COUNT ON THE SOCKS FITTING HIS CHILD AFTER A SINGLE WASHING.

EVERYONE HAD CLOTHING TURNED, AND FOR TAILORS THIS WAS VIRTUALLY THE ONLY WORK AVAILABLE.

NO NEW SHIRTS HAVE BEEN AVAILABLE FOR YEARS. THREE OLD ONES USUALLY COULD BE CONVERTED INTO TWO WEARABLE ONES. WOOLLEN BLANKETS--FOR A WHILE MANY WOMEN WORE SKIRTS MADE OF OLD BULKY BUT WARM--AND THESE WERE REGARDED AS QUITE SMART.

MANILA, MAY 25-(AP)-HELMUTH AMERICAH, 20, WHOSE FAMILY FLED FROM NAZI PERSECUTIOM IN GERMANY IN 1936, GOT A MEASURE OF REVENGE ON THE AXIS NINE YEARS LATER ON A TINY PHILIPPINE ISLAND.

HE VOLUNTEERED TO LEAD DOUGHBOYS TO SKILLFULLY HIDDEN JAPANESE NAVAL GUNS ON SAMAL ISLAND WHICH WERE FIRING ON 24TH DIVISION INFANTRYMEN AROUND DAVAO. THE JEWISH BOY KNEW THEIR LOCATION AND LED YANK PATROLS THROUGH HEAVY FIRE TO A HILL WHERE THEY COULD PIN-POINT THE GUNS.

THE JAPANESE PROMPTLY WITHDREW, LEAVING THREE SIX INCH GUNS INTACT. HELMUTH THEN LED THE DOUGHBOYS TO THE ENEMY BIVOUAC, WHERE THE LAST OF THE JAPANESE WERE CLEANED OUT.

WITH HIS PARENTS AND TWO BROTHERS, HELMUTH HAD FLED FROM GERMANY, TO SHANGHAI, TO MANILA, TO MINDANAO ISLAND AND FINALLY TO SAMAL ISLAND, WHICH LIES IN DAVAO GULF OF MINDANAO.

MANILA, MAY 25 (AP)-THE POINT SYSTEM FOR MUSTERING SOLDIERS OUT OF THE ARMY STILL IS FOGGY TO MANY FIGHTING MEN IN THIS AREA, BUT THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC COMMAND IS EMPHASIZING ONE POINT--THE MERE POSSESSION OF THE REQUIRED NUMBER OF POINTS DOESN'T GUARANTEE DISCHARGE.

THERE'S THE MATTER OF REPLACEMENTS, A SERIOUS COMPLICATION IN THIS AREA.

SO MANY DIVISIONS HAVE BEEN IN THE PACIFIC FIGHTING ALMOST CONTINUOUSLY SINCE PEARL HARBOR THAT OBVIOUSLY THEY WILL HAVE AMONG THE MAXIMUM NUMBER OF POINTS TO BE FOUND IN THE NATION'S ARMED FORCES.

ACTUALLY THOUSANDS OF SOLDIERS ARE LIKELY TO QUALIFY UNDER POINT TOTALS WITHOUT LISTING CHILDREN OR EXTRA POINTS FOR COMBAT.

OF COURSE, ARRIVAL OF REPLACEMENTS WILL BE NECESSARY BEFORE ANYONE CAN BE RETURNED HOME.

SOME DIVISIONS WHICH HAVE THE LONGEST OVERSEAS RECORDS STARTING LONG BEFORE ANY AMERICANS WERE SENT TO AFRICA OR EUROPE ARE THE 25TH, 41ST, AMERICAL, 37TH, 32ND, 24TH. SOME OF THESE OUTFITS HAVE FROM A THIRD TO A HALF OF THEIR ORIGINAL SOLDIERS.

THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC COMMAND, HOWEVER, WAS EMPHATIC IN NOTIFYING SOLDIERS THAT EVEN IF THEY GET HOME ON THE POINT SYSTEM THEY ARE NOT SURE OF BEING RELEASED FROM THE ARMY BECAUSE "WHETHER YOU HAVE A BIG OR LITTLE TOTAL, MILITARY NECESSITY COMES FIRST."

HE CARRIED HIS HUNTING KNIFE BETWEEN HIS TEETH, USING IT IN PLACE OF A CHOVEL TO DIG UP FIVE MINES AND AN AERIAL BOMB. THEN THE TANKS FOLLOWED THROUGH.

"I KNEW THE JAPS WERE FIRING AT ME," HE SAID, "BUT I DIDN'T KNOW HOW CLOSE THEY WERE COMING UNTIL MY BLOUSE WAS RIPPED BY A BULLET. OKINAWA, MAY 24-(DELAYED)-(AP)-THE TENTH ARMY CAPTURED TWO MORE SMALL VILLAGES TODAY AND MADE SUBSTANTIAL GAINS ON OKINAWA'S EAST COAST DESPITE CLOGGING MUD AND A STUBBORN DEFENSE BY THE JAPANESE IN ROUGH TERRAIN.

STILL CAPITALIZING ON THE SURPRISE EFFECT OF ITS SUDDEN ADVANCE THROUGH YONABARU ON THE EAST COAST, THE 7TH DIVISION MOVED SOUTHWARD AT A GOOD PACE. IT'S 184TH REGIMENT OVERCAME STIFF BUT PURELY LOCALIZED RESISTANCE TO REACH A POINT MORE THAN 1,500 YARDS SOUTH OF YONABARU.

A COMPANY UNDER CAPT. PAUL F. FERRER, (2328 HOLGATE SQUARE) LOS ANGELES, ASSAULTED STEEP ESCARPMENT IN THE FACE OF A BARRAGE OF JAPANESE MORTAR FIRE AND GAINED A TOEHOLD ON THE SLOPES OF A HIGH PLATEAU WHICH LANDMARKS THE AREA.

THE 32ND REGIMENT, UNDER CAPT. EWELL WHEELER, (790 CALIFORNIA ST.,) SAN FRANCISCO, PUSHED SOUTHWARD ON THE RIGHT FLANK, OVERRUNNING A MAZE OF SMALL HILLS ABOUT 1,800 YARDS SOUTHWEST OF YONABARU.

THE DIVISION NOTED CONSIDERABLE ENEMY MOVEMENT AHEAD, LEADING TO THE BELIEF THE ENEMY MAY POSSIBLY ATTEMPT TO ESTABLISH A COORDINATED DEFENSE BEYOND THE VALLEY 3,000 TO 4,000 YARDS TO THE SOUTH.

IN THE CENTRAL SECTOR, A 77TH DIVISION UNIT UNDER LT. COL. GERALD COOMEY, WINTERHAVEN, FLA., PUSHED COMBAT PATROLS THROUGH A SMALL UNNAMED VILLAGE A FEW HUNDRED YARDS NORTH OF SHURI. THE UNIT RAN INTO SOME SMALL ARMS FIRE FROM SURROUNDING HIGH GROUND.

ENEMY FIRE FROM A TRIO OF IDENTICAL HILLS, CALLED THE THREE SISTERS, HELD UP THE ADVANCE THROUGH MUCH OF THE CENTRAL SECTOR.

JUST WEST OF THE 77TH, IN THE SECTOR OCCUPIED BY THE FIRST MARINE DIVISION, A FIFTH REGIMENT PATROL MOVED THROUGH ASATO VILLAGE, WHICH IS WEST AND SOUTH OF SHURI, KILLING ABOUT 12 OF SOME 60 JAPANESE ENCOUNTERED.

THE SIXTH MARINES ON THE WEST COAST THREW TWO BRIDGES ACROSS THE ASATO RIVER TO STRENGTHEN ITS HOLD ON NORTHEASTERN NAHA. 1ST. LT. HENRY A. HERZ, (828 EASTERN PARKWAY), BROOKLYN, N.Y., AND HIS ENGINEERING CREW BUILT THE BRIDGES UNDER COVER OF DARKNESS LAST NIGHT. THEY CARRIED THE 10-POUND SECTIONS INTO WAIST-DEEP WATER TO GET THEM IN PLACE, BUT AT DAWN, JAPANESE ARTILLERY OPENED UP AND DESTROYED THEIR WORK AND THEY HAD TO START OVER AGAIN.

HONOLULU,MAY 25-(AP)-IT WAS ONLY A MOP-UP PATROL ACTION, A SAVAGE LITTLE BATTLE IN A FITTING SETTING -- AROUND A TOMB. BUT FOR PFC ANGELO SANTA MARIA OF KANSAS CITY,MO., PFC IRA M. SHRADER OF LOUISVILLE,KY., AND PFC FELIX J.SUCH OF CHICAGO, ILL., AND THE OTHERS IT WAS JUST A PART OF THE BITTER FIGHTING THAT IS MAKING OKINAWA A HELL ON EARTH.

ALL DAY MEN HAD BEEN FIGHTING AND DYING, AND ONE JAPANESE MACHINEGUN POSITION WAS KNOCKED OUT 36 TIMES, ONLY TO HAVE ANOTHER GUN AND SOLDIER MAN THE PILLBOX. THE AMERICANS AND THE JAPANESE HAD FOUGHT HAND IN HAND WITH BAYONETS AND RIFLE BUTTS AND JAPANESE MACHINEGUN FIRE SWEPT THE ROLLING HILLS, KILLING AMERICANS AND JAPANESE ALIKE.

THEN MARIA, SHRADER, SUCH AND THE OTHERS MOVED IN TO MOP UP. A DIRTY BUT NECESSARY TASK. THEY FOUND JAPANESE ENTRENCHED IN A TOMB 200 YARDS SOUTHEAST OF MACHINATO AIRFIELD AND THEY PINNED THEM DOWN WITH RIFLE AND MACHINEGUN FIRE.

MARIA BELLIED UP INSIDE THE CONCRETE FRAME TO THE SMALL ENTRANCE WHILE SHARPSHOOTERS LAID DOWN PROTECTIVE FIRE WITHIN A FEW FEET OF HIS HEAD. MARIA CARRIED A FLAME THROWER BUT IT FAILED TO WORK AND HE HURLED A PHOSPHROUS BOMB INTO THE OPENING.

A JAPANESE RUSHED OUT, MAD WITH PAIN FROM THE BURING CLOTHING HE SOUGHT TO TEAR FROM HIS BODY. MARIA WAS TOO CLOSE FOR THE RIFLEMEN TO OPEN UP, BUT HE QUICKLY SCALED A CONCRETE WALL AND PRIVATE SHRADER, A VETERAN OF ENIWETOK AND SAIPAN, EMPTIRED HIS RIFLE INTO THE FIRE-ENVELOPED JAP.

CANADIAN POLITICAL (400)

MAY 26 1945

BY HARRY T.MONTGOMERY

REGINA, SASK., MAY 24-(AP)-THIS WESTERN WHEAT-GROWING PROVINCE OF SASKATCHEWAN IS A MAJOR BATTLE GROUND IN CANADA'S JUNE 11 FEDERAL ELECTION, THE FIRST NATIONWIDE ELECTION TO BE HELD IN AN ALLIED COUNTRY SINCE THE DEFEAT OF GERMANY AND ONE WHICH WILL BE WATCHED ABROAD FOR CLUES TO THE GROWTH OF POST-WAR LEFTIST POLITICAL DOCTRINE.

I THE IMPORTANCE OF SASKATCHEWAN LIES NOT IN ITS SIZE--IT ELECTS ONLY 21 OF THE 245 MEMBERS OF THE HOUSE OF COMMONS AT OTTAWA---BUT RATHER IN THE FACT THAT THE PROVINCE HAS A TRADITION OF PROGRESSIVISM AND A YEAR AGO ELECTED THE FIRST PROVINCIAL GOVERNMENT IN THE DOMINION UNDER THE BANNER OF THE SOCIALISTIC CCF (COOPERATIVE COMMONWEALTH FEDERATION).

WITH THE CCF MAKING ITS FIRST IMPORTANT BID IN A FEDERAL ELECTION, THE LEADERS OF ALL THREE MAJOR PARTIES ARE DEVOTING MUCH ATTENTION TO SASKATCHEWAN. IF THE CCF FAILS TO RUN STRONG HERE IT CAN HARDLY FARE WELL ELSEWHERE.

PRIME MINISTER W. L. MACKENZIE KING ON TUESDAY CONCLUDED A THREE-AND-A-HALF DAY TOUR OF HIS OWN CONSTITUENCY OF PRINCE ALBERT IN THE NORTHERN PART OF THE PROVINCE, CAMPAIGNING WITH MORE EFFORT THAN HE HAS EVER BEFORE PUT INTO HIS APPEARANCES THERE IN THE 19 YEARS HE HAS REPRESENTED ITS PEOPLE. HIS CHIEF THREAT COMES FROM THE CCF.

HE ADDRESSED MEETINGS WHICH SOMETIMES INCLUDED ONLY A DOZEN PEOPLE, SO ANXIOUS WAS HE TO GET OUT AMONG THE CONSTITUENTS. CHIDED BY HIS OPPONENTS ON THE GROUND THAT HE SELDOM VISITED THE PEOPLE HE DIRECTLY REPRESENTS, KING EVERYWHERE EXPLAINED THAT THE PRESS OF WAR DUTIES HAD KEPT HIM AWAY. ON MONDAY AND TUESDAY HE SHOOK HANDS WITH HUNDREDS OF SCHOOL CHILDREN, ADDRESSING EACH ONE PERSONALLY AND LEARNING THEIR NAMES.

INTO THE PROVINCE YESTERDAY CAME THE LEADERS OF THE TWO OTHER MAJOR PARTIES, M. J. COLDWELL, FORMER SCHOOL TEACHER HEADING THE CCF, AND JOHN BRACKEN, FORMER FARMER AND FORMER PREMIER OF MANITOBA, LEADER OF THE PROGRESSIVE CONSERVATIVE PARTY.

COLDWELL, WHOSE EARLY POLITICAL CAREER WAS IN REGINA AND WHO IS RUNNING IN A CONSTITUENCY NORTHWEST OF HERE, ADDRESSED ONE OF THE LARGEST MEETINGS OF THE CAMPAIGN TO DATE IN THIS PRINCIAL CAPITAL LAST NIGHT AND PREDICTED CONFIDENTLY THAT HE EXPECTED HIS PARTY TO WIN ALL 21 OF THE SASKATCHEWAN SEATS, ADDING THAT IF THEY DID THEY WOULD WIN ENOUGH ELSEWHERE IN CANADA TO FORM THE NEXT DOMINION GOVERNMENT.

BRACKEN, RUNNING FROM ADJACENT MANITOBA, IS SPEAKING SEVERAL TIMES A DAY IN THE PROVINCE, STRESSING HIS EXPERIENCE AS A FARMER AND HIS PARTY'S PROGRAM FOR IMPROVEMENT OF AGRICULTURE.

CANADA'S ROLE IN THE JAPANESE WAR CONTINUES TO BE DISCUSSED AS A MAJORISSUE IN THE CAMPAIGN. BRACKEN AT INDIAN HEAD YESTERDAY ATTACKED THE KING GOVERNMENT'S DECISION TO SEND ONLY VOLUNTEERS TO THE PACIFIC WAR, DECLARING THAT ALTHOUGH "NO ONE EXPECTS CANADA TO SEND SUPPORT BEYOND OUR JUST SHARE NO ONE EXPECTS US TO RUN OUT ON OUR ALLIES, EITHER."

COLDWELL TOOK UP THE ISSUE LAST NIGHT IN HIS REGINA ADDRESS, ASKING THAT "CANADA DO ALL THAT IS REQUIRED OF HER."

UNDATED BRUENING (330)
BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

THE MOSCOW RADIO SAID YESTERDAY (FRI) THAT HEINRICH BRUENING, GERMAN CHANCELLOR IN 1930-32, WAS BEING PROPOSED BY "REACTIONARY CATHOLIC CIRCLES" AS THE POSTWAR "RE-EDUCATOR OF GERMANY."

THE BROADCAST, REPORTED BY THE FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION, DECLARED BRUENING WAS A "RABID MILITARIST" AND A "SWORN ENEMY OF DEMOCRACY."

MOSCOW ASSERTED IT WAS "REACTIONARY CATHOLIC CIRCLES WHICH CLEARED THE WAY FOR HITLER IN 1932," AND CONTINUED:

"IT WAS BRUENING'S FIRST CABINET, FORMED IN MARCH, 1931, WHICH INTRODUCED THE SO-CALLED EMERGENCY LAWS THAT HELPED THE GERMAN RULING CLIQUE TO PARALYZE THE DEMOCRATIC MOVEMENT WITHIN THE COUNTRY ON THE VERY EVE OF THE FASCIST COUP D'ETAT.

"ON JAN. 9, 1932, WHEN THE GERMANS WERE SPENDING NO SMALL EFFORT AND MEANS TO ARM GERMANY, BRUENING MADE AN OFFICIAL ANNOUNCEMENT OF GERMANY'S INABILITY TO PAY OFF THE REPARATIONS. ONE MONTH LATER, ON FEB. 9TH, HE ADDRESSED A TREACHEROUS DECLARATION TO THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS STATING THAT GERMANY WAS COMPLETELY DISARMED.

"A RABID MILITARISIT, ACTIVE CHAMPION OF THE ARMY OF GERMANY BY ALL AND ANY MEANS, THE SWORN ENEMY OF DEMOCRACY, A SLY AND TREACHEROUS HYPOCRITE, SUCH IS BRUENING, WHOM THE REACTIONARY CATHOLIC CIRCLES HAVE NOW CHOSEN AS THEIR HERO."

INSIDE GERMANY, THE BROADCAST ADDED, "HIGH STANDING OFFICIALS CONNECTED WITH THE CHURCH ARE PRO-NAZI".

THE COURSE OF THE VATICAN, "WHICH IS BACKING CERTAIN GERMAN CATHOLIC CIRCLES, IS OF PRIMARY CONCERN," MOSCOW DECLARED. "IN THE POPE'S CHRISTMAS MESSAGE, IN WHICH HE CAME OUT IN DEFENSE OF THE RIGHTS OF THE CONQUERED, THAT IS, IN DEFENSE OF HITLER-GERMANY, THE VATICAN'S PRO-GERMANY ACTIVITY SHOWED A MARKED INCREASE.

"POPE PIUS, IN CALLING FOR MERCY AND A MORE FORGIVING ATTITUDE, HAD NOT A WORD TO SAY ABOUT THE RESPONSIBILITY OF THOSE WHO HAD INUNDATED THE WORLD WITH BLOOD AND CARRIED OUT THE MOST MONSTROUS OF CRIMES.

"SUCH A POSITION ON THE PART OF THE VATICAN NATURALLY DETERMINES THE ATTITUDE OF THE NUMEROUS CATHOLIC ORGANIZATIONS SCATTERED OVER THE WORLD."

SAY PALACE DESTROYED

Jap Radio Admits Tokyo 'Literally Scorched to Ground.'

MAY 27 1945

NIGHT

GUAM, Sunday, May 27 (AP) American Superfortresses almost wiped out Tokyo at a cost of 31 of the big planes in record pre-dawn fire raids Thursday and Saturday, reports today disclosed.

The last undamaged areas of the world's third largest city—the government and central business districts—were reported in smoking ruins.

Conflicting broadcasts from Japan indicated the Imperial palace had suffered but there was confusion as to the extent.

An English language version of an Imperial Japanese communique, said:

"Among the buildings damaged are the (front) palace and other edifices within the compound of the imperial palace."

An FCC-recorded Tokyo broadcast first reported Premier Suzuki as saying the Imperial palace was destroyed. Later the chief of the government was quoted as stating the palace "burned." Still later he was represented as apologizing to the emperor for "damages" to the palace.

City Is Scorched

Tokyo was declared "literally scorched to the ground by one Japanese radio reporter. A gale lashed the flames which followed Saturday's raid. The spreading fire apparently consumed the heart of the modern business and government sections.

The Twentieth Air Force announced at Washington that 19 B-29s were lost in Saturday's raid, the heaviest toll yet in the missions of the big bombers over Japan. Twelve were lost in Thursday's raid.

Some 500 Superfortresses flying from Marianas bases participated in each raid. They were the largest fleets of the mighty planes ever put in the air.

Returning crews agreed with the Tokyo reports of immense destruction and told of walls of fire sweeping upon the Imperial palace compound.

A reconnaissance pilot, Lt. W. L. Abbott, 2717 38th St., Des Moines, who flew below the overcast briefly before anti-aircraft fire hit one engine and the tail, said:

"I saw large masses of fire all over the area and could even see flames they were leaping so high."

However, the weather was so exceptionally bad that it was impossible to obtain the pictures on which to base the only accurate assessment of the damage.

Crews of yesterday's pre-dawn fire raid, the second by record fleets of some 500 of the mighty bombers within 24 hours, agreed with Tokyo radio reports that most of the Japanese capital was "literally scorched to the ground."

Heavier Raids Seen

In Washington, house appropriation committee members reported, after a closed-door session with Gen. George C. Marshall, Army chief of staff, that Japan is going to be bombed harder than Germany was.

"You can say that in the coming year," declared Rep. J. Buell Snyder (D-Pa.), "more than two and one-half times as many tons of bombs will be dropped on Japan as the Allies dropped in Europe this (fiscal) year."

Some of the more than 8,000 tons of gasoline incendiary bombs dropped in the Saturday an Thursday raids undoubtedly fell within the imperial palace grounds.

Premier Kantaro Suzuki was reported by Domei news agency to have told the cabinet he watched the fire start in the imperial grounds and that the imperial palace was damaged. A Tokyo radio commentator declared: "The imperial palace, the focal point of the Japanese peoples foremost affection and undying loyalty, was destroyed for the most part."

All accounts agreed that Emperor Hirohito, the empress and others of the royal family escaped injury.

The broadcasts seemed to agree also that at least the "outer palace within the imperial palace compound" and the Omiya detached

Enemy Tells of Great Devastation From Raids by Sky Giants — Suzuki Calls Cabinet Meeting — Royal Family Safe—Government Buildings Blasted

Guam, May 26—(AP)—Superfortresses, carrying their fire bomb scourge to the heart of the enemy empire for the second time in 48 hours, by Japanese account destroyed two palaces and left metropolitan Tokyo "literally scorched to the ground today."

The attack was announced by Washington yesterday.

The 500-plane raid "practically laid waste what was once the world's third largest metropolis," the broadcast reported.

"The outer palace within the Imperial Palace compounds, as well as the Omiya detached palace were destroyed by fire," it added.

Stung by the strike into the very nerve center of the empire, Radio Tokyo diverged from a later recital of damages to declare the "enemy's inhuman atrocities" had increased the Japanese "feeling of hostility and (they) are firmly determined to fight to the last Japanese."

Damages listed in the Tokyo metropolitan area, generally forming a horseshoe from east to west southward around the Imperial Palace compounds, included destruction by fire of the Imperial University, Bunrika University, a number of elementary and middle schools, "several" large hospitals, the Atago Shrine and the Zojo Temple.

Legations Reported Razed

The Swedish and Finnish legations were reported completely razed and the former United States embassy partly destroyed.

In succeeding broadcasts, the Japanese themselves developed a controversy as to what part of the Imperial Palace was burned, with Premier Kantaro Suzuki reporting to the cabinet, according to a Domei News Agency dispatch, he had watched the fire start and that the Imperial Palace itself had been destroyed.

The statement seemed to be corroborated by a Tokyo radio commentator who said the "Imperial Palace, the focal point of the Japanese peoples' foremost affection and undying loyalty was destroyed for the most part."

B-29 crewmen who participated in the raid said the Army and Navy Department and the Diet buildings, as well as the palaces, were probably damaged, although none was a specific target.

One returning pilot observed he would be surprised if the raid had not "scorched the Emperor's hair a little," but the Tokyo broadcast reported Emperor Hirohito, the Empress Dowager all were uninjured. The Omiya Palace was the home of the Empress Dowager.

Premier Kantaro Suzuki called "an extraordinary" meeting of his cabinet today at which he issued "a reverent statement relative to the burning of the Imperial Palace and the Omiya Palace due to enemy air raids," a later Tokyo broadcast reported.

The broadcast added that the cabinet members intended to work for "the renovation of the administration" and later conferred with subministers and cabinet members to deliberate "upon air raid measures relative to the present air raid damages."

The flames, faned by a 70-mile gale, "wrought havoc on the sprawling congested business districts and residential sections of the city," the broadcast said.

Suzuki Visits Palace

An imperial headquarters communique, issued later, placed the number of Superfortresses taking part at 250, half the actual number involved, and claimed 47 of the raiders were shot down. All fires, the communique asserted, "were mostly extinguished by dawn."

The broadcast admitted fires were started on "a considerable scale" but said they were extinguished 5½ hours after the first bombs fell.

Tokyo's Ginza (government) and Marunouchi business districts were the prime targets of a 4,000 ton attack. It was the second raid in 48 hours, in which a total of 1,050 Superforts deluged 3,500 tons of fire bombs on the Japanese capital.

The Ginza district—Tokyo's counterpart of Washington's famed Pennsylvania Avenue—borders the Imperial Palace grounds.

The whole target area, including many small industries, piers, wharves and warehouses, "looked like one big conflagration, with smoke coming up thousands of feet," said Capt. Alex Salm, Tuxedo Park, N. Y. "The fires really were burning nicely. The palace was only 1,000 yards away."

Twelve hours previously, Mustangs from the Army's Seventh Fighter Command, based on Iwo Jima, made a 1,500-mile round trip to neutralize two Tokyo airfields from which the Japanese might have intercepted the B-29s. They destroyed or damaged 58 aircraft at Matsudo Airfield, 10 miles northeast of Tokyo, and Tokorazawa Airfield, 25 miles to the northwest, in their deepest penetration of the empire.

Encounter "Baka" Bombs

Several of the raiding flyers reported on their return to 21st Bomber Command headquarters here that they believed bombs fell within the imperial palace area.

They also disclosed that for the first time they had encountered one of Japan's new suicide weapons—piloted rocket "Baka" bombs, which were first encountered at Okinawa. The bombs were released from Japanese planes at the raiding Superfortresses. At least three "Bakas" were knocked down by American gunners.

In contrast to Radio Tokyo's claim that the city was "literally scorched to the ground," the Nipponese imperial communiqué reported only that "considerable damages were sustained in the various quarters of the capital."

TOKYO IN RUINS SAYS JAP RADIO

'Front Building' of Imperial Palace Destroyed Broadcast Admits.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 26—(AP) Japanese broadcasters said the "greater part" of Tokyo was burned out today by American fire bombs, abruptly reversing their past policy of minimizing the effects of superfortress raids.

Tokyo radio accounts said the "front building" in the Imperial palace grounds was destroyed, and that several outlying imperial palaces, the foreign, Greater East Asia and Transportation ministry buildings were in ruins.

The United States, Russian and German embassy buildings and the Swedish and Afganistan legations all were burned down, said the broadcast heard by the FCC.

Destroyed also were the Omiya Palace, residence of the Dowager Empress, mother of Hirohito, and the palaces and mansions of the princes Chichibu, Mikasa, Yamashina, Fushimi, Nashimoto, Ken-Ri, and the late Kan-In, 80-year-old nobleman who died last week.

"The conflagration practically laid waste what was once the world's third largest city" said one radio speaker, sounding the pitch for the broadcasts telling of the 4,000-ton incendiary bomb strike.

Premier Kantaro Suzuki was declared to have seen the Imperial itself set afire. He expressed "profound regrets over the damages caused to the imperial palace, also Omiya palace."

Suzuki's eyewitness report was corroborated by a Tokyo commentator who declared the "Imperial palace, the focal point of the Japanese peoples' foremost affection and undying loyalty, was destroyed for the most part."

Hirohito Not Injured

An imperial household announcement quoted in a Domei news agency dispatch said Hirohito, the empress and the empress dowager were safe.

One FCC-recorded Tokyo broadcast said the flames were driven through the "sprawling, congested business districts and the residential sections" by a 70-mile-an-hour gale. Another said:

"The greater part of metropolitan Tokyo was laid waste by the enemy's indiscriminate air raid and many important points reduced to ashes. Practically all of the business center, which had been untouched by former raids, has been burned to the ground.

"Every one who had experienced the enemy's inhuman atrocities have further stirred up their feeling of hostility and are firmly determined to fight to the last Japanese."

One commentator, Toshiro Shimanouchi, graduate of Whittier College, Calif., whose father formerly edited a Japanese-American newspaper in San Francisco, declared:

"The physical aspects of the imperial abode may have been destroyed, but its moral and spiritual aspects, permanent and indestructible, not only give solace to the subjects of the empire but stabilize their spirit of unity and devotion."

He asserted that the Japanese feeling toward Americans had turned from "hatred to anger" to "deepest contempt."

Says U. S. Tries to Extirpate Japs

Tokyo Speaker, Once Stationed in New York, Declares Aim Is Extermination.

San Francisco, May 26 (A. P.).—"The American people will surely get an answer in some form or other," the Tokyo radio declared in recounting the damage wrought by today's 500-plane attack on the Japanese capital.

An American educated commentator, Toshiro Shimanouchi, spoke of schools, hospitals and shrines, and then said flatly that the Americans are attempting to exterminate the Japanese people. The feeling of the Japanese toward the Americans has turned from one of hatred or anger to one of deepest contempt, he continued, adding: "They know that President Truman's statement that unconditional surrender by Japan does not mean extermination or enslavement is pure whitewash. The American enemy, by unloading bombs not only on their homes, but even upon the palace of the Emperor, is attempting through the vilest form of attack to exterminate the Japanese."

Shimanouchi was once stationed in New York, where he was associated with the Society for International Cultural Relations (Kokusia Bunka Shinkokai). He left New York shortly after Pearl Harbor.

In a later broadcast Domei, the Japanese official news agency, said that Premier Kantaro Suzuki, who tendered his profoundest apology to the Emperor for the raid which he "bitterly denounced" as an "indiscriminate attack." The Premier added: "I firmly believe that all the people . . . share my feelings toward the entire American nation . . . over the inexcusable outrage to the sanctified Imperial Palace, and will hereby renew their pledge that such deep-felt regret will be given concrete expression by fighting it out, with every one in the nation exercising his or her utmost in his respective occupation."

Saw Palace Burning.

In a broadcast picked up at New York today by NBC, the British radio said that the Japanese Cabinet was called for two emergency sessions to deal with the devastating raid on Tokyo.

Premier Suzuki professed that he had seen the Emperor's Palace burning with his own eyes, and while he urged that the capital be defended to the last, Japanese radio commentators were saying there was not much left of the world's third largest city, London added.

B-29 Surpasses 350 Miles Hourly

Washington, May 26 (AP)—The Boeing B-29 Superfortress, scourge of Japan, was disclosed today to have a top speed of more than 350 miles an hour, a range of approximately 3,600 miles and a gross weight of 135,000 pounds.

This information was contained in a revised list of publishable facts about the bomber prepared by the Army's Air Technical Service Command at Wright Field, Ohio.

Previously publishable data listed the B-29 as having a maximum of speed of "more than 300 miles an hour," a range of "more than 3,000 miles" and a gross weight of approximately 135,000 pounds. The release of higher figures may represent either a closer approach to actual performance, or increased performance.

The new description of the Superfortress listed its bomb load as "up to ten tons," but Maj. Gen. Oliver P. Echols, assistant Chief of Staff of the Air Forces, said here several weeks ago that the bomb load was more than ten tons.

BIG-3 TALK HELD LIKELY BY JULY 5

Churchill Says Election Won't Interfere With Plans

Herener

London, May 26 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill indicated today he might meet with President Truman and Premier Marshal Stalin before the British general election July 5.

In a tour of his constituency just outside London, Churchill told several meetings he might be called away from his campaign for re-election to Parliament to participate in a post-European war conference of the Big Three.

"I have informed President Truman, with whom I am in constant and cordial communication," he said at Woodford, "that the election must not be allowed in any way to delay for even a day a meeting between the heads of the governments."

30.24 - 27013

Time To Mop'd Affairs

Joseph Davies, Truman's personal representative, planned to meet over the week end with Churchill for a conference which may embrace all Europe's most pressing problems.

The Polish and Syrian disputes, the Trieste affair, Austria, the occupation of Germany and the trial of war criminals probably will be on the agenda.

"The world is in a terrible condition and I must in the days ahead devote a great deal of my time to world affairs," Churchill declared before the Woodford meeting.

"So I cannot promise you I will be among you throughout the campaign. It may be that I shall be called away for another conference of the Big Three."

"We'll Back Her Up"

In that event, the 70-year-old Prime Minister said his wife would have to take his place in the constituency in the campaign in which his re-election to Parliament is unopposed.

Turning to Mrs. Churchill, who sat beside him in an open automobile, Churchill bowed and said she was skilled in public affairs.

"We'll back her up, Winnie," someone shouted from the crowd.

It was an informal trip that the Prime Minister took through his constituency. He insisted it was not a campaign tour but a visit among his old friends.

Will "Bear Comparison"

Churchill declared that his new "caretaker" government, which he formed after the Labor party split off from his wartime coalition government, was strong enough to meet the tests ahead.

The Prime Minister said it would "bear comparison with almost any administration of recent times for ability and single-mindedness of purpose."

New Churchill Regime Faces 'Fiery Baptism'

'Caretaker Government' Will Appear Before Commons on Tuesday — To Serve Until July 5 Elections —Eden Retained

London, May 26—(AP)—The new government of Prime Minister Churchill will face Parliament for the first time Tuesday in what one political commentator said today would be "the fiercest baptism of any administration for a long time."

The Times of London lent support to the view of some observers that the "caretaker government," named last night to serve until Britain's general elections of July 5, was also Churchill's choice for his permanent administration, should the Conservative Party retain its majority at the polls.

Praising the cabinet as a "carefully balanced team," the Times said its members, when they appear before the House, would "ask for a mandate to press on the Japanese war to its conclusion."

Churchill, who retained Anthony Eden as foreign secretary, chose mainly members of his own party to replace the 30 Labor and Liberal ministers leaving the government. Also there are a few from other parties, including the Liberal Maj. Gwilym Lloyd George, son of the late World War I Prime Minister David Lloyd George, as minister of fuel and power, and the Liberal National Ernest Brown, new minister of aircraft production. Cabinet members without definite party affiliation who were retained included Sir James Grigg, secretary of war.

Vacated key cabinet posts were filled largely by shifts to new positions of remaining Conservative cabinet members, whose old portfolios were taken by the newcomers.

The shifts included: Former Minister of Information Brendan Bracken to First Lord of the Admiralty, taking over the post from Laborite A. V. Alexander to whom Churchill relinquished it in 1940 to form the coalition government; Former Minister of Reconstruction Lord Woolton to Lord President of the Council, replacing Labor Leader Clement Attlee, who also had been Deputy Prime Minister; Former Education Minister Richard Austen Butler to Home Minister in place of Ernest Bevin, another top Laborite.

Harold MacMillan, former resident minister at Allied Mediterranean Headquarters, takes over from the Liberal Leader Sir Archibald Sinclair as Air Secretary. The duties of Minister of Production Oliver Lyttelton were extended to include those of Secretary of the Board of Trade, replacing Laborite Hugh Dalton.

Additions to the cabinet included Leslie Hore-Belisha, who resigned as War Secretary in 1940 and becomes Minister of National Insurance, and Geoffrey William Lloyd, former Parliamentary secretary for petroleum to the Ministry of Fuel and Power, who succeeds Bracken as Minister of Information.

Among those retained in their former posts besides Churchill, Eden and Grigg, were Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir John Anderson, Supply Minister Sir Andrew Duncan and Minister of War Transport Lord Leathers, all without definite party adherence, as well as Lord Beaverbrook, London newspaper publisher, as Lord Privy Seal; Secretary for Dominion Affairs Viscount Cranborne, Minister of Food John J. Llewellin, Minister of Works Duncan Sandys and Minister of Civil Aviation Viscount Swinton.

Lord Cranborne will be leader in the House of Lords and Eden leader in the Commons.

The ministry of home security will be absorbed into the home ministry, taken over by Sir Donald Bradley Somerville from Laborite Herbert Morrison. The Ministry of Economic Warfare will be absorbed by Eden's foreign office. MacMillan's former post and that of Ben Smith, resident minister in Washington for supply, will not be filled ministerially.

WAR CRIMES BODY IN ROW

U.S. Moves To Settle "Secret" Dispute On Procedure

London, May 26 (AP)—A secret disagreement within the publicity-shy War Crimes Commission on plans for trial of accused Germans was disclosed by a responsible informant today on the eve of a United States move to settle the issue.

This informant, who cannot be identified, said that the disagreement on procedure among the sixteen-member nations—Russia is not included—was the chief reason formal steps have not been taken against a number of notorious Nazis now in Allied hands.

The dispute appeared to center around the question whether the accused Germans will be tried before a military court or an international civil tribunal.

Complicated By Russia

The argument is complicated by lack of Soviet participation in the commission and by conflicting claims of member nations for local trials of various Nazi bigwigs.

An effort to speed an agreement —not only between the member nations but also between the commission and Russia—was understood to be the immediate objective of Supreme Court Justice Robert Jackson, special war crimes prosecutor for the United States.

Jackson was expected to reach London from Paris tomorrow. It was understood here that he has authority to co-ordinate the work of the commission and Allied supreme headquarters which has immediate possession of a large number of those who may be charged with war crimes.

Hush-Hush Policy

This lack of co-ordination, plus the policy disagreement, had been indicated earlier by a source close to the commission who said that the only knowledge it had of the identity of prisoners in Allied hands had come from the newspapers.

The commission's hush-hush policy has been maintained even to the extent of refusing to disclose the agenda for the May 31 London conference of representatives of the sixteen member nations.

Neither the commission's secretary nor Lieut. Col. Joseph Hodgson, the American representative on the commission, would disclose why the agenda should be kept secret. Nor would either say whether conference sessions would be open to the public.

"Foul Deeds Gone Stale"

Thus far the commission has identified officially only one Nazi—Hermann Goering—as being on its list of war criminals. Its members have refused to say whether the list includes Grand Admiral Karl Doenitz, Joachim von Ribbentrop or Franz von Papen.

Meanwhile, The Economist, a British weekly publication, declared that if the war-guilt trials are to yield permanent results they "must happen quickly; there must be a deadline after which an end is declared to arguments about who should and who should not have been placed in the dock."

The publication said the trials must be summary and unspectacular.

"To allow the prisoners the luxury of famous last words in a Hollywood setting would be to defeat the United Nations' purpose," it added. "So would delays during which Europe might sicken with the smell of foul deeds gone stale."

Britain, U.S. Discuss Levant

London, May 26 (AP)—The Foreign Office announced tonight that urgent consultations between the United States and Britain were in progress for a solution of the crisis in Lebanon and Syria, where Arab preparations for war against the French threatened to erupt into violence.

A Damascus dispatch said that at least one person was shot today during disturbances in the Syrian capital. Armed gendarmes guarded all Government offices and there was gunfire as French troops marched up the main streets.

In an official statement the British Government appealed to all parties to remain calm until a solution could be reached.

In Role Of Guarantor

The British Government, in its role of guarantor of the independence of Lebanon and Syria, said Britain was in "constant contact with the parties concerned," and with the United States.

Britain expressed regret that the "atmosphere should have been disturbed by the dispatch of certain French reinforcements" to the Levant countries and that this should have been the occasion for a breakoff in negotiations between France and the Levant states.

The announcement came as tenseness gripped the Arab area and a Beyrouth dispatch reported that Lebanon and Syria had called on the Egyptian Premier to summon a meeting of the Arab league council at the earliest possible date.

Declared Intent To Resist

Levant ministers, in announcing several days ago that negotiations with France had been broken off, said that if the situation could not be settled peacefully, Lebanon and Syria, backed by the Arab world, would "resist with every means at their disposal."

The British Foreign Office statement said:

"His Majesty's Government is aware of the serious situation which has developed in the last few days in Syria and Lebanon, but especially in Syria. They regret that the improved atmosphere should have been disturbed by the dispatch of certain French reinforcements and that this should have been the occasion for breaking off negotiations for general settlement between the Levant states and the French Government.

In Constant Contact

"His Majesty's Government are in consultation with the United States Government and in constant contact with the parties concerned regarding these developments and it is earnestly hoped that no action will be taken in the meanwhile to prejudice an amicable solution of the issues involved."

The British Foreign Office first said that Britain was in consultation with the United States and French governments but later corrected this to say only that the British were conferring with the United States and the "parties concerned."

British official quarters called attention to the fact that Britain has virtually guaranteed that France's promise of independence to the Levant states be carried out. Britain appeared to be acting as a go-between in the crisis.

More Troops Reported

Meanwhile, a dispatch from Damascus, Syrian capital, said that tense quiet prevailed today during the Moslem Sabbath, but a report which the French would not confirm said another boatload of French troops was en route to Beyrouth in Lebanon.

The arrival of more troops, the Damascus dispatch said, might precipitate an actual conflict between French and Levant forces.

British Solved Secret of Foe's Magnetic Mines

Found How to Explode Them by Trailing Live Electric Cable Over the Water

By The Associated Press

LONDON, May 26.—The British Navy revealed today a part of the story of its victorious battle over German magnetic mines—a battle which was joined the night of Nov. 24, 1939, when a live magnetic mine was captured.

Convinced in the previous month that the Nazis were using magnetic mines to destroy valuable shipping, the British were at a loss to establish counter-measures until a specimen was hauled from the sea. Study of the specimen showed how the mechanism worked and made available technical data on the strength and duration of the magnetic field required to fire it.

Out of a pool of schemes there came what the Royal Navy called "Double L," or double longitudinal sweep. This consisted of two minesweeping ships, each towing a long, buoyant tail of electric cable through which surged current generated on the ship and stored temporarily in batteries.

Traveling in parallel courses with the floating tails stretched behind them, the minesweepers were able to subject ten or more acres of sea bottom to magnetic field of sufficient strength and duration to explode all mines in the area and thus provide a safe course.

Calling the method 100 per cent effective, the Royal Navy told how the first experiment was made one day late in December, 1939, when two tugs filled with motor-car batteries went out from the harbor towing cable used for charging submarine batteries and floated on logs originally intended to make ship masts.

The trial confirmed the scientists' calculations of the current through the sea and of the magnetic field. That night orders went out from the Admiralty for a large program of production, which eventually overcame the menace of the magnetic mine.

British Navy Planning 'Token' Demobilization

Most Men Will Be Kept for War Against Japan

LONDON, May 26 (AP).—A. V. Alexander, who was First Lord of the Admiralty in the coalition government, announced there would be only a "token" demobilization of men in the British Navy because that branch of the service was planning to throw its maximum strength against the Japanese as soon as possible.

In his last act before handing over the Admiralty to Prime Minister Churchill's new appointee, Brendan Bracken, Alexander disclosed that only about 160,000 officers and men past the age of fifty will be demobilized, beginning June 18.

In addition to those men needed in the Pacific war, Alexander said, considerable navy men would be needed for disarming the German Navy and for mine-clearance work. Key men, he said, would be retained in their posts.

War Film 'The True Glory' To Be Completed Soon

London, May 26—(AP)—Work is being completed on "The True Glory," an authoritative film of the war on the Western Front and depicting the Allied campaign from D-Day until the unconditional surrender of Germany.

"The True Glory," officially sponsored by the United States and British Governments, was directed by Garson Kanin of Hollywood and Carol Reed, top-flight English director. It was produced with the co-operation of General Eisenhower, who already has viewed parts of it and will deliver the prologue.

Material for the picture was chosen by the directors from millions of feet of film taken by Allied cameramen.

The title of the production was taken from a prayer uttered by Sir Francis Drake.

Eighth Extolled by British

LONDON, May 26 (AP)—The Daily Express, bidding an editorial farewell to American fliers now departing for assignments against Japan, said today: "There is a special affection in British hearts for the Fortresses and Liberators of the United States Eighth Air Force."

The editorial said that the 1942-1943 controversy over the efficacy of daylight bombing was not settled until the Casablanca conference, when air chiefs threshed out the issue in the presence of Prime Minister Churchill and the late President Roosevelt.

Then the Eighth Air Force was "allowed to go ahead with the mighty and brilliant conception of air war mapped out for them," the editorial said, wishing the fliers "godspeed in their new tasks."

ALLIES REPATRIATE MILLION IN REICH

Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Forces, Paris, May 26 (A. P.).—More than 1,000,000 displaced persons from countries in western Europe have been repatriated through Allied Army channels since the over-all program for returning them to their native lands began, Supreme Headquarters announced today. They include 834,307 French, 145,207 Belgians, 89,600 Dutch and 2,713 Luxembourgers. It was estimated that 2,800,000 displaced persons, mainly from Eastern Europe, remain in German territory controlled by SHAEF but these are being repatriated with increasing speed.

A plan agreed upon at Leipzig early this week provides for the persons, mainly from eastern placed persons in the Russian zone into areas controlled by the British and Americans and the simultaneous transfer of Russians from those areas to the Russian zone.

Among the displaced persons in Germany about 2,300,000 are being cared for in camps operated and administered by the Allied armies with the help of UNRRA teams. It is estimated that 500,000 others have not yet been brought into assembly centers.

WYSOR TO RUN GERMAN MILLS

Ex-President Of Republic Steel Named Aide To Clay

Paris, May 26 (AP)—R. J. Wysor, until recently president of the Republic Steel Corporation, was named today by the Allied Control Council to supervise metallurgical operations in Germany and to see that the Reich's steel mills are controlled, dismantled or moved out of Germany.

Wysor, a Clevelander, was among a group of leading American civilians and army officers appointed to help carry out the policies of United States and Allied authorities in controlling Germany's economy.

To Bar War-Making Power

Supreme headquarters said an economic intelligence division will make sure that "Germany's war-making powers are eliminated in such a way they cannot be revived in secret preparations for another war."

Dr. Calvin B. Hoover, Durham, N.C., dean of the Duke University Graduate School, was named to head the intelligence group for the Allied Control Council. Lieut. Gen. Lucius Clay, General Eisenhower's representative on the council announced. Hoover also will be special adviser to Brig. Gen. William H. Draper, chief of the economic division.

"Plants which cannot be converted to production of essential civilian goods will be destroyed, General Clay said.

Research To Be Controlled

Other tasks confronting the group will be destruction of German laboratories and research institutions in which V-bombs, rocket planes and other weapons were hatched. All future research will be carefully controlled.

Wysor was affiliated with the Republic Steel Corporation, third largest steel company in the United States, for fifteen years.

Other experts named to the group by Clay:

Edward S. Zdunek, formerly head of General Motors at Antwerp, to supervise the engineering section.

Philip Gaethke, of New York, to direct all mining operations in the United States occupation zone. Gaethke formerly was connected with Anaconda Copper and was manager of its smelters and mines in upper Silesia before the war.

Chief Of Oil Section

Philip P. Clover, of Socony Vacuum, New York, as chief of the oil section of the fuel and mining branch. He formerly was Socony's representative in Germany but since the war has served the State Department as petroleum attaché in Central and South America.

Dr. W. O. Snelling, Allentown, Pa., consulting chemical engineer. He is an authority on explosives and holds more than 100 patents on explosives and chemical products.

Laird Bell, Chicago lawyer, chief counsel for the economy division.

Lloyd Steers, former agricultural attaché for the United States Embassy in Berlin and an authority on German agricultural problems, to be special adviser to Draper on food and agriculture.

For Production Control

Col. James Boyd, Denver, of the Colorado School of Mines and a War Department adviser on WPB materials, to be chief of a branch to control industrial production.

Peter Hoglund, on leave from General Motors and an expert on German production, to serve as Colonel Boyd's deputy.

Col. Maurice R. Scharff, former assistant director of the production division of the Army Service Forces, to head the requirements and allocations branch and to pass on raw materials and components permitted the Germans.

Hoover, dean of the Duke graduate school since 1938, has carried out a number of important assignments during the war for President Roosevelt's drought relief committee and for the Office of Strategic Service.

General Clay said the Germans, under the watchful eye of the control council, would be compelled to grow and produce their own food. He said German cartels would be prohibited and that exports would be under close control.

Petain's Appeal To Leahy Made Public in Paris

Admiral Reported Cold to Plea to Give Evidence of Marshal's Love of France

PARIS, May 26 (AP).—Lawyers for Marshal Henri Petain made public tonight the letter in which the former Vichy Chief of State has appealed to Admiral William D. Leahy, former American Ambassador at Vichy, to "help me convince those who are accusing me of their mistake."

The letter, dated yesterday, asked Leahy to testify in Petain's defense at his trial on charges of intelligence with the Germans—the trial has tentatively been set for June 15—and, if unable to be present, to send a written deposition.

[The Paris radio, heard at London, said Saturday that Admiral Leahy, now chief of staff to President Truman, has declared he would not appear as a witness. The broadcast quoted Leahy as saying that the trial was purely a French affair and that it was not for Americans to interfere.

[At Washington, White House sources said Leahy had "absolutely no comment to make on Petain's request.]

Petain's letter, as disclosed by Fernand Isorny and Jacques Payen, the marshal's lawyers, read:

"My Dear Admiral: Victory finally has crowned the efforts of the Allies. Americans have shown themselves to be magnificent. I am not surprised, because I saw them mount an offensive at Montfaucon in 1918, and I was certain they would cover their flag with glory again.

"The joy this great event brings me is covered by a shadow which grows darker every day. I am accused today of having betrayed France, of having compromised myself with a secret society, La Cagoule, certain members of which, it appears, have used my name with theirs in their German activities.

"The indignation that I have expressed in learning of this wickedness hasn't convinced my judges and I am now in the position of a defendant accused of having betrayed his country—I who have always done everything to defend it.

"My Dear Admiral, you who have lived beside me during those months, you who have witnessed my efforts to restore France, you will help me to convince those who are accusing me of their mistake, to show them that I have never had any aim other than to live and protect them against the demands and the cruelties of the German occupying troops.

"Testimony of an honorable man that you are would be valuable to me in silencing those who pronounce such judgments on me. This is the reason that I ask you to consent to be a witness in my trial and, in case your duties should prevent you from so doing, to address a written evidence of the efforts that I never ceased to exert on behalf of France and which you saw."

WAR'S GREAT WASTE SHOWN

Americans Clean Up On Fields Of Normandy

Carentan, Normandy, May 26 (AP). The final cleanup of the old battlefields of Normandy is disclosing the appalling waste of war as salvage crews uncover everything from jeeps to bulldozers in the green fields and hedgerows where the Yanks won their toehold in western Europe almost a year ago.

There are few troops left now in the "Omaha" and "Utah" beach areas which once swarmed with soldiers. The little Normandy towns look almost deserted and only an occasional GI is seen on the streets. Normany once more belongs to the Normans.

About the only troops left are prison camp personnel, hospital workers and crews whose job is to salvage as much ammunition and equipment as possible from the fields.

Nitro Offers Big Problem

The cleanup job has fallen to the 17th Ordnance Battalion commanded by Lieut. Col. Lloyd Littlefield, Springfield, Mass.

"We're pretty much of an oddity," Littlefield said. "We did a cleanup job in England, gathering up all the ammunition and leftover equipment and now we are doing the same job in Normandy."

He estimated some 47,000 tons of ammunition still were left on the beaches and his battalion is shipping about 1,200 tons daily to the United States and Pacific. Much of the ammunition has to be reboxed.

Right now Littlefield and his men are sweating out the removal of 400 tons of nitroglycerine which is staked in one field—enough explosive to blow out a large chunk of Normandy if anything goes haywire.

In cleaning up, ammunitions dumps Littlefield's men have discovered an amazing amount of equipment worth many thousands of dollars which was abandoned in the hedgerows as the units pulled out to other areas.

Besides jeeps, trucks and trailers the crews have found 42 pieces of heavy equipment including big D-4 tractor crawlers, D-7 tractor crawlers with hydraulic brakes, tractor cranes and tank dozers.

"I suppose the units moved out so fast they just left them in the fields," said Capt. Lester A. Gleiner, Rochester, N.Y., Littlefield's executive officer.

The battalion is helped in the cleanup work by German and Italian prisoners and by Czechs, Poles, Russians and other nationals who are concentrated in civilian labor camps.

Cordon Sanitaire Seeks To Bar German Disease

Allies Act Along the Rhine to Keep Out Typhus

PARIS, May 26 (AP).—Allied headquarters announced today that a cordon sanitaire, to prevent any spread of typhus and other contagious diseases from conquered Germany to the rest of Europe, was being set up along the Rhine.

Medical sources, alarmed by the amount of sickness and some deaths among repatriated Frenchmen, warned former inmates of German concentration camps today against over-eating. Dr. Jean-Marie Inbona, who headed the prisoner' medical staff at Buchenwald, and Dr. Hugues Jounelle, of the French military hospitals, told the released prisoners that "you have been without nourishment so long, your stomachs are weakened and cannot take some foods."

PARIS, May 26 (AP)—Political informants said today that General de Gaulle was expected to make four or five changes in his Cabinet within the next few days, adding that the French leader wanted to reshuffle the Ministers before leaving for Washington to visit President Truman. Circles close to the Government believe General de Gaulle will change the heads of the Justice, Food, Information and Prisoners-Deportees Ministries and possibly the Colonies portfolio.

The first four posts would be filled by two Communists and two Socialists, it is expected, conforming thereby with the results of recent municipal elections which saw those two parties score a convincing victory.

1,500,000 French Homes Hit

PARIS, May 26 (AP)—Approximately 1,500,000 French homes were damaged during the war, not counting ruined buildings in the Atlantic coastal ports and in Alsace-Lorraine, official sources said today. Bombs and street fighting damaged 58,000 houses in the Paris area.

Timetable Upset in Austria

6th Army Group's Swift Push Gave Problem to A. M. G.

PARIS, May 26 (AP).—American and French forces of the 6th Army Group upset the Allied timetable by smashing into Austria ahead of American and British units from Italy, Supreme Headquarters disclosed today.

Allied Military Government officers, faced with the immediate problem of issuing the thousands of copies of booklets, proclamations and directives needed for the occupational forces, took over a newspaper plant in Cologne. Carefully selected German printers worked four days and nights and completed the task.

Petain Asks Leahy To Testify At His Trial

Paris, May 26 — (AP) — Marshal Petain formally asked yesterday that Adm. William D. Leahy, former U. S. ambassador to Vichy, come to France to testify as a defense witness at his trial in June. He previously said he would make this request.

Mines Kill 10 French Children

MULHOUSE, France, May 26 (AP).—Ten Alsatian school children were killed and a number injured in an explosion today after they started a fire near a mines and munitions dump outside the village of Kogenheim.

General Strike Ties Up Marseille for 24 Hours

Workers Protest Against Government, Profiteers, Wages

MARSEILLE, France, May 26 (AP).—A twenty-four-hour general strike by all workers closed down virtually all businesses and industries in Marseille today, and tonight even motion-picture theaters failed to open.

The French press agency said workers struck to express dissatisfaction with the government, the black market and low wages, among other complaints.

Tomorrow, according to the workers' plan, there will be business as usual.

U-Boat Base Was Left Intact

ST. NAZAIRE, France, May 26 (AP).—The Nazi submarine base at St. Nazaire was left intact by the Germans and turned over to the French in operating condition, it was disclosed today. The enemy garrison in this explosive-battered city neutralized a demolition system of torpedoes planted at twenty-five-foot intervals along the quay for the surrender May 11, and left a 740-ton U-boat in one of the concrete pens.

HIMMLER BURIED IN SECRET GRAVE

Soldiers Dump Body Into Ground Without Coffin

Chamberlain

Lueneberg, Germany, May 26 (AP). The body of Heinrich Himmler was returned unceremoniously today to the soil of Germany which he stained with the blood of thousands of victims of his Gestapo.

"Let the worm go to the worms," was his only requiem, spoken by a British soldier who had to dig his secret grave.

His burial was a summary as that of victims in such concentration camps as Dachau and Belsen. In fact, the British tried to get a pine coffin such as used at Belsen for the slain, but they could not find one.

Lay Where He Fell

Himmler's body lay for two days where it fell after he took poison Wednesday rather than face trial as a war criminal.

A senior intelligence officer was given instructions to dispose of the body as he saw fit. He saw fit to make it as unceremonious as possible.

A major and three sergeants were summoned to the villa where the SS and Gastapo chieftain took his life.

The sergeants grabbed the body—still wrapped in the gray British Army blanket Himmler wore when he faced his captors—by the head and feet.

They walked out the door and around behind and dumped the body into a one-ton army truck alongside three spades. The truck roared off.

Drove Off Into Woods

The burial party drove out into some woods—just where must remain forever secret.

The sergeants spaded out a hole. Then they thrust the body into it, one sergeant growled his requiem about the worms, and then they began covering up the body.

The burial party left no marker. They did not even leave the usual telltale mound of earth. They smoothed the ground off level so as not to leave a trace.

Himmler Is Buried Secretly

Grave Unmarked So Germans Won't Move Body or Put Monument There Later.

Chamberlain

Lueneburg, Germany, May 26 (A. P.).—The body of Heinrich Himmler, wrapped in a gray British Army blanket, was carted by truck into a woods near here today and dumped into a grave spaded out by three British Tommies.

For two days the body had been left on the floor of a Lueneberg villa where the Gestapo chief ended his life with poison while undergoing examination after his arrest by British authorities.

A senior intelligence officer of the British Second Army said he had been told to dispose as he saw fit of the body of the Nazi Gestapo chief, whose private currency hoard of approximately $1,000,000 was discovered yesterday hidden under a barn near Berchtesgaden.

A major and three sergeants carried out the unceremonious burial. A soldier who witnessed the removal said the sergeants took Himmler's body by head and feet, carried it behind the house where he died and dumped it into a one-ton truck alongside three spades.

The body had not been embalmed and was clad only in a British Army shirt and the army blanket he chose to drape about him when his own clothing was taken away after his arrest.

The Himmler grave in the woods, a patch of pines, was not marked, for the Allies do not want the Germans to remove the body or mark the spot with some monument later.

Some efforts were made to obtain a pine coffin of the type used by the Germans to bury victims of the notorious Belsen concentration camp, but none could be found.

"Let the worm go to the worms," a Tommy said.

That was the only comment spoken at the grave.

Dirt was shoveled on the body and the ground smoothed so as to leave no trace that it was the final resting place of one of the men who strode most heavily across the Nazi stage.

An intelligence officer who was present when Himmler clamped his teeth into the little vial of poison said the quick-acting draught took effect almost immediately and Himmler died without saying a word.

The Nazi chieftain had been stripped and examined, the officer said, and his last request was for a shirt to cover his nakedness. He had just slipped on this garment when he took his own life.

DEFIANT GERMAN JAILED

Year Term Imposed for His Disrespect to Allied Officers

LUENEBERG, May 26 (AP)—A one-year prison sentence for "disrespectful conduct" to Allied forces was imposed by a general military court today on a 74-year-old German barber who refused to sell a bottle of hair oil to a British officer.

Capt. W. G. Moyers testified he went to the shop for a haircut and asked to buy a bottle of oil displayed in the showcase. The barber, Edward Suss, said it was already sold and paid for.

Captain Moyers reported the incident to Lieut. Col. G. Bartlett, a public safety officer of Second Army headquarters, who accompanied him back to the shop.

Captain Moyers testified they were told to get out of the shop and were treated disrespectfully by the barber.

MAY 27 1945

TOLD HITLER IN '44 OF 'GAS' SHORTAGE

Flensburg, Germany, May 26 (A. P.).—Albert Speer, former German Minister of War Production, wrote Adolf Hitler that Allied bombing had destroyed 90 per cent of the Nazis' aviation gasoline plants by the summer of 1944, copies of the letters found here indicate. The letters, written on a special machine with unusually large type, were found in the headquarters of Grand Admiral Karl Doenitz. Hitler was reportedly becoming nearsighted, and special typewriters with letters twice the normal size were used for important reports.

Speer informed Hitler that aviation gasoline plants were being put underground with a measure of success, but that the most he could hope for was 10,000 to 20,000 gallons monthly from them. He advised Hitler that courier plane service between Field Generals and the High Command should be abandoned, and that gasoline should be used only for operational sorties and training new pilots.

Foreign Economic Administrator Leo T. Crowley said at Washington last July 31 that Allied bombing had reduced German oil production by more than 50 per cent in the four months preceding that date. He said that in April, 1944, the Reich's output of natural and synthetic petroleum had been "fully adequate," but by the end of July fell far short of meeting minimum consumption needs, "even after drastic curtailment of important uses."

Foe Used Acoustic Torpedoes

FLENSBURG, Germany, May 26 (AP).—One of Germany's ace submarine commanders said today that Nazi U-boat men had found that acoustic torpedoes which followed sound waves to targets "were 90 per cent more effective than the older models."

Interviewed aboard the liner Patria, occupied now by the Supreme Allied Headquarters mission, Lieutenant Commander Heinz Walkerling said he had sunk two destroyers and 30,000 tons of Allied shipping in the North Atlantic. He is being employed by Allied authorities as a sort of liaison officer between American and British naval men and the Germans.

The thirty-year-old naval officer said the Germans began using acoustic torpedoes in the fall of 1943. He estimated that Germany had some 800 first-line submarines in operation at the peak of the campaign against Allied shipping.

Walkerling also declared that more than 100 U-boats were assigned for a constant watch of Allied convoy routes between Newfoundland and Ireland during the last two years of the war.

"Morale was extremely high all during the war among submarine men, and there was a high competitive spirit, with each commander trying to outdo the other," he said. "At the base charts or box scores were kept of the tonnage sunk and the commanders competed for the top place." He judged the Germans lost thirty U-boats a month.

Gen. Eisenhower Moves To Frankfurt on Main

C. Kiley

FRANKFURT ON THE MAIN, Germany, May 26.—(AP) Gen. Eisenhower opened his new headquarters here today in the huge sprawling I. G. Farben buildings after moving up from Reims, France, where he had directed the last stages of the war against Germany since late in February.

This will be Gen. Eisenhower's headquarters as Supreme Allied commander as well as chief American representative on the Allied group controlling the Reich. There has been no change made in the Anglo-American staff the supreme commander had with him in Reims.

The building housing Gen. Eisenhower's headquarters formerly was the main office of the I. G. Farben Co., one of the world's largest manufacturers of chemicals. It was virtually untouched although almost every section of Frankfurt was badly hit by Allied bombings.

SHAEF Offices Moved To Frankfort Factory

By The Associated Press.

FRANKFORT ON THE MAIN, Germany, May 26—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower moved from Reims today and established headquarters here in a sprawling building that formerly was the main office of the I. G. Farben Company, chemical manufacturers. General Eisenhower will retain this office as chief American representative of the Allied group controlling the Reich.

The seven-story building will be General Eisenhower's headquarters as Supreme Allied Commander, as well as chief American representative of the Allied control group. No charge has been made in the Anglo-American staff that the Supreme Commander had with him in Reims, according to a Stars and Stripes dispatch released to the combined press.

The building housing headquarters is virtually untouched, although almost every section of Frankfort was badly hit by Allied bombings. Only one wing of the building and a section of the roof were damaged by artillery shells.

ALLIED PRESS RUSS TARGET

Pravda Writer Hails Soviet Union As Democracy's Shield

Gilmore

Moscow, May 26 (AP)—David Zalavsky, a Communist writer, in a sharply worded attack on sections of the British and American press, declared today that the democratic states of Europe had found their "truest and strongest protector" in the Soviet Union.

Defending Russia's approach to international problems as compared with so-called "western methods," Zaslavsky took issue with articles in the British Yorkshire Post, the Australian Sidney Mirror and with the handling by some American newsmen of activities of the Soviet delegation in the San Francisco conference.

Blames Allies

Writing in the Communist organ Pravda, Zaslavsky predicated his article on a declaration that the Allies can achieve understanding, but said any failure to reach such harmony now was because the western Allies did not understand or would not acknowledge the Russian methods.

He quoted the Yorkshire Post as saying that relative misunderstandings among the Allies were the result of "insufficient understanding of western methods which the Russians sometimes display as a result of the policies of Lenin as opposed to the policies of Peter the Great for rapprochement with the west."

Out-Of-Date Parallel

"We agree with the Post that the main interests of the great Allied powers are to create the possibility of mutual understanding in the struggle against fascism," Zaslavsky said.

"At the same time, we fear this English paper blocks the route to understanding by turning to an out-of-date historic parallel."

Asserting the Post was misleading in raising the question of "western and eastern" methods of approaching world problems, Zaslavsky said:

"The Post supposes the Russian people do not possess a sufficient understanding of western methods. But, no, we are sufficiently acquainted with the different western methods."

Artful Hostility

Referring to the prewar Munich days, he said:

"Before the war the guiding 'western method' of English foreign policy was a policy which consisted in pitting all western Europe against the Soviet Union and in an artificially hostile isolation of the Soviet Union.

"This 'western method' was tagged with the name Munich. It is known what it led to—to the greatest catastrophe in Europe and one which almost ruined England."

The Russian writer said that with the passing of time this Munich policy was displaced by another "western method," which found expression in the Anglo-Soviet treaty and in a coalition of the great powers.

The Highest Form

Asking whether the Post thought what it called the "western method" referred to democracy and equal rights for all people, Zaslavsky said that, if so, then the Soviet population knew that in the Soviet Union had been realized the highest form of democracy.

"The democratic states of Europe have found their truest and strongest protector in the Soviet state," he declared.

SAYS POLISH BANDS COMMIT POGROMS

Moscow, May 26 (A. P.).—A writer in the newspaper Izvestia today accused Polish bands once commanded by Gen. Leopold Okulicki with carrying out individual slayings, firing on Russian and Polish units, and committing pogroms in liberated Poland. Gen. Okulicki and fifteen others are under arrest on charges of fifth column activities behind the Red Army lines.

The writer, Ivan Kovalski, asserted that Lieut. Gen. Tadeusz Komorowski (Bor), leader of the unsuccessful uprising against the Nazis in Warsaw, was a collaborationist and that Okulicki was his appointed successor in carrying out "the black deeds of Hitler."

"The Polish people entirely approve the measures of punishment applied by Polish democratic authorities to the reactionary murderers," Kovalski said. "They entirely approve the measures of self defense adopted by the Soviet authorities in regard to Polish Fascists who carry on Hitler's black work in the Red Army rear."

Ukraine's Civilian Losses

Total Put at 7,000,000 in War, With 2,500,000 Known Dead

MOSCOW, May 26 (AP).—The Soviet Ukraine lost 7,000,000 civilians during the war, Guards Colonel Vladimir Mochalov said today in the Army newspaper "Red Star."

He said that 2,500,000 lost their lives outright, 1,500,000 are missing without trace and 3,000,000 were shipped to Germany. The Ukraine's population before the war was 40,000,000.

Mochalov said the material loss to the Ukraine during the war was more than $100,000,000,000.

Moscow, May 26 (AP)—Harry Hopkins and Marshal Stalin conferred in the Kremlin today. The nature of their initial conversation was not divulged, but it was believed to have covered a broad range of subjects, including possibly a meeting soon of the Big Three.

TITO WILL DEMAND 'RIGHTS' IN TRIESTE

Says Differences With Allies Will Be Solved but He 'Will Stand Firm'

MOSCOW, May 26 (AP)—Marshal Tito said in a speech in Zagreb, reported by Tass today, that differences between the Allies and Yugoslavs in northeastern Italy and southern Austria would be solved, but added "we will stand firm and defend our rights."

Marshal Tito, defending the actions of Yugoslav troops in Italy, added, "We came to Istria, Trieste and the Isonzo not to attach these territories but to destroy and help destroy Germany—the wickedist foe of civilization."

He declared that rumors were being spread in certain quarters of the world that there were disputes between Yugloslavia and the Allies, but said "there was no reason for these rumors."

Yugoslavia holds that the areas for which her troops fought should be given to her at the peace conference, he said.

"We reached the Isonzo through the force of our weapons just as the Allies, with their force of arms, conquered the enemy in Africa and also reached the Isonzo," he said. "At the Isonzo we met.

"Marshal Alexander [Field Marshal Sir Harold R. L. G. Alexander, Allied Commander in Chief in the Mediterranean] and I earlier agreed that one part would be occupied by his troops, but through battles we arrived first. * * * We want our rights respected. We await the final decision of the peace conference.

"Italy comes forward with some claims. We do not recognize her as an ally. We demand that she pay for every act she committed. We are ready to settle our accounts and after that live in friendship with the Italian people."

Marshal Tito said it would be "a great injustice" if the Yugoslavs were forced to quit the territory and declared that the liberation of Istria, Trieste and the Slovene martime zone had cost the Yugoslavs 8,000 killed in ten days.

ITALIAN-ALLIED TENSION RISES

American Arrest And Release Of Socialist Studied

Brita

Rome, May 26 (AP)—Italian political tension increased sharply today as the arrest and subsequent release of Pietro Nenni, Socialist leader, focused attention anew on Italian-Allied relations.

Nenni, who has been mentioned as a possible successor to Premier Ivanoe Bonomi in a government reorganization soon to take place, was arrected at Vercelli by United States 5th Army troops for addressing a public gathering in violation of Allied military government regulations.

Allied military government headquarters in Milan announced tonight that Nenni had written a letter apologizing for violating the AMG's no-speaking rule and that the incident was closed.

Confers With Bonomi

The American action evoked protests from Conservatives and Monarchists as well as Socialists and Communists, and Socialist party directors in a special meeting formally asked the Bonomi Government to seek from the Allies "abolition on these restrictions (on speech making in northern Italy), which still obstruct the exercise of liberty."

Capt. Eilery W. Stone, chief of the Allied commission for Italy, conferred with Bonomi and members of his Cabinet during the morning and it was understood that he informed them Nenni would not be brought before an AMG court at Turin, as previously announced. The Socialist leader, however, will be held to a pledge not to violate the embargo on political speeches in AMG territory.

Newspapers Comment

Socialist party directors telegraphed Nenni that "Socialists of all Italy raise proud protest against the arrests of one of heads of anti-Fascism while so many of those responsible for the ruin of our country can tell evade justice."

The Communist newspaper L'Unita observing that it was possible Nenni was arrested for political reasons asserted "in this event we reply openly that intimidating maneuvers such as these will not detract us from our course and that the masses will know at the opportune moment how to make their voices heard."

The Liberal (Conservative) party newspaper said, Nenni's arrest was "a cause of regret and concern above all because of the present delicate political situation," and the Monarchist organ termed the case a "regrettable incident."

Warned On Embargo

The Socialist newspaper Avanti asked: "What are the limits of Allied control in Italy? Doesn't it seem to the Allied governments that the victorious insurrection of the working masses of the north and the end of the war remove every justification and legitimacy for regulations of this kind?"

'Doctor Gibbs' Seized In Northern Italy

ROME, May 26.—(AP) The U. S. Fifth Army announced today that Karl Frederick Griesenberg, who sometimes used the alias "Doctor Gibbs," a former Nazi chief administrator for confiscated estates in Poland, had been seized by 85th Infantry division troops near Brunico in northern Italy.

Griesenberg, who once served as a Nazi secret agent and scientific assistant to Otto Abetz, German ambassador to occupied France, was grabbed as he was strolling with a pretty blonde secretary whom he said he was planning to marry as soon as he obtained a divorce from his German wife.

McNARNEY HONORED

Rome, May 26—(AP)—Field Marshal Sir Harold Alexander conferred the Order of Knight Commander of the Bath yesterday on Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, commander of U. S. forces in the Mediterranean theater.

"A large proportion of the credit for the successful conclusion of the Italian campaign must go to Gen. McNarney," Alexander said.

Swiss Deny Offering Site For World Organization

But Unofficial Sources Admit 'Possible' Geneva Bid

Fischer

BERN, May 26 (AP).—The Swiss National Advisory Council for Foreign Affairs has recommended continued support of humanitarian efforts in the reconstruction of Europe, but avoided commitments on an international organization as proposed at the San Francisco world security conference.

All official and semi-official sources denied that Switzerland had urged that a new world organization be situated in Switzerland.

Unofficial sources recalled, however, that Sean Lester, acting secretary general of the League of Nations, who attended the San Francisco conference, had been a guest of the Canton of Geneva government before his departure for the United States, and that a suggestion that the league's buildings be used for a new organization "possibly" had been made.

QUISLING PLEADS INNOCENT TO CHARGES

Norden

OSLO, May 26 (AP)—Vidkun Quisling angrily pleaded innocent today to a charge of high treason, declaring "I am the saviour of the Norwegian people."

Quisling entered his plea at a preliminary hearing, speaking in a firm, clear voice.

The erstwhile dictator of Norway was ordered to stand trial and Judge Gulbrandsen said the trial would come within a month or two.

NIGHT

Gulbrandsen said it was in the interest of the Norwegian people that Quisling and his cohorts be tried as speedily as possible.

Earlier, the Office of Justice said 16 men were investigating Quisling's activities with the Germans in preparation for the trial.

CHINESE GROUP HARD PRESSED

Relief Is On Way For Militia Fighting Japs At Siapu

MOOSA

Chungking, May 26 (AP)—Chinese forces battled north along China's vulnerable east coast today toward the relief of local militia locked in fighting with Japanese Marine landing parties at Siapu, 68 miles northeast of liberated Foochow.

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's veteran fighters slashing into Japan's continental lifeline to Indo-China at the same time fought to span the Lung River barrier guarding the approaches to the big, former American airbase at Liuchow in South-Central China.

Counterdrive Reported

[A Chinese communiqué, recorded by the FCC, said Chinese forces had opened a counter-offensive in northern Honan province south of the Yellow River—in a third threat to Japan's overland corridor to Indo-China.

[In a two-day drive, Chinese forces hurled back the Japanese 69th Division and 3d Brigade and advanced up to 13 miles along a wide front south of Shanhsien, 450 miles northeast of Chungking, the communiqué said. More than 3,450 enemy soldiers were reported killed.

Japs Fleeing Northward

Japanese forces landed in coastal Fukien province northeast of Foochow were small, a Chinese military spokesman said, but the militiamen were believed hard-pressed.

Pursuing Japanese forces who pulled out of Foochow, Chinese pushed up to the outskirts of Loyuan, 35 miles southwest of Siapu, while Japanese rearguards, protecting the flight of main enemy forces, gave the Chinese battle at Tanyang, 10 miles behind advance Chinese units.

These Japanese forces were fleeing northward evidently in an attempt to join the Marines landed from warships three days ago and make a combined stand against Chinese troops and militia.

Retreating Enemy Battered

A Chinese spokesman suggested that the objective of the Japanese landings was to take some pressure off enemy forces retreating from the Foochow area. The Chinese were slicing up the retreating enemy forces and inflicting high casualties.

MAY 27 1945 30.24 — 27017

About 350 miles southeast of Chungking the Chinese counter-offensive into the enemy's north-south supply corridor to Indo-China and Burma ran into stiff enemy opposition along the Lung River. Chinese forces that captured Hwaiyaunchen, on the west bank of the river fifty miles west of Liuchow, fired heavily on enemy positions on the east bank and attempted to bridge the stream under Japanese fire.

Chinese troops to the north also were moving on the former United States Fourteenth Air Force base at Paoking, in Hunan Province. The High Command announced that the area between twenty and twenty-five miles northwest of the base, where a considerable group of encircled Japanese troops was wiped out, had been entirely cleared.

Chinese troops are again in possession of the Hunan Province highway town of Taohwaping, twenty-five miles west of Paoking, after it had changed hands four times in fierce fighting in the past twenty-four hours, the High Command announced. Casualties were heavy on both sides. The High Command announcement indicated that fighting persisted and that the outcome was still in doubt.

Other Chinese detachments wiped out most of a Japanese force caught on a plateau northwest of Taohwaping.

In Kwangsi the Chinese recaptured Sze-an, seventy-five miles northwest of Liuchow. More than 200 casualties were reported inflicted on the Japanese, who retreated eastward.

In the coastal province of Fukien the Chinese reached Tanyang, about 10 miles from Lienkong, and 30 miles from the captured treaty port of Foochow, in their pursuit of the Japanese fleeing northward.

CHINESE TROOPS AGAIN OCCUPY TAOHWAPING

Moos

Chungking, May 26—(AP)—Chinese troops are again in possession of the Hunan province highway town of Taohwaping, 25 miles west of Shaoyang (Paoching), after it had changed hands four times in fierce fighting in the past 24 hours, the High Command announced tonight.

Casualties were heavy on both sides. The High Command announcement indicated that fighting persisted and that the outcome was still in doubt.

Other Chinese detachments wiped out most of a Japanese force caught on a plateau northwest of Taohwaping.

In Kwangsi province the Chinese recaptured the road town of Szean, 75 miles northwest of Liuchow, a key point on Japan's overland route to French Indo-China. More than 200 casualties were reported inflicted on the Japanese, who retreated eastward.

British Consolidate Positions in Burma, Threaten Thailand

Calcutta, May 26—(AP)—British 14th Army troops in Burma, consolidating positions north of Martaban Gulf for a possible invasion of Thailand, have captured the village of Mokshitwa, 14 miles northwest of the rail center of Pegu, controlling the railway to the east.

Farther north another enemy holdout point near Winkanein, two miles southeast of Shwegyin on the Sittang River emptying into the gulf, was shelled and taken.

Heavy bombers of the Eastern Air Command attacked Japanese communications on the Malay Peninsula yesterday, bombing shipping off Victoria Point on the Kra Isthmus and mining Japanese waters. A bridge was wrecked at Tako on the Bangkok-Singapore Railway and rolling stock was strafed.

Sweltering G. I.s to Get Clothing for 20 Below

Apparel Will Be Used in Drive on Japan's Inner Fortress

HAWAII, May 26 (AP).—America's soldiers in the Pacific, long used to fighting the Japanese in sweltering jungle heat, will be issued clothing capable of withstanding twenty degrees below zero temperatures.

Brigadier General George E. Hartman, quartermaster of the army forces in the Pacific, disclosed today that cold-weather clothing would be issued for the first time to troops in the Pacific for use in striking at Japan's inner fortress.

In developing the garments, fashioned on the layer principle, and intended to be all-purpose apparel, since troops are shifted often, experts shivered in the cold of Mt. McKinley, Alaska, scaled the peaks near Camp Hale, Col., and trudged up Mt. Washington, N. H. Experimental stations were set up in Virginia's hills and in the steamy swampland of Florida. A trip through snow-making machines at Lawrence, Mass., was the final laboratory test.

Outfitting will be carried out when all equipment has reached here from the mainland. Meanwhile, shiploads of parkas and skis are being unloaded near beaches filled with sun bathers and surfboard riders.

ONE PLANE BAGS 20 VESSELS OFF COAST OF BORNEO

NIGHT

Blow Is Heaviest Delivered in Pacific Area in Many Weeks.

OPPOSITION LIGHT

U. S. Troops Outflank Santa Fe Road Junction in New Move.

MANILA, Sunday, May 27—(AP) Southwest Pacific planes destroyed 30 enemy ships—one plane alone made a sensational bag of 20—Wednesday and Thursday in waters off the Asiatic coast and the Dutch East Indies.

The blow, reported on today's communique of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, was the heaviest such delivered in the theater in many weeks.

Most of the ships sunk were small freighters. Several more were damaged.

The spectacular individual performance was turned in Wednesday by a Seventh Fleet Reconnaissance Liberator which discovered a concentration of Bandjermas in southern Borneo.

The lone bomber sank seven freighters and destroyed eight others by setting them afire. Then it raised its total to 20 by blotting out five more ships in nearby shipyards. The Japanese built the shipyards for the construction of small wooden cargo vessels. The enemy has placed reliance in such vessels due to steady shipping losses.

Light AA Fire

The daylight attack drew only light anti-aircraft fire and no air challenge. The plane's bag included eight ships of 300 to 1,000 tons and seven of 150 to 300 tons.

A Navy privateer destroyed a schooner and two small freighters off the west coast of Borneo the same day. Thursday, in the same area, a Navy Liberator bagged two more small freighters. A coastal vessel was destroyed elsewhere in the East Indies.

Continuing paralyzing pressure against enemy shipping along the Asiatic coast, two Navy Liberators sank four small freighters off the Malay peninsula. They also damaged an auxiliary and other freight-laden craft.

Some of the tiny craft hit also were sunk, including a tug which, a spokesman said, was carrying troops.

Outflank Junction

American 25th Division troops outflanked the Japanese-held Santa Fe road junction on northern Luzon in a new move to break into the Cagayan valley.

The communique said the Yanks, circling to the east at the southern entrance to the valley, had secured strong positions north of Santa Fe.

Aparri airdrome at the north end of the valley, the last strongly held Japanese area in the Philippines, was bombed by American planes in support of the ground action. Extensive damage was caused by 450 tons of bombs.

On Mindanao, Americans and guerrillas continued to drive the broken Japanese forces into the hills.

Philippine-based bombers damaged ground installations in raids on Formosa, French Indo-China and the Canton area of the China coast.

American planes also supported Australian and Dutch troops mopping up Japanese on Tarakan, oil rich island off the Borneo coast.

10 Hit Borneo

Nearly 100 thirteenth Airforce bombers and fighters hit Borneo targets.

Approximately 100 Mitchells, Liberators and fighters of the Fifth Air force struck Aparri, the closest staging point between the Philippines and Formosa.

Four hundred sorties were flown by attack planes and fighters in support of ground troops on Luzon. On Mindanao, more than 100 Marine dive-bombers struck a Japanese wedge position in a river angle near Davao.

In the air strikes at the Asiatic mainland, the Texas petroleum plant was bombed in the Shanghai area.

In the Luzon fighting around Santa Fe, the Japanese threw in three or four tanks against the 25th. The Yanks killed 159 Japanese, knocked out one tank and repulsed the others.

Thirty-third Division patrols, pushing above Baguio at the north end of the central Luzon plain, killed 51 Japanese.

In the Ipo sector northeast of Manila, 43rd Division Yanks, mopping up an encircled force, counted 149 more Japanese dead.

JAPANESE SHOW DESIRE TO QUIT NORTH OF MANILA

Hampson

Manila, May 26—(AP)—A disintegrating Japanese force, encircled northeast of Manila in mountains suited for a long, delaying stand, is showing a disposition to surrender.

When the 43rd Division and guerrillas captured Ipo Dam, chief source of Manila's water, last week, for the first time in this theater an enemy garrison of considerable size was trapped, since then, the doughboys, aided by the Fifth Air Force, have been killing Japanese at a rate of 100 to 200 a day. Only a few have surrendered.

Yesterday, however, 20 Nipponese, including two medical officers, gave up in a group. They indicated others would like to give up.

On Mindanao, southernmost of the Philippines, although close quarter fighting continues north of Davao, front reports from the 24th Division indicate the peak of enemy resistance has been passed. Battling still is so close that Pfc. Harold Jones, Ainsworth, Neb., killed a Japanese who was clearing a jammed machinegun.

Lincanan airfield, the last of six enemy air bases around Davao, fell to the 24th Thursday.

Today's communique reported the capture on Luzon's east coast of the towns of Infanta and Misua by guerrila forces absorbed into the Philippines Army. American and Filipino forces thus hold a solid line of the east coast from the tip of the Southern Bicol Peninsula north to the central part of the island.

Nimitz Reports 166 Jap Planes Downed in Suicide Attack.

GUAM, Sunday, May 27 — (AP) Extremely heavy rains restricted 10th Army action all along the southern Okinawa front yesterday, Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced today.

He issued a revised report that 166 Japanese planes were downed in the enemy's suicidal attack on American shipping and airfields Thursday night and Friday. Yesterday's communique reported 111 enemy aircraft downed.

The Admiral further reported that Thunderbolt fighters from the Army's 318th Fighter group, based on Okinawa, bombed and rocketed three airfields on Kyushu island—Kushira, Mizaka and Kanoya—on Thursday.

Counter-Attack Repulsed

The Japanese counterattacked in the Sixth Marine division sector Friday night, but were repulsed. Associated Press correspondent Vern Haugland said 150 Nipponese made the assault. Most were killed before they reached Marine lines; the remainder were slain before noon.

The Seventh infantry position, on the east coast, "developed its positions south of Yonabaru," Nimitz said.

Heavy rains "restricted the movement of ground forces along the whole front," he added. The Sixth Marine and Seventh Infantry were the only divisions mentioned in the communique.

Aircraft of the British Pacific fleet, unreported for about a week, returned to the Sakishima islands, southernmost of the Ryukyus, on Thursday, bombing towns and airfields, striking barracks, runways and buildings and attacking small craft off-shore.

Marine Corsair and Hellcat fighters continued their neutralizing raids on Japanese installations in the Palaus and Yap.

The Thunderbolts' attack on Kyushu airfields was their first strike on the Japanese homeland from their new Okinawa bases.

Nimitz officially credited Thunderbolts with having destroyed 34 of the 166 enemy planes shot down in the Thursday night-Friday assault.

Three to four inches of rain fell in yesterday's deluge. Okinawa's small streams were flooded and fields and roads became mired in mud.

The rainstorm filled foxholes of Marines and soldiers in forward lines pressing around Shuri.

11 U. S. SHIPS HIT IN JAP RAID WITH SUICIDE AIR TROOPS Enemy Loses 111 Planes in Strange 18-Hour Fight at Okinawa.

Erickson

Guam, May 26 (A. P.).—Eleven light ships of the Pacific Fleet were damaged in Okinawan waters in a dramatic series of raids on Thursday night and yesterday morning by a motley assortment of Japanese planes, some of which carried airborne troops, and during the eighteen-hour battle 111 enemy aircraft were shot down.

One bomber glided to a perfect belly landing on American-held Yontan air field and disgorged a handful of suicide assault troops. They set fire to a number of American planes before they were cut down.

Surprisingly few casualties were suffered on the eleven ships. Each craft shot down from one to four attacking planes before and after being hit. One vessel was hit amidships and, surprisingly, no one was killed and no more than five were wounded.

A Pacific fleet communique today announcing this strangest of all air attacks gave no details as to the types of ships hit or the extent of damage. An Associated Press correspondent said that the attacking formations included all types of aircraft, ranging from light-outmoded fighters to modern dive bombers and medium bombers.

Meanwhile today our Marines drove tanks through the mined streets of Naha, Okinawa's shattered capital, and artillery pounded the half-encircled fortress city of Shuri. Mud and rain hampered ground operations.

U. S. Casualties 35,116.

Admiral Nimitz announced American casualties of 35,116, including 9,602 dead, for the Army, Marine Corps and Navy since the Okinawa campaign began March 18 with preliminary carrier sweeps. Japanese dead in ground actions alone were listed nine days ago at 48,103.

Destruction of 111 Japanese planes in the fiery aerial engagement at Okinawa brought to 4,247 the staggering number of enemy aircraft wiped out to date in the Ryukyu invasion. This figure includes 518 destroyed by Superfortresses.

The Japanese made the fantastic attempts to land grenade-armed troops on the Yontan airdrome during their determined low-level strafing and suicide attacks.

Five twin-engine planes attempted to make belly landings on the Yontan airstrip but four were destroyed in the air. The fifth came down and members of the new Giretsu unit of the Kamikaze Special Attack Corps tumbled out, bent upon exploding nearby parked planes and airfield installations.

Japs Killed Quickly.

Associated Press Correspondent Vern Haughland said "eight or more men rushed from the plane in the moonlight, setting fire to parked planes with bombs and hand grenades. Most of these Japanese were killed quickly or committed suicide when injured."

Haughland said that the new-type assault caused such surprise and confusion that the Japanese who leaped from the plane "had time to huddle for a conference and return to the plane for gear before really getting fired upon."

At least eleven of the Giretsu planes, which carried as many as fifteen men each, were wiped out at Yontan and elsewhere.

Seven American planes were destroyed on the ground at Yonton, Katena and Ie airfields during the air assault. Admiral Nimitz said one of the eleven light fleet units hit was damaged heavily.

he attack was the heaviest since May 4, when 168 Nipponese planes were destroyed. It demonstrated that the Japanese still are able to muster planes despite great combat losses and destruction by bombing of aircraft factories.

Mustangs Make Sweep.

Mustang fighters based on Iwo Jima destroyed or damaged fifty-eight enemy planes yesterday in a sweep of Matsudo and Tokorazawa airfields in the Tokyo area in advance of this morning's 500-Superfort fire bombing of the Nipponese capital.

Carrier planes pounded the Amami group of the Ryukyus, north of Okinawa, from Saturday through Thursday, wrecking radio facilities, barracks, docks and other targets. Three small Nipponese ships were sunk and eight damaged.

Kyushu, southernmost of the Japanese mainland islands, was hit by carrier-based Hellcats and Corsairs Thursday. Two enemy fighters were shot down and ten were probably destroyed on the ground.

Admiral Nimitz's report on American casualties (those for the fleet are "preliminary and incomplete") break down as follows:

	Killed and Missing	Wounded
Army (to May 24)	3,706	13,910
Marines (to May 24)	1,626	7,433
Navy (to May 23)	4,270	4,171

Sixth Division Marines on the Okinawa west flank expanded their bridgehead across the Asato River into the center of Naha and sent a number of tanks across two emergency bridges. The rubbled capital's streets were found to be mined.

Little change in the lines were reported in the central and eastern sectors, as heavy mud slowed operations along the entire front. The Seventy-seventh Infantry Division brought fortifications in Shuri under heavy artillery fire, and the First Marine Division destroyed a score of gun emplacements in Shuri's northwestern defense wall.

NEW BRITAIN MAN COMMANDS B-29 IN TOKYO RAID

Guam, May 26 (AP)—At least three rocket-propelled baka bombs were shot down by Superfort gunners in this morning's 500-plane fire raid on Tokyo. This was the first definite report the Japanese had used baka bombs against B-29s.

Staff Sgt. Russell N. Enman, Edmond, Okla., saw a Japanese fighter launch an explosive-nosed baka bomb at his B-29. Enman shot down both the bomb and the launching plane, which flashed searchlights on the Superforts before releasing the baka.

Sergeant Enman's plane was piloted by Capt. William Ensley of 159 H Street, Yonkers, N. Y., who was flying the last Superfortress to leave Tokyo. He said that fires were burning fiercely.

"It looked as good or better than the first blitz" on Tokyo March 9 and 10, when fifteen square miles were burned out, Captain Ensley said.

Two Superfortress blister gunners claimed that they had downed one Baka bomb each. They were Sgt. John S. Holden of Ada, Okla., and Corp. George E. Niedvidkow of Chetek, Wis.

Guam Native Gets Silver Star

Guam, May 26 (A. P.).—The Silver Star was presented today to a native of Guam, Tony Duenas, for "conspicuous gallantry" in leading Marine patrols which killed fifty-nine Japanese on Guam last fall. Duenas had a deep hatred for the Japanese because they clubbed him on suspicion he was helping hide Warrant Officer George Ray Tweed of San Diego, Cal., who hid out on Guam for thirty-one months before escaping with valuable information.

Battlefield Propaganda Of Japanese Is Crude

Okinawa, May 26 (AP)—A crude Japanese propaganda leaflet picked up on the Okinawa battlefield near Yonabaru today painted a dreary outlook for American soldiers here.

Written in English in longhand, the leaflet said "undoubtedly 412 of your vessels have already sunk off Okinawa" and "supply from your home country is to be stopped shortly."

The leaflet asked for what purpose American soldiers were fighting and then added, "those who grow big at the sacrifice of your life are Great Britain and Soviet Russia, your leaders and capitalists.

"Just stop and think of the fact your leaders and capitalists are given to playing with wine and women . . . and profit dividing in your home country."

Big-Five Nearing Pact On Veto Voting Issue

Conference Problems Discussed at Meeting in Stettinius' Penthouse.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 26—(AP) An extraordinary session of Big-Five statesmen pointed up tonight a lag, and a snag, in the United Nations conference. But the great powers were reported near agreement on a statement outlining policy on the veto voting issue.

Responsible for the lag is the fact that conference committees failed to meet a schedule calling for them to finish by tonight their work of drafting various portions of the charter for a new world organization.

The snag is provided by a controversy among little and big nations over the extent to which each of the Big-Five shall be empowered to veto action taken in a proposed world security council to preserve peace.

Secretary of State Stettinius invited Russian, British, Chinese and French delegation chiefs to an unusual Saturday night meeting in his penthouse at a hilltop hotel.

Presumably they were summoned for a general discussion of conference problems, such as the delay in committees, and to give specific attention to the thorny veto question.

Technicians of the four nations sponsoring the conference—the Big-Five minus France—were said to be moving along well toward completing the policy statement on the veto.

Gag Partly Lifted

The American delegation clamped a gag on the airing of discussions now in progress on the statement, then lifted it a bit in response to loud protests from newsmen. A spokesman was allowed to say the delegtion was in complete agreement on its own position with respect to the Yalta plan.

As previously outlined, that stand is that the veto power must not be relaxed, but that some assurances might be issued that the big powers will not use it too harshly.

A couple of committees worked late in an effort to clean up their chores, but still had to put over some decisions until next week.

One of them did approve, for submission to its parent commission, a provision for registration of future treaties aimed at discouraging secret pacts.

The committee working out the structure of the proposed world assembly completed its work subject to modifications which may become necessary if the recommendations of other committees overlap. Its chief decisions:

Voted 24 to 0 to give the proposed world assembly, on which all nations would be represented, authority to apportion expenses of the world organization and to approve budgets of such specialized agencies as food and agriculture.

Decided 30 to 0 that when a member nation gets two years behind in payments it shall lose its votes—but the assembly may waive the penalty if it decides there is a good reason for failure to pay.

Voted 26 to 9 that decisions on such important issues as suspension and election of nations to the security council shall require two-thirds majorities. The assembly would determine by majority vote what other questions should be determined by two-thirds majorities.

Decided 28 to 0 that special sessions of the assembly, which will meet in regular annual sessions, can be convened by the secretary-general at the request of the security council or a majority of member nations.

Drop Question

The membership committee at a late meeting decided to drop the question of whether the charter should specify the number of assistants to the secretary general of the world organization. The big powers had proposed five, but failed to obtain a two-thirds vote.

Small nations chalked up in another committee a hard-fought victory over the great powers by blocking the inclusion in the charter of a provision for expelling members which don't live up to their international obligations.

The Big Five are confronted with the problem of carrying an appeal to a conference commission if they want to write in an expulsion clause.

Miss Two-Thirds Vote

It was learned today that they had failed to drum up the necessary two-thirds vote to do it in a committee on membership, despite strong pleas by American, Russian and British spokesmen.

They built up 19 votes for a proposal to mention expulsion in the charter, but 16 negative votes prevented obtaining the required two-thirds.

Russian delegate Z. K. Zarapkian declared lack of an expulsion provision would act like an "ulcer" on the world organization and urged political exile for nations which don't observe charter obligations.

William Mabane, a British delegate, suggested that infractions of charter obligations might be punished by suspension but that expulsion should be the rule for any country that fails to keep peace.

Finally, a suspension clause was approved 25 to 1, with Russia and the United States not voting and Britain recorded in the negative.

The American delegation talked about "leaks," then imposed a secrecy rule on sideline attempts to bring together the nations which are hosts at the conference on the question of great-power domination of peace keeping operations.

United Nations Arms Conference Likely After Japanese Are Defeated

San Francisco, May 26—(AP)—The probability of a United Nations arms conference following close on the defeat of Japan emerged today from the plans for future world security now being put into final shape here.

These plans provide both for the maintenance of land, sea and air forces large enough to safeguard peace and for the regulated reduction of armaments to relieve the victorious nations of this war of the heavy burden they have carried for the past several years.

Committee actions in the United Nations Conference to date indicate substantial agreement among the 49 nations represented here on these twin objectives.

In fact, about the only controversy remaining in the conference is that between the small and great nations over the authority to be exercised in the projected world security council by the big powers.

The Big Four are due to reach final agreement today on a statement upholding the veto-voting formula worked out early this year at Yalta, but declaring at the same time that it could not be used to prevent any nation from presenting to the council charges against any other nation.

Caucus Scheduled

The United States delegation was summoned to a pre-noon caucus on the statement with the prospect that it would go to a meeting of Secretary of State Stettinius and the other big power delegation chiefs by evening. This means failure of the effort to settle the controversy this week, since the full conference committee on the security council will not get the statement before Monday.

It is expected that critics of the big power veto will carry their fight to a showdown in the committee. Big Four leaders continue to claim enough votes to block the great variety of proposed amendments designed to limit their authority in the council.

A two-thirds affirmative vote is required to pass an amendment. If they succeed knocking down the proposals, however, the Big Four will then have to muster a full two-thirds of the committee to give affirmative approval to the Yalta formula. It remained to be seen whether the small nation opponents would throw the conference into a deadlock by blocking that approval.

The small nations suffered a defeat last night in the conference committee planning the powers of a general assembly. They backed planning the powers of a general assembly. They backed a proposal that the assembly should have authority to require reports and explanations from the security council of its decisions. The big powers opposed this and mustered a total of 16 votes against it. This held the affirmative vote to 21, short of the two-thirds required for approval.

The first step toward future regulation and eventual reduction of armaments was taken by the security council committee yesterday.

It unanimously approved a provision stating that the security council should have "responsibility for formulating plans for the establishment of a system of regulation of armaments" to be submitted to all United Nations members.

Must Wait Japs Fall

Normally final agreement on detailed armament control would require a special meeting comparable to the Washington Arms Conference following the last war. However, it is unlikely that plans can be made for such control until after the end of the Japanese war allows readjustments of the world's military forces to peacetime conditions.

An essential part of arms regulation, as contemplated here, will be provision of forces ready and able to smack down any future aggressor upon orders from the security Council. In accepting the United Nations Charter, each member state will obligate itself to furnish planes, ships, troops, bases or other resources within its power to make up these peace-keeping forces.

SECURITY TALKS ARE COSTING U. S. $1,600,000 TOTAL

San Francisco, May 26—(AP)—The United Nations Conference—now going into its second month—is costing this government $1,600,000.

Congress supplied the money. It will be about all used up if the conference lasts till mid-June.

Representative Stefan, (R.-Neb.), thinks the State Department has done an excellent job in handling the money.

He came here as a consultant to the department on its money problems. He's ranking minority member on the House Subcommittee on Appropriations for the State Department.

In an interview, Stefan went into great detail to explain the headaches of the department in arranging for the conference and carrying it through.

For instance: He mentioned that the telephone switchboard at conference headquarters — connecting up delegates and committees and specialists—handles an average of 12,000 calls a day.

If a delegate calls the board and says he's Russian, immediately he is plugged in on an operator who can speak Russian. A Chinese delegate can get a Chinese-speaking operator likewise.

This is a general outline of how the money is spent:

The foreign delegates paid their own transportation to San Francisco. They pay for their hotel rooms and their foods and all their personal expenses.

The Army and Navy have supplied buses and military cars, with drivers, to take the delegates back and forth between their hotels and conference headquarters.

But if they want to ride taxicabs, they pay their own way.

The major part of the total expense centers in the so-called secretariat of the conference.

This includes translaters, editors, stenographers and hundreds of other special clerical help, all of whom turn out about 1 million pages of words a day.

Stefan said the foreign delegates were "astounded" at the thoroughness of the arrangements provided by the State Department.

"The thing that amazes them," he said, "is that all this was done on such little notice.

"I think the job done here by the State Department will, more than anything else, make the foreign delegates feel that the headquarters of the New League of Nations should be in the United States."

League Invited to Black Hills

SAN FRANCISCO, May 26 (AP)—Delegates to the Security Conference received today a formal invitation to make the Black Hills country of South Dakota the site of the headquarters of the new world organization. It was signed by Governors Sharpe of South Dakota, Griswold of Nebraska and Hunt of Wyoming and Paul E. Bellamy, chairman of the Black Hills Executive Committee.

French Hear Japanese Shot Indo-China Heads

Adm. Decoux and Gen. Ayme Held Since March 9

SAN FRANCISCO, May 26 (AP).—The French Press Agency (A. F. P.) said today that "according to unconfirmed rumors" Vice-Admiral Jean Decoux, former Governor General of Japanese-occupied French Indo-China, and General Georges Ayme, former commander in chief of the Indo-China armed forces, "are reported to have been shot by the Japanese."

The A. F. P. wireless to the European press was recorded by the Federal Communications Commission. It quoted its correspondent at Colombo, on the Island of Ceylon, as saying the rumors came "from French sources."

Decoux and Ayme were placed under "protective custody" by the Japanese March 9 this year when the Japanese completed their total occupation of French Indo-China.

Senator's Wife Sponsors Ship.

San Francisco, May 26 (A. P.).—Mrs. Tom Connally, wife of the Texas Senator, sponsored the launching of the Hobart Victory at the Kaiser shipyard yesterday. Senator Connally was triggerman.

639 Civilians, Freed From Japs, Reach U.S.

San Francisco, May 26 (AP)—A group of 639 civilians liberated from Philippine prison camps, including representatives of twenty nationalities, arrived today.

The transport also returned 562 army officers and enlisted men on rotation furloughs, 104 navy casualties, eleven Red Cross workers and fifteen War Department civilian employés returning from overseas assignments.

Communications Disruption May Delay Word From Some Liberated Yanks

Boston, May 26 — (AP) — "Don't worry" that was the advice offered today by the American Red Cross to anxious mothers and wives of soldiers liberated from German prison camps who have not heard directly from their sons or husbands.

Miss Sadie L. James, prisoner of war consultant of the North Atlantic area of the Red Cross, said that the fact that some foreign communications system had been badly disrupted should help appease "the nightmares of families who haven't heard from their boys."

It was not unusual, she added, for former prisoners to arrive in the United States even before their own messages of their liberation were received.

She said that cables were being handled by the Red Cross "as quickly as possible," and ventured the opinion that many who had not heard from soldier members of their families soon would be receiving good news.

Less than one-half of 4,000 New Englanders liberated have arrived in this country, Miss James added, and the rest either are awaiting transportation or are on their way home.

Miss Jessie Goldsmith, supervisor of the Foreign Inquiry Division of the Home Service Department of the Boston Red Cross, reminded families that "there are 700 prisoners of war on our list—and we've only heard from about one-seventh of them."

Whatever the source of their buoyant courage, wives of the former prisoners seem to have a hopefulness that never wanes though many have not heard from their husbands in months.

The strain of waiting seems to fall heaviest on the mothers, Miss Goldsmith added.

Typical of their reaction is that of Mrs. Raymond Potter, of Providence, R. I., who said that "the last couple of weeks have dragged so," and Mrs. Alice Prout of (Dorchester) Boston, who wondered wearily "If I shall ever laugh again."

It is distressing to the Red Cross that it can not be more helpful to those who wait so breathlessly.

All the organization can do now to help them is to listen sympathetically to their troubles and advise them to "sit tight—and be hopeful. Maybe tomorrow will be your V-E Day."

Destroyer H. J. Thomas To Be Commissioned

Boston, May 26 (AP)—The 2,200-ton destroyer U.S.S. Herbert J. Thomas, named in honor of a late Marine sergeant from Columbus, Ohio, who flung himself on a hand grenade to save the lives of his comrades on Bougainville, will be commissioned at Boston Navy Yard Tuesday, 1st Naval District headquarters announced today.

The vessel was launched at the Bath (Maine) Iron Works in March and was christened by Thomas's sister, Miss Audrey Irene Thomas, of South Charleston, W.Va.

Thomas was awarded posthumously the Congressional Medal of Honor for his action.

800 War Vets Are Landed At Two Maine Airfields

Bangor, Me., May 26—(AP)—Furloughs to homes some had not seen in three years were the chief concern today of 800 veterans of the Eighth Air Force who yesterday set foot on American soil at two Northern Maine Army airfields.

Alighting at Dow Field here and at the Presque Isle Army Air Base from war-battered Flying Fortresses and Liberators, the airmen who helped bomb Germany into submission sported on the runways and even clutched handfuls of Maine earth before taking off for the Air Force Redeployment Center at Bradley Field, Windsor Locks, Conn.

The be-medalled bomber force crews, many of whom may soon see action in the Pacific, were the first group to be flown home via Maine bases. The planes, each with a crew of 10 and a like number of passengers, came non-stop from Greenland.

Mississippi Town Prepared to Honor Hero Jake Lindsey

Lucedale, Miss., May 26—(AP)—This little Southeast Mississippi town of 2,000 prepared for one of its greatest celebrations today honoring Sgt. Jake (Bill) Lindsey, holder of the Congressional Medal of Honor.

Almost every house and store sported an American flag or bunting. Pictures of the hero were displayed all over the town and Gov. Thomas Bailey and other dignitaries were scheduled for speeches.

The 24-year-old sergeant and his "best girl," 19-year-old Beverly Hargreaves of Lexington, Miss., went shopping in Mobile yesterday for antique furniture. But, about that rumored "immediate announcement," Beverly said:

"I like Bill a great deal," "and we seem to like the same things, but as for a lifetime together . . . we'll have to think about it."

She said she promised her mother that they would let her announce the engagement "if we become engaged."

Ex-French Officer Charged by FBI As Being Nazi Spy

New York, May 26—(AP)—A story of international intrigue, espionage and counter-espionage unfolded today afte rthe arrest of a 43-year-old former French Air Force officer on charges of serving as a Nazi spy.

The FBI said counter-espionage work by Dieudonne Costes, famed French aviator and one-time lieutenant colonel in the French Air Force, resulted in the arrest of his compatriot in a fashionable mid-down hotel yesterday.

The arrested man, identied as Paul Jean Marie Cavaillez, was held in $50,000 bail for a hearing June 4.

The FBI said he planned to continue his activities despite Germany's collapse.

Costes, who made a history-making flight from Paris to New York in 1930, had been forced into Nazi espionage service in France, the FBI said, and was believed by the Germans still to be working for them. Actually, without the Germans' knowledge, he had joined forces with American authorities. He came to the U. S. in June, 1943.

Argentina Expels Anti-Nazi

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, May 26 (AP)—Tono Salazar, Salvadorean cartoonist, said today he had been expelled from Argentina for drawing political cartoons published by a weekly anti-Nazi newspaper. Señor Salazar said he was arrested by Argentine police Saturday and received five days to leave the country after he agreed to deportation. He said he rejected a police offer to cancel the order if he promised to abstain from ridiculing the military Government in his cartoons.

DOOLITTLE TO LEAD 8TH IN PACIFIC WAR

Air Force That Ravaged Reich Will Be Headed by Old Chief, Returning to Job on Japan

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 26—The Eighth Air Force, pioneer in American bombing of Germany, is going to the Pacific under command of Lieut. Gen. James H. Doolittle.

The Army Air Forces, in announcing today the redeployment against Japan, said that "the present tempo of bombing of the Japanese homeland will be stepped up to the point that Japanese war industries can expect an even greater volume of attack than was accomplished against Hitler's Fortress Europe.

"General Doolittle," it continued, "is now prepared to help finish the job he started on Japan in April, 1942, when he hit Tokyo with his carrier-based B-25's, but now he'll be using land-based four-engined bombers with plenty of fighter cover."

General Doolittle, who has been seen in Washington during recent days, had been described as the "former commander" of the Eighth Air Force. A recent announcement reported that Maj. Gen. William E. Kepner was the new commander.

The AAF explained that General Doolittle would be the commander of the Eighth in the Pacific and Kepner would be in command of those elements of the air force remaining in Europe until redeployment is completed. Kepner was deputy to Doolittle in Europe.

The announcement said that while the movement of the Eighth to the Pacific does not necessarily mean that all personnel and units will be a part of the new set-up, enough combat trained personnel will be included to maintain its high experience level.

Certain ground units of the organization were ready to move to the Pacific immediately after V-E Day and some are already on the way, the AAF said.

Replacements Are Expected

Other units are returning to this country under the redeployment and demobilization plan. It is expected that additional personnel will be drawn from pools set up in this country to replace men demobilized or receiving domestic assignments.

Reports have indicated the Eighth Air Force while in Europe had about 200,000 personnel, both air and ground crews. It was not immediately clear what part of this total force would go to the Pacific.

So far as is known, the Eighth Air Force uses as its heavy bombers the B-17 and B-24 types. There has been nothing to indicate that the Eighth Air Force will use the "very heavy bombardment" types, the B-29 and B-32, against Japan.

The Eighth was the first American air force to go into action against Germany, being formed Jan. 28, 1942, under the leadership of Gen. Carl Spaatz. Lieut. Gen. Ira Eaker took over command Dec. 1, 1942, and on Jan. 1, 1944, General Doolittle succeeded to command.

The Eighth set up business with a force of twelve Flying Fortresses, making its first raid on the German-controlled railroad yards at Rouen, France, Aug. 17, 1942.

This humble beginning contrasted sharply with operations of the Eighth during the last months of the European war, when fleets of 1,000 four-engined bombers, escorted by nearly as many fighters, were flying deep into Germany to bomb strategic targets.

Japan Held Capable of Long War; Many of Industries Are Still Intact

Factories in Remote Areas, Says Foreign Economic Administration—Stocked With Tin, Rubber—Enough Oil Available

WASHINGTON, May 26 (AP)—Japan still is capable of waging a long war despite destructive air attacks and naval defeats which have cut her off almost entirely from her stolen sources of rubber, oil and tin, the Foreign Economic Administration said today.

"A large portion of the war industry she had at Pearl Harbor is instact," said a report by the enemy branch of the agency.

In addition, key raw materials are available in the so-called "inner zone"—Japan proper, Korea, Manchuria and part of north China—where Japanese war industry was organized there before the war.

In spite of major successes in cutting off Japan from the resources of the Netherlands Indies, Malaya and the Philippines, FEA said, the Allies so far have liberated less than 7 per cent of the nearly 3,000,000 square miles of conquered territory controlled by the enemy.

In the inner zone, moreover, are synthetic oil plants with an estimated capacity of more than 21,000,000 barrels in 1944.

"With the loss of the major part of her Navy and the reduction of her merchant marine, this quantity may be sufficient to meet requirements for the approximately 2,000,000 tons of Japanese shipping remaining in the reduced area of operations," the report went on.

Food scarcity will not shorten Japanese ability to resist, FEA said, although the rice of Burma, now occupied largely by the Allies, Thailand and Indo-China is denied the Japanese.

"This will increase the difficulties of the present short food supply in Japan, but will not seriously interfere with the war effort and will not result in starvation in the inner zone.

"Practically the whole of the processing capacity of the Japanese Empire, as well as adequate supplies of raw materials, lies in the inner areas. It is true that in terms of individual industrial centers and plants bomb damage has been devastating, and many square miles of such cities as Tokyo, Nagoya, Osaka and Kobe, all vital to Japan's war effort, have been laid waste.

"To meet this threat from the air, however, Japanese war leaders long ago placed in operation an extensive dispersal program. Plants have been established in secluded localities and in some areas protected by ravines and hills, and widely dispersed industries have been dveloped in Korea, Manchuria and China.

"In recent months the dispersal program has been accelerated, and in some localities key plants have been put underground."

Tin and rubber from the south, said the agency, "are reported to have been stocked in Japan in quantities sufficient to meet war requirements for many months." Stockpiles of Tungsten, lead, zinc and nickel also exist.

Supplies of iron ore from Malaya and the Philippines have been falling off for many months, but are replaced by production from newly opened or newly expanded areas in Manchuria and China and by utilizing, through a new concentration process, the plentiful but poor ores in northeast Korea.

HOUSE GROUP TOLD OF BLOWS AT JAPAN

Members Say Plan Is to Drop More Than 2½ Times Bomb Load Reich Got in Year

WASHINGTON, May 26 (AP)—In the next year Japan will be the target of more than twice as many bombs as fell on Germany during the last twelve months.

House Appropriations Committee members made this disclosure today after a closed session with Gen. George C. Marshall. The Chief of Staff met with the committee yesterday to lay the groundwork for the War Department's appropriation bill for the fiscal year starting July 1.

"You can say that in the coming year more than two and one-half times as many tons of bombs will be dropped on Japan as the Allies dropped in Europe this (fiscal) year," Representative J. Buell Snyder, Democrat of Pennsylvania said after the meeting. Mr. Snyder is chairman of the subcommittee considering Army finances.

While Mr. Snyder would not discuss the full nature of General Marshall's testimony, other committee members said privately that they had left the session with these impressions:

The war against Japan will be longer and tougher than is generally expected.

There will be no big reduction in War Department expenditures next year.

There may soon be another sharp reduction in the size of the Army. Before listening to General Marshall, many members believed that the Army's 1946 fiscal year budget could be cut as much as 30 per cent below the $49,000,000,000 appropriated for the current year.

"We will be pleased with a 10 per cent reduction, and it won't be over 20 per cent," a committeeman said after the meeting.

Continued heavy spending, members said, will be necessary because of transportation requirements in the Pacific and stepped-up production of munitions, especially big bombs. They saw little prospect for substantial decreases in allotments for the Air Forces and the Ordnance Department, which together received more than 40 per cent of all the Army's funds this year.

Whether the Army will be able to demobilize more men than it originally planned, they said, will depend largely on developments of the next few months. Should Russia enter the war against Japan, they explained, this country could presumably use fewer men in the Pacific.

They emphasized, however, that General Marshall did not discuss the prospect of Russia's fighting Japan. They asserted that any savings from reduced personnel would be offset largely by mustering-out payments.

ATC TO FLY 50,000 HOME EACH MONTH

Big Army Craft Will Start Back From Europe at Rate of One Every Six Minutes

WASHINGTON, May 26 (AP)—The Army's Air Transport Command expects to have one flight over the Atlantic every six minutes when the air ferrying of troops from Europe to the United States reaches its peak.

The Command disclosed this today and also reported that the flight of tactical planes, such as bombers, from Europe would be stepped up to 100 to 125 daily. The tactical planes are being flown over the North and South Atlantic by the crews which manned them in combat.

The ATC hopes to return 50,000 soldiers a month by air when redeployment hits full stride. These men, some of whom already have made the crossing, possess special skills or are coming back for discharge from the Army.

East Coast air terminals, such as La Guardia Field in New York and the Thirty-sixth Street Airport, Miami, are being used as debarkation points. The tactical planes are arriving principally at Hunter Field, Savannah, and Bradley Field, Windsor Locks, Conn.

Operates 2,000 Big Planes

The Transport Command, which observes its fourth anniversary Monday, operates more than 2,000 big transports which fly 2,000,000 miles every twenty-four hours over 166,000 miles of regular routes.

The tactical aircraft being returned to this country, the ATC said, were destined for further combat or training purposes. The Transport Command must help check these planes for safety before their departure, brief the crews for the transocean flight, furnish navigators where needed and service aircraft en route.

The end of hostilities in Europe, the announcement said, had "magnified rather than lessened the operations of ATC."

The service, it was explained, "will bear the continuing responsibility of aerial supply to those American forces remaining in Europe and will continue to ferry combat aircraft and transport supplies to the active war fronts. It will not interrupt its service of evacuating sick and wounded Army, Navy and Marine personnel from overseas."

Sharp Rise in Work Shown

Emphasizing its expansion during its four years of operation, ATC contrasted its present operations to its record at the end of the first year.

During the first twelve months, ATC delivered 187 planes overseas, and with only 179 planes of its own transported 1,920 tons of cargo and 6,212 passengers to foreign destinations.

In April, 1945, ATC said it carried 188,000 passengers and more than 80,000 tons of cargo and mail. It is flying sick and wounded back to the United States at the rate of 8,000 a month. For the year ended March 31, it ferried more than 22,000 tactical aircraft overseas and delivered another 82,000 to destinations in this country.

Nurses' Draft Fight Dropped By the Army

Patterson Says Nazi Defeat and Recruiting Drive Have Changed Situation

WASHINGTON, May 26 (AP).—The Army abandoned its fight for a nurse draft law today, conceding that the end of German resistance and increased recruitment of nurses had eliminated the need.

Acting Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson suggested that the Senate drop further action on the controversial bill, and Senator Elbert D. Thomas, Democrat, of Utah, hastened to comply.

"It seems to me this is a most satisfactory disposition of the difficult problem," the chairman of the Military Affairs Committee said. "The most extreme emergency measure of the war has solved itself."

Senator Ed Johnson, Democrat, of Colorado, who declared war on the bill at the very start, commented that Senator Thomas's remark seemed very much of an understatement.

"This is the very thing I've been trying to tell them," Senator Johnson said. "When they got the lead out of their pants on the recruiting machinery they got plenty of nurses. There wasn't really a shortage of nurses, but an overdose of red tape."

Senator Thomas made public a letter from Mr. Patterson which said the War Department had reconsidered its stand in view of "the rapidly changing circumstances of the last six weeks."

"The response of the nurses to the appeal of the Army Nurse Corps has been most patriotic," Mr. Patterson wrote.

He mentioned President Roosevelt's indorsement of the nurse draft in January, and House passage of the bill, as having "served to bring home to the public the acute need."

In his Jan. 6 message on the state of the Union, Mr. Roosevelt declared the need for more nurses "is too pressing to await the outcome of further efforts at recruiting." The House-approved bill cleared the Senate committee on March 21, but has been languishing on the Senate calendar as unfinished business.

Mr. Patterson disclosed that a "vigorous" rotation program is under way to bring home nurses who have had long, hard service under adverse climatic conditions.

RELEASE GIVEN PRIVATE M'GEE

Soldier Who Hit German Prisoners Restored To Duty

Washington, May 26 (AP)—Private Joseph McGee of the Army was ordered released from confinement today after a storm of congressional protest developed over his two-year sentence on a charge of socking German prisoners of war.

Robert P. Patterson, Acting Secretary of War, directed also that the 23-year-old Worcester (Mass.) soldier be restored to active duty. He voided a dishonorable discharge ordered by the court-martial.

Patterson acted less than 24 hours after the case came to the attention of Congress, where Representative McCormack, of Massachusetts, assailed the sentence as ridiculous.

Convicted In October

A court-martial at Le Mans, France convicted McGee on October 17 last year of "assaults and batteries" on nine captured Germans held at a stockade in France. The prisoners said he hit them, kicked them and in one instance used a club.

McGee pleaded innocent, but did not take the stand. He was convicted and sentenced to two years at hard labor and a dishonorable discharge.

The case came to light after McGee was returned to this country and wrote his family that he was back but not on furlough. Later he sent a copy of the court-martial proceedings to his father, who sent it on to McCormack with a protest that "the kid got a raw deal."

McGee arrived at the disciplinary barracks at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind., May 12.

War Department Action

McCormack asked a review of the case yesterday and today the War Department issued this announcement:

"The case of Private Joseph V. McGee has been reviewed by the Hon. Robert P. Patterson, the Under Secretary of War. The sentence, two years and dishonorable discharge, has been found to be excessive. The sentence is reduced to the time already served. The balance of the confinement is remitted, the dishonorable discharge is canceled and McGee is restored to duty as a soldier as of this date."

James D. O'Brien, Worcester alderman who forwarded the court-martial record to McCormack, said McGee was reported to have struck the prisoners when they refused to work.

Col. Peyton Winlock, commander of the disciplinary barracks at Fort Harrison, said this afternoon McGee had been released immediately upon the receipt of the order from Patterson and had left the post to report at headquarters of the 1st Service Command in Boston.

HONOR MEDAL GIVEN TEXAN

Sergt. Jose M. Lopez Mowed Down 100 Germans

Washington, May 26 (AP)—Sergt. Jose M. Lopez, who mowed down 100 attacking Germans even though he was once blown from his machine gun by a Nazi shell, has been awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor, the War Department announced today.

The "seemingly suicidal" stand of the 22-year-old Brownsville (Texas) doughboy—last reported with the 2d Infantry Division in Europe—was credited officially with saving his company from being overrun by the German assault last December 17 near Krinkelt, Belgium.

In Waist-Deep Hole

Shortly after the attack began, Lopez picked up his machine gun and carried it from the company's right flank to the left, threatened by a tank-led force of German infantrymen.

Standing in a waist-deep hole, with German tank shells plowing the earth around him, he cut down a group of ten Germans and then picked off 25 more trying to swing around him.

With the Germans swarming in at him from the front and tank shells pelting the area, he picked up his gun again and fell back to another position where he kept on plugging away at the advancing enemy.

Dazed But Unhurt

A German tank pulled up 50 yards from him, swung its 88-mm. gun on him, and planted a shell almost on top of his position. He was blown backward, dazed but unhurt. Staggering back to his gun, he set it up and continued riddling the German line.

Ammunition bearers, unable to penetrate the curtain of fire around him, had been tossing him boxes of ammunition. Finally, however, they were unable to reach him and, with his gun empty, he was forced to drop back to the remainder of his company.

Has Two Other Medals

Later, the company was reinforced, and beat off the German attack.

Lopez, a native of Mission, Texas, previously had received the Bronze Star Medal for gallantry and the Purple Heart for wounds.

His wife, Emilia, and a 6-year-old stepson, Juan, live in Brownsville.

Specialists Who Learn Arms to Get Extra Navy Pay

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 26—President Truman today ordered extra compensation for enlisted men in the Navy and Coast Guard who achieve proficiency in the use of arms when such qualification is not a requirement of their rating.

The extra compensation, ranging from $1 to $5 a month, the Navy explained, is intended as incentive to the enlisted man to achieve proficiency in the handling of some arm when his rating does not require such proficiency, although his battle station might involve such handling.

For example, an enlisted man with the rating of yeoman is not required to know how to operate a gun-range finder, but under the new order, if a yeoman qualifies as an operator of a gun-range finder he would be entitled to extra compensation.

V.F.W. URGES RELEASE OF ALL MEN OVER 35

WASHINGTON, May 26.—(AP) Discharge from the armed services of men over 35 years old without regard to the established point system was advocated today by the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Omar B. Ketchum, V.F.W. legislative representative, disclosed he had made this suggestion to Maj. Gen. S. G. Henry, Army assistant chief of staff for personnel, along with a request that the point system allow credit for dependent parents of servicemen and for children in excess of the present credit limit of three.

Ketchum said the requests resulted from a volume of suggestions from servicemen.

Free Transportation For Veterans Urged

Washington, May 26 (AP)—Senator Wilson (R., Iowa) today proposed that the Government pay the cost of round-trip transportation between debarkation centers and home for service men given 30-day furloughs upon their return from Europe.

Announcing he will introduce a bill to that effect Monday, Wilson said:

"Many soldiers, who have fought and won great battles in Europe, may find that they lack the cash to make the trip home and back again.

"It seems only a fair recognition of their services to provide that, since they are given a furlough because of their service and are required to report back, that the Government pay their transportation. The cost would not be great."

ARMY REVEALS CUTBACK ON PLANE OUTPUT

Will Stop Production of 17,000 Aircraft Scheduled to Be Built

Washington, May 26—(AP)—The Army hewed off today a big chunk of its aircraft production program. It announced a cutback order which will stop production of about 17,000 planes scheduled for the next 18 months.

Among other effects the retrenchment will:

1—Take perhaps 200,000 workers from aircraft plants in an dozen or so cities by the close of the year.

2—Release substantial quantities of steel and aluminum for civilian use.

3—End production of the new B-32 Bomber, not yet reported in combat, while heavy emphasis is placed for the next few months on increased output of the B-29 (Superfortress).

The Army Air Forces last night said the reasons for the new cutback are these:

Curtailment of Lend-Lease operations under which thousands of aircraft went to Allies in the European war; different tactical and strategic requirements for the one-front war against Japan; with Germany's Luftwaffe knocked out, the United States lost less planes in the closing phases of the battle of Europe, planes which now may be used against Japan.

The A.A.F. said production, on the basis of airframe weight (which means the weight of the plane, without engines etc.), during the second half of this year will be 70 per cent of the total produced in the first half. In the first half of next year it will drop to 60 per cent and then fall to 55 per cent in the second half.

The air forces declined to estimate the number of workers involved in the cutback, but War Manpower Commission officials said about 200,000 workers might be off aircraft plant payrolls by the beginning of 1946.

They emphasized, however that was merely an estimate. Since the cutbacks are graduated layoffs will be tapered correspondingly, without any sudden impact, they explained.

Translated into dollars and cents, Government production experts made a rough estimate that more than $4,000,000,000 was represented in aircraft cutbacks since V-E Day.

The A. A. F. cited the B-29 and B-32 as an example of how it intends to streamline its aircraft requirements for the war with Japan. Production of the Boeing Superfortress will increase for several months, then level off, but still greater increases scheduled for late this year will not be carried through.

Production of the Consolidated B-32 will end this year. In doing this, the Fort Worth, Tex., plant will level off output at the present rate and close out production at the year end. The San Diego, Calif., plant of the company, only other producer of the B-32, will stop turning out the planes at the end of this month.

The B-32 is the second of two "very heavy bombardment" planes put into production by the United States. Although details of the planes have not been announced, it is reported to compare in size with the B-29.

Another of the 10 types of planes affected by the revised production schedule is the latest fighter, the P-80 jet-propelled Comet. Production of this ultra-modern fighter will continue at unchanged levels at Lockheed's Burbank, Calif., plant. North American's Kansas City plant had planned to start production of the P-80 late this year, but the new program cancels this.

In addition to the new cutbacks in airplane production, the Army intends to announce soon revised schedules for propellers and engines.

TARIFF MEASURE IS APPROVED BY HOUSE, 239-153

Democrats Ride Roughshod Over Republicans to Give Truman Wide Authority.

BILL GOES TO SENATE

Legislation Would Prolong Reciprocal Trade Act with Expanded Powers.

WASHINGTON, May 26.—(AP) Responding to an emphatic appeal by President Truman, House Democrats rode roughshod over Republicans today to vote the executive broad new authority to cut tariffs in reciprocal trading with other nations.

The count on passage was 239 to 153 as Mr. Truman made the tariff bill the first direct test of his congressional following on a major piece of legislation.

The President said flatly, in a letter read by Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex) that further tariff cutting authority is needed "for the success of my administration," and Democrats and some Republicans rallied behind him.

Allows for New Cuts

The legislation, which now goes to the Senate, would prolong the life of the reciprocal trade act for three years with expanded powers—allowing tariff cuts in some items up to 75 per cent below the levels of the Republican Hawley-Smoot act of 1930.

Just before the final vote the Democrats beat down 212 to 181 a Republican motion to send the legislation back to the Ways and Means committee with instructions that any reference to any broadened executive power over tariffs be deleted. This was the crucial test.

Only thirteen Democrats crossed over to vote with the Republicans on this count, while seven Republicans voted with the Democrats.

The State department said the bill will permit a return to the tariff levels of the Underwood act of the Woodrow Wilson administration, not item by item but on an average basis.

After the final vote, acting Secretary of State Joseph C. Grew said the action "will hearten every friend of international collaboration. The power granted by the legislation, wisely used, can greatly promote prosperity in the United States and throughout the world."

Democrats shouted to the House that the vote was a test whether America wants to cooperate with other nations or become isolationist, and that the action was watched by United Nations delegates at San Francisco.

See Labor Hit

Republicans said such claims were absurd, and argued that cutting import duties would put American labor in competition with low-paid foreign workers, cause some American industries to close and result in unemployment.

Just before the crucial vote was taken, Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex) walked into the House well and, with rapt attention from the House, read a letter from the President, dated May 25, as follows:

"Supplementing our conversation yesterday, I wish to repeat that I regard the pending measure for the renewal and strengthening of the trade agreements act as of the first order of importance for the success of my administration.

"I assume there is no doubt that the act will be renewed. The real question is whether the renewal is to be in such a form as to make the act effective. For that purpose the enlargement of authority provided by Section 2 of the pending bill is essential.

"I have had drawn to my attention statements to the effect that this increased authority might be used in such a way as to endanger or 'trade out' segments of American industry, American agriculture, or American labor. No such action was taken under President Roosevelt and Cordell Hull, and no such action will take place under my presidency."

Completing the letter, Rayburn said:

Asks for GOP Support

"If I were a wavering Democrat, with that assurance from this man who has caught the imagination of the people not only of the United States but the world, I would hesitate not to comply with his first major request. If I were a Republican member of this House, realizing the tremendous responsibility that rests upon the shoulders of this man, with the world's great work ahead of him as well as of you and me, I would hesitate to throw anything in his way that might impede his efforts to bring about world order and peace and commerce."

At the time the House had before it a Republican motion to strike Section 2, giving the President broader powers, from the bill. This was a crucial issue that tested the administration strength. The House rejected the motion 197 to 174. Only five Democrats voted with the Republicans, while four Republicans voted with the Democrats.

Specifically, the legislation gives the President new powers to cut tariffs up to 50 per cent below rates prevailing January 1, 1945, in reciprocal agreements in which other nations agree to reduce their trade barriers.

The President, under present law, which expires June 12, has authority to trim duties up to 50 per cent below the rates of the last Republican tariff law, the Hawley-Smoot Act of 1930. On those items on which the full 50 per cent cut has been made the new legislation would permit an accumulated reduction of 75 per cent below the Hawley-Smoot rates.

The late President Roosevelt asked for the legislation in his last message to Congress, and former State Secretary Hull appealed from his sickbed for its passage.

So intent was the administration on passage of the bill that two Democratic members—Reps. Sabath of Illinois and Cochran of Missouri—were brought from Navy hospital, where they have been ill, to vote.

TRUMAN, HOOVER TO MEET ON FOOD

Former President Accepts Bid for Conference on European Relief.

WASHINGTON, May 26—(AP) Former President Herbert Hoover, a persistent advocate of food relief for war-ravaged Europeans, has accepted an invitation to confer with President Truman on the subject next Monday.

Announcement of the conference brought speculation in Republican congressional circles that Mr. Hoover, who was food administrator during the first World War, might be offered an executive post in the international food set-up.

Senator Wiley (R-Wis), who has urged that the former Republican chief executive be consulted in the European food problem, declared "If Mr. Hoover is asked to serve and consents to serve in an advisory or executive capacity in the international food set-up, he may well repeat and surpass the miracle of relief which he achieved during and after the first World War."

Senator Johnson (D-Colo) said the Truman-Hoover meeting is "very encouraging."

"No one in this country knows more about that job than Mr. Hoover," Johnson added.

Charles G. Ross, Mr. Truman's press secretary, said the President "felt that Mr. Hoover had information which would be valuable to him."

Saved Belgians

In October, 1914, Mr. Hoover accepted the chairmanship of a relief commission faced with the responsibility of saving 700,000 Belgians from starvation.

Under his direction, the commission purchased food in all open markets of the world with financial aid from various governments and private relief organizations. It operated 200 ships, took over canal boats and railroads, requisitioned flour mills, bakeries and slaughter houses.

Long before the United States entered World War II, Mr. Hoover pleaded that the United States had "a moral responsibility" to help feed the suffering peoples of countries conquered by the Nazis.

Throughout the war in Europe, he continued his insistence that the United Nations make advance agreements to help feed the starving, and declared the burden of food production would fall on American and Canadian farmers.

In a V-E Day address May 8 in New York, Mr. Hoover declared that saving of Europe's children from starvation "is a far greater contribution to freedom, to prosperity, to peace than a hundred signed documents."

He recommended that the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation administration or the War department start shipments of food to Europe within two weeks.

Says UNRRA Hampered

He said relief services should be financed by international contributions to UNRRA, which, he said, has been hampered by "power politics."

MAY 27 1945

Last Tuesday, President Truman ordered priorities "necessary to meet the minimum civilian requirements of those of our Allies who have been ravaged by the enemy to the fullest extent that the successful prosecution of military operations and the maintenance of our essential domestic economy permit."

"It is the established policy of this government to accept this responsibility as far as it is possible to do so," Mr. Truman said in a letter to government agencies concerned.

Mr. Hoover, who reserved further comment on the European food problem pending his talk with President Truman, has not visited the White House, attaches there said, since he was succeeded as president by Franklin D. Roosevelt in March 1933.

CONTINUANCE OF OPA URGED

3-Month Extension Of Law Under Consideration

Washington, May 26 (AP)—A three-month extension of the Price Control Act without change to allow further study of proposed amendments is reported under consideration by congressional leaders.

It was learned today that this possibility was discussed by a Senate Banking subcommittee handling OPA extension legislation and would be brought before a closed meeting of the full committee Tuesday.

Increasing the pressure for such a step is the growing prospect that controversies over amendments cannot be fought out and an extension measure enacted by June 30, expiration date of the law.

Hearings Requested

Although the Senate could act before then, the House Banking Committee has received more than 100 requests to be heard on the legislation. The House committee will not begin hearings until after the Senate acts.

Leaders believe, however, that a resolution for a short-term extension of the law could be pushed through without delay. The Administration originally asked for an 18-month extension.

Senator Taft (R., Ohio), author of one proposed major amendment, indicated he would be agreeable to a short-term extension.

Might Deter New Business

Taft said he thought more study should be given to pricing policies in the reconversion period. His amendment would continue the price law without change until the end of this year, but direct an easing of price ceilings after January 1 to allow profit margins equivalent to the average of 1938, 1939 and 1940.

The Ohioan contends that if price controls are kept tight after reconversion begins, the effect will be to deter start of new businesses.

Chester Bowles, price administrator, was asked to appear before the Banking Committee Tuesday for a discussion, among other matters, of Taft's amendment. William H. Davis, stabilization director, also was asked to appear.

JUNE PASSENGER TIRES 2,000,000

Ration Quota 25% Larger Than For Present Month

Washington, May 26 (AP) — The OPA today announced a June ration quota of 2,000,000 passenger tires, up 25 per cent from this month.

The increase of 500,000 will help a "great deal," but falls considerably short of meeting the needs of all motorists eligible for new tires, said Max McCullough, rationing chief.

Backlog Of Applications

He added that a backlog of 500,000 to 600,000 applications for casings, low inventories and a seasonal increase in tire failures combined to make the June quota inadequate.

The 2,000,000 allocation for June is the first of that size since last December. Military demands forced a cutback in civilian allotments at that time, monthly quotas ranging subsequently from 1,000,000 to 1,800,000.

The May quota was set originally at 1,000,000, and was increased 50 per cent in midmonth as a result of victory in Europe.

Allocation Inadequate

OPA officials have estimated that a 2,000,000 allocation would have to be maintained several consecutive months before any new tires can be made available to A card drivers.

McCullough reported that as of the end of March there were only 2,270,000 new tires in inventory, as compared with 11,000,000 when the United States entered the war.

OPA also announced increases in truck and bus tire quotas, but McCullough described them as "entirely inadequate" to meet real needs.

The War Production Board said demand for truck and bus tires for military and essential civilian requirements still substantially exceeded supply. . . .

May Be Revised Downward

Reporting on a meeting with officials of the United Rubber Workers of America (CIO), WPB said the group was advised, however, that requirements for July-September quarter may be revised downward.

If this happens, some new production facilities authorized several months ago may be canceled, the agency said. Officials added that any cut probably would affect scheduled additions to existing facilities, rather than several new plants which were authorized.

The expansion program announced late in 1944 calls for facilities to increase truck and bus tire output by 6,000,000 casings to put production at 30,000,000 tires a year.

WPB's Rubber Bureau disclosed it already has made a slight cutback in scheduled expansion of small truck tire capacity. Officials said it amounted to less than one per cent of the total expansion plan.

RankinSeeking Bonus for All in Service 90 Days

Asks Truman's Approval for$1,040Payment;Cost Put at $12,000,000,000

WASHINGTON, May 26 (AP).—Representative John E. Rankin, Democrat, of Mississippi, chairman of the House veterans' committee, sought White House blessing today for an all-out drive for a bonus for service men.

Representative Rankin, co-author of the G. I. bill of rights and of legislation that raised the monthly pay of enlisted men from $21 to $50 a month, wants Congress to vote a $1,040 bonus to every service man and woman who has been in uniform at least ninety days and hasn't been dishonorably discharged.

"The time to give it to them is now, while many are being demobilized," he said in an interview during which he disclosed that he has sought the views of President Truman on the subject.

The Mississippian said he was inclosing in a letter to the President a copy of a bill he introduced on May 2 and which he wants enacted into law "without too much delay."

"I have asked the President to state his views on the bill and on the subject generally," he added.

Just how soon he will ask the veterans' committee to begin consideration of the legislation will depend. Representative Rankin said, on how soon the President communicates his views.

But he made it plain that he does not intend to wait until the House Ways and Means Committee starts considering another bonus bill calling for a maximum payment of $5,000 to overseas veterans and $4,000 to home-service men.

He insisted that his measure is not a bonus bill but a plan to give veterans a readjustment fund.

It provides for payments of $40 every two weeks for fifty-two weeks, or a total of $1,040. The G. I. bill of rights provides similar compensation for unemployed veterans, but Representative Rankin's bill would make the money available regardless of whether a veteran is employed. Should a veteran be unemployed, the $20 weekly provided in the G. I. bill would be in addition to the $20 readjustment pay.

Under the Rankin measure, every eligible person would receive the same amount.

In that respect it differs from the Ways and Means Committee measure, introduced by Representative John Lesinski, Democrat, of Michigan.

Representative Lesinski's bill calls for a bonus of $3 for each day of domestic service and $4 for each day of foreign duty, with a limit of $4,500 for overseas veterans and $3,500 for those who did not leave this country.

In each case the maximum would be increased by $500 if the veteran received a wound chevron or decoration.

The total cost of Representative Rankin's measure has been estimated at $12,000,000,000 and of Representative Lesinski's at around $20,000,000,000.

Congressional backers of a bonus pointed out that President Truman in 1936, as a Senator, voted for the bonus bill and helped override a veto.

Hannegan Holds Truman-Wallace Key

By FRANK I. WELLER

Washington, May 26—(AP)—Some day Bob Hannegan is going to clear up a big mystery: "Did Franklin D. Roosevelt choose-or did he accept-Harry S. Truman as his 1944 running mate?"

Hannegan becomes Postmaster General in the Truman cabinet on July 1, succeeding Frank Walker. But he will disclose the secret of the Roosevelt-Truma ticket strictly as chairman of the Democratic National Committee . . . the job he held on that late Spring day in 1944 when FDR informed him personally, privately and alone of his eventful decision.

Did President Roosevelt carefully select the Missouri Senator as the most likely to keep the country and Congress in step with his own war and peace aims? Or did he prefer Henry Wallace of Iowa?

Robert Emmet Hannegan, the big, smiling St. Louis Irishman who'd give you the shirt off his back but not one word of confidence, knows the answer. He says there'll be enough time between now and the next Presidential campaign to tell the story which he concedes he some day must tell.

Whatever he says, I will always remember my last talk with Henry Agard Wallace before he stepped out of the Vice Presidency. Wallace looked a little grim, a little mystified, when he told me that right up to the time of the Vice Presidential nomination at the Democratic convention he had no idea whether FDR wanted him or not.

Hannegan is as open-faced as a wrist watch but doesn't always say the words to match. He parts his heavy black hair slightly on the left and brushes it back. His voice is strong and pleasant, his eyes bright and challenging; he is 200 pounds of 6-feet he-handsome swell-duds athlete. He chums up an interview, until you want to rush out and write your name in capital letters.

Evasive Tactics

Then . . .

You suddenly realize you've got the answers to about everything except what you asked, that you've never pow-wowed with a more pokerish poker-face. You realize that he hasn't told you and isn't going to tell you whether he:

(a) Lined up the faithful in a pre-campaign tour for Mr. Truman, or—

(b) Found local party organizations skittish of Wallace's vote-pulling power and demanding Mr. Truman.

Hannegan will let you assume that he never mentioned Mr. Truman until he was practically hog-tied into confessing the virtues of the Senator from Missouri.

Mr. Truman insisted that Bob be named Collector of Internal Revenue at St. Louis in 1942. Truman said at that time:

"Hannegan carried St. Louis three times for the President (FDR) and me. If he is not nominated, there will be no collector at St. Louis. I think I have enough friends in the Senate to see that no other person gets the job."

He again carried the hod for Hannegan to get him appointed U S. Commissioner of Internal Revenue in 1943 . . . and in 1944 leap-frogged Bob into the job of Democratic National Committee chairman.

Mr. Roosevelt is reported to have said the party needed another "Jim Farley" . . . a master politician, shrewd and forceful, who did not smoke or drink, who knew folks by their nicknames and who seriously worked at being an A-No. 1 American family man.

"Family Man"

That's Bob. He's nuts about his wife and young'uns. He rowdys around with the boys, Robert Emmet Jr., 11, and William, 10. He takes them hunting, fishing, bowling and razzes them into being as good as he was at swimming, baseball, basketball and football.

They got back at him by making him help haul an 88-inch sailfish out of Florida waters and charging him $1 an inch to have it mounted.

They go to Culver Summer School.

The girls, Patricia, 14, and Sally Ann, 5, are politicians, too. They keep him supplied with cake, cookies and candy which he whips out in those "smoke-filled rooms" when the "boys" are rigging a ticket over a bottle and black cigars.

Mrs. Hannegan was Bob's high school sweetheart . . . Miss Irma Protzmann, daughter of a German banking family. Robert, son of a competent and honest captain of detectives, was just another tough Irish kid in a city dominated by Americans of German birth or descent.

Hannegan got into politics because Bernard Dickman, formerly Mayor of St. Louis and now postmaster there, had to carry the all-nations 21st Ward in a mayoralty election and figured Bob could outsmart, outshout and outfight the opposition. He did, and became chairman of the St. Louis Democratic Central Committee almost before he was old enough to vote.

Hannegan will tell you he started out as a ward-heeler and that the way to keep Democrats in power is to build a ward and precinct organization larded over with the principles of Jefferson and Jackson. He has better than $500,000 in the party treasury, the most dough Democrats ever had after a national campaign.

There is a great change in Hannegan since I interviewed him when he became National Chairman in January, 1944. Then he was a newcomer to the bigtime and a bit bashful.

He is over the tender years now . . . a hardboiled organizer with a record for getting what he goes after. He plays to no "faction" within the party. He says he is obligated to "all groups" which helped us win . . . he says:

"I favor the oldtime two-party system, and I think Republicans are entitled to all the good things of life the same as Democrats, except to hold public office."

Aiken Favors Creation Of 4 New Cabinet Jobs

Proposes Transport, Banking, Welfare, Works Posts

WASHINGTON, May 26 (AP).—Four new Cabinet posts were proposed by Senator George D. Aiken, Republican, of Vermont, today as desirable in a reorganization of the government.

Expressing approval in general of President Truman's request for authority to reorganize the executive branch, Senator Aiken said he hoped the Chief Executive would add to the Cabinet:

1. A Secretary of Transportation and Communications to coordinate air, rail, highway and water transportation. Senator Aiken said the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Federal Communications Commission should be brought under this department.

2. A Secretary of Banking and Insurance whose duties would include administration of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and other lending agencies.

3. A Secretary of Welfare who would administer social security.

4. A Secretary of Public Works to administer all public-works programs.

"In view of changes the war's end will necessitate, President Truman will have a beautiful chance to reorganize the government on more businesslike lines if Congress will let him," Senator Aiken commented in an interview.

He said Congress also should reorganize its machinery, but should wait for the reorganization of the executive departments.

U. S. Meat Exports Rose 500% From '41 to '44

Commerce Department Reveals War Trade Data

WASHINGTON, May 26 (AP).—United States exports of meat products increased from $99,000,000 in 1941 to $535,000,000 in 1944.

The Commerce Department today reported this and some other details of America's foreign trade in the last four years that have been withheld on the ground of security.

Total exports, as previously announced, went from $5,000,000,000 in 1941 to $14,000,000,000 last year, largely because of the growth of lend-lease. Today's report disclosed that next to military equipment, exports of foodstuffs contributed most to the rise. Crude foodstuffs went from $84,000,000 to $134,000,000. Manufactured foodstuffs rose from $418,000,000 to $1,632,000,000. All types of foodstuffs increased from $502,000,000 to $1,766,000,000.

Exports of lard approximately tripled. Exports of dairy products more than tripled. There were smaller increases in vegetables, fruits, fish, rice and sugar.

Most of the increase in imports into the United States was likewise in foodstuffs. Total imports rose from $3,200,000,000 in 1941 to $3,900,000,000.

Broadcasters Reaffirm Unity With Press Against Censorship

WASHINGTON, May 26 (AP).—Radio broadcasters reaffirmed today their determination to remain united with a free press in preserving "uncensored and unimpeded the channels of communication which are the heritage of a free people."

The statement was contained in a message from J. Harold Ryan, president of the National Association of Broadcasters, addressed to the newspapers of America.

Mr. Ryan expressed the appreciation of the broadcasting industry to the newspapers "for the manner in which they recognized our performance in the public interest on V-E Day."

Carrier Commissioning To Go With Christening

Washington, May 26 (AP)—In the first double ceremony of its kind for a ship of the type, the 27,100-ton aircraft carrier Lake Champlain will be christened and commissioned soon at the Norfolk (Va.) Navy Yard.

Mrs. Warren R. Austin, Burlington, Vt., wife of Senator Austin, will sponsor the vessel at the christening ceremonies.

The Lake Champlain was built in dry dock and floated out without ceremony last November 2. When completed, the christening and commissioning will be combined.

Named for the Battle of Lake Champlain in 1814, the carrier is the second naval vessel to bear the name. The first was a mine carrier which saw service in the first World War.

Reproduction of Picture Doubted for Iwo Stamp

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 26—The Postoffice Department doubts whether it would be practical to reduce the Iwo Jima flag-raising picture by Joe Rosenthal, Associated Press photographer, to the size of a postage stamp.

Joseph J. Lawler, third assistant postmaster general, explained this in a letter made public today by Representative Woodruff of Michigan.

The Congressman recently advocated issuance of a stamp bearing the picture, and Mr. Lawler said that thousands of other persons also had written to the department making the same suggestion.

Mr. Lawler added, however, that he was unable to say whether it would be feasible "because of the proportions of the original, which, when suitably reduced, fail to permit identity of the flag."

Truman Makes 3 Shifts In Labor Board Lineup

Washington, May 26 (AP)—President Truman has appointed Lee W. Hill, of Milwaukee, as a regular member of the War Labor Board, WLB announced today. He has been an alternate industry member.

Simultaneously the President named two substitute industry members as alternate members of the board.

Hill, vice president in charge of industrial relations of the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Company, succeeds James Tanham, vice president of the Texas Company, who recently resigned from the board to devote more time to private business.

Mr. Truman shifted S. Bayard Colgate, of New Canaan, Conn., chairman of the board of directors of the Colgate-Palmolive-Peet Company, of New Jersey, and Fred W. Climer, of Akron, Ohio, assistant to the president of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, from substitute to alternate industry members.

Gold Medal for Stilwell.

Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell will receive the Novelli Gold Medal of the C. M. J. Novelli Post, American Legion, Tuesday evening at an award dinner in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. Lieut.-Gov. Joe R. Hanley will present the medal.

President To Be Given Degree By Elon College

Washington, May 26 (AP)—President Truman has agreed to accept in absentia an honorary degree of doctor of laws from Elon College, North Carolina, which is headed by Dr. Leon E. Smith. The college's commencement exercises will be held Monday.

This will be the first honorary degree bestowed on the new Chief Executive since he entered the White House. In his early days he studied law for two years but did not become a lawyer.

Court-Martial Powers Of Truman Transferred

He Now Will Act Only in Cases Involving Death Sentences

WASHINGTON, May 26 (AP).—President Truman transferred today his court-martial commutation and confirmation powers to top Army and Navy officials, except in cases involving death sentences.

The White House said the action was designed to lighten the President's war-time burdens.

The court-martial powers vested in the President by the articles of war, with the exception of capital cases, were shifted by executive order to the Secretaries Under Secretaries of War and Navy.

The order said the transfer was made because the "burden of duties upon the President is becoming increasingly heavy."

Leahy Is Silent On Petain Request

Washington, May 26 (A. P.).—Admiral William D. Leahy had "absolutely no comment" today on Marshal Petain's request that he be a defense witness at the latter's Paris trial on charges of collaborating with the Nazis.

Admiral Leahy, now personal chief of staff to President Truman, formerly was United States Ambassador to the Vichy regime which Petain headed. Petain is to be tried next month.

TOP AWARD ASKED FOR B-29 EPIC FIGHT

Pilot Whose Riven Plane Sent 11 Craft Crashing With It Is Cited for Medal of Honor

SAIPAN, Marianas Islands, Dec. 27 (Delayed by Censor) (AP)—The B-29 lost over Tokyo in today's attack fought one of the most gallant battles the substratosphere has ever seen and took eleven Japanese planes down with it in flaming ruins.

Rammed and virtually wrecked by a Tony twin-engine fighter at an altitude of about six miles and 1,500 miles from its Saipan base, the Superfortress, its guns blazing, suffered two more collisions with Tonys before plummeting into Tokyo Bay.

During the seven-minute battle the sky giant weaved between more than thirty fighters, brushing off enemy planes like flies on each twisting turn. The bomber was losing its insides through the gaping wound it had received in its first ramming—a gash three feet wide and eight feet long extending from the nose to the leading edge of the right wing.

For a few breathless moments it appeared to watchers that the plane might beat off its attackers and rejoin its formation. Then the second Tony crashed into it, sending the No. 3 engine hurtling from its nacelle. A few moments later the third collision ended all hope of escape.

Request for Award Announced

Capt. George Kelly of Edinburgh, former Texas State Senator, who interrogated witnesses from other B-29's said:

"It isn't customary to announce recommendations for awards ahead of time, but the men in that B-29 did such a noble job we would like to have it known that we're putting the pilot in for a Congressional Medal and the rest of the crew for Silver Stars.

"From the first ramming to the last those men shot down six Tonys and two twin-engine Irvings in addition to the three planes they brought down in the collisions. As long as their guns would work, they kept firing."

The commander of the B-29, which was named Uncle Tom's Cabin and unit insignia T Square 25, was Maj. John E. Krause, whose wife and son live in Richland Center, Wis., and whose parents live in Elmhurst, Ill. Major Krause, operations officer for his unit, would not have had to go on the mission. He made it a rule to fly as many missions as any other pilot.

For this mission he borrowed the crew of the Wichita Witch, which was left without a B-29 after its plane had been destroyed in a Japanese attack on Saipan. The crew's regular commander, First Lieut. Guy T. Dobbs Jr. of Jackson, Miss., had been hospitalized for a knee injury and was unable to take part.

Others in the Plane

Accompanying Major Krause as observer was Maj. William Walker of Salt Lake City.

Others in the plane were Second Lieuts. Robert M. Rawlins, Balboa Island, Calif.; John W. Ray, Dallas, Tex., flight engineer; Kenneth Beyer, Houston, Tex., navigator, and Stanley J. Rebicki, Chicago, and Sgts. Gerald J. Westerman, Jefferson, Wis., central fire control; Clarence B. Hewlett, Kansas City, Mo., radio operator, and Edward M. Sienkiewicz, Grand Rapids, Mich., left gunner; Corp. Kenneth A. Seely, Sherwood, Ore., right gunner, and Richard E. Sandlin, Hamilton, Ohio, tail gunner, and Staff Sgt. Morris R. Tyler, Augusta, Wis., electrical specialist.

The battle was witnessed at close range by crews in "Superforts," commanded by Maj. Edward C. Lass of Fort Collins, Col.; First Lieut. Wagner W. Dick, Kentwood, La., and First Lieut. Irwin M. Reed, Whittier, Calif.

"As the planes were heading from Mount Fuji into Tokyo and just before they dropped their bombs," Captain Kelly said, "a Tony coming in high made a pass at Major Lass' ship, Lassie Come Home, missing the nose by about 100 feet.

Crash at 750 Miles an Hour

"The plane went right through into the lower element, its guns firing all the time, missed Lieutenant Dick in the No. 2 ship of the lower element by not more than fifty feet and plowed right into Johnny, leader of the element. Dick estimated its speed at 750 miles an hour.

"The Tony's left wing sliced into the right side of Uncle Tom's Cabin at the co-pilot's station and ripped it open clear back through the flight engineer's station. The Tony's left wing broke off at the roots, and it did a cartwheel and went down."

Lieutenant Dick took up the narrative:

"We could clearly see the padding and insides of the B-29 through the three-feet-wide gash, and could see equipment and wreckage tumbling out, along with sheets of yellow flame.

"Why the terrific impact didn't knock the plane out instantly, we don't know. The co-pilot, engineer and radio operator and probably Major Walker must have been killed outright, if they were at their normal positions on the right side of the plane. The chances are Johnny Krause was pretty badly wounded, too."

The mortally damaged plane held in formation briefly, then abruptly lost speed and altitude, and the Japanese fighters swarmed all over it. Three thousand feet below the formation Major Krause jettisoned his bomb-bay tanks and leveled off. Every gun on his ship was firing, and Japanese fighters were falling in flames. A Tony striking from the right wing set the No. 4 engine afire.

Major Krause, trying desperately to maintain his course, was seen swerving the plane from side to side, brushing off fighters at every turn, allowing every gun to fire effectively.

Major Krause's skipper and closest friend, Lieut. Col. Donald W. Saunders of Athens, N. Y., described the flier's battle as the most brilliant in the history of high-altitude bombardment.

LONDON, MAY 26-(AP)-THE MANCHESTER GUARDIAN SAID TODAY THE NEW YORK DAILY NEWS, IN FAVORING PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL'S RE-ELECTION, "IS ONLY EXERCISING A PREROGATIVE THAT IT WOULD BE THE FIRST TO DENY US," BUT "NO ONE IN BRITAIN WILL BE IN THE LEAST OFFENDED."

MAY 27 1945

(A DAILY NEWS EDITORIAL THURSDAY SAID "CHURCHILL HAS NOW CALLED AN EARLY GENERAL ELECTION IN BRITAIN," AND COMMENTED: "IF HE AND HIS PARTY DON'T WIN THIS ELECTION THERE IS NO GRATITUDE IN ENGLAND.")

THE GUARDIAN SAID EDITORIALLY:

"ONCE UPON A TIME THERE WAS AN ENGLISH RELIGIOUS WEEKLY THAT VENTURED IN ITS INNOCENCE TO EXPRESS ITS HOPE THAT AN AMERICAN PRESIDENT MIGHT BE RE-ELECTED. THE COMMENT LED ALMOST TO AN INTERNATIONAL INCIDENT. 'HOW DARE A BRITISH PAPER TRY TO INFLUENCE THE HIGHLY INTELLIGENT CITIZENS OF THE GREAT REPUBLIC?' "NO ONE IN BRITAIN, HOWEVER, WILL BE IN THE LEAST DEGREE OFFENDED.

EDEN SAID THE FIRST AIM OF THE ALLIANCE--DEFEAT OF HITLER GERMANY--HAD BEEN ACHIEVED, AND REMINDED THE SOVIET FOREIGN COMMISSAR:

"NOW WE ARE IN THE POST-WAR STAGE IN WHICH, IN ACCORDANCE WITH OUR TREATY, WE AGREED ON CLOSE AND FRIENDLY COLLABORATION, TAKING INTO CONSIDERATION THE INTERESTS OF THE OTHER UNITED NATIONS, AND WITHOUT STRIVING FOR ANY TERRITORIAL ACQUISITIONS FOR OURSELVES, AS WELL AS REFRAINING FROM INTERFERENCE INTO THE INTERNAL AFFAIRS OF OTHER STATES.

"I AM CONFIDENT AS EVER, THAT IF OUR TWO COUNTRIES REMAIN TRUE TO THE SPIRIT OF THE ANGLO-SOVIET ALLIANCE AND TO SUBSEQUENT AGREEMENTS IN WHICH BOTH OUR COUNTRIES PARTICIPATE, THEN ALL EUROPE CAN LOOK FORWARD TO LASTING PEACE AND GENERAL DEVELOPMENT."

MOLOTOV'S COMMUNICATION SAID: "PERMIT ME TO EXPRESS MY CONFIDENCE IN FURTHER STRENGTHENING OF FRIENDLY RELATIONS BETWEEN GREAT BRITAIN AND THE SOVIET UNION FOR THE WELL-BEING OF THE PEOPLES OF OUR COUNTRIES AND FOR FREEDOM-LOVING NATIONS WHO ARE STRIVING FOR INSURANCE OF A STABLE PEACE AND SECURITY."

HE DECLARED THAT "THE SUCCESSFUL MILITARY COOPERATION BETWEEN OUR PEOPLES, CROWNED WITH THE HISTORIC VICTORY OVER HITLERITE GERMANY, PROVED THE VIRILITY AND REAL STRENGTH OF THE TREATY."

LONDON, MAY 26-(AP)-BABY KISSING AND STUMP SPEECHES ARE A PART OF THE CURRENT BRITISH ELECTION CAMPAIGNS WHICH IN MANY RESPECTS IS JUST LIKE ELECTIONEERING IN AMERICA.

HERE "WARD" COMMITTEES RAISE FUNDS AND PUSH BUTTONS IN A HOUSE-TO-HOUSE CANVASS FOR VOTES. ON ELECTION DAY THE COMMITTEES WILL PROVIDE TRANSPORTATION TO THE POLLS FOR THE VOTERS.

DIFFERING FROM THE UNITED STATES, THE BRITISH HOLD NO PRIMARY ELECTIONS. THE CANDIDATES ARE SELECTED BY PARTY DISTRICT COMMITTEES AND DO NOT HAVE TO RESIDE NECESSARILY IN THEIR DISTRICT.

BRITONS DO NOT VOTE FOR A PRIME MINISTER. AFTER THE ELECTION THE KING WILL CALL THE LEADER OF THE PARTY WINNING THE MOST SEATS IN PARLIAMENT AND ASK HIM TO FORM A GOVERNMENT.

IF THE CONSERVATIVES WIN IN THE PRESENT ELECTION IT WILL BE CHURCHILL WHO WILL BE SUMMONED. IF THE LABORITES WIN IT WILL MOST LIKELY BE CLEMENT ATTLEE, PRESENT LABOR LEADER, WHO WILL BECOME PRIME MINISTER.

LONDON, MAY 26-(AP)-ENGLISH PROTESTS OVER REPORTS OF THE BURNING OF DAMAGED OR UNADDRESSED GIFT PARCELS TO AMERICAN SOLDIERS BROUGHT FROM AN AMERICAN MAJOR TONIGHT A STATEMENT THAT "ONLY SPOILED FOOD AND ITEMS BEYOND USE ARE BURNED."

THE BRITISH NEWS AGENCY EXCHANGE TELEGRAPH HAD REPORTED THAT GERMAN PRISONERS OF WAR WERE DESTROYING HUNDREDS OF PARCELS OF FOOD, CIGARETTES AND OTHER GIFTS WHICH, THE AGENCY SAID, WERE BELIEVED TO HAVE BEEN SENT TO AMERICAN SOLDIERS WHO WERE DEAD OR MISSING.

MAJ. D.C.JERNIGEN, OF FORT WORTH, TEXAS, COMMANDING OFFICER OF THE U.S.ARMY FIRST BASE POSTOFFICE AT SUTTON COLDFIELD, ISSUED THE STATEMENT WHICH CONCEDED THAT "AN OCCASIONAL ITEM IN EDIBLE OR USEABLE CONDITION FINDS ITS WAY INTO THE DUMP DESPITE CAREFUL SORTING."

EXCHANGE TELEGRAPH SAID THE PARCELS WERE BURNED AT MINSWORTH IN WARWICKSHIRE, ENGLAND, AND THAT VILLAGERS, ANGRILY CALLING IT AN "OUTRAGE," BELIEVED AMERICAN AUTHORITIES PREFERRED TO BURN THE PARCELS RATHER THAN USE SHIPPING SPACE TO RETURN THEM TO THE SENDERS.

THE AGENCY REPORTED THAT TRUCKS HAD BEEN ARRIVING DAILY AT THE DUMPING GROUND FOR TWO WEEKS AND THAT GERMAN PRISONERS THERE WERE GORGING THEMSELVES ON THE CONTENTS. THE VILLAGERS WERE REPORTED SALVAGING SOME ARTICLES INCLUDING TINNED MEATS, CAKES, STOCKINGS, SHOES, LOCKETS AND SOAP.

MAYOR W.E.LAWLEY OF SUTTON COLDFIELD SAID THE TOWN COUNCIL MAY "ASK THE AMERICANS IF THEY CAN POSSIBLY DISPOSE OF IT IN SOME OTHER WAY."

JERNIGEN SAID PARCELS WHOSE IDENTIFYING WRAPPERS WERE UNREADABLE WERE SORTED BY POSTAL TECHNICIANS AND EDIBLE FOOD AND UNDAMAGED ITEMS WERE DISTRIBUTED TO ARMY HOSPITALS WHILE VALUABLES SUCH AS WATCHES AND PENS WERE RETURNED TO THE POST OFFICE IN WASHINGTON.

THE CONSERVATIVE DAILY SKETCH SAID "THE ANNOUNCEMENT OF THE NEW CABINET APPOINTMENTS WILL GO FAR TO ALLAY ANY ANXIETIES WHICH MAY HAVE BEEN FELT EITHER AT HOME OR ABROAD THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT HAD BEEN WEAKENED IN ABILITY OR EXPERIENCE BY THE DEFECTION OF THE SOCIALIST MINISTERS."

NO COMMENT ON THE NEW APPOINTMENTS APPEARED IN THE DAILY HERALD, ORGAN OF THE LABOR PARTY NOW SQUARING OFF FOR AN ELECTION CAMPAIGN ALONG OPENLY SOCIALISTIC LINES, WHILE CHURCHILL PLANNED TO BEGIN HIS CAMPAIGN TODAY WITH A TOUR OF HIS CONSTITUENCY IN ESSEX.

THE TIMES SAID THE NEW GOVERNMENT'S FOREIGN POLICY "MUST STAND FOR A SOLID SYSTEM OF COLLECTIVE SECURITY, EQUIPPED WITH POWER TO MAKE DECISIONS EFFECTIVE AND BASED ON THE CLOSEST POSSIBLE ALLIANCE OF THE BRITISH EMPIRE WITH THE UNITED STATES AND THE SOVIET UNION."

SUMMING UP THE CONFLICTING REACTION TO THE GOVERNMENT, THE POLITICAL CORRESPONDENT OF THE BRITISH PRESS ASSOCIATION REFERRED TO THE FACT THAT THE HOUSE OF COMMONS WILL MEET TUESDAY AFTER ITS WEEKEND RECESS, IN AN ELECTION ATMOSPHERE. THE WRITER COMMENTED:

"IN FACT THE CARETAKER GOVERNMENT WILL HAVE TO TAKE CARE, FOR IT IS GOING TO HAVE THE FIERIEST BAPTISM OF ANY ADMINISTRATION FOR A LONG TIME. ITS OPPONENTS WHO WILL BE SPRINGING TO EVERY OPPORTUNITY KNOW FROM INTIMATE PERSONAL EXPERIENCE EXACTLY WHERE THE WEAK SPOTS ARE TO BE FOUND IN THE ARMOR."

BERCHTESGADEN, MAY 26-(AP)-HITLER'S ONLY FULL SISTER, PAULA, SAID TODAY IN AN INTERVIEW WITH AMERICAN OCCUPATION AUTHORITIES THAT IT WAS TOO BAD THAT HER BROTHER HAD NOT TRIED TO BE AN ARCHITECT.

HE MIGHT HAVE BEEN GOOD, BAD OR INDIFFERENT, BUT HE COULDN'T HAVE MADE AS BIG A MESS THAN HE DID IN POLITICS, SHE SAID.

HER WORDS CONFIRMED THE GENERAL BELIEF THAT THERE WAS LITTLE IN COMMON BETWEEN HITLER AND HIS SISTER AND THAT FOR THE FUEHRER, FAMILY TIES WERE ALMOST NON-EXISTENT.

PAULA, WHO USED TO LIVE ALONE IN VIENNA, SAID SHE HAD NEVER SEEN THE BERLIN CHANCELLERY. WHY SHE SHOULD HAVE TURNED UP IN BAVARIA WAS NOT ENTIRELY CLEAR, BUT THE WOODS IN BAVARIA ARE FULL OF VIENNESE WHO SCRAMBLED TO GET AWAY FROM THE RUSSIANS.

ONE QUESTIONER SAID THAT IN CONTRAST TO HITLER, HIS SISTER INDULGED IN HUMOR, SMOKED, ATE MEAT AND DRANK SCHNAPS WHEN SHE COULD GET IT.

THE LAST LETTER TO PAULA FROM HITLER THAT WAS COME TO LIGHT, DATED MAY 3, 1941, WAS AN ACKNOWLEDGMENT OF HER BIRTHDAY GREETING IN WHICH HITLER SAID HE WAS SENDING HER A SMALL PRESENT. IT WAS A PACKAGE OF BACON WHICH A SPANISH GOVERNMENT OFFICIAL, WHO MUST HAVE FORGOTTEN HITLER WAS A VEGETARIAN, HAD SENT TO THE BERLIN CHANCELLERY.

PAULA WAS RELEASED AFTER QUESTIONING, BUT THE INTERVIEW TOOK SO LONG SHE COULDN'T GET BACK INTO LINE AT A FOOD SHOP AND THE AMERICANS EXERTED INFLUENCE TO GET HER A LOAF OF BREAD.

ECKERNFOERDE, GERMANY, MAY 26-(AP)-POWERFUL ONE-MAN GERMAN SUBMARINES WHICH COULD BE LAUNCHED ON THE HIGH SEAS FROM A "HOMING" DESTROYER--PROBABLY THE SECRET NAVAL WEAPON THE NAZIS BOASTED WOULD HIT OUR ATLANTIC CONVOYS ON AN UNPRECEDENTED SCALE--WERE BEING BUILT NEAR HERE WHEN THE WAR ENDED.

I VISITED TODAY A FACTORY WITH ASSEMBLY LINES GEARED TO PRODUCE 100 OF THESE LETHAL MIDGETS A WEEK. THE FACTORY WAS CONCEALED IN AN INCONSPICUOUS FISHING VILLAGE OF SURENDORF, 15 MILES NORTH OF KIEL.

ADJOINING IT WERE SEVERAL PLANTS TURNING OUT THE NEW MODEL ACCOUSTIC TORPEDO WITH A 150-POUND WARHEAD. THESE WERE SLUNG BENEATH THE MINIATURE SUB. INTRICATE ELECTRIC "HEARING" DEVICES BUILT INSIDE THE TORPEDOES GUIDED THEM TO TARGETS, FOLLOWING THE SOUND WAVES OF SHIPS' ENGINES LIKE A BLOODHOUND ON THE SCENT. THUS IT WAS NOT NECESSARY TO AIM THEM.

THE TORPEDOES WERE DRIVEN BY "INGOLENE," A FUEL EVOLVED BY A GERMAN CHEMIST, HELMUTH WALTHER, WHO NOW IS IN LONDON. THE PROPELLENT, THE SAME AS WAS USED IN V-2 ROCKETS, WAS BEING PRODUCED AT THE RATE OF 1,100 TONS A MONTH BY OTTO SCHICKERT AND COMPANY AT BAD LAUTERBERG IN THE HARZ MOUNTAINS 30 MILES FROM THE UNIVERSITY TOWN OF GOETTINGEN.

THE GERMANS CALLED THE NEW ONE-MAN SUBMARINES "WEASELS." THEY WERE POWERED BY TWO SETS OF BATTERIES AND HAD A TOP SPEED OF THREE KNOTS. THEIR RANGE WAS ABOUT 100 MILES, AND THEY WERE SUPPOSED TO RETURN TO THE MOTHER SHIP WHICH COULD HAUL 20 OR MORE ON THE DECKS TO CONVOY ROUTES.

CAPT. GEOFFREY PIKE OF THE BRITISH ROYAL MARINES, WHO IS IN CHARGE OF TROOPS TAKING OVER THE FACTORY, SAID: "IT'S A GOOD THING THE WAR ENDED WHEN IT DID BEFORE MASS PRODUCTION OF THESE DIABOLICAL SUBS--THE V-1 AND V-2 OF THE SEA."

THE SUBMARINES WERE 30 FEET LONG WITH A COCKPIT FOR THE PILOT ENCLOSED IN GLASS LIKE THAT USED IN THE NOSES OF AMERICAN BOMBERS.

THE PILOT CARRIED AN OXYGEN FLASK ON HIS BACK. HE COULD SUBMERGE TO ABOUT 50 FEET TO ESCAPE DETECTION, BUT THE CRAFT WAS DESIGNED PRIMARILY TO CRUISE ON THE SURFACE WITH A TORPEDO SLUNG UNDERNEATH.

THE TORPEDO WAS ALMOST AS LONG AS THE SUBMARINE, WHICH ACTED AS NOTHING MORE THAN THE TRIGGER. IN TRIALS THE SUBMARINE WAS SAID TO HAVE PROVED SUCCESSFUL BUT THE WAR ENDED BEFORE THE GERMANS HAD TIME TO SEND IT AGAINST ALLIED SHIPS.

A20

TWO OTHER FACTORIES, ONE AT ECKERNFOERDE AND THE OTHER AT THE SUBURB OF BORBY, WERE BEING BUILT AND THE PRODUCTION RATE WAS EXPECTED TO BE ABOUT 1,000 A MONTH. THIS DISTRICT APPARENTLY ESCAPED THE ALLIED BOMBINGS, FOR I SAW NO SIGNS OF DESTRUCTION.

THE NEW ONE-MAN JOB MADE OTHER SMALL MODELS OBSOLETE. A SCORE OF TWO-MAN SUBMARINES RESEMBLING THE REGULAR U-BOATS WERE MOORED TO THE END OF A PIER AT SURENDORF, THEIR BOTTOMS COVERED WITH BARNACLES.

OTHERS WERE AT ECKERNFOERDE, WHOSE BAY IS FILLED WITH IDLE GERMAN SHIPPING AND NAVAL UNITS, INCLUDING LIGHT CRUISERS AND DESTROYERS.

IN ADDITION TO THE "WEASEL" AND THE TWO-MAN SUBMARINE CALLED THE "SEA DOG," THERE WERE TWO OTHER TYPES OF MIDGETS, PRODUCTION OF WHICH CEASED WHEN THE NEW MODEL MADE ITS APPEARANCE.

THEY ALSO WERE ONE-MAN CRAFT, ONE, CALLED "THE SHARK," WAS 36 FEET LONG WITH ONE TORPEDO UNDERNEATH AND METAL FINS OR FLAPS AT THE SIDE TO MAINTAIN BALANCE.

THE OTHER, CALLED "THE TADPOLE," WAS 40 FEET LONG WITH ONE TORPEDO SLUNG ON EACH SIDE.

NEITHER OF THESE MODELS WAS AS FAST, EFFICIENT OR COMPACT AND SIMPLE TO CONSTRUCT AS THE NEW AND DEADLY "WEASEL."

FLENSBURG, GERMANY, MAY 26-(AP)-ONE OF GERMANY'S ACE SUBMARINE COMMANDERS SAID TODAY THAT NAZI U-BOAT MEN HAD FOUND THAT ACOUSTIC TORPEDOES WHICH FOLLOWED SOUND WAVES TO TARGETS "WERE 90 PER CENT MORE EFFECTIVE THAN THE OLDER MODELS."

INTERVIEWED ABOARD THE LINER PATRIA, OCCUPIED NOW BY THE SUPREME ALLIED HEADQUARTERS MISSION, LT. CMDR. HEINZ WALKERLING SAID HE HAD SUNK TWO DESTROYERS AND 30,000 TONS OF ALLIED SHIPPING IN THE NORTH ATLANTIC. HE IS BEING EMPLOYED BY ALLIED AUTHORITIES AS A SORT OF LIAISON OFFICER BETWEEN AMERICAN AND BRITISH NAVAL MEN AND THE GERMANS.

THE 30-YEAR-OLD NAVAL OFFICER SAID THE GERMANS BEGAN USING ACOUSTIC TORPEDOES IN THE FALL OF 1943. HE ESTIMATED THAT THE REICH

HAD SOME 800 FIRST LINE SUBMARINES IN OPERATION AT THE PEAK OF THE CAMPAIGN AGAINST ALLIED SHIPPING.

WALKERLING ALSO DECLARED THAT MORE THAN 100 U-BOATS WERE ASSIGNED FOR A CONSTANT WATCH OF ALLIED CONVOY ROUTES BETWEEN NEWFOUNDLAND AND IRELAND DURING THE LAST TWO YEARS OF THE WAR.

"MORALE WAS EXTREMELY HIGH ALL DURING THE WAR AMONG SUBMARINE MEN AND THERE WAS A HIGH COMPETITIVE SPIRIT WITH EACH COMMANDER TRYING TO OUTDO THE OTHER," HE SAID. "AT THE BASE CHARTS OR BOX SCORES WERE KEPT OF THE TONNAGE SUNK AND THE COMMANDERS COMPETED FOR THE TOP PLACE."

SAYING HE JUDGED THE NAZIS LOST ABOUT 30 U-BOATS A MONTH, WALKERLING REPORTED THE CREWS FEARED AIRPLANES MORE THAN THEY DID DESTROYERS.

"AS THE SHAEF MEN BEGAN TO ARRIVE, I JUST ORDERED THE GERMAN SOLDIERS OUT AND THEY LEFT. ONE NIGHT THE WHOLE STAFF VACATED THE SUITES AND WE HAD THE SHIP WELL IN HAND WHEN ALL OUR AMERICAN-BRITISH-RUSSIAN PARTY ARRIVED."

JACKSON SAID HE GOT A KICK UT OF BEING THE ONLY ALLIED OFFICER ABOARD AND IN A NEST OF THE GERMAN HIGH COMMAND.

"BUT I WAS NEVER BOTHERED AND I CARRIED MY AUTOMATIC WITH ME ONLY WHEN I LEFT THE SHIP," HE RELATED.

"WHEN I ENTERED THE MESSHALL THE GERMANS WOULD ALL STAND UP UNTIL I TOOK MY SEAT. WHEN I GOT UP TO LEAVE, THEY DID THE SAME. MANY OF THEM SPOKE ENGLISH AND SAID THEY HAD RELATIONS IN THE STATES. THAT'S ABOUT ALL WE DISCUSSED--PLACES IN THE STATES. BUT THEIR FOOD WAS LOUSY AND LOTS OF TIMES I WOULD LEAVE AND GO BACK TO MY ROOM TO HAVE K-RATIONS."

MAY 27 1945

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

JOACHIM VON RIBBENTROP, WHO ROSE IN A FEW YEARS FROM A POLITICALLY UNKNOWN WINE EXPORTER AND IMPORTER TO BE FOREIGN MINISTER OF GERMANY, WAS BELIEVED TO HAVE INFLUENCED HITLER TO DEFY GREAT BRITAIN UNDER CIRCUMSTANCES WHICH PRECIPITATED THE EUROPEAN WAR IN 1939.

HIS MISTAKEN FORECAST THAT BRITAIN WOULD NOT FIGHT, BASED ON CLOSE CONTACT WITH BRITISH PEOPLE DURING INTERVALS THROUGHOUT HIS LIFE, DID NOT AFFECT HIS HIGH PLACE IN THE FUEHRER'S FAVOR. ONCE AN ARDENT ADMIRER OF ENGLAND, RIBBENTROP IN THE YEARS IMMEDIATELY PRECEDING THE WAR GREW TO HATE THE BRITISH.

RIBBENTROP WAS AN ARCHITECT OF THE ANTI-COMINTERN PACT. HE WAS AT THE HEIGHT OF HIS POWER WHEN HITLER MARCHED THE NAZI ARMIES INTO RUSSIA IN JUNE, 1941. OVER THE RADIO HE READ THE REICH'S FORMAL DECLARATION OF WAR AGAINST THE NATION WITH WHICH GERMANY HAD LINKED HERSELF IN A 10-YEAR NON-AGGRESSION PACT LESS THAN TWO YEARS BEFORE. BEFORE THE GERMAN SURRENDER IN MAY, 1945, HE DROPPED OUT OF SIGHT.

GRAND ADMIRAL KARL DOENITZ, WHO SUCCEEDED HITLER AS FUEHRER, DISMISSED RIBBENTROP AS FOREIGN MINISTER MAY 2 AND REPLACED HIM WITH COUNT LUDWIG VON SCHWERIN KROSIGK. RIBBENTROP THEN BECAME THE OBJECT OF AN INTENSE ALLIED SEARCH.

HIS ACTIVITIES IN THE CLOSING DAYS OF THE NAZI REGIME NEVER HAVE BEEN FULLY REVEALED. A GERMAN SHORTHAND EXPERT WHO RECORDED MEETINGS OF NAZI LEADERS IN THE CAVERNS UNDER BERLIN SAID THAT SHORTLY BEFORE THE END RIBBENTROP TELEPHONED HITLER TO HOLD ON A LITTLE LONGER.

RIBBENTROP MADE THE ELEVENTH HOUR CLAIM THAT HE HAD INFORMATION THAT THE BRITISH AND AMERICANS WERE GOING TO FIGHT THE RUSSIANS. MUCH AS HE WANTED TO, EVEN HITLER DID NOT BELIEVE HIM THEN.

IN APRIL, 1945, 285 MEMBERS OF THE GERMAN FOREIGN MINISTRY WERE CAPTURED BY THE U.S. SIXTH ARMORED DIVISION IN MUELHAUSEN, 19 MILES NORTHWEST OF WEIMAR, BUT RIBBENTROP AND OTHER TOP FIGURES IN THE DEPARTMENT WERE NOT AMONG THEM.

AS EARLY AS SEPTEMBER, 1944, RIBBENTROP EXPRESSED A CURIOUSLY NEGATIVE VIEW OF GERMANY'S WAR PROSPECTS. HE DECLARED THEN THAT THE CONFLICT HAD BECOME A LIFE-OR-DEATH FIGHT WHICH MUST CONTINUE "UNTIL OUR ENEMIES REALIZE THAT THEY COULD NEVER WIN."

OF ALL THE TOP-RANKING LEADERS IN THE NAZI REGIME RIBBENTROP WAS THE MOST GENEROUSLY SCHOOLED IN FOREIGN TRAVEL. HE SEEMS TO HAVE REPLACED BARON KONSTANTIN VON NEURATH AS FOREIGN MINISTER EVEN BEFORE HIS APPOINTMENT TO SUCCEED HIM ON FEB. 4, 1938.

MOSCOW, MAY 26-(AP)-HARRY HOPKINS AND MARSHAL STALIN CONFERRED IN THE KREMLIN TODAY. THE NATURE OF THEIR INITIAL CONVERSATION WAS NOT DIVULGED, BUT IT WAS BELIEVED TO HAVE COVERED A BROAD RANGE OF SUBJECTS INCLUDING POSSIBLY A MEETING SOON OF THE "BIG THREE."

PRESIDENT TRUMAN'S PERSONAL REPRESENTATIVE, WHO ARRIVED YESTERDAY, WAS ACCOMPANIED TO THE KREMLIN BY U. S. AMBASSADOR W. AVERELL HARRIMAN.

(THE MOSCOW RADIO, HEARD IN LONDON, SAID FOREIGN COMMISSAR MOLOTOV ALSO WAS PRESENT.)

BEFORE THE MEETING, HOPKINS HELD A SERIES OF CONFERENCES WITH MEMBERS OF THE U. S. EMBASSY STAFF AND MAJ. GEN. J. R. DEANE, CHIEF OF THE AMERICAN MILITARY MISSION TO RUSSIA.

HARRIMAN SAT IN ON THE CONFERENCES WITH DEANE AND U. S. MINISTER GEORGE KENNAN.

HOPKINS CAME BY PLANE FROM PARIS. NEWS OF HIS ARRIVAL WITH MRS. HOPKINS IN MOSCOW WAS PRIMINENTLY DISPLAYED IN THE MOSCOW PRESS AND GIVEN SPECIAL ATTENTION ON THE RADIO.

A FOREIGN DIPLOMATIC SOURCE SAID HOPKIN'S VISIT SHOULD NOT BE INTERPRETED AS THE RESULT OF ANY "CRISIS" IN ALLIED-RUSSIAN AFFAIRS BUT RATHER AS A FULL DISCUSSION ON THE NUMEROUS DEVELOPMENTS SINCE THE YALTA CONFERENCE.

HE SAID HOPKIN'S IMMINENT TALKS WITH THE RUSSIANS WOULD COVER A LARGE NUMBER OF SUBJECTS.

MOSCOW, MAY 26-(AP)-PRESIDENTIAL ADVISER HARRY HOPKINS PROBABLY WILL BEGIN DISCUSSIONS WITH SOVIET LEADERS ON CURRENT AMERICAN-RUSSIAN QUESTIONS LATE TODAY.

HOPKINS, WHO ARRIVED YESTERDAY BY PLANE FROM PARIS, WAS REPORTED EXHAUSTED BY THE LONG TRIP. HE RESTED THIS MORNING AT THE RESIDENCE OF U.S.AMBASSADOR W. AVERELL HARRIMAN WHILE MRS.HOPKINS ROSE EARLY FOR A MOSCOW SIGHT-SEEING TOUR.

THE RUSSIAN PRESS AND RADIO, DESCRIBING HOPKINS AS THE "PERSONAL REPRESENTATIVE OF PRESIDENT TRUMAN," REPORTED HIS ARRIVAL IN DETAIL BUT WITHOUT EDITORIAL COMMENT. AN INFORMED DIPLOMATIC SOURCE SAID THAT WHILE THE VISIT WAS IMPORTANT, PERSONS LOOKING FOR ANY SENSATIONS PROBABLY WOULD BE DISAPPOINTED.

THIS SOURCE SAID THE VISIT SHOULD NOT BE INTERPRETED AS THE RESULT OF ANY CRISIS IN AFFAIRS, BUT RATHER FOR THE PURPOSE OF A FULL DISCUSSION ON NUMEROUS DEVELOPMENTS SINCE THE CRIMEAN CONFERENCE OF PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, PREMIER STALIN AND PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL. HARRIMAN WILL PARTICIPATE IN THE DISCUSSIONS. IT WAS POINTED OUT THAT THE AMBASSADOR SAT IN ON ALL BIG THREE CONFERENCES AND PARTICIPATED IN ORIGINAL LEND-LEASE DISCUSSIONS EARLY IN THE WAR.

RUSSIANS WERE REPORTED AS WILLING AS HOPKINS TO DISCUSS DEVELOPMENTS SINCE THE YALTA CONFERENCE AND THEIR TALKS WERE EXPECTED TO BE LENGTHY.

HARRIMAN HAS CHARGE OF HOPKINS' PERSONAL PROGRAM FOR THE VISIT WHILE HIS DAUGHTER, KATHLEEN, IS HANDLING ARRANGEMENTS FOR MRS.HOPKINS' ENTERTAINMENT.

TOUCHING ON THE CONTROVERSIAL SUBJECTS OF THE NEW GOVERNMENTS OF POLAND AND AUSTRIA, ZASLAVSKY DENIED THAT RUSSIA HAD BEEN ACTING UNILATERALLY AND SEEKING TO ISOLATE ITSELF. xxx he declared

"THE RED ARMY, AT EVERY PLACE WHERE THE MILITARY SITUATION PERMITS, TRANSFERS ADMINISTRATION TO THE LIBERATED PEOPLES THEMSELVES," HE SAID. "THIS IS IN NO WAY UNILATERAL ACTIVITY. IT IS, ON THE OTHER HAND, IN FULL ACCORDANCE WITH THE DECISIONS OF THE CRIMEAN CONFERENCE ON LIBERATED COUNTRIES OF EUROPE."

REGARDING AMERICAN NEWS TREATMENT OF THE RUSSIAN DELEGATION TO THE SAN FRANCISCO CONFERENCE, THE PRAVDA WRITER SAID:

"WE OBSERVE WITH MIXED FEELINGS OF PERPLEXITY AND REVULSION THE DANCE OF THE NEWSPAPER MOHICANS AROUND THE DELEGATION. THE AMERICAN PRESS OF THE HEARST TYPE SYSTEMATICALLY AND EVILLY DISTORTS OOOOOGGGGGGG DANCE OF THE NEWSPAPER MOHICANS AROUND THE DELEGATION. THE AMERICAN PRESS OF THE HEARST TYPE SYSTEMATICALLY AND EVILLY DISTORTS THE POSITION OF THE SOVIET DELEGATION. IS THIS BECAUSE THEY DO NOT UNDERSTAND? NOT AT ALL. THEY DO NOT WANT TO ACKNOWLEDGE THAT THE SOVIET UNION IS A GREAT DEMOCRATIC POWER WHICH POSSESSES SUFFICIENT MIGHT NOT ONLY FOR FORMING SECURITY WITHIN ITS OWN BOUNDARIES, BUT ALSO FOR GUARANTEEING SECURITY FOR THE PEOPLES OF EUROPE."

ZASLAVSKY SAID THE SYDNEY MIRROR AND WRITER ERIC BAUM HAD SAID "THERE IS NO NECESSITY TODAY TO HURL THE GERMAN INVADERS FROM STALINGRAD BUT THE ENGLISH PEOPLE REALIZE THE NECESSITY FOR REPELLING THE IDEOLOGICAL AGGRESSORS OF MOSCOW."

TERMING THIS THE USUAL "SOVIET SLANDER," THE PRAVDA WRITER CONCLUDED: "THE VOICE OF GOEBBELS [illegible]LENCED IN BERLIN. BUT ITS ECHOES ARE STILL HEARD IN SYDNEY."

ROME, MAY 26-(AP)-THE OCCUPATION OF A PORTION OF AUSTRIA BY AMERICAN AND BRITISH TROOPS, NOW POISED FOR A MOE INTO THAT COUNTRY, IS EXPECTED TO BE ORGANIZED STRICTLY ALONG NATIONAL LINES, WITH SEPARATE COMMANDERS OF THE AMERICAN AND BRITISH ZONES.

GEN. MARK CLARK MAY HEAD THE AMERICAN OCCUPATION FORCE, WHICH PROBABLY WILL INCLUDE UNITS FROM BOTH THE U.S. FIFTH AND SEVENTH ARMIES.

THE PARTS OF AUSTRIA NOW OCCUPIED BY AMERICAN AND BRITISH TROOPS ARE BEING ADMINISTERED ON AN ALLIED AND NOT A SEPARATE BASIS.

NOBODY SEEMS TO KNOW JUST WHEN AMERICAN AND BRITISH TROOPS WILL TAKE OVER PERMANENT OCCUPYING ZONES IN AUSTRIA. ALTHOUGH PLANS WERE MADE LONG AGO FOR THE OCCUPATION OF VIENNA JOINTLY BY BRITAIN, RUSSIA AND THE UNITED STATES THE SITUATION IN THE AUSTRIAN CAPITAL APPEARS ROUGHLY THE SAME AS IT HAS BEEN FOR MONTHS PAST IN HUNGARY, ROMANIA AND BULGARIA.

FEW ALLIED OFFICIALS, SUCH AS MEMBERS OF MILITARY MISSIONS AND SIMILAR GROUPS, HAVE BEEN PERMITTED TO GO INTO THOSE RUSSIAN-CONTROLLED AREAS.

MAY 27 1945

ALLIED CORRESPONDENTS SEEKING ENTRY, HOWEVER, HAVE BEEN TOLD THAT THE SITUATION THERE IS A NON-MILITARY MATTER AND THAT REQUESTS FOR ADMISSION TO BUDAPEST, BUCHAREST AND SOFIA MUST BE MADE THROUGH THE STATE DEPARTMENT IN WASHINGTON OR THE FOREIGN OFFICE IN LONDON.

ROME, MAY 26-(AP)-PIETRO NENNI, ITALIAN SOCIALIST LEADER ARRESTED IN NORTHERN ITALY FOR ADDRESSING A PUBLIC GATHERING WITHOUT ALLIED PERMISSION, HAS BEEN RELEASED WITH A WARNING, ITALIAN SOURCES SAID TODAY.

NENNI'S ARREST AT VERCELLI FOR VIOLATION OF ALLIED MILITARY GOVERNMENT REGULATIONS BROUGHT SHARP REPERCUSSIONS HERE FROM SOCIALISTS AND COMMUNISTS AND EXPRESSIONS OF CONCERN FROM CONSERVATIVES. NENNI HAS BEEN MENTIONED AS A POSSIBLE SUCCESSOR TO PREMIER IVANOE BONOMI.

CAPT. ELLERY W. STONE, CHIEF OF THE ALLIED COMMISSION FOR ITALY, CONFERRED WITH BONOMI AND OTHER MINISTERS TODAY AND WAS REPORTED TO HAVE ASSURED THEM THE CASE WOULD BE CLOSED WITH A WARNING AND NENNI WOULD NOT BE REQUIRED TO APPEAR BEFORE AN AMG TRIBUNAL.

STONE REMINDED BONOMI THAT NENNI AND OTHER POLITICAL LEADERS WERE ALLOWED TO TOUR NORTHERN ITALY ON CONDITION THAT THEY WOULD OBSERVE A BAN AGAINST POLITICAL DEMONSTRATIONS. THE BAN WAS APPLIED IN AMG TERRITORY AS A SECURITY MEASURE.

BEFORE STONE'S CONFERENCE WITH BONOMI, SOCIALIST PARTY DIRECTORS HELD AN EMERGENCY MEETING. THE LIBERAL (CONSERVATIVE) PARTY NEWSPAPER SAID NEWS OF THE ARREST WAS THE CAUSE OF "REGRET AND CONCERN." THE MONARCHIST ORGAN CALLED IT A "REGRETTABLE INCIDENT."

THE ALLIED COMMISSION ANNOUNCED THAT A WARNING AGAINST SUCH SPEECHES WAS BEING ISSUED "TO OTHER POLITICAL LEADERS IN AREAS UNDER ARMY CONTROL."

CANEA, CRETE, MAY 25-(DELAYED)-(AP)-SURRENDERED GERMAN TROOPS STILL BEAR ARMS UNDER THE EYES OF THE BRITISH ON THIS Greek ISLAND, FOR SOME OF THEM HAVE TURNED UP DEAD SINCE THE CAPITULATION--VICTIMS OF THE CRETANS.

THE GARRISON ESTIMATED AT 14,000 MEN STILL RULES TWO LARGE ZONES ADJACENT TO THE ISLAND CAPITAL.

GERMAN SENTRIES STAND GUARD ALONG THE HIGHWAYS. NONE CAN ENTER THEIR ZONES WITHOUT A PERMIT FROM THE BRITISH COMMANDING OFFICER HERE.

ON THE BUSY DOCKS AT SUDA BAY ONE GETS THE IMPRESSION THAT THE AREA IS CONTROLLED BY THE GERMANS, NOT BY THE ALLIES.

A BRITISH OFFICER SAID TODAY THE GERMANS WOULD KEEP RIGHT ON RULING THEIR ZONES UNTIL SHIPS COME TO TAKE THEM AWAY.

"THEY WILL CONTINUE TO CARRY ARMS AND WILL HAND IN THEIR GUNS WHEN THEY STEP ABOARD THE SHIPS," THE OFFICER SAID.

THE GERMANS HAVE COMPLETE FREEDOM IN THEIR ZONES. THERE ARE NO BARRICADES NOR ROAD BLOCKS.

AS YOU DRIVE INTO THE AREAS YOU SUDDENLY BECOME AWARE THAT YOU HAVE PASSED THE BOUNDARY LINES, BECAUSE NOW THE HIGHWAYS ARE CROWDED WITH ALL TYPES OF VEHICLES DRIVEN BY ARMED GERMANS.

IN ONE ZONE I SAW TWO GERMAN 88-MILLIMETER GUNS. THE GERMANS WERE LEISURELY FIRING THEIR SHELLS OUT INTO THE SEA IN ORDER TO PREVENT THE AMMUNITION FROM FALLING INTO ALLIED HANDS.

THE BRITISH SAY THE GERMANS WERE ALLOWED TO CARRY ARMS ONLY AFTER SEVERAL SOLDIERS WERE SLAIN BY CRETANS IN REVENGE FOR THE CRIMES WHICH CIVILIANS SAY THE NAZIS COMMITTED AFTER THE AERIAL INVASION OF 1941.

SO FAR, THE BRITISH SAY, THERE HAVE BEEN NO CASES OF GERMANS ATTEMPTING TO USE THEIR GUNS.

A NEW ZEALAND MAJOR, WHO ACCOMPANIED ME TO CRETE AND WHO PARTICIPATED IN LT. GEN. SIR BERNARD C. FREYBERG'S COUNTERATTACKS THAT CUT DOWN THE GERMAN AIRBORNE TROOPS WITH HEAVY LOSSES, TOLD ME THAT THE NAZIS COMPLETELY WIPED OUT ABOUT 20 SMALL VILLAGES AFTER THE OCCUPATION.

ONE CRETAN TOLD US THAT GERMAN OFFICERS ORDERED JEWISH CIVILIANS TO BOARD SEVEN BARGES, WHICH WERE TOWED OUT TO SEA AND NEVER SEEN AGAIN.

OSLO, MAY 26-(AP)-NORWEGIAN POLICE SAID TODAY OLAF FERMANN, WEALTHY BUSINESSMAN UNDER ARREST ON CHARGES OF COLLABORATING WITH THE GERMANS, ATTEMPTED TO PURCHASE HIS FREEDOM BY DONATING 8,000,000 KRONER (APPROXIMATELY $1,600,000) TO THE NORWEGIAN RED CROSS THE DAY GERMANY CAPITULATED.

THE MONEY WAS PART OF A FORTUNE OF MORE THAN $11,000,000 HE AMASSED DURING THE NAZI OCCUPATION, OFFICERS SAID.

THE POLICE DOSSIER ACCUSED FERMANN OF HARBORING GERMAN SOLDIERS IN HIS WAREHOUSES BEFORE THE INVASION OF NORWAY, OF BEING VIDKUN QUISLING'S PERSONAL REPRESENTATIVE IN BERLIN AND OF FORCING HIS WAY INTO THE VICE PRESIDENCY OF THE NORWEGIAN RED CROSS TO HAMPER THE WORK OF ALLEVIATING THE CONDITIONS OF NORWEGIAN PRISONERS OF WAR IN GERMANY.

ME944AEW

OSLO--FIRST ADD QUISLING (BY NORDNESS) X X X THE TRIAL.

THE TREASON CHARGE AGAINST HIM, OFFICIALS SAID, IS BASED ON FIVE COUNTS:

1. HIS RADIO SPEECH OF SEPT. 4, 1940, SAYING THAT THE GERMANS WERE INVADING NORWAY TO HELP THE NORWEGIAN PEOPLE, WHOSE NEUTRALITY, HE SAID, HAD BEEN VIOLATED BY AN ALLIED INVASION OF NORWEGIAN WATERS TO RAID A GERMAN SHIP CARRYING ENGLISH PRISONERS.
2. HIS RECALL OF THE NORWEGIAN GOVERNMENT'S MOBILIZATION ORDER WHICH INSTRUCTED THE PEOPLE TO DEFEND THE COUNTRY.
3. HIS HELPING GERMANY BY GIVING ITS FORCES NORWEGIAN MATERIALS AND RECOMMENDING THE NORWEGIAN YOUTH FIGHT FOR GERMANY.
4. HIS CREATION OF A NEW NATIONAL GOVERNMENT JAN. 2, 1942, WITHOUT THE CONSENT OF THE PEOPLE, INSTALLING HIMSELF AS A DICTATOR.
5. HIS DECREE OF OCTOBER 14, 1943, PLACING THE POLICE UNDER MILITARY REGULATIONS.

HIS ACCUSERS SAID QUISLING ISSUED THE POLICE DECREE BECAUSE THE POLICE HAD REFUSED TO ARREST YOUNG GIRLS ORDERED BY THE QUISLING GOVERNMENT TO ENTER WORKING SERVICE FOR GERMANY.

HE WAS CHARGED WITH ORDERING THE DEATH OF ONE POLICE CHIEF FOR REBELLING AGAINST THE ORDER.

DAMASCUS, MAY 25-(DELAYED)-(AP)-TENSE QUIET PREVAILED DURING TODAY'S MOSLEM SABBATH IN THIS CAPITAL CITY OF SYRIA, WHERE ILL FEELING BETWEEN THE FRENCH AND SYRIANS THREATENED TO EXPLODE INTO VIOLENCE AT ANY MOMENT.

A REPORT, WHICH THE FRENCH WOULD NOT CONFIRM, SAID THAT ANOTHER BOATLOAD OF FRENCH OR SENGALESE TROOPS WAS EN ROUTE TO BEYROUTH IN LEBANON. IT WAS GENERALLY FELT HERE THAT THE ARRIVAL OF MORE TROOPS WOULD BE A LIKELY MOMENT FOR THE OUTBREAK OF ACTUAL CONFLICT BETWEEN FRENCH AND LEVANT FORCES.

THE BRITISH, FEARFUL OF REPERCUSSIONS IN PALESTINE, EGYPT AND ELSEWHERE IN THE ARAB WORLD, WERE TRYING TO FOLLOW A HANDS-OFF POLICY, BUT PRESSURE WAS BEING APPLIED FROM BOTH SIDES FOR THE BRITISH TO TAKE ACTION TO SETTLE THE DISPUTE.

SYRIAN AND LEBANESE LEADERS WERE ALSO CALLING FOR ACTION BY THE UNITED STATES, TO BACK UP OFFICIAL DECLARATIONS FAVORING SYRIAN AND LEBANESE INDEPENDENCE AND OFFICIAL RECOGNITION.

MK712AEW

MEANWHILE SYRIAN MEN BETWEEN THE AGES OF 18 AND 50 ARE BEING CONSCRIPTED INTO THE HOME ARMY BY SPECIAL PARLIAMENTARY ACTION AND FUNDS WERE VOTED TO INCREASE THE NATION'S POLICE FORCES BY 5,000.

THE ROOT OF THE TROUBLE IS A DISAGREEMENT OVER TERMS OF A FRENCH OFFER OF A TREATY WITH THE LEVANT STATES WHICH WOULD REPLACE THE FRENCH MANDATE. ALTHOUGH THE TREATY HAS NOT BEEN MADE PUBLIC, LEBANESE AND SYRIAN OFFICIALS DECLARE THAT IT IS SIMPLY A NEW FORM OF MANDATE WHICH WOULD GIVE THE FRENCH PERMANENT AND STRATEGIC BASES AMOUNTING TO MILITARY CONTROL, A DISCRIMINATORY ECONOMIC POSITION AND A GURANTEE OF THE DOMINATION OF FRENCH CULTURE, PARTICULARLY THE FRENCH LANGUAGE.

TROUBLE AROSE WHEN THE FRENCH MOVED APPROXIMATELY 500 NEW SENGALESE TROOPS AND 850 REPLACEMENTS INTO LEBANON, SIMULTANEOUSLY WITH THE SYRIAN AND LEBANESE REFUSAL TO SIGN THE TREATY.

A CONTRIBUTING FACTOR WAS A V-E DAY INCIDENT, WHEN THE FRENCH CELEBRATED THE VICTORY IN THE STREETS WITHOUT ASSOCIATING THE SYRIAN AND LEBANESE FLAGS WITH THE FRENCH COLORS.

THE FRENCH DECLINE TO DISCUSS THE SITUATION BEYOND ASSERTING THAT THE TREATY IN NO WAY MAKES A DEMAND INCOMPATIBLE WITH SYRIAN AND LEBANESE INDEPENDENCE AND THAT THE MOVEMENT OF TROOPS IS COMPARABLE TO THE PRESENCE OF BRITISH FORCES IN BOTH COUNTRIES AND THE PRESENCE OF UNITED STATES FORCES IN FRANCE. THE FRENCH SAY THEY MUST HAVE STRATEGIC BASES AS LINKS TO FRENCH INDO-CHINA.

COUNT STANISLAS OSTROROG, CHIEF OF THE FRENCH POLITICAL BUREAU, LEFT TUESDAY FOR PARIS, WHERE PRESUMABLY HE WILL DISCUSS THE SITUATION. DELEGATE GENERAL PAUL MARIE BEYNET, FORMER HEAD OF THE FRENCH MILITARY MISSION AT WASHINGTON, REMAINED IN BEYROUTH.

ALL DAMASCUS SHOPS ARE CLOSED BY A GENERAL STRIKE WHICH WAS JOINED TODAY BY TAXI AND TRUCK DRIVERS WHO OFFERED THEIR VEHICLES TO THE GOVERNMENT. SOME FRENCH FAMILIES ARE LEAVING THE CITY AND OTHERS HAVE MOVED INTO THE MAIN FRENCH BARRACKS, ALTHOUGH THERE HAS BEEN NO OFFICIAL EVACUATION.

THE FRENCH ARE HALTING ALL TRAFFIC FROM IRAQ INTO SYRIA FOR A MINUTE SEARCH, APPARENTLY TO PREVENT ARMS FROM CROSSING THE BORDER.

OKINAWA, MAY 25-(DELAYED)-(AP)-A HANDFUL OF AIRBORNE JAPANESE TROOPS LANDED ON YONTAN AIRSTRIP LAST NIGHT AND DAMAGED SOME AMERICAN PLANES BEFORE THEY WERE KILLED IN A BEWILDERING 15 MINUTE FIGHT.
THEY POURED OUT OF A TRANSPORT WHICH MADE A BELLY LANDING ON THE FIELD--THE ONLY ONE OF APPROXIMATELY 12 SUCH BOMBERS CARRYING SUICIDE TROOPS WHICH WASN'T SHOT DOWN OVER THE AMERICAN HELD SECTION OF OKINAWA.
"SOME OF THE JAPS SET UP KNEE MORTARS AND FIRED THEM," SAID SGT. JAMES H.DRISCOLL, (226 EAST 30TH ST.) NEW YORK CITY, FORMER DAILY MIRROR REPORTER. "THEY ALSO PACKED NAMBU MACHINE GUNS AND RIFLES."

MAY 27 1945

"THEY EXPECTED TO STAY LONGER THAN THEY DID AND CARRIED PROVISIONS, HARD CANDY, WATER PURIFICATION MATERIALS, AND EVEN SOME ORANGES. BUT THEY ALL HAD GRENADES READY TO BLOW THEMSELVES UP ALONG WITH THEIR TARGETS."
THE BOMBER WAS AFIRE AND COMPLETELY OUT OF GAS, SAID AN UNIDENTIFIED MARINE TECHNICAL SERGEANT, WHEN IT "MADE A FINE BELLY LANDING," ABOUT 10:30 LAST NIGHT.
"THE JAPS LEFT IT AND WENT INTO A HUDDLE LIKE ONE OF OUR FOOTBALL HUDDLES," HE SAID. "I COULD HEAR ONE MAN SHOUTING, GIVING ORDERS. WHEN THEY LEFT THE HUDDLE THEY WENT BACK TO THE PLANE AND THEN SCATTERED ALL OVER THE AREA.
"WE COULD HAVE HELD THEM ALL OFF THE RUNWAY, BUT FIRING ALL OVER THE FIELD GO SO HOT WE HAD TO LEAVE."
IT WAS EXPLAINED THAT ANOTHER BOMBE

IT WAS EXPLAINED THAT ANOTHER BOMBER HAD CRASHED AND WAS BURNING AT THE END OF THE RUNWAY NOT FAR AWAY. A CROWD OF YANKS WERE WATCHING IT WHEN THE AIRBORNE JAPS LANDED.
IN THE CONFUSION THEY WERE ABLE TO GET STARTED BEFORE THE AMERICANS GOT THEIR GUNS AND REALLY GOT AFTER THEM.
"I SAW ABOUT 15 JAPS," THE TECHNICAL SERGEANT SAID. "WE DIDN'T HAVE OUR RIFLES. WE RAN AND GOT THEM. THE BOY WITH ME WAS HIT IN THE ARM BY SHRAPNEL FROM A GRENADE.
"ONE JAP WAS SHOOTING AT ME RAT-TA-TATA WITH AN AUTOMATIC MACHINE PISTOL SOMETHING LIKE OUR 38. I SHOT THE PILOT IN THE FACE. I SAW ANOTHER STICK A BAYONET INTO AN AIRPLANE GASOLINE TANK READY TO SET THE GASOLINE AFIRE. I SHOT AND HE GRABBED HIS SHOULDER AND FELL.

A100FX

"AT FIRST THERE WERE ONLY TWO OF US FIRING AND THEN THE WHOLE CRASH CREW OF EIGHT MEN JOINED IN."
THE ACTION LASTED ONLY ABOUT 15 MINUTES BUT HUNTING DOWN POSSIBLE SURVIVORS CONTINUED THROUGHOUT THE NIGHT. A NUMBER OF SOLDIERS AND MARINES WERE INSPECTING ONE DAMAGED TRANSPORT WHEN A JAPANESE RUSHED OUT AND TOSSED A GRENADE, INJURING SEVERAL AMERICANS. A DOZEN SHOTS KILLED HIM.
MARINE LT.COL.LEO SMITH, (1911 SOUTHEAST CLATSOP ST.) PORTLAND, ORE., SAID "MY CRASH CREW WAS THE BIG MAN OF THIS RAID. WE KEEP CRASH CREWS ON 24 HOURS AND THIS CREW KILLED AT LEAST TWO JAPS AND WE COULD HAVE CLEANED UP MOST OF THE REST WITH LITTLE HELP."
THERE WERE MORE DEAD JAPANESE AROUND YONTAN THIS MORNING THAN THAT AREA HAS YET SEEN IN THIS CAMPAIGN. THE FIELD WAS VIRTUALLY UNDEFENDED WHEN CAPTURED MARCH 1.
I COUNTED FIVE BADLY MANAGLED JAPANESE BODIES AROUND ONE WRECKED PLANE. A MILE AWAY WHERE ANOTHER BOMBER CRASHED WERE FIVE MORE BURNED BODIES. THAT BOMBER HAD HIT A HILL TOP DUGOUT WITH FOUR AMERICANS ATOP IT AND FIVE INSIDE.
THE FOUR ON TOP WERE KNOCKED OFF AND SUFFERED SOME BURNS FROM SPRAYED GASOLINE. THE FIVE INSIDE WERE BURNED, TWO FATALLY. THE LEADER OF THE RESCUE CREW WHICH DUG THEM OUT WORKED UNTIL HE COLLAPSED.
ONE SOLDIER SAID THE JAPANESE CARRIED MINES AND EXPLOSIVE CHARGES. SOME OBSERVERS SAID THEY SET OBJECTS RESEMBLING SMUDGE POTS UNDER PLANES THEY ATTEMPTED TO DESTROY.
THIS IS THE FIRST SUCH ATTEMPT EVER MADE HERE. IT WAS A FUTILE EFFORT WHICH ONLY JAPANESE WOULD ATTEMPT AND WHICH COULD NOT POSSIBLY AFFECT THE PROGRESS OF THE WAR, EVEN THOUGH IT DID MANAGE TO INFLICT SOME DAMAGE.

GUAM, SATURDAY, MAY 26-(AP)-TOKYO RADIO AND ADM. CHESTER W. NIMITZ DISAGREED TODAY ON THE SUCCESS OF JAPAN'S NEWEST SUICIDE IDEA--THE GIRETSU ("HEROIC") UNIT OF THE KAMIKAZE SPECIAL ATTACK CORPS.

A BROADCAST OF AN IMPERIAL COMMUNIQUE SAID THE GIRETSU TROOPS, ARMED WITH GRENADES AND FLOWN BY SUICIDE PILOTS, MADE AN "ATTACK LANDING ON THE NORTH AND CENTRAL AIRFIELDS OF OKINAWA THE NIGHT OF MAY 24 AND INFLICTED HUGE LOSSES ON THE ENEMY."

ADMIRAL NIMITZ' COMMUNIQUE TODAY REPORTED THAT ONLY ONE OF FIVE PLANES ATTEMPTING BELLY LANDINGS ON THE YONTAN AIRFIELD REACHED THE AIRSTRIP. THE GIRETSU MEN ALL WERE KILLED AS THEY SPILLED OUT OF THE PLANE.

THE JAPANESE CLAIM OF DAMAGE INFLICTED BY THE GIRETSU TROOPS, HOWEVER, DISCLOSED THE OBJECTIVE OF THE NEWEST SUICIDE EFFORT.

IT SAID THE GIRETSU FORCE INFLICTED "HUGE LOSSES BY IMMEDIATELY DESTROYING ENEMY TROOPS STATIONED THERE, AIRPLANES, MUNITION DUMPS AND AIRFIELD INSTALLATIONS, ONE AFTER ANOTHER, THEREBY THROWING THE ENEMY INTO GREAT CONFUSION."

GUAM, SUNDAY, MAY 27-(AP)-TOKYO WAS DESCRIBED TODAY BY THE ENEMY RADIO AS A CITY LAID IN RUINS BY B-29 FIRE BOMB RAIDS THURSDAY AND SATURDAY BUT THE 21ST BOMBER COMMAND, WHILE OPTIMISTIC, RESERVED JUDGMENT UNTIL IT HAD THE PHOTOGRAPHS TO PROVE IT.

A BOMBER COMMAND SPOKESMAN LIMITED HIS REPORT, AFTER RECONNAISSANCE PLANES VISITED TOKYO, TO THE FACT THAT MONSTROUS WIND-WHIPPED FIRES HAD ENGULFED THE GOVERNMENT AND IMPERIAL PALACE AREAS HIT BY 4,000 TONS OF FIRE BOMBS FROM 500 SUPERFORTRESSES YESTERDAY.

NINETEEN OF THE BIG BOMBERS WERE LOST TO UNUSUALLY HEAVY ANTI-AIRCRAFT FIRE, MAKING 31 LOST IN THE TWO RAIDS THIS WEEK. UNOFFICIAL REPORTS LISTED THE DESTRUCTION OF 20 ENEMY INTERCEPTORS SATURDAY, HALF OF WHICH MAY HAVE BEEN "BAKA" OR SUICIDE ROCKET BOMBS, EACH CARRYING ONE MAN.

A RECONNAISSANCE PILOT, LT. W.L. ABBOTT, 2717 38TH ST., DES MOINES, WHO FLEW BELOW THE OVERCAST BRIEFLY BEFORE ANTI-AIRCRAFT FIRE HIT ONE ENGINE AND THE TAIL, SAID:

"I SAW LARGE MASSES OF FIRE ALL OVER THE AREA AND COULD EVEN SEE FLAMES THEY WERE LEAPING SO HIGH."

HOWEVER, THE WEATHER WAS SO EXCEPTIONALLY BAD THAT IT WAS IMPOSSIBLE TO OBTAIN THE PICTURES ON WHICH TO BASE THE ONLY ACCURATE ASSESSMENT OF THE DAMAGE.

THE JAPANESE COMMUNIQUE CLAIMED 47 B-29S WERE SHOT DOWN AND 70 OTHERS DAMAGED. IN WASHINGTON, 20TH AIRFORCE HEADQUARTERS ANNOUNCED 19 OF THE BIG PLANES WERE LOST OVER THE TARGET. THIS WAS THE HEAVIEST TOLL OF B29S SO FAR REPORTED.

TOKYO RADIO SAID THE FIRE, DRIVEN BY 70-MILE AN HOUR GALE, DESTROYED SUCH STRUCTURES AS THE IMPERIAL UNIVERSITY, BUNRIKA UNIVERSITY, "SEVERAL" SCHOOLS AND HOSPITALS, THE ATAGO SHRINE, THE ZOJO TEMPLE AND THE SWEDISH AND FINNISH LEGATIONS. THE FORMER UNITED STATES EMBASSY WAS REPORTED PARTLY BURNED.

RETURNING FLYERS SAW A MASS OF FLAMES IN THE GOVERNMENT BUILDING DISTRICT ALONG THE GINZA, TOKYO'S MAIN STREET, AND IN THE MARUNOUCHI BUSINESS DISTRICT, SWEEPING AROUND THE IMPERIAL PALACEAREA.

"THE PALACEVERY PROBABLY GOT HOT," SAID FLIGHT OFFICER WILLIAM FOUS, OF WASHINGTON, D.C., A B-29 CO-PILOT.

THE SUPERFORTS ATTACKED FROM MEDIUM ALTITUDE EARLY THIS MORNING AND SAW FIRES STILL BURNING FROM THURSDAY'S ATTACK ON THE ADJACENT SHINAGAWA INDUSTRIAL DISTRICT.

SALM SAID BOMBS FELL AMONG THE GOVERNMENT BUILDINGS, WHICH SUPPOSEDLY ARE FIREPROOF AND EARTHQUAKE PROOF. HE AND OTHER PILOTS SAID, HOWEVER, FLAMES WERE SPREADING THROUGH THE SECTOR.

THEY WRECKED A POWER PLANT WITH ROCKETS, BLASTED HANGARS AND STRAFED THE TWO KEY FIGHTER DROMES IN THE TOKYO AREA. OFF HONSHU, THEY SANK A PICKET BOAT AND FIRED A 2,000 TON CARGO SHIP.

JAPANESE FANATICISM REACHED ALMOST UNBELIEVABLE HEIGHTS IN THE THURSDAY NIGHT-FRIDAY MORNING 18-HOUR ATTACK ON YONTAN AIRFIELD, OKINAWA, AND SHIPPING OFFSHORE.

IN AN ALMOST INCREDIBLE DISPLAY OF SUICIDAL TACTICS, THE NIPPONESE TRIED TO CRASH-LAND SEVERAL PLANE LOADS OF AIRBORNE TROOPS ON YONTAN AIRFIELD THURSDAY NIGHT AND FRIDAY, DURING A SERIES OF ATTACKS WHICH COST THE JAPANESE 111 PLANES. ONE OF THE ENEMY TROOP PLANES SUCCEEDED IN LANDING AT YONTAN AND ITS PERSONNEL DID SOME DAMAGE.

AN ESTIMATED 200 ENEMY AIRCRAFT MADE THE HEAVIEST ATTACK ON AMERICAN AIRFIELDS AND OFFSHORE NAVAL UNITS SINCE MAY 4. THEY DAMAGED 11 LIGHT U.S.SHIPS, ONE OF THEM HEAVILY, AND DESTROYED SEVEN AIRCRAFT ON THE GROUND, PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS SAID.

GROUND FIGHTING WAS SLOWED BY A COLD, DRIVING RAIN AND DEEP MUD WHICH BOGGED DOWN TANKS, BUT ON THE EASTERN FLANK THE SEVENTH INFANTRY CAPTURED BALD HILL SATURDAY IN TWO ATTACKS, AND SIXTH DIVISION MARINES ON THE WEST COAST SLOWLY EXPANDED THEIR HOLD ACROSS THE ASATO RIVER INTO NAHA, OKINAWA CAPITAL CITY.

ARMY AND MARINE FIGHTERS OF THE 10TH ARMY'S TACTICAL AIRFORCE GARNERED THEIR GREATEST TOLL OF THE OKINAWA CAMPAIGN IN SHOOTING DOWN 75 OF THE JAPANESE PLANES DESTROYED IN THE THURSDAY NIGHT AND FRIDAY ATTACKS, SAID VERN HAUGLAND, ASSOCIATED PRESS CORRESPONDENT.

THE REMAINING NIPPONESE PLANES DOWNED WERE ACCOUNTED FOR BY NAVY FLIERS AND SHIP AND SHORE ANTIAIRCRAFT BATTERIES.

HEAVIEST TOLL EXACTED BY ANY SINGLE OUTFIT WAS 34 NIPPONESE AIRCRAFT KNOCKED DOWN BY THUNDERBOLT PILOTS OF THE NEWLY OPERATIONAL 318TH ARMY FIGHT GROUP, WITHOUT A LOSS TO THE YANK AIRMEN, IN THEIR FIRST MAJOR ENCOUNTER WITH THE ENEMY.

THE AIRBORNE JAPANESE EVIDENTLY EXPECTED TO COMPLETE A MISSION AT THE FIELD AND THEN BREAK LOOSE FOR A HARASSING CAMPAIGN BEHIND AMERICAN LINES. THEIR EQUIPMENT INCLUDED KNEE MORTARS, SMALL MACHINEGUNS AND RIFLES, FOOD AND WATER PURIFICATION MATERIALS.
THE ATTACKS WERE REPORTED EARLIER BY TOKYO RADIO WHICH DESCRIBED THE MISSION AS FIGHTING BY A NEW "GIRETSU" (HEROIC) UNIT OF THE KAMIKAZE (SUICIDE) SPECIAL ATTACK CORPS.

JAPANESE DEAD COUNTED AFTER BATTLEFIELD ACTION WAS REPORTED BY AMERICAN HEADQUARTERS AT 48,103 THROUGH MAY 17.
A TOTAL OF 3,581 JAPANESE AIRCRAFT HAVE BEEN DESTROYED IN THE OKINAWA AND ASSOCIATED OPERATIONS FROM MARCH 18 TO MAY 24, FLEET HEADQUARTERS SAID. THIS FIGURE WOULD NOT INCLUDE THE 111 NIPPONESE PLANES DESTROYED THURSDAY NIGHT AND FRIDAY MORNING.

BY RICHARD G.CUSHING
ASSOCIATED PRESS WAR EDITOR

SAN FRANCISCO, MAY 26-(AP)-OKINAWA. WHAT IS THIS STRANGE, NARROW ISLAND WHERE AMERICAN FIGHTING MEN ARE DYING 7,000 MILES FROM HOME? WHY IS IT VITAL TO THE IMPENDING DEFEAT OF JAPAN? WHY IS IT A TOUGH MILITARY NUT TO CRACK?

THE RUGGED LITTLE ISLAND IN THE RYUKYU CHAIN, WHICH STRETCHES BETWEEN THE JAPANESE HOMELAND AND FORMOSA TO THE SOUTH, WAS INVADED JUST EIGHT WEEKS AGO TODAY--ON EASTER SUNDAY.

UNTIL THEN FEW PEOPLE BESIDES THE OKINAWANS EVER HEARD OF THE PLACE. NOW IT IS THE MOST IMPORTANT PIECE OF GROUND IN THE PACIFIC.

LT.GEN.SIMON BOLIVAR BUCKNER JR., TENTH ARMY COMMANDER, SEES OKINAWA AS THE BASE FOR THE "DEATH BLOW" AGAINST THE JAPANESE EMPIRE. ADM. CHESTER W.NIMITZ ENVISIONS OKINAWA AS A GREAT NAVAL AND AIR BASE 325 MILES FROM JAPAN ITSELF, FROM WHICH A STRANGULATION BLOCKADE CAN BE CLAMPED ON NIPPON. THOUSANDS OF DOUGHBOYS AND MARINES SEE OKINAWA AS A MURDEROUS BATTLEGROUND, UGLY AND TREACHEROUS.

THE RUGGED ISLAND, 65 MILES LONG AND AVERAGING SIX IN WIDTH, IS IMPORTANT FOR THESE PRIMARY REASONS:

1--OKINAWA IS A LOGICAL STAGING BASE FOR THE INVASION OF THE JAPANESE MAINLAND. THIS IS JAPAN'S MAIN WORRY. SHE IS THROWING EVERYTHING SHE HAS AGAINST THE INVADERS.

2--OKINAWA UNDOUBTEDLY WILL BE DEVELOPED INTO A DEADLY AIR BASE. ALL OF JAPAN WILL BE BROUGHT EASILY UNDER BOMBSIGHTS. TOKYO IS ONLY 660 MILES TO THE NORTH AND CAN BE HIT BY MEDIUM BOMBERS.

3--OKINAWA WILL FURNISH BASES FOR A BLOCKADE SUCH AS JAPAN HAS NEVER SEEN. ALREADY NAVAL BOMBERS FROM OKINAWA ARE REACHING INTO WATERS AROUND KOREA TO CUT OFF NIPPON'S SUPPLIES FROM THE ASIATIC MAINLAND. AN AIR-TIGHT BLOCKADE COULD DOOM ISLAND JAPAN.

THESE VIVID POTENTIALITIES SPELL GREAT CONCERN FOR THE NIPPONESE WHO, FURTHER, SEE OKINAWA AS THE SOUTHERN TIP OF A MAMMOTH PINCER WHOSE NORTHERN END LIES THREATENINGLY IN THE ALEUTIANS

JUST EIGHT WEEKS AGO TENS OF THOUSANDS OF AMERICAN DOUGHBOYS AND MARINES OF THE NEW TENTH ARMY POURED ASHORE ON OKINAWA FROM A 1,400-SHIP INVASION ARMADA. IT WAS THE LARGEST AMPHIBIOUS OPERATION OF THE PACIFIC WAR.

A143FX

THEY LANDED AGAINST SURPRISINGLY LIGHT OPPOSITION, SO MUCH UNLIKE BLOODY D-DAY ON IWO JIMA SIX WEEKS EARLIER, WHEN THE JAPANESE WAITED FOR THE INVADERS AND SPRAYED MURDEROUS FIRE ON THE LIMITED BEACHHEAD AREA.

THE INVASION WAS GOING TOO EASILY. WHERE WAS THE NIPPONESE GARRISON, ESTIMATED AT 60,000 TO 80,000 MEN OR MORE?

MARINES OF MAJ.GEN. ROY S.GEIGER'S THIRD MARINE AMPHIBIOUS CORPS PONDERED THIS AS THEY PUSHED THROUGH THE NORTHERN TWO-THIRDS OF THE 65-MILE-LONG ISLAND AT A CLIP OF SEVERAL THOUSAND YARDS A DAY. IN THREE WEEKS THE LEATHERNECKS WERE AT THE NORTHERN END WITHOUT HAVING FOUGHT A MAJOR BATTLE. IT WAS THAT EASY.

BUT NOT SO IN THE SOUTH.

INFANTRYMEN OF MAJ.GEN.JOHN R.HODGE'S 24TH ARMY CORPS MADE QUICK STRIDES SOUTHWARD AND EASTWARD FROM THE WEST COAST BEACHHEAD. THEY SOON WON THE SHORES OF BIG NAKAGUSUKU BAY, ONETIME JAPANESE FLEET ANCHORAGE, ON THE EAST COAST, AND OVERRAN THREE AIRFIELDS.

THEN THE GOING BECAME ROUGH. GAINS WERE MEASURED IN YARDS AS THE DOUGHBOYS CAME UP AGAINST MOUNTAIN POSITIONS SO ELABORATELY DEFENDED THE YANKS DUBBED IT THE "LITTLE SIEGFRIED LINE."

HERE WAS WHERE THE JAPANESE HAD ELECTED TO DO BATTLE. NOT ON THE INVASION BEACHES AS IN EARLIER PACIFIC CAMPAIGNS, BUT IN A NATURAL, RUGGED DEFENSE LINE WHERE THEY HAD LABORIOUSLY DUG INTERLOCKING TUNNELS AND DEEP CAVES IN KEEPING WITH THE TRADITIONAL NIPPONESE PATTERN, ONLY MORE SO.

AND HERE WAS ARTILLERY, PLENTY OF IT. THE ENEMY PUT UP THE MOST BLISTERING ARTILLERY AND MORTAR BARRAGE OF THE ENTIRE PACIFIC WAR TO STALL THE AMERICAN DRIVE SOUTHWARD ALONG A FOUR-MILE-WIDE FRONT. THE YANKS REPLIED WITH ARTILLERY OF THEIR OWN, AND SHIPS' GUNS JOINED IN TO LAY A STEEL BLANKET ON JAPANESE POSITIONS. THE ARTILLERY DUEL LASTED NOT DAYS, BUT WEEKS.

THE FIGHT FOR SUGAR LOAF HILL GIVES A PICTURE OF THE KIND OF BITTER FIGHTING THAT WENT ON AMID THIS ARTILLERY THUNDER. THE ELEVATION CHANGED HANDS 10 TIMES IN THE FIERCEST HAND-TO-HAND COMBAT BEFORE ELEMENTS OF THE SIXTH MARINE DIVISION SEIZED IT FOR THE 11TH TIME AND HELD ON GRIMLY. DEAD OF BOTH SIDES LITTERED THE SLOPES

OTHER HILLS WERE WON ONLY IN HAND-TO-HAND GRENADE BATTLES. MORE THAN ONCE THE YANKS POURED FLAMING OIL INTO CAVES AND TUNNELS TO ROUT THE STUBBORN ENEMY.

COUNTERATTACKS WERE FREQUENT, DAY AND NIGHT. JAPANESE WERE FOUND WEARING U.S. MARINE UNIFORMS AND CARRYING AMERICAN WEAPONS.

MAY 27 1945

A144FX

ISLANDS OFFSHORE WERE INVADED AND SECURED AFTER A STRUGGLE, ISLANDS WITH STRANGE NAMES LIKE IE SHIMA, WHERE THE POPULAR CORRESPONDENT ERNIE PYLE WAS CUT DOWN BY A JAPANESE MACHINEGUNNER.

THE BEGINNING OF THE END APPEARED IN SIGHT THIS WEEK AS THE YANKS PUSHED THROUGH THE RUBBLED CITIES OF NAHA AND YONABARU ON THE FLANKS OF THE CRUMBLING LINE. ALREADY 139,000 JAPANESE CIVILIANS, 32 PER CENT OF THEM WOMEN AND CHILDREN, HAD COME UNDER CARE OF THE AMERICAN MILITARY GOVERNMENT.

BUT THERE STILL WERE PLENTY OF JAPANESE SOLDIERS HOLED UP IN THE MOUNTAINS NEARBY, AND THEY HAD TO BE DUG OUT THE HARD WAY.

THIS IS THE KIND OF FIGHTING THAT COSTS LIVES, AND CASUALTIES HAVE BEEN HEAVY ON BOTH SIDES. FIFTY THOUSAND JAPANESE HAVE BEEN KILLED IN THE GROUND OPERATION--AT LEAST TWO-THIRDS OF THE ESTIMATED ORIGINAL GARRISON.

AMERICAN SOLDIER AND MARINE DEAD ARE ONE-TENTH THAT NUMBER. AS OF MAY 18 THE DEAD AND MISSING TOTALLED 4,332, THE WOUNDED 18,258.

OKINAWA IS THE MOST COSTLY INVASION THUS FAR IN THE PACIFIC WAR, AND IT IS FAR FROM OVER.

ALREADY THE TOTAL GROUND CASUALTIES EXCEED THOSE OF IWO JIMA, WHERE THE DEAD AND MISSING TOTALLED 4,630 AND THE WOUNDED 15,308. IWO JIMA LASTED 26 DAYS BEFORE THE TINY OUTPOST ISLAND WAS CONSIDERED CAPTURED. OKINAWA PASSED THAT POINT THREE WEEKS AGO.

ASIDE FROM THE SOLDIER AND MARINE CASUALTIES ARE 7,936 U.S. NAVAL DEAD, WOUNDED AND MISSING--MANY OF THEM VICTIMS OF NIPPON'S VAUNTED KAMIKAZE (SUICIDE) PILOTS. HALF A DOZEN DESTROYERS AND NUMEROUS OTHER UNITS OF THE OKINAWA INVASION FLEET HAVE BEEN SUNK OR DAMAGED IN THESE FEARSOME HEADLONG CRASH DIVES, MOUNTED FROM THE NIPPON MAINLAND.

A SIX-MONTH CENSORSHIP BLANKET ON KAMIKAZE ACTIVITIES WAS LIFTED ONLY A FEW WEEKS AGO.

OKINAWA IS EXPENSIVE IN AMERICAN LIVES. IT, TOO, IS INVALUABLE FOR THE FINAL, CRUSHING BLOWS AGAINST JAPAN.

THAT IS THE ONE BIG ROAD-BLOCK STILL TO BE REDUCED BEFORE THE CONFERENCE CAN ROLL SMOOTHLY THROUGH THE FINAL STAGES OF WRITING THE CHARTER OF A NEW WORLD LEAGUE DESIGNED TO WIPE OUT THE RECURRENT CURSE OF WAR.

THERE WAS NO POSSIBILITY OF SHUNTING IT OUT OF THE WAY BY OFFICIAL CONFERENCE ACTION BEFORE NEXT WEEK, BUT THE AMERICAN DELEGATION WORKED ON THE PROBLEM DURING THE DAY AND SO DID EXPERTS OF THE OTHER NATIONS SPONSORING THE CONFERENCE--CHINA, RUSSIA AND BRITAIN.

WHAT THEY WERE TRYING TO DEVISE WAS A CAREFULLY WORDED INTERPRETATION OF THE VETO-VOTING AUTHORITY THE FOUR SPONSORS AND FRANCE W

O

ULD EXERCISE IN A PROPOSED WORLD SECURITY COUNCIL.

UNDER A FORMULA CONCOCTED AT A ROOSEVELT-CHURCHILL-STALIN MEETING AT YALTA THIS SPRING, EACH OF THE BIG FIVE WOULD BE ABLE TO BLOCK ANY PEACE-KEEPING ACTION. SMALL NATIONS HAVE OBJECTED TO ANY SUCH CONCENTRATION OF POWER, PARTICULARLY SINCE IT COULD BE APPLIED NOT ONLY TO FORCEFUL MEANS OF HANDING TROUBLE-MAKING NATIONS, BUT ALSO TO EFFORTS TO INVESTIGATE DISPUTES AND SETTLE THEM PEACEFULLY.

THE SPONSORING NATIONS HOPED TO SUPPLY AN INTERPRETATION WHICH WOULD NOT ALTER THE YALTA UNDERSTANDING APPRECIABLY; WHICH WOULD RETAIN THEIR VAST AUTHORITY, BUT WHICH WOULD ASSURE SMALLER POWERS THAT VETO AUTHORITY IS NECESSARY AND WILL BE USED SPARINGLY AND IN THE BEST INTERESTS OF A WORLD WEARY OF WAR.

A205KX

SHOULD THE ISSUE COME TO A SHOWDOWN, A DEADLOCK MIGHT RESULT WHICH WOULD DELAY THE COMPLETION OF THE CHARTER.

THE CONFERENCE ALREADY IS BEHIND ITS TIME TABLE. NUMEROUS COMMI-

30.24-27039

TTEES HAVE MADE SUBSTANTIAL PROGRESS IN DRAFTING SECTIONS OF THE CHARTER ASSIGNED TO THEM, ALL HAD BEEN ASKED TO FINISH THEIR WORK BY TONIGHT, BUT MOST FELL SHORT OF THE GOAL.

DESPITE THE CONTROVERSY OVER VETO-VOTING, THE SECURITY COUNCIL WAS COMING THROUGH STRONG CONFERENCE CROSS CURRENTS AS THE MOST POWERFUL INTERNATIONAL AGENCY EVER CONCEIVED.

DECISIONS ALREADY TAKEN BY DELEGATES OF 42 NATIONS GATHERED AT THE GOLDEN GATE VIRTUALLY ASSURE IT THE RIGHT TO CALL DISPUTANT NATIONS ON THE CARPET, TO ORDER THEM TO SETTLE THEIR DIFFERENCES AMICABLY, AND, IF THEY DON'T, TO IMPOSE ECONOMIC AND DIPLOMATIC SANCTIONS AND TO DRAW MILITARY FORCES FROM AN INTERNATIONAL POOL TO USE AGAINST THEM IF THEY EXTREME BECOMES NECESSARY.

FURTHERMORE, THE COUNCIL WILL BE ABLE TO MAKE PLANS TO REGULATE ARMAMENTS, THAT BELATEDLY CONFERRED AUTHORITY POINTS TO THE POSSIBILITY THAT ANOTHER ARMS CONFERENCE, SIMILAR TO THE ONE AFTER THE LAST WAR, MAY TAKE PLACE AFTER JAPAN IS BROKEN.

MILITARY EXPERTS EXPECT NO WHOLESALE SCRAPPING OF WAR EQUIPMENT THIS TIME, HOWEVER, PARTICULARLY SINCE INDIVIDUAL NATIONS WILL BE COMMITTED TO KEEP FORCES IN READINESS FOR ACTION AT THE SECURITY COUNCIL'S DIRECTION.

SMALLER NATIONS, WITH CANADA IN THE LEAD, STILL ARE SAYING THAT IF THEIR FORCES ARE TO BE EMPLOYED BY THE COUNCIL, THEY OUGHT TO PARTICIPATE IN COUNCIL DECISIONS ON FORCEFUL MEASURES. THAT QUESTION IS TO BE DISPOSED OF LATER.

CANADA DID OBTAIN ACCEPTANCE OF A SUGGESTION THAT THE COUNCIL CAN ASK NOTHING MORE OF A COUNTRY BEYOND OBLIGATIONS IT HAS ASSUMED SPECIFICALLY UNDER THE CHARTER.

BUT THE LITTLE COUNTRIES HAVE LOST ANOTHER BATTLE TO PUT A CHECK ON THE COUNCIL. A PROPOSAL TO GIVE AN ALL NATION GENERAL ASSEMBLY THE RIGHT TO REQUIRE REPORTS AND ACTIONS ON COUNCIL DECISIONS HAS BEEN TURNED DOWN IN A COMMITTEE, BUT ONLY BECAUSE OF A TWO-THIRDS VOTING RULE. MORE NATIONS BALLOTED FOR THE PROPOSITION THAN AGAINST IT.

FA302PCW

IN A CONFERENCE RADIO BROADCAST (NBC), JAMES C.DUNN, ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF STATE, EXPRESSED BELIEF THAT UNANIMITY AMONG THE MAJOR POWERS MUST BE PRESERVED ON ANY TYPE OF SOLUTION THE COUNCIL MAY PROPOSE FOR A WORLD DISPUTE.

ARCHIBALD MACLEISH, ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF STATE, SPEAKING FROM WASHINGTON, FORECAST EVENTUAL AGREEMENT AMONG THE U.S., GREAT BRITAIN AND RUSSIA ON COMPOSITION OF A NEW PROVISIONAL POLISH GOVERNMENT.

"THERE IS NO NECESSARY OR LOGICAL REASON WHY AN ANSWER TO POLAND OR TO ANY OTHER DIFFERENCE SHOULD NOT BE FOUND, AND IT MUST BE FOUND," SAID MAC LEISH.

A CONFERENCE COMMITTEE CONSIDERING SECURITY COUNCIL ENFORCEMENT FUNCTIONS TURNED DOWN AN AMENDMENT TO ENLARGE THE STAFF WHICH WOULD DIRECT COUNCIL MILITARY ACTIONS.

IT DISCUSSED, WITHOUT DECIDING, A QUESTION WHETHER MEMBERS OF THE WORLD ORGANIZATION SHOULD MAKE AGREEMENTS AMONG THEMSELVES TO CONTRIBUTE ARMED FORCES FOR THE COUNCIL'S USE, OR WHETHER THE AGREEMENTS SHOULD BE BETWEEN MEMBERS AND THE COUNCIL.

APPROVED FOR INCLUSION IN THE CHARTER WERE A COUPLE OF PARAGRAPHS DEFINING HE COUNCIL'S DUTIES. ONE SAID THE COUNCIL "SHOULD DETERMINE THE EXISTENCE OF ANY THREAT TO THE PEACE, BREACH OF THE PEACE, OR ACT OF AGGRESSION, AND SHOULD MAKE RECOMMENDATIONS OR DECIDE UPON THE MEASURES XXX TO MAINTAIN OR RESTORE PEACE AND SECURITY."

THE OTHER WOULD LET THE COUNCIL CALL UPON DISPUTANTS TO COMPLY WITH "PROVISIONAL MEASURES" DESIGNED TO "PREVENT AN AGGRAVATION OF THE SITUATION."

KU725PCW

MAY 27 1945

TONIGHT, THE COMMITTEE WAS REPORTED TO HAVE APPROVED, 24 TO 1, A PERUVIAN AMENDMENT INTENDED TO GIVE PAN-AMERICAN MILITARY EXPERTS A HAND IN DIRECTING AN INTERNATIONAL ARMED FORCE IN THIS HEMISPHERE.

IT WILL DEPEND, HOWEVER, ON WHETHER THE SECURITY COUNCIL WANTS TO LET ITS MILITARY STAFF COMMITTEE, WHICH WILL HAVE STRATEGIC DIRECTION OF THE INTERNATIONAL FORCE, ESTABLISH REGIONAL SUBCOMMITTEES

PERU'S AMENDMENT PROVIDED THAT THESE SUBCOMMITTEES, IF THEY ARE SET UP, SHOULD BE CREATED "IN CONSULTATION WITH REGIONAL AGENCIES."

WHAT PERU WANTS IS RECOGNITION OF AN INTER-AMERICAN JOINT CHIEFS OF STAFF WHICH THE AMERICAN REPUBLICS AGREED UPON TO PLAN FOR CONTINUOUS DEFENSE OF THE WESTERN HEMISPHERE.

DELEGATES SAID RUSSIA OPPOSED THE AMENDMENT ON THE GROUNDS IT WOULD HINDER QUICK ACTION BY THE WORLD ORGANIZATION'S CHIEFS OF STAFF. BUT RUSSIA ABSTAINED FROM VOTING, AND THE ONLY NEGATIVE BALLOT WAS SAID TO HAVE BEEN CAST BY THE UKRAINE.

URUGUAY WITHDREW A MORE COMPLICATED AMDNEMENT DEALING WITH REGIONAL CHIEFS OF STAFF BECAUSE THE PERUVIAN PROPOSAL CONTAINED THE ESSENCE OF HER PLAN.

ADD Frisco (Hi&Tower) xxx

THUS THE UNITED STATES WOULD BE EXPECTED TO COMMIT A PART OF ITS ARMY, NAVY AND AIRFORCE TO THE CALL OF THE COUNCIL, AND MAJOR CONTINGENTS OF THE AIRFORCE WOULD ALWAYS BE HELD IN READINESS FOR IMMEDIATE ACTION. Keeping Forces

OFFICIALS BOTH HERE AND IN WASHINGTON PREDICT, IN CONSEQUENCE, THAT THERE WILL BE NO SUCH SLASHING OF THE COUNTRY'S FORCES THIS TIME AS OCCURRED AFTER WORLD WAR 1.

THE GREAT BULK OF PEACE-KEEPING FORCES WOULD BE CONTRIBUTED BY THE BIG POWERS. THAT FACT IS ONE OF THEIR PRINCIPAL ARGUMENTS FOR PUTTING INTO THE SECURITY COUNCIL A VOTING SYSTEM BY WHICH THEY WOULD ALL HAVE TO BE IN AGREEMENT BEFORE ANY ACTION COULD BE ORDERED. STATED IN REVERSE THIS MEANS THAT THE UNITED STATES, FOR EXAMPLE, COULD VETO A PROPOSAL TO TAKE ACTION OF WHICH IT DISAPPROVED AND THUS AVOID THE POSSIBILITY EITHER OF HAVING ITS FORCES USED AGAINST ITS WILL OR OF HAVING THE FORCES OF OTHER UNITED NATIONS USED FOR A PURPOSE OF WHICH IT DID NOT APPROVE.

A17UN

ONE OF THE SORE POINTS WITH THE SMALL NATIONS, HOWEVER, IS THAT THEIR FORCES COMMITTED TO THE INTERNATIONAL ORGANIZATION COULD BE ORDERED INTO ACTION WITHOUT THEIR HAVING VERY MUCH TO SAY ABOUT IT. CANADA HAS PUT HEAVY PRESSURE BEHIND AN AMENDMENT TO PROVIDE THAT WHENEVER ANY COUNTRY WAS TO ASSIST IN AN ENFORCEMENT ACTION IT SHOULD TAKE PART IN THE SECURITY COUNCIL'S DECISIONS ON THAT ACTION.

SAN FRANCISCO, MAY 26-(AP)-BRIG.GEN.CARLOS P.ROMULO, CHAIRMAN OF THE PHILIPPINES DELEGATION, PROTESTED TODAY AGAINST OMMISSION OF INDEPENDENCE FROM GENERAL POLICIES OF THE PROPOSED TRUSTEESHIP FOR COLONIAL AREAS.

HIS STATEMENT WAS PROMPTED BY REPORTS THAT THE UNITED STATES, BRITAIN, FRANCE AND CHINA HAVE AGREED, AND AWAITED ONLY SOVIET APPROVAL, ON A TRUSTEESHIP FORMULA PROVIDING IN GENERAL THAT ADMINISTERING POWERS SHOULD PROMOTE SELF-GOVERNMENT IN DEPENDENT REGIONS.

ASKING "WHY DO THE REPRESENTATIVES OF THE SMALL NATIONS BEG THE USAGE OF THAT WORD INDEPENDENCE IN PLACE OF THE CLAUSE SELF-GOVERNMENT?" ROMULO ASSERTED: "THE DIFFERENCE IS INFINITESIMAL, BUT IT HOLDS THE SPACE BETWEEN THE TWO WORLDS," ROMULO SAID. "WHAT DOES A DICTIONARY MEAN TO THE MAIN IN INDONESIA AND MALAY? TO HIM, THE WORD GOVERNMENT MEANS TO RULE, AND IT HAS BECOME A WORD OF TRAGIC CONNOTATION. HE DOES NOT WANT RULE.

HE WANTS INDEPENDENCE, THE PROMISE OF FREEDOM AMERICA GAVE TO THE FILIPINOS."

ROMULO SAID HE INTENDED HIS STATEMENT NOT ON BEHALF OF THE PHILIPPINES, WHICH ALREADY HAVE BEEN ASSURED THEIR INDEPENDENCE, BUT ON BEHALF OF OTHER DEPENDENT REGIONS.

OTTAWA, MAY 25-(AP)-GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS A[illegible] TODAY THEY WOULD HAVE TO AWAIT FURTHER INFORMATION BEFORE [illegible]CIDING WHETHER CANADA CAN FOLLOW THE LEAD OF THE UNITED STATES IN ALLOWING DISTILLERIES TO RESUME MANUFACTURE OF BEVERAGE LIQUOR FOR JULY.

THE DISTILLERIES OF CANADA AND THE UNITED STATES HAVE BEEN TURNING THEIR ENTIRE FACILITIES TO THE MANUFACTURE OF INDUSTRIAL ALCOHOL FOR WAR PURPOSES, PARTICULARLY FOR THE PRODUCTION OF SYNTHETIC RUBBER. LAST JANUARY UNITED STATES DISTILLERIES HAD A MONTH'S "HOLIDAY" IN WHICH TO PRODUCE BEVERAGE LIQUORS. CANADA DISTILLERIES HAD NINE DAYS EACH IN THE MONTHS OF JANUARY, FEBRUARY AND MARCH, OR 27 DAYS ALTOGETHER.

IT HAS BEEN FOUND MORE CONVENIENT IN CANADA TO SPREAD OUT THE "HOLIDAYS" AND THE DISTILLERIES FITTED EACH NINE DAYS TO SUIT THEIR CONVENIENCE.

NO "HOLIDAYS" HAVE BEEN GIVEN CANADIAN DISTILLERIES SINCE MARCH.

THE CANADIAN GOVERNMENT HAS CONTRACTED TO SUPPLY UNITED STATES WITH SUCH GREAT QUANTITIES OF INDUSTRIAL ALCOHOL THAT IT REQUIRES ALMOST THE TOTAL CAPACITIES OF DISTILLERIES IN THIS COUNTRY TO PRODUCE IT AND CANADA'S OWN REQUIREMENTS.

NEW YORK, MAY 26-(AP)-RAYMOND DANIELL, NEW YORK TIMES CORRESPONDENT ATTACHED TO THE U.S. SEVENTH ARMY, SAID IN A DISPATCH FROM BAVARIA PUBLISHED TONIGHT THAT THE PUBLIC RELATIONS DIVISION OF ALLIED SUPREME HEADQUARTERS HAS "BANNED ALL INTERVIEWS WITH WAR CRIMINALS AND HIGH GERMAN ARMY OFFICERS."

DANIELL'S DELAYED DISPATCH WAS DATED MAY 23.

IN THE SEVENTH ARMY AREA, HE SAID, "ALTHOUGH SECURITY ADMITTEDLY IS NOT INVOLVED, RESTRICTIONS ON CORRESPONDENTS ARE CONSTANTLY BEING DRAWN MORE TIGHTLY AND X X X THE AMERICAN PEOPLE ARE BEING DEPRIVED OF INFORMATION TO WHICH THEY ARE ENTITLED."

REFERRING TO THE SUPREME HEADQUARTERS' BAN, HE WROTE:

"THE TROUBLE BEGAN WHEN ONE OF THE NEWS AGENCIES SENT OUT A STORY FROM HERE REGARDING REICHMARSHAL HERMANN GOERING'S CAPTURE, REPORTING THAT THE FORMER CHIEF OF THE GERMAN AIR FORCE HAD A CHICKEN DINNER AFTER HE HAD BEEN TAKEN PRISONER BUT FAILING TO NOTE THAT IT WAS THE SAME MENU THAT ALL GI'S HAD THAT DAY AT THE PLACE WHERE GOERING WAS BEING HELD."

AFTER THE SHAEF BAN, THE CORRESPONDENT SAID, THERE WAS A "WHOLE FLOOD OF RESTRICTIVE ORDERS BY LOWER ECHELONS TO PREVENT THE PUBLICATION OF ANYTHING THAT MIGHT PROVE EMBARRASSING."

"TODAY," THE DISPATCH CONTINUED, "THE 101ST AIRBORNE DIVISION ISSUED AN ORDER BARRING ALL PHOTOGRAPHERS FROM BERCHTESGADEN, FOLLOWING PUBLICATION OF A PICTURE OF BRIG. GEN. GERALD J.HIGGINS AND FIELD MARSHAL GEN. KESSELRING TALKING THINGS OVER WITH A BOTTLE OF WINE AND TWO GLASSES BETWEEN THEM."

EARLIER, THE SAME DIVISION FORBADE MEMBERS OF ITS COUNTER-INTELLIGENCE CORPS "TO SO MUCH AS TALK TO REPRESENTATIVES OF THE PRESS," DANIELL SAID.

"IT SEEMS ALMOST AS THOUGH, NOW THAT THERE IS NO WAR TO FIGHT, HIGH ARMY OFFICERS, INCLUDING SUPREME HEADQUARTERS' PUBLIC RELATIONS DIVISION, HEADED BY BRIG. GEN. FRANK ALLEN, ARE SPENDING A LARGE PART OF THEIR TIME WRITING DIRECTIVES TO CIRCUMSCRIBE THE MOVEMENT AND ACTIVITIES OF WAR CORRESPONDENTS," HIS DISPATCH SAID.

THE TWO-STORY HEIGHT, UNUSUAL IN AN ORDNANCE PLANT, WAS NECESSARY BECAUSE THE EXPLOSIVE WAS POURED FROM THE UPPER STORY TO THE BOMBS BELOW, PLANT OFFICIALS SAID.

CONCUSSION OF THE BLAST WAS FELT AS MUCH AS TEN MILES AWAY AND WAS CLEARLY FELT IN DOWNTOWN GRAND ISLAND, EIGHT MILES EAST OF THE PLANT. THE BLAST OCCURRED DURING THE LUNCH HOUR AND PLANT OFFICIALS SAID THAT HAD IT OCCURRED ANY OTHER TIME THEY FEARED THE CASUALTY LIST MIGHT HAVE RUN 40 TO 50--THE NUMBER OF PEOPLE ORDINARILY AT WORK IN THE BUILDING. NO OTHER PROPERTY AT THE PLANT WAS DAMAGED.

WASHINGTON, MAY 26-(AP)-FIVE SHIPS SUNK BY THE ENEMY IN THE OKINAWA AREA BRING TO 310 THE TOTAL NAVAL VESSELS OF ALL TYPES LOST SINCE THE WAR BEGAN.

THE LATEST LOSSES, THE NAVY ANNOUNCED LAST NIGHT, ARE THE DESTROYER LITTLE, THE LSM (LANDING SHIP MEDIUM) 190, THE LSM 195, THE FLEET MINE SWEEPER SWALLOW, AND THE LST (LANDING SHIP TANK) 447.

THE NAVY SAID CASUALTIES WERE MODERATE. COMMANDING OFFICERS OF ALL FIVE VESSELS WERE BELIEVED SAFE. ONE, LT.PAUL J.SCHMITZ OF (501 SIXTH ST. WEST) WILLMAR, MINN., SKIPPER OF THE LST 447, DESCRIBED AT A NEWS CONFERENCE THE AERIAL BOMBING OF HIS VESSEL.

THE 2,050-TON LITTLE WAS UNDER COMMAND OF COMDR. MADISON HALL, JR., OF RUSTON, LA. SKIPPER OF THE SWALLOW WAS LT. COMDR. WHITEFIELD F.KIMBALL OF (152 HIGH ST.) NEWBURYPORT, MASS.; OF THE LSM

195. LT. WILLIAM E.WOODSON, JR., LIBERTY, S.C., AND OF THE LSM 190 LT. RICHARD H.SAUNDERS, MONTEZUMA, GA.

THE LITTLE HAD A NORMAL COMPLEMENT OF ABOUT 200 OFFICERS AND MEN, THE LSMS ABOUT 40 EACH, THE SWALLOW 75, AND THE LST ABOUT 90.

LT.SCHMITZ SAID NONE ABOARD THE LST 447 ARE KNOWN TO BE DEAD BUT FIVE MEN ARE LISTED AS MISSING AND 17 SEVERELY WOUNDED. HIS SHIP, WHICH HAD BEEN IN ALMOST A DOZEN PACIFIC [illegible] WAS BOMBED APRIL 6 AFTER COMPLETING A MISSION LANDING EQUIPMENT ON THE OKINAWA BEACH. WASHINGTON,MAY 26-(AP)-THE BOEING B-29 SUPERFORTRESS, SCOURGE OF JAPAN, WAS DISCLOSED TODAY TO HAVE A TOP SPEED OF MORE THAN 350 MILES AN HOUR, A RANGE OF APPROXIMATELY 3,600 MILES AND A GROSS WEIGHT OF 135,000 POUNDS.

THIS INFORMATION WAS CONTAINED IN A REVISED LIST OF PUBLISHABLE FACTS ABOUT THE BOMBER PREPARED BY THE ARMY'S AIR TECHNICAL SERVICE COMMAND AT WRIGHT FIELD, OHIO.

PREVIOUSLY PUBLISHABLE DATA LISTED THE B-29 AS HAVING A MAXIMUM OF SPEED OF "MORE THAN 300 MILES AN HOUR," A RANGE OF "MORE THAN 3,000 MILES" AND A GROSS WEIGHT OF APPROXIMATELY 135,000 POUNDS. THE RELEASE OF HIGHER FIGURES MAY REPRESENT EITHER A CLOSER APPROACH TO ACTUAL PERFORMANCE, OR INCREASED PERFORMANCE.

THE NEW DESCRIPTION OF THE SUPERFORTRESS LISTED ITS BOMB LOAD AS "UP TO TEN TONS," BUT MAJ.GEN.OLIVER P.ECHOLS, ASSISTANT CHIEF OF STAFF OF THE AIR FORCES, SAID IN A SPEECH HERE SEVERAL WEEK

AGO THAT THE BOMB LOAD WAS MORE THAN TEN TONS.

AMONG OTHER HITHERTO UNDISCLOSED INFORMATION WAS THE STATEMENT THAT THE "20 MILLIMETER CANNON IN THE TAIL HAS BEEN REPLACED BY .50 CALIBER MACHINE GUNS IN THE NEW PRODUCTION MODELS." PRESUMABLY THIS MEANS FOUR MACHINE GUNS IN THE TAILS AS WELL AS IN THE UPPER FORWARD TURRET, GIVING THE LATE MODELS 12 GUNS INSTEAD OF 10.

THE CREW WAS LISTED AS 11 MEN, WITH A PILOT, CO-PILOT, BOMBARDIER, ENGINEER, NAVIGATOR, RADIO OPERATOR AND FIVE GUNNERS. THIS IS AN INCREASE OF ONE MAN OVER THE FORMER STANDARD CREW.

OTHER DATA WHICH HAVE NOT BEEN WIDELY KNOWN PREVIOUSLY INCLUDE THE DIAMETER OF THE FUSELAGE IS NINE FEET; THE WING AREA IS LESS THAN ONE-FOURTH GREATER THAN THAT OF A B-17 FLYING FORTRESS, ALTHOUGH THE GROSS WEIGHT IS MORE THAN DOUBLE; THE MAXIMUM MAC OR FLAPPING OF THE WING TIPS IN ROUGH AIR IS 48 INCHES; EACH BOMBER CONTAINS 50,000 POUNDS OF ALUMINUM AND 5,000 POUNDS OF RUBBER; THE INBOARD PORTION OF THE WING HAS 3/16-INCH METAL SKIN, THE THICKEST USED THUS FAR.

THERE WILL BE POINT DEDUCTIONS FOR MISCONDUCT, SUCH AS REFUSAL TO WORK.

UNLIKE THE SYSTEM IN THE ARMY DEMOBILIZATION PLAN, THERE IS NO ARBITRARY NUMBER OF POINTS ESTABLISHED FOR AN OBJECTOR'S RELEASE. DISCHARGES WILL COME IN THE ORDER OF HIGHEST POINT TOTALS.

THE PLAN APPLIES TO 8,368 CONSCIENTIOUS OBJECTORS WHO HAVE SERVED IN THE 113 WORK CAMPS OR OTHER PROJECTS FOR A YEAR OR MORE. THOSE IN NON-COMBAT MILITARY SERVICE WILL COME UNDER THE ARMY DISCHARGE SYSTEM.

NONE OF THE RELEASE PLANS APPLY TO BETWEEN 3,500 AND 4,000 MEN CONVICTED OF DRAFT LAW VIOLATIONS WHO CLAIM TO BE CONSCIENTIOUS OBJECTORS.

(ADVANCE) WASHINGTON, MAY 26-(AP)-TWO INFANTRYMEN, PFC. CARL V. SHERIDAN OF BALTIMORE AND SGT. JOSE M. LOPEZ OF BROWNSVILLE, TEXAS, HAVE BEEN AWARDED THE CONGRESSIONAL MEDAL OF HONOR FOR ACTION AGAINST THE GERMANS, THE WAR DEPARTMENT ANNOUNCED TODAY.

SHERIDAN WAS KILLED AFTER BLASTING OPEN WITH HIS BAZOOKA THE GATES OF AN ANCIENT CASTLE USED AS A STRONG POINT BY NAZIS. LOPEZ MOWED DOWN 100 ATTACKING GERMANS EVEN THOUGH HE WAS ONCE BLOWN FROM HIS MACHINEGUN BY A NAZI SHELL.

THE WAR DEPARTMENT SAID POSTHUMOUS PRESENTATION OF THE MEDAL FOR SHERIDAN WILL BE MADE LATER TO HIS FATHER, CHARLES E. SHERIDAN OF 3900 FALLS ROAD, BALTIMORE. THE SOLDIER WAS 20 YEARS OLD.

THE ACTION OCCURRED LAST NOVEMBER 26 NEAR WEISWEILER, GERMANY, WHEN THE SECOND BATTALION OF THE 47TH INFANTRY DIVISION WAS MOVING FORWARD. SEIZURE OF FRENZENBERG CASTLE, DEFENDED BY GERMAN PARATROOPERS, WAS VITAL TO THE ASSAULTING FORCE FOR OBSERVATION AND ARTILLERY FIRE DIRECTION.

BY THE TIME SHERIDAN'S COMPANY REACHED THE CASTLE'S DRAWBRIDGE, ONLY 35 MEN REMAINED. THE INFANTRYMAN, IGNORING THE MURDEROUS FIRE OF THE GERMAN DEFENDERS, WALKED FORWARD AND FIRED TWO ROCKETS INTO THE GATES, THEN A THIRD WHICH COMPLETELY OPENED THE PASSAGE. PULLING HIS PISTOL FROM ITS HOLSTER, SHERIDAN CALLED TO HIS MEN TO FOLLOW HIM IN, BUT A BLAST OF FIRE IMMEDIATELY CUT HIM DOWN, MORTALLY WOUNDED.

THE ALREADY GLOOMY FOOD OUTLOOK IS GROWING GRIMMER.

BREAKS THAT GOVERNMENT FOOD OFFICIALS HAD HOPED WOULD EASE THE TIGHT SUPPLY SITUATION HAVEN'T COME.

COOL, WET WEATHER HAS INTERFERED GREATLY WITH PLANTING OF VITAL FEED GRAIN, SOYBEAN, TRUCK AND OTHER CROPS IN THE NATION'S MIDWESTERN MARKET BASKET REGION.

A CHECK BY THE WAR FOOD ADMINISTRATION INDICATES THIS YEAR'S SPRING PIG CROP WILL BE ABOUT 5,000,000 HEAD SHORT OF THE GOVERNMENT'S GOAL OF 57,500,000. THE SPRING CROP MOVES TO MARKET AS FATTENED HOGS DURING THE FALL AND WINTER. THE PROSPECTIVE DEFICIT IS EQUIVALENT TO MORE THAN 1,000,000,000 POUNDS OF PORK.

THE BUREAU OF AGRICULTURAL ECONOMICS REPORTED AFTER A SURVEY THAT MILITARY REQUIREMENTS PROBABLY WILL NOT DECLINE DESPITE THE END OF HOSTILITIES IN EUROPE AND A REDUCTION IN THE NUMBER OF MEN UNDER ARMS. SUPPLY LINES TO THE PACIFIC ARE LONG. FILLING THESE "PIPELINES" MAY OFFSET ANY DECREASES BECAUSE OF FEWER MEN IN THE ARMY.

MAY 27 1945

AND REPORTS FROM EUROPE INDICATE THE NEED FOR FOOD IMPORTS FROM THE UNITED STATES IS MORE APT TO INCREASE THAN DECLINE.

THAT IS THE BROAD PICTURE OF FUTURE PROSPECTS. AS FOR THE IMMEDIATE SITUATION, AN ASSOCIATED PRESS SURVEY FOUND MEAT SUPPLIES GETTING TIGHTER ALL OVER THE COUNTRY. EGGS, A MAJOR MEAT SUBSTITUTE, ARE PLENTIFUL IN SOME SECTIONS, SCARCE IN OTHERS.

VEGEABLE SUPPLIES ARE INCREASING.

TWO LINES OF GOVERNMENT ATTACK ON THE SITUATION ARE SHAPING UP.

ONE IS THE WAR FOOD ADMINISTRATION'S CAMPAIGN UNDER PAUL STARK, MIDWESTERN NURSERYMAN, FOR MORE VICTORY GARDENS AND MORE HOME CANNING OF FOOD THAN EVER BEFORE.

"THE GREAT NEED OF THE MOMENT," SAID STARK, "IS A PUBLIC REALIZATION OF THE FACT THAT THERE WILL BE NEED FOR EVERY BIT OF FOOD THAT CAN BE PRODUCED IN GARDENS."

THE OTHER IS A PROSPECTIVE ADMINISTRATION OVERHAULING OF ITS FOOD DISTRIBUTION PROGRAM WHEN REP. CLINTON P. ANDERSON, NEW MEXICO DEMOCRAT, TAKES OVER THE AGRICULTURE DEPARTMENT AND WAR FOOD ADMINISTRATION ON JULY 1.

30.24-27043

RECOGNIZING THAT IT IS TOO LATE TO DO MUCH THAT WOULD BRING ABOUT INCREASED PRODUCTION THIS YEAR, ANDERSON IS EXPECTED TO CONCENTRATE ON BLACK MARKETS WHICH HAVE SPRUNG UP IN MEATS, SUGAR, EGGS AND POULTRY. WORK OF HIS HOUSE FOOD INVESTIGATING COMMITTEE BETWEEN NOW AND THE TIME HE TAKES OVER COMMAND OF THE GOVERNMENT'S FOOD PROGRAM IS EXPECTED TO BE DEVOTED TO BLACK MARKETS.

THERE HAVE BEEN COMPLAINTS THAT BLACK MARKETS HAVE BEEN ABLE TO TAKE ADVANTAGE OF THE FACT THAT GOVERNMENT CONTROLS OVER DISTRIBUTION HAVE BEEN DIVIDED LARGELY BETWEEN WFA AND OPA. UNDER ANDERSON, THEY ARE EXPECTED TO BE CONCENTRATED UNDER THE AGRICULTURE DEPARTMENT, WITH OPA SERVING AS AN ADMINISTRATIVE ARM.

THE PRESENT GENERAL SITUATION ACROSS THE COUNTRY:

EAST--MEAT, POULTRY, BUTTER, EGGS SCARCE. NEW YORK CITY GROCERS REPORT AN EPIDEMIC OF THEFTS OF BUTTER AND SUGAR FROM ORDERS DELIVERED BY PUSH CARTS. IN PHILADELPHIA, 252 OF 275 KOSHER MARKETS DECIDED TO CLOSE FROM FRIDAY NOON UNTIL TUESDAY MORNING DURING THE SUMMER BECAUSE OF MEAT SHORTAGE. OPA OFFICIALS AT ALBANY, N.Y., REPORTED A "BOOMING" POULTRY BLACK MARKET WITH OPERATIVES BUYING WHOLE FLOCKS AT $3 TO $4 A HEAD, DOUBLE THE CEILING PRICE.

MAY 25 1945

SOUTH--MEAT SUPPLIES VERY LOW WITH MANY SHOPS HAVING ONLY BOLOGNA AND LUNCHEON MEATS BUT FISH PLENTIFUL ALONG ATLANTIC COAST. POULTRY SCARCE. EGG SUPPLIES SHORT IN MANY CITIES.

MID-CONTINENT--BEEF AND PORK SUPPLIES SHORT AND POULTRY SCARCE OR UNOBTAINABLE. MILK AND COTTAGE CHEESE PLENTIFUL IN CHICAGO WHERE A TIGHT FOOD DISTRIBUTION SITUATION WAS EASED BY THE END OF A TRUCKERS' STRIKE. WICHITA REPORTED AMPLE SUPPLIES OF EGGS AND LARD. MEAT SUPPLIES IN CLEVELAND SO SHORT THAT ONE PACKER PREDICTED MOST RETAIL MARKETS WOULD CLOSE NEXT WEEK.

WEST--MEAT SHORTAGE BEGINNING TO BE FELT IN ARAS SUCH AS PORTLAND WHERE SUPPLY HAS BEEN AMPLE HERETOFORE. HOG SLAUGHTER AT SEATTLE LOWEST IN HISTORY. GREEN VEGETABLES PLENTIFUL BUT POTATOES SHORT IN MUCH OF AREA. IDAHO, OF POTATO-GROWING FAME, GETTING POTATOES FROM CALIFORNIA BECAUSE GOVERNMENT TOOK MOST HOLDOVER 1944 CROP.

IN EUROPE, TRANSPORTATION DIFFICULTIES COMPLICATED THE FOOD SITUATION. THE SWISS, GETTING ONLY 10 PER CENT OF PRE-WAR IMPORTS, CUT THE BREAD RATION TO 7.04 OUNCES DAILY. PURCHASED WHEAT, MEANTIME, PILED UP AT DOCKS OF IBERIAN PENINSULA PORTS, UNABLE TO MOVE OVER CROWDED LAND TRANSPORTATION LINES.

SEA, AIR ATTACK DRIVES FOE BACK, NIMITZ REPORTS

Battleships and Cruisers Pour Fire Ashore to Aid Americans Near Shuri.

MAY 28 1945

Retreating Foe Leaves Arms, Food in Caves; Weather Slows Progress.

ERICKSON

GUAM, Monday, May 28.—(AP) Heavy fire from warships, coordinated with aerial strafing, bombing and rocket attacks, smashed Japanese troop concentrations in "considerable number" south of Shuri on Okinawa yesterday.

Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz did not say whether the Japanese were withdrawing southward from fortress Shuri, which is half-surrounded, or were mustering to move north for reinforcement of Okinawa's heavily-battered second largest city.

Battleships, cruisers and smaller ships participated in the bombardment of Japanese troop concentrations, said Nimitz's communique today.

Blow Up Caves

Northwest of Shuri, Maj. Gen. Pedro A. Del Valle's First Marine division observed Japanese blowing up 15 to 20 caves. These caves presumably were filled with stores of food and ammunition which the Nipponese did not want to fall into American hands.

Destruction of their cave positions only a few hundred yards outside Shuri — keystone of the Naha-Shuri-Yonabaru line across southern Okinawa—seems to indicate the Japanese are preparing to withdraw from the central sector, which is flanked dangerously on the east and southeast by the Seventh Infantry division's bulge in the Ozato Mura heights south of Yonabaru.

In the Ozato-Mura hills, Maj. Gen. Archibald V. Arnold's Seventh division doughboys found "very large stores" of ammunition, food and equipment abandoned intact in caves.

The Japanese apparently had to pull out so fast before the Yanks' surprise thrust south through Yonabaru last week that they had no opportunity to destroy these caves and caches.

Directly north of Shuri, Maj Gen. Andrew D. Bruce's 77th Infantry division sent strong combat patrols into the battered Shuri area. The communique did not report what kind of opposition the patrols encountered, but their penetration was taken as another indication the Japanese may be falling back from Shuri.

If the Japanese are pulling out of that city, they probably intend to make a stand again in high ground to the south. However, hill positions south of Shuri are not nearly so formidable as the rough ridges in the bitterly-held, deeply-fortified line they had built north of that citadel.

DAY

The Japanese caught maneuvering south of Shuri were hit with great weight of naval gunfire and were strafed and bombed by both carrier and landbased planes. A considerable number of these troops were killed

Shells and bombs struck right in the heart of large groups of closely collected Japanese, who had been under close American observation.

Extremely adverse conditions—rain and mud knee-deep in some places, restricted operations all along the southern Okinawa front, now extending some six miles from Naha on the west, around Shuri to Yonabaru on the east coast and south of the latter port city more than a mile.

Adequate front line supply was maintained however, with amphibious alligators and rubber-tracked jeeps, known as Weasels.

Front Bogged Down

The front now has been bogged down six days because of heavy rains. Four inches fell Saturday.

Despite the mud and rain swollen streams, Maj. Gen. Lemuel C. Shepherd, Jr.'s Sixth Division Marines on the west sent more troops across Asato river to reinforce their bridgehead inside the capital city.

Three bridges thrown across the Asato by the Leatherneck division's engineers were washed away by flood waters, but one Bailey bridge remained intact. Two of those washed out were foot spans.

From Okinawa, Associated Press correspondent Al Dorking reported that Japanese artillery fire has decreased to about 500 rounds a day. At the start of the Japanese stand before Shuri, the enemy was able to throw about 15,000 rounds of artillery fire daily into American lines and rear supply areas.

This reduction of artillery performance is significant evidence that the Japanese capacity to resist is considerably weakened.

Front lines troops have been supplied adequately but "under great difficulty," the last six days because of rain and deep mud, the admiral elaborated. Associated Press Correspondent Al Dopking reported from Okinawa that sled-pulling tractors, weasels (jeeps equipped with tractor tread) and amphibious tractors all have been employed to carry food, ammunition and other supplies to the front because vehicles normally used were unable to operate in mud which at times was knee deep.

Aircraft from a fast carrier task force downed five Japanese planes in the northern Ryukyus Friday, Nimitz did not say whether the carrier force was raiding that area, or whether the Nipponese were intercepted enroute to attack American forces in the Okinawa area.

Escort carrier planes made neutralizing raids on runways, barracks and radio installations in the Sakishima islands, southernmost of the Ryukyus, Saturday. The British Pacific fleets carrier planes had attacked the same group the previous day.

Navy search Liberators and Privateers sank two small cargo ships and three fishing craft off southern Honshu Sunday. They also damaged two small cargo ships at Truk Saturday.

Army Thunderbolts made low level attacks Saturday and Sunday on Truk, strafing Dublon seaplane base, barracks, ramps and several aircraft.

Army Liberators bombed Marcus island airfield installations and Mustangs attacked Chichi Jima in the Bonins. Marine Corsair and Hellcat fighters bombed targets in the Palaus.

BOTH SIDES TENSE IN SYRIA, LEBANON

French Say New Troops Went There to Replace Men, Not to Increase Garrisons

MAY 28 1945

J. Kins

LONDON, May 27 (AP)—Sandbags were thrown up about public buildings in Damascus today while the British, as virtual guarantors of the independence of Lebanon and Syria, strove for a solution to the crisis imperiling French relations in the Levant.

DAY

The French Government in Paris issued an official statement that it "regrets" that the Governments of Syria and of Lebanon have used the arrival of Senegalese troops in the mandated territories as an occasion to break off the settlement negotiations that were under way.

French forces were reported to have shelled Aleppo, important Levantine city, but this could not be confirmed because Aleppo was cut off from communications with Damascus. It was learned, however, that the French evacuated the citadel in the center of Aleppo.

Damascus Hears Gunfire

All day yesterday the French in their areas of control and the Syrians in theirs piled sandbags around windows and doorways in all principal buildings and mounted guns behind them.

Syrians were reported flocking to the colors. Volunteers were receiving uniforms from the mushrooming National Guard, and the streets of Damascus were filled with recruits still unarmed.

Syrian police kept isolated incidents from exploding into major clashes, blocking crowds off from streets down which moved patrols of Senegalese troops, whose arrival in the Levantine States had precipitated the crisis.

In Cairo, Abdul Rahman Azzam Bey, secretary general of the Arab League, said the Senegalese had cut communications between large towns while French warplanes flew low across the countryside frightening the populace.

Calls Situation Worse

Azzam Bey said the situation steadily was growing worse in both Syria and Lebanon, that machine guns were being mounted on housetops and armored cars were deployed in the public squares.

He told correspondents that the Egyptian Prime Minister expected to make a statement on the question in Parliament Monday, and the Arab League expected to meet in Cairo to deal with the crisis.

The Syrian Parliament heard fiery speeches demanding that the government act, calling for a last-witch fight against the French and urging the Allies to come to the aid of the Levantines.

The Parliament in secret session was reported discussing a communication from the British government, which was handed to the Syrian Foreign Minister on Friday by the British charge d'affaires.

Beyrouth, capital of Lebanon, was reported quiet. In Syria the police charged that they had found a French order detailing instructions for seizing Damascus. The French officially declared the document a forgery.

No mention was made in Parliament of this, but there was a great deal said about the French. All speeches declared that Syria was fighting for the freedom which the war against Germany was supposed to guarantee for all.

STREICHER DENIES HE HARMED JEWS

Anti-Semitic Editor Protests Surprise At Treatment

London, May 27 (AP)—The Luxembourg radio said tonight that Julius Streicher, former Nazi Jew baiter who now is an Allied prisoner in the Salzburg jail, denied harming any Jews, insisted he had no part in atrocities and asked his captors with an air of injured innocence, "Why am I treated like a murderer?"

The radio quoted the former editor of the anti-Semitic newspaper Der Stuermer as not only denying that he ever did anything against the Jews, but claiming that he was their friend.

Denies Knowing Of Dachau

"Nobody can reproach me with atrocities," the broadcast quoted the man known as the "bloody czar of Franconia" during his terror regime as Gauleiter. When asked about the Dachau concentration camp atrocities, he asserted he had known "nothing at all about that."

Streicher, whom Richard Law, British Minister of State, recently described as "certainly" on the list of war criminals, maintained "I have spent the last five years on my beloved estate near Nuernberg and have not seen Hitler since 1939," the broadcast said.

Captured May 23, Streicher still is wearing the grey beard behind which he tried to hide his identity, said the radio, which described his cell as stone-floored, 5 yards long and 3 wide, in which Streicher sleeps on a sack filled with wooden shavings. His buckles and shoelaces have been taken away to prevent him from joining the growing list of Nazi suicides, the broadcast added.

WOUNDED YANKS STILL IN EUROPE WILL RETURN SOON

LONDON, May 27—(AP) Fewer than 100,000 patients remain in Army hospitals in the European theater of operations and practically all of them will be restored to duty here or returned to the United States by mid-July, Maj.-Gen. Paul R. Hawley declared today.

The theater's chief surgeon said in an Army Hour broadcast that the death rate among American Army battle casualties in this war was less than half that of World War I.

Of 1,375,000 U. S. soldiers and sailors hospitalized in the European theater since the beginning of the war—about one-fourth of whom were battle casualties—fewer than 13,000 have died, Hawley said.

Several factors achieved this, he continued, and "first in importance, I think, was the devotion of medical officers and soldiers with the combat troops. More than 2,000 of these brave people were killed in action and almost 10,000 wounded.

"Next, we had as fine doctors as America can produce. We had an ample supply of whole blood and blood plasma, plus the miracle sulfa drugs and penicillin, better nutrition, and sanitary controls."

In the war against Germany, medics used about 335,000 pints of whole blood and approximately 1,000,000 pints of reconstituted blood plasma, he added. Civilians at home furnished 195,000 pints of whole blood and soldiers over here 140,000 pints.

Commons Set For Debate

MAY 28 1945

London, May 27 (AP)—After the first real election campaign week end, Prime Minister Churchill will meet the House of Commons Tuesday with his new "caretaker" Government to start what is expected to be the liveliest two weeks' debate during more than five years under his administration.

The withdrawal of the Labor and Liberal parties from the wartime coalition in preparation for the vote expected July 5—the first national ballot since November, 1935—means that for the first time since Churchill succeeded the late Neville Chamberlain as Prime Minister in May, 1940, no holds will be barred on the House floor.

Voting Register As An Issue

One major issue in Parliament's last weeks is likely to be opposition criticism of the voting register. One of Labor's objections to a July election was that his voters' list, with January 31 as the qualifying date for civilians and March 15 for service men, is not satisfactory.

Since January 31 many thousands of civilian evacuees have returned to London and other large centers which they left during the blitz and V-bomb days and war workers have been moved in large numbers from one factory to another as the process of reconversion began. Questions are certain to be asked as to whether provision will be made so these people can vote at their present homes, instead of having to return to the constituency where they were resident at the beginning of the year.

No British Absentee Vote

There is no absentee vote in the United Kingdom, as there is in the United States.

Some major legislation certainly will have to be shelved until after the election. A finance bill to provide the exchequer with funds for the war against Japan and for domestic expenditures must be passed before June 15 and there usually are many days' debate on such a measure.

To carry out the planned partial redistribution increasing the number of seats in the House of Commons by 25 to 640, there must be a redistribution bill.

The fate of a number of other measures has not been definitely decided. There is wide agreement among members of all parties that final reading should be given to the family allowances act, and the Scottish education bill, the counterpart of a measure passed earlier in the session for England and Wales, also is likely to be pushed through.

TRUMAN MAY VISIT ENGLAND, PAPER SAYS

LONDON, Monday, May 28—(AP) the Daily Mail reported today that Joseph E. Davies, here on a personal mission for President Truman, had given Prime Minister Churchill a letter from the American President in which Truman said he desired to come to Europe and to visit London as soon as his duties permitted.

Truman's letter also expressed his determination to carry out the Roosevelt policies, the paper added.

The Daily Mail also said that Churchill may take Clement Atlee, leader of the Labor party who was deputy prime minister in the recently disbanded coalition government, with him to the next meeting of the Big Three in order to assure Premier Stalin and Truman of British unity.

Davies spent the week-end with Churchill at Chequers, the Prime Minister's official country residence.

EX-NAZI DANZIG CHIEF SURRENDERS TO ALLIES

LONDON, May 27.—(AP) The Brussels radio said today that troops of the 53rd Welsh division had arrested Albert Forster, former Nazi governor of Danzig, in Hamburg.

The report said that Forster had a small vial of narcotics, and that he told his captors he had planned to use it to end his life if he had fallen into Russian hands.

Forster said he was trying to make his way from Danzig to his home in Bavaria. He had arrived in Hamburg yesterday and reported under his real name to civil authorities, who notified the British of his presence, the broadcast added.

EIRE DENIES DICTATORSHIP

MAY 28 1945

De Valera Attacks Charge Irish Are Ruled Against Will

Galway, Eire, May 27 (AP)—Prime Minister Eamon de Valera of the Irish Free State today attacked what he called misrepresentation of the Irish Government abroad and said the Irish nation was a democracy and not a dictatorship.

In a speech reported by the British Press Association, the Irish leader said a pretense was being made that the people of Ireland were being ruled against their will, even though they have had no fewer than six general elections within the last twelve years.

He added that there probably was no other country in the world where so many elections had been held in such a short period.

Censorship Discussed

De Valera said some people tried to pretend that during the war the Irish censorship was dictatorship He said the censorship was necessary for the protection of the Irish people.

The Prime Minister said he had considerable powers but that they were not dictatorial powers. In 1933, he asserted, when there was a threat to democracy in Ireland, the Government told the people to hold fast to their democratic institutions.

Asserting that the Irish had not waited until today to nail their policy of democracy to the mast, de Valera said that the Irish constitution did not merely declare the nation to be a sovereign, independent state, but a democratic state as well.

SCOTS BAR CATHOLICS

Caithness Council Will Exclude Them as Teachers, Librarians

WICK, Scotland, May 27 (AP)—Roman Catholics have been barred from teaching and library positions in Caithness County by a 14-13 vote of the county's council.

The action, however, has been challenged as illegal by D. A. Sinclair, local official, who cited the Catholic Emancipation Act of 1829 and said it never had been repealed. The matter will be referred to the Scotland Secretary of State's office.

The measure, recommended by the county's education committee, said that "no person shall hold or be eligible for the post of teacher, director of education or librarian under the county council who does not profess the Protestant faith."

Dr. S. W. Robertson, Roman Catholic who serves as Caithness County Librarian, will be affected by the decision.

LUFTWAFFE CHIEF DIES BY POISON

C. Lowry

PARIS, May 27—(AP) Field Marshal Robert Ritter von Greim, last chief of the German Air force, committed suicide in a Salzburg hospital Thursday, Supreme headquarters announced today.

Von Greim, 53, swallowed the same kind of poison that his high command colleagues, Heinrich Himmler and Gen. Adm. Hans-George von Friedeburg, used to end their lives. All three were in Allied hands when they died.

Von Greim succeeded Herman Goering April 24 as commander of the broken air force. Found May 9 in a Luftwaffe hospital at Kitzbuehel, in the Austrian Tyrol, he told his American captors:

"I am the head of the Luftwaffe but I have no Luftwaffe."

The Americans found him with a minor flak wound which he said he suffered in the final stages of the battle of Berlin. He managed to escape the doomed city and fly south.

Moved to the Salzburg hospital, he appeared to be co-operative.

Unlike Himmler, who killed himself while under examination, Von Greim had time to contemplate his act.

Supreme headquarters said a small empty vial was found beside his bed, together with coffee and sandwiches.

Von Greim, a captain in the first World war, was one of the senior officers of the German Air force.

He had been in command of fighter planes and anti-aircraft defenses on the Eastern front. He was promoted to field marshal when he was placed in command of the air force last month.

Clark Suggested To Head Separate Rule In Austria

Gothsher

MAY 28 1945

Paris, Monday, May 28 (AP)—Negotiations are under way to create a separate occupation area for Austria with Gen. Mark W. Clark as the American "Eisenhower" in Vienna, it was learned today.

A new plan now under consideration would have Austria treated as a separate problem from Germany with a separate four-power occupation force established along the lines of the control council for Germany.

Separate Zones Planned

Headquarters for the council would be set up in Vienna and separate occupation zones worked out for France, United States, Russia and Britain along the same lines as those for Germany.

The original occupation plans called for Austria to be largely in the American occupation area and its demilitarization to go along side by side with that of Germany.

But in line with the Big Three agreement that Austria be recreated as a separate nation, it now is felt in some quarters that she should be treated as a separate country in occupation and given less stringent treatment and more encouragement for building up a strong government.

A step has already been taken in this direction by the Russian-sponsored Government set up in Vienna. This Government, however, is not altogether satisfying to the western Allies and it is expected to undergo some changes before being given formal recognition.

MAY 28 1945

Alexander As British Choice

The western Allies are working out a united front on the separate Austrian occupation problem. While the Austrian zone may be separate politically and as far as governing is concerned, it can be supplied by the European Theater.

Field Marshal Sir Harold Alexander is expected to be the British choice on the Austrian governing body. Marshal Feodor I. Tolbukhin is said to be the Russian choice, with the French not yet decided.

Generally the plan is expected to have General Eisenhower's approval as the governing of Germany is expected to be enough of a problem for one body without the complication of a different type of occupation for Austria. Proposals are now being considered by the various governments and the combined chiefs of staff.

HAMBURG ALMOST READY

Port Expected to Be Open to Shipping This Week

PARIS, May 27 (AP)—The port of Hamburg is expected to be opened to the Allies' shipping by June 1, Supreme Headquarters announced today.

Minesweepers have cleared the route across the North Sea. Their activities began long before the German surrender.

The use of the port will shorten land communications for all northwest Europe. Heretofore Antwerp has been the Allies' primary port.

LEGION COMMANDER ARRIVES IN PARIS

PARIS, May 27 — (AP) Edward N. Scheiberling, national commander of the American Legion, arrived in Paris today for a month's tour of the continent.

He was accompanied by Brig. Gen. Edward W. Smith of the office of the chief of staff in Washington and Marcel Tolcott, chairman of the National Graves committee of the Legion and a former mayor of Waukeegan, Ill.

Scheiberling, who fought in the last war as a captain of infantry with the Seventy-Eighth Division, said that he would visit the Seventy-Eighth division in Germany after participating in the Memorial Day ceremony at Romagne cemetery near Verdun. Romagne is America's largest World War I cemetery.

Paris, May 27 (AP)—Paula Hitler, sister of Adolf Hitler, has been placed under house arrest near Berchtesgaden, where she is living in the home of Dietrich Eckart, Nazi poet and former favorite of her brother.

Paris Blast Toll Rises to Seven

Blockbuster Is Sawed In Two by a Sergeant

Ordnance Officers, Seeking a Defect, Suffer at Distance

PARIS, May 27 (AP).—Mechanical Sergeant Joseph Walko, of Norman, Okla., is one actor who spellbinds his audience.

His audience today was a group of ordnance experts and Army officers and his stage was an open field.

While the onlookers stared in fascination from the security of a distant hill, Walko calmly picked up a power hacksaw and sawed a four-ton blockbuster in two.

The experts had figured that the inside of the bomb was beginning to deteriorate. If they destroyed the bomb in the usual way, the evidence would disappear.

Walko, a veteran of twenty-six years in the Army, volunteered for the job and experts said they suffered terribly as they watched him work.

Nobody thought to ask Walko how he felt.

FAMINE LIKELY IN WEST REICH

15th Army Officers Predict Situation By End Of June

De Forest

Headquarters, 15th Army, Germany, May 27 (AP)—Reports from the 15th Army occupation zone indicated today that famine conditions maye be encountered in western Germany by the end of June.

Numerous American agriculture officers, from the Ruhr to the Saar, estimated that the food reserves were barely sufficient for another three or four weeks.

The present civilian ration of 1,150 calories daily is being maintained with difficulty, it was stated, and even this was described as "below starvation level."

Predicts Food Imports

In the Ruhr, Lieut. William R. Pennington of Chester, Pa., said "it looks as if we will have to import food, or else. There is nothing in prospect to tide the Germans here over from the end of June until the end of July when the potatoes will be harvested."

The plague of the Colorado beetle is destroying a considerable part of the potato crop despite preventive steps by American and German authorities, Pennington said.

In coping with the food problem the American Military Government has restored the German system of food administration.

About two per cent of the German food administration personnel has been eliminated by counter-intelligence investigation, but the remainder is now employed in the control of the collection, rationing and distribution of food under American supervision.

Raise Grain Barges In Rhine

In seeking to add to the current food reserves American officers have authorized the raising of the sunken grain barges in the Rhine and are negotiating with the North Sea districts for the import of canned fish.

All military restrictions on the movement of farm labor and food trucks within the provincial boundaries have been lifted.

American supervisors point out that industrialized western Germany was not entirely self-sufficient agriculturally before the war. Combat conditions drastically reduced the cultivated farm acreage until late in April. German food supplies have been drawn on for hundreds of thousands of displaced foreign nationals and in a smaller measure for Allied troops.

2 GERMAN GROUPS DISSOLVED UNDER BAN ON POLITICS

MAY 28 1945

De Forest

HOFFNUNGSTHAL, Germany, May 27—(AP) Two assertedly anti-Nazi movements in the Rhineland have been dissolved by American officers in a precedent-making interpretation of the Supreme Headquarters' ban on German political activity, it was learned today.

The first action was taken against the anti-Fascist Combat Organization—commonly known as the "Antifako"—whose handful of members claim it was founded in Duesseldorf in 1943 to spread sentiment against Hitler in the German army and among the civil population.

Since the American occupation it has denounced hundreds of "fanatical Nazis" by name, its members said.

The organization was banned after reportedly making plans to seek recognition as a local government.

The latest to be dissolved is the Anti-Nazi Committee of Hoffnungsthal, which is a semi-rural district nine miles east of Cologne.

Organized in April

Organized in mid-April within a

NOT

... the arrival of United ... the committee of ... compiled ... of 25 alleged Nazis, "requisitioned" food and clothing for nearby camps of Russian and Dutch slave workers, and assumed numerous other government functions without prior military authorization.

After joining the committee, the American-appointed burgomeister of Huffnungsthal was dismissed "for inefficiency" last Thursday—two days after the committee itself was officially ordered disbanded by the Allied Counter-Intelligence Corps.

In Duesseldorf no known member of the "Antifako" holds any position in the German municipal administration.

Police Chief Named

In Hoffnungsthal, however, the new burgomeister, Gottfried Ruhrmann, an old-time adherent of the Catholic Center party, has installed the chairman of the former anti-Nazi committee as police chief until such time as American authorities see fit to remove him.

The new police chief is Wilhelm Loesmer, who according to friends was arrested several times during the Nazi regime and contributed to relief funds for jailed Communists and their families.

A half-dozen members of the dissolved committee said it embraced "Leftists"—members and sympathizers of the old Communist and Social Democratic parties.

But they asserted that the committee had no "partisan political character" and that its chief aim was the "eradication of Nazism" in Hoffnungsthal district.

They complained that only one Nazi civilian in Hoffnungsthal, the Nazi party district leader, had been arrested thus far by the American forces.

Thousands Outside Church

Inside the church was packed to capacity. Other thousands listened outside its opened doors and windows and joined in the song service.

"Forgive us our colossal blood guilt which became manifest in the last period of the war," Walther prayed, making an apparent reference to the concentration camp revelations.

"Permit us to worship Thee and cast us not from Thy countenance. Do Thou take in hand the future of our people and do Thou make right what humans did so wrong."

Walther chose as his text the fifth verse of the fiftieth Psalm: "Gather my saints together unto me; those that have made a covenant with me with sacrifice."

"In God's presence," the minister commented, "no sensations are in place."

He then quietly recounted Niemoeller's struggle against Nazism which, he said, "attempted to run the church according to the principle of the factory and not according to scriptures. Politics instead of scriptures was to be preached."

Niemoeller's faith in God bore fruit, he said, and the pastor was restored to liberty after all human calculations pointed to his violent end of Gestapo hands.

Predicts Pastor's Return

"Seldom have so many prayers from so many Christians risen to heaven as for Martin Niemoeller," the minister said.

Walther expressed belief that Niemoeller would return to Germany after a much-needed rest

Himmler's Brother Taken

Luenberg, Germany, May 27 (AP). British 2d Army officials said tonight that Heinrich Himmler's brother, a minor SS (elite guard) official had been arrested at Schleswig and sent to Paris. His name was not available.

Forster Turned Over To British

With British 2d Army, May 27 (AP)—Albert Forster, former German governor of Danzig, surrendered voluntarily to German military police in Hamburg yesterday and was turned over to the British, it was announced officially today.

The 43-year-old German politician, whose trumpeting for Hitler was rewarded by appointment as Danzig Gauleiter in 1939, was carrying a vial of narcotic in his pockets.

He told 53d Welsh Division troops who placed him under arrest that he had planned to take the capsule if he had fallen into Russian hands.

Princess Will Leave Denmark For Germany

MAY 28 1945

Copenhagen, May 27 (AP)—Princess Helena of Sonderburg-Glucksburg, wife of King Christian's brother, Prince Harald, will leave Denmark to live with relatives in Germany, the newspaper Nationaltidende reported today.

The announcement was interpreted as foreshadowing an early dissolution of the royal marriage that has lasted 36 years. The Germans prohibited a divorce during the occupation because it would have reflected the anti-German feelings of the Danish royal family and would have encouraged the Danish resistance movement.

Throughout the occupation, Princess Helena's pro-German feelings had vexed her husband and relatives. Her own family would have nothing to do with her and Prince Harald never participated in any of the parties she arranged for German officers.

Both her sons, Olof and Garm, became Danish freedom fighters.

German Minister Dr. Hans Thomsen, Counsellors Pfleiderer and Torner, Military Attache von Ugmann and Naval Attache von Walter," it declared.

"The Hitlerite Thomsen spreads Fascist propaganda in the Swedish press as if nothing has happened. In mid-May he published an interview in the Vekku Journalen containing diryt insinuations addressed to the Soviet Union."

The same article said Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, former president of the Reichsbank, and Fritz Thyssen, German industrialist, were at Capri in an excellent hotel, and that the head of the liquidated Nazi puppet government in Hungary, Nicholas Kallay, likewise was leading a carefree life.

The Sun Figures In Pravda Attack

MAY 28 1945

Moscow, May 27 (AP)—Pravda today criticized United States and British publications for "diplomatic interference" in upholding Field Marshal Sir Harold Alexander, Allied commander in the Mediterranean, in the dispute with Marshal Tito over the occupation of Trieste.

It described the Trieste question as "one of the most malicious themes" of the foreign press and criticized the Economist in England, the New York Times and the Baltimore Sun for editorials on the situation.

The Pravda article declared Yugoslavia had a right to be proud of its victory and had earned full right to the proper estimation of its contribution to victory in the Mediterranean, "but instead of this a campaign has been launched against Yugoslavia."

5th Army Arrests General

Rome, May 27 (AP)—Gen. Heinrich von Vietinghoff-Scheel, six of his staff generals, and more than 1,000 German troops were taken into custody officially at Bolzano May 23 and 24, the United States 5th Army Command announced today.

Representatives of von Vietinghoff-Scheel had surrendered nearly a million German and Italian-Fascist troops in Italy May 2, but the commander himself remained in the hills with his staff.

The arrests were made by police of the 88th Division's 339th Field Artillery, under Col. J. C. Fry, of Washington D.C., assistant division commander. Doughboys raided the cellar of the house where the Nazis' Italian commander was staying, and found enough eggs there to serve breakfast for every man in the Blue Devil division.

Army headquarters announced than von Vietinghoff-Scheel's wife and the wife and daughter of General Roettinger, von Vietinghoff-Scheel's chief of staff, were serving as Red Cross workers in a military hospital at Cortina Dampezza. They were investigated by Allied military government authorities and permitted to remain there pending their return to Germany with their medical unit.

Travel Curbs in Italy Eased

ROME, May 27 (AP).—Italian civilians will be allowed to circulate freely through most of Italy, beginning tomorrow, the Allied Commission announced today. Controls will be continued on merchandise as an economic measure to prevent sky rocketing of prices in northern Italy. Permits still will be required for travel in the streets of Trieste today and hundreds of Italian women and girls marched in the procession, carrying red, white and green Italian flags with a red star in the middle.

The newspaper said the "workers of Trieste" had pledged to avenge the four soldiers, described as victims of a campaign by the Fascists and international reactionaries against the liberation of Trieste.

Meanwhile, despite Yugoslav agreement in principle to Allied administration of Trieste, the Yugoslav Army continued in control and the Allied military government remained outside while negotiations continued. Relations between the two groups, however, continued friendly.

Tito States His Views

Marshal Tito denied yesterday that the Yugoslav people have "intentions of conquering by force that to which we have a right," declaring that "we are convinceed the Allies will fulfill their word given in the Atlantic Charter."

The Yugoslav leader asserted that the Yugoslavs in Carinthia, from which his troops were withdrawn last week, "must continue to suffer and be victimized by a Gestapo terror in the guise of a different uniform."

He added: "We are making it known from here to our allies that the responsibility for all that happens over there will be shouldered only by them. We appeal to them to keep their word, to keep that word that they gave in the Atlantic Charter that every nation would have the right to decide on its own destiny."

Tito's speech, which he made to the Slovene people at Ljubljana, was broadcast by the Belgrade radio in Serbo-Croat and was reported by the Federal Communications Commission.

Asserting that the Yugoslavs had "proved" by their "sacrifices" that "we want nothing else but only to live in peace and to be together with our brothers who have been enslaved and persecuted," Tito said that it "would be a terrible tragedy, it would be a terrible mistake" if "we again had to fight for what we have already achieved in this war."

French Armor Pursues Deserting Syrian Conscripts Into Damascus

F. O'Brien

Damascus, May 27 (AP)—This Syrian capital preserved a warlike atmosphere today while British and American diplomats strove to avert open conflict between the hastily arming Syrians and French troops, whose recent arrival the Levantines resent.

Considerable gunfire was heard at the outskirts of the city last night, most of it the result of the desertion by a small group of Syrian conscripts from the French Army.

The French pursued them into the city with armored cars.

15,000 Answer Call To Arms

At least 30 escaped and joined the growing Syrian national guard. Similar desertions were occurring elsewhere, especially near Aleppo, north of here.

The Syrian call for 5,000 recruits has brought in 15,000 volunteers so far.

Persistent reports finding some credence among informed authorities here said the French Saturday shelled Alep (Aleppo) with eight light field pieces after withdrawing from the citadel in the center of the town. Three persons were reported killed and many injured.

U.S. Minister Expected

George Wadsworth, United States Minister to Syria and the Lebanese Republic, was due to come here today from his usual post at Beyrouth to confer with Joe Satterthwaite, charge d'affaires, and possibly make another attempt to persuade the French to accept an offer of mediation.

Both British and American diplomats were busy weighing atrocity reports being leveled by both sides and trying to keep the situation under control while a settlement is sought among Paris, London and Washington.

Leipzig Lutherans Join In Pastor's Prayer At Service Honoring Niemoeller

Leipzig, May 27 (AP)—Thousands of Leipzig Lutherans joined today in a prayer for forgiveness of Germany's "colossal blood guilt."

There were tears in the eyes of many men and women as the words of the Rev. Guenther Walther rang across the vast spaces of historic Thomas Church at a special thanksgiving service for the release from Nazi imprisonment of Pastor Marcure in Switzerland.

The services, in the church where Johann Sebastian Bach once was organist and choirmaster, were set against a background of the Eighteenth Century composer's orchestral and organ selections played by the Tewanhaus Symphony Orchestra and Bach's present-day successor at the church organ.

MOSCOW, May 27.—(AP) A Red Star dispatch from Far Eastern Kamchatka today reported the conclusion of a 540-day military topographical expedition under command of Lt.-Cols. Utekhin and Slisenko.

Kamchatka lies northeast of Japan and the Kurile island chain. It is the closest Russian soil to the Aleutians.

The central Kamchatka mountain range and other areas totalling more than 77,000 square miles were studied, the dispatch said, and new military maps will be printed.

Chinese Troops Recapture Yungning, Cut Jap Lifeline

Treaty Port Taken in Major Victory; Snaps Foe's Supply Route.

CHUNGKING, May 27—(AP) Chinese troops, in their most important victory in months, have recaptured the big treaty port of Yungning (Nanning) in China's "deep south" and cut Japan's vital overland highway lifeline to Indo-China and Singapore, the High Command announced tonight.

The reoccupation of the former American 14th Air force fighter base 470 miles south of Chungking was a serious blow to the Japanese. It disrupted the enemy's communications in the supply and retreat corridor for Japanese armies in Burma, Thailand, Malaya and Indo-China.

Yungning lies at the southern end of the transcontinental avenue from Manchuria at a point 78 miles from the Indo-China frontier. Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's troops captured the former Kwangsi province capital Saturday. No details of the battle were available immediately.

Second Port Freed

The city of 68,110 persons was the second treaty port to be freed in little more than a week. Eight days ago, Chinese seaboard forces retook the east coast port of Foochow and the Chinese command announced tonight that spearheads had pushed 41 miles northeast to reach Ningteh—only 38 miles from Chinese militiamen battling Japanese landing parties at Siapu.

Yungning was the first major American air base to be rewon since the Japanese offensive of last year rolled up the American line of central air bases. The city had been occupied since last November. It previously had been Japanese-held for a year in 1940-1941.

With the new Chinese victory boosting the tempo of China's developing general counter-offensive, Chiang Kai-Shek's veteran fighters advanced toward two other Japanese-held former U. S. Air bases. They smashed within eight and a half miles of Shaoyang (Paoching) in Hunan province and were pushing toward Liuchow in northern Kwangsi.

Yungning is in southern Kwangsi province at the highest navigable point of the Si (West) river flowing 430 miles eastward to Canton. In peacetime, the port exported antimony and tobacco.

Cut Highway

By its capture the Chinese cut the North-South highway linking the French Indo-China border town of Langson with the Kwangsi rail junction city of Liuchow. The highway was the main Japanese route for the movement of troops and supplies and had been lately improved.

By their own admission, the Japanese were planning to build a railroad from Liuchow to Indo-China so as to bring closer the realization of their vaunted project of rail communications between Singapore and Tokyo, by way of Manchuria.

It was not known whether the line had been completed, but plans called for it to run within 10 miles of Yungning on the opposite bank of the Si river. The Japanese still controlled a circuitous highway route to Indo-China running along the Si river's south bank.

Meanwhile, in the east coast maritime province of Fukien, Chinese forces pursuing fleeing Japanese troops northward from Foochow captured Loyuan, 31 miles northeast, and pushed on another 10 miles against light opposition to Ningteh.

The Japanese were withdrawing toward Siapu where local Chinese militiamen were locked in a see-saw battle with Japanese marines, while the Chinese advance from Foochow was an attempt to relieve the hard-fighting militia.

Japs Start Drive

The Chinese command reported that the Japanese Friday started a drive southward from Wenchow, on the Chekiang coast 230 miles south of Shanghai between Shanghai and Foochow.

The objective of the Japanese thrust was not known. Some Chungking observers believed it might be a diversionary move presaging a Japanese abandonment of Wenchow, which with Foochow, would be a potential death trap for Japanese coastal forces in the event of an American invasion.

The Japanese were engaged by Chinese forces south of Wenchow and reports indicated that the Chinese were moving in toward that treaty port from the west and had made "considerable progress."

While Chinese in Yungning disrupted enemy communications with Indo-China, other troops of Chiang Kai-shek's army smashed against the west flank of the Japanese overland corridor at points all along a 900-mile front.

North of Yungning, gains were reported toward Liuchow, and farther north, a Chinese column drove within eight and a half miles northwest of Shaoyang.

In the same area, the Chinese held firmly to Taohwaping, after a swaying battle, mopped up trapped Japanese three miles north of Taohwaping and cleared enemy forces from plateau-land 19 miles northwest of Shaoyang.

In Honan province, another fierce struggle raged south of the Yellow river as the Chinese hurled back Japanese attacks westward toward the Shensi province border, and counter-attacked with the aid of Chinese and American airmen.

The blows carried Chinese units about 16 miles south of Shanhsien on the Lunghai railroad and the advance toward the key strongpoint was being maintained. One large Japanese group fought its way out of a trap, but only after leaving more than 3,000 dead.

In southern Honan, the Japanese base at Hsishiakow, 400 miles northeastern of Chungking, was threatened by a Chinese thrust to points one and two miles northwest of the town, but to the south Japanese counterattacks forced the Chinese to give some ground.

$15,000,000 Flown To Front In China

Chungking, May 27 (AP)—American transport and combat planes played a new role in the war here when $15,000,000 in Chinese currency was flown from Chungking to the battlefront in southwestern China.

The money was used to pay for repairs to roads in the area recently recovered from the Japanese.

The transfer required the cooperation of at least three branches of the United States Army and two Chinese agencies, in addition to the Chinese Army which supervised the work.

Col. Lacey S. Murrow, Olympia, Wash., of the United States Forces Transportation Board, handled the transfer. It took only four days for the request from the front to be answered and the money delivered.

Chiang Is Guest Of U.S. General

Chungking, May 27 (AP)—In an unprecedented gesture of cordiality, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek dined Friday night as the guest of Lieut. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, commander of United States forces in the China theater.

It was the first time since he became President that Chiang had accepted such an invitation from a foreigner.

The dinner at Wedemeyer's residence, overlooking the Chialing River, was a purely Chinese-American affair.

Other guests included Gen. Chen Cheng, Chinese Minister of War; Maj. Gen. Patrick J. Hurley and Brig. Gens. Mervyn E. Gross, Ray T. Maddocks and George Olmsted of Wedemeyer's staff, and American Minister Ellis O. Briggs.

Wedemeyer showed war films which included shots of American air-raids on Shanghai and Hong Kong. Also shown was "How War Came to America," from a movie series entitled "Why We Fight."

Chiang also flew to Kunming to congratulate Maj. Gen. Claire Chennault on the 14th Air Force's successes. It was noted there that the Generalissimo has named his new personal plane Mei-ling, which may be interpreted as "Gracious Wisdom." Mrs. Chiang before marriage was Soong Mei-ling. The name is painted on the nose of the new C-47 plane, staffed by 14th Air Force transport pilots.

Aurand Heads Services Of Supply In China

Chungking, May 27 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Henry S. Aurand, who was in charge of supply operations in the vital Normandy sector, has become commanding general of Services of Supply for United States forces in the China theater.

Aurand, a Pennsylvanian and graduate of the United States Military Academy at West Point, succeeds Maj. Gen. Gilbert X. Cheves, who has completed his assignment of reorganizing SOS facilities in the China theater and is returning to the United States.

Lieut. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, commander of United States forces in China, in announcing the new appointment, said that Aurand already had taken over Cheves's command.

CHINA'S 6TH ARMY IS MOVED BY AIR

KUNMING, May 26—(Delayed)—(AP) For the first time in history, an entire army has been moved by air.

China's new Sixth army, tempered in the battle of Burma, was transported into China entirely by the U. S. Army Air Transport Command, it was announced today. Its arrival in China was disclosed recently.

The whereabouts of this army, probably the best trained and equipped of China's fighting forces, still is a secret. However, it may be taken for granted that the Sixth army will play an important part in China's counteroffensive operations, geared to a general plan of battle for the Orient.

The only two elements of the army whose designations can be disclosed are the 14th and 22nd divisions. The 22nd retreated from Burma into India with Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell in 1942, so cut up that replacements constituted almost a complete turnover. That time the replacements were flown to India.

The entire 14th division was flown from China across "The Hump" into India and the Assam training camps, where it joined the 22nd under Stilwell for the battle of Burma.

With the Burma blockade broken, the army, with all its equipment, including horses, was picked up and returned to China by the India-China wing of the Air Transport Command in its big silvery transport planes.

The flight was over terrain often referred to as tougher than the famed "Hump."

FIRING SQUAD KILLS THIEF IN KUNMING

KUNMING, China, May 27.—(AP) The first execution of a thief under the recently established death penalty for stealing military weapons was carried out last week.

The thief was arrested for possession of an American automatic pistol stolen from a transport plane at an airbase where he was employed.

He was carried through the nearby town on a Palanquin, behind which trumpeters called attention to his fate. Then a Chinese officer dispatched the thief at the field with an American rifle, before 1,500 spectators.

JAPANESE LOSSES SOAR IN PHILIPPINES

MacArthur Lists 8,609 Killed or Captured in Week, Sending Campaign Total to 378,427

MANILA, Monday, May 28 (AP)—Japanese dead and captured total 378,427 for the over-all Philippines campaign, Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today in reporting steady progress on Luzon and Mindanao Islands.

General MacArthur reported 8,101 enemy dead had been counted and 508 prisoners taken in the week ended Saturday.

American casualties for the same period were given as 389 killed, fifteen missing and 1,002 wounded. Total American casualties in the Philippines are 48,044.

Heavy, medium and attack bombers unloaded a 42-ton bomb load in support of ground operations on Luzon, causing widespread damage to Japanese supply dumps, bivouac areas and defenses.

On Mindanao, General MacArthur reported the Americans "fanning out in pursuit of the enemy." The reduction of tough Japanese defenses still was under way in the Davao sector.

Heavy bombers hit Formosa day and night. The Chomousi airdrome on the Pescadores Islands to the west was another target.

Shanghai Fuel Dumps Bombed

Patrol bombers ranging the China Sea damaged rail facilities at French Indo-China, sank a coastal ship offshore and destroyed a cargo vessel at the mouth of the Yangtze River in China. Fuel dumps at Shanghai were bombed.

In the Netherlands Indies low-flying medium bombers and fighters struck Japanese airdrome facilities and supply areas at Kudat, on northern Borneo, leaving the area north of the airfield a mass of flames. The coastal ships were destroyed at near-by Sandakan. Two more coastal ships were sunk near Celebes, to the east.

On Luzon Fifth Air Force planes flew 500 sorties in support of ground forces in the main battle areas at Balete Pass, Ipo and Manabay.

Along the Villa Verde Trail of Northern Luzon the Thirty-second Division captured a dominating hill 800 yards west of Imugan, which is about two miles west of the Cagayan Highway junction at Santa Fe. The Twenty-fifth Division has taken hills dominating Santa Fe, but the town has not yet been captured.

The Thirty-second Division sealed seventy-four caves on the captured hill, one of several which has been holding up the division for two weeks. Eighty-three Japanese were killed in the fight for the elevation.

On Mindanao the Twenty-fourth Division, with dive-bomber support, compressed the Davao sector Japanese into a wedge between the Talomo and Davao Rivers northwest of Davao City after turning back several counter-attacks.

To the northwest the Fortieth, the Thirty-first and Americal Divisions went into the hills seeking the next Japanese defense line after the Americans' junction along the Sayre Highway bisecting the island. The Thirty-first hit a pocket of resistance ten miles southeast of Malaybalay. Japanese artillery-supported counterattacks were repulsed.

The mass return of Filipino civilians to their homes in American-held Davao City, Mindanao, has started, but 15,000 to 18,000 Japanese civilians who moved out before the place became a battleground are remaining in the hills and some of them are helping the Japanese forces.

Capt. Lloyd Price of Dallas, Tex., an officer of the Twenty-fourth Division, which liberated Davao, today estimated the first contingent of returning Filipinos at 6,000.

Take All Possessions

Associated Press War Correspondent Richard Bergholz, with the 24th at Davao, who reported on the Japanese civilians, said the Nipponese took all their possessions with them when they moved from the city on Japanese army orders last September after American bombers began hitting the area. This indicated that they intended to stay in the hills, or at least planned no early return.

When Allied bombers appeared, the Filipinos also gathered up their belongings and headed for the mountains, trying at the same time to avoid retreating Japanese civilians and Nipponese soldiers.

The first Filipnio arrivals in Davao said Japanese brutality in hill hideouts not yet reached by the Yanks, coupled with an American promise of food and medicine, started the mass return.

Artillery observation planes saw long columns moving from the hills northwest of Davao. The Filipinos circled the battleground between the Davao and Talomo rivers to get inside American lines.

Captain Price, press relations officer for the 24th division, reached the vanguard of some columns. He reported there were no Japanese civilians among them. The Filipinos said Japanese nationals were staying in the hills. Many Filipinos carried leaflets dropped by Yank planes offering care.

NIMITZ PRAISES SUBMARINE WORK

GUAM, May 27—(AP) America's submarine fleet, operating against the Japanese drew high praise today from Admiral Chester W. Nimitz.

The commander of the Pacific fleet, presenting valor awards to 14 submarine officers and men, declared that largely through the activities of the underseas fighters "we have all but severed lines which connected the Japanese empire with their stolen possessions.

"Today no enemy warships and no enemy merchant ship can venture upon waters of the Pacific without well-grounded fear in the hearts of its men that they will never return to their home base."

American submarines have destroyed 4,500,000 tons of Japanese shipping, including 126 combat ships and 933 merchant craft.

Nimitz told the undersea heroes.

"You have met the enemy and the enemy is yours," the Admiral said.

Sees Break Near

GUAM, May 27 (AP).—Front dispatches reported that Major General Roy S. Geiger, commander of the Marine 3d Amphibious Corps, operating on Okinawa, had commented that "if the weather doesn't impede us, I think we will break the Japanese resistance soon."

American field artillery men have pounded the Japanese on Okinawa with better than 1,000,000 rounds of shells, more than has been expended in any Pacific campaign of similar length, Brigadir General J. R. Sheets, Leavenworth, Kan., commander of the 24th Army Corps artillery, was quoted as saying.

This shell count does not include steel hurled by tank and anti-aircraft guns, nor the more than 25,000 tons of five-inch or larger caliber ammunition fired against the Nipponese land positions by supporting United States fleet units.

Patrols of the 27th Division, combing the northern part of Okinawa for hide-out Japanese, have killed or captured some terroristic enemy groups which are roaming the hills trying to incite peaceful Okinawans to violence against the American Military Government. The terrorists have beheaded at least forty natives who had rebuffed them.

Million Rounds of Shells Fired

OKINAWA, May 27 (AP)—More than 1,000,000 rounds of artillery shells—a larger number than ever before expended in any Pacific campaign in the same period of time—have been hurled at the Japanese on Okinawa.

Brig. Gen. J. R. Sheetz, Leavenworth, Kan., commander of the Twenty-fourth Army Corps artillery, said the number of shells laid down against enemy fortifications and installations is comparable to that fired in the toughest artillery duels in the European theatre.

He explained the million rounds excluded shells fired by tank guns and anti-aircraft weapons used against the enemy on the ground and naval gunfire.

At least 1,000,000 rounds were thrown against what was once Shuri town in the center of the Japanese line and about 7,000 tons of explosives were hurled at Castle Fortress, directly south of Shuri.

Most artillery shooting has been precision firing, General Sheetz said, since "no Nips stay on top of the ground except momentarily, so you must blast their field pieces out of cave positions."

He told of numerous instances where 200-pound shells were tossed directly into the door of cave positions after they had been uncovered by air and ground observation.

General Sheetz said Japanese artillery fire had dropped from 15,000 rounds daily to around 500 because more than 363 of their field pieces had been knocked out by American precision firing.

In comparison, he said, only a few American guns had been damaged.

CABINET CALLED BY JAP PREMIER

MAY 28 1945

Suzuki Maps Emergency Measures with Tokyo Devastated by Superforts.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 27—(AP) Premier Kantaro Suzuki called his cabinet into extraordinary session today to decide upon emergency measures against air raid disasters such as the devastating Superfortress fire bombs blow Saturday which, by Japanese admission, laid waste Tokyo's business and governmental district and part of the Imperial Palace area.

In broadcasts heard by the FCC, Tokyo said that [illegible] American Superforts mined Japanese waters before dawn today, laying the explosives in marine traffic areas from Kyushu island at the southern end of the homeland archipelago to northwestern Honshu.

A Tokyo broadcast also said recent American air raids on Kobe and Osaka, Japan's great industrial cities, had caused "considerable damage."

'Blessing in Disguise'

A broadcast intercepted by the Associated Press listening post in New York said Suzuki told the cabinet that "damage presently suffered might prove a blessing in disguse." He urged the respective ministries affected by raids to undertake restoration operations along the line of "construction" rather than "reconstruction."

Celebrate Victory

The Japanese Navy commemorated today the 40th anniversary of its victory over the Russian fleet in Tsushima Strait, calling upon Nipponese seamen to "do their utmost to annihilate" their current enemies as their predecessors did in the 1905 battle.

An order of the day issued by the Japanese Supreme naval commander in the South boasted that the Nipponese Navy "today is forcing the enemy's tremendous bloodshed."

Despite the heavy damage done Kobe and Osaka by American air fleets, the "citizens of both cities are rising from the ruins and show reassuring activities of recovery," Tokyo claimed.

Recovery efforts included the reclaimation of "burnt metals" to be used again in war industries; the raising of vegetables in cleared areas, and formation of "factory special attack corps units" to rebuild plants in both cities.

In a German-language broadcast directed to Germany and monitored by the FCC, Tokyo praised Nazi leaders in Allied hands for clinging to their convictions.

"The leaders of the German Reich have surrendered, that is a fact; yet they have not given up their convictions, and that is another fact," the broadcaster declared.

The Anglo-Saxon attitude which tried to "maintain the old order" is bound to "collapse sooner or later," after which Adolf Hitler's concept of the "new world" will be attained by the Germans, Tokyo said.

CONFERENCE NEAR DECISION ON ROW OVER VETO POWER

MAY 28 1945

Small Powers Want Right to Seek Peaceful Settlement of Disputes.

'BIG FIVE' UNITED

Want Overall Control with Understanding It Will Be Rarely Invoked.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 27—(AP) Top leaders of the United Nations conference ignored a Sunday recess today and dug in for a showdown on the hottest remaining issue—a controversy between big and little nations over great power rights to veto attempts to settle international disputes peacefully.

As the large powers inched along toward a united stand on the question, both sides apparently were bent on trying to line up public support.

Australian Foreign Minister Herbert V. Evatt made known he would open up on the issue at a press conference tomorrow afternoon. He is spearheading the opposition against letting any of the Big Five—The United States, Britain, China, Russia and France—throttle investigation or peaceful adjustment of a dispute among nations.

The American delegation already has had an inning with the public. Assistant Secretary of State James C. Dunn went down the line in a broadcast for big power unanimity in voting on cures for international troubles of the future.

Delegation Chiefs Meet

Delegation chiefs of the Big Five got together last night to mull over phrase by phrase a statement explaining their views. They were reported to be pretty much in accord as far as they went. Tentatively, they decided to huddle again to look over the rest of the document.

Small nations had maneuvered the big powers into preparation of the statement. They wanted to know just how the Big Five figure the veto authority will operate in the Security Council of a new world organization, under a formula worked out at a Roosevelt-Stalin-Churchill meeting at Yalta this Spring.

Indications seeping out of big-power discussions behind closed doors were that the little fellows would be told the veto does and should extend both to using armed force against aggression and to investigation and pacific settlements. But the great nations were talking of giving reassurances that the veto will be used only in rare instances and that the authority won't be abused. Also they reportedly favor a statement that no nation would be forbidden to bring complaints of threats to peace.

The whole problem ultimately will be threshed out in one of the conference committees, where a two-thirds ballot will be required on decisions. The dispute may simmer down to the point where small countries will be told insistence on altering the veto formula appreciably might result in the failure of some of the giants among nations to ratify the world organization's charter.

12 Meetings Today

The technical committees of the conference, which failed to meet last night's deadline for completing their individual sections of the charter, scheduled 12 meetings for tomorrow. One of them is in a position to tackle the veto question at any time.

And in these committees, the Big Five have encountered rough going at a number of spots. They were beaten, for instance, on their proposal for five instead of four assistants to the secretary general, who will be the principal officer of the new world league. Previously they lost out in an attempt to insert a provision for expulsion of trouble-making members from the world organization. A suspension plan was approved instead.

Gradually out of committee actions there is emerging a pattern for the world of the future, a world in which the United Nations will attempt by joint efforts to erase the threat of war.

They will operate through four principal agencies: the Security Council, an assembly of all member nations which will have mostly advisory functions, a new International Court of Justice, and a council designed to bring about cooperation in solving international economic and social problems.

Committees Near Finish

Several committees are nearly finished with their work, even though they didn't make the deadline. One of them has tacked down some of the powers of the assembly in a string of unanimous votes.

Powers Explained

The assembly would be authorized to:

Deprive of voting privileges a member two years behind in its dues except in extraordinary circumstances; require a two-thirds vote on all major questions; apportion expenses of the world organization; hold annual sessions and call special ones any time a majority of members indicate they want one.

All committee decisions are subject to ratification in their parent commissions and by the full conference. Commissions are scheduled to start reviewing committee drafts of charter provisions this week.

And by the end of next week the conference may approve and sign the finished product and receive the thanks of President Truman at its closing session.

Issue Of A New World Court

San Francisco, May 27 (AP)—The United Nations have gone a long way toward creating a world league with teeth in it. Now they are up against a decision on whether they should have with the league a world court also equipped with real authority.

The issue centers around what the lawyers call "compulsory jurisdiction." Any ordinary court has compulsory jurisdiction. That means that if a man files a complaint against his neighbor the court can compel the neighbor to stand trial, make whatever defense he likes and submit to the verdict.

In the case of an international court, such power would mean that when one nation brought a charge against another, the second nation would have to stand before the court and submit, after a hearing, to its verdict.

Urged By Small Nations

Many of the small nations are advocating this authority.

But the United States and other large nations are holding out for the formula adopted by the court set up at The Hague after World War I. Both parties would have to agree before an argument could be judged.

Except for compulsory jurisdiction, a conference committee drafting the framework for a new court has about completed its work. Provisions adopted include:

1. A decision to set up a new court, instead of using the old one, so that neutrals not belonging to the United Nations can't claim automatic membership.

2. A decision to seat the fifteen-judge court in The Hague, with a clause enabling it to function elsewhere in emergencies so that it won't fold up as it did when Holland was occupied during this war.

3. A decision that the assembly of the new world league, upon recommendation of the security council, shall pass on each nonmember of the United Nations that wants to adhere to the court. All members of the world organization automatically will be included.

Some American delegates have made clear their opinion that if the first method is adopted—compulsory jurisdiction—the United States might have to sign the court statute with reservations.

San Francisco, May 27 (AP)—Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., Secretary of State, will make a radio address at 7.30 P.M. tomorrow night, Pacific War Time, in which he is expected to review the work and future prospects of the United Nations conference.

Aussies Gain In Solomons

San Francisco, May 27 (AP)—Australian units cleaning up Bougainville in the Solomons have made new gains against the Japanese southeast of the Pororei River in the southern part of the island, Melbourne radio said today in a broadcast heard by the FCC.

In the northern part of the jungle-covered island the Aussies made numerous contacts with the Nipponese above Rakuarua Bay.

Dean Gildersleeve Gets Honorary LL.D. at Mills

Speaks at 88th Exercises of California College

OAKLAND, Calif., May 27 (AP).—The study of foreign languages with the emphasis on precise meanings was urged on the coming generation today by Dean Virginia Gildersleeve, of Barnard College, the only woman member of the United States delegation to the United Nations Conference.

Speaking at the Mills College eighty-eighth annual commencement, she told of language difficulties encountered at the world conference, and of resulting fears and suspicions.

Honorary degrees were conferred by the college on Miss Gildersleeve and four other women. The degree of Doctor of Laws was given Dean Gildersleeve and to Esther Caukin Braunauer, State Department Attache, an expert on international education; Woo Yi-fang, president of the Ginling College for Women in China, and Bertha Lutz, Brazil's foremost woman scientist.

Miss Gildersleeve's Citation

In presenting the honorary degree of doctor of laws to Dean Gildersleeve, Mills College cited her as "councilor in the cause of peace and freedom, sponsor of recognition for the scholarly attainments of women in many lands, champion of international understanding through natioal enlightenment, scholar, teacher and adviser for forty years to the students of Barnard College."

Audience Heckles Canadian Leader

Sudbury, Ont., May 27 (AP)—Mitchell Hepburn, Ontario Liberal leader, was intermittently booed, cheered and interrupted today in an Ontario election campaign address which was followed by a speech from a member of the audience.

Interrupted from the audience by a shout, "What about labor?" Hepburn said the Liberal party's manifesto "has a collective-bargaining clause with teeth in it."

Hepburn said that if anyone wanted to speak after he finished, he would provide the opportunity.

"I'll take you up on that, Mitchell," shouted a man who came to the platform and identified himself as John Norkoski, Sudbury miner. Norkoski, who took notes during Hepburn's speech, said, "Hepburn and John Bracken smashed up strikes."

Mrs. Luce Charges Russia Uses 'Terrorism' in Europe

MAY 28 1945

Discontented Minorities Being Armed to Spread Communism, She Says.

NEW YORK, May 27—(AP) Representative Clare Boothe Luce (R-Conn.) declared tonight that Soviet Russia had instituted a policy of terrorism, as a political weapon, in European countries under its domination.

She called upon the United States to "push back the frontiers of freedom in Europe" by supporting every European statesman who is neither Communist nor Fascist "provided he agrees to give his people constitutional and parliamentary forms of government."

Addressing the Columbia University Men's Faculty club, Mrs. Luce, who returned recently from a tour of European battlefronts, declared that Russian ideas were "rushing over Europe and Asia at a greater speed than Nazi ideas did 10 years ago."

"The fact is," she said, "that the policy being used by the Soviet union all over Europe today is (1) fraternization; (2) exile or death to everybody in every country occupied by the Soviet, regardless of that person's political beliefs, if he does not follow the Soviet program; (3) to put guns and weapons into the hands of any discontented minority, regardless of their previous political beliefs, provided that they do follow the Soviet program."

"Thirteen nations in Central Europe are directly controlled by local Communists or indirectly by Communists in Moscow," Mrs. Luce said.

She predicted that when American and British forces leave Italy, "the vacuum created by the fall of the conservative elements and the presence of a well organized Communist minority, would permit the Communists to take over by terrorism."

"Germany," she said, however, "is the battleground where either democracy or Communism will win."

2 DEAD SAIPAN HEROES CITED

Medal Of Honor Presented To Fighting Trojans' Widows

Troy, N.Y., May 27 (AP)—Two fighting men of Troy—a lieutenant colonel and a sergeant, members of the same regiment—who died in the same action on Saipan were awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor today for heroism.

Robert P. Patterson, Under Secretary of War, presented the medals to the widows of Lieut. Col. William J. O'Brien, 44, and Sergt. Thomas Baker, 26. Both men disregarded serious wounds and refused evacuation to hold their ground against the enemy's climactic attack last July 7. Both bodies were found surrounded by dead Japanese after the attack had been turned back.

Sergeant Baker was in a sector attacked from three sides by 3,000 to 5,000 Japanese. He was wounded early in the fight, but stayed in the line firing at the enemy at ranges as close as five yards until his ammunition ran out. Then he was carried 50 yards to the rear by a wounded comrade.

Refuses To Go Farther

"At this point," said his citation, "Sergeant Baker refused to be moved any farther, stating that he preferred to be left to die rather than risk the lives of any more of his friends.

"A short time later, at his request, he was placed in a sitting position against a small tree. Another comrade, withdrawing, offered assistance. Sergeant Baker refused, insisting that he be left alone and be given the soldier's pistol with its remaining eight rounds of ammunition.

"When last seen alive, Sergeant Baker was propped against a tree, pistol in hand, calmly facing the foe. Later Sergeant Baker's body was found in this same position, gun empty, with eight Japanese lying dead before him."

Pistol In Each Hand

Lieutenant Colonel O'Brien's citation said that when forward positions were overrun and ammunition was getting short he still refused to withdraw, but firing a pistol with each hand strode up and down the line.

Even after he was seriously wounded Colonel O'Brien refused to be evacuated and, after his pistol ammunition was exhausted, he manned a .50-caliber machine gun, mounted on a jeep, and continued firing.

"When last seen alive he was standing upright firing into the Japanese hordes that were enveloping him. Sometime later his body was found surrounded by the enemy he had killed."

More Than 7,000 Present

A throng estimated by local officials at more than 7,000 watched the ceremony in the rain-swept Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute Stadium.

Patterson Pays Tribute

Presenting the medals, Patterson said the memory of "these two brave soldiers of the Army" will never fade.

Both were men of the 105th Infantry of the 27th Division, veteran New York National Guard outfit which fought the Japanese first at Makin in 1943, then on Saipan last year.

McGee, Happy, Explains Why He Hit German War Prisoners

Worcester, Mass., May 27 (AP)—Private Joe McGee came home to Worcester today and affirmed that he had received "a raw deal," but everything was all right now and he wasn't complaining.

The young soldier, who was relieved by Robert P. Patterson, Under Secretary of War, of serving the balance of a two-year sentence at hard labor for punching German prisoners of war told his father, Joe McGee, Sr., a World War I veteran, that the German prisoners "deserved it, and I'd do it again."

The 23-year-old soldier was court-martialed at Le Mans, France, on October 17, 1944, on charges of "assaults and batteries" on nine German prisoners near the stockade somewhere in France.

McGee Explains Incident

Greeted at the railroad station by his father, 14-year-old sister, Eileen; his brother, John, and his pals, McGee, explaining the incident in France that led to his subsequent court-martial, said:

"I hit them, but they deserved it—and I'd do it again. I didn't use a club, but clipped them with my fist.

"We were building a new prison stockade and these nine German prisoners were not working fast enough. I told one of them to hurry up, but he just stood there with a sour look on his face and cursed me out. Then I hit him."

"The other eight just sat down and refused to work," he told his pals, "so I started swinging. I hit four of them in all, not the whole nine.

"In my opinion, I got a raw deal, but it's okay now and I'm not complaining."

The elder McGee then announced that he had acquired some eggs last night and the happy McGee family, led by young Joe, limping slightly on his left leg as a result of a wound received at Liege, Belgium, while aiding in storming a pillbox, headed for home with Eileen holding on to her brother's arm.

McGee said he was awarded the Silver Star in England for his part in storming the pillbox.

But there wasn't much privacy in store for the Worcester McGees up to midnight, when Joe had to report to Fort Devens for duty, since interviews, a reception by the Yankee Division Veterans Association and recordings for broadcasts were among the many things scheduled for the happy soldier.

SERGEANT LINDSEY, WAR HERO, WEDS

Takes Bay State Girl As Bride After Home-Town Welcome

Lucedale, Miss., May 27 (AP)—Sergt. Jake Lindsey, the one hundredth infantryman to win the Congressional Medal of Honor, and Miss Beverly Hargreaves, 19, of Lexington, Mass., were married here today.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Fulgham, pastor of the Lucedale Methodist Church, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Phil Aaron. Circuit Court Clerk M. L. Malone said he issued the marriage license about noon.

A reception was held immediately after the marriage. The couple left for Mobile to spend the night.

To Visit Bride's Home

Beverly flew down from Washington with Jake and his family last week. The town of Lucedale gave the 24-year-old Lucedale soldier a hero's welcome yesterday.

At Mobile tonight the couple announced their honeymoon would take them to the Massachusetts home of the bride's parents.

"We expect to go to Beverly's home in about a week," Sergeant Lindsey said.

Met Bride Four Years Ago

Beverly and Jake (Bill to her) met on a blind date four years ago before the soldier went overseas. They corresponded regularly and after the personal presentation of the nation's highest award by President Truman the hero said it was all perfect except that his best girl was not there. Arrangements were made and she and her father flew to Washington.

The following day Beverly flew with Lindsey and his parents to Mobile and drove to Lucedale for the big celebration headed by Gov. T. L. Bailey, of Mississippi.

Asked which of the three ceremonies — medal presentation, hometown welcome or wedding—caused the most nervousness, Lindsey said:

"Well, this one today was the best of all."

To Ask Discharge From Army

Lindsey said he planned to ask for a discharge from the Army under a War Department regulation giving Congressional Medal of Honor holders their release upon request. He said he had not definitely decided on employment, but that he had been offered a job at $6,000 a year.

His father is an employé of the Alabama Dry Dock and Shipbuilding Company, at Mobile.

Lindsey was flown from Czechoslovakia to Washington for the medal presentation before a joint session of Congress.

GABRESKI TO WED JUNE 10

Flying Ace, Freed From Nazis, Plans Third Try to Marry

PRAIRIE DU CHIEN, Wis., May 27 (AP)—Lieut. Col. Francis S. Gabreski, American flying ace, and Kay Cochrane of Prairie du Chien, revealed today that they would be married June 10 and that it would their third attempt to be wed.

"I sure hope this one makes the grade," said the Oil City (Pa.) flier, credited with downing twenty-eight German planes in combat, as he boarded a train tonight for Fort Sheridan, Ill. He will remain there for a day or two, then go to Oil City and return in time for the ceremony.

Colonel Gabreski and Miss Cochrane said that they planned to be married in Hawaii before the war but the Pearl Harbor attack interrupted. Miss Cochrane lived with her uncle and aunt, Col. and Mrs. Newton Bush. Colonel Bush, stationed at Schofield Barracks, had to send his family away on 24-hour notice.

The marriage was then set for last August when Colonel Gabreski was expected home from England. But he was forced down in enemy territory and taken prisoner. He was recently freed and returned to this country.

UNIQUE LETTER IS RECEIVED

MAY 28 1945

Philadelphian Writes To Wife On Hitler's Stationery

Philadelphia, May 27 (AP)—Mrs. Joseph T. Marnell disclosed today that she has received what she considers the unique letter of this war.

The postman handed her an envelope yesterday. On it was the great seal of the German Reich and under the seal appeared the name of Adolf Hitler. In the upper right-hand corner was printed the word, "Munchen" (Munich).

Letter From Husband

"Why, it's from my husband," she exclaimed. "I recognize his hand writing."

She opened the envelope. The 7½ by 5 inch stationery bore the same adornment as the envelope.

But the letter was definitely from her husband, Capt. Joseph T. Marnell, 25, serving with a medical detachment in Germany.

"You can see by this very personal stationery that conditions have improved some," the letter said. "I picked this up in Adolf's private apartment in Munich when we arrived recently. I must admit that the old boy had very good taste, because this apartment is quite an exclusive one—very rich architecture, paintings, and some of the most beautiful and modern furniture that I've ever seen."

Captain Marnell added: "Of course, since nothing is too good for the United States Army, the above apartment is now being used for an officers' mess."

DANE INDICATES TURN TO LEFT

Minister Sees "Fruitful Collaboration" With Communists

New York, May 27 (AP)—J. Christmas Moeller, Danish Foreign Minister, said in an interview with the Copenhagen newspaper Berlingske Tidende that in his opinion "true democracy cannot be achieved by political democracy alone but it demands an economic democracy as well," the Danish radio said tonight.

"In Service Of Community"

The Foreign Minister said Denmark would never return to prewar times and that it "will have to be realized that the economic forces, the human and technical ingenuity and producing power are so colossal that far-reaching control is necessary."

"The time of large private properties and incomes is over and private initiative can only be maintained if it is put in the service of the community and if earned means are no longer used to enrich some few, but to raise the living standard for all, to consolidate all activities, to extend them and to provide more work."

Communist Policy "Moderated"

The broadcast, reported by the FCC, quoted Moeller as saying that while these six years of war had made it necessary for all parties to revise their programs, the "only party that actually does not need to transform its program are the Communists," as they had already done so.

"They have in many ways moderated their policy so that a fruitful collaboration can certainly be achieved with them," Moeller stated, according to the broadcast.

Russ Radio Urges Action On Laval

New York, May 27 (AP)—The Moscow radio said tonight "certain protectors" apparently are preventing the removal of Pierre Laval, former chief of the French Vichy Government, from Spain and declared it is "time to roll up one's sleeves and to get on in all seriousness with the purge in Europe of all Hitlerite successors."

The German-language broadcast described Laval as "Hitler's watchdog" and asserted "the entire might of the Allies is insufficient to get Laval out of his hole in order to hand him over to the strong arm of justice."

"It seems that there can be no discussion on the point that Laval must face trial and must be hanged," the broadcast said. "And the French nation has incontestible right to pass sentence on and to execute this utter scoundrel, this traitor of France."

Declaring "Laval fled to Spain to take cover under Franco's wing," the broadcast said, "this is a curious affair. One gets the impression that Laval has certain protectors who enact this obscure comedy."

Aide To Gen. Hodges Is Home On Furlough

Cumberland, May 27 (AP)—First Lieutenant Gerald Reeves, 28, of Lonaconing, tank platoon leader and liaison officer with Gen. Courtney H. Hodges's 1st Army, has returned to Allegany county from Europe after accompanying the four-star general to Atlanta, Ga., to participate in the home-town parade and celebration honoring Hodges's return.

Describing his commanding general as "the most respected and liked man in the Army," Reeves said that the celebration in Atlanta was one of the biggest he had ever seen.

Besides holding the Purple Heart decoration with one Oak Leaf Cluster, Reeves has been twice cited for bravery in action. He received the Silver Star in Holland and holds the Bronze Star for distinguished service in France and Belgium.

At the end of his 32-day leave, he will report to Asheville, N.C., for reassignment.

Negroes Told War Effort Has Helped Boost Race

Bennet Says Reaction to Hitler Theories Has Been Beneficial

NEWBURGH, N. Y., May 27 (AP).—Efforts to "improve the economic, political and social lot of Negro citizens" have been "given a boost by the war services rendered by members of that race," Representative Augustus W. Bennet, Republican, of New York, said today.

Addressing the ninth annual New York State convention of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, which concluded today, Mr. Bennet added:

"Fantastic as it may seem, you must give Adofl Hitler credit for some of the progress made in bringing about a changed approach to the problem on the part of many Americans. "The concentrated barrage of criticism leveled against the well known Nazi race theories has inevitably reacted to the benefit of our American colored citizens.

"It is impossible to denounce the superman theories in Europe without making them appear equally ridiculous in America."

The following officers were reelected: James E. Allen, New York City, president; Dr. Leon W. Scott, New Rochelle, vice-president; Lionel C. Barrow, New York City, secretry; Miss Amanda Kemp, New York City, treasurer.

Unscathed in War, Flyer Dies in Bond Show Crash

Plane Strikes Auto, Injuring Five, Before 70,000 in Ohio

DAYTON, Ohio, May 27 (AP).—Captain William Glasgow, of Niagara Falls, N. Y., a veteran of eighty combat missions over Germany, was killed and five civilians were injured critically as an experimental plane crashed and struck an automobile today within sight of more than 70,000 persons watching a War Bond aviation show at Wright Field here.

Captain Glasgow was the son of William Cook Glasgow, of 1415 Twenty-seventh Street, Niagara Falls. He was shot down over Germany in 1943 and taken prisoner, but later escaped, and had been stationed here since last December.

The plane, an XP-55 Curtiss Ascender, which has its wings and engine behind the pilot, had roared across the field to the cheers of spectators, when it suddenly crashed.

State Highway Patrolman C. T. Allen said Wesley B. Roehm, of Leesburg, Ohio, had just asked him how to get into the field and was in the act of turning his automobile around when it was struck, injuring Roehm and four others in his car. One of the witnesses of the accident was Major Richard Bong, of Poplar, Wis., who has shot down forty Japanese planes. Major Bong was flying over the field at the time of the crash.

Hero-Priest Praises Chaplain And Doctor

MAY 28 1945

Cambridge, Mass., May 26 (AP)—Lieut. Com. Joseph T. O'Callahan, hero chaplain of the aircraft carrier Franklin, paid tribute tonight to the Protestant chaplain and a Jewish doctor aboard the bomb-battered ship.

Commander O'Callahan, Catholic chaplain who has been recommended for the Congresssional Medal of Honor, shrugged off most of the questions about himself and said, "I want to tell you about my colleague aboard, a Protestant chaplain from Texas, Lieut. Grimes W. Gatlin—'Gun' Gatlin."

"He was down below," he said, "when the bomb hit the Franklin and he did such a good job that he has been awarded the Silver Star, the third highest award for bravery. He is my very good friend and comrade—and I know that we will be friends all through our lives.

Tells Of Physician's Work

"And I want to tell you about Dr. Samuel Sherman from San Francisco, a Jewish doctor and a very brave man. He was the first doctor able to get up on the flight deck, and as far as we knew then, the only doctor aboard surviving the explosion. He was attached to an air group and, when the air group—men who couldn't be replaced—were transferred to the cruiser Santa Fe, Dr. Sherman was ordered to go.

"He said, 'No, I won't go. I don't care if it is disobedience of orders. As far as I know I am the only doctor surviving—and I'll stay.'"

"He stayed and took care of the wounded," Father O'Callahan said. "And later, when ordered to return to the States with the ship, he disobeyed again and joined his air group. He is a brave, brave man and I admire him very much."

M'NUTT STRESSES NEED FOR UNITY

BATON ROUGE, La., May 27.—(AP) Paul V. McNutt, chairman of the War Manpower Commission, said at a war memorial service tonight that "world unity is the memorial our soldier dead would wish us to build."

Speaking at services which honored 400 Louisiana State University students who died in World War II, McNutt declared that "the alternative to world unity is world disaster, a new crop of Hitlers, a new world war."

"Despite all national differences," he said, "despite all debates on boundaries, peace terms and reparations, we must achieve a world organization capable of taking collective action to prevent future wars—and future memorial days in which the living will weep for the future dead.

"World unity is the memorial our soldier dead would wish us to build—not only for themselves, but for the children and wives and families they will never again see, for all the living, for this generation and the generations to come."

McNutt declared that American soldiers fought and died in this war for "the American nation, American democratic aspirations, the American people—for the right to live and work in an atmosphere of liberty," and not for "a thousand-year Reich," or "a phony emperor-God."

He asserted that reconversion of war skills into "peacetime pay envelopes" would be one of the biggest jobs on the home front agenda—"a historic challenge that we citizens on the home front must think of now."

"How we utilize the newly acquired skills of our returning soldiers and war workers will go far toward determining the fate of these United States," he said.

NAZI KILLS SELF

NEW YORK, May 27 — The British radio said tonight that another Nazi, Dr. Hugo Jury, gauleiter of Lower Austria and former minister of social welfare in the Seyss-Inquart government of Austria, "has chosen suicide rather than captivity or trial." The broadcast, recorded by CBS and NBC, said the report came from the Austrian radio.

Talbot Sees Russian Ideology Posing Barrier to World Peace

WASHINGTON, May 27—Representative Joseph E. Talbot, (R) of Connecticut, in a radio address from his Washington office today in which he spoke on "World Democracy as a Hope of Everlasting Peace," said the wartime brotherhood of Great Britain, Russia and the United States was an unnatural alliance.

Compete for Markets

"On the one hand, Great Britain and the United State are keen competitors in all the world markets. On the other hand, the ideologies of Great Britain and the United States, as contrasted with that of Russia, have created opposing theories of government, which probably will provide the most formidable barrier to permanent world peace. The solidarity and unity of the Big Three has not been caused by any altruistic feeling on the part of any one of the three nations.

"To my mind, the late President Roosevelt's biggest job was simply to keep the Big Three together during wartime at all costs. It is obvious that he accomplished this, principally by his policy of granting minor concessions to the other two nations while, like an expert juggler, he brought about the postponement of all the political phases of the war. It was vitally necessary that this job be done during wartime and the irony of fate brought about the death of this great artist just as the curtain was closing on the reason for his performance.

Sees Problems Mounting

"The advent of V-E day has brought out all the problems, which, until this time, had been successfully postponed. For one thing, it has been necessary to determine which areas would be policed by which nations. Also, we must now determine how to educate the children of those conquered peoples. Shall we indoctrinate them with the American and British theories of democracy or shall we permit them to be taught to loathe the so-called "capitalist" system as the children of Moscow are taught?

Punishment an Issue

"And what about the punishment of war criminals? Who shall be punished and how shall they be punished? What of the political prisoners and their punishment? Will those Polish exiles imbued with democracy perish in Russian prisons, and what shall be our treatment of German Communists now retained behind Allied lines? It is only natural that the Russians will favor the Communists as we might be expected to favor the believers in democracy. Next, how may we guarantee freedom of the peace to the peoples of the world when one of our Big Three, Russia, recently requested that the Swedish government confiscate a Swedish magazine for choosing to report a rumor uncomplimentary to Dictator Stalin's personal life?

"We know that propaganda will be disseminated by both the Democracies and the Soviets in the portions of conquered Europe now occupied by those powers. We will indoctrinate the conquered peoples with the virtues of democracy while the Russians will expound the advantages of the Soviet state and loudly decry the evils of democracy. In the May 19th issue of Red Star, the official Soviet Army newspaper, an editorial says "The advantage of the Soviet regime over the capitalistic system should be ingrained in the Army as never before." They were quite firm about it. Yet in this country there are those who believe that any government official who might request that our armed forces be told the same thing concerning the Communist set-up, should be shot or imprisoned as a Fascist meddler who is attempting to foster disunity. Once the people in the conquered lands have been sufficiently propagandized, Plebiscites probably will be held to determine the system of government for these people. Tell us who is to indoctrinate those people and we can tell you in advance the result of the plebiscite.

FOOD-RELIEF POST FOR HOOVER SEEN

Former President To Confer With Truman Today

MAY 28 1945

Washington, May 27 (AP)—Senator Thomas (D., Okla.), chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, said today former President Herbert Hoover "merits consideration" for an administrative post in the European food relief program.

Mr. Hoover has accepted an invitation to confer with President Truman tomorrow morning on the problem of feeding the suffering peoples of Europe.

The former Republican Chief Executive was Federal Food Administrator and chairman of the Belgian Relief Commission during the first World War, and after the war was chairman of the Inter-Allied Food Council.

Hoover's Food Record Noted

Senator Thomas said he thought there was a possibility Mr. Hoover might be offered an executive position in the international food setup.

"He made such a satisfactory record handling the food situation during and after the last war that he merits consideration," he said. "I believe the people of the country would approve. They have confidence in Mr. Hoover's ability and honesty in this regard."

Senator Wiley (R., Wis.), who has urged that the Administration make use of Mr. Hoover's services, hailed the White House announcement of the conference as "a splendid nonpartisan gesture."

"I trust and believe that he (the President) will follow through on it," Wiley said. "May it signalize a new era of co-operation between America's two great political parties."

FATS AND OILS LACK PROBED

House Food Group Turns Attention To Shortages

MAY 28 1945

Washington, May 27 (AP)—The House Food Investigating Committee headed by Representative Clinton Anderson (D., N.M.), who is to become Secretary of Agriculture in July, has turned its attention to shortages of edible and industrial fats and oils.

Committee investigators have been sent to the War Food Administration and other food agencies for information about these commodities. World (other than Japanese-controlled areas in the Pacific) and domestic supplies of animal and vegetable fats and oils have been dwindling rapidly.

Food officials have said it is possible that the fats and oil shortages may become much more acute than the meat shortage. They explain that it is easier for consumers to get along on short supplies of meats than of fats.

Fats Needed For Diet

Besides providing energy, fats are necessary to make a cereal and vegetable diet palatable. A certain amount of fat is required in making breads and in other cookery. Since Europe may be reduced to a predominately cereal-vegetable diet this winter, it will require considerable fats and vegetable oils.

With important vegetable oil producing areas of the Pacific likely to remain closed to the United Nations for many months. Europe must lean heavily on the United States, itself a net importer in normal times.

The domestic situation has been greatly aggravated by a sharp reduction this year in slaughter of hogs, a source of lard. Late reports from farming areas indicate that the supply of hogs available for slaughter next fall and winter may fall considerably short of Government hopes.

Vegetable Oil Crops Down

At present, production prospects for vegetable-oil crops—soybeans, cottonseed, peanuts and flaxseed—are not bright because of unfavorable weather and soil conditions during the current planting season.

The shortage of fats and oils has been reflected in recent Government actions raising ration-point values of margarine, lard, shortening and salad oils, and in new reductions in manufacturers' supplies for making margarine and such household and industrial products as soaps, paints, varnishes, linoleum and oilcloth.

Supplies of fats available for soap making are somewhat similar to those prevailing in 1943, when the Government seriously considered rationing soap. There is no indication, however, that rationing is being considered now.

30.24-27051

SMALL TRADE AID PLANNED

Wallace Calls Program Magna Carta For Group

Washington, May 27 (AP)—Henry A. Wallace, Secretary of Commerce, tonight made public what he termed a "magna carta for the small business man," a report of his small business advisory committee.

Wallace said he considered the report, carrying recommendations on taxation, management aid and finance, "an action program which the Department of Commerce will put into effect to the utmost extent that our finances permit."

Tax Recommendations

The tax recommendations follow closely the program suggested two weeks ago by a joint Senate and House committee and concurred in by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau. They propose, among other changes, increase of the excess profits exemption from $10,000 to $25,000 effective next January 1, and repeal of the excess profits tax in the year following the end of the war with Japan.

"Considering the problems faced by small business," said the report, "it is believed that business taxes rest with disproportionate weight in this segment of the business population, and it is urged that steps be taken to effect a reduction."

Small Business Study Urged

The report urged that studies be made of various small businesses throughout the country, and that booklets be prepared to advise the potential operators of new small businesses of the pitfalls of their particular fields. The booklets would advise on basic factors, such as the selection of the site, judgment of existing trade in various areas, amount of competition, and amount of investment which would be needed.

"There is need for guidance in timing the establishment of a new business," the report said.

"It is well known that capable men have failed in business because they started at the wrong time."

Long-Term Loans

Government guarantee of long-term loans to finance small business enterprises was recommended by the report, which asserted that "equity finance often is excessively costly and hard to get."

It was suggested that commercial banks and other local financing agencies which would originate the long-term loans should be required to participate to the extent of at least ten per cent.

Committee members who participate in the report were Chairman Ivan Allen, of Atlanta; Vice Chairman Walter Ringer, of Minneapolis; Vincent L. Browner, of Des Moines; Ernest G. Draper, of Washington; W. E. Harber, of Shawnee, Okla.; Lou E. Holland, of Kansas City; E. H. Lane, of Altavista, Va.; Stacy May, of New York, and John R. Pinkett, of Washington.

Recommendations Made

To accomplish a continuing program to insure small business a "proper position in the economy," the committee recommended:

1. A planning staff in the Commerce Department at the policy level to receive and consider the basic problems of small business from time to time—their ability to compete with large business and their position in the economy.

2. An active program of study and the production of educational booklets, guides and manuals. This educational activity should be followed through by an adequate application program by means of personal contact and publicity through the various field offices of the department.

The committee expressed belief that the Commerce Department "is the proper agency to interpret the small business problem to the Government, to recommend a course of action and to execute the program," but it doubted that the department's facilities "are adequate to cover the many phases of a desirable program."

Facilities Lacking

"It is difficult for us to believe," the committee said, "that the Department of Commerce can adequately service over 2,000,000 small business proprietors from 26 offices with a field staff of 85 people."

The committee concluded that the present corporate tax structure imposes burdens which "restrict expansion of production and employment, discourage the opening and development of new and small businesses," and "affect adversely the competitive position of small as compared to large business."

"Unless modified," the report said, "it will impose serious burdens on all business. . . . In addition to some relief from heavy taxes, steps should be taken to make immediately available certain funds which under the current tax provisions eventually will be turned over to business concerns."

Concerns Management

On the management side, the committee recommended preparation of a large number of specialized studies and reports "of direct and immediate aid to small business." Larger organizations have the facilities for investigating, studying and solving their own management problems, the report said, but "smaller operators must look elsewhere for aid."

The committee suggested that the reports "should be short, easy to read, filled with illustrations and marginal cartoons; that color should be used and that the entire story should be tied up in an attractive package, which will encourage busy men to open it and read."

Finance And Credit

In the finance and credit field, the committee suggested that a new type of Government-guaranteed loan should be developed for the long-term financing of small business, with flexibility in amortization a necessary provision.

"The interest rate charged should be as low as is consistent with economic operations," the report said. "Loans for at least ten or fifteen years should be contemplated.

"Collateral for the proposed term loans should be such as to leave receivables, inventories and other current assets unencumbered, so that a basis is left for obtaining seasonal short-term credit."

TRUMAN PLAN FACING FIGHT

Bill Introduced To Exempt 22 Agencies From Change

Washington, May 27 (AP)—President Truman's bid for reorganization powers over Government executive agencies has run into early congressional snags.

A bill specifically exempting 22 agencies from change and otherwise whittling down the authority asked by the President was introduced yesterday by Representative Manasco (D., Ala.), chairman of the House Expenditures Committee to which Mr. Truman's message of last Thursday was assigned.

"The President should have the right to reassign some agencies when he sees a need for it," Manasco told a reporter, "but I don't believe an all-inclusive act can get through this Congress."

President Truman's message asked for legislation making permanent the provisions of the Emergency War Powers Act which empowers him to transfer, reassign or abolish any executive agency. The war powers expire six months after peace comes.

"No agency of the executive branch should be exempt from the scope of the legislation," the message said. It also proposed that the President's reorganization recommendations become law unless disapproved by a majority of both the House and Senate.

But the Manasco bill, in addition to exempting the 22 agencies, provides that any reorganization proposal can be stopped by a majority vote of either house.

It is patterned closely after the reorganization authority granted President Roosevelt in 1939.

Among other agencies, it exempts from change the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, which Congress took out of the Department of Commerce before Henry A. Wallace was confirmed as secretary.

It removes the 1939 exemption granted the National Labor Relations Board in evident preparation for executive consolidation of NLRB and other independent labor agencies with the Labor Department.

Other Exemptions Listed

Other exemptions in the Manasco bill are the Civil Service Commisson, Coast Guard, Army Engineer Corps, Mississippi River Commission, Federal Communications Commission, Federal Power Commission, Federal Trade Commission, General Accounting Office, Interstate Commerce Commission, Tax Court, Securities and Exchange Commission, Board of Tax Appeals, Employment Compensation Commission, Maritime Commission, Tariff Commission, Veterans Administration, Mediation Board, Railroad Retirement Board, Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation and Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System.

Despite the President's plea of urgency, the expenditures committee showed no disposition to hurry with reorganization legislation. Manasco said hearings probably will start in two or three weeks, indicating that it may be late summer before the bill reaches the floor.

TRADE AGREEMENT FIGHT EXPECTED ON SENATE FLOOR

WASHINGTON, May 27—(AP) Senator George (D-Ga.) today predicted a "tough fight" in the Senate over the reciprocal trade agreements bill with the opposition centered on the provision allowing a 50 per cent cut in present tariffs.

As chairman of the Finance committee, George will lead the fight for the administration measure. He announced the committee will begin hearings Wednesday and said he hoped to complete them within a week and get the bill to the floor.

"We'll be hampered because so many senators are absent," George added.

Several are in Europe, others in San Francisco for the United Nations conference, and a group is preparing to go to the Philippines.

In addition to the new tariff cutting authority the legislation, passed by the House yesterday after a hard battle, would extend for three years the President's power to make reciprocal trade agreements. The present trade agreements act allows cuts up to 50 per cent in the tariffs set by the Hawley-Smoot act of 1930, the last Republican tariff law. Numerous levies already have been cut the allowed limit in existing agreements, so that authorization for another 50 per cent cut would mean an accumulated reduction of 75 per cent in many of the Hawley-Smoot rates.

House Democrats made the legislation largely a partisan issue as they pushed the measure through late yesterday without amendment.

Senate Democrats lack an equivalent working margin of party superiority, however, and some Democrats are cool to the legislation.

UNIONS WATCH CUTBACK TIME

Labor Sees This As Test For Shift To Peacetime Jobs

Washington, May 27 (AP)—Current cutbacks in airplane production, probably to be followed soon by sharp curtailment of tank output, promised the initial tests of Government preparation for labor's shift from war to peacetime conditions.

This is the period about which labor and other groups planning for the future have warned—when war-fattened pay envelopes begin to lose weight.

Approaching months are the critical ones, say the labor unions, contending that the whole program for providing 60,000,000 jobs when the fighting is finished hinges on the success of reconversion just ahead.

Many Women Affected

Thousands of workers, including a great percentage of women, who have been turning out the bombers, fighters and cargo ships needed to fight a two-front war are going to find pink slips in their pay envelopes.

This won't be a hardship for those who planned only to work until the war jobs were done, but even the loss of their earnings will mean a shrinking of national income.

Labor Urges Two Objectives

Labor groups have sought to persuade the Government to follow two main objectives:

1. Increase basic wage rates, so that loss of overtime won't mean too much cut in pay to those in jobs. This involves junking the Little Steel wage formula which has been the base of the Government's wartime wage-stabilization policy.

2. Keep the war plants running on civilian production, with a minimum loss of employment and as little wrench to the community's pay roll as possible.

In connection with the first point, Philip Murray, CIO president, last Tuesday conferred with President Truman, appealing for an immediate twenty-per-cent increase in pay rates.

Murray and other top labor leaders have been pleading for a break in the Little Steel formula, saying that living costs during the war soared as high as 45 per cent above January, 1941, levels, while the formula allows only fifteen per cent higher pay.

But the reduction in the work week from 48 to 40 hours, expected to become general as reconversion sets in within one industry after another, will mean actual cuts in earnings. Murray based the urgency of his appeal on this immediate consideration.

Unquestionably the pressure will be built higher with the aircraft cutbacks an accomplished fact on which to base argument.

William Green, AFL president, foe of the fifteen-per-cent formula for two years, has made similar representations.

William Green's Proposals

Green's reconversion proposals, made recently to the advisory board of Fred M. Vinson, War Mobilization Director, included three major points:

1. To give necessities first place in early production, and safeguard their price and quality.

2. To direct civilian production into areas threatened with distress brought on by cutbacks.

3. To give prior aid to those production and distribution enterprises which will contribute most to restoration of balanced, full production and employment throughout the entire economy.

Kingpin in the move is to keep aviation and tank workers employed in the automobile industry. The WPB recently gave top priority to automobile manufacturers for an $85,000,000 plant-construction and tooling program.

Idleness Foreseen In Detroit

R. J. Thomas, head of the CIO auto workers, largest union in the nation and one whose membership most observers feel will shrink most in the reconversion period, told President Truman last week that the Detroit area alone would have an army of 400,000 unemployed by January 1.

As one means of forestalling this prospect, Thomas is trying to keep Ford's enormous Willow Run bomber plant running.

Thomas is conferring this week with Henry J. Kaiser, whose post-war plans are said to include high-mileage automobiles as well as prefabricated houses and other products.

Margaret Truman's Interest Seen In Music, Not Romance

Washington, May 27 (AP)—Talk of romance is subordinated to the music career to which Margaret Truman will devote much of her summer.

The 21-year-old daughter of President and Mrs. Truman will leave this week for her Missouri home and continue her voice lessons.

Those looking for signs that she will be the next White House bride have received little encouragement. Both Margaret and her mother let it be known such talk is premature.

World Makes Its Guesses

At a tea given by the Women's National Press Club Margaret commented that her love life would be quite simple if the world would not link her name seriously with every young man who escorts her for an evening.

At the same time Mrs. Truman was saying, in reply to questions, that Margaret appeared in earnest about her desire for a career in music. She brushed aside as inconsequential suggestions that her daughter may have centered romantic interest in a particular young man.

Voice Lessons In Kansas City

Miss Truman will take at least two voice lessons weekly this summer from a Kansas City (Mo.) teacher with whom she has been studying.

Last summer Margaret sang with the Denver Opera Company, leaving only to go to Chicago for the Democratic National Convention, where she saw her father nominated for Vice President.

Now, though projected into public attention, she hopes she may be permitted to pursue a career or to find romance as would any other American girl.

SMALLER PLANTS WIN AID ON RECONVERSION

WASHINGTON, May 27 — (AP) The Smaller War Plants Corporation has liberalized its policies to facilitate loans to small manufacturers making essential civilian products, Chairman Maury Maverick announced today.

Maverick estimated that less than three per cent of SWPC's $350,000,000 in loans have been for essential civilian production, with the remainder for war production.

Under the new policies the corporation's regional agents may make loans for war or essential civilian production up to $50,000 without awaiting Washington approval. They also may make loans up to $100,000 when banks participate to the extent of 20 per cent.

All products on the relative essentiality list of the Office of Civilian Requirements of the War Production board, and those on WPB's national production urgency list will be considered essential, Maverick said.

WPB HEAD FAVORS LEAD BY BUSINESS ON RECONVERSION

MAY 28 1945

Krug Promises Management, Not Government, Will Guide Change-over.

HITS REGULATION

'Strong Economy' Can Be Built on Pent-Up Demand for Goods, He Says.

WASHINGTON, May 27 — (AP) The War Production board promised today to let business management, rather than government management, guide American industry toward reconversion.

Chairman J. A. Krug, in an unusual policy statement addressed to the full board, declared its WPB's duty to "get rid of regulations and production limitations as quickly as possible and by doing so automatically lift the ceiling on initiative, imagination and resourcefulness."

Krug declared the main objective will continue unchanged — to see that munitions schedules are met. Some unemployment and business distress are inevitable in the shift from military to peacetime production, he said, but WPB "must not be stampeded by such dislocations into elaborate controls or special dispensations."

"The danger confronting us, as I see it, is that we will overlook the natural resilience of the economy—the capacity of manufacturers, wholesalers, and retailers to re-adapt themselves to changed conditions and hence quickly to utilize the resources released from munitions production.

Hits Regulation

"If we were to attempt in Washington to see that every manufacturer, wholesaler or retailer got his exact share of relaxed manpower and materials, we would be lost in a myriad of rules and regulations.

"We would get in the way of reconversion, rather than speed it."

The production chairman discounted the perils of reconversion. All but 6,600,000 of the country's 51,200,000 civilian workers hold jobs which will not be directly hurt by armament reductions, he estimated, mentioning agriculture, railroading, steel and retail trade as typical.

Cites Pent-Up Demand

A pent-up demand of staggering size for civilian goods, both here and overseas, is a "foundation on which America can build a strong transitional economy," he continued, "in which decreases in war output will be offset by increases in the production of civilian goods and services."

In addition, many industries will not have to reconvert but will simply change customers, from military to civilian. He listed the steel, automobile and textile industries in this category

"In terms of ultimate civilian employment, these industries bulk much larger than such special problem-industries as aircraft and shipbuilding," he said.

More Controls to Go

Krug reviewed steps already taken to get out of industry's way and "provide opportunities for returning soldiers and discharged workers after the defeat of Japan." Already 156 controls on manufacturing have been dropped and 83 more will go in the next six weeks, he said.

Pressure may be expected from chambers of commerce, labor and businessmen for special protection from local unemployment when war plants lose their contracts, he said, but WPB should not attempt to prolong its wartime controls as a means of giving relief from temporary and localized hardship.

"We must prepare t meet such emergencies when they are real; but we must also be prepared to resist the pressures when they would only delay necessary readjustments," Krug continued.

Asserting "war production is still our first job," Krug said "we must not remove controls until it is clear that war production will not be adversely affected. When we remove controls, we cannot promise that they are off for the duration."

Text of the Krug Report on Needs and Methods of Reconversion

MAY 28 1945

SPECIAL TO THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WASHINGTON, May 27—Following is the text of the report on econversion made to the War Production Board by J. A. Krug, its chairman:

The Immediate Problem

The United States is on the threshold of partial reconversion. Whereas, up to now, almost 50 per cent of our industrial energies have gone to produce planes, ships, guns, ammunition and combat vehicles for a two-front war, it now appears that we will be able to use an increasing volume of our resources for the satisfaction of consumer demands.

Army and Navy war production schedules are currently being lowered and contracts terminated. Such a major withdrawal of Goverment purchases from the market poses a major problem. The Third Annual Report of the Senate Committee Investigating the National Defense Program put it in these words:

"If the home economy is permitted to weaken and lose the resiliency necessary for quick and successful conversion to peacetime occupations, it will not be able to provide employment for soldiers and war workers when they are released from their present tasks. Should unemployment and business depression gain headway before the major task of readjustment has even begun, the difficulties of re-employment will be much greater."

Production for the War Against Japan

The United States has come a long way since President Roosevelt, in May, 1940, said: "I should like to see this nation geared to at least 50,000 planes a year. Furthermore, I believe that this nation should plan a program which will provide us with 50,000 military and naval planes." Today we are producing at the rate of 80,000 planes—and the aircraft of 1945 are heavier, better armored and better armed than any then conceived.

Our production of munitions has risen from less than $500,000,000 a month at the beginning of 1941 to nearly $5,000,000,000 a month today, and the goals which staggered the industrial imagination four years ago are comparatively easy by present-day standards. Most of our critical war production problems have been licked. The country—in every sense of the word—has proved itself the Arsenal of Democracy.

Victory in Europe has relieved many of our specific production problems. Because of this there is some tendency on the part of many persons to take one-front war production as a matter of course. The War Production Board does not—cannot afford—to take that view. By the standards of any other nation in the world, the United States munitions program to carry on the war against Japan would be impossible. Even by American standards it will require a big proportion of our total resources of manpower, machinery and materials.

During the eight months after VE-day, munitions production, according to the present official military programs, will run at an annual rate of $54,000,000,000, or:

Two-thirds again as much as 1942;

Almost equal to the rate of 1943;

Better than nine-tenths the rate in the peak of 1944;

An equivalent to about 90 per cent of the total value of manufactured goods in our best prewar year, 1937.

It is only when compared with recent standards of production that the job may seem easy.

Therefore, to assure military production for the war against Japan, the War Production Board will continue to give top priority to military programs. This means that when manufacturers have war contracts they must fill them on schedule, that they cannot divert energies from war work to civilian operations. It also means that direct military and war-supporting programs will have first claim on materials, and expansion of civilian production will use only residual quantities not required for essential war needs.

Specific Problem

There is a basic difference between the task of 1942 and 1943 and the task of 1945 and 1946. Then we were mobilizing for war. We had to build new plants and expand old ones, find contractors to take war work, develop new forms of contracts, draw 7,000,000 extra youths, women and older men into employment, pass and administer a selective service law, train workers for new jobs, develop management and labor know-how on munitions production.

Today, however, our war program has matured. In the midst of a major war and a major war effort, the United States is able to undertake a partial demobilization. We are able to release some manpower, machinery and materials for the expansion of peacetime output. As the cutbacks increase, some areas are bound to experience unemployment. In that event, local chambers of commerce, union leaders and business men may urge the Government to take special measures, such as providing a public works program, or putting in war contracts to tide over the slump, or making special releases of materials for civilian production.

In many areas, time will solve such dislocations—as peacetime industries start up and hire workers; but in some areas, special measures taken to maintain employment would merely postpone the eventual day of reckoning—as for instance a war-boom town which is greatly expanded because of a particular war plant with little or no post-war future. We must prepare to meet such emergencies when they are real; but we must also be prepared to resist the pressures when they would only delay necessary readjustments.

Reconversion Plans Well Advanced

The United States is much better prepared for reconversion in the middle of this war than at the end of the last one. Armistice Day 1918 came suddenly. No detailed methods or procedures had been developed for settling contracts or financing contractors pending settlements, or for clearing plants. But this time Government agencies have already established such procedures so that resumption of civilian production can proceed quickly.

Further, the War Production Board, with the Army, Navy, Maritime Commission, War Manpower Commission and other agencies, has developed policies and procedures for handling cutbacks. Under these procedures, proposed cutbacks of the Army or Navy are examined by all agencies, to determine how best to distribute the cutbacks—in relation to individual industries or plants, in relation to employment in affected areas or localities, and in relation to employment as a whole.

Principles to be followed in making cutbacks were set forth by the Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion in January and have been incorporated in Directive 40 as amended May 12, 1945. The aim is to free civilian capacity as promptly and as fully as is consistent with carrying on the struggle against Japan, and to distribute the remaining war load over the country as equitably as possible.

Although we have machinery for handling these problems in the large, the impression must not be created that all local or particular problems of the transition period will be solved or that the machinery exists for their absolute solution. There is no central machinery which can be devised to handle smoothly dislocations of varying degrees of severity. WPB cannot undertake to resolve these problems in detail. All it can do is to release industry from wartime restrictions as rapidly as possible. From then on industry must take the initiative in the task of reconversion and re-employment.

Reconversion Process

The very process of reconversion will help toward re-employing released workers. This is not always appreciated. As soon as munitions contracts are cut back in volume, a large portion of the American people will be going back to what they have always done.

Manufacturers will start clearing their plants of Government supplies and equipment, sending out orders to suppliers, setting up tools, dies and fixtures, and arranging assembly lines for peacetime production. This work will go forward at the same time that they are completing the job of terminating contracts. These problems are anything but strange. Manufacturers have closed contracts, cleared plants and rearranged production and assembly lines before.

Some of the preliminary steps have already been taken. Manufacturers have been placing orders in anticipation of the day when some capacity will be free. In the case of machine tools, which take a long time to build, the War Production Board has cleared the way for placing orders with tool makers who have manpower and facilities not required for war work. This will be of particular service to the automobile and other durable consumers' goods industries.

Some Industries Unchanged

Many industries, moreover, will not have to reconvert. Employment will go on as usual. Steel mills will continue to roll steel, but to specifications of passenger-car manufacturers as well as military specifications. Manufacturers of bearings, bolts, nuts, nails and hand tools will continue as before. Their products are integral parts of any industrialized economy, be it a wartime or a peacetime economy.

Some companies which are right in the heart of munitions manufacturing have kept on during the war with their regular production. For example, 77 per cent of the shipments of tractor manufacturers and tractor production is now over twice the high 1937 level; but many tractors are going to the Army and Navy and not to farmers and loggers. Even the automobile industry, which has achieved miracles in producing tanks, planes and guns, has kept its "hands in." About 36 per cent of its shipments are "motor vehicles or parts."

Similarly, 65 per cent of the products shipped by textile machinery manufacturers are prewar types, and this 65 per cent is more than the high 1937 output. Industry generally has been able to keep in practice—either because the Army or Navy needed civilian-type items (such as trucks, electric turbines, railroad equipment, laundry machinery and refrigeration) or because the products were needed for the maintenance of the civilian economy. In terms of ultimate civilian employment, these industries bulk much larger than such special problem industries as aircraft and shipbuilding.

Many Can Stay on Jobs

In many cases, workers will reconvert without even shifting jobs. When a company now making aircraft subassemblies is able to resume manufacture of refrigerators, it will probably use the same plant, superintendents, foremen and workers. The point is that an overwhelming proportion of our people will go on doing much the same things in much the same ways, even when they are making new products.

Out of 51,200,000 civilian workers, 44,600,000 are in agriculture, railroading, steel, retail trade and other jobs which will continue regardless of munitions schedules, as the following table indicates:

Jobs Not Directly Affected by Cutbacks

The WPB Program

The WPB program is an effort to take full advantage of the natural forces working toward reconversion and re-employment. However, we must not forget: war is an unpredictable business. We have seen the demands for war procurement rise to unheard-of figures, drop off suddenly and rise again.

We must make our plans on the best estimates and forecasts available. These now indicate only moderate reductions from current levels in our military production. We anticipate, however, additional cutbacks in the next few months and consequently a big expansion in civilian production.

We hope this forecast will materialize and that reconversion will be even quicker than estimated; yet, development of new weapons by our enemies, or by ourselves or the changing strategy of war may suddenly place new burdens on war production and may force us to cut down once more on production of peacetime goods.

Although the war will still be the country's main job, we must do everything possible to provide job opportunities for returning soldiers and discharged war workers after the defeat of Japan. Toward that end, it is necessary to get rid of regulations and production limitations as quickly as possible. They automatically put ceilings on initiative, imagination, and resourcefulness—the very qualities the country will need most if we are to have a resilient and rapidly expanding economy after the defeat of Japan.

Steps to Provide Employment

Toward that objective WPB has already taken action to:

(1) "Open-end" the Controlled Materials Plan, effective July 1, to permit the sale of steel, copper and aluminum without restriction, provided there is no interference with authorized CMP orders.

(2) Revoke or amend as many of its L and M orders as the current release of materials from munitions production will permit.

(3) Continue the Spot Authorization Plan for manufacturers seeking larger production than permitted under the remaining orders limiting metal goods output.

(4) Grant assistance to small manufacturers, including veterans and new enterprises, to get their fair share of production materials.

(5) Permit the free movement of surplus steel, copper and aluminum to unrestricted uses.

(6) Project the removal of distribution controls after the third quarter of 1945, except where clearly necessary to prevent genuine and widespread hardship, irreparable damage, or failure to meet such needs as public health and safety.

(7) Amend inventory controls to permit filling of pipelines and cushion the shock of contract terminations and cutbacks.

(8) Effect a progressive relaxation of the construction control order, L-41, as resources become available.

(9) Assist industry to prepare for civilian production by giving priorities for the acquisition of bottleneck machine tools and equipment, and permitting the construction required to start production at minimum economic rates.

Out of a total of 650 orders and schedules in effect April 1, 1945, 156 have already been revoked. An additional eighty-three are expected to be revoked in the next six weeks. And more will be added as the materials situation is eased by further cutbacks in military programs.

In this way, the choice of what and how to produce, buy and sell, after positive assistance to the military and essential war-supplying activities, will be left to the decisions of the thousands of manufacturers, wholesalers, retailers, farmers and ultimate consumers rather than to Government agencies and officials.

This program, I believe, will be particularly helpful to small business. It eliminates many forms and applications, which are always a greater nuisance to the small company than the large company. Small manufacturers invariably put "paper work" high on the list of their troubles. Also, by cutting out L and M orders as the war situation permits, we will provide opportunities for the smaller companies (which do not have to go through a long tooling-up process) to get started promptly.

Expansion Potentials

By and large, the manpower, materials and facilities released from munitions production will offer substantial opportunities for reconversion and re-employment. To take advantage of those opportunities, however, will require maximum initiative and ingenuity on the part of manufacturers and Government.

Today the production of durable goods for the civilian economy amounts to about $7,000,000,000 per year. Even in the face of a high level of munitions output, the potential a year from now (if present estimates for the one-front war hold good) is $16,700,000,000 or more than double current production and about 30 per cent more than the 1939 level.

Expansion will not be confined to durable goods for civilians. If workers are released from munitions plants at the rate now expected, the service trades will also expand. Transportation, public utilities, retail trade and service activities have had difficulty maintaining adequate working forces. They will hire workers; so will non-durable goods manufacturers, such as textile mills; so, too, will the construction industry.

There is no question that the demand for civilian goods of all types will be large. Statistics indicate that in 1944, if goods had been available, people would have spent close to $120,000,000,000; they actually spent only $98,000,000,000. In 1943 and 1942 consumers similarly were unable to use their incomes as they normally would have.

There is a backlog of industrial plant expansion and renovation. At the same time it is anticipated that foreign countries will be in the market for United States goods of all kinds—food, clothes, industrial equipment, raw materials.

This pent-up demand is a foundation on which the country can build a strong transitional economy in which decreases in war output will be offset by increases in the production of civilian-type goods and services.

Basic Danger

The danger confronting us, as I see it, is that we will overlook the natural resilience of the economy—the capacity of manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers to readapt themselves to changed conditions and hence quickly to utilize the resources released from munitions production. If we were to attempt in Washington to see that every manufacturer, wholesaler or retailer got his exact share of released manpower or materials, we should be lost in a myriad of rules and regulations. We should get in the way of reconversion rather than speed it.

During the past four years the War Production Board and its predecessors have been engaged in administering the control of materials and facilities under one permanent guiding criterion: whether the particular use of a material or a facility would best contribute to the prosecution of the war.

Even with such a clear-cut, unequivocal criterion, the difficulties of administration were imposing. It was often difficult to determine whether the use of a material or a component made a greater contribution to the war effort in one program or in another program; valves for destroyer escorts, for synthetic rubber and for high-octane gasoline are a case in point.

How much greater would be the administrative task if, when this criterion is no longer applicable, the Government were to undertake to determine:

Whether materials and facilities should be used in one relatively non-essential civilian industry rather than another non-essential civilian industry, or in one community rather than another;

Whether one competitor should be permitted to resume civilian production rather than another;

To what extent newcomers should be allowed into an industry, and to what extent the production quotas of existing companies should therefore be reduced;

Whether a particular allocation of materials would contribute to greater re-employment than some other allocation;

Or whether a particular allocation would contribute to greater stabilization of the price structure than some other allocation.

War Schedules to Be Met

In the period ahead, WPB's main objective will continue unchanged: to see that the munitions schedules are met. It is for this purpose that WPB's controls over materials and facilities were designed. This objective is attainable.

Desirable though it may be to attempt to prevent temporary economic dislocations, the experience of those who have lived with these controls during the war clearly dictates that the controls are not suited to that job. Moreover, reason and history indicate that in any readjustment from a war to a peacetime economy, temporary dislocations are inevitable.

We must not be stampeded by such dislocations into elaborate controls or special dispensations. Our economy is a jigsaw pattern of interlocking buyers and sellers, producers and consumers. The pieces of the jigsaw will move into place best if we give people scope and leeway—with a minimum of rules, regulations and production controls.

Finally, let me repeat, war production is still our first job. We must not remove controls until it is clear that war production will not be adversely affected. When we remove controls, we cannot promise that they are off for the duration.

Further, in removing controls, we must guard against any effort to retain them for purposes for which they were not intended. Compliance with the controls exercised by the War Production Board is dependent entirely upon the public acceptance of the fact that only those controls necessary to the prosecution of the war are being imposed.

attleborough, england, may 27 --(ap)-- the people of attleboro, mass., played a big part in the party given in this norfolk county town over the weekend for more than 70 [redacted] london evacuees, mostly children, before they returned to the british capital, stars and stripes, army publication, reported today.

the relationship between these american and british towns of similar name began in 1941 when british sailors who docked at attleboro told the bay staters of the plight of children evacuated from blitzed london to quiet attleborough.

attleboro raised a fund of several thousand dollars to help attleborough's wartime wards. miss kate gaymer, women's volunteer service director for clothing for bombed-out children, termed the massachusetts town's help "a magnificent gesture of sympathy."

three soldiers from attleboro attended the party and passed out new testaments? testaments -- another gift from the american community.

PARIS, MAY 27-(AP)-THE FRENCH GOVERNMENT, EXPRESSING SURPRISE AT THE IMPORTANCE PLACED ON THE SITUATION IN SYRIA AND LEBANON BY NEWS REPORTS, ASSERTED OFFICIALLY TONIGHT THAT THE TWO ARAB NATIONS WERE USING ROUTINE FRENCH TROOPS MOVEMENTS AS A PRETEXT FOR BREAKING OFF NEGOTIATIONS WITH FRANCE.

A STATEMENT ISSUED THROUGH THE MINISTRY OF INFORMATION SAID SENGALESE TROOPS ARRIVING IN SYRIA WERE NOT REINFORCEMENTS TO THE FRENCH GARRISONS ALREADY THERE BUT MERELY WERE REPLACEMENTS FOR TROOPS WHICH HAD BEEN THERE A LONG TIME.

THE STATEMENT SAID THAT PROOF OF FRANCE'S GOOD WILL TOWARDS SYRIA AND LEBANON WAS EVIDENT IN HER NEGOTIATIONS WITH THE UNITED NATIONS TO ENABLE THE TWO ARABIC NATIONS TO SEND DELEGATES TO THE SAN FRANCISCO CONFERENCE.

PARIS, MAY 27-(AP)-SUPREME HEADQUARTERS SAID TODAY ITS BAN ON PICTURING OR INTERVIEWING NAZI OFFICIALS AND OTHER DETAINED GERMANS WAS ORDERED SO THAT PREPARATION OF POSSIBLE WAR CRIMINAL CASES AGAINST THE MEN MIGHT NOT BE PREJUDICED.

THE SHAEF ANNOUNCEMENT WAS A REPLY TO CORRESPONDENTS' INQUIRIES FOR COMMENT ON A NEW YORK TIMES STORY THAT NEW CENSORSHIP RESTRICTIONS WERE HAMPERING CORRESPONDENTS IN THE U.S. SEVENTH ARMY AREA.

"THIS PROCEDURE IS ESSENTIAL IN ORDER THAT THE PREPARATION OF CASES AGAINST WAR CRIMINALS OR WAR CRIMINAL SUSPECTS MAY NOT BE PREJUDICED," SHAEF SAID.

SHAEF WOULD NOT ELABORATE ON HOW PHOTOGRAPHS OR INTERVIEWS WOULD HAMPER THE PREPARATION FOR TRIAL OF WAR CRIMINALS, AND SAID IT WOULD GIVE NO FURTHER INFORMATION ON THE SUBJECT.

RAYMOND DANIELL, OF THE TIMES, WRITING FROM THE SEVENTH ARMY AREA IN BAVARIA, ASSERTED THE NEW RESTRICTIONS WERE DEPRIVING THE AMERICAN PEOPLE OF INFORMATION TO WHICH THEY WERE ENTITLED, "ESPECIALLY IN CONNECTION WITH THE ARRESTS OF HIGH GERMAN ARMY OFFICERS, WAR CRIMINALS AND PARTY OFFICIALS."

THE WRITTEN ANNOUNCEMENT BY SHAEF SAID INTERVIEWS WERE BANNED, AND THIS WAS AMPLIFIED ORALLY LATER TO INCLUDE PHOTOGRAPHS.

DANIELL'S DISPATCH SAID THE 101ST AIRBORNE DIVISION HAD BARRED ALL PHOTOGRAPHERS FROM BERCHTESTGADEN BECAUSE OF PUBLICATION OF A PICTURE OF BRIG. GEN. GERALD J. HIGGINS AND FIELD MARSHAL KESSELRING TALKING THINGS OVER WITH A BOTTLE OF WINE AND TWO GLASSES BETWEEN THEM.

UNTIL CHALLENGED BY CORRESPONDENTS A FEW DAYS AGO, THE SUPREME COMMAND THREW GUARDS AROUND KING LEOPOLD OF THE BELGIANS, AND REFUSED TO PERMIT CORRESPONDENTS TO SEE HIM. THE BAN WAS IMPOSED AT THE REQUEST OF THE BELGIAN GOVERNMENT.

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS LIFTED THAT BAN WHEN THE CORRESPONDENTS PROTESTED, AND SAID CORRESPONDENTS COULD ASK THE KING'S AIDE FOR AN AUDIENCE. NOTHING FURTHER HAS DEVELOPED SINCE THEN.

ONLY FOUR GRADES WILL BE RESUMED NEXT WEEK BUT PLANS ARE BEING WORKED OUT TO ADD EIGHT GRADES LATER. AACHEN SCHOOLS WERE CLOSED MORE THAN A YEAR AGO BECAUSE OF ALLIED AIR RAIDS.

CAPT. EDMUND J. GANNON, A MEMBER OF THE BOARD OF EXAMINERS OF THE NEW YORK CITY SCHOOL SYSTEM AND EDUCATION OFFICER FOR THE 15TH ARMY, SAID ALL TRACES OF NAZI INFLUENCE HAVE BEEN ERASED FROM THE AACHEN SCHOOLS' COURSE OF STUDY.

WITH THE 24TH DIVISION AT DAVAO, MINDANAO, PHILIPPINES, MAY 25-(DELAYED)-(AP)-BETWEEN 15,000 AND 18,000 JAPANESE CIVILIANS WHO MADE AN ORDERLY EVACUATION OF DAVAO UNDER COMMAND OF NIPPONESE ARMY LEADERS HAVE SET UP HOUSEKEEPING IN THE MOUNTAINS WHERE THEY ARE WORKING FOR AND IN MANY CASES FIGHTING FOR THE RISING SUN ARMY.

ONLY ABOUT 30 HAVE SURRENDERED.

THERE HAS BEEN NO MASS SUICIDE NOR HAS ANY SUCH TENDENCY BEEN SEEN.

BEFORE THE WAR, DAVAO'S INDUSTRY, AGRICULTURE AND FINANCE WAS LARGELY CONTROLLED BY JAPANESE CIVILIANS. POLITICALLY THEY WERE SELF CONTAINED--THEY WERE A LITTLE SLICE OF JAPAN TRANSPLANTED TO THE PHILIPPINES.

AMERICAN BOMBERS BEGAN HITTING DAVAO IN SEPTEMBER, 1944. ALMOST IMMEDIATELY, LT. GEN. JIRO HARADA, JAPANESE ARMY COMMANDER OF THE DAVAO AREA, ORDERED THE EVACUATION OF ALL CIVILIANS. ONLY WOMEN, CHILDREN, OLD MEN AND THE SICK WERE LEFT BEHIND.

THE CIVILIANS TOOK ABSOLUTELY EVERYTHING WITH THEM INCLUDING PLUMBING, FLOORING, WALLS AND FURNISHINGS.

IT IS KNOWN THAT SOME CIVILIANS HAVE BEEN INDUCTED INTO THE JAPANESE ARMY SINCE THEN.

AMERICAN OFFICIALS FIND IT NECESSARY TO TREAT ALL JAPANESE AS PRISONERS OF WAR UNTIL THEY CAN BE SCREENED AND SEGREGATED.

THE 24TH DIVISION HAS STARTED A CIVILIAN CONCENTRATION CAMP ON AN ABANDONED JAPANESE PLANATION, ONE OF THE COOLEST AND CLEANEST SPOTS IN THE DAVAO GULF AREA.

THUS FAR CAPT. RICHARD W. CHATHAM, OF (1825 OCEAN DUNES TERRACE) DAYTONA BEACH, FLA., ONLY HAS A HANDFUL IN HIS ESTABLISHMENT. THEY ARE NOT DOWNHEARTED AND THEY HAVE BEEN COOPERATIVE. ONE INTERNEE IS A JAPANESE GIRL, PICKED UP IN A CAVE NEAR DIGOS. SHE SAID THAT SHE WAS SENT TO DAVAO AREA A YEAR AGO TO "SATISFY SOLDIERS." WHEN CAPTURED, SHE ASKED TO BE SHOT AND NOT TORTURED.

CHATHAM IS PREPARING TO CARE FOR UP TO 20,000 BUT WHETHER THE CAMP EVER WILL BE EVEN A QUARTER FULL DEPENDS UPON THE JAPANESE. IN SOME PLACES IN THE PACIFIC THEY HAVE COMMITTED SUICIDE IN LARGE NUMBERS. ON TINIAN THEY SURRENDERED WILLINGLY.

IN CENTRAL LUZON, ELEMENTS OF THE 38TH DIVISION SIGHTED UPWARDS OF 300 JAPANESE. THEY THREW A RING OF MORTARS AROUND THE NIPPONESE, OPENED FIRE AT DAWN AND KILLED 204.

OKINAWA, MAY 16-(DELAYED)-(AP)-TERRORISTIC PATROLS OF JAPANESE SOLDIERS ARE ROAMING THE MOUNTAINS OF NORTHERN OKINAWA TRYING TO INCITE OKINAWANS TO ACTS OF VIOLENCE AGAINST THE AMERICAN MILITARY GOVERNMENT, BEHEADING THEM IF THEY REFUSE.

THESE PATROLS HIDE IN CAVES IN DAYLIGHT AND COME OUT AT NIGHT. AT LEAST 40 OKINAWANS HAVE BEEN BEHEADED. ONE OF THE VICTIMS WAS THE HEAD MAN OF ONE OF THE LARGER TOWNS ON THE ISLAND. IN ANOTHER TOWN TONUJIYE, TEN NIPPONESE SOLDIERS COMMANDED BY A SERGEANT MAJOR BEHEADED 35 NATIVES AND WOUNDED 15 OTHERS, INCLUDING WOMEN AND CHILDREN.

THE PATROL THEN WITHDREW TO THE HILLS TAKING FOUR LEADING VILLAGERS WITH THEM AS HOSTAGES.

THESE TERRORISTIC BANDS HAVE TORTURED AND HUMILIATED THE NATIVES, WARNING THEM TO STAY OUT OF VILLAGES UNLESS THEY ARE PREPARED TO SUFFER THE CONSEQUENCES.

PATROLS OF THE 27TH U.S. INFANTRY DIVISION HAVE CAPTURED SOME OF THESE TERRORISTS AND KILLED AND WOUNDED OTHERS.

IN THE HILLS NEAR TAIRA WHERE AMERICAN TROOPS KILLED TWO NIPPONESE SOLDIERS, A LARGE NUMBER OF OKINAWAN CIVILIANS AND A FEW ARMED JAPANESE SOLDIERS WERE SIGHTED. THE YANKS SAID SOME OF THE OKINAWANS APPEARED TO BE CARRYING WEAPONS.

A MAN WHO CLAIMED HE WAS AN OKINAWAN FARMER WAS CAPTURED AND HELD AFTER A SABER, AN ARMY MAIL CASE AND OTHER MILITARY EQUIPMENT WERE FOUND IN HIS SHACK FROM WHICH ANOTHER MAN, APPARENTLY A JAPANESE, ESCPED UNDER FIRE.

MAY 28 1945

MOST OKINAWANS IN THE AMERICAN-HELD AREA ARE UNDER DIRECT MILITARY GOVERNMENT CONTROL, WHICH IS CARING FOR MORE THAN 139,000 CIVILIANS, BUT SOME NATIVES FLED TO THE HILLS WHEN THE INVASION STARTED. ONLY RECENTLY SOME OF THEM HAVE SHOWN ANY TENDENCY TO RETURN TO THEIR HOMES IN THE VILLAGES.

JAPANESE STRAGGLERS WHO HAVE BEEN CUT OFF FROM THEIR OWN TROOPS NOW IN A DEATH STAND IN SOUTHERN OKINAWA ARE APPARENTLY ATTEMPTING TO ORGANIZE THESE OKINAWANS INTO GUERRILLA BANDS FOR RAIDS BEHIND THE AMERICAN LINES.

MOST OF THESE NATIVES ARE OLD MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN, VIRTUALLY ALL YOUNG MEN WERE FORCED TO JOIN HE JAPANESE FORCES AS HOME GUARDSMEN OR LABORERS.

SEVERAL PREVIOUS RAIDS HAVE COST THE JAPANESE EVEN A GREATER NUMBER OF PLANES, BUT TODAY'S TOTAL IS THE GREATEST HERE BY LAND-BASED AIRCRAFT WITHOUT COORDINATED PATROL BY NAVY CARRIER PLANES.

THE 75 WERE PART OF THE 111 ACCOUNTED FOR LAST NIGHT AND TODAY BY AMERICAN PLANES, SHIPS' GUNS AND SHORE BATTERIES.

VALENTINE'S WINGMAN, 1ST LT.WILLIAM FARRETL, OF GARDENA, CALIF., SHOT DOWN FOUR AND HE AND VALENTINE THEN JOINED FORCES TO DOWN ANOTHER.

THE FIRST CONTACT OCCURRED WHEN FOUR CORSAIRS DESTROYED 12 JAPANESE PLANES OUT OF A FORMATION OF 24. THE ENEMY PILOTS WERE FLYING AT 5,000 FEET AND WERE SURPRISINGLY UNAGGRESSIVE, NOT ATTEMPTING EVASIVE ACTION UNTIL THE LAST MINUTE.

AMERICAN PILOTS SAID THE JAPANESE OBVIOUSLY WERE HEADED FOR OKINAW FOR A BOMBING RAID AND FIGHTER SWEEP. ONE OF THE ENEMY PLANES WAS SEEN TO JETTISON A 500-POUND BOMB AND ANOTHER A 100-POUNDER.

FOUR OTHER CORSAIR PILOTS DESTROYED SEVEN JAPANESE PLANES AND DAMAGED TWO MORE OUT OF A GROUP OF 10. ONE ENEMY BOMBER DROPPED TWO 500-POUND BOMBS WIDE OF ITS TARGET AND WAS ATTEMPTING A SUICIDE RUN ON A SHIP WHEN IT WAS SHOT DOWN.

OKINAWA, MONDAY, MAY 28-(AP)-RAIN-DRENCHED YANKS OF THE SEVENTH DIVISION HELD A HILL SECURING THEIR EAST COAST SALIENT ON OKINAWA TODAY AFTER SCRAMBLING UP THE MUDDY SLOPES ON HANDS AND KNEES TO TAKE THE HEIGHT.

UNDER A DELUGE THAT POURED NEARLY 3 1/2 INCHES OF RAIN ON SOUTHERN OKINAWA FROM FRIDAY MIDNIGHT TO 4 P.M. SATURDAY, THE SIXTH MARINE DIVISION ON THE WEST COAST BEAT OFF A JAPANESE COUNTERATTACK.

THE RAINS CAME AT A TIME WHEN THE ENEMY'S FIERCELY DEFENDED NAH-YONABARU LINE ACROSS OKINAWA HAD BEEN TURNED AT BOTH FLANKS, IMPERILLING FORTRESS SHURI IN THE CENTER FROM THE REAR.

THEY SET IN SHORTLY AFTER MAJ. GEN. ROY GEIGER, COMMANDER OF THE THIRD AMPHIBIOUS MARINE CORPS ON THE AMERICAN RIGHT FLANK, HAD COMMENTED:

"IF THE WEATHER DOESN'T IMPEDE US, I THINK WE WILL BREAK THE JAP RESISTANCE SOON."

YESTERDAY IN GEIGER'S SECTOR, AROUND NAHA, THE JAPANESE COUNTERATTACKED IN MORE THAN COMPANY STRENGTH. THE FOURTH REGIMENT OF THE SIXTH MARINE DIVISION, WHICH HAS DRIVEN A SALIENT ACROSS THE ASATO RIVER INTO OKINAWA'S SHELL-WRECKED CAPITAL CITY, REPULSED THE ATTACK WITH RIFLE AND ARTILLERY FIRE.

AT DAWN TODAY, A NUMBER OF ENEMY BODIES COULD BE SEEN BUT LOW GROUND AND A RAIN-SWOLLEN RAVINE IN FRONT OF THE LINES PRECLUDED A COUNT.

AMERICAN FIELD ARTILLERYMEN HAVE POUNDED THE JAPANESE ON OKINAWA WITH BETTER THAN 1,000,000 ROUNDS OF SHELLS, MORE THAN HAS BEEN EXPENDED IN ANY PACIFIC CAMPAIGN OF SIMILAR LENGTH, SAID BRIG. GEN. J.R.SHEETS, LEAVENWORTH, KAS., COMMANDER OF THE 24TH ARMY CORPS ARTILLERY.

MAY 28 1945

THIS SHELL COUNT DOES NOT INCLUDE STEEL HURLED BY TANK AND ANTIAIRCRAFT GUNS, NOR THE MORE THAN 25,000 TONS OF FIVE-INCH OR LARGER CALIBER AMMUNITION FIRED AGAINST THE NIPPONESE LAND POSITIONS BY SUPPORTING U.S. FLEET UNITS.

PATROLS OF THE 27TH DIVISION, COMBING THE NORTHERN PART OF OKINAWA FOR HIDE-OUT JAPANESE, HAVE KILLED OR CAPTURED SOME TERRORISTIC NIPPONESE GROUPS WHICH ARE ROAMING THE HILLS TRYING TO INCITE PEACEFUL OKINAWANS TO VIOLENCE AGAINST THE AMERICAN MILITARY GOVERNMENT. THE TERRORISTS HAVE BEHEADED AT LEAST 40 NATIVES WHO HAD REBUFFED THEM.

ON THE TENTH ARMY'S LEFT FLANK, TROOPS OF THE 184TH REGIMENT, 7TH INFANTRY DIVISION, COMMANDED BY COL. ROY A. GREEN, SACRAMENTO, CALIF., PUSHED THROUGH ANKLE-DEEP MUD ABOUT 2,000 YARDS SOUTH OF CAPTURED YONABARU. THEY GAINED HIGH GROUND TO FIRMLY ANCHOR THE EAST COAST SPEARHEAD.

DOUGHBOYS LED BY CAPT. PAUL T. FERRER, 2328 HOLGATE SQUARE, LOS ANGELES, AND LT. JOHN E.BROKAW, 43 MULBERRY, TRENTON, N.J., FLANKED A 500-FOOT ESCARPMENT AND HAD MOST OF THIS DOMINATING HEIGHT IN THEIR POSSESSION BY LAST NIGHTFALL. THE SLOPES WERE SO SLIPPERY THE INFANTRYMEN HAD TO SCALE THEM ON HANDS AND KNEES. SATCHEL CHARGES WERE TOSSED AT CLOSE RANGE INTO THE MOUTHS OF CAVES.

SEVENTH DIVISION YANKS CAPTURED TWO 75 MM. FIELD PIECES. THE JAPANESE STAGED A SMALL COUNTERATTACK IN THE RAIN AGAINST A GROUP OF THE SEVENTH DIVISION LED BY CAPT. WILLIS A.FOURACRE, OF DOUGLAS, MASS. THE ENEMY WAS REPULSED WITH ABOUT 50 KILLED.

SOME ENEMY MOVEMENTS ON ROADS SOUTH OF FORTRESS SHURI IN THE CENTER OF THE LINE WERE SPOTTED BY A MARINE OBSERVER DESPITE HEAVY RAIN WHICH HAMPERED HIS VISION. THE JAPANESE WERE PLASTERED WITH ARTILLERY.

SOUTH AND WEST OF YONABARU, SEVENTH DIVISION TROOPS ENCOUNTERED

NUMEROUS MINE FIELDS. THEY DUG UP A THOUSAND MINES, INCLUDING FUSED ARTILLERY SHELLS, 500 BOMBS, TORPEDO WARHEADS AND DYNAMITE SATCHEL CHARGES WITH A PRESSURE-TYPE FUSE. THE MINES CAUSED LITTLE DAMAGE.

THE WEATHER WAS SO FORBIDDING YESTERDAY THAT EVEN PATROLS WERE HAMPERED. IN ONE SECTOR, SUPPLIES WERE HAULED ON SKIDS BY MEDIUM TRACTORS AS FAR AS THE FOOTHILLS. THERE THEY WERE PACKED ON FOOT THE REST OF THE WAY.

RAINS WASHED OUT TWO FOOT BRIDGES AND ONE PIER BRIDGE OVER THE ASATO. BUT ONE BRIDGE OVER THE RIVER STILL STOOD, PROVIDING PASSAGE FOR SUPPORT FOR THE SIXTH MARINE DIVISION BRIDGEHEAD INSIDE NAHA.

AMERICAN ARTILLERY HAMMERED AWAY AT A CONCENTRATION OF JAPANESE AS THEY CAME OUT OF HOLES AND CAVES IN A DOWNPOUR IN MINOR INFILTRATION ATTEMPTS UNDER COVER OF BOTH DARKNESS AND RAIN.

SINCE MAY 19, SLIGHTLY MORE THAN SIX INCHES OF RAIN HAVE FALLEN ON OKINAWA. THE RAINY SEASON IS EXPECTED TO REACH ITS MAXIMUM AROUND JUNE 1 BUT TO CONTINUE THROUGH JUNE 15. THEN THE TYPHOON SEASON ORDINARILY BEGINS.

OKINA , MAY 16-(DELAYED)-(AP)-SMALL BANDS OF RENEGADE JAPANESE SOLDIERS, ROAMING MOUNTAINOUS NORTHERN OKINAWA, ARE BEHEADING NATIVE VILLAGE LEADERS AND INTIMIDATING OTHERS IN WHAT APPEARS TO BE SYSTEMATIC TERRORISTIC PATROLS TO INCITE OKINAWANS TO RIOT AGAINST AMERICAN MILITARY GOVERNMENT CONTROL.

THESE TERRORISTIC PATROLS HIDE IN CAVES BY DAY AND EMERGE AT NIGHT. EY HAVE BEHEADED AT LEAST 40 OKINAWANS, INCLUDING A PROMINEN HANCHO (HEAD MAN IN A VILLAGE) IN ONE OF THE LARGER TOWNS. N TONUJIYE 10 JAPANESE SOLDIERS LED BY A SERGEANT MAJOR BEHEADED 35 OKINAWANS AND WOUNDED 15 OTHERS, INCLUDING WOMEN, BEFORE WITHDRAWING TO THE HILLS.

THE SAIPAN EPISODE HAD MADE HIM FAIRLY SENSITIVE ABOUT THE PRODUCTIVITY OF JAPANESE MOTHERS. SO HE WAS MENTALLY ON GUARD WHEN HIS UNIT LANDED ON AN ISLAND NEAR OKINAWA.

"WE WERE THERE THREE DAYS AND I WAS READY TO GO TO WORK EVERY MINUTE OF IT," SCHEID RECALLED. "I LOOKED AROUND AT THE WOMEN AND ALL I COULD SEE WERE A LOT OF THEM WHO WERE EXPECTING.

"I TRIED TO IGNORE THE ISSUE BUT THEY FOUND OUT I WAS A CORPSMAN AND FOLLOWED ME WHEREVER I WENT. TWO OF THEM GRINNED AT ME EVERY TIME I LOOKED IN THEIR DIRECTION. THEN THEY MADE MOTIONS AT THEMSELVES AND AT ME TO SHOW THAT THEY WERE READY ANY TIME I WAS.

THE GERMAN LANGUAGE BROADCAST REPORTED BY THE FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION DESCRIBED LAVAL AS "HITLER'S WATCHDOG" AND ASSERTED "THE ENTIRE MIGHT OF THE ALLIES IS INSUFFICIENT TO GET LAVAL OUT OF HIS HOLE IN ORDER TO HAND HIM OVER TO THE STRONG ARM OF JUSTICE."

"IT SEEMS THAT THERE CAN BE NO DISCUSSION ON THE POINT THAT LAVAL MUST FACE TRIAL AND MUST BE HANGED." THE BROADCAST SAID. "AND

THE FOREIGN MINISTER SAID THAT DENMARK WOULD NEVER RETURN TO PRE-WAR TIMES AND THAT IT "WILL HAVE TO BE REALIZED THAT THE ECONOMIC FORCES, THE HUMAN AND TECHNICAL INGENUITY AND PRODUCING POWER ARE SO COLOSSAL THAT FAR-REACHING CONTROL IS NECESSARY."

"THE TIME OF LARGE PRIVATE PROPERTIES AND INCOMES IS OVER AND PRIVATE INITIATIVE CAN ONLY BE MAINTAINED IF IT IS PUT IN THE SERVICE OF THE COMMUNITY AND IF EARNED MEANS ARE NO LONGER USED TO ENRICH SOME FEW, BUT TO RAISE THE LIVING STANDARD FOR ALL, TO CONSOLIDATE ALL ACTIVITIES, TO EXTEND THEM AND TO PROVIDE MORE WORK."

THE BROADCAST, REPORTED BY THE FCC, QUOTED MOELLER AS SAYING THAT WHILE THESE SIX YEARS OF WAR HAD MADE IT NECESSARY FOR ALL PARTIES TO REVISE THEIR PROGRAMS, THE "ONLY PARTY THAT ACTUALLY DOES NOT NEED TO TRANSFORM ITS PROGRAM ARE THE COMMUNISTS" AS THEY HAD ALREADY DONE SO.

"THEY HAVE, IN MANY WAYS MODERATED THEIR POLICY SO THAT A FRUITFUL COLLABORATION CAN CERTAINLY BE ACHIEVED WITH THEM," MOELLER STATED ACCORDING TO THE BROADCAST.

THE FOREIGN MINISTER WAS ALSO QUOTED AS SAYING THAT HE FAVORED PUBLICITY BE GIVEN, NOT ONLY IN DENMARK, BUT ALSO IN OTHER COUNTRIES, TO THE WAY IN WHICH "INDUSTRY, CARTELS AND TRUSTS HAVE USED THEIR MONEY FOR POLITICAL PURPOSES" AND "AGAINST THE INTERESTS OF THE LARGEST MASS OF THE ORDINARY PEOPLE."

Big Force of B-29s Hammers Yokohama, Showering City With Incendiary Bombs; Americans Gain on Both Okinawa Coasts

MAY 29 1945

SHIPPING CENTER, FACTORIES FIRED IN DAYLIGHT RAID

More Than 3,200 Tons of Incendiaries Showered on City.

ESCORTED BY FIGHTERS

Commercial, Residential Districts Also Blasted By Big Planes.

MAY 30 1945

GUAM, Tuesday, May 29.—(AP) Escorted by Iwo Jima-based Mustang fighters, more than 450 Superfortresses dropped 3,200 tons of fire bombs today on Yokohama, industrial and shipping center, in the great[illegible] daylight and yet attempted by Marianas-based B-29s.

NIGHT

Yokohama, 18 miles south of Tokyo and separated from that recently-fired capital by the industrial suburb of Kawasaki, is Japan's fifth largest city. It was the first B-29 strike on Yokohama.

Virtually all the 72-square-mile urban area of Yokohama was included in the target for the third fire strike in six days on key mainland objectives.

Leading industrial, business and governmental buildings of Tokyo, including part of the Imperial palace, were devastated in a 550-plane pre-dawn raid last Thursday, closely followed by a 500-plane strike in darkness Saturday morning.

Waterfront Hit

Today's targets included an area squarely on the Yokohama harbor waterfront, where vital piers, docks and breakwaters jut out into the bay of Nippon's second greatest seaport.

In this area also are shipbuilding, aircraft, electrical and communications equipment plants.

A secondary target was Yokohama's most modern commercial and residential districts in the southeast sector of the city. The population there runs about 30,000 per square mile.

Another objective area encompassed industries built on reclaimed land jutting into Tokyo bay in the northeast sector of the city.

Yokohama is a maze of warehouses, docks, canals, railroad spurs and storage areas. Many small chemical plants, extensive freight yards and waterfront storage areas are included in the target zone.

Yokohama had a population of more than 1,000,000. It is the port for Tokyo and all northern Honshu island, and handled 25 per cent of Japan's prewar foreign trade.

Most of Japan's automotive industry is concentrated in three Yokohama factories, which classify the city as Nippon's Detroit. The city also has important aircraft, steel, rubber, radio and telephone plants. Much of Japan's heavy boilers, electrical equipment and finished rubber is produced in Yokohama.

Built on Three Deltas

Built on three wedge-shaped deltas, the city runs about 14 miles along the bay shore from north to south and is about six miles across, east to west. Seventeen per cent of the urban area is classified as industrial, 25 per cent as commercial or business.

Yokohama's commercial core is an area of great fire hazard adjoining the principal piers on the southernmost of the three deltas.

Wharves in Yokohama harbor are among the world's largest and could accommodate 50,000-ton ships. Extensive breakwaters have been built.

Three double or multiple electrified railroad lines enter Yokohama from the north, where Japan's rail transport system already is sorely crippled from the Tokyo raids. Two double track electric railroads enter Yokohama from the south.

Yokohama was raided by U. S. carrier planes in their Feb. 16-17 sweeps of the general Tokyo area. A Japanese escort carrier was left listing and burning in Yokohama harbor.

First Major Assault Since April Hits City

Tokyo Still Digging Out; Utilities and Transport Only Partly Restored

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 28.—Yokohama, one of Japan's principal ports, was attacked for the first time today (May 29 Japanese time) by Superfortresses, 20th Air Force headquarters announced.

The raid, with incendiary bombs, was made by a very large force, perhaps as many as 500 planes. The announcement said the attacking planes were "in very great strength" and that additional details would be disclosed upon the return of the bombers to their Marianas bases.

The Navy's Announcement

The announcement said:

"B-29s in very great strength attacked Yokohama on the Japanese island of Honshu today, May 28 E. W. T. (May 29, Japanese time). It was the first attack made by the Superfortresses on the city of Yokohama, which is one of Japan's principal ports.

"The attack was made with incendiary bombs from B-29s of the 21st Bomber Command under Major General Curtis E. LeMay, and further details will be announced after the bombers return to their bases in the Marianas."

Yokohama first came into prominent notice in 1853-'53 when Commodore Matthew C. Perry appeared in the adjacent bay with a small squadron of the United States Navy and demanded that his message of good will from President Millard Fillmore be received and that Japan be opened to world commerce.

Bombed by Doolittle

Yokohama was actually bombed for the first time on April 18, 1942, when the American flyers led by Lieutenant Colonel James H. Doolittle, now a lieutenant general, took off from the old aircraft carrier Hornet and flew over the cities of Tokyo, Kobe, Yokohama and Nagoya.

The city also was hit again in the first Superfortress raid on Nov. 24, last year, when the bombers struck at Tokyo, Yokohama and Kobe.

The Japanese reported a small B-29 raid on the port on Feb. 15, but the next large raid came April 4, when about 300 Superfortresses ranged over the Tokyo area, including Yokohama. In mid-February the city was attacked at least once by carrier planes from Task Force 58, under Vice-Admiral Marc A. Mitscher.

Yokohama is eighteen miles southwest of Tokyo, for which it is the principal port of entry by sea. It is located on a plain at the mouth of a valley that opens into Yokohama Bay, which is a small recess on the west side of Greater Tokyo Bay.

The name of the city comes from "yoko," meaning "side," and "hama," meaning "a beach." The beach referred to is at one side of Kanagawa, where, incidentally, the jinrikisha, a two-wheeled vehicle peculiar to Japan, was said to have been invented in 1870. Kanagawa was the first treaty port opened to foreigners after Commodore Perry's visit, but of late years has become only a station on the railway to Tokyo.

Like all large port areas, the city is an important industrial point, but it was noted in peacetime for its scenic beauty, including especially The Bluff, somewhat in the nature of a plateau about 150 feet above sea level, where were located many beautiful homes of foreign residents, with notable landscaping. It was first visited in 1854 by some of the members of the Perry expedition.

The city before the war had a population in excess of 500,000.

Tokyo Utilities Hit

The Tokyo radio disclosed yesterday in a domestic broadcast that Thursday's and Saturday's Superfortress raids on the city had seriously disrupted public utilities.

The broadcast, recorded by the Federal Communications Commission, said that by nightfall Saturday the water supply and electric current had been restored in some parts of the city and that the municipal transit system had resumed normal operation yesterday morning.

The assertion that "normal" transportation had been resumed was contradicted, however, in a Japanese Domei news agency dispatch which said that service on elevated trains, streetcars and subways was only "50 to 60 per cent norm[illegible]" yesterday morning.

Tokyo Reports New U.S. Raids On Japan

MAY 29 1945

San Francisco, May 28 (AP)—American Superfortresses and P-51 Mustang fighters carried out new raids against the Japanese home islands today, Tokyo reported.

Radio Tokyo said a dozen of the B-29's bombed the Shikoku area in southern Japan and that four were shot down. Repeated attacks against suicide plane bases in the area, on Kyushu Island, have been carried out.

About 30 Mustangs, "headed by three Marianas-based B-29's," attacked airfields in the Tokyo vicinity for 40 minutes shortly after noon (Tokyo time), Domei news agency reported.

Strafing And Bombing

The broadcast, recorded here, said the planes carried out "strafing and bombing" attacks in the Chiba and Ibaraki Prefectures.

[Chiba, or Shiba, Prefecture is the southernmost of the Tokyo prefectures, fronting on the western shores of Tokyo Bay and directly south of the area burned out in last week's great Superfortress fire raids.]

In earlier broadcasts, Tokyo reported that 27 Superfortresses again mined Japanese waters, sowing explosives from the southern waters of Kyushu, southernmost of the home islands, to the northwestern shores of Honshu, on which Tokyo is situated.

Four of the mine-sowing Superforts were shot down and eight others damaged "so heavily" it was unlikely they could return to their bases, Tokyo claimed.

Public Utilities Crippled

Radio Tokyo also admitted that last week's Superfortress fire raids had seriously disrupted Tokyo's public utilities and that telephone service had not been resumed until today.

Meanwhile, Domei claimed without confirmation the sinking early today of three large United States Navy warships and three transports by Kamikaze Corps suicide planes off Okinawa.

One battleship, two cruisers and the transports were sunk in Nakagusuku Bay, on Okinawa's east coast in a concerted attack by both army and navy Kamikaze planes, it was claimed in the broadcast.

"Direct torpedo hits" were also claimed on a large transport, a medium transport and three unidentified vessels.

Airfield Raids Claimed

The "heavy" attacks were carried out by torpedo bombers, Tokyo said, while other Nipponese army and navy aircraft again attacked American airfields on Ie Shima, off Okinawa's west coast. One raider was admitted lost.

In earlier broadcasts Domei claimed that Japanese submarines had sunk two American ships of unidentified category and that suicide corps planes had "seriously damaged" an American aircraft carrier and another unclassified vessel.

The Japanese submarines, Domei said, were operating "in concerted action with our special attack air corps' all-out assaults" southeast of Okinawa.

The broadcasts claimed that Japanese planes other than the Kamikaze suicide group had sunk or damaged "at least ten" others.

All actions reportedly took place Saturday.

The claims followed by a day the Japanese Navy's commemoration of the fortieth anniversary of its victory over the Russian fleet in Tsushima Strait and the calling on Japanese sailors to "do their utmost to annihilate" their enemies in emulation of their 1905 predecessors.

The order of the day issued in connection with the celebration boasted that the Nipponese navy is "forcing the enemy's tremendous bloodshed."

JAP PLANES SINK LIGHT NAVY SHIP, BLAST 12 OTHERS

Enemy Suicide Pilots Attack in Force; 77 Nip Aircraft Destroyed.

DOUGHBOYS ADVANCE

Marines Occupy Two-Thirds of Naha; Tenth Army Gains Near Shuri.

GUAM, Tuesday, May 29—(AP) Troops of the U. S. 10th army made large gains on both eastern and western Okinawa yesterday but Japanese suicide pilots, attacking in force, sank one light naval unit and inflicted "minor to moderate" damage on 12 other light units and naval auxiliaries.

Seventy-seven attacking planes were destroyed, Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz said in today's communiqué. Typ[illegible] attack was made Sunday night.

Advance in Naha

In ground action, Major Gen. Lemuel C. Shepherd's Sixth division Marines completed occupation of all of Naha west of a north-south canal which connects the Asato river and Naha's main harbor. This is about two-thirds of the area of Okinawa's capital city, which housed 66,000 persons before American bombs and shells converted it into piles of rubble.

On the east, Maj. Gen. Archibald V. Arnold's seventh division infantry made substantial gains, driving into the towns of Tera and Kamizato, which are almost directly south of Shuri fortress and about two and one-half miles southwest of Yonabaru, east coast port city.

Arnold's doughboys pressed forward against light resistance in achieving material development of their bulge and now are threatening to cut off Shuri from the southeast. Their advance represented a gain of more than 1,000 yards.

Japs May Withdraw

Despite the growing threat to Shuri and indications that the Japanese may be preparing to withdraw from that fortress in the center of the line, Japanese rear guard troops stiffly resisted on Shuri's northern defense perimeter.

Three American divisions in the central sector met artillery, mortar and machine gun fire. These were Maj. Gen. Lemuel C. Shepherd, Jr.'s First Marine, Maj. Gen. Andrew D. Bruce's 77th infantry and Maj. Gen. James L. Bradley's 96th infantry divisions.

Nimitz's communique made no mention today of any further signs of Japanese withdrawal from Shuri, which seemed indicated yesterday when he reported Japanese had destroyed caves in the Shuri sector and Associated Press Correspondent Al Dopking said civilian groups were seen evacuating southward from Shuri.

The sustained, night-long Japanese air attack against America's Okinawa shipping followed a strong assault last Thursday night and Friday morning in which 15 American ships were damaged and attempts were made to land plane loads of grenade and mortar-armed "Giretsu" suicide volunteers on Yontan airfield.

Thursday's raid cost the Japanese 166 planes destroyed, including a dozen which attempted to land troops on Yontan. One dive bomber did make a belly landing and disgorge about 15 troops who did some damage before they were killed. Eleven other troop-carrying planes were shot down approaching the field.

These two attacks, carried out chiefly in darkness, inflicted the greatest damage to American shipping since all-out Japanese air raids with upwards of 400 planes in early April. Continued neutralization of Japanese staging bases presumably have reduced the enemy's ability to maks such strong attacks.

The report of 77 Japanese planes destroyed is preliminary and the number is expected to be increased when final figures are available.

Planes Hit Naval Station

Army Mustang fighters from Iwo Jima, playing an increasingly important part in blasting Japanese home targets in support of the Okinawa operation and B-29 strikes, attacked Kasumigaura naval air station, about 30 miles northeast of Tokyo, yesterday. They destroyed six Japanese planes and damaged 36 in the air and on the ground. One Mustang was lost to anti-aircraft fire.

Other Mustangs ranged through the Bonins, sinking a small cargo ship at Haha Jima and blasting ground targets.

Navy search privateers sank one Japanese destroyer or destroyer escort and one large freighter and five small cargo ships in sweeps in Korean waters. They damaged one large freighter, one small cargo ship and one coastal vessel.

Escort carrier planes bombed airfield installations in the Sakishima islands, southernmost of the Ryukyus, again Sunday.

Navy search planes strafed four small craft off Paramushiro in the Kurile islands Sunday and Marine Hellcat and Corsair fighters attacked installations in the Palaus and on Yap island.

Streams of weary, mud-caked Okinawans were reported struggling south from the Shuri bastion and considerable Japanese troop movement in the area also was reported yesterday. It was not apparent whether the troops were evacuating Shuri, or attempting to reinforce that bastion.

Japs Thought Pulling Out Of Shuri Town

Guam, May 28 (AP)—The Japanese appeared today to be withdrawing from the Okinawa fortress town of Shuri after a fierce 38-day defense of the key bastion.

If the indicated withdrawal becomes a full scale retreat it will have been forced by the United States 7th Infantry Division's breakthrough on the east coast which has flanked Shuri and now threatens to cut it off from the rear.

Seventh Division patrols have pushed through incessant rains almost to the village of Chan, nearly 2 miles south of Shuri.

Indicated In Communique

The withdrawal and possible cracking of the Japanese defense on Okinawa was indicated in field dispatches and Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz's communiqué.

These signs of a possible retreat were noted:

1. A concentration of Japanese was caught moving south from the village of Gisushi, more than a mile southwest of Chan, and was virtually wiped out by co-ordinated naval and air bombardment.

2. North of Shuri, between that fortified city and American front lines, the 1st Marine Division saw the Japanese blowing up 15 or 20 caves, presumably to destroy food or other supplies stored there.

3. On the east flank south of captured Yonabaru the 7th Infantry Division found what was described as "very large stores" of food, ammunition and equipment in abandoned caves in the Ozato Mura hills, encompassed by the 7th last week.

4. Associated Press Correspondent Alva N. Dopking reported that the constant Japanese artillery bombardment of American positions had decreased from an average of 15,000 rounds daily to about 500 rounds, probably because 363 enemy field pieces had been knocked out by precision-firing American guns.

"Risky To Guess"

Naval sources declined to place any interpretation on the series of actions, and a spokesman, when asked if they indicated withdrawals, replied:

"They may be part of the whole picture, and they may not; it's sort of risky to guess."

The possibility exists that the actions forecast a withdrawal to new positions in the hills south of the present lines. These hills are not as rugged, however, and they are not expected to be as heavily defended.

In such an event it seems likely that Shuri, considered the strongest defensive position on the island, may be left behind, well garrisoned and well provisioned, to continue the fight without support of the lines to the east and west.

Support From Fleet

Admiral Nimitz's communiqué said battleships, cruisers and smaller ships as well as rocket-firing planes smashed "a considerable number of enemy troops observed maneuvering south of the Shuri position."

A great exodus of civilians moving southward from Shuri was reported by artillery observers.

Rain slowed operations on Okinawa for the sixth straight day but Marines of the 1st Division expanded their bridgehead across the Asato River and 7th Division infantrymen pushed patrols far south of Yonabaru on the east. There was no letup in the ferocity of Shuri's defense, however.

Gains In Naha

Elements of the 22d Marine Regiment poured across the Asato and advanced up to 800 yards southwest of the river mouth, almost reaching the west coast, while the 4th Marine Regiment drove a 400-yard salient into the heart of Naha. The 184th Regiment secured a 500-foot escarpment dominating most of the high ground on the east coast and sent strong patrols into the Ozato Mura hills.

No further Japanese air attacks were reported on American shipping and ground positions since Thursday night's eighteen-hour assault.

The Seventh Division killed 1,500 to 2,000 Japanese in the four-day push into the Ozato Mura Hills area.

All along the front torrential rain made supply difficult over slippery, muddy roads.

Japs Claim Sinkings.

San Francisco, May 28 (A. P.).—Japanese Domei News Agency claimed without confimation the sinking early today of three large United States Navy warships and three transports by Kamikaze Corps suicide planes off Okinawa.

One battleship, two cruisers and the transports were sunk in Nakagusuku Bay, on Okinawa's east coast in a concerted attack by both Army and Navy Kimikaze planes, it was claimed in the broadcast, recorded by the FCC.

"Direct torpedo hits" were also claimed on a large transport, a medium transport and three unidentified vessels.

CONVOYS OFF, SAVE NEAR FOE

Navigation Lights May Burn Except In Combat Areas

London, May 28 (AP)—Suspension of wartime ocean convoys in non-combat areas, effective at midnight tonight London time, was announced tonight by the British Admiralty.

Blackout restrictions were lifted at the same time and the Admiralty order said vessels now would be permitted to burn navigation lights at full brilliancy and need not darken the ship.

The announcement said ships which would have sailed under convoy in areas outside the combat zone would sail independently, thus speeding the movement of all ocean traffic. In Washington the United States Navy made a similar announcement.

Zones Not Specified

While the Admiralty did not specify what it considered non-combat zones, it was reported unofficially that it includes the Atlantic, Mediterranean, North Sea and the English Channel.

Opening up of the Atlantic sea lanes for independent sailings of trade ships appeared to indicate that the last of the German submarines either had surrendered or been accounted for. It was reported last week that at least twelve "pirate" U-boats were believed hiding somewhere in the Atlantic or attempting to make their way to Japan.

2,000 Constantly Out

Shipping convoys were ordered immediately after the declaration of war and the system was expanded after Germany resorted to long-range bomber attacks and the "pack" technique of submarine warfare.

American overage destroyers, given to England in exchange for naval bases, were used in British convoy operations. Fast destroyer-escorts and corvettes were built in the United States and Canada.

Later escort aircraft carriers were developed, giving convoys air cover in the mid-Atlantic as well as in areas within range of land-based bombers.

Three months after the war began, Prime Minister Churchill—then First Lord of the Admiralty—announced that 2,000 British ships were constantly at sea and disclosed that losses in convoys were one in 750.

Great Battles Fought

Later the ratio dropped as the Germans stepped up efforts to cut the British lifeline. In 1941 one ship out of every 181 that sailed was lost.

Allied countermeasures were felt increasingly in 1942, and the ratio advanced to one loss for every 233 sailings. In 1943 it was one in 344.

The submarine menace was all but eliminated last year, and only one out of every 1,000 vessels fell victim to U-boat raiders.

The Admiralty disclosed that up to the beginning of 1945 more than 9,000 convoys safely entered or cleared British ports. Millions of American, British and Canadian troops and an incredible quantity of food and military supplies were carried in convoys, which often included peacetime liners with famous names.

At least one convoy sailed with 150 ships. Great battles were fought against aerial and submarine attackers, sometimes extending over several days and nights.

The Run To Malta

One of the most successful convoys was the one to Malta in August, 1942, when the ships were assaulted for three days by Mediterranean-based German bombers, U-boats and E-boats. Despite losses among escorting ships and merchant men, the convoy got through and delivered vitally needed supplies to the island bastion.

Russian-bound convoys also were under the heaviest attack by land-based aircraft, surface and under-seas enemy raiders, but 88 per cent of all shipments reached their destination.

Labor Ministers Turn In Seals Of Office

London, May 28 (AP)—The coalition government broke up formally today, when Labor Ministers, headed by Deputy Prime Minister Clement Attlee, handed in their seals of office to the King at Buckingham Palace.

King George passed the seals on to members of Prime Minister Churchill's new "caretaker" government, which will serve until after the July 5 elections.

Those Turning In Seals

Former coalition members who turned in their seals and will join Attlee on Parliament's opposition benches tomorrow included A. V. Alexander, First Lord of the Admiralty; Sir Archibald Sinclair, Air Minister; Sir Stafford Cripps, Air Production Minister; Herbert Morrison, Home Secretary and Minister of Home Security; Ernest Bevin, Labor Minister, and Sir William Jowitt, Minister of National Insurance.

The first national election campaign since 1935 began in earnest over the week end. Withdrawal of the Labor and Liberal parties from the government meant that the debate on the House floor would be wide open for the first time since Churchill succeeded the late Neville Chamberlain as Prime Minister in May, 1940.

Letter From Truman

Meanwhile, with the prospect of another Big Three meeting in the offing, the Daily Mail reported that Joseph E. Davies had given Churchill a letter from President Truman which said the American President hoped to visit London as soon as possible. Davies is here on a special mission for Truman.

Davies arranged today for a luncheon with Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and United States Ambassador John G. Winant. The former United States Ambassador to Russia spent the week end in the country with Prime Minister Churchill.

The Daily Mail also said that Churchill would take Attlee to the next Big Three meeting to assure Truman and Premier Stalin of British unity.

PEACE PARLEY DUE SOON, IS BELIEF

Unrest May Force Allies To Hold It In Few Months

London, May 28 (AP)—Widespread unrest in Europe and the uneasy Middle East raised the possibility today that the major powers will call a formal peace conference within a few months — even before Japan's defeat—to remove trouble-provoking boundary disputes.

Such a possibility is mentioned increasingly by diplomats here, who also believe that Joseph E. Davies and Harry Hopkins, carrying out special missions for President Truman in London and Moscow, respectively, are endeavoring to set the stage and prepare the agenda for Truman's first personal conference with Marshal Stalin and Prime Minister Churchill.

No Trilateral Settlement

Powerful as are the decisions of the Big-Three powers in themselves, it appeared unlikely that they alone could settle Europe's 30-odd territorial issues—among them those of Poland and Trieste—which already have stirred up trouble and which may breed new disputes.

The necessity for eliminating these present and potential trouble spots is mounting, not only to hasten Europe's reconstruction and return to stability but also to remove from Allied troops the burdens of preventing border clashes.

Sources close to both United States and British top-level policy makers say the major powers already have decided against dealing with these disputes on a piecemeal basis. Churchill acknowledged that an exception was made in the case of Poland.

Would Release Energies

The original plan was to pigeonhole the entire territorial issue until after Japan was defeated. But the fact that each dispute thus far has raised an ideological issue and charges of spheres of influence has increased the chances of a quicker solution in the interests of world harmony.

Britain, keenly conscious of potential damage to her prestige arising from armed intervention to maintain the territorial status quo, probably would welcome an early settlement. And a quick, amicable and equitable solution would appear equally acceptable to the United States, if only because stability in Europe would mean release of energies for the Japanese war.

Russian Stand Unclear

Russia's position is not so clear. But it is expected here that the Soviets at the next Big-Three meeting would insist upon ironclad guarantees of protection against being outvoted at the peace table on territorial disputes involving the borders of her neighbors.

There is a general expectation among diplomats that the next Big-Three meeting will take place before mid-July, if Stalin is willing. Churchill has served notice that the July 5 elections will not be a barrier to such a conference.

Tito's Statement On Carinthia Stirs Issue

London, May 28 (AP)—The controversy over the Austrian province of Carinthia threatened to flame anew today, fanned by a statement attributed to Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia by the Belgrade radio, which complained bitterly of the treatment accorded "our nationals."

Tito was quoted as saying in a speech at Ljubljana last night that, "I would be a terrible tragedy if we should have to fight again for what we have already won in this war."

According to the Belgrade version of the speech to the Slovene people, Tito called upon the Allies to protect Yugoslav nationals "from those same oppressors who have persecuted them for centuries."

"Clad In Another Uniform"

"The people of Carinthia are awaiting their liberation, and, on behalf of the new Federated Yugoslavia, I assure them that our thoughts have not abandoned Carinthia, which today, unfortunately, must still tremble and suffer under a Gestapo terror which is clad in another uniform," he was quoted.

There was no indication in London, meanwhile, that final settlement had been reached in the Trieste-Istria impassé, although the Belgrade radio said Tito had reiterated a pledge he would not resort to arms.

Despite Yugoslav agreement in principle to Allied administration of Trieste, the Yugoslav Army still is in control there, and the Allied Military Government remains outside. However, relations between the two groups continued friendly.

Italians' Deaths Reported

The Yugoslav-controlled newspaper Our Future reported the death of four Italian Garibaldini soldiers during the celebration of Tito's birthday two days ago and blamed the deaths on a bomb planted by Fascists. The four coffins were carried through the streets of Trieste yesterday. And the newspaper said "workers of Trieste" were pledged to avenge the dead soldiers.

In Moscow, the newspaper Pravda criticized American and British publications for making the Trieste question "one of the most malicious themes" of the foreign press. The article singled out the Economist in England, the New York Times and the Baltimore Sun.

The Pravda writer said Yugoslavs had earned full right to the proper estimation of their contribution to victory in the Mediterranean, "but instead of this a campaign has been launched against Yugoslavia."

SOVIET HAILS TRUMAN TRIP

Broadcasts Dispatch From Parley by Izvestia Writer

LONDON, May 28 (AP)—The Moscow radio broadcast today a dispatch from the San Francisco conference to the newspaper Izvesta praising President Truman for his decision to address the final session personally.

The dispatch, from Evgeni Zhukov, Izvestia correspondent, said that President Truman's decision "manifests his full confidence" in the ultimate success of the meeting.

The American press, the dispatch declared, viewed President Truman's choice of Harry Hopkins and Joseph E. Davies, former Ambassador to Russia, for missions abroad as "eliminating the ground for fears of a possible deviation from Roosevelt's line in foreign policy."

The recent shift in the Truman Cabinet, it said, "preserves its former (as it is called here) left-of-center character."

The writer asserted that all Americans with whom he had talked fully shared Secretary of Commerce Henry A. Wallace's conviction that "there are no grounds for any conflict between the United States and the USSR."

'Gen. Churchill' Nazis Took Tells Of Capture

London, May 28 (AP)—A 15-month-old mystery was solved today by the arrival of Lieut. Col. Jack Churchill, who said he was the "General Churchill" the Germans claimed to have captured on the Island of Brac off the Yugoslav coast.

Churchill, who is not related to the Prime Minister, led commands on Lissa for three months until his brother, Brig. Tom Churchill, took over the command.

Puzzling To Nazis

"When the Germans got me they were obviously very puzzled," Colonel Churchill said. "They would not believe that I was only a lieutenant colonel. They insisted I was really General Churchill.

"They seemed to think that I was somebody of great importance—either a nephew or some other relative of the Prime Minister. I just accepted what they had to say—it seemed the simplest thing to do.

In Concentration Camp

"Their confusion was amusing, but it was not so funny when they put me in a concentration camp. I was not allowed to write or receive any parcels or letters."

What probably added to the confusion was the fact that captain—now major—Randolph Churchill, the Prime Minister's son, was in the area at the time as a liaison officer with Marshal Tito's Yugoslav Partisans.

MRS. MIKOLAJCZYK REACHES LONDON

London, May 28 (A. P.).—Mrs. Cecila Mikolajczyk, wife of the former Premier of the London Polish Government, has rejoined her husband and son here after nearly three years in Nazi prison camps.

She spent fifteen months in the Oswiecim camp near Krakow and described it as the worst she ever saw. Mrs. Mikolajczyk was set free by American troops at Pilsen. She said that she was starved and whipped because of refusal to give Polish underground secrets.

Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler ordered her to Oswiecim, she told friends. She is 42 and her slave labor number 64,023 is tattooed on her left arm. She said that she cleaned rooms, sewed mattresses and worked in fields at Oswiecim.

'Ghost House' Going Back To British

London, May 28 (AP)—The Sixteenth Century "haunted house" in Hampshire, which was occupied by Gen. Omar N. Bradley before the invasion of North Africa and by Gen. George S. Patton before the invasion of France, soon will be returned by the United States Army to the British.

The ancient Elizabethan mansion, built at the village of Breamore by John Doddington, reverted to the Crown when a Doddington son and heir murdered his mother and was hanged for the crime. The present owner is Sir Westrow Hulse, who is serving with the RAF in East Asia.

Mrs. E. G. Dyer, the caretaker's wife, who often saw Generals Bradley and Patton as they strolled around the grounds, insists that Mrs. Doddington's ghost still prowls through the mansion's 70-odd rooms. One particular room, she declares, retains a cold, clammy atmosphere despite all efforts to make it comfortable.

Staff Headquarters

The legend did not seem to bother Bradley or Patton, both of whom use the huge ivy-draped building as staff headquarters.

There were many stories about the place, however, and one favorite prank was to send rookie second lieutenants and GI's on inspection tours of the ghost's quarters at night.

Lieut. Glen V. Berg, of Wahoo, Neb., assistant area engineer, said the mansion, now unoccupied with the possible exception of the ghost, would be returned to the British as soon as German prisoners make some repairs.

British Relax Job Freeze But Stress Arms Needs

Lift Controls for Men Over 50 and Under 18

LONDON, May 28 (AP).—Men over fifty and under eighteen years of age will be freed from labor-freeze controls Monday, the government announced tonight in the first relaxation of war-time labor regulations.

While this inaugurated a program for a gradual change-over, a Ministry of Labor spokesman emphasized that munitions for the war against Japan now have top priority, outranking housing, which is the most acute British domestic problem.

In addition to the two age groups, part-time workers now employed fewer than thirty hours a week were freed to change to civilian jobs. With few exceptions, men in the eighteen to fifty age group and women in the eighteen to forty group still are frozen to their work.

Great Britain has lowered to thirty years the draft age for the armed forces, and employers no longer are required to apply for deferment of older workers.

200 British Ships In East

London, May 28 (AP)—More than 200 British warships are operating in the Pacific, a Reuter dispatch from British Pacific Fleet headquarters said today. More of Britain's newest and largest fighting ships are on the way to the Pacific, and soon the cream of the Royal Navy's battle forces will be concentrated against the Japanese, the dispatch said.

1,000 Nazi Sailors Die on Tirpitz

LONDON, May 28 (AP).—About one thousand German sailors died when British bombing planes sank the giant German battleship Tirpitz in Tromsoe Fjord, Norway, Nov. 13, the Air Ministry announced tonight. The Tirpitz now lies bottom up in the water, with the superstructure embedded in mud. In the starboard side is a 120-foot hole.

HAMSUN IS ARRESTED

1920

LONDON, May 28. — (AP) The Exchange Telegraph reported from Copenhagen tonight that Knut Hamsun, Norwegian author and Nobel prize winner in literature in 1920, was arrested today at his home in Grimstad, Norway.

Hamsun was described in the account as a fervent Nazi supporter in recent years. In 1940 he urged the Norwegians to quit the fight against the Germans, and in 1943 was reported to have visited Hitler's headquarters.

British Air Vice Marshal Missing After Flight

London, May 28 (AP)—Air Vice Marshal J. R. Scarlett-Streatfield, 36, who worked out the over-all scheme for Allied airborne attack across the Rhine, is missing after a flight to Norway on May 10, it was disclosed today.

He was air officer commanding the 28th Group, which is responsible for all British airborne operations. He was responsible also for large-scale parachute troop operations behind German lines in north Holland.

DELAY FORESEEN IN BRINGING NAZI LEADERS TO TRIAL

Bedmed

PARIS, May 28—(AP) Germany's principal war criminals can not be brought to trial for "some time," pending the ironing out of certain details of the international military tribunal which will try the accused, Justice Robert H. Jackson, chief U. S. prosecutor for war crimes, said today.

Jackson and his chief assistant, Maj. Gen. William J. Donovan, reached London later in the day, to meet with the United Nations war crimes commission.

Sites Not Selected

He told newsmen here that the sites of the trials had not been selected, nor the manner of carrying out the death sentences.

"The formation of such a body (the military tribunal) necessarily takes some time, and until it has been concluded we naturally cannot fix an exact date for commencement of these trials," said the American representative.

"As to the United States, however, we are proceeding with the preparation of our part of the international case, and that has been largely my mission here."

Jackson emphasized that the delay pertained only to the trials of prominent Nazis. German soldiers who were involved in battlefield atrocities against Americans, such as the massacre at Malmedy in Belgium, face swift justice in a matter of weeks, he said. Their trials will be equivalent to court-martial, with the international tribunal not concerned.

Jackson said he foresaw no difficulty in establishing a war crimes court, though the United States, Britain, Russia and France had yet to agree on certain details. He said that Russia, though not a member of the War Crimes Commission, had shown a willingness to to "go along with us."

Harmony Is Expected

"We have every reason to believe the four countries will come together as to the tribunal method and procedures of prosecution," he told correspondents.

Jackson said he would establish offices in Paris, London and at the seat of government in the American occupation zone of Germany. Associated with him as councel for the U. S. will be Maj. Gen. William J. Donovan, Sidney S. Alderman of Washington, D. C., Frances M. Shea, assistant U. S. attorney general, and Gorden Dean and Col. John Amen, both former special assistants to the attorney general.

Although Jackson did not say much, there was a feeling in some quarters here that Adolf Hitler—unless definitely proved to be dead—might be tried in absentia as a war criminal. If such a trial were ordered, Hitler would be given adequate notice to appear.

Trials For War Criminals To Start Soon

Bedmedr

Paris, May 28 (AP)—Trials of Germans accused of offenses against American troops in violation of the laws of war probably will begin within a few weeks, Justice Robert H. Jackson, chief United States counsel for war crimes, said today.

He added that proceedings against the principal Nazi war criminals probably would not get under way for some time, since the United States, Britain, Soviet Russia and France had not yet agreed on certain details of the international military tribunal which will try the accused.

Jackson, an associate justice of the Supreme Court, was appointed by President Truman May 2 as chief counsel for the United States on the proposed tribunal.

"The formation of such a body necessarily takes some time, and until it has been concluded we naturally cannot fix an exact date for commencement of these trials," Jackson said.

Documents Ready

"As to the United States, however, we are proceeding with the preparation of our part of the international case, and that has been largely my mission here.

"I have ascertained the existence of documents and other materials which will be of the greatest value and which we have arranged to put in such form as to facilitate the preparation of the principal cases for trial at the earliest possible time."

Jackson emphasized there would be no delay in bringing to justice those Germans involved in battlefield atrocities against the American armed forces, such as the Malmedy slayings and the execution of captured airmen.

These cases, which are strictly an American problem and do not fall under the jurisdiction of any international tribunal, are being prepared by the judge advocate general's office. Procedure will be equivalent to court-martial.

While Jackson and his staff will not be directly concerned with these they will keep a close lookout for any evidence they may produce that can be used in international cases.

"It is my duty," Jackson said, "to prepare the case of the United States against Nazi leaders and to present the case to the international military tribunal which, it is hoped, will be created."

Although it will take time to iron out differences of viewpoints, Jackson said he could see no indications that "we are not going to be successful" in establishing a war crimes court such as was proposed by the United States at the San Francisco conference.

"We have every reason to believe," Jackson said, "the four countries will come together as to the tribunal method and procedures of prosecution."

Russia Willing To "Go Along"

He said Russia, which is not a member of the War Crimes Commission but has its own commission, has shown willingness to "go along with us" and there has been no difference of opinion to date.

Jackson met with correspondents accredited to Allied headquarters following consultations with General Eisenhower, Lieut. Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, chief of staff; Lieut. Gen. Lucius D. Clay, civil affairs administrator in occupied Germany; Brig. Gen. E. C. Betts, judge advocate general; United States Ambassador Robert Murphy and other high-ranking Americans concerned with the government of occupied Germany and the punishment of war criminals.

Jackson planned to go to London immediately to meet with the United Nations War Crimes Commission and he said he hoped to "have further discussions of these matters with members of the commission representing our allies."

"I intend to return shortly with a staff and will set up an office in Paris and also one at London and one at the seat of government in the American control zone," Jackson said.

Number To Be Tried Unknown

Associated with Jackson as counsel for the United States will be Maj. Gen. William J. Donovan, Sidney S. Alderman, of Washington, D.C.; Francis M. Shea, Assistant United States Attorney General, and Gordon Dean and Col. John Amen, both former special assistants to the Attorney General.

Jackson said he could not estimate the number of war criminals to be tried until after the London conferences. The site of the trials, to be determined by military authorities, has not been selected. It will also be up to the tribunal to determine the manner of execution of death sentences, he said.

In addition to international trials and cases against Germans charged with battlefield crimes against Americans, another category involves offenses by Nazis against inhabitants of Nazi-occupied localities. Jackson said these would be referred to local courts in those areas.

Meanwhile, supreme headquarters announced that censorship restrictions against interviews and photographs of detained Nazis will be continued "in order that the preparation of cases against war criminals or war-criminal suspects may not be hampered."

As the bag of high-ranking Germans in Allied hands grew steadily larger, headquarters made known its view last night following complaints from American correspondents regarding the restrictions.

There was no elaboration of the official statement.

Supreme Headquarters announced today that Field Marshal Robert Ritter von Greim, 53-year-old chief of the German Air Force, who had succeeded Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering to the post on April 26, had committed suicide by swallowing poison.

Like Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler and Gen. Admiral Hans Georg Friedeburg before him, he had secreted a small vial of poison on his person. He had been found on May 9 in a hospital at Kitzbuehel in the Austrian Tyrol and had told his American captors: "I am the head of the Luftwaffe, but I have no Luftwaffe."

[The British radio, heard by CBS and NBC in New York, said that Dr. Hugo Jury, Gauleiter of lower Austria, "has chosen suicide rather than captivity and trial."]

Ex-Danzig Governor Gives Up.

Albert Forster, former German governor of Danzig, surrendered to German military police in Hamburg on Saturday and was turned over to the British. The 42-year-old gauleiter also was contemplating self-inflicted death by poison, he told his captors—but only if he had fallen into Russian hands.

A number of minor figures also have been rounded up. These include Paula Hitler, sister of Adolph Hitler, who was placed under house arrest near Berchtesgaden, and a brother of Heinrich Himmler, a minor SS official, who was arrested by British troops at Schleswig and was sent to Paris. His first name was not announced.

In Bolzano, Italy, the arrest of Nazi Gen. Heinrich von Vietinghoff-Scheel, six of his staff generals and more than 1,000 German troops was disclosed last night by U. S. Fifth Army Headquarters.

Hitler Trial In Absentia?

Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force, May 28 (AP)—Adolf Hitler, dead or alive, may be tried in absentia as a war criminal.

The War Crimes Commission will have to decide whether a trial will be held, but there is a feeling in some quarters that such procedure will be ordered. If a trial is ordered, it probably would be on the assumption Hitler still is alive, and in that case he would be given adequate notice to appear.

Most American PW's Out Of Germany

Paris, May 28 (AP)—A majority of the American troops taken prisoner by the Germans have been evacuated to France and England, and more than 30,000 are already on their way to the United States, communications zone headquarters announced today.

"The exceptions are those still being held by the Russians for repatriation and stragglers who are still to be accounted for," the announcement said.

More than a half million Allied prisoners of war and displaced French civilians have been brought out of Germany since April 1 by the United States Army Transportation Corps and Air Transport Command, the statement said.

Planes Used In Transport

Of the total, 330,000 were liberated prisoners, virtually all flown from camps deep in Germany. Airplanes have been used mainly in transporting 87,0000 American prisoners to reception centers in France and England, and more than 30,000 of them are already en route home in 41 ships.

The mass air exodus reached a peak May 10 when 36,224 prisoners were moved out. More than 1,400 planes were used to fly the prisoners from Germany into France at the height of the operations.

Hospital Trains

In addition, 28 hospital trains and 100 French passenger coaches were rushed into service to transport recovered prisoners from advance air strips on the French border to hospitals and camps in the rear areas.

To date, 131,386 recovered British prisoners have been flown to camps in France or direct to England. The British evacuations outnumber the Americans because British prisoner losses in the war were much higher than American, officials explained.

Nationals brought out since May 1 include 114,417 French prisoners and 171,182 displaced civilians, virtually all French.

30,000 FREED TROOPS SAILING HOME TO U. S.

PARIS, May 28 (AP)—More than 30,000 American troops released from German prison camps are en route to the United States in forty-one ships, Communications Zone Headquarters announced today.

In all, 87,000 liberated Americans have been evacuated to reception centers in France and England since the end of April, mainly by plane. Only a comparatively few being held by the Russians for repatriation and an unknown number of stragglers remain to be accounted for.

Since April 1, more than 500,000 Allied prisoners and displaced French civilians have been brought out of Germany by the United States Army Transportation Corps and the Transport Command. The mass air evacuation reached a peak on May 10, when 36,224 were moved out.

1,300 POW PERISH AS U.S. FORCES SINK NAZI VESSEL

G. Tucker

PARIS, May 28—(AP) Approximately 1,300 prisoners of the Germans, including Dr. Sumner Jackson, urologist of the American hospital in Paris, were killed May 3 when American naval forces sank a small German warship off Hamburg, the physician's son reported in a letter received here.

The son, 18-year-old Peter Jackson, said he was with his father on the ship and was saved by another German boat. He said the ship loaded with prisoners was sunk after it had ignored orders from American naval vessels to halt.

(There has been no report from official Allied sources that U. S. naval forces had sunk an enemy warship.)

In his letter, Peter Jackson said that the ship sank within 10 minutes after the Americans opened fire on her.

He said he searched for his father until the ship was on the point of overturning and finally leaped into the sea, after which he was picked up by a German rescue boat.

Young Jackson said the water was filled with screaming, drowning prisoners who included Russians, French, Poles and nationals from most former Nazi-occupied European countries.

He said they had been herded on to the ship a few days previously.

Dr. Jackson, whose home was in Boston, was the only American doctor to remain with the American hospital through the German occupation.

BERLIN TO BE SEAT, U. S. OFFICIAL SAYS

High American Expects Final Agreement on Allied Control Center Within 10 Days

PARIS, May 28 (AP)—A high American source said today that despite unofficial reports to the contrary Berlin was still "on the books" to be the seat of the Allied Joint Control Council for rule of Germany, although negotiations with the Russians for entry into the city are making slow progress.

There are two reasons for this slowness. One is that the French were not considered in the original British-Russian-American agreement for the occupation of Germany, and the French zone must be decided upon.

The second is the slowness of the lines of negotiations. The negotiations, carried on through the combined Chiefs of Staff, must go to Washington, thence to Moscow, where they filter slowly down through Soviet bureaucracy, thence back up and out along the channels they came in.

It is estimated, however, that the matter will be settled within the next ten days, as, except for one or two expected minor changes, the occupation zones for the four nations have been defined. No official information on the zones has been released, however.

NEW PLAN WOULD SEPARATE AUSTRIA

Paris, May 28 (A. P.).—Plans to create a separate occupation zone for Austria, with Gen. Mark W. Clark as American representative on a four-Power governing council at Vienna, were today reported to be under consideration by the Allies.

In line with the Big Three agreement that Austria be recreated as a separate nation, it is felt in some quarters that the country should be treated as a distinct unit for occupational purposes and be given less stringent treatment and more encouragement for building up a strong government.

The original plans placed Austria largely in the American occupation zone and provided that its demilitarization be handled along with that of Germany. The plan now being considered calls for occupation zones for American, British, Russian and French forces.

A Russian-sponsored government has already been set up in Vienna, but is expected to undergo some changes before receiving formal recognition.

Field Marshal Sir Harold Alexander was said to be the British choice for a place on the Austrian governing council and Marshal Feodor I. Tolbukhin the Russian representative. The French have not yet decided on a choice. It is expected that the plan generally will have the approval of Gen. Eisenhower.

U. S. to Ship Defenses For Gas to the Pacific

By The Associated Press.

PARIS, May 28—The American armies have 100,000 tons of chemical warfare equipment in the European Theatre of Operations and more than half of it, including gas masks, generators and mortars, will be sent to the Pacific, the Chemical Warfare Service said today.

A Chemical Warfare Service spokesman said that so far as was known the Japanese had no chemical agents for which protection was not furnished the American soldier. While the Chemical Warfare Service had no occasion to combat toxic agents in the European campaign, the Americans were well pared against any possible gas attack since they landed in Normandy.

Some 18,000 troops were employed by the Chemical Warfare Service in the European Theatre, it was disclosed. Some were here more than two and one-half years.

TWO COMMITTEES IN EUROPE PROBES

Senators Studying Communications Shift To Italy

Whitehead

Paris, Tuesday, May 29 (AP)—A Senate interstate commerce subcommittee headed by Chairman Burton K. Wheeler (D., Mont.) planned to leave today for the Mediterranean theater to continue its investigation of the Army's communications net work and study of world communications problems.

The committee will visit Naples, Rome, Cassino and Algiers.

Berlin Visit Discouraged

Senator Wheeler's group had hoped to go to Berlin, but Paul Porter, FCC commissioner who is accompanying the committee, said Eisenhower told the committee the Berlin visit was not advisable at this time because of political complications.

While Wheeler's committee was winding up its affairs here, the Senate Military Affairs Committee, headed by Richard B. Russell (D., Ga.) was preparing for a tour of France, Belgium and Germany to investigate the Army's handling of the troop redeployment program, occupation problems, the disposal of equipment and the repatriation of liberated prisoners of war.

Only One Month's Food In Germany, Yanks Say

De Luce

Fifteenth Army Headquarters, May 28 (AP)—The serious food situation facing the German people was emphasized today by an official 15th Army news release declaring there were only enough supplies on hand to last the civilian population "possibly through the month of June."

"Military government officers believe that the collection, distribution and provision of the minimum food required for civilians is now the most critical problem in occupied Germany," the statement said.

Displaced People A Factor

Contributing to the situation, it added, is the fact that "displaced persons have been largely supplied with food from German stocks rather than from imports."

"As a result," the statement added, "surplus food stocks no longer exist in any substantial quantities."

An intensive food production program is essential "if even the minimum requirements for the population are to be met," the release continued.

Much Seed Given Out

In an effort to cope with the situation, the Allied Military Government was reported to be distributing over 23,000 tons of seed potatoes and 1,500 tons of imported seed wheat.

In addition, 678 tons of miscellaneous farm and garden seeds—of which 66 tons have been imported—are being distributed.

The 15th Army estimated that 88 per cent of tillable farm area in the Rhine military province and 96 per cent. of Westmark—the two main divisions of the occupation zone have already been put into production.

Fertilizer Lacking

"Approximately 40 per cent of this was made possible through efforts of army personnel," the statement said. It added, however, that lack of fertilizer probably will result in "a below average crop."

Fifteenth army officials also announced that in the army zone, including the western Ruhr, the Rhineland and the Saar, a maximum ration of 1,500 calories would be allowed daily for "normal consumers" and 2,800 calories for heavy workers. The heavy-worker category was estabilshed after experience showed that those receiving the smaller ration were unfitted for employment in agriculture and industry.

Measures Taken

Measures taken recently to help meet the food crisis include:

1. The release of many German soldiers from prisoner of war cages to return to farm work in their home districts.

2. Removal of all military restrictions and prohibitions on the collection and normal movement of food.

3. Recruitment of children not now attending school to pick bugs from potato fields.

4. Issuance of orders to German authorities to insure full collection from farmers of all food and live-stock products undelivered under quotas for the present year.

'Strength Through Joy' City A Shattered Dream

By Louis P. Lochner

Fallersleben, Germany, May 28 (AP)—Hitler's "Strength Through Joy Automobile City," a mile from Fallersleben, now is a picture of a vast dream shattered.

Here Hitler started what he boasted would become the world's largest automobile plant, and he made the new city an experiment in attempting to eradicate Christianity.

The cornerstone for the "Strength Through Joy Automobile City" (Stadt des Kraft Durch Freude Volkswagons) was laid May 26, 1938. The community was built with amazing rapidity in a few months.

Car For Every Worker

Hitler promised that every worker would be in a position to become the owner of an air-cooled, four-cylinder, 24-horsepower, five-seater flivver, beginning in the last months of 1939. The price for this people's car was fixed at 990 marks, the equal to $396, and a special Volkswagon savings bank was started into which workers could pay as little as 5 marks monthly.

Hitler secretly was building Germany's counterpart to the jeep, even while Robert Ley's "Strength Through Joy," movement was exhibiting samples of the alleged Volkswagon in German cities. The 30,000 workers in the factory were sworn to secrecy.

War broke out at the time fixed by Hitler for delivery of the first cars. No worker received his promised car and his savings account was credited to the war loan.

Production Down

Only a few production units are intact enough to make a few cars daily for Allied military purposes.

Germany's youngest city also is doomed. Here Hitler was determined that citizens and especially children should be reared in Nazi paganism. No churches were permitted, but instead a community house was erected as the city's center of "religious activities." There, for instance, the ceremony of "name-giving" as a substitute for Christian baptism was held. The child's father swore that his offspring was of pure Aryan descent and promised to rear the child in obedience to Adolf Hitler and in consciousness of a solemn duty to perpetuate a race of pure Aryans.

That experiment also is ended.

Ex-Official Lacks Cure For Reich

By Daniel De Luce

Neustadt on the Wied, Germany, May 28 (AP)—A chancellor of the old Weimar republic today dolefully termed Germany's future "black," but said he had no practical suggestion for Allied authorities on how to cure his country's political and economic ills.

Eighty-two-year-old Dr. Wilhelm Marx, sitting in a little cottage in this obscure village on a tributary of the Rhine, admitted "I am bewildered by events and am lacking in authenticated information on which to pass judgment." He was Chancellor in 1923-25 and 1926-28.

Chancellor Two Terms

The younger Germans would have to assume the responsibility of reconstruction, "but it is certain to be the most difficult task in our country's history," he said.

"American soldiers ask me why the Germans didn't overthrow Hitler," he said. "You don't seem to realize what strong control the Nazis organized."

Likes Fuchs Appointment

Dr. Marx Lauded the American appointment of Dr. Hans Fuchs, his 70-year-old friend, and fellow members of the Catholic Center party, as Oberpraesident of the 15th Army occupation zone. When asked if trustworthy German administrators of less advanced age were available, he shook his large bald head in helplessness.

His 72-year-old wife said they were awaiting anxiously for word of their son, a noncommissioned in the Wehrmacht, who had been reported unofficially to have reported unofficially to have been taken prisoner by the Allies.

25 Babies Left On Doorstep For U.S. Troops At Pilsen

By Thoburn Wiant

With the U.S. 3d Army, May 28 (AP)—Sick, undernourished and homeless, 25 8-week-old babies were left today on the doorstep of the 134th Medical Group at Pilsen in Czechoslovakia.

The pitiful war waifs were suffering from tuberculosis, ear infections or enteritis—inflammation of the intestines. It was believed that they were brought through the Russian lines from Prague by nurses.

There was no information on the parentage or nationality of the babies. One died soon after reaching Pilsen. The others were in a serious condition.

Hundreds of older homeless children are believed to be wandering between the American and Russian lines.

Shortage Of Personnel

Yet babies and children are only one of the many problems facing the 134th Medical Group, which is administering civilian and military hospitals throughout American-occupied Czechoslovakia.

With the personnel equivalent of only one general hospital, the 134th is administering what amounts to 26 general hospitals, or 26,630 patients, German, Czech, French, Belgian and Russian medical personnel has been drafted to aid in the task.

"It is beyond imagination," said Col. Lee Wilhite, of Perkins, Okla., group commander. "There have been times when we had to establish 1,000 bed hospitals overnight."

He said the group's hospitals were all filled to well over capacity, "some as mueh as 300 per cent."

Hospital Trains A Problem

Hospital trains coming through the Russian lines into the American zone constitute a major problem. To date the group has handled more than 150,000 patients. Of these 18,000 German casualties have been released, while others are being moved into Bavaria, where conditions are less crowded.

Wilhite said that German physicians apparently amputate more freely than Allied medical men. He found more than 1,000 amputation cases in one hospital.

Russian prisoners suffered the worst treatment of any in German hands, Wilhite declared.

"In some places conditions were so bad people died as we walked into the rooms," he said. "The buildings were all filthy. In one place what I thought was a spilled package of tobacco on a patient's blanket turned out to be a pile of lice."

General Allen Given Legion Of Merit

Frankfurt on Main, Germany, May 28 (AP)—Brig. Gen. Frank A. Allen, Jr. public relations director for SHAEF, has been awarded the Legion of Merit for, "meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service."

General Eisenhower made the award at this headquarters. Allen was cited for "superior execution of his duties as director of the public relations division of SHAEF." The citation concluded that "selfless devotion to duty and sound judgment constantly demonstrated by the officer reflected great credit upon the United States Army and the Allied cause."

Nazi Jet Helicopter Studied By U.S.

Gold berg

Rosenheim, Bavaria, May 28 (AP). The German produced four working models of jet-propelled helicopter planes just before the war ended and United States air experts today are studying two models which fell into army hands.

Charles Lindbergh, the transatlantic pioneer, may come to southern Germany to view them.

An Austrian engineer, Freidrich Doblhoff, and a staff of twenty men developed the plane which the Germans planned to use chiefly for takeoffs from small boats or submarines.

Workable Models

He said the experiments began in earnest in 1943, but it was not until early this year when really workable models were developed.

One of the seized models was a 135-horsepower craft. It was damaged in an accident and rebuilt as a double-seater. Other models were single-seaters, one of 60 horsepower and another of 90.

Doblhoff said the entire project was designed and effected by Austrians on orders of the German Air Minister and that 500,000 reichsmarks were spent on the development.

Plant Bombed Out

First models were completed at a factory in Wiener Neustadt near Vienna. The plant was bombed out and the workers moved to St. Poelten in lower Austria.

The latest model developed used about 35 gallons of fuel an hour for hovering and 10 gallons for traveling. It was adapted to take off or land with jet propulsion but to travel with ordinary engines and rotors and on a number of fuel types. Doblhoff said the plane had been tested hovering for a total of 25 hours.

9th Division Pounds a Beat

First Across the Rhine, It Is Part of Occupation Police Force

WITH THE U. S. 3D ARMY, Germany, May 28 (AP).—The 9th Armored Division, which won the Remagen Bridge and was the first across the Rhine, is prosaically pounding a beat in Germany today as part of the occupation police force. The division's precinct takes in Bayreuth, where Wagnerian festivals were once held.

Like all other troops, men of the 9th Division have had their fill of Europe and want to get home. General George S. Patton jr., 3d Army commander, is in London on a three-day visit and may obtain the occupation line-up before returning to his headquarters at Bad Tolz, near Munich.

HOPKINS AND STALIN CONFER THIRD TIME

Moscow-Washington Cables Crowded With Messages About Secret Talks

DAVIES WILL GO TO PARIS

To See U. S. Army Leaders After Talking With Eden for Several Hours

Gilmore

MOSCOW, May 28 (AP)—Harry L. Hopkins, President Truman's personal representative, conferred with Premier Stalin this evening for the third time in three days.

Mr. Hopkins met Mr. Stalin for the second time in the Kremlin last night. Soviet Foreign Commissar Vyacheslaff M. Molotoff and United States Ambassador W. Averell Harriman were present, but the topics were not disclosed. The atmosphere was said to have been most cordial.

NIGHT

The importance of the talks and their wide variety were indicated by the heavy exchange of messages between the United States Embassy here and the State Department and the White House in Washington.

Mr. Hopkins and Mr. Harriman spent most of today drafting cables to Washington and receiving a batch of messages bearing on the conversations.

Mr. Stalin was reported extremely busy at this time and some observers said that his willingness to hold three lengthy discussions on three consecutive evenings indicated that highly-important issues were being given a thorough airing.

The British Ambassador to Moscow, Sir Archibald Clark-Kerr, returned to the Soviet Union after several weeks' leave. The Ambassador was accompanied on his return trip by Lt. Gen. James Gammel, new chief of the British military mission in the Soviet Union.

General Gammel's son, Major James Gammel, came to Moscow with his father as his military aide. General Gammel and Sir Archibald met numerous colleagues in the diplomatic corps.

CZECH PURGE REPORTED

Tass Says 2 Collaborationists Were Executed, Generals Seized

MOSCOW, May 28 (AP).—A general clean-up of Nazi sympathizers and collaborators in Czechoslovakia was reported today in a Tass dispatch from Prague.

Two Czechs were executed in the town of Tabor for informing on Czech patriots, Tass said. They were Yarowslaw Rynesh, former director of the Commercial Academy of Tabor, and Zdenek Kral, a former postal employe.

A group of generals, including Jan Syrovy and Yaroslaw Emminger, and five other persons, including Col. Bogumil Konechny, were arrested for collaboration, the agency reported.

The National Union of Czech Journalists expelled forty-seven members for collaboration and eleven editors were handed over to police.

Swedish Foes Hit By Red

Moscow, May 28 (AP)—A Pravda political commentator wrote today that Fascist and Nazi adherents in Sweden are attempting to sow discord between that kingdom and Russia.

"It is time to end this," the writer, Konstantin Demidov, said. "The Swedish people have a right for peaceful collaboration with democratic peoples. There is no doubt but that the people of Sweden want friendly relations with the Soviet Union."

Attacks Some U. S. Newspapers.

Moscow, May 28 (A. P.).—Pravda writer Sergeeva, in an article from San Francisco, said today that President Roosevelt's death had encouraged the hopes of American reactionaries. Commenting on American press coverage of the San Francisco conference, she said that some newspapers "gave and are giving space in their pages for articles whose single aim is to disorientate public opinion and poison the atmosphere of the conference."

"The first violin," she added, "is by the press of Hearst, McCormick, Patterson and Scripps Howard." These papers, she said, "assure their readers that the Soviet delegation is trying to hamper the work of the conference. They carry on an uncontrollable anti-Soviet campaign."

She added that even independent newspapers were showing a tendency to campaign against collaboration of the Allies. In connection with this statement she mentioned the Washington Post, the New York Times, the New York Post and the San Francisco Chronicle.

Fighting in Syria Spreads, 'General Clash' Is Feared

French Troops Battle Natives in Streets of Two Towns.

O'Brien

DAMASCUS, May 28 — (AP) Street fighting which broke out late yesterday between the French and Syrians in the Arab patriot center of Hama tonight had spread to Homs and Premier Jamil Mardam Bey expressed fear a "general clash" might be near.

Best reports placed casualties in Hama, 150 miles north of here, at more than 200 with a considerable part of that figure expected to be dead.

The only confirmed report of casualties in Homs, 30 miles south of Hama, was the killing of a seven-year-old girl by a Senegalese soldier. Her brother, 15, was wounded.

NIGHT

French Handed Note

(Reuters said in a Cairo dispatch that Nokrashi Pasha, Egyptian prime minister, had received Jean Lescuyer, French minister, today and handed him a note for the French government regarding the situation in the Levant. The dispatch said the two men then conferred with the Abdul Rahman Azzam Bey, secretary of the General Arab League, and with an official of the Egyptian ministry of foreign affairs.)

Shells from French 75's in Homs sprayed the Saray (government building) and knocked out one wall. Today the French had the main street of Homs under continual crossfire and were shooting at anything that moved.

The Syrians ambushed three French armored automobiles near the French garrison on a hill dominating the town from the southwest and captured all three. Six members of the crews were killed and three wounded.

Strength of the French at Homs and Hama is unknown here but it is believed there are fewer than 300 French and Senegalese troops in either place. They are known to have larger numbers of Syrian levees, who are considered undependable.

Latest reports had Bedouins moving into Hama from the desert to the east and French gendarmes occupying the railroad station.

(In Cairo Egyptian Prime Minister Mahmoud Fahmy El-Nokrashi Pasha told the Parliament that "the Egyptian government supports with all her might the governments of Syria and Lebanon in their insistence on full independence and sovereignty."

("I have confidence in the full cooperation of the league (Pan-Arab Leagues), the constitution of which lays down that the council should take the necessary measures to resist aggression against any member," he said.

(The prime minister asserted that "the increase in the number of French troops in the countries at this time" indicated "French pressure."

(He made his statement following a talk with French minister to Egypt Jean Lescuyer).

British Stand Ready

British authorities indicated that should the fighting flame through Syria and Lebanon their Ninth army units now in training in Syria might be summoned to restore order.

Mardam Bey issued a statement saying that "the French fired upon the people of Hama" at dusk Sunday and "the people then attacked the French garrison."

He said the French brought up reinforcements from Homs, 30 miles south of Hama, and communications with this Syrian capital were cut.

"The feeling now is so intense at Homs," he said, "that anything may happen there momentarily, and I don't know what may happen in Damascus. The police are trying to keep order but we fear the incidents may grow into a general clash."

The sound of scattered firing could be heard in Damascus, along with deeper detonations of mortar or artillery shells.

Aleppo and the Lebanese capital of Beyrouth last were reported quiet, but it was feared the news of the fighting in Hama might start a wave of uprisings racing through the two independent states of the Levant.

"On Way To Orient"

The United States Minister, George Wadsworth, conferred for two and a half hours with Mardam Bey and was reported to have urged strongly that the Syrians maintain order until diplomatic action in Paris eases the crisis.

[The French issued a statement in Paris yesterday saying that the colonial troops whose arrival in Syria touched off the crisis were not reinforcements but were enroute to the Orient. The Syrians said the troops were a display of force by the French to obtain bases.]

Both the French and the Syrians still were organizing their defenses inside Damascus. The Christian quarter of the city has remained loyal to the Syrian Government and is likewise organizing its defenses.

Should trouble come to Damascus, the French would find themselves badly outnumbered at the outset.

Population Armed

While the French have 2,000 troops here, all but 800 are Syrian levies, some of whom already have begun to desert.

The Syrians have 1,200 police armed with rifles, pistols and a few machine guns and mortars, and the population of 350,000 is heavily armed.

On the other hand, the French have two batteries of light artillery, ten light tanks and ten armored cars. The Syrians have no planes and the French have only three here.

The French today requisitioned 50 American lend-lease trucks from the British, French, Syrian and Lebanese wheat distribution center and used them to transport troops in the Aleppo area.

Ten other trucks, loaded with poison bran en route to the Euphrates region where locusts are menacing crops, also were commandeered by the French in Damascus.

FRENCH TROOPS CLASH AT HAMA WITH SYRIANS

Crisis Is Growing Worse and Fears for General Fight Are Expressed.

SPORADIC FIRING CONTINUES

In Meantime, Allied Diplomats Are Striving to Prevent Open Conflict in Area.

Damascus, May 28 (A. P.).—Jamil Mardam Bey, acting Premier of Syria, said today that French troops yesterday had fired upon the people of Hama, north of Damascus on the road to Aleppo, and he expressed fear of a general clash between French and Syrians.

The acting Premier issued a statement in which he said that after the French opened fire at Hama, "the people then attacked the French garrison. The French called reinforcements from Homs. There is now fighting in the streets. Communications are cut off.

"The feeling now is so intense at Homs that anything may happen there momentarily, and I don't know what may happen at Damascus. The gendarmerie is trying to keep order, but we fear the incidents may grow into a general clash."

He made the statement after a conference with United States Minister George Wadsworth and British Charge d'Affaires Gerald Young. It was understood the American Minister strongly urged the Syrians to exert every effort to maintain order until diplomatic action in Paris has had its chance to become effective.

Scattered Firing

There was scattered firing throughout Damascus and occasional detonations from mortar or shell fire. The streets were deserted, except for gendarme patrols, but lights in numerous windows indicated that many people had been awake throughout the night.

DAY

A possibility existed that British 9th Army units, now in Syria for training, might undertake to prevent further hostilities, should the fighting become general.

Since communications were cut at Hama, there was no word from Aleppo. Beyrouth was reported quiet last night.

Uprisings Feared

It was generally believed that news of the apparent French attempt to occupy Hama and of the street fighting there would cause uprisings throughout Syria and perhaps Lebanon.

At noon today the news was spreading rapidly in the capital.

Wadsworth has rushed a full account of the developments to Washington, after talking with Mardam Bey.

The French have about 2,000 troops in their Syrian forces, and all but 800 are Syrian conscripts who were believed likely to desert in the event of fighting.

Baltimore Bombers Seized

The French have machine guns, mortars, two batteries of light artillery, ten light tanks and ten armored cars. They have three planes, variously described as old German Junkers and lend-lease Baltimore Bombers.

Today the French requisitioned at least 50 American trucks bought through lend-lease channels for the British, French, Syrian and Lebanese wheat distribution center. They are using them to transport troops from the Aleppo region. Another ten, loaded with poison bran en route to the Euphrates region, where locusts are menacing crops, also were commandeered by the French in Damascus.

The Syrians have 1,200 police and gendarmes armed with rifles, pistols, machine guns, mortars and a heavily armed populace of 350,000 at Damascus. The Christian quarter of the town thus far has exhibited complete loyalty to the Syrian Government and, like the others, is organizing defense of its own quarter.

Damascus Situation Tense.

London, May 28 (A. P.).—Sandbagged buildings in Damascus bristled with guns today and the population of the Syrian capital was reported in an ugly mood.

Volunteers were swelling the ranks of the Syrian National Guard and the country's leaders were demanding a last-ditch fight against the French and calling for Allied aid to Syria and Lebanon.

The crisis arose when the Syrians accused the French Government of trying to apply force to gain concessions. The French, who recognize the independence of Syria and Lebanon but insist upon the right to bases as a link to the Far East, issued an official statement in Paris last night. It expressed regret that the governments of the two nations had used the arrival of Senegalese troops as a reason for breaking off negotiations. The troops, the French asserted, actually were en route to the Orient.

U.S. Urges Restraint On Both Sides In Levant

Washington, May 28 (AP)—The State Department said today the United States is "continuing earnestly to urge the French Lebanese and Syrian governments to refrain from taking any action which might aggravate" the present situation in Lebanon and Syria where injury and loss of life already have occurred.

Joseph C. Grew, Acting Secretary of State, said disorders had occurred in those two places following the recent arrival of French troops in Lebanon.

"Deep Regret"

Expressing "deep regret over the clashes, Grew declared that it was particularly unfortunate that differences between members of the United Nations have resulted in loss of life at a time when they are trying to perfect an international security organization.

He declared the United States was urging the three foreign governments to refrain from any action which might "render still more difficult the reaching of an amicable and equitable settlement in a friendly atmosphere."

He added that during recent months this government has repeatedly urged France, Lebanon and Syria to make every effort to reach a friendly agreement which would be "fully consistent" with the independence of the latter countries and which would take cognizance of French interests.

Vatican Trucks Deliver Foods To Trieste

Heinzerling

Trieste, May 28 (AP)—Five large Vatican trucks with trailers, loaded to the top with food supplies, rolled into Trieste today, bringing food for Trieste citizens now experiencing some of their leanest days since the start of the war.

Pope Pius XII arranged the shipment for distribution by Catholic institutions in Trieste.

Bread Improves

The Yugoslav administration has been trying to improve the food situation, and considerable shipments of grain and flour have resulted in a bettering of the quality of the bread. The daily bread ration remains small, and meat, butter and eggs are almost impossible to obtain.

Marshal Tito's recent note to London and Washington in which he indicated his approval of Allied administration of the city and made proposals for Yugoslav participation, appears to have convinced citizens of Trieste that their period of tenseness has vanished for good. There is a general feeling that present negotiations must be waited out patiently.

Yanks Challenged

Correspondents were permitted to disclose today that the Yugoslavs had challenged the right of the Americans to move into a new area north of Gorizia, and had demanded they move. No shots were fired and the difficulty was settled between Yugoslav, American and British commanders.

The American troops involved in the incident are now planning soccer games with the Yugoslavs.

MYERS HEADS AIR UNIT

Former West Point Football Star in Command of Twelfth

ROME, May 28 (AP)—Brig. Gen. Charles T. Myers of San Antonio, Tex., a West Point football star of the early 1920's, has been named commander of the United States Twelfth Air Force, succeeding Maj. Gen. Benjamin W. Chidlaw, who has received an undisclosed assignment, it was announced today.

General Myers' former post as Chief of Staff of the Twelfth Air Force went to Col. John W. Sessums Jr. of Alexandria, Va., a University of Tennessee graduate, who had been Chief of Staff of the Twenty-second Tactical Command.

German Food Discovered In Italy

With the U.S. 5th Army in Italy, May 28 (AP)—The 5th Army today announced the discovery of more German dumps in northern Italy with "practically the entire ration" necessary to feed all Nazi prisoners in Italy from enemy reserves.

The present German prisoner ration consists of a mixture of United States and German supplies. No fresh meat is being served.

A shortage of mess kits, caused when the Germans discarded equipment in their flight at the close of the Italian campaign, was solved with the discovery of a German factory at Bassano turning out 230,000 kits a week.

Thousands of captured horses are being used to haul supplies. Some are being lent to Italian farmers. Well-organized German railway construction units are repairing damaged lines.

MAY 29 1945

Spain Doubles Laval Guard

New York, May 28 (AP)—Rumors that French Partisans are plotting to abduct Pierre Laval have caused Spanish authorities to redouble the guards at Monjuich fortress, where he is being detained, the French press agency said today.

The broadcast, quoting advices from Madrid, was recorded here.

The Spanish Government thus far has taken no action on French demands that it surrender Laval, former chief of government in the Vichy regime, for trial on a charge of high treason.

Madrid dispatches say Spain has taken the position that she will give Laval to an Allied commission for trial as a war criminal, but that surrendering him to France would constitute turning over a political prisoner.

SPAIN HOLDS DEGRELLE

MADRID, May 28—(AP) Official Spanish sources said tonight that Spain was not prepared to hand Leon DeGrelle, leader of the Pro-Nazi Rexist organization, over to Belgian authorities directly.

These sources said that DeGrelle's position was considered similar to that of Pierre Laval, and that Spain was prepared to negotiate surrender of both men to an Allied commission.

DeGrelle now is recovering from a shoulder injury received as a result of a beach landing at San Sebastian by the German plane which brought him from Norway.

Extradition Of Degrelle Refused, Report

Brussels, May 28 (AP)—Unofficial reports were circulated today that Spain had refused to extradite Leon Degrelle, Belgian quisling.

Officials were silent, but it was believed that the Franco Government had communicated a decision in the case. Degrelle fled to Spain while Germany was collapsing.

MADRID, May 28 (AP)—Germans here lacking residence permits or diplomatic standing were lining up today at Police Headquarters to obtain documents like those required of anti-Nazi refugees stranded in Spain since the war began.

The documents must be stamped by the police weekly. The Germans formerly were under protection of their embassy, now closed.

Representatives of the United States, British and French Embassies and a delegate from the Spanish Foreign Office inspected the embassy today. One of the diplomats turned a picture of Adolf Hitler draped in black to the wall. A large strongbox, marked "Private Secret—Property of the German Army" was left inside the embassy after reports to open it proved fruitless.

2000 Refugees Return to Denmark

Copenhagen, May 28 (A. P.).—The first 2,000 Danish refugees from Sweden arrived today from Malmo for repatriation. Officials said that 300 Danish Nazis who fled to Sweden during the occupation would not return at present, but would remain in Swedish concentration camps until requisitioned by the Danish Government.

One press report predicted that 7,000 Danes would eventually face charges of collaboration.

NIPS MAY GIVE UP SOUTH CHINA FIGHT

Chinese Strike Lifeline to Southeast Asia at 5 Points.

CHUNGKING, May 28 — (AP) Chinese battle groups ground into Japan's trans-China lifeline to Southeast Asia at five points along a vast 850-mile front tonight amid indications the Japanese might be preparing to quit south China.

There were signs that the Japanese were contemplating, if not preparing to pull out entirely of the southern end of the vital transcontinental corridor. Such a withdrawal would cut off all overland escape routes for Japanese armies in Burma, Malaya, Thailand and Indo-China and force suicide stands against the Allies.

Some Chungking quarters attributed signs of a large-scale Japanese withdrawal northward toward the Yangtze river to a Japanese fear that Russia may enter the war. Important changes in Japanese strategy in China were expected within a month.

One unconfirmed report of Chungking asserted that Japanese forces in the Netherlands East Indies were attempting to evacuate to Southeast Asia as part of a general withdrawal toward Manchuria.

The reports—partly speculative—followed hot on the heels of the greatest Chinese victory in months, the recapture of Yungning (Nanning), one of the major Japanese strongholds in south China.

Yungning's fall cut the primary overland highway supply route to Southeast Asia, and today the Chinese high command said that Chinese troops were tearing deeper into the southern end of the 850-mile fighting front running from north to south across the heart of the Chinese mainland.

Spearheading the southern Kwangsi province attack, which the high command termed an "offensive," were veteran troops under Gen. Chang Fah Kwei, leader of the old Fourth Nationalist army—"the Ironsides"—which achieved fame in Chinese Civil war days.

Fanning out from Yungning, Gen. Chang's forces began to mop up enemy remnants in the vicinity of the city, 470 miles south of Chungking and 78 miles from Indo-China, and by last night had cleared the north bank of the Si (west river).

Surrounded, Attacked

Enemy forces which withdrew to the south bank—in the area of the projected Japanese railroad from Liuchow to Indo-China—were being surrounded and attacked, a communique said.

Chang's forces also were attacking the west flank of Japan's overland corridor on a 60-mile front north of Yungning and reached the outskirts of Pinyang, 58 miles northeast. Pinyang's capture would consolidate the Chinese hold on the overland highway to Indo-China and reduce Japanese chances of rewinning Yungning.

Ninety miles north of Yungning, the Chinese were attacking at a second point along the west wall of the Japanese corridor—and were striking eastward toward the former big U. S. air base of Liuchow, which was heavily strafed by U. S. 14th air force fighter-bombers.

From captured Hwaiyuanchen, the Chinese crossed a north-south stretch of the Yung river seven miles west of the Japanese bastion of Ishan and were advancing toward that strongpoint, 43 miles east of Liuchow.

Another 220 miles to the northeast, a third Chinese column pressed six miles along the Chihkiang highway toward the former American base of Shaoyang (Paoching).

Authorities permitted disclosure that China's American-trained new Sixth army which fought in Burma was spearheading this drive in western Hunan province. The American-equipped troops reached a point 12 miles west of Shaoyang and were locked in a swaying battle on plateau-land near Tantow, 19 miles northwest of Shaoyang.

Yanks Bomb Bridges

American fliers heavily pounded railroad bridges and installations at Shaoyang, Hengyang and Changsha.

Two other Chinese groups were attacking in southern and western Honan province up to 400 miles northeast of Chungking.

With the support of American and Chinese planes, Chinese forces in southern Honan Sunday launched a drive against Japanese forces at Hsihsiakow and inflicted high losses, a Chinese communique said. A few hours earlier, the Chinese foiled five Japanese columns which moved out of Hsihsiakow in an attempt to encircle Chinese forces which had moved within one and a half miles west of the Japanese base.

Chinese Push 60 Miles Beyond Nanning

Chungking, May 28 (AP)—Chinese troops, pushing deeply into the enemy's overland corridor to Indo-China, have reached the vicinity of Pingyang, 60 miles northeast of recaptured Nanning, the Chinese high command announced today.

The march carried the Chinese almost a third of the way from Nanning to Kweilin in northeastern Kwangsi, one of the first United States air bases lost to the enemy in the Japanese advance several months ago, which established a link across China from Manchuria to Indo-China.

The inland port of Nanning (Yungning), one of the most important stations on the overland route through Changsha, Kweilin and Hengyang, was recaptured over the week end in one of the most promising Chinese counteroffensives of the war.

Troops Under Fah-Kwei

Recapture of Nanning was the feat of troops under Gen. Chang Fah-kwei, leader of the old 4th Nationalist Army, "the Ironsides," which gained fame during China's civil war. He is now commander of Chinese forces in southeastern China.

His troops did not have the benefit of either American training or equipment.

The fall of Nanning came as a surprise in Chungking, since no word of the offensive had been given out. The high command's announcement was based on a brief radio message from Fah-kwei that the city had been taken.

Only 78 Miles From Border

Reoccupation of the inland port was announced last night by the Chinese high command.

Nanning, the first important American air base site to be rewon since last year's sweeping enemy offensive, is 470 miles south of Chungking and only 78 miles from the Indo-China border. It is situated on the Si River 430 miles above Canton and about 70 miles from the Gulf of Tonkin.

French Soldier Is Survivor Of Mass Execution By Japs

Kunming, China, May 28 (AP)—A French soldier from Indo-China told today of being cut down by the sword of a Japanese executioner and of escaping from a mass grave into which he and 53 comrades were toppled.

He is Lance Corporal Fernand Cron, from a French village near La Rochelle, who was a telephone operator in a small fort overlooking Dongdang when the Japanese struck March 9.

There were 170 French and Annamite troops defending the little concrete fortification when the Japanese opened fire. After two days of fighting, Cron said, Japanese emissaries demanded unconditional surrender.

"No, we will fight to the last man," shouted back the captain in command.

Japanese Force Entrance

That night Japanese anti-tank guns knocked out the fort's machine-gun emplacements. The Japanese then forced an entrance and the captain ran up the white flag.

Cron said the Japanese general commended the captain, said the defenders had fought like lions, and told him to go felicitate his troops, who were lined up under the muzzles of Japanese machine guns.

When the captain returned he was forced to sit on the veranda of the barracks with the Japanese general and seven of his aides.

"I saw them talking," Cron said. "I couldn't hear what was said. They seemed to be getting along all right but one of the aides got up, walked behind the captain, and struck him on the back of the head with his sword still in its scabbard.

French Captain Killed

"The captain fell over. Then another officer stepped up and shot him in the head where he lay.

"We stood terrified and silent. The machine guns were pointing at us. Then a Japanese officer came to us and chose one third of the Europeans and one third of the Annamite troops as hostages. We were nine Europeans and there were 40 Annamites."

The hostages were taken along with two Annamite women, who had been in the fort, to a customs office where the French customs officer of Dongdang and the postmaster were added to the party.

The Japanese took all their clothing and at 7 P.M. on the evening of March 12 the 53 were led out with their hands tied behind them.

Forced To Kneel By Trench

"We were led to a place opposite the railway station where there were slit trenches around some anti-aircraft positions," Cron said.

"The ropes tying us together by twos were cut. We were forced to kneel along a semi-circular trench. The soldiers guarding us had bayonets on their rifles. Several had swords.

"The executioners started to work. I heard a friend of mine cry out 'Vive la France' three times before he was struck a final blow.

"I saw how I might hold my head low at the same time balancing on the edge of the trench so I could fall forward at the first strike.

"I was already tipping forward when the sword struck. I fell into the trench and lay quiet. A body fell on top of me. A soldier holding a rifle by the butt jammed a bayonet six times into that body but he didn't touch me.

Lay Still About 20 Minutes

"I lay for about twenty minutes until I no longer heard the Japanese about. Two of the Annamites who also had not been killed left the trench before I crawled out. They had managed to get the ropes off their hands and freed mine.

"We fled. Once we heard Japanese on the road as we hid in a rice paddy. Looking back I saw a fire burning where the executions had taken place. I believe the Japanese had come back and poured petrol on the bodies."

Cron said he made his way into China over tortuous mountain trails.

He loosened his collar. On the back of his neck was a scar four inches long and a half inch wide where the sword had struck.

YANKS OPEN GATE TO JAP FORTRESS HAMPSON

Fall of Sante Fe Paves Way Into Enemy-Infested Cagayan Valley.

MANILA, Tuesday, May 29. — (AP) Santa Fe, important road junction on the mountainous approach to the Japanese-infested Cagayan valley of northern Luzon, fell to battle-weary doughboys of the 25th division Sunday. Thousands of enemy troops are in the rich valley.

The Yanks entered Santa Fe against minor opposition after a lengthy mountain drive. The 32nd division, moving along the Villa Verde trail from the west, was within three miles of the town.

Hard Fight Ahead

From Santa Fe the Americans must traverse 75 miles of twisting road before they reach the Cagayan valley, last major Japanese strongpoint in the Philippines. At the northern end of the 110-mile-long valley is the sizable port of Appari.

Field commanders expect a fight every bit of the way.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced the capture today in a communique which reported that bombers dropped 450 tons of explosives on enemy positions in support of the drive against the last sizable Japanese position on Luzon.

On Mindanao, MacArthur said, "our forces with air support continue to push the enemy farther back into the hills."

Light bombers and strafing planes penetrated clouds, squalls and fog to pound industrial targets along the west coast of Formosa. Alcohol plants, oil refinery facilities and rail yards were set afire, at a cost of two planes.

Several coastal ships were sunk in the Hong Kong vicinity, transportation equipment on Hainan island was wrecked and rail cities in Indo-China were pounded as bombers swept the China sea area.

Troops Reach Djoeata

Australian and East Indies troops reach Djoeata, on the north coast of Tarakan island off Borneo. Eight Japanese planes raiding the area at night were driven off by antiaircraft fire.

Between the 25th division at Santa Fe and the agriculturally-rich Cagayan valley is more than 75 miles of twisting road, about half of it through a canyon and the remainder through the mountains.

Maj. Gen. Charles L. Mullins' battle-worn 25th pushed into Santa Fe against slight resistance and held ridges on three sides of the town. The Japanese, however, still held high ground on the west, where the 32nd division was approaching.

The Yanks counted 175 Japanese dead around Santa Fe but the majority of the garrison was believed to have retreated to the hills. Capture of Santa Fe, an important road junction, followed a wide encircling move in which the Americans toiled over sheer cliffs to eliminate enemy mountain positions.

Highway No. 5 thus was opened to Santa Fe, but from there the Americans face a 185-mile march through the Cagayan valley to Aparri. The entire route is expected to be bitterly contested.

Northeast of Manila the 38th division increased its pressure on the Japanese at Wawa dam amid fierce fighting.

On Mindanao the 24th division hammered enemy troops wedged behind Davao while the 31st division encountered the first Japanese resistance line since bisecting the Sayre north-south highway last week in a juncture with the 40th and Americal divisions.

The infantrymen made contact with a Japanese force about five miles east of Malaybalay.

The Japanese are expected to make the final stand of their Luzon campaign in the Cagayan country where they have at least three major airfields.

2 FIGHTS RAGE IN PHILIPPINES

Yanks Meet Resistance on Luzon and Mindanao.

HUTCHESON

Manila, May 28 (A. P.).—Fighting flared on two Luzon battlefronts today as Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced that 378 427 Japanese have been killed in the Philippines campaign. Of these 8,101 were added the past week. American casualties are about 50,000, including killed, wounded and missing.

A tank-led Thirty-eighth Division column spearing up the Marikina Road east of Manila was locked in battle Sunday with the Japanese in a canyon near Wawa Dam.

Wawa, a minor source of Manila [illegible] is military important because the surrounding defenses make it a formidable section of the enemy's Sierra Madre Mountain ramparts called the Shimbu line.

The armored column approached the dam from the south along a road paralleling the Mari-Kina River. It took the town of San Rafael and reached the gorge without opposition. Then at the mouth of the gorge the enemy opened up with all types of weapons and the column was halted after establishing a narrow foothold. The fight for the dam raged today.

Close In on Santa Fe.

The Thirty-second Division, advancing on Highway 5, and the Twenty-fifth, on the Villa Verde Trail, closed in on Santa Fe. Both had patrols in the town and it appeared that the city was in the process of changing hands Saturday.

Major-Gen. Charles L. Mullins Jr.'s Twenty-fifth Division has killed an estimated 7,000 to 8,000 Japanese during fighting between recently captured Palete Pass and Santa Fe. Fairly stiff losses have been suffered. Santa Fe is at the mouth of the Cagayan Valley, which runs to the north end of Luzon and in which the Japanese are compressed for their probable last stand on Luzon.

The next big fight is expected to develop around Aritao, a valley village about four miles from Santa Fe on Highway 5.

West of Davao elements of the Twenty-fourth were cleaning out Japanese positions flanking a secondary road leading into the interior which is still a possible escape route for the Davao Japanese garrison.

Long-range patrol planes smashed at targets on the Asiatic coast, taking an additional toll of Japan's dwindling number of small cargo ships.

Fifth Air Force Liberators sank a large freighter in the mouth of the Yangtze River and bombed Shanghai fuel dumps.

Red Cross Chief Arrives In Manila

Manila, May 28 (AP)—Basil O'Connor, national chairman of the American Red Cross, arrived today on the last leg of a tour of South and Southwest Pacific army and navy bases.

He will confer with United States military and Philippine Commonwealth officials concerning anticipated increased needs for Red Cross service. Similar conversations previously were held at Honolulu, Guam, Tinian, Saipan and Kwajalein.

O'Connor was accompanied by Powen McCoy, deputy Red Cross commissioner for the Pacific Ocean areas; Lewis H. Bowen, Red Cross public relations director, and Lieut. Com. Walter L. K[illegible], representing the Navy.

P-47's Hit Japan From Ryukyus

By Vern Haugland

Okinawa, May 28 (AP)—United States Army Thunderbolt fighter planes based in the Ryukyus made their first stiff attack on Japan's mainland last Thursday, it was disclosed today.

The P-47's of the 318th Fighter Group raided southern Ryushu, repeated target for Marianas-based Superfortresses and Navy carrier aircraft.

Thunderbolt formations attacked runways, hangars and shops of airfields at Kanoya, Kushura and Miyazaki, dive-bombing, strafing and rocket-blasting the Japanese installations.

Kagoma Strafed

The P-47's that started large fires at Kanoya also strafed Kagoma, setting the railroad station and barracks afire. Four railroad locomotives and four cars were damaged.

Another formation turned south of Miyabaki and scored many rocket hits on a large factory at Meizu. Large columns of smoke were observed. This formation also strafed a small town northeast of Kushura.

The fast fighters attacked Japanese boats and landing craft off Kuyshu. One Japanese fighter that approached the American planes was attacked by four Thunderbolts. It was sent spinning into the sea 3 miles off Kyushu.

1119 JAP SHIPS SUNK BY U. S. SUBS

MAY 29 1945

Guam, May 28 (A. P.).—Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, in one of his infrequent disclosures of United States submarine activity, has credited the underseas service with having sunk 1,119 Japanese ships totaling 4,500,000 tons. Nimitz told fourteen submarine officers and men to whom he made valor awards that the submersibles had sunk 126 enemy combat ships and 993 merchant vessels and helped to "all but sever lines which connected the Japanese empire with their stolen possessions." Nearly half of the Japanese tonnage sunk, 2,000,000 tons, was sent to the bottom in the last year.

Hawaii Sugar Planters Want Filipino Workers

Honolulu, May 28 (AP)—The Hawaii Sugar Planters' Association today asked Gov. I. M. Stainback to authorize importation of 6,000 workers from the Philippines to relieve a critical Hawaii manpower shortage.

Chauncey Wightman, association secretary, said the association made the proposal after learning that many thousand Filipinos are in need of employment to earn money for rehabilitation of their families and homes.

Those brought here would be free to return to the Phipippines after completion of their contracts.

Hirohito Gets Report From Premier

San Francisco, May 28 (A. P.).—Premier Kantaro Suzuki of Japan made a report "on the general state of affairs" in a special audience with the Emperor Hirohito today, the Tokyo radio declared in a broadcast recorded by the FCC.

WORKABLE PEACE NEEDS REAL UNITY, SAYS STETTINIUS

Conference Warned Charter Must Have Basis of Collaboration.

STATES U. S. STAND

Five-Point Declaration of Foreign Policy Outlined By State Secretary.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 28—(AP) Secretary of State Stettinius forecast tonight that the United Nations conference will write a charter gleaming with "great hope of lasting peace,' but he tempered his prediction with a single all-important question:

"Will it work?"

That will depend, Stettinius declared in a broadcast, on a will to peace among nations and on world collaboration in which he selected the United States for the role of leader and mediator among great powers and champion of human rights and fundamental freedoms for all peoples.

Big Issue in Focus

Before he spoke, Australian Foreign Minister Herbert V. Evatt brought into sharper focus the biggest issue at the conference by challenging great-nation veto power over peaceful settlement of international disputes. He called it "preposterous" and a "dangerous blot" on a proposed world charter.

Stettinius combined a five-point declaration of United States foreign policy with an analysis of conference accomplishments and prospects in an address prepared for radio transmission to Americans at home and in uniform overseas.

His points:

1. Winning final victory in war and guaranteeing that Germany and Japan never again shall be able to wage war.

2. Extension into years of peace of the war-time community of purpose achieved among great nations.

3. Assuring justice and fair dealing for all peoples and states.

4. Advancing social and economic conditions which "create a climate for peace"

5. Realizing no nation's sovereignty is absolute, that no nation has complete freedom of decision.

Unity Is Main Aim

"I wish to make it absolutely clear," the secretary said, "that the primary objective of United States foreign policy is to continue and strengthen in the period of peace that wartime solidarity which has made possible the defeat of Germany.

"This is as true of our relations with the Soviet Union as it is of our relations with Great Britain, China and France. There have been differences between us. There will continue to be differences. But the effectiveness of our war-time collaboration has demonstrated that our differences can be adjusted."

He called for common understandings on such thorny issues as achieving agreement with Russia and Britain on reorganization of the Polish government. Negotiations toward that end, he said, "have been disappointing."

To Argentina, Stettinius declared the United States vote to seat her at this conference of 49 nations means no blanket endorsement of policies of her government.

America, Stettinius said, now expects Argentina to fulfill all her newly-undertaken commitments to "democratic and peaceful policies of coopertaion."

Defending the right of great powers to dominate efforts of a world organization to preserve peace, Stettinius said it is not a question of privileged position but of using a concentration of military and industrial power to maintain world security.

Permanent membership and unanimity of action by the great nations in a proposed world security council is essential, he said, lest the council "be helpless to enforce its decisions."

Aim Is Peace

"The five great nations," he asserted, "have come here with the other United Nations to form an organization for peace—not to conspire for war. Their intentions are honorable and their necessities for peace are fully as urgent as those of any other nation, large or small.

Thus the head of the American delegation aligned it solidly behind broad veto powers for the Big Five, whose technical experts had completed during the day an interpretation of the veto authority. It was reported to state that a single big power could block any positive action, but not the airing of a dispute in the security council.

Evatt, replying to questions, said he believed "there is a distinct majority" of conference members in favor of lifting the veto from investigation and peaceful settlements.

Asked whether Australia would fight on in open conference sessions if the big power veto interpretation does not go far enough, Evatt replied, "We'll make that hurdle when we come to it."

The conference is well along with its work. Many provisions of a charter for a new world organization already have been written. Enough has been done to assure some degree of international cooperation to lead the world out of a succession of wars and toward the goal of enduring peace.

This is to be accomplished through a security council empowered to take stern measures to prevent war, a general assembly of all the United Nations which will serve as a forum for considering world problems, a new international court, and a council for cooperation in adjusting social and economic problems, which in the past have led to conflict.

Many Questions Wait

Many questions still must be resolved before the charter appears in final form. The biggest of these continues to be whether each of the Big Five — the United States, France, China, Russia and Britain —shall have the right to block peace-enforcement efforts in the security council.

Small powers have been battling the big ones, contending the veto should not extend to investigation and peaceful settlement of disputes.

As an answer to a series of questions the little nations have propounded on how the veto would work, Big Five technical experts agreed today on an interpretation which reportedly will say the great powers can't prevent discussion of any dispute, but must take any positive action unanimously.

It was understood the policy statement is being transmitted to

MAY 29 1945

London, Paris, Moscow and Chungking for approval by the various governments. It may not be submitted to the conference for several days.

As a dozen conference committees pushed ahead on drafting final details of the charter for a new international league, these additional problems still had to be disposed of:

1. Should the security council have at its call for emergency use against an aggressor, an air force alone, or a mixed contingent of sky, sea and land forces?

2. Should any country which would be called upon to supply armed forces have the right to participate in council decisions involving the use of its men and equipment?

3. Should the general assembly have the right to approve or disapprove reports from the security council on measures it has adopted or applied in matters involving maintenance of peace and security?

4. Should the proposed new court of international justice have compulsory jurisdiction over international league controversies?

5. What provision should be made for opening the charter to amendments if revision appears necessary later on?

In addition, Russia is talking of reopening the question of whether the world organization should be able to expel wayward members. The Big Five failed last week to get the two-thirds committee majority necessary to write in an expulsion provision.

Conference commissions, which have to ratify committee decisions before they are handed over to the entire conference for ultimate approval, are expected to shift into high gear later in the week. Their sessions will be open to the public.

The conference still is shooting at signing a charter and adjourning by the middle or end of next week. President Truman, the White House says, will arrive at the Golden Gate "on or about June 6."

Text of Stettinius' Speech Projecting a Five-Point Foreign Policy for This Country

Following is the text of Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius Jr.'s radio address, as recorded and transcribed by THE NEW YORK TIMES:

The United Nations Conference on International Organization is now in its fifth week. I feel that the time has come for me, as Secretary of State and chairman of the United States delegation, to report to the American people and to our armed forces throughout the world on the progress we have made here in San Francisco.

Predicts Strong Charter

After one month of work, I can now report to you my confidence that we will succeed in writing a strong and democratic charter solidly based on the Dumbarton Oaks proposals with which we started.

At the very outset of our work, we were confronted with a number of urgent problems. There was the question of seating the Bielo-Russian and Ukrainian Republics and the Argentine and the further problem of how Poland could be represented. These questions involved important issues affecting both the conference and United States foreign policy.

At the Crimea Conference the Soviet Union directed our attention to the grievous injuries sustained by the Bielo-Russian and Ukrainian peoples in their long and gallant struggle against the common enemy, and requested that these two republics be given membership in the proposed world organization. President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill agreed to support this request. The United States delegation fulfilled this pledge in the opening days of the conference.

No Principles Abandoned

The conference also voted to admit Argentina. I wish to make clear that the vote of the United States in favor of seating Argentina did not constitute a blanket endorsement of the policies of the Argentine Government. On the contrary, with many of these policies both the Government and the people of the United States have no sympathy.

We have in many ways abandoned the principles for which this country has always stood. We steadfastly adhere to those principles of morality and decency which were the basis of our foreign policy under the leadership of Franklin Roosevelt and Cordell Hull.

During the war the paramount aim of our policy in this hemisphere has been to eliminate Axis penetration and to unite all the Americas in the struggle against the evil forces which have attempted to destroy liberty and free institutions throughout the world.

We recognize that the people of Argentina have been traditionally democratic in their ideals and good friends of the people of the United States. The Mexico City Conference last March opened the way for Argentina to return to her traditional policies and restore the unity of the Americas.

After the conference Argentina took the first step in this direction. She declared war on the Axis and committed herself to the democratic and the peaceful politicies of cooperation agreed upon at Mexico City by signing the final act of that conference. As a further step in this process the American republics felt that Argentina should be admitted to the San Francisco Conference.

By voting to admit Argentina in these circumstances the United States, however, had by no means changed its position that Argentina is expected to carry out effectively all of her commitments under the Mexico City declaration. On the contrary, we consider that her admission to the San Francisco conference increases her obligation to do so. We expect the Argentine nation to see that this obligation is fulfilled.

The Case of Poland

The Soviet Union requested that Poland be represented at the conference by the Provisional Government in Warsaw, which is not recognized by a majority of the United Nations, including the United States.

It is a matter of deep regret to the United States that the people of Poland, who have suffered so terribly and fought so bravely during the war, are not represented in our deliberations. Poland is a United Nation and should be here. But there are two Polish Governments—the London Government and the Warsaw Provisional Government.

Last February it was agreed at Yalta that the Provisional Government now functioning in Warsaw should be reorganized on a broader democratic basis with the inclusion of democratic leaders from Poland itself and from Poles abroad. This new government, it was further agreed, should then be called the Polish Provisional Government of National Unity.

The Yalta agreement on this matter has not yet been carried out. The United States took the position that Poland could be represented only by a Polish Government formed in accordance with that agreement, and the Warsaw Provisional Government was not admitted to the conference.

The negotiations for reorganization of the Warsaw Provisional Government have been disappointing. It is the intention of the United States to exert all its influence, in collaboration with the Soviet Union and Great Britain, toward fulfillment of the Yalta agreement on Poland.

I wish to make it absolutely clear that the primary objective of the United States foreign policy is to continue and strengthen in the period of peace that wartime solidarity which made possible the defeat of Germany. This is as true of our relations with the Soviet Union as it is with our relations with Great Britain, China and France. There have been differences between us. There will continue to be differences. But the effectiveness of our wartime collaborations has demonstrated that our differences can be adjusted.

It is our purpose to seek constantly to broaden the scope of our agreement and to reach common understanding on those matters where it does not yet exist. We have the right to expect the same spirit and the same approach on the part of our great allies.

Example of Collaboration

Let me give you an example of our collaboration at the San Francisco Conference.

When Mr. Molotoff came to the United States, he planned to stay only a few days because of the heavy burden of his responsibilities in Moscow. He stayed here for over two weeks.

The reason Mr. Molotoff stayed longer than he had planned was this: The United States delegation wanted to make some important changes and additions in the Dumbarton Oaks proposals at San Francisco. The changes we had in mind reflected not only the views of the United States delegation, but those which had been expressed before the conference by other United Nations, particularly by some of the smaller powers. We felt that if we were able to sbumit these as the unanimously agreed amendments of the four sponsoring nations, not just as our own, they would have an important, indeed a decisive, effect on the whole work of the conference and the speed with which agreement on a charter could be reached.

So Mr. Molotoff stayed on and worked with Mr. Eden and Dr. Soong and myself on the United States proposals. They had important contributions to make of their own. I regard it as a great achievement and a good omen for the future that agreement was reached on the exact text of these important amendments by all four nations within a very few days.

When Mr. Molotoff came to see me to tell me that his Government agreed with us on the text of the last two remaining amendments he expressed again the importance which his Government attached to the successful establishment of the world organization and his satisfaction with the results of our collaboration toward making the charter of the organization better and stronger than it otherwise would have been. It was only after this agreement had been made complete that he said he felt it was appropriate for him to return to the important work which was awaiting him in Moscow.

The unanimity of the sponsoring powers on these amendments has had the decisive effect we expected it would have on the work of the conference. They have met with general approval among other nations at the conference and have greatly eased and speeded the task of the working committees.

After submission of the joint amendments of the four sponsoring powers, together with the amendments submitted by the other United Nations, the conference entered its working committee stage.

During the past two weeks general agreement has been reached on a number of other important tant points. Taken together with changes previously agreed upon, these form the basis of proposals which are now being drafted, section by section, into the charter.

I wish to point out what I consider to be the most significant of these changes.

The Security Council would be given additional powers to settle a dispute in its early stages and to stop preparations for war before war actually begins.

The relationship to the world organization of regional security arrangements like that contemplated in the Act of Chapultepec for the Western Hemisphere has been clarified by another provision.

The United States shared in the desire of the other American republics to maintain the inter-American system within the framework of the world organization. We also agreed that the world organization must be supreme in matters of enforcement. World peace is indivisible. The world organization must therefore have the right and the power to prevent or suppress aggression anywhere at any time. This conviction was embodied in the proposal put forward.

At the same time that proposal strengthens the role of regional organizations in peaceful settlement of disputes. It re-emphasizes the inherent right of self-defense and extends that right to a group of nations whenever an armed attack against one of them can rightfully be regarded as an attack against all of them until the world organization has taken effective action to restore peace.

The inter-American system is thus brought within the larger framework of the world organization. The United States intends to negotiate in the near future a treaty with its American neighbors which will put the Act of Chapultepec on a permanent basis, in harmony with the world charter.

Another amendment reaffirms that the responsibility for standing guard over the enemy powers shall be carried by the nations which defeated them. But for the first time it specifically opens the way for the world organization itself to assume this responsibility later on. It is our intention to continue collaborating to the fullest extent with our allies in order to achieve: first, the utter destruction of German militarism and nazism; and second, the absolute assurance that Germany shall never again be able to threaten its neighbors or disturb the peace of the world. Our policy toward Japan is directed in the same end.

Council Voting Procedure

Before leaving the discussion of the Security Council I want to refer to the question of voting procedure in the Council.

The conference has not yet taken final action on this matter. The Crimea proposals require that the five permanent members must agree to any enforcement action. There would be a similar requirement on action for the peaceful settlement of disputes, except that a party to a dispute must refrain from voting. This requirement, however, does not apply to the right of any nation to bring a dispute before the Council and to full discussion of the merits of its case. It applies only when the Council makes a decision involving positive action.

This provision has been criticized both here and elsewhere as giving a privileged position to the larger nations. This criticism is not justified. It is not a question of privilege, but of using the present distribution of military and industrial power in the world for the maintenance of peace.

The Security Council is the enforcement agency of the world organization, and hence must be the repository of its power to prevent aggression.

The five permanent members of the Security Council have at their disposal an overwhelming proportion of the men and the material necessary to enforce peace. Their permanent membership in the Security Council therefore becomes essential, for without their strength and their unanimous will to peace the Council would be helpless to enforce its decisions. And it must be remembered that any action taken by the Council toward settling a dispute may ultimately lead to the necessity for enforcement action if peaceful methods fail.

But, it is objected, what happens if one of the five permanent members embarks upon a course of aggression and refuses to recnize the machinery of the world organization? How can the aggressor be restrained if his own contrary vote prevents the Council from invoking force against him? In such an event, the answer is simple. Another world war has come, vote or no vote, and the world organization has failed.

Question an "Iffy" One

But I think we should not be too deeply concerned with the kind of question Franklin Roosevelt always characterized as "iffy." The five great nations have come here with the other United Nations to form an organization for peace, not to conspire for war.

Twice in the last thirty years they have fought side by side as allies—not as enemies. Their intentions are honorable and their necessities for peace are fully as urgent as those of any other nation, large or small. To assume that they seek to violate pledges rather than to enforce them is to oppose the existence of any organization for peace and to resign the world to an endless succession of wars.

Another important matter before the conference has been the establishment of a trusteeship system under which dependent areas may be placed by later agreements.

This subject was not discussed during the Dumbarton Oaks conversations. The United States Government felt that it was of the utmost importance that such a system be provided for in the charter. We therefore took the initiative in the discussions to that effect with the other sponsoring governments even before the conference began.

I think I can now say with assurance that, as a result of this American initiative, the charter will provide for an effective trusteeship system. It will not be all that we desire, but it will offer real opportunity for progress to dependent peoples.

In all the discussions on trusteeship the United States has continued to stand fast for provisions which will fully safeguard the control by the United States of those strategic points in the Pacific which are necessary for the defense of the United States and for world security within the trusteeship system but on conditions satisfactory to us.

And we have stood with equal firmness for a trusteeship system that will foster progress toward higher standards of living and the realization of human rights and freedoms for dependent peoples, including the right to independence or another form of self-government such as federation—whichever the people of the area may choose—when they are prepared and able to assume the responsibilities of national freedom as well as to enjoy its rights.

The United States has demonstrated this long-standing policy in the Philippines. It looks forward to the time when many other now dependent peoples may achieve the same goal.

Provisions of Prime Importance

30.24-27071

I regard the provisions which are being made in the charter for the advancement of dependent peoples, and for the promotion of human rights and freedoms, as of the greatest importance. Together with measures to strengthen the Economic and Social Council, they will help to bring the world organization closer to the needs of the peoples of the world. They will provide the means by which nations can work more effectively together for that economic and social development without which lasting peace is impossible.

We must realize that our most important task in the next decade is not likely the enforcement of peace, but to prepare the economic and social basis for peace. If the work of the Economic and the Social Council is well done, we will have gone far toward eliminating in advance the causes of another world war a generation hence.

This is the objective of the second group of new proposals put forward at San Francisco.

These new proposals state clearly that justice and international law, together with equal rights and self-determination of peoples, shall be the guiding principles of the new world organization. They embody a complete statute of a new Permanent Court of International Justice.

They stipulate that international cooperation in the protection and the promotion of individual human rights and freedoms for all, without distinction as to race, language, religion or sex, is a fundamental purpose of the world organization.

The Four Freedoms stated by our great President, Franklin D. Roosevelt—Freedom of Speech, Freedom of Religion, Freedom from Want and Freedom from Fear—are, from the point of view of the United States, the fundamental freedoms which encompass all other rights and freedoms.

The United States Government will work actively and tirelessly, both for its own people and—through the international organization—for peoples generally toward promoting respect for and the observance of these rights and freedoms.

We have conferred upon the Economic and Social Council the power to promote cultural and educational cooperation among the nations and made more specific its function in coordinating the activities of specialized intergovermental organizations dealing with labor and agriculture, finance, trade and other matters, all of them having as their ultimate objective higher living standards and full employment.

After the defeat of Japan millions of young men and women will return home to take their proper places in agriculture and in our enormously expanded productive system. We shall not be able to provide jobs for them if we have not helped, through the Economic and Social Council, to create those world-wide conditions under which other nations are able to purchase much greater quantities of our goods than ever before and we are able to buy more from them.

We must choose between a constantly expanding economy throughout the world and mass unemployment in our own country. Full participation in the Economic and the Social Council provides us with our greatest opportunity to break, once and for all, the vicious circle of isolationism, depression and war.

I look upon this charter as, in the deepest sense, a compact between peoples, reached through their Governments. Certainly the American delegation's part in the work of this conference has been carried out in the closest possible relationship with the American people. We have been in constant touch with the consultants representing forty-two non-governmental organizations who have been with us in San Francisco who are widely representative of American life. Through their suggestions they have made valuable contributions to the charter. I hope and believe that we can build upon this experiment in the future.

I want also to say a few words about the American delegation. This delegation has carried out all its work in a splendid spirit of nonpartisan cooperation. Each member has borne, with high distinction, a full share of the grave responsibility which is upon us all. Each has been guided only by the higher interests of our country as an inseparable part of the world community.

The delegation includes four outstanding members of Congress, two from each party—Senator Tom Connally of Texas, Senator Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan, Senator Sol Bloom of New York and Representative Charles Eaton of New Jersey. The delegation also includes representatives of the public, being Virginia Gildersleeve and Comdr. Harold Stassen, who is on leave from active duty in the Navy.

Our senior delegate, Cordell Hull, has unfortunately been unable to attend the conference. But we have been in daily communication with him and have leaned heavily upon his wise counsel and guidance. It was Cordell Hull's achievement in Moscow in 1943 which made this conference possible.

Must Have Nation's Backing

The charter which is written at this conference must be ratified by a two-thirds vote of the Senate and must be whole-heartedly approved by the American people if the world organization is to succeed. The important part played by our widely representative and nonpartisan American delegation should assure the kind of charter that will win this approval. We have carried one step further here the policy of close cooperation with Congress which was initiated by Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Hull. Our purpose is to provide that continuity and strength of foreign policy which has been so difficult to achieve in the past history of our country.

Finally, I wish to report that we have been in daily communication with President Truman. He has been fully informed of every step in the work of this conference. And as Chief Executive of the United States he has guided our course. His leadership has been essential to our progress.

I have no doubt that the final charter prepared here will offer great hope of lasting peace. But I cannot speak so surely if I try to answer the question: Will it work? Will it keep the peace? That happens upon the will to peace which the nations of the world support the charter and build strength into the world organization. We can do no more at San Francisco than to establish the constitutional basis upon which the world can live without war—if it will.

Foreign Policy Considerations

Our own foreign policy will play a great part in determining the achievement of these ends. What, then, are the major considerations which must govern our foreign policy?

First, we must carry the second phase of the war to final victory and see to it that Germany and Japan are never able to wage war again.

Second, we must maintain and extend the collaboration and the community of purpose now existing among the great nations which have fought this war together. The interests of the United States extend to the whole world. We must maintain those interests in relation with the other Great Powers and we must mediate between them when their interests conflict among themselves. In both cases our own interests, as well as theirs, require that agreement be achieved and the solidarity of the great nations be preserved.

Third, we must seek constantly to make our full contribution toward the establishment and practice of the supremacy of justice and of fair dealing for all peoples and states, large and small. The power that happens to be in the hands of certain nations must never be used for any purpose which is not in accordance with justice. And the formulation of international law to embody justice must be speeded.

Fourth, those social and economic conditions which create a climate for peace must be advanced. The beginnings we shall make through the Economic and Social Council and its related agencies must be constantly developed.

Finally, we must realize that we live in a world where the sovereignty of no nation, not even the most powerful, is absolute. There is no such thing as complete freedom of decision for any nation. It was not the action of our Congress but a decision of the Japanese High Command to bomb Pearl Harbor which put the United States in this war.

We in America can never again turn our backs upon the world. For we are not only a part of it, we are one of its most important parts. If we do not assume our new responsibilities willingly, then we shall be compelled to assume them by the brutal necessities of self-preservation. There is no possibility of retreat.

Let us, instead, with God's help, march forward in the cause of peace, with a greatness worthy of our heritage and of the men who gave their lives on distant battlegrounds.

BIG FIVE AGREE ON MEANING OF VOTE FORMULA

Terms Reported to Permit Any Nation to Bring Dispute to Council.

DISCUSSION FREE OF VETO

But Unanimity Will Be Required on Any Positive Action by World Security Body.

San Francisco, May 28 (A. P.)—Big Five technicians reached final agreement today on an interpretation of the Yalta voting formula. By its terms, it was reported, any nation could bring a dispute before the projected World Security Council for discussion, without being blocked by the veto of a single major Power.

The final language of this agreement was understood to have been forwarded to London, Moscow, Chungking and Paris for expected approval by those governments. There were indications that two or three days may elapse before any announcement of the Big Five interpretation.

This interpretation was understood to require Big Five unanimity on any positive action by the proposed world league's security council. It would not, it was reported, prevent discussion before the council of disputed matters.

Big Five delegation chiefs have been studying the question of attempting to write into the proposed world charter their definition of when the Big Five veto power operates. If it is included in the charter, it was said the wind-up of the United Nations conference may have to be delayed.

Technicians of these nations, who worked on language changes over the week end, were reported to have made no changes in general principles upon which the delegation chairmen reached a large measure of agreement Saturday night.

U. S. in Decisive Role.

President Truman and Secretary of State Stettinius, apparently sure of their main objectives at the United Nations conference, now are beginning to turn American foreign policy toward a more decisive role in world affairs.

Mr. Stettinius will make a major radio speech to the American people and armed forces overseas from his penthouse headquarters tonight (10:30 P. M., Eastern war time). Pegged on a review of the work of the Security Conference and approved by the President, it will be his most far-reaching discussion of foreign affairs to date.

It is part of the same pattern of events which: (1) will bring Mr. Truman to San Francisco for the final full-dress session, (2) has already sent special White House envoys to London and Moscow to tackle the current European crises, and (3) may lead in a few weeks to a meeting of the President with Premier Stalin and Prime Minister Churchill.

Objectives of Moves.

The great objectives of these moves are twofold:

1. To recapture if possible a middle position between British and Russian policies—the role, sometimes of leader, sometimes of moderator, which the United States held through the Yalta meeting in February but lost shortly afterward when Washington and London joined forces against Russia over reorganizing the Polish Government.

2. To reinforce United States leadership for popular democratic ideals and so-called underdog causes—particularly the causes of freedom for dependent peoples and justice for minority groups

NANNING GAIN SIGN OF POWER

unpapers' Publisher, Back From Orient, Gives Views

San Francisco, May 28 (AP)—Paul atterson, publisher of the Baltiore Sunpapers, just back from a our of the Pacific war theater, id today the capture of Nanning y Chinese troops was due either an increase in army strength or a pulling back" of Japanese forces n fear of Russia entering the war.

"This is purely my own interpreation of the encouraging and ghly significant news from China at Japan's overland lifeline to ingapore has been cut," Patterson xplained in an interview. "I have o official information on which to ase my interpretation."

To Follow Up Foochow Drive

He said the Chinese were exected to follow up their offensive hich resulted in the capture of oochow.

"When I was in Chungking two eeks ago," Patterson said, "no ne expected such rapid military evelopments. The Chinese were t that time, however, bucked up ver the victory at Chihkiang, the rst successful effort of the Chiese Army in a long time.

"The Japs were making a serious hreat to the American air base at weiyang, and no one expected he Chinese to succeed in launchng a full-scale attack that would arry them to Nanning and cut the Japanese overland lifeline to Singapore."

Patterson, who accompanied Ambassador Patrick J. Hurley to Chungking, emphasized that this was "a victory for the regular Chinese Army."

Free Rein For Communists

Speaking of the political situation in China, he said the United States statement promising to give firm support to the Chungking Government did not cause undue excitement among the Communists.

"The Communists," he explained, "have a delegation in Chungking, and it is free to do as it pleases. They have their own hotel and own newspaper. The newspaper made no criticism of Hurley's statement that the United States Government would give firm support to the Chungking Government.

"The political side was in a quiescent state while I was there."

Patterson said the gesture by the Chungking government of sending a Communist delegate to the United Nations conference was well received.

While the military operations are progressing successfully, with the political picture quiet, the economic side of China is growing worse and worse, Patterson said.

Port Repairs Awaited

"It will continue to get worse," he added, "until ports can be fixed up and consumer goods brought in. The same thing is true in the Philippines."

Patterson described Manila as a city completely destroyed.

"London offers no comparison," he said. "To those of us who have seen what the Germans did to London, Manila is a shock. There isn't a public building or office building that hasn't been wrecked. It is impossible to identify locations. The city is upside down."

The supply problem in China still is tremendous, Patterson said.

Difficulty In Distribution

"We used to think that the main problem was in getting supplies over the hump," he related. "We are getting them over the hump, but the difficulty arises in getting them distributed over the vast area where there are no railroads and the motor roads have had to be built."

Patterson said Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek was co-operating well with the Americans. "There is no dissension; they are all working toward one aim—beating the Japs."

Patterson went to Chungking via London, Cairo and Moscow. While in Moscow he visited Marshal Stalin with Hurley.

The Baltimore publisher said his journey to China was "purely to familiarize myself with the Chinese situation."

From Chungking he went to Manila on invitation from Gen. Douglas MacArthur, then visited Guam, the guest of Admiral Chester W. Nimitz.

Europe's Hunger Haunts Frisco Conferees

PARRIS JR.

San Francisco, May 28 (AP)—Hunger in war-torn Europe is haunting the United Nations conference.

It has posed an alarming problem

MAY 29 1945

MAY 29 1945

for the architects of peace.

Hunger itself is seldom mentioned officially, but delegates say the future of the new league depends on how hunger is relieved in liberated countries.

They argue that the future permanent peace of Europe hinges on the restoration of a reasonable standard of living and employment.

Most of them have seen for the first time the report of Samuel I. Rosenman submitted to President Truman on the need of civilian supplies for the liberated areas of Europe.

Chaos Seen From Hunger

They agree with him that a chaotic and hungry Europe is not fertile ground for establishing stable, democratic and friendly governments.

"No government in liberated Europe can survive," explained a Belgian diplomat, "if the people are allowed to go hungry. Only governments which relieve that hunger can live."

A survey of government officials from Belgium, Holland, France, Greece, Yugoslavia, Luxembourg, Norway and Czechoslavkia disclosed the extent of their alarm over the food situation.

In most of these countries there is starvation. The prospects of immediate relief are gloomy.

Gloomy Situation Sketched

The situation has been pitched into chaos because these countries have been battlefields. Communications are disrupted. Farmlands are sown with mines. Animals have been slaughtered.

The Germans bled Europe white to feed their own people.

Only a few weeks before all Holland was liberated, Dutchmen came to London pleading for food for the hundreds of thousands who were starving. And only relief from cold weather kept thousands in France from dying of starvation.

"There is never peace and freedom for a man who is starving," said a Greek delegate who lived through the German occupation and saw Greeks die daily in the streets of Athens because they did not have even a crumb of bread.

Question Of Transportation

Until V-E day, the Allied argument had been that available transport was lacking. The Europeans contend that argument no longer is valid. They see no reason why food is not moving now on a large scale.

The United States replied that distances in the Pacific, and the task of transferring troops and supplies from Europe, have made the shipping problem even tougher.

The consensus among European delegates is that five to ten years will be needed to put Europe back on its feet. Some delegates are more pessimistic.

China-Brazil Health Plan Receives Support

San Francisco, May 28 (AP)—A United Nations conference committee voted unanimously today to support a China-Brazil proposal for an early world conference to form an international health organization.

The Brazilian and Chinese delegates suggested that "full consideration be given to the relationship of an international health organization to other institutions, national and international, in the field of health."

Masaryk Sees Parley Making Good Progress

'Don't Worry Too Much,' He Says, 'But Worry a Little'

LOS ANGELES, May 28 (AP)—Jan Masaryk, Czechoslovakia's Foreign Minister, said today that "the San Francisco conference is going well; don't worry too much—but worry a little."

The leader of his country's delegation to the United Nations security conference told 2,000 students of the University of California at Los Angeles:

"For some time to come your great country must remain very strong indeed. You will certainly need a big air force and a navy. If we stay strong long enough to fight for the right ideals we can get into the arena of perpetual peace."

NEW YORK FLIERS SAFE

Two With Canadian Air Force Freed From German Camps

OTTAWA, May 28 (AP)—Three American airmen with the Royal Canadian Air Force who were previously reported missing now are reported safe in a list issued today by the Department of National Defense for Air.

The men reported safe are Flight Lieut. William Henry Holman, whose father, W. H. Holman, lives at 17 East 42d Street, New York; Flight Lieut. Robert Henderson Fleming, whose wife, Mrs. R. H. Fleming, lives in Youngwood, Pa., and Flight Officer Herbert Reuben Sproule, whose wife, Mrs. H. R. Sproule, lives in Los Angeles, Calif.

Another American, Winfield Louis Johnson, whose father, E. W. Johnson, lives at 535 H Avenue, New York, was listed as a liberated prisoner of war.

1,586 AMERICANS DOCK IN NEW YORK

MAY 29 1945

NEW YORK, May 28 (AP)—More than 1,000 Americans who were prisoners of war, today said German prison camp diet was so meagre that if it were not for the Red Cross "we would have starved."

The 1,210 former POW's and 376 wounded soldiers were aboard two troopships which docked at Staten Island.

All were happy to be home—and they showed it. They kissed the pier, they lined the rails cheering and waving, and they danced to jive music played by a Fort Hamilton service band.

The wounded, likewise, showed their enthusiasm. When 100 WACs arrived at the pier to help take them away, they shouted and whistled.

Later the wounded were taken by bus and ambulance to Halloran General hospital, where an officer said German POW's were used to carry litter cases into the various wards.

A Claxton, Ga., bazooka man, Pvt. Jack Burkhalter, 21, member of the 103d division, described his short combat record. Sent overseas Feb. 3, he was wounded March 15 by a mortar fragment near Mulhouse.

At Halloran, the Army said three-day passes would be issued to ambulatory patients beginning tonight to make room for more than 3,500 patients expected within the next three days.

Army Of 6,968,000 Within Year Forecast

New York, May 28 (AP)—Maj. Gen. James A. Ulio, adjutant general of the Army, said today "our best judgment is that we can defeat Japan quickly and completely with an army which a year from no[w] will be 6,968,000."

Troops urgently needed in th[e] Pacific will go there directly, [he] told members of the Advertisin[g] Men's Post, American Legion.

Asserting that troops and equi[p]ment moving to the Pacific woul[d] have priority over servicemen r[e]turning home, General Ulio said:

"We will not ask any America[n] soldier to lay down his life in orde[r] that another American soldier ma[y] return home a few days sooner."

Nazi Diplomat Captured

New York, May 28 (AP)—The American Broadcasting Station in Europe (ABSIE) said tonight that Ernst Wilhelm Bohle, former German Foreign Office under secretary and "leader of all the Germans in foreign nations," had been captured by the United States 3d Army. The broadcast was heard by NBC.

German Guerrilla Action Reported

New York, May 28 (AP)—German soldiers wearing Soviet uniforms or disguised as peasants still are carrying on small-scale guerrilla activities in remote areas in Russian-occupied German territory, the Tass news agency said today in a Moscow broadcast.

The broadcast, reported by the FCC, said the Germans had made forays on small villages or isolated farms and in some instances had attacked Russian troops.

Terrorists Seized

Tass also asserted that a terrorist organization acting under the leadership of "notorious legionnaires residing in Germany" had been discovered in the Romanian port of Constanta with the arrest of several of its members.

One of the objects of the organization was to commit acts of sabotage and terrorism with the aid of Germans whom it helped free from concentration camps, the news agency said.

British Arrest Blohm, Nazi Shipbuilder

New York, May 28 (AP)—British authorities in Hamburg have arrested Rudolf Blohm, director of the German Blohm and Voss shipyards and former chairman of the shipbuilding commission in the Ministry of Armaments, the British radio reported today.

"He was charged with having tried to sabotage the work of the British port authorities," added the broadcast, recorded by CBS.

Landon Accepts Bid To Talk With Truman

Topeka, May 28 (AP)—Alf M. Landon, former Kansas Governor and 1936 Republican presidential candidate, said today he would be "delighted to have the opportunity to talk over" with President Truman any problems facing the country.

In answer to a handwritten invitation Landon received today from the President, Landon issued this statement:

"Of course I am delighted to have the opportunity to talk over with the President any question he cares to discuss.

"I am advising him today that I will be glad to have him fix the time to suit his own convenience."

Private Joe McGee Would Stay in Army

Worcester, Mass., May 28 (A. P.).—Although he thought he got a "raw deal" when he received a two-year court martial sentence for striking nine German prisoners, Private Joe McGee, who said he had thirty-five points more than necessary for discharge, wants to remain in the Army.

Under Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson relieved McGee of the sentence after Representative John W. McCormack (D.-Mass.) demanded a thorough investigation of the soldier's conviction.

On his arrival at Fort Devens, McGee was assigned to the post's motor pool as a truck driver. He told the Post Commander, Col. H. M. Estes, that although he had 120 points he wanted to stay in the Army and make it his life work.

WHERE AMERICAN DIVISIONS OPERATE

The following summary of action covers only those Associated Press reports in which divisions were specifically mentioned:

OKINAWA.

First Marine—Expanded gain in Naha.

Seventh Infantry—Pushed patrols far south of Yonabaru.

Seventy-seventh and Ninety-sixth Infantry—Locked in fierce fighting before Suhri.

PHILIPPINES.

Twenty-fourth Infantry—Cleared out Japanese positions along road west of Davao, Mindanao.

Twenty-fifth Infantry—Units enter Santa Fe in central Luzon.

Thirty-first Infantry—Pushed from Sayre highway to mountains southeast of Malaybalay, Mindanao.

Thirty-second Infantry—At Santa Fe in drive for Cagayan Valley.

Thirty-eighth Infantry—Tank-led column battling near Wawa Dam, Luzon; captured San Rafael.

Marianas Bases Stepping Up Jap Defeat

Guam (AP)—Japan's defeat in the Pacific's far-flung air war, progressive since her carrier losses in the battle of Midway, has been accelerated by swift development of American bases in the Marianas.

Nine months ago, when newly won Saipan and Tinian and recaptured Guam were in a rudimentary stage, Japan's home-based air strength approximated 2,500 bombers and 2,000 fighters. But at that time her air strength also was considerable elsewhere, including around 700 planes in the Philippines and considerable numbers in China, Indo-China and the Netherland East Indies.

Today Japan is scraping the barrel to accumulate air power for defense of the encroached homeland. Those 700 planes in the Philippines have dwindled to fifteen or twenty. The Nei, China and Indo-China air forces of the enemy have been cut sharply, particularly in the Nei. Yet today on Japan proper her bomber strength probably approximates 1,800, her fighter strength 1,400.

The quality of certain types of enemy planes remains high. There even have been improvements.

It is difficult to present an overall assessment of the quality of Japanese airmen except to say it long since has passed its peak. American flyers in the Marianas who have tangled with the Nipponese over Tokyo and other cities say they meet expert and aggressive opposition on some occasions, and quite the reverse on others over the same targets.

There is no doubt that Japanese training is deteriorating. However, the enemy training program has been so intense and Japanese aircraft losses have been so heavy that the enemy today may have more pilots than planes. In maintenance, supply and repair, America is away out in front.

An inadequacy of engineers and technicians within Japan also is indicated, adding to the effectiveness of the B-29 raids. It is interesting to note that in Japanese domestic broadcasts to the people, warning them to stay away from delayed-action bombs, no assurance is given that engineers are on the way to detonate them.

Iwo Jima, 750 miles from Japan, already has proved its worth in the air war as a fighter-plane base and as an emergency field for the B-29's. When Okinawa's fields, a little over 300 miles from Japan, can throw their full weight into the air war, what has been accomplished from the Marianas will be doubled and tripled.

From Okinawa, a circle drawn as the B-24 (Liberator heavy bomber) flies takes in Swatow, Amoy, Foochow, Hangchow, Nanking and Shanghai in Japanese-occupied China and Nagasaki, Sasebo, Fusan, Shimonoseki, Kure, Kobe, Osaka, Nagoya and Tokyo in Japan.

From Okinawa as the B-25 (Mitchell medium bomber) flies, the circle embraces Formosa, Foochow, Hangchow, Shanghai, Nagasaki and Sasebo.

8 AIR FORCES TO FIGHT JAPS

Gen. Doolittle Will Direct European Veterans.

Washington, May 28 (A. P.).—Eight American Air Forces will be deployed against the Japanese When Lieut.-Gen. Doolittle transfers operations of his bombers to the Pacific.

A survey today of Far Eastern air power in connection with the week-end announcement that Gen. Doolittle's Eighth Air Force is moving from Europe to the Pacific, shows these units will be waging strategic and tactical war against the Japanese:

Fourteenth Air Force in China.

Tenth Air Force in the Burma-India theater.

Fifth and Thirteenth, comprising the Far Eastern Air Forces in the Southwest Pacific, including the Philippines.

Seventh, originally based on Hawaii, now operating 1,500 miles to the west from captured enemy territory.

Eleventh, conducting operations against Japan's northern Kurile Islands from bases in the Aleutians.

Twentieth, attacking the Japanese home islands with giant bombers based in the Marianas.

These Army forces are in addition to the aerial armadas operated by the Navy and Marines—carrier-based, land-based and long-distance flying boats.

Eighth Veterans Home.

Bangor, Me., May 28 (A. P.).—Nearly 2,000 members of the famed Eighth Air Force, who made their first home-soil landings in Maine moved on in their war-worn bombers to Bradley Field, Conn., today for discharge, furloughs or re-deployment.

More than seventy planeloads, totaling some 1,500 men, spent their first night back in the United States in Dow Field barracks here. Another 400, in twenty planes, landed at Presque Isle Army Field yesterday. All had come across the Atlantic, some with stops at Greenland, others at Iceland and Labrador.

Arrivals at Dow Field included a good proportion of the 93d Bombardment Group, oldest Liberator group in the AAF and the first to bomb the Ploesti oil fields in Romania. Its members are credited with 391 missions.

WAR GUILT TRIALS SPEED DEMANDED

WASHINGTON, May 28.—(AP) Senator Lucas (D-Ill.) declared today the American people want Axis leaders tried for war guilt "without dilatory tactics" and without "indulging in high technical procedure."

Lucas told the Senate it would be best for all nations to agree on procedure "but we cannot wait indefinitely for that decision."

"If our Allies canot agree upon plans and procedure," Lucas asserted, "we should create our own military courts and prepare our own plans and procedure.

"Under the leadership of General Eisenhower and Justice Jackson, we should try the Nazi and Fascist criminals in our possession without delay."

Lucas named Herman Goering, Alfred Rosenberg, Admiral Doenitz, Field Marshal Gerd von Rundstedt as among those who should be tried immediately.

The German general staff is equally culpable with the Nazis he declared.

It was disclosed meanwhile that the sons of Secretary of the Interior Ickes and Justice Jackson are members of the United States staff for prosecution of Axis war criminals.

An announcement listing recent additions to the staff, which is headed by Jackson, included the names of 2nd Lt. Raymond W Ickes, Marine officer, formerly in the Justice department's criminal division, and Ensign William E Jackson, who had been in the Navy department's general counsel office. Young Ickes was wounded in the Pacific fighting.

Draft to Take Some Men Under 26 With Defects

Conscientious Objectors Also Affected by New Order

WASHINGTON, May 28 (AP).—A limited number of men under twenty-six who do not meet the physical standards for general military service because of minor defects will be accepted by the Army, Selective Service announced tonight.

Selective Service said the number has not been announced, although it will not be large.

Registrants found acceptable on that basis at pre-induction examination will be inducted on separate calls to be placed by the state directors.

Conscientious objectors also are affected. Registrants under twenty-six classified 4-E and found acceptable for military service will be made available for assignment to work of national importance under civilian direction.

Growing Hospital Fleet Speeds Evacuation Job

Washington, May 28 (AP)—A growing fleet of American hospital ships will complete the job of bringing home all transportable sick and wounded service men from Europe within the next three months.

Seven new ships to be added to the mercy fleet by midsummer will increase its numbers to 40 and its carrying capacity from 20,000 patients to 30,500. The Office of War Information disclosed this today in a special report on the sea transportation of wounded.

As the Army's Atlantic fleet completes its task of evacuating casualties, the twenty ships will be diverted to Pacific waters.

All To Pacific Later

The USAHS Dogwood already is Pacific-bound, OWI said, to be followed shortly by the St. Olaf and in June by the St. Mihiel, the Chateau Thierry and the Stafford.

Eventually, all army hospital ships will operate in the Pacific, where the Navy thus far has been carrying the major burden.

"The new ships—including five already commissioned this spring—are both larger and faster than most of those already in operation, and consequently will be able to bring the wounded home, especially from Europe, at a greatly accelerated rate," the OWI report stated.

Most Have Been Converted

At a cost averaging $4,000,000 each, most of the ships have been converted from luxury liners, German and Italian vessels, Liberty ships and former troop transports. At the time of Pearl Harbor, this country had only two hospital craft, the navy's Relief and Solace.

Some of the new additions, although larger, will cost less than for conversion, OWI said.

Each of six new navy ships commissioned or to be commissioned this year is about twice the size of an average city hospital and capable of carrying about 800 patients.

All Air-Conditioned

These ships are the first to be completely air conditioned, to have all berths equipped with radio receivers and to have special fireproof decking.

They have a speed of 17½ knots, a 12,000 mile cruising radius and equipment which OWI described as "equal to that in the finest metropolitan hospital."

The vessels are the Tranquility, commissioned April 24; the Haven, May 5; the Benevolence, May 12; the Consolation, May 22; the Repose, to be commissioned shortly, and the Sanctuary, to be commissioned June 18.

Two Already In Service

Two of six new army hospital ships scheduled for commissioning this spring already have gone into service and completed their maiden trips. They are the Aleda E. Lutz, formerly the French liner Columbie, renamed for an Army Air Forces' flight nurse killed when her plane was shot down over France, and the Ernestine Koranda, also named for an army nurse.

The other four army ships will be the Frances Y. Slanger, formerly the Italian luxury liner Saturnia, destined to be the largest and fastest hospital ship in Allied service, with a capacity of 1,700 patients; the Republic, a former German liner; the Howard A. McCurdy, formerly the President Tyler, and the Armin W. Leuschner, formerly the Willard A. Holbrook.

The hospital fleet will be brought to full strength by the addition of four new ships for the Army and three for the Navy.

ATLANTIC WATERS CENSORSHIP EASED

WASHINGTON, May 28—(AP) The Office of Censorship today further relaxed restrictions on news relating to commercial shipping.

In a new amendment to the wartime security code, the office cleared for publication and broadcast information of every type regarding merchant shipping in the Atlantic, its adjacent seas, and the western coastal waters of South America—except for vessels bound to or from the Japanese war zone.

Byron Price, director of censorship, issued this note to editors and broadcasters:

"Effective at once the second sentence of the "ships" section of the press and radio code, edition of May 15, 1945, is amended to read as follows:

"Identity, location, cargoes and movements of merchant vessels within or proceeding to or from the Pacific-Asiatic area."

This clears for publication and broadcast information of every type regarding merchant shipping in the Atlantic, its adjacent seas, and the western coastal waters of South America, except for vessels bound to or from the Japanese war zone.

The identity and movements of warships, including transports, remain restricted, but there is no objection to publishing or broadcasting the identity and arrival of transports from Europe in Atlantic or Gulf ports after they have reached quarantine.

Treasury Removes Eight Areas From 'Enemy Territory' Listing

WASHINGTON, May 28 (AP).—The Treasury paved today the way for resumption of commercial communications with Albania, Austria, Czechoslovakia, Danzig, Denmark, the Netherlands, Norway and Yugoslavia.

Those areas were removed from the category of "enemy territory," effective tomorrow. Treasury officials emphasized, however, that communications services with a number of the liberated countries have not actually been reopened.

Hereafter Treasury licenses will not be needed for the transmission of messages which are limited to ascertaining [illegible] and exchanging information [illegible] communications authorizing financial or property transactions will continue to require Treasury licenses.

As soon as proper arrangements can be established with any country affected by the action, the Treasury will "in appropriate cases" license withdrawals from frozen accounts in the United States for the purpose of paying debts.

Also, whenever remittance facilities are established, persons in the United States will be permitted to send up to $500 a month through banking channels for the support of persons in the areas named in today's announcement, except Austria.

Another Pearl Harbor Probe Delay Approved

Washington, May 28 (AP)—Legislation further deferring courts-martial for any negligence of duty in the Pearl Harbor disaster of December 7, 1941, was approved today by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

The resolution, by Senator Ferguson (R., Mich), postpones until six months after defeat of Japan the statute of limitations for any prosecutions.

The statute would expire June 7. It has been advanced several times by Congress beyond the ordinary two-year expiration. The armed forces asked for deferment,

KRUG EXPECTS HUGE OUTPUT OF DURABLE GOODS

Says Civilian Production Will Be Well Above 1939's in Year.

WANTS FEW U. S. CONTROLS

He Believes That Pentup Demand Will Carry Our Economy Through Reconversion.

Washington, May 28 (A. P.).—The United States is headed for a production of civilian durable goods a year from now about 30 per cent above the 1939 rate. Durable goods includes such items as automobiles and household articles, as distinguished from food and clothing.

Chairman J. A. Krug, submitting his estimate to members of the War Production Board last night, added that a huge pent-up demand provides the foundation for "a strong transitional economy" during reconversion.

Krug outlined a policy of as few Federal controls over business as possible. This, he said, will give industry free rein for ingenuity and enterprise instead of having the economy coddled through the period of temporary slump that faces some industries and cities.

"We must not be stampeded by such dislocations into elaborate controls or special dispensations," Krug's policy statement said.

"Our economy is a jig-saw pattern of interlocking buyers and sellers, producers and consumers. The pieces of the jig-saw will move into place best if we give people scope and leeway, with a minimum of rules, regulations and production controls."

Sees Re-employment Aided.

The man power, materials and plants released from war work, Krug said, will offer substantial opportunity for re-employment and reconversion if manufacturers have the initiative to seize them.

"Today the production of durable goods for the civilian economy amounts to about $7,000,000,000 per year," he reported. "Even in the face of a high level of munitions output, the potential a year from now—if present estimates for the one-front war hold good—is $16,700,000,000, or more than double current production and about 30 per cent more than the 1939 level."

The production chief predicted that the consumer market would be ready to absorb an unprecedented volume of goods. Had they been available in 1944, goods worth $120,000,000,000 would have been bought up by the pubic, he said. Actually, only $98,000,000,000 was so spent.

Foreign demand also will be felt strongly in the United States market, Krug said, adding:

"The danger confronting us, as I see it, is that we will overlook the natural resilience of the economy—the capacity of manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers to re-adapt themselves to changed conditions and hence quickly to utilize the resources released from munitions production.

Controls a Hindrance.

"If we were to attempt in Washington to see that every manufacturer, wholesaler or retailer got his exact share of released man power or materials, we should be lost in a myriad of rules and regulations. We should get in the way of reconversion rather than speed it."

The Commerce Department, meanwhile, published a report of its small business advisory committee, urging:

1. Increasing the excess profits tax exemption from $10,000 to $25,000, effective January 1, and removing the levy after the Pacific war ends. A similar proposal already has been made by the Joint Congressional Tax Committee and concurred by in the Treasury.

2. Studies of small businesses, with pamphlets to advise prospective business men.

3. Government guaranties of long-term loans.

Terming the report a "magna charta" for the small business man,' Secretary Wallace said that the department would put it into effect "to the utmost extent that our finances permit."

WPB EASES RULES ON CONSTRUCTION

Five Times As Much Building, Repair, Alteration Allowed

Washington, May 28 (AP)—The War Production Board tonight eased its rigid limitations on construction activity.

The agency increased approximately five-fold the volume of civilian building activity which may be undertaken without special WPB permission. It did this by raising the dollar limitations on annual outlays for construction and alteration of homes, factories and business places.

No Guarantee On Materials

As a preliminary to greater relaxations, WPB also removed its ban on grading, ditch-digging and similar earth-moving operations, to permit a start on such work in preparation for future building of highways, airports and other projects.

The decision—like most of the relaxations already made for the manufacturing industries—gives no guarantee that building materials will be available and, in fact, WPB emphasized in a statement that lumber and other supplies probably will remain scarce "for some time."

Five Times As Much Building

The WPB amendment does not lift any of the restrictions which now govern the sale of lumber and building materials, but it does permit an owner to undertake five times as much construction, repair or alteration—if he can get the materials from his lumber yard—than was formerly permitted.

Work on a one-family home or farmhouse, previously was limited to $200 a year; now the limit is $1,000. Similarly, a factory could undertake work up to $5,000; now the limit is $25,000.

Cost Limits Listed

A list of the types of buildings and cost limits now authorized follows:

1. One-family house or farmhouse, $1,000; 2-family house, $2,000; 3-family house, $3,000; 4-family house, $4,000, and 5-family house, $5,000; previously the limit for each type was $200.

Barns and other farm construction, exclusive of farm houses, $1,000. Formerly the

MAY 29 1945

$1,000 limit included farm houses, for which not more than $200 could be spent.

3. An irrigation or drainage system serving more than one farm, $1,000; this limit previously applied.

4. A hotel, apartment building or other residence for six or more families, $5,000; the old cost limit was $1,000.

5. A store, restaurant, theater, bank, office, laundry, garage, warehouse or other retail or wholesale service establishment, including a frozen-food locker plant, $5,000; for most of these, the old limit was $200.

6. A church, hospital, school, college, USO club, public playground, a public building, an orphanage or other charitable building, a post exchange, canal, storm sewer, dam, levee, jetty or retaining wall, $10,000. For most of these the old limit was $1,000.

7. A factory, logging or lumber camp, bridge, overpass or underpass, tunnel, dock, pier, commercial airport, bus terminal, truck terminal, railroad or street railway building, research laboratory or pilot plant, $25,000; the old limitations ranged from $200 to $1,500.

8. Any other kind of project, $1,000; this class previously was limited to $200.

Broader Idle Aid Called For By Truman

Washington, May 28 (AP)—President Truman today recommended maximum weekly unemployment compensation payments of not less than $25 to tide the country over the "transition from war to peace."

"Every eligible worker should be entitled to 26 weeks of benefits in any one year, if his unemployment continues that long," the President said in a message to Congress.

Asserting that Congress and the Executive have moved on six fronts to prepare the country for postwar reconversion, he said "a major gap" in the program is "the lack of adequate benefits for workers temporarily unemployed during the transition from war to peace."

Asks Emergency Action

He recommended specifically that Congress take emergency action to widen the coverage of unemployment compensation and to increase the amount and duration of benefits, at least for the period of the "present emergency period of reconversion."

"Basically this can be accomplished only by amending the Social Security Act so as to induce state laws to provide more adequately for anyone who is unemployed."

Suggests GI-Bill Change

In connection with the recommendation for $25 weekly payments, Mr. Truman said "Congress will no doubt wish to re-examine the readjustment allowance provisions of the GI Bill of Rights. All payments should be made through the existing unemployment compensation machinery of the several states, just as payments to veterans are now made."

The President said that only about 30,000,000 of the nation's 43,000,000 nonagricultural workers are protected by unemployment insurance and that the weekly payments provided under many state laws "are inadequate to maintain purchasing power and to provide a reasonable measure of economic security for the workers."

$15 To $18 Inadequate"

The maximum rate of $15 to $18 a week fixed by most states, he asserted, is "clearly inadequate to protect unemployed workers against ruthless cuts in living standards, particularly if they have families."

He added that in nearly one third of the states, no worker can receive more than sixteen weeks of benefits in any year, a period he called "too short."

He said that, since state laws cannot be changed overnight, Congress itself should extend the coverage to Federal employes, maritime workers and others workers not now insured.

Would Use U.S. Money

"Moreover," the President said, "I see no feasible way to make benefits payable to such workers, unless they are financed entirely by the Federal Government during the present emergency. The benefits should appropriately be administered by the states. . . .

"We are already entering the first phase of reconversion; we must be prepared immediately for the far larger problems of manpower displacement which will come with the end of the war in the Pacific.

"I earnestly hope, therefore, that the appropriate committees of Congress will undertake immediate consideration of the emergency problem."

Truman Jobless Aid Plan

MAY 29 1945

WASHINGTON, May 28 (AP).—Following is the complete text of President Truman's message to Congress asking emergency legislation raising unemployment compensation benefits to a maximum of not less than $25 a week:

To the Congress of the United States:

The Congress and the executive branch of the government have already moved to prepare the country for the difficult economic adjustments which the nation will face during the transition from war to peace.

1. The Congress has created the Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion to co-ordinate the reconversion activities of all Federal agencies, and that office has established basic reconversion policies.

2. Specific laws have been enacted by the Congress setting forth the policies and providing the administrative machinery for contract termination, plant clearance, financial aid to business, and the disposition of surplus property.

3. Our military and civilian agencies have prepared themselves to expedite industrial reconversion and re-employment.

4. As part of an over-all program for returning veterans the G. I. Bill of Rights provides "readjustment allowances," weekly cash benefits to veterans until they are able to obtain jobs.

5. Congress has permitted business to carry back post-war losses against profits tax payments during the reconversion period.

6. Congress has established support prices for agricultural products so that farmers will be protected against a post-war collapse of income.

Major Gap in Program

There remains, however, a major gap in our reconversion program: The lack of adequate benefits for workers temporarily unemployed during the transition from war to peace. I urge the Congress to close this gap.

I am confident that, with appropriate measures, we can avoid large scale and lengthy unemployment during the transition period. However, some temporary unemployment is unavoidable, particularly when total demobilization becomes possible. Even if reconversion proceeds rapidly, no amount of planning can make jobs immediately available for all displaced personnel. We must provide maximum security to those who have given so fully of themselves on the fighting and production fronts.

The transition from war to peace is part and parcel of the war and we cannot shirk our obligation to those temporarily unemployed through no fault of their own.

To produce what is needed for the Pacific war, we must appeal to the workers to accept and remain in jobs which they ultimately must lose when munitions production ceases. The government has thus incurred a moral obligation to these workers and to those who have stuck faithfully to their post in the past.

To fulfill this obligation, we must rely principally upon our existing system of unemployment insurance. However, the existing state laws embrace three major defects.

1. Only about 30,000,000 of our 43,000,000 non-agricultural workers are protected by unemployment insurance. The absence of protection for Federal government employees—in Navy yards, arsenals and government offices—is particularly inequitable, since these workers are subject to risks of unemployment similar to the risks of those who work for private employers. Lack of protection for employees of small establishments and for maritime workers also constitutes a serious shortcoming in the present programs.

2. The weekly benefit payments provided under many of the state laws are inadequate to maintain purchasing power and to provide a reasonable measure of economic security for the workers. Most states fix a maximum rate of $15 to $18 a week. This is clearly inadequate to protect unemployed workers against ruthless cuts in living standards, particularly if they have families.

3. The length of time for which benefits are paid is too short. In nearly one-third of the states, no worker can receive more than sixteen weeks of benefits in any year, and many workers do not qualify even for this length of time.

Therefore, I recommend specifically that Congress take emergency action to widen the coverage of unemployment compensation and to increase the amount and duration of benefits—at least for the duration of the present emergency period of reconversion. Basically this can be accomplished only by amending the social security act so as to induce state laws to provide more adequately for any one who is unemployed.

To be sure, the states have large sums in the unemployment trust fund. But since changes of state laws cannot be effected overnight, I propose that the Congress, during this emergency period, extend the coverage of unemployment compensation to include Federal employees, maritime workers, and other workers not now insured. Moreover, I see no feasible way to make benefits payable to such workers, unless they are financed entirely by the Federal government during the present emergency. The benefits should appropriately be administered by the states.

I also recommended that Congress provide, through supplementary Federal emergency benefit payments, minimum standards for the weekly rate and duration of unemployment benefits. Every eligible worker should be entitled to twenty-six weeks of benefits in any one year, if his unemployment continues that long. The maximum payment at least for the worker who has dependents, should be raised from present levels to not less than $25 per week. In this connection, Congress will no doubt wish to re-examine the readjustment allowance provisions of the G. I. Bill of Rights. All payments should be made through the existing unemployment compensation machinery of the several states, just as payments to veterans are now made.

Essential to Reconversion

These provisions are essential for the orderly reconversion of our war-time economy to peacetime production. They are badly needed for the duration of the reconversion emergency.

Decent unemployment benefits would serve as a bulwark against post-war deflation. By assuring workers of a definite income for a definite period of time, Congress will help materially to prevent a sharp decline in consumer expenditures which might otherwise result in a downward spiral of consumption and production. Adequate unemployment insurance is an indispensable form of prosperity insurance.

Congress will soon deal with the broader question of extending, expanding and improving our social security program, of which unemployment insurance is a part. Although such improvement is fundamental, Congressional deliberations on the broad issues will take time. On the specific issue of unemployment benefits, we may not have time available. We are already entering the first phase of reconversion; we must be prepared immediately for the far larger problems of man-power displacement which will come with the end of the war in the Pacific.

I earnestly hope, therefore, that the appropriate committees of Congress will undertake immediate consideration of the emergency problem.

Hoover With Truman an Hour

Two Discuss Food for Europe—President Invites Dewey and Landon to Drop In.

MAY 29 1945

Washington, May 28 (A. P.).—President Truman today conferred for nearly an hour with former President Hoover on European relief needs. While Mr. Hoover would not discuss the conference, the White House indicated that there might be comment from that source later in the day.

Meanwhile, the President invited Thomas E. Dewey and Alf M. Landon, former Republican presidential nominees, to visit the White House at any time to consult with him on national or international issues.

Mr. Hoover emerged smiling from his fifty-minute talk with Mr. Truman. He said he was sorry to disappoint waiting newspaper reporters, but that "the President of the United States has the right to make his own statements."

Apparently seeking further bipartisan support for his plans for the nation, Mr. Truman wrote the two former Republican nominees "to drop in for a talk at any time they happen to be in Washington," Charles G. Ross, White House press secretary, told his news conference. He said the President took this step on his own initiative and without any request of the Republican leaders for such consultations.

Just Invited to Drop In.

"The President didn't mention any specific subjects in his letters," Ross said, "but just invited them to drop by any time they cared to when they happened to be in Washington to discuss whatever they may have on their minds."

Ross noted that Mr. Truman had similarly taken the initiative regarding the invitation to Mr. Hoover.

[In New York city, Paul Lockwood, secretary to Gov. Dewey, said he understood the President's invitation had been received at Albany but that the Governor, who is visiting here, had not yet seen it. Lockwood said the Governor planned to return to the State capital Wednesday.]

Ross told reporters that the conference between the President and Mr. Hoover was "a pleasant meeting." "The President found," he said, "that Mr. Hoover had some very constructive ideas which the President was glad to receive."

Ross made no mention of the possibility of another meeting between the two nor did he give any indication that they had discussed the possibility of a relief assignment for Mr. Hoover.

Rankin Urges Job for Hoover.

While the White House conference was in progress, Representative Rankin (D.-Miss.) in a House discussion of the food program expressed the hope that Mr. Hoover would be invited to help reorganize the Office of Price Administration "and give us a reasonable" food program. Mr. Hoover, Rankin told the House, "knows more about organization and administration of a food program than any other man."

Representative Patman (D.-Tex.) asserted that Mr. Hoover can doubtless be helpful in handling the food program, but warned against too much relaxation of OPA controls because of the danger of inflation.

Landon Delighted by Invitation.

Topeka, May 28 (A. P.).—Alf M. Landon, former Kansas Governor and 1936 Republican presidential candidate, said today he would be "delighted to have the opportunity to talk over" with President Truman any problems facing the country. In answer to a handwritten invitation he received today from the President, Mr. Landon issued this statement:

"Of course I am delighted to have the opportunity to talk over with the President any question

30. 24 — 27075

he cares to discuss. I am advising him today that I will be glad to have him fix the time to suit his own convenience."

Milwaukee, May 28 (A. P.).—The Wisconsin State Industrial Union Council, C. I. O., which includes representatives of all C. I. O. unions in the State, went on record last night in opposition to President Truman's invitation to former President Herbert Hoover to consult on world food problems, declaring that it was symptomatic of a trend away from the policies of President Roosevelt.

At a meeting of State C. I. O. union representatives called by the Milwaukee County Industrial Union Council to discuss the future of the Political Action Committee in Wisconsin, a resolution over the signature of Mel J. Heinritz, secretary of the State C. I. O. Council and secretary of the State P. A. C., was adopted stating, "the American people in 1944 gave a mandate to the policies of Roosevelt over the Hoover-Dulles-Vandenberg-Dewey objectives. The American people overwhelmingly rejected the opposition to Roosevelt."

Wisconsin C. I. O. Is Critical.

The resolution stated: "Hoover's record in the last war was one of giving encouragement to anti-democratic governments by using food as a political weapon. He withheld food and supplies from the people of those countries of whose governments he did not approve and thereby crushed many of the rising democratic governments which would have helped to prevent the rise and the aggressions of Fascism. During this people's war Hoover favored food shipments to Axis-occupied areas, to which policy our State Department and military leaders objected."

FOOD SHORTAGES ARE DESCRIBED AS EXAGGERATED

WASHINGTON, May 28. — (AP) The Department of Agriculture, in an official publication, said today that "the many rumors you have heard about acute food shortages have been exaggerated."

"Prospects are that food production in the United States in 1945 may not be as great as in 1944," the fortnightly inter-office magazine "USDA" declared. "In fact, it may be 5 or 10 per cent below 1944."

"Nevertheless," the publication continued, "U. S. food supplies would still be 25 or 30 per cent above those of the five prewar years.

"Since the United States entered the war, it has more than doubled its production of many important items, thus making it possible to provide the best and most abundant diet in the world for its military forces, while at the same time adequately providing for the civilian economy and the substantial shipments to our Allies."

The magazine declared unequivocally that "our food supply is adequate to keep us healthy and vigorous, even though we shall have to make some adjustments in particular foods."

Meat, poultry, butter, canned fish and canned fruit may be particularly short in some parts of the country, USDA said. In various localities, it added that potatoes and rice may not be present in sufficient quantities to meet the demand. The publication emphasized the need for more hoe-wielding in victory gardens.

Surplus Board Sets Up Land Sale Priorities

Government Gets First Call on Non-Industrial Areas; End of Long Tie-Up Seen

WASHINGTON, May 28 (AP).—The Surplus Property Board gave tonight to the Federal government first priority on the purchase of surplus agricultural, grazing, mineral, residential and small business real estate.

The regulation does not cover the disposal of industrial property, war housing, shipyards or airports which may be declared surplus; separate regulations will be issued to govern their sale, the board said.

State and local governments received second priority in the regulation governing disposal of non-industrial real property, with other purchasers becoming eligible in the following order:

Former owner, tenant of the former owner; veterans of World War II and the wives and children of deceased service men; "owner-operators," defined as prospective buyers, who will purchase and operate the farm land; and finally, non-profit institutions, such as schools and colleges.

End of Long Delay Is Seen

Issuance of the regulation was expected to help get real property sales rolling after a long delay.

Much of the delay, S. P. B. spokesmen have acknowledged, was caused by the difficulty of writing practical regulations which would comply with the surplus property act of last October. The former surplus property administrator, William L. Clayton, called that act "unworkable."

Each class of priority holder will have ninety days in which to exercise purchasing rights before the property is offered to the next eligible buyers. Land and property remaining after all priority holders have had a chance to buy will be thrown open for general sale.

If, in the disposal of some farm lands, those holding higher priorities than veterans do not exercise them, the properties will be broken up into family sized farm units and then offered first to the veterans, then to owner-operators, then to non-profit institutions, and finally to individuals having no priority.

The Smaller War Plants Corporation occupies a favored place in the priority list, since under the terms of the surplus property act, that agency may exercise its priority to buy surpluses for resale to small business organizations. "This virtually provides S. W. P. C. with A-1 priority," the surplus board said.

The Army, Navy and other disposal agencies will set up offices in all parts of the country as near to the properties as possible, the S. P. B. said, in order to furnish information and advice to prospective buyers. The first such office probably will open within sixty days, the S. P. B. said, at Illiopolis, Ill.

TAX-EVASION CASES CALLED 'SHOCKING'

Morgenthau Mentions A Baltimore Meat Wholesaler

Washington, May 28 (AP)—Henry Morgenthau, Jr., Secretary of the Treasury, said today the Budget Bureau has approved his request for more agents to investigate tax evasion and he will soon ask Congress for between $30,000,000 and $50,000,000 to hire 10,000 for that purpose.

He said a conservative estimate is that the additional men will bring in more than $1,000,000,000 in extra taxes.

The new employés would include 5,000 agents in the field—the need for whom Morgenthau announced last week—and 5,000 desk employés to back them up.

Budget Bureau clearance would indicate President Truman has approved the request. When asked if this were so, the Secretary did not reply specifically but said Mr. Truman is "fully familiar and sympathetic with what we are doing."

'Shocking' Tax Evasion Cases

Morganthau, without giving names, disclosed two of what he called "shocking" cases of alleged tax evasion by wholesale meat dealers.

He said a "Washington gentleman" who sells 250,000 pounds of meat a week through about 175 merchants in the nation's Capital has been charging 6 to 8 cents a pound above ceiling prices on beef and veal and paid an estimated $400,000 less than he should have paid in income tax for 1944 alone.

Morganthau said the Treasury has adopted a rarely used technique in this man's case and has closed out his 1945 tax year as of the end of April, thus forcing the man to file a return so that income for the first four months of this year can be ascertained.

Case Of Baltimore Meat Dealer

The other case is that of a Baltimore wholesale meat dealer. Morgenthau said this man reported net income of $35,000 for 1944, while "we have already had sworn testimony that his black market collections in 1944 were $400,000."

This dealer, the Secretary said, charged 10 cents a pound above ceiling prices. He operated extensively in the New York area and got his meat supply from a packing company in the Midwest.

Morganthau said the Office of Price Administration is co-operating with the Treasury in investigating those cases.

"The more I go into it the more shocking it becomes," the Secretary told his news conference with regard to the spreading tax investigation.

WFA Charges 'Corner' in Rye On Chicago Market in 1944

Claims 89% of Available Supply Was Held by General Foods Corporation and Members of Board of Trade

WASHINGTON, May 28 (AP)—Charging that a corner had been created in the Chicago rye market in May, 1944, the War Food Administration moved today for the suspension of two corporations and four individuals from all contract markets for violation of the Commodity Exchange Act.

The complaint named General Foods Corporation of New York and its executive vice president, Charles W. Metcalf; Daniel F. Rice & Co. of Chicago and Daniel F. Rice, Lawrence J. Ryan and Philip R. O'Brien, Chicago Board of Trade members.

The WFA asserted that those named had manipulated the price of rye futures from December, 1942, to May, 1944, the time of the alleged corner.

A hearing was set for July 2 in Washington before a referee to be named by the WFA. The grain trading concerns and individuals were directed to show cause why an order should not be issued directing that, until further notice from the WFA, all contract markets refuse all trading privileges to each named, and suspending or revoking any registrations held by them as futures commission merchants or floor brokers under the Commodity Exchange Act.

The complaint was signed by Ashley Sellers, assistant War Food Administrator.

It was alleged that in May, 1944, the respondents held or controlled about 11,805,000 bushels of cash rye, representing 89 per cent of the total deliverable supply in Chicago, and that of this amount 3,000,000 bushels had been imported from Canada and delivered by "shorts" on May, 1944, futures contracts.

At the same time, the WFA said, Rice & Co. and Rice and Ryan held or controlled 2,000,000 bushels in store in Canada which had been delivered on May futures contracts on the Winnipeg Exchange.

In Chicago, Daniel F. Rice issued a statement declaring that neither the firm nor Daniel F. Rice had ever attempted to corner the rye market or any other grain market.

"It does seem strange," he said, "that a corner in rye during 1944 is alleged, even though rye futures were 40 to 60 cents under wheat when the normal relationship is for rye to be between 20 and 25 cents below comparable wheat futures."

Mr. Ryan's statement said:

"It is the first I knew of any corner in 1944 May Rye and as I remember there were liberal deliveries and an open market at all times.

"I have traded in rye almost exclusively for over 20 years and feel certain the extent of my position in the May, 1944, futures was not materially different than in many other years. I felt rye was underpriced because of the abnormal discount and was trading on the constructive side."

Mr. O'Brien, who resigned last July 1 after more than three terms as president of the Chicago Board of Trade, was at his farm at Bailey's Harbor, Wis., and not immediately available for comment.

The rye market in recent years has been considered the most highly speculative of all grain futures, since the Government has set no ceiling price for that commodity, although ceilings exist on wheat, corn, oats and barley.

Denies There Was a 'Corner'

Charles W. Metcalf, executive vice president of the General Foods Corporation, yesterday stated that the company held a substantial inventory in rye but that no "corner" existed. His statement follows:

"General Foods Corporation held a substantial inventory of rye. No corner in that commodity was contemplated and none existed since any part of our supply was available to the Government, or to industry requiring rye, and was so offered at the market price. The corporation has been liquidating its position for more than a year and completed final sales early in May. The company did not profit as a result of its rye operations."

COURT CURES QUORUM LACK

Way Open For Test Of Utility "Death Sentence" Clause

Washington, May 28 (AP)—Chief Justice Stone today opened the way for a Supreme Court decision months hence on long-stalled litigation over the constitutionality of the "death sentence clause" of the Public Utility Holding Company Act.

The Chief Justice decided he is eligible to consider the case, thus giving the court a legal quorum of six members to decide the issue. Directly involved is the North American Company of New York.

The Securities and Exchange Commission ordered North American to divest itself of securities of various concerns it operated. North American in February, 1943, asked the court to determine the validity of the order, but it was shortly afterward made known that four justices had disqualified themselves.

Supposition As To Others

Names of the three justices other than Stone have not been made public. It is presumed they are Justice Douglas, former SEC chairman, and Justices Murphy and Jackson, former Attorneys General. Stone did not disclose why he had changed his position.

The "death sentence" clause requires interstate gas and electric holding companies to limit operation to a single integrated system. In completing a quorum to decide its legality, the court set October 8 for hearing argument. That is the start of the next term.

At the same time it will hear companion cases on the same issue involving Engineers Public Service Company, operator of gas and electric properties serving twelve states; the American Power and Light Company, of Maine, and the Electric Power and Light Corporation, which operates in the vicinity of the Gulf of Mexico.

Two Weeks Added To Term

The court added two weeks to its current term, announcing it would sit two more Mondays and then adjourn unless it is necessary to grant another extension. About 40 cases await action.

In a 5-to-4 decision, the court overruled a labor union's attempt to knock out part of a lower court decree so the National Labor Relations Board could increase a back-pay award. The opinion affirmed a decision of the Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals in a case involving 209 workers and the Eagle-Picher Mining and Smelting Company and the Eagle-Picher Lead Company, operating in Oklahoma, Missouri and Kansas.

The board had set up a formula for back pay to the workers and obtained a court order enforcing it. Two years later, in 1943, the board determined it should have computed the award differently and sought unsuccessfully to vacate the decree. The CIO Mine and Smelter Workers Union carried the appeal to the Supreme Court.

Majority Opinion

The majority opinion by Justice Roberts, in which Justices Reed, Stone, Frankfurter and Jackson concurred, said that unquestionably the National Labor Relations Act intended to vest exclusive jurisdiction in the courts once the board had reached its determination and applied for enforcement. "This prevents conflict of authority," Roberts stated.

Justice Murphy, in a dissenting opinion joined by Justices Black, Douglas and Rutledge, declared that "to hold that a particular back-pay remedy must be imposed when the board reasonably suspects that it is incorrect or inadequate is to project legalism to an absurd and dangerous length."

Test Of Contract Refused

The court refused, 5 to 2, to test the right of a group of white landowners to contract to prevent a Negro from acquiring property in their block. The District of Columbia Court of Appeals held valid an agreement signed in 1925 providing that no part of the residential block would be turned over to a Negro.

Justices Murphy and Rutledge argued that the court should review the case. Justices Reed and Jackson took no part in the case.

Divorce Review Accepted

The court accepted for review another case involving validity of a Nevada divorce decree. It decided last week that a state cannot grant a divorce valid in other states unless the applicant has established a bona fide residence.

The new appeal was filed by Walter B. Atkins after the Illinois Supreme Court refused to recognize his Nevada divorce. Atkins said that before getting the decree he testified he intended to make his home in Nevada for an indefinite period and that one year after filing the suit he still resided in Nevada.

colleagues wanted to make the Senate a "millionaires' club" open only to men who inherited wealth or married wealth.

Although refusing any pay increase for its members, the Senate approved a boost from $4 to $5 a day in pay of its pages and made minor increases for the capitol police force and some other capitol employes.

Four Separate Votes

The Senate took four separate votes to decide it would make no move to improve the financial situation of its members:

Majority Leader Barkley (Ky.) advanced a proposal for $1,500 tax-free expense money as a possible compromise on which Senate and House could agree. He argued this would be in effect the 15 per cent increase in wages allowed under

Senate Rejects Pay Increase, Avoids House Raise Interferenc

WASHINGTON, May 28 — (AP) The Senate voted down today any pay increase or expense money for its members but declined to interfere with a $2,500 annual tax-free expense allowance which House members approved for themselves.

Senator Johnson (D-Colo.) proposed to strike the House members' allowance from the $51,000,000 legislative appropriation bill but on a roll call vote his motion was rejected 28 to 22. The Senate then passed the bill by a standing vote.

This left the $2,500 allowance in the measure in a parliamentary situation where it can not be taken out in conference when a joint House-Senate committee undertakes to compromise differences.

Favor House Increase

Most of those voting to let the House members have the $2,500 left no doubt they were moved by the old understanding of comity—that one chamber does not interfere with what the other says it needs in appropriations.

Privately, some of the senators were wondering, however, whether they had not "sawed a limb off" behind the House. They questioned whether the political reaction would not be adverse for House members who took an allowance the senators were unwilling to approve for themselves.

Senator Bridges (R-N.H.), arguing for upholding the principle of comity, asserted that "in the history of the country the House has stood on its own and the Senate on its own."

"If the House has the courage to vote its members an allowance they should have it," he added.

The New Hampshire senator, who had urged a simila allowance for senators, asked whether his the "Little Steel" formula. This was rejected on a voice vote.

A 43 to 9 roll call vote turned down an amendment from the Senate appropriations committee to give senators $2,500 expense allowance, subject to taxes.

The Senators knocked down 38 to 13 a committee proposal which would have allowed the members to deduct from income tax returns all expenses for lodging and subsistence while away from their home states on congressional business.

Finally, they defeated 38 to 12 an amendment by Bridges for a flat $1,500 pay increase subject to taxes.

Supreme Court Puts Off Recess For Two Weeks

MAY 29 1945

Overrules Union Attempt to Revise Back Pay Decree; Rejects Race-Bias Case

WASHINGTON, May 28 (AP).—The Supreme Court today postponed the start of its summer recess for at least two weeks.

The court previously had st today for ending the term, but nearly two score appeals still awaited decision after today's sitting and the tribunal arranged to hold two additional opinion days, next Monday and the following Monday. An announcement said adjournment for the summer would be taken June 11 "unless otherwise ordered."

In a 5 to 4 decision today the court overruled a labor union's attempt to knock out part of a lower court decree so the National Labor Relations Board could increase a back pay award. The opinion affirmed the Eight Circuit Court of Appeals in a case involving 209 workers and the Eagle-Picher Mining and Smelting Company and the Eagle-Picher Lead Company operating in Oklahoma, Missouri and Kansas.

The board had set up a formula for back pay to the workers and obtained a court order enforcing it. Two years later, in 1943, the board determined it should have computed the awarde differently and sought unsuccessfully to vacate the decree. The Congress of Industrial Organizations Mine and Smelter Workers Union carried the appeal to the Supreme Court.

The majority opinion by Justice Roberts, in which Justices Reed, Stone, Frankfurter and Jackson concurred, said that unquestionably the national labor relations act intended to vest exclusive jurisdiction in the courts once the board had reached its determination and applied for enforcement. "This prevents conflict of authority," Justice Roberts stated.

Murphy Leads in Dissent

Justice Murphy, in a dissenting opinion joined by Justices Black, Douglas and Rutledge, declared that "to hold that a particular back-pay remedy must be imposed when the board reasonably suspects that it is incorrect or inadequate is to project legalism to an absurd and dangerous length."

The court refused, 5 to 2, to consider the right of a group of white landowners to contract to prevent a Negro from acquiring property in their block. The District of Columbia Cour tof Appeals held valid an agreement signed in 1925 providing that no part of the residential block would be turned over to a Negro.

Justices Murphy and Rutledge argued that the court should review the case. Justices Reed and Jackson took no part in the case.

The court accepted for review another case involving validity of a Nevada divorce decree. It decided last week that a state cannot grant a divorce valid in other states unless the applicant has established a bona fide residence.

The new appeal was filed by Walter B. Atkins after the Illinois Supreme Court refused to recognize his Nevada divorce. Atkins said that before getting the decree he testified he intended to make his home in Nevada for an indefinite period and that one year after filing the suit he still resided in Nevada.

Refuses to Open Robinson Case

For a second time the court refused to reconsider its decision affirming the death sentence imposed on Thomas H. Robinson jr., for the kidnaping of a Louisville society matron. Robinson was convicted under the Lindbergh kidnap act for the 1934 abduction of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll. The court affirmed the death sentence, 7 to 2, last March 5.

Among cases still pending on the court's present docket are the deportation order against Harry Bridges, West coast labor leader; the contested convictions of twenty-four top officials of the German-American bund, the legality of state laws regulating the activity of labor unions, asserted violations of the anti-trust act in labor union-employer agreements, and the civil anti-trust action against The Associated Press.

Tax-Free Service Pay Proposed By Senator

Washington, May 28 (AP)—Senator Bridges (R., N.H.) today proposed legislation exempting all men and women in the armed forces from income taxes on service pay.

Bridges said he would offer the measure as an amendment to the first revenue bill to come before the Senate in order to "remove a distinct injustice in our national tax policies against the men and women in the armed services."

The legislation must be handled as an amendment because all tax measures must originate in the House.

"Day Of Reckoning Postponed"

Under present law, Bridges said, many service men and women will return home to find their personal problems "acutely increased" by income taxes which have accrued during their years of service.

"While our present laws have given service men and women the relief of not requiring income tax payments or returns while in foreign service," he said in a Senate speech, "they have not forgiven such obligations. They simply postponed, for the veteran, the day of reckoning."

Bridges said it had been suggested that his bill would benefit only officers and not help enlisted men who are protected by a $1,500 exemption on service pay.

"This is obviously an error," the New Englander asserted.

"60 To 70 P.C. Affected"

"In computing his income, every member of the armed forces must include not only his pay but the allotment made to his wife and children.... It would be my guess that some 60 per cent to 70 per cent of the members of the armed forces have families so that their pay checks, plus their allotment checks, particularly if they are engaged in foreign duty, would exceed the $1,500 exemption."

PRESIDENT MARKS JUNE 14 FLAG DAY

WASHINGTON, May 28—(AP) President Truman today designated June 14 as flag day and asked its observance with "a fresh sense of our strength as a nation."

In his proclamation the President asserted that "Solemnly, we accept the responsibilities placed upon us by our power."

"We honor the men and women in the armed services and in the factories and homes who, with God's help, have given us our victories. We face the battle ahead with solemn gratitude for the triumphs of the past.

"Our flag has accompanied our fighting men on a 100 battle fields. It flies beyond the seas over the friendly lands our arms have freed, and over the hostile countries our arms have conquered. Our flag will be planted in the heart of the empire of our last remaining enemy."

Asserting that as the nation pressed forward to final victory it was strengthened with the knowledge that for millions of people in other lands as well as in our own our flag is "a living token of human integrity and freedom," Mr. Truman added:

"Let us observe this flag day by raising our flag and beside it the flags of the United Nations. It is especially fitting that we thus honor our Allies at a time when we are working with them to lay a firm foundation for world peace. Let this display of the flags of the United Nations symbolize our unity with our Allies both upon the battle fields of war and under the skies of peace."

Stratemeyer Nominated For Lieutenant General

Washington, May 28 (AP)—President Truman today nominated Maj. Gen. George Edward Stratemeyer for promotion to the rank of lieutenant general.

Also named for elevation along with General Stratemeyer, an air corps officer, was Brig. Gen. Douglas Lafayette Weart (CQ), of the corps of engineers, to be a major general.

Other nominations included:

Col. William Nichols Porter, chief of the chemical warfare service, to be a major general.

To be brigadier generals:

Col. Harwood Christian Bowman, of the field artillery; Col. Paul Wyatt Caraway, of the infantry; Col. Larry Benjamin McAfee, assistant to the surgeon general, and Col. Addison Dimitt (CQ) Davis, another assistant to the surgeon general.

His White House Office Redecorated by Truman

Portraits of Washington and Bolivar Go Up

WASHINGTON, May 28 (AP).—President Truman has redecorated his White House office by hanging pictures of George Washington and Simon Bolivar on either side of a painting of the frigate Constitution.

The marine picture belongs to the Navy and was a favorite of the late President Roosevelt. The other portraits are new to the office. So is a small bronze equestrian statue of Andrew Jackson. It stands on a mantel below Old Ironsides.

The three pictures are on the back wall and can be seen by the President as he looks up from his gadget-free desk—another change from the Roosevelt decor.

The painting of the first President is by the American artist, Rembrandt Peale. Presented to the National Gallery of Art three years ago by Mr. and Mrs. George W. Davison, it was loaned to the President by the gallery.

The painting of Bolivar, the South American liberator, is a gift from Venezuela in 1941. That country planned to erect a statue to Bolivar in the Missouri town named for the liberator, but the war caused abandonment of the project. The painting is from an original in Caracas by Tito Galas, but Mr. Truman understands his copy also is by Galas.

The statue of Jackson was sculptored by Charles Keck, of New York, who gave it to Mr. Truman in 1933 when the latter was presiding judge of the supervisory board that ran the affairs of Missouri's Jackson County, named for the seventh President.

Truman To Travel In Roosevelt Plane

Washington, May 28 (AP)—President Truman will travel to San Francisco in the same C-54 military plane which the late President Roosevelt used on his air travels.

Press Secretary Charles G. Ross told reporters today Mr. Truman will reach San Francisco "on or near June 6" for the windup of the United Nations conference.

The plane he will use was specially fitted for Mr. Roosevelt. Among its accessories is an elevator capable of raising and lowering passengers and baggage.

Ross said press arrangements for Mr. Truman's West Coast trip will be announced tomorrow.

PRINCE OF IRAQ TRUMAN'S GUEST

WASHINGTON, May 28 — (AP) The White House rolled out a ceremonies welcome mat tonight for Prince Abdul Ilah of Iraq.

His face wreathed in smiles, President Truman himself extended his personal greetings as the 33-year-old ruler rolled up to the White House north portico where the Marine band and a military guard of honor awaited his arrival.

While the President and the Prince, the latter regent for his nephew, 10-year-old King Feisal II, stood at attention, the band played the national anthem of Iraq and the United States.

Immediately afterwards they disappeared into the White House where the President introduced his royal visitor to members of his cabinet in the Blue room. Later tea was served in the Red room where the Prince met Mrs. Truman.

The visitor, who was clad in a military uniform, came to the United States to look over power and irrigation projects with a view to a program in his own country.

He was the guest of honor at an elaborate dinner arranged at the White House tonight. Members of the cabinet, the chief justice, congressional leaders and the American Army and Navy high command were on the dinner guest list.

IT IS A SIMPLE MATTER TO RECRUIT NEW PERSONNEL FOR MILITARY GOVERNMENT DETACHMENTS FROM COMBAT UNITS CONVERTED INTO TROOPS OF OCCUPATION, AND THIS IS ALREADY BEING DONE. BUT VERY FEW YOUNGER OFFICERS WITH COMBAT EXPERIENCE ARE QUALIFIED TO TAKE OVER SPECIALIZED JOBS.

SHORTAGE OF QUALIFIED PERSONNEL, HOWEVER, IS NOTHING NEW IN THE LIFE OF THE EUROPEAN CIVIL AFFAIRS DIVISION. IT ORIGINALLY ASKED FOR 4,600 OFFICERS TO MAN POSTS IN THE AMERICAN ZONE. IT STILL HAS ONLY 2,400 OFFICERS AND 6,500 ENLISTED MEN.

THE MOST CRITICAL SHORTAGE DEVELOPED WHEN THE AMERICAN ARMIES BEGAN RUNNING WILD IN GERMANY, OCCUPYING LARGE AREAS ALREADY EARMARKED FOR BRITISH OR RUSSIAN OCCUPATION. IT WAS IMPOSSIBLE TO FILL ALL DEMANDS FOR MILITARY GOVERNMENT TEAMS FROM THE ECAD'S (CAPS) POOL OF TRAINED MEN. EMERGENCY TEAMS WERE ORGANIZED FROM QUARTERMASTER AND OTHER SERVICE TROOPS.

BUT NOW THAT BRITISH DETACHMENTS HAVE BEGUN TO TAKE OVER FROM AMERICAN TEAMS IN THE BRITISH ZONE, THE SITUATION IS BECOMING EASIER. IT HAS ALSO BEEN HELPED BY AUTHORITY GRANTED TO THE ECAD TO COMMISSION A NUMBER OF ENLISTED MEN WHO HAVE PROVED THEIR CAPACITIES AS MEMBERS OF MILITARY GOVERNMENT TEAMS.

THE RUSSIANS ARE ALSO LIKELY TO TAKE OVER SOON SOME AREAS AT PRESENT UNDER AMERICAN MILITARY GOVERNMENT. THE PRECISE BOUNDARIES OF THE RUSSIAN ZONE, HOWEVER, HAVE NOT BEEN ANNOUNCED.

FARTHER NORTH, THE CHINESE CONTINUED TO ATTACK THE ENEMY DEFENSE LINE SOUTH OF THE EAST-WEST LUNGHAI RAILROAD TOWN OF SHANHSIEN AND ADVANCED TWO MILES TO WITHIN 14 MILES OF THE TOWN. JAPANESE FORCES AT THE WESTERN END OF THE LINE WERE ENCIRCLED AND ATTACKED.

EAST OF SHANHSIEN, B-25 MITCHELL BOMBERS OF THE 14TH AIR FORCE BLASTED CHENGHSIEN, JUNCTION OF THE LUNGHAI AND PEIPING-HANKOW RAILROADS AND VIRTUALLY WIPED OUT THE TOWN'S TEXTILE MILLS.

REPORTS THAT THE JAPANESE MIGHT BE PREPARING TO PULL OUT OF SOUTH CHINA APPEARED BASED ON THE TENDENCY OF JAPANESE FORCES IN KWANGSI PROVINCE TO CONTRACT THEIR LINES AT THE EXPENSE OF DISRUPTING THE INDO-CHINA CORRIDOR AND CUTTING OFF A RETREAT FROM INDO-CHINA, THAILAND, BURMA AND MALAYA.

OBSERVERS WARNED, HOWEVER, AGAINST OVER-OPTIMISM, POINTING OUT THAT THE JAPANESE POSSESSED THE ABILITY OF RECAPTURING YUNGNING.

THE POSSIBILITY OF A DRASTIC CHANGE WAS SEEN IN JAPANESE STRATEGY WHEREBY JAPANESE FORCES IN SOUTH CHINA--APART FROM THOSE IN THE HONGKONG AND CANTON AREAS--MIGHT WITHDRAW TO THE YANGTZE RIVER AS A FIRST LINE OF DEFENSE AND TO THE YELLOW RIVER AS A SECOND.

IN THE EVENT OF A WITHDRAWAL, THE JAPANESE FORCES IN SOUTHEAST ASIA WOULD BE DENIED SUPPLIES AND REINFORCEMENTS--EXCEPT FOR THE MEAGER, ALMOST VALUELESS TRICKLE WHICH COULD BE DISPATCHED BY SUBMARINES OR SHIPS CREEPING ALONG THE CHINA COAST BY NIGHT.

THE SAME REPORTS FORESHADOWED THE POSSIBILITY THAT THE CHINESE MIGHT RETAKE LIUCHOW AND OTHER KEY POINTS ALONG THE NOW RUPTURED CORRIDOR THROUGH WHICH THE JAPANESE ONCE BOASTED TRAINS WOULD RUN BETWEEN TOKYO AND SINGAPORE.

A DISPATCH FROM THE CHINESE CENTRAL NEWS AGENCY SAID NANNING, A FORMER TREATY PORT OF 68,110 PERSONS, WAS RETAKEN AT 8 A.M. SATURDAY BY "POWERFUL CHINESE FORCES" WHICH ATTACKED AT DAWN FRIDAY.

THE CITY HAD BEEN OCCUPIED BY THE ENEMY SINCE LAST NOVEMBER AND BEFORE THAT WAS JAPANESE-HELD FOR A YEAR IN 1940-1941.

RECAPTURE OF NANNING WAS ONE OF THE MOST IMPORTANT CHINESE VICTORIES IN MONTHS. IT WAS THE SECOND FORMER TREATY PORT TO BE FREED IN EIGHT DAYS. THE EAST COAST PORT OF FOOCHOW WAS THE FIRST TO FALL AND THE CHINESE ANNOUNCED LAST NIGHT THAT SPEARHEADS HAD PUSHED 41 MILES NORTHEAST OF THAT CITY TO NINGTEH, ONLY 38 MILES FROM CHINESE MILITAMEN FIGHTING ENEMY LANDING PARTIES AT SIAPU. IN THE PUSH TO NINGTEH, THE CHINESE CAPTURED LOYUAN, 31-.8)3' ,945E

THE CHINESE CAPTURED LOYUAN, 31 MILES NORTHEAST OF FOOCHOW.

THE NEW VICTOGY BOOSTED THE ALREADY QUICKENING TEMPO OF CHINA'S GENERAL COUNTER-OFFENSIVE. GENERALISSIMO CHIANG KAI-SHEK'S VETERAN FIGHTERS ADVANCED TOWARD TWO OTHER ENEMY-HELD AMERICAN AIR BASES, SHAOYANG (PAOCHING) IN HUNAN PROVINCE AND LIUCHOW IN NORTHERN KWANGSI PROVINCE.

A DISPATCH FROM KUNMING SAID CHINA'S AMERICAN-TRAINED NEW SIXTH ARMY, RECENTLY REPORTED BACK IN CHINA FROM THE BURMA CAMPAIGN, HAD BEEN FLOWN OVER THE HIMALAYAS IN U.S.PLANES, MARKING THE FIRST TIME IN HISTORY THAT AN ENTIRE ARMY HAD BEEN TRANSPORTED BY AIR.

THE DISPATCH ADDED THE WHEREABOUTS OF THE ARMY WAS STILL A SECRET.

BUT THAT IT MIGHT BE ASSUMED IT WOULD PLAY AN IMPORTANT PART IN THE GROWING CHINESE COUNTER-OFFENSIVE.

CAPTURE OF NANNING CUT THE NORTH-SOUTH HIGHWAY LINKING THE FRENCH INDO-CHINA TOWN OF LANGSON WITH THE KWANGSI RAIL JUNCTION CITY OF LIUCHOW, BUT THE JAPANESE STILL CONTROLLED A CIRCUITOUS HIGHWAY ROUTE TO INDO-CHINA RUNNING ALONG THE SI RIVER'S SOUTH BANK.

THE JAPANESE HAD ANNOUNCED THAT THEY WERE PLANNING TO BUILD A RAILROAD FROM LIUCHOW TO INDO-CHINA, BUT IT WAS NOT KNOWN IF THIS PROJECT HAD EVER BEEN COMPLETED.

THE CHINESE COMMAND REPORTED THAT THE JAPANESE HAD STARTED A DRIVE FRIDAY SOUTHWARD FROM WENCHOW, ON THE CHEKIANG COAST 230 MILES SOUTH OF SHANGHAI, BETWEEN SHANGHAI AND FOOCHOW, ALTHOUGH THE OBJECTIVE OF THE PUSH WAS NOT KNOWN. SOME OBSERVERS THOUGHT IT MIGHT BE A DIVERSIONARY THRUST PRESAGING AN EVACUATION OF WENCHOW WHICH, ALONG WITH FOOCHOW, WOULD BE A POTENTIAL DEATH TRAP FOR JAPANESE COASTAL FORCES IN THE EVENT OF AN AMERICAN INVASION.

MEANWHILE, CHINESE FORCES SMASHED AGAINST THE WEST FLANK OF THE JAPANESE OVERLAND CORRIDOR AT POINTS ALONG A 900-MILE FRONT.

AS THE CHINESE COUNTER-OFFENSIVE WAS STEPPED UP, IT WAS ANNOUNCED THAT MAJ.GEN.HENRY S.AURAND, WHO WAS IN CHARGE OF SUPPLY OPERATIONS IN THE VITAL NORMANDY SECTOR, HAD BECOME COMMANDING GENERAL OF THE SERVICES OF SUPPLY FOR U.S.FORCES IN THE CHINA THEATER. HE SUCCEEDED MAJ.GEN.GILBERT X.CHEVES, WHO IS RETURNING TO THE UNITED STATES AFTER REORGANIZING SOS FACILITIES IN THE CHINA THEATER.

SAN FRANCISCO, MAY 28-(AP)-TWO ANZACS AT THE OPPOSITE POLES OF PERSONALITY HAVE COPPED THE ROLE OF LEADERS OF THE SMALLER NATIONS IN MANY OF THEIR CONTESTS WITH THE MAJOR POWERS AT THE UNITED NATIONS CONFERENCE.

THE CURRENTLY BOILING FIGHT OVER BIG FIVE VETO RIGHTS PROVIDES A CASE IN POINT. ENERGETIC, OUTSPOKEN HERBERT VERE EVATT, AUSTRALIAN FOREIGN MINISTER, CALLED A PRESS CONFERENCE TODAY TO GIVE A PUBLIC AIRING TO THE VIEWS OF THE SECONDARY POWERS.

SOFT-SPOKEN, WHITE CROWNED PETER FRASER, NEW ZEALAND PRIME MINISTER, IS GOING RIGHT ALONG WITH HIM IN A CAMPAIGN TO LIMIT THE RIGHT OF A BIG POWER VETO OVER THE INVESTIGATION OF DISPUTES AND RECOMMENDATIONS FOR THEIR SETTLEMENT BY THE PROPOSED SECURITY COUNCIL.

BUT FRASER'S PART HAS BEEN CHARACTERISTICALLY QUIETER. HE HAS BEEN TALKING WITH DELEGATES IN COMMITTEES AND OUT AS TO WHY HE BELIEVES ANY AMENDMENT THAT WOULD CURB OR NARROW DOWN THE VETO POWER WOULD BE A GOOD THING.

THE STOCKY EVATT IS THE MORE COLORFUL OF THE TWO AND IS QUICKER-TONGUED IN ANY ROUGH AND TUMBLE ARGUMENT. BUT IN THEIR OPPOSITE WAYS BOTH ARGUE LOGICALLY AND WITH DETERMINATION.

IN HIS AUSTRALIAN ENGLISH THAT IS AS TYPICAL AS THE COCKNEY, EVATT IS ALWAYS WILLING TO INSERT A WISECRACK INTO HIS ARGUMENTS. EARLY IN THE CONFERENCE WHEN A RUSSIAN DELEGATE COMPLAINED THAT AUSTRALIA WAS BEING GIVEN TOO MUCH INFLUENCE BECAUSE IT WAS FIRST ALPHABETICALLY, EVATT RETORTED, "JUST WAIT A BIT. YOUR FRIENDS, THE ARGENTINES WILL TAKE CARE OF THAT." A LITTLE LATER HE DUCKED A QUESTION BECAUSE "I DON'T APPROVE OF HITTING INTO A TRIPLE PLAY."

FRASER AND EVATT HAVE TEAMED UP ON MOST ISSUES HERE. WORKING AS A COMBINATION THEY GOT A PLEDGE TO PROMOTE "FULL EMPLOYMENT" WRITTEN INTO THE CHARTER AND SO FAR HAVE MADE IT STICK DESPITE SOME OPPOSITION. THEY WENT ALONG TOGETHER, TOO, IN THE TRUSTEESHIP AND REGIONAL SECURITY BATTLES.

BOTH MEN ARE LABORITES. THE 61-YEAR-OLD FRASER HAS BEEN IN THE THICK OF NEW ZEALAND POLITICS SINCE 1918 AND HAS BEEN PRIME MINISTER SINCE 1940. THE 51-YEAR-OLD EVATT ALSO STARTED EARLY AND AT 36 WAS THE YOUNGEST HIGH COURT JUDGE EVER NAMED IN THE BRITISH COMMON-WEALTH. HE HAS BEEN FOREIGN MINISTER AND ATTORNEY GENERAL SINCE 1941.

THE BASIS OF THE CURRENT DISTURBANCE IN SYRIA AND LEBANON IS THE ARRIVAL OF FRENCH REINFORCEMENTS IN THE TWO EASTERN MEDITERRANEAN COUNTRIES.

MANDATED TO FRANCE BY THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS AFTER THE FIRST WORLD WAR, BOTH STATES HAVE BEEN ACTIVELY AGITATING FOR COMPLETE INDEPENDENCE SINCE THE EARLY 1930'S AND REGARDED THE ARRIVAL OF NEW FRENCH TROOPS AS AN INFRINGEMENT UPON THEIR SOVEREIGNTY.

FRANCE MAINTAINS THE TROOPS ARE IN THE MIDDLE EAST PREPARATORY TO MOVEMENT TO THE JAPANESE WAR ZONE. SYRIA AND LEBANON HAVE EXPRESSED SKEPTICISM OF THIS EXPLANATION AND AS A RESULT BOTH COUNTRIES HAVE BECOME ARMED CAMPS SUSCEPTIBLE TO EASY FLARE-UPS.

FRANCE, IT WAS EXPLAINED, IS ASKING CONTROL, IN CONJUNCTION WITH BELGIAN AND DUTCH FORCES, OF THE ENTIRE LEFT BANK OF THE RHINE WITH ONLY THE RUHR VALLEY AND ITS COAL FIELDS UNDER INTERNATIONAL CONTROL.

THIS WOULD GIVE THE FRENCH THE KEY RHINE CITY OF COLOGNE AND PLACE FRANCE IN THE DOMINANT POSITION ON THE RHINE THAT GENERAL CHARLES DE GAULLE HAS OFTEN DEMANDED.

BRITAIN, ON THE CONTRARY, WAS REPRESENTED BY THIS OFFICIAL AS WANTING THE ENTIRE RHINELAND INDUSTRIAL BASIN UNDER INTERNATIONAL CONTROL TO PREVENT FRANCE FROM DOMINATING THE ENTIRE REGION.

51 Sq. Mi. Of City In Ashes

Confirmation Of Destruction Of Areas About Imperial Palace.

ALL OBJECTIVES ARE DESTROYED

Raid On Yokohama Highly Effective—City Burning Block After Block.

By Hamilton W. Faron

GUAM, Wednesday, May 30 (AP)—The heart of Tokyo has been wiped out by Superfortress fire-bomb raids, the 21st Bomber Command Headquarters announced today while squadrons of the B-29s were returning from an incendiary assault on Yokohama, new target for the big planes.

Maj. Gen. Curtis E. Lemay, commander of the 21st Bomber Command, said photographs showed that more than 51 square miles of Nippon's capital, including areas surrounding the imperial palace, lay in ashes as the result of six fire raids.

Attack on Yokohama Devastating

Nearly 500 Superforts hit Yokohama yesterday in the biggest daylight aerial strike against Japan, igniting block after block of the port city with 3,200 tons of fire bombs.

The B-29s from Marianas bases turned their fire raiding attention to Yokohama for the first time after their attacks on Tokyo. The last two assaults on the capital city, Thursday and Saturday before dawn, dumped a total of better than 8,500 tons of incendiaries on industrial, business and governmental areas.

Here and there fire-blackened ruins of a few buildings still stand.

(The burned-over area is nearly as large as the Bronx district of New York City. The 1940 census gives the Bronx area as 54.4 square miles, including inland water.)

All Targets Destroyed

"We have destroyed all of the target areas we have set out to destroy," said Lemay, speaking of Tokyo raid results.

Airmen making the Yokohama strike said Japanese aerial opposition was ineffectual, but anti-aircraft fire was intense.

(The 20th Air Force Command announced in Washington that two bombers were lost. This contrasted with 19 lost over Tokyo in last Saturday's raid, heaviest B-29 loss yet sustained.)

Airmen returning to the 21st bomber command base here reported smoke billowing four to five miles above the city, Japan's fifth largest.

"There were fires all over the place, said Lt. Al Ekman of Tampa, Fla.

Burning Block After Block

"Black smoke, such as comes from burning oil storage tanks, was billowing high into the sky," Lt. Frank Klassen of Ford City, Pa., reported. "A strong wind seemed to be blowing on the ground."

The raid, carried out by wave after wave of B-29s in their third heavy strike at Japane in the last six days, brought an admission of "considerable damage" from Japanese Imperial headquarters. An enemy communique, broadcast by radio Tokyo, said the attack lasted for an hour and a half.

Great Factories Targets

Automotive factories, airplane works, shipbuilding and rubber plants were the targets for the bombers, which were escorted by army Mustang fighters. Tokyo placed the number of bombers at about 500 and the fighter escort at "some 100" and claimed without confirmation that 30 planes were shot down and 40 others "heavily damaged."

The Tokyo communique also said the raid extended to the city of Kawasaki, on the coast between Yokohama and Tokyo, and to Tokyo itself.

Superfort crews reported enemy interception over the target area was light.

"Whenever Jap fighters would attempt to come up at our formation we would chase them right back down into the ground," said Sergeant Bender.

Mustangs Shattered Some Defense

An earlier raid by army Mustang fighters from Iwo Jima on three airfields northeast of Tokyo probably had something to do with the light interception reported over Yokohama. The Mustangs caught 100 planes on the ground, the Seventh fighter command on Iwo reported, and destroyed or damaged 42 of them. Targets for the sweep were the Kasumigaura naval air station, Imba field and Yachimata air field.

American carrier planes smacked Yokohama in force last Feb. 16-17 but the city never had been worked over before by B-29s in a fire raid. Situated on the coast 18 miles south of Tokyo, it is Japan's second largest port.

Prime targets were the sprawling waterfront with its great piers, docks and warehouses; the many war industries and communications equipment plants; modern commercial and residential districts with a population density of about 30,000 to the square mile and yards working at breakneck speed to bolster Japan's hard-hit shipping.

General Reports On Damage Done By Tokyo Raids

Guam, Wednesday, May 30 (AP)—The heart of Tokyo has been wiped out by Superfortress fire-bomb raids, 21st Bomber Command headquarters announced today while squadrons of the B-29s were returning from an incendiary assault on Yokohama, new target for the big planes.

Maj. Gen. Curtis E. Le May, commander of the 21st, said photographs showed that more than 51 square miles of Tokyo, including areas surrounding the imperial palace, lay in ashes as the result of six fire raids.

Anti-Aircraft Fire Intense

Nearly 500 Superfortresses hit Yokohama yesterday in the biggest daylight aerial attack against Japan, igniting block after block of the port city with 3,200 tons of fire bombs.

Airmen making the Yokohama attack said Japanese aerial opposition was ineffectual, but anti-aircraft fire was intense.

[The 20th Air Force command announced in Washington that two bombers were lost. This contrasted with nineteen lost over Tokyo in last Saturday's raid, heaviest B-29 loss yet sustained.]

Mustangs Down Interceptors

Mustang fighters from Iwo Jima which escorted more than 450 B-29's in the assault on Yokohama, shot down 26 out of 140 interceptors, probably destroyed 10 others and damaged 18, a fleet communique disclosed. The loss of three fighter planes, one of whose pilots was rescued, was acknowledged.

Airmen returning to the 21st Bomber Command base reported smoke billowed 4 to 5 miles above the city, Japan's fifth largest.

"There were fires all over the place," said Lieut. Al Ekman, of Tampa, Fla.

"We left Yokohama burning block after block," commented Sergt. Edward Bender, of Newcastle, Pa.

Like Oil Tank Fire

"Black smoke, such as comes from burning oil-storage tanks, was billowing high into the sky," Lieut. Frank Klassen, of Ford City, Pa., reported. "A strong wind seemed to be blowing on the ground."

The raid, carried out by wave after wave of B-29's in their third heavy strike at Japan in the last six days, brought an admission of "considerable damage" from Japanese imperial headquarters.

An enemy communiqué broadcast by Radio Tokyo said the attack lasted for an hour and a half.

Automotive factories, airplane works, shipbuilding and rubber plants were the targets for the bombers, which were escorted by army Mustang fighters.

Tokyo placed the number of bombers at about 500 and the fighter escort at "some 100," and claimed without confirmation that 30 planes were shot down and 40 others "heavily damaged."

The Tokyo communiqué also said the raid extended to the city of Kawasaki, on the coast between Yokohama and Tokyo, and to Tokyo itself.

All Tokyo Targets Destroyed

The B-29's turned their fire raiding attention to Yokohama for the first time after their attacks on Tokyo. The last two assaults on the capital city, Thursday and Saturday before dawn, dumped a total of better than 8,500 tons of incendiaries on industrial, business and governmental areas.

"We have destroyed all of the target areas we have set out to destroy," said Le May, speaking of Tokyo raid results.

While the cigar-chewing, youthful general talked, his aides pointed out photographs of areas of destruction which spread in all directions from the palace grounds and up and down the water front of Tokyo Bay, where much of the city's industry is located.

The area in rubble and ashes includes many public utilities that keep the city of 7,000,000 operating, as well as plants turning out materials vital to the war effort.

Marshalling Yards Included

Among the latter are electric plants, the armory, arsenal, engineering works, central railroad stations, the Shigaware plant of the Mitsubishi aircraft industry and marshalling yards which handle most of Japan's rail traffic.

Only incidentally were many business and governmental buildings wiped out—they were not specifically targets of the bombers but were in the bombing area. Some missiles are certain to strike spots adjoining definite targets or fires driven by heavy winds sweep over them.

In this area were the Diet (parliament), Greater East Asia administrative headquarters, the embassies of the United States and other nations and the much-famed Ginza—Fifth Avenue—district.

Palace Damage Minor

Officially, the bomber command reported that a study of reconnaissance photographs showed only minor damage to the Imperial Palace. A spokesman said "numerous buildings within the palace yards are destroyed as well as the area adjacent to the palace."

Le May interjected: 'We are not aiming to hit the palace; why should we? "It's not a military target. But the surrounding area is a military target."

In that area are many scores of small, one-time toy factories which now are turning out parts of airplanes and other war materials on a piecework basis.

General Le May still subscribed to his previous opinion that cities can not be annihilated by fire bombs alone.

Explains Bombing Policy

"I feel you can't toss a few fire bombs into a Japanese city," he continued, "and expect it to burn down—it will not. You can only burn down even the most inflammable sections by spreading over the area a large tonnage of bombs and must concentrate them in the shortest time. If you lay them down like that the city burns down. If you don't, they put it out."

The series of six incendiary raids on Tokyo started last February 25.

The loss of B-29s in these missions total 50, a ratio of one lost for each square mile of Tokyo destroyed.

In addition to uncounted small industrial plants and "shadow factories," records of the 21st Bomber Command show almost 100 important individual targets—principally manufacturing plants—destroyed or damaged.

They include 30 plants turning out heavy war products or electrical equipment, 14 transportation installations, 3 aircraft plants, 8 utilities, 3 oil plants, 12 military installations, 15 war materials factories and 9 miscellaneous military objectives.

All Targets Destroyed

GUAM, May 30 (Wednesday) (AP).—Major General Curtis E. LeMay said, "We have destroyed all of the target areas we have set out to destroy," in speaking today of Toyko raid results.

As a spokesman said, "Numerous buildings within the palace yards are destroyed as well as the area adjacent to the palace," Lemay interjected: "We are not aiming to hit the palace; why should we? It's not a military target. But the surrounding area is a military target."

Only incidentally were many business and governmental buildings destroyed—they were not specifically targets of the bombers but were in the bombing area. In this area were the Diet (Parliament), greater East Asia administrative headquarters, where the Japanese made boastful plans for Asiatic domination, the Embassies of the United States and other nations and the famed Ginza—the Fifth Avenue district.

[The burned-over area is nearly as large as the Bronx area of New York City. The 1940 census gives the Bronx area as 54.4 square miles, including inland water.]

Efforts to arrive at a basis of comparison of the devastating Tokyo raids of last Thursday and Saturday with assaults on European capitals are unavailing. "They just aren't comparable," said LeMay.

Despite destruction of the greater part of the industrial and governmental areas of Tokyo, he still subscribed to his previous opinion that cities cannot be annihilated by fire bombs alone.

"I feel you can't toss a few fire bombs into a Japanese city and expect it to burn down—it will not," he said. "You can only burn down even the most inflammable sections by spreading over the area a large tonnage of bombs, and must concentrate them in the shortest time. If you lay them down like that the city burns down. If you don't they put it out."

In addition to pounding the capital of Japan, the B-29s have wiped out 25.8 square miles of highly industrialized sections in other cities of the empire, including 3.37 square miles inside Kawasaki, 8.10 in Osaka, 11.27 in Nagoya and 3.06 at Kobe. Damage done in Yokohama in yesterday's daylight raid is yet to be reported.

MORE THAN 450 B-29S ATTACK

Jap Fighter Opposition Scarce —Antiaircraft Barrage Is Reported Heavy.

FARON

Guam, May 29 (A. P.). —Superfort crews returning today from their heaviest daylight raid on Japan reported they had lighted giant fires in the industrial section of Yokohama in the first strike against Tokyo's port city.

More than 450 B-29s loosed 3,200 tons of bombs in their third strike in six days within a twenty-mile radius of the Imperial Palace.

Airmen reported smoke billowed for four miles above the city and predicted destruction would rank with that of previous highly effective fire raids against other major industrial cities. Even the enemy's High Command conceded "considerable damage" was inflicted.

Clouds of black smoke, such as comes from burning oil, was reported pouring up from Yokohama's highly inflammable commercial core in the southern end of the city, fifth largest in Nippon. A strong wind appeared to be spreading the fires through automotive, aircraft, shipbuilding and rubber plants.

[Two Superfortresses were lost in yesterday's attack on Yokohama, the Twentieth Air Force announced in Washington today.]

Flak Is Intense.

The Superforts flew through intense and accurate anti-aircraft fire to strike their targets, which included most of the city. An enemy communique said some of the raiders swept on northward to hit Tokyo and the industrial town of Kawasaki which lies between the capital and the port city.

The Jap communique claimed thirty planes were shot out of the attacking force. It asserted forty others were damaged. Superfort crews reported interception was light and attacking aircraft were readily driven off. The absence of enemy fighters was at least partly due to a 1,500-mile round-trip flight yesterday by Mustangs from their Iwo Jima bases to make neutralizing raids on three airfields near Tokyo, including the Kasumigaura naval air station. Forty-two Jap planes were destroyed or damaged in that sweep.

The Twenty-first Bomber Command reserved an official estimate of today's damage until photographs have been studied. But returning airmen said fire bombs were dropped in clear weather and left block after block in flames. Superforts have unloaded 11,700 tons of fire bombs in their last three strikes.

First B-29 Yokohama Raid.

Carrier planes heavily attacked Yokohama February 16-17, but this was the first B-29 mission over that important shipping and industrial center, eighteen miles south of Tokyo. Navy pilots left an escort carrier burning and listing as they swept the entire Tokyo area in February. Yokohama, Japan's fifth largest city, is Tokyo's port. It handled 25 per cent of Japan's pre-war foreign trade.

Today's prime targets were:

1. Yokohama's waterfront with its piers, docks and breakwaters. Also in the area are shipbuilding, aircraft, electrical and communications equipment plants.

2. Modern commercial and residential districts in southeastern Yokohama, where the population is about 30,000 per square mile. The city, with seventy-two square miles area, has 1,000,000 population.

3. Industries built on reclaimed land jutting into Tokyo Bay in the Northeast section.

Large Wharves

Yokohama's wharves, among the world's largest, could accommodate 50,000-ton ships.

The B-29's may have caught some damaged shipping in repair docks as they hit the water-front area's warehouses, docks, canals, railroad spurs and storage facilities.

Most of the enemy's automotive industry was located in three Yokohama factories. The city also was the site of aircraft, steel, rubber, radio, telephone, electrical and many small chemical plants.

Built On Three Deltas

Both the shipbuilding and commercial areas were believed to be prime targets for fire bombs. The commercial core is on the southernmost of three deltas on which the city is built.

Yokohama is a terminus for five double or multiple electric railroads. Three fan northward, where Japan's transport system already is sorely crippled by the Tokyo raids, and two run south.

Tokyo was attacked with 4,500 tons of incendiaries last Thursday by 550 Superforts and with 4,000 tons by 500 Superforts Saturday in night raids which the enemy said laid waste big areas in the Shinagawa, Ginza and Marunouchi districts.

Japs Admit 'Considerable' Damage In Fire Raids

SAN FRANCISCO, May 29 (AP)—A great American fire bomb raid on the Yokohama region during daylight Tuesday morning, Japanese time, left "considerable" damage in the strategic port city, the Nippon high command reported today.

Naval Reshuffle

As Yokohama and adjacent districts flamed under the impact of thousands of incendiaries, the Japanese radio told of a reshuffle of the naval high command, seemingly in an effort to put more punch in Nippon's air force and evolve a plan to meet an expected invasion of the homeland.

Another series of Tokyo broadcasts, recorded by the FCC, said Japan was organizing a new suicide corps of young officers and men to pilot rocket bombs against American land and sea forces at Okinawa, 325 miles off the southern tip of the Nippon island chain.

A new shakeup of the high command which handles what remains of Japan's fleet was announced by the agency Domei. It said Vice Adm. Jisaburo Ozawa, vice chief of the general staff, took over the three top fleet jobs—commander-in-chief of the combined fleet, the newly created overall naval command, and naval escort forces.

Replaces Oikawa

Toyoda was named chief of the naval general staff, replacing Adm. Koshiro Oikawa, who became a supreme war councillor. Vice Adm. Takijiro Onishi, ex-air commander in the Philippines, became vice chief of the naval general staff.

Domei said quarters close to the Navy Ministry felt that the changes, involving top officers in fleet air service, "clearly attests to the iron determination of the Japanese navy to stake its all in an all-out offensive to win final victory in this decisive stage of the war." The same circles, the agency added, were confident that Toyoda, in his new post, would "plan and execute resourceful operations in carrying out a decisive battle for the defense of the Japanese mainland."

Suicide Outfit

Domei pictured the new suicide outfit, called "Jinrai," as made up of men 21 and 22 years and officers 23 and 24. It said the new piloted rocket bomb has been proven effective and that "the Jinrai special attackers have recorded brilliant results against the enemy ship concentrations off the Okinawas since the end om March." It spoke of 332 "aces" of the corps as having been cited for "outstanding exploits."

An unconfirmed claim that 21 "enemy" submarines were sunk or heavily damaged and 315 Allied planes shot down or damaged in the southeast Pacific area since the first of the year was broadcast by Domei.

Extend Financial Aid

The Japanese cabinet was reported by Domei to have extended financial aid to the victims of the great Superfortress fire raid on Tokyo last Saturday. It allocated more than 50,000,000 yen (around $13,000,000 under prewar exchange rates) for relief.

The Japanese people were urged by the Nippon Sangyo Keizai, leading economic daily newspaper of Tokyo, to turn from making bamboo spears for defense against a homeland invasion and concentrate on the building of more planes "in order to destroy the enemy's air strength."

Predicting even more severe raids on Japan, the newspaper said more planes were needed right now rather than when "the enemy approaches Japan's mainland."

Japs Name Admiral Ozawa As Fleet Commander

San Francisco, May 29 (AP)—In a new shakeup of top-ranking Japanese navy posts Vice Admiral Jisaburo Ozawa replaced Admiral Soemu Toyoda in the three highest fleet commands, the Domei news agency reported today in a broadcast intercepted here.

Admiral Toyoda was removed as commander in chief of the combined fleet, commander in chief of the recently created overall naval command and commander of naval escorts. He had headed the combined fleet for slightly over a year. The other two posts were new.

Toyoda was appointed chief of the naval general staff, succeeding Admiral Koshiro Oikawa, who was named a supreme war councilor.

Onishi Given Post

Ozawa, who took over Toyoda's three sea commands was vice-chief of the naval general staff and president of the naval staff college. The post of vice-chief of the navy general staff was filled by Vice-Admiral Takijiro Onishi, one-time commander of all Japanese air forces in the Philippines.

Toyoda became commander-in-chief of the combined Japanese fleet April, 1944, succeeding Admiral Mineichi Koga, who was reported killed in a plane crash at the "front" in March, 1944.

Claim 21 "Enemy" Subs

Domei, meanwhile, claimed without substantiation from Allied sources today that 21 "enemy" submarines had been sunk or "heavily damaged" since the first of the year by Nipponese forces in the Southwest Pacific.

The same broadcast claimed that 315 Allied aircraft had been shot down or damaged during the period in the same area.

[Allied sea and air blockades have almost completely sealed up Japanese naval forces remaining in the Southwest Pacific. Recent dispatches from the area refer to it as "the last hunting ground" for Japanese ships by United States Navy seaplane patrols.]

Losses At Tarakan

Domei also claimed that Japanese forces on Tarakan, north of Borneo, where the Australians just reported wiping out an important garrison, had inflicted a total of 2,153 casualties on invading Australian and Dutch troops between May 1 and 23, and had sunk five mine sweepers off the island.

Domei claimed in another broadcast that 40 Philippines-based American bombers raided Formosa in daylight Sunday. (Japanese

Surprise Japs

Leathernecks of the First Marine Division, surprising some Japanese swimimng in a moat surrounding the fortress, uncorked the dramatic drive, while other Marines of the Sixth Division on the west coast invested all of the rubble-strewn city of Naha north of the main harbor.

Whether the Devildog Company which fought inside Shuri castle held its position or later had to fall back, was not clear from available front reports.

Today's Fleet communique, announcing the ground successes on the west coast and in the center of the line, also raised from 77 to 115 the number of enemy suicide planes destroyed Sunday night and Monday morning during attacks on American shipping. The planes sank one light naval unit and damaged 12 others.

Shoot Down 26 Planes

Mustang fighters from Iwo Jima which escorted more than 450 B-29s in Tuesday's 3,200-ton fire bomb assault on Yokohama, Tokyo's port, shot down 26 out of 140 interceptors, probably destroyed 10 others and damaged 18, the communique disclosed. The loss of three fighter planes, one of whose pilots was rescued, was acknowledged.

The assault on Shuri was directed at the only point on the enemy line which had held firm. Yonabaru fell last week, and Naha has been crumbling for days.

Tuesday elements of Maj. Gen. Pedro A. Del Valle's First Marine Division opened the attack on Shuri.

"By nightfall, C Company of the First Battalion, Fifth regiment of Marines, reached Shuri Castle, former headquarters of the enemy force commander," the communique said.

"Opposition in the area was ligh To the north and northeast of Shu elements of the First Marine d vision, the 77th infantry divisio and the 96th infantry division wer meeting stiff resistance, includin tanks. Night attacks, attempted b enemy swimmers off the east coas (Yonabaru sector) in the Seventh Infantry division zone of action were repulsed."

Front reports of enemy groups in retreat south of Shuri were confirmed by the communique.

Engineers Build Foot Bridges

At Naha, on the southwest coast, Marine engineers built foot bridges before dawn Tuesday across the north-south canal in the shell-wrecked capital, largest ever seized by the Marines.

Then the 22nd regiment of Maj. Gen. Lemuel C. Shepherd, Jr.'s Sixth Marine division crossed the stream and seized all Naha north of the main harbor except for scattered pockets of Japanese.

Japanese artillery emplaced on Kobakura hill southeast of Naha poured shells on the advancing leathernecks.

Search planes of Fleet Air Wing One sank two small enemy cargo ships and a freighter and damaged another small cargo ship in the Tsushima Straits area between southern Japan and Korea Tuesday.

Since the planes began hitting that vital sea route, Fleet Air Wing One has sunk 92,620 tons of shipping and damaged 84,680.

Two small cargo ships were sunk Monday by search Liberators of Fleet Air Wing 8 south of the main Japanese home island of Honshu.

Climax of General Assault

C. Company's dramatic drive into Shuri Castle was the climax of a general assault of General Del Valle's First Division all day yesterday from the northwest through the Wana Ridge sector.

C Company was on the First Division's right flank and started its swift, 1,000 yard thrust from almost due west.

The day before, First Division Marines twice had been pushed back from the crest of Wana Ridge. Yesterday, right flank elements advanced far enough to cut in behind these Japanese positions.

On the First Division's east flank, joining the 77th Infantry Division almost due north of Shuri, the Japanese held on stubbornly, apparently in a rearguard stand to cover withdrawals of their main force. The retreating forces had guns and vehicles. For six days, these movements have been observed.

From heights south of captured Yonabaru, artillery of the Seventn Infantry Division destroyed several eneby guns and vehicles near the town of Chan, about one mile due south of Shuri.

North and northeast of Shuri, the Japanese even brought out tanks against the 77th and 96th. They came under American artillery fire.

Keystone Strongpoint In Center Of Flanked Jap Defense Taken In Sudden, Dramatic Drive.

Being Made Strong Base

OKINAWA, May 24 (delayed) (AP).—Major General Fred C. Wallace, island commander of Okinawa, said that despite Japanese air raids and stubborn fighting in southern Okinawa, the island is becoming a great naval and air base "much quicker than anticipated." Airfields hold first priority and many are being built on the sixty-five-mile long island, he said.

Despite the pinch on construction workers and equipment, he asserted that he was completely satisfied with the progress of construction which began soon after the assault troops hit the beach.

"Enemy air raids really haven't hurt us much," he declared. "Our losses in men and material is far less than expected."

Roads have been built so fast that "Idoubt if even the engineers could tell accurately how many miles have been built."

Wallace said that Okinawa harbors, with dredging, could handle the fleet's largest ships.

Commodore A. G. Bissett, commander of all construction troops on Okinawa, said that development of the island is the "biggest construction job ever attempted in the war—including Europe and the Pacific."

The biggest part of the air base work, he told newsmen, will be finished within a few months.

His Seabees (Navy construction battalions) and Army engineers have built more than 100 miles of road, Bissett estimated, and they will build another 500.

Bissett said that captured Japanese airfields had to be completely rebuilt to handle heavier American planes. The Japanese fields "were no engineering jobs in any sense of the word."

commander, said that despite Japanese raids and stubborn fighting in southern Okinawa, this island is becoming a great naval and air base "much quicker than anticipated."

Airfields hold first priority and many are being built on the 65-mile-long island.

Wallace, former commander of the Espiritu Santo Island in the South Pacific, said Okinawa harbors, with dredging, could handle the fleet's largest ships.

Suicide Planes Sink U.S. Ship, Damage 12

Guam, May 29 (AP)—In the wake of Japanese suicide air attacks that sank one light United States Fleet unit and damaged twelve others in Okinawa waters, American infantrymen drove down both sides of the muddy island today to begin closing a pincers around the stubbornly defended fortress of Shuri.

Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, announcing damage to the fleet, said at least 77 raiders were shot down as they attacked Sunday night and Monday. He gave no details beyond saying damage was "light to moderate."

The air raids were the second in less than a week and the two have cost the Japanese more than 240 planes. Last Thursday the enemy lost 166 planes, damaged 23 American fleet units and sank one, pressed nearly 2 miles south of Yonabaru, on the eastern flank, penetrating Ogushuku and Shinzato to isolate the Chinen Peninsula.

Pincers On Shuri

Other 7th Division elements, closing the pincers on Shuri, entered Kamizato and Tera, south of the key fortress. They were approximately halfway across the island.

Despite continued Japanese troop movement, apparently southward from Shuri, the fortress garrison strongly resisted pressure from the 6th Marines and the 77th and 96th Infantry divisions.

The 1st Marines twice gained the crest of Wana Ridge, a half mile north, and both times were forced back by Japanese attacking with satchel charges thrown from long poles whirled slingshot-fashion over their heads.

Meanwhile, search Privateers of Fleet Air Wing 1, again sweeping Japan's vital waters around Korea, sank a destroyer and six cargo ships and damaged three other freight vessels.

Airdrome Within Reach.

With most of Naha occupied, the Marines were in position to cross the narrow harbor inlet for an assault on Naha airdrome, a little more than one mile to the south. The multiple-strip airfield is the best in the entire Ryukyu chain. The Marines also could swing southeastward along the northern side of Naha harbor in a drive to meet the Seventh Infantry Division, now south of Shuri, and thus encircle that fortress city in the center of the line.

Navy search planes sank a destroyer and six cargo ships and damaged three other freight vessels in Korean waters.

Among those taking part in the attack were Ensign William E. Wassmer, navigator, of 1734 Brooklyn avenue, Brooklyn, and John L. Butler, Arm 3/c, 143-06 91st avenue, Jamaica, Queens.

MORE JAP CLAIMS

San Francisco, May 29 (A. P.).—The Jap Domei news agency claimed without substantiation from Allied sources today that twenty-one "enemy" submarines had been sunk or heavily damaged since the first of the year by Nipponese forces in the southwest Pacific. The same broadcast, recorded by the FCC, claimed that 315 Allied aircraft had been shot down or damaged during the period in the same area.

Allied sea and air blockades have almost completely sealed up Jap naval forces remaining in the southwest Pacific. Recent dispatches from the area refer to is at "the last hunting ground" for Jap ships by American Navy seaplane patrols.

13 Million for Raid Victims.

San Francisco, May 29 (A. P.).—Victims of last Saturday's great Superfortress fire raid on Tokyo have been allocated 50,444,000 yen (slightly less than $13,000,000 at prewar exchange rates), Domei news agency reported today in a broadcast heard by the FCC.

Cagayan Valley, was reported today by Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Little Opposition There

The 25th Division pushed into Santa Fe against little opposition. The 32d Division, moving along the Villa Verde trail to the west, was within 3 miles of the town.

A stiff fight is expected all the way to the port of Aparri, 185 miles away at the northern tip of Luzon. The Yanks have 75 miles of mountain road to traverse from Santa Fe before they reach the Cagayan Valley itself.

As the 38th slugged deeper into the Marikina Gorge toward the Wawa Dam, Associated Press Correspondent James Hutchson reported there were indications the Nipponese were withdrawing from hill positions near the dam and retreating into mountain fastnesses beyond the river.

Yank patrols have sighted the dam and report that it appears intact. Ipo Dam, larger than Wawa, was seized undamaged several days ago.

Japs Appear Dazed

The 32d Division, clearing hills that flank Highway 5 below Santa Fe reported many Japanese appear dazed from the long intensive artillery and aerial bombardments. Under constant pressure they have retreated into caves, which are being methodically sealed by the Yanks.

On Mindanao the 24th Division's widespread mopping up of the Davao garrison continued with vigorous air support. The 31st Division fought an enemy pocket in central Mindanao.

The 38th Infantry Division smashed into the Wawa sector Monday to take the dam and complete American control of the vast water supply system for distressed Manila. Ipo Dam to the north was captured several days ago.

Divisions Joined In Santa Fe

General MacArthur also reported the 32d Division had joined the 25th in captured Santa Fe, on the mountainous southern approach to the Cagayan Valley of northern Luzon, "bringing to an end organized enemy resistance in this vital area flanking the main highway into the Cagayan Valley."

Heavy and attack bombers and fighters dropped 521 tons of explosives in support of the Luzon ground operations.

On Mindanao Island the 31st Division in the interior made deep penetrations into enemy mountain positions east of Malaybalay and crossed the Pulangi River on the Kibawe road leading to Yank-held Davao.

Close On Jap Pocket

In the Davao area elements of the 24th Division were closing in from three sides on the Japanese pocket between the Davao and Talomo rivers.

Heavy bombers raked industrial plants and rail facilities on Formosa and wrecked considerable railroad equipment along the French Indo-China coast to the south.

Three coastal ships were sunk off Borneo, which was hit with more than 140 tons of bombs in support of ground operations on near-by Tarakan. Large fires were set at Borneo airdromes.

Expected To Dig In Again

While the Wawa victory eliminated what is known as the Shimbu fortifications it doesn't mean the end of the central Luzon fighting. Japanese forces of unreported strength retired across the river, where the Yanks expect to find them dug in again in caves along a seemingly endless succession of ridges.

The dam was captured without a fight. The Japanese stole away in the night, apparently frightened out by the previous day's blasting from tanks at the lower end of the gorge, and by deadly bazooka fire.

The 65-foot-high dam was under examination by engineers for mines or booby traps. The only approach up the gorge was along a 6-foot patch cut from the side of a rocky cliff, including two short tunnels. This made a treacheous bottle-neck approach for the doughboys of the 149th Regiment.

MANILA, Wednesday, May 30, (AP)—Maj. Gen. William C. Chase's 38th Infantry Division seized Wawa dam undamaged and without a fight Monday to secure the last of Manila's three reservoirs and crack the last fixed Japanese strongpoint immediately east of the capital.

The dam, in a scenic rocky gorge between towering cliffs 20 miles from Manila, was abandoned intact by the Japanese who evidently had been frightened off by the previous day's shelling and bazooka fire.

Its capture, announced today by Gen. Douglas MacArthur, climaxed a month-long mountain campaign in which virtually every type of available weapon was used in slowly and bloodily securing ridge after ridge until commanding heights on either side were won.

General MacArthur also reported the 32nd Division had joined the 25th in captured Santa Fe, on the mountainous southern approach to the Cagayan valley of northern Luzon, "bringing to an end organized enemy resistance in this vital area flanking the main highway into the Cagayan valley."

Heavy and attack bombers and fighters dropped 521 tons of explosives in support of the Luzon ground operations.

Tydings Mission Quits Philippines

Manila, May 29 (AP)—In a sudden departure which took Filipino officialdom by surprise, Senator Millard E. Tydings's nine-man mission to the Philippines left for Washington today after a six-day stay.

The only member of Tydings's commission remaining here is E. D. Hester, who also is on the Filipino Rehabilitation Committee. It is understood Hester will remain indefinitely.

Tydings (D., Md.), whose Senate committee is investigating conditions in the islands, told President Sergio Osmena that "my report will be made to President Truman as soon as I reach Washington. You will get a copy of it here in due time."

He spoke at a reception attended by Gen. Douglas MacArthur and his staff.

The commission generally had been expected to remain in the Philippines for several weeks. Tydings never left Manila durin ghis visit, canceling a projected trip to Iloilo and Corregidor. During his visit Tydings twice discussed in a general way relief measures which the Filipinos might expect from the United States.

Rains Slacken

Driving rains that for a week have turned the island's roads into ribbons of mud slacked off, permitting 10th Army ground forces to resume their attacks.

A swift stab by 6th Division Marines, who for a week patiently expanded their Naha bridgehead, swept through the entire western two thirds of the capital city yesterday.

A Marine patrol moved onto Onoyama Island, in the center of the Naha estuary, but was driven off by machine-gun fire from the south shore, where Okinawa's largest airfield is situated.

Fall Of Wawa Dam Appears Imminent

Manila, May 29 (AP)—Capture of Wawa Dam, a source of distressed Manila's water supply, appeared imminent today. A mechanized column of the 38th Infantry Division bore down on the dam in a frontal assault.

Seizure of the dam would end one phase of the long and hard battle to break up remnants of the Japanese Shimbu Line in the Sierra Madre mountains east of Manila.

NEARLY TANGLED WITH DEATH

Manila, May 29 (A. P.).—Lieut. Dan Bradley, of Detroit, Mich., escaped death spectacularly today in view of 100 doughboys. Jap groundfire set his divebomber ablaze.

The Marine flyer zoomed the plane to 300 feet and jumped, but his parachute caught in the tail and the flyer was yanked behind the burning plane as it was falling to earth. About 100 feet from the ground the plane rolled, and the 'chute slipped free. It opened, and the pilot landed in an Abaca thicket, unhurt, near gaping Japanese. Fellow Americans quickly hustled him through to safety.

Japs Lose Tarakan Strongpoint.

Melbourne, May 29 (A. P.).—Australian infantrymen, following up a devastating fire and demolition bombing attack, have captured Freda Hill, Jap munitions storehouse on Tarakan Island.

The actual occupation of the stronghold was surprisingly unopposed. The support bombings, in which Lightnings dropped belly-tanks filled with incendiary jelly and were followed by Liberators, completely knocked out the Jap garrisons as the infantry moved in.

In southern Bougainville Australian troops consolidated after their recent offensive and immediately pushed patrols deep into territory behind the Jap forward area.

Eden Hints France Should Call Troops From Syria

London, May 29 (AP)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden broadly hinted today that France should withdraw the reinforcements sent to the Levant states in order to avoid a possible flareup in the Arab world that would hamper prosecution of the Pacific war.

Dispatch of fresh French troops to Syria and Lebanon led to outbreaks in those areas, which are presenting a united front in demanding a showdown with France on their demands for independence.

Urges Prudent Behavior

Eden told Commons that "the net increase of French troops is very small—about 500 men—but his Majesty's Government have told the French Government of their fear that their arrival may cause regrettable actions."

Calling on all parties involved to "behave with caution and prudence" Eden declared it would be "inexcusable if developments in Syria or Lebanon" interfered with the war against Japan.

The United States is "closely concerned" about the situation, he added.

Eden said the French reinforcements arrived in Beyrouth about the same time as the French delegate-general brought French proposals for a final settlement between France and the Levant states. He did not elaborate on the substance of those proposals.

"There were hopes that the negotiations were going to begin, but unhappily they were timed with the arrival of these reinforcements. We express regret about that, and now we have to start again to see if we cannot better the situation."

Showdown May Be Forced

The two tiny middle eastern French mandates, backed by the Arab League, appeared to be forcing a showdown which may cost France part of her empire.

Diplomatic observers in London, watching developments with apprehension, expressed the view that France had only two alternatives—either she must stand by her demands and put down opposition by force, if necessary, or she must withdraw and accept inevitable loss of prestige as an imperial power.

Fighting Spreads To Homs

Fighting already has broken out in Syria between French forces. Fighting spread to Homs, 120 miles north of the capital, after the French had moved reinforcements from there to quell an outbreak at Hama, 30 miles to the north.

At Hama, best available estimates in Damascus placed the casualties at more than 200, including a considerable expected proportion of dead.

[A Reuter dispatch from Beirut said a railway bridge between Aleppe and Hama, towns in northern Syria, was dynamited early today. A number of train services have been suspended.

[Jamil Mardam Bey, Acting Premier, yesterday told reporters in Damascus that it was not known who was responsible for an explosion between Hamdanieh and Wabaka, north of Hama, in which three persons were killed, fifteen were injured and three cities [illegible] a French wounded.]

French Outnumbered

French and Senegalese troops garrisoning Homs and Hama were believed to number possibly fewer than 300 men in each town, not including larger numbers of Syrian levees who were considered undependable. In Damascus also, where both sides were organizing defenses, the French are greatly outnumbered.

This situation was viewed in London as rapidly involving the question of fundamental colonial policy. The French desire to retain a paramount position in the Levant, such as that enjoyed by Britain in Egypt, Iraq and Palestine.

The Egyptian Premier Mahmoud Fahmy el Nokrashi Pasha, told his Parliament last night that Egypt would support "with all her might the governments of Syria and Lebanon in their insistence on full independence and sovereignty."

BRITISH UNFAIR ABOUT SYRIA, FRENCH CLAIM

Paris Radio Inveighs Against 'Foreign Influences' In Levant

MAY 30 1945

London, May 29 (AP)—The Paris radio, accusing the British Government of issuing an "unjust" communiqué on the crisis in Syria and Lebanon, tonight charged "foreign influences" with having a hand in the Middle East agitation against France.

At the same time, French diplomatic quarters in Paris said that France would not welcome any offers of mediation in her dispute with the Levant states.

British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden told Parliament that the British Government had informed Paris of its fear that the arrival of French reinforcements in Syria and Lebanon "might cause regrettable action."

French Legation Attacked

Eden said it would be inexcusable if developments in the Middle East hindered the Allied war against Japan.

[Cairo and Bierut radio broadcasts heard by the FCC reported fresh outbreaks of violence in Syria and the country's acting premier, Jamil Mardam Bey, announced that demonstrations during the past ten days had resulted in the death of 80 to 100 persons while 200 to 300 have been injured.

[A train was reported to have been derailed between Hamdanieh and Kawakeb during the day. Three persons were reported killed and fourteen injured, while the French Press Agency quoted the Premier as saying disorders had broken out in Deraa, 60 miles south of Damascus, where the inhabitants attacked French barracks.

[The Beirut radio, meanwhile, reported that a Syrian artillery battery had attacked the offices of the French Legation and "all French military positions in Damascus" tonight.

[The broadcast, heard by the FCC, said that "French military authorities, therefore, have taken all necessary measures."]

With the situation in the Levant containing threats of potential repercussions throughout the Arab world, Eden called on all parties involved to "behave with caution and prudence" and said the United States was "closely concerned" about the matter.

"Proper Reply" Made

Commenting on a British Foreign Office statement Saturday on the dispute, the Paris radio said:

"The British Government has published an unjust communiqué on the recent troubles in Syria and Lebanon to which the French Ministry of Information has made proper reply.

"The British Government states that it regrets that the atmosphere has been disturbed by the sending of French reinforcements. . . .

"It is regretted that one can notice foreign influence in the agitation. This, above all, is regrettable, but our British friends will find the affair even more regrettable if the present incidents have repercussions in near-by Arab countries, where they, too, have troops, and where they, too, must effect replacements."

"About 500 Men"

In discussing Britain's position regarding the French reinforcements, Eden said the net increase of French troops in the restive region amounted to only "about 500 men."

Eden confirmed that there had been disturbances in the Syrian cities of Homs, Hama, Damascus and Aleppo, and said that the French reinforcements arrived in Beirut about the same time that the French delegate-general brought French proposals for a final settlement between France and the Levant states.

"There were hopes that negotiations were going to begin," he said, "but unhappily they were timed with the arrival of these (French) reinforcements. We express regret about that, and now we have to start again to see if we cannot better the situation."

Wants Airfields

When Major General Sir Edward Spears, former British minister in Beirut who recently returned to Britain, asked whether the withdrawal of all French troops should not be preliminary to the discussions, Eden said that Spears ought to be in a "very good position to realize the delicacy of these matters."

He added:

"Our responsibility here is to try to the best extent in our power to bring about an improvement of the situation between the two Levant states with whom we are friendly and our great allied friend across the Channel."

Meanwhile French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault told the French Cabinet that France hoped that negotiations with Syria and Lebanon might be reopened to settle outstanding questions before giving up the mandate granted by the League of Nations.

Bidault said that France would withdraw her troops after reaching an agreement in which she would be granted the use of the Levant airfields and ports for moving forces to the Pacific theater.

Fight Develops In Commons Over Elections

Laborites Accuse Churchill Of Staging 'Rush' Election.

LONDON, May 29, (AP)—A bitter fight between Prime Minister Churchill and former Laborite members of his wartime coalition cabinet developed in Commons today over responsibility for the coming July 5 general election.

Laborites accused the prime minister of staging a "rush" election that would deprive hundreds of thousand of voters on holiday of a chance to cast their ballots. Churchill retorted angrily:

"All of these difficulties would have been removed to a later date if representatives of Labor and the Liberal parties had consented to go on for as long as the war with Japan continues."

In Fighting Form

Churchill was in fighting form and said he was enjoying himself when the new "caretaker" government took over and faced the old as the verbal slug-fest broke out wartime ministers on the opposition bench.

When one member suggested that if everyone cooperated some arrangement possibly could be worked out without "engendering heat" so that everyone got a chance to vote, Churchill replied:

"No heat has been engendered. In fact I rather enjoy these occasions."

The responsibility for the immediate breakup of the wartime coalition government is developing into Churchill and two Labor Party members in his coalition cabinet—Labor Minister Ernest Bevin and Home Secretary Herbert Morrison.

Bevin accused Churchill of "rushing the election" and asked: "Is it not a fact that the Prime Minister was so uncertain about this House continuing its life that he proposed a referendum which would introduce a new feature in British parliamentary life?"

Bevin was referring to Churchill's suggestion for a public opinion referendum on whether the coalition government should continue. During one exchange with Morrison that was drowned out in the noise on the floor Churchill snapped:

"I am not going to bandy discourtesies. The right honorable gentleman seems to have come out of his tenure of the Home office with worsened manners.

Examining the Point

Churchill said that he had been asked whether the July date chosen for polling day would deprive nearly 500,000 persons in Lancashire of a reasonable opportunity to cast votes, as they had already made vacation plans. He replied that the number probably was only half that "but that is quite serious and we are examining the point."

Several speakers said that the acute transportation situation would make it virtually impossible for any large number of persons away on holidays to get home to vote.

Churchill contended that postponing the election for a week or two would not be a solution, as other holiday-makers would then be affected.

In answer to a question the Prime Minister said the three-power reparations commission to determine what payments Germany must make had not yet met but would convene in Moscow under an arrangement reached in the Soviet capital. He declined to make any statement in advance of the meeting.

Must Have Formal Notice

The Prime Minister said he would have to have formal notice before answering whether it was true France was taking unilateral action in transferring cattle from Germany and that Russia was transferring the male population from Germany to rebuild Soviet cities.

Questioned whether Britain would take into consideration annexation of the former independent kingdom of Hannover in Germany Churchill replied:

"We are not seeking to enlarge our bounds as a result of this war. We have fought it for great principles and in the satisfaction of those principles we shall find our reward."

Meanwhile Lord Vansittart in the House of Lords urged the creation of an interallied board of scientists to control—and if necessary, prevent—German use of any scientific discovery such as Germany's V-weapons.

Van Sittart declared there should be a control on granting permission to the Germans "to use any apparatus or invention of a potentially dangerous character developed elsewhere than in Germany itself."

He declared that had Germany's V-weapons been used at the start of the war "it would have meant the destruction of our civilization."

one of the main issues of the campaign.

The Labor Party had demanded an autumn election but made it clear it was unwilling to join in a coalition in inaugurating the postwar program.

The Conservatives led by Churchill precipitated an earlier election by resigning after the Laborites refused to stay on in the government until the end of the Japanese war. The king reappointed Churchill to head an interim government.

London, May 29 (AP)—Mrs. Winston Churchill, who recently visited Russia, said today that she presented Marshal Stalin with a gold fountain pen as a gift from the Prime Minister who said he hoped Stalin would write him "many friendly messages with it."

The incident was one of the sidelights she gave in an official report on her trip made in behalf of the British Red Cross and Russia Fund of which she is chairman.

British Casualties Total 1,128,315 on All Fronts

307,201 Killed Are a Third of 1914-'18 Figure

LONDON, May 29 (AP).—Prime Minister Churchill announced today that the British Empire armed forces have suffered 1,128,315 casualties during the war, including 307,201 killed. His office said the figures include casualties on all war fronts, including the Far East.

The reported death toll for sixty-six months of the war was slightly more than a third as large as that of the British Empire in the fifty-two months of the first World War.

In reporting to Commons, Churchill said that additional losses were inflicted upon the civilian population of Britain by enemy bombardment. He said civilian casualties totaled 60,585 killed, 86,175 seriously injured, and upward of 150,000 slightly injured.

British military casualties in the first World War were listed by Churchill as 3,286,000, including 996,230 dead.

British Armed Forces Dead 307,201, About Third Of World War I Losses

London, May 29 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill announced today that the British Empire's armed forces had suffered 1,128,315 casualties during the war, including 307,201 killed.

No. 10 Downing Street said the figures included casualties from all war fronts, including the Far East.

The reported death toll for the 66 months of the war was only a little more than a third as large as that of the British Empire in the 52 months of World War I.

In reporting to Commons, Churchill said that additional losses were inflicted upon the civilian population of Britain by enemy bombardment. He said civilian casualties totaled 60,585 killed, 86,175 seriously injured and upward of 150,000 slightly injured.

996,230 Dead In World War I

British military casualties in World War I were listed by Churchill as 3,286,000, including 996,230 dead.

Churchill's report came as one of the first orders of business as Britain returned to party politics and the Prime Minister led his new "caretaker" Government into Commons for the first time. Conservatives cheered and waved. Labor members quipped: "Are you waving him good-by?"

Exchanges Noisy

Political acrimony developed into one of the House of Commons' noisiest sessions in years, with Churchill at one point snapping at former Home Secretary Herbert Morrison, "I am not going to bandy discourtesies. The right honorable gentleman seems to have come out of his tenure of Home Office with worsened manners."

The remark was made during an exchange over the question of who was responsible for forcing the coming elections.

Churchill faced on the opposition bench some Labor Ministers of the coalition Cabinet which was dissolved last week. The House was tense, awaiting the first clash between leaders of two major parties which for five years formed a united front to fight the war against Germany.

The Prime Minister appeared in good spirits. His son, Major Randolph Churchill, a Conservative member of Parliament, only recently returned from war service in the Middle East, walked close behind him.

Sir James Grigg, Secretary for War, was the first Minister to speak. He said about one fourth of the Italian prisoners held in Great Britain still were classified as "nonco-operators." He denied an allegation raised by one member that British soldiers had been billeted with Germans. He said that nonworking German prisoners of war never had received more of nationally rationed food items than British civilians.

Most Of PW's Liberated

Sir James said that of 180,000 British Commonwealth prisoners of war in German hands on January 1, some 156,000 already had been liberated.

Major Gwilym Lloyd George, who defied his Liberal party leadership to remain in the Churchill Government as Minister of Fuel, declared that none of the 1,000 German prisoners in Britain who were miners had actually started digging. He said they might be used in German mines to dig coal for Allied use.

Discusses Ship Transfer

Clement Attlee, former Deputy Prime Minister and leader of the Labor party, arrived late and was cheered by the Labor benches.

Labor Ministers offered a profusion of questions on many subjects when Churchill rose for the first time.

To a question about transfer of Royal Navy vessels to the Russian fleet, Churchill said he would make a lengthy statement next week. Laborite Rhys Davies reminded Churchill he once said he did not propose to preside over liquidation of the British Empire, to which the Prime Minister rejoined:

"This particular episode was part of a process by which the consolidation of the British Empire was achieved."

Lord Haw Haw Is Wounded During Capture By British

Lueneburg, May 29 (AP)—"Lord Haw Haw," notorious British renegade who broadcast for the Nazis during the war, lay seriously wounded and scowling here tonight while British soldiers shouted, "You yellow traitor—in our hands at last."

The 39-year-old prisoner, born William Joyce, was shot in the thigh yesterday by a British officer who captured him near Flensburg when he made a threatening move in his pocket as though clutching a revolver.

Put On Exhibition

Brought here tonight in an ambulance, he was placed on exhibition for five minutes so that British Tommies could get a glimpse of one of the most hated men in England. Then he was taken to a hospital. A senior British intelligence officer indicated he would be taken to Britain as soon as possible.

The short, scar-faced man appeared to be in good health despite the bullet wound, and just stared sullenly at correspondents who had waited three hours to see him. He was dressed in blue-and-white-striped pajamas.

A woman believed to be Haw Haw's wife was captured ten days ago at Flensburg and also was brought to British 2d Army headquarters here. She is a small, dark-haired woman in her thirties.

A chunky man of perhaps 5 feet 5 inches, Joyce was a member of Sir Oswald Mosley's British Fascist group in 1933 when Hitler seized power. He broke with Mosley four years later and organized his own "National Socialist League." He went to Germany on August 25, 1939.

Joyce told an Associated Press reporter in Berlin in 1940 that he felt that if, "for perfect reasons of conscience, I could not fight for her (England), I must give her up forever."

He said he saw a "certain amount" of street fighting against Communists in England, and that he instilled in Mosley's party a definite anti-Jewish policy.

Makes Slight Movement

Joyce was seized near the Danish frontier yesterday, dressed in an expensive civilian suit. Two British officers were collecting firewood when he approached them and engaged in casual conversation. Several remarks caused the officers to suspect him.

Challenged as "Lord Haw Haw," he unhesitatingly admitted his identity. Then, the officers said, he made a slight movement in his pocket as though clutching a revolver. One of the officers quickly drew his own gun and shot him.

On the way to the hospital Joyce told his captors: "I suppose in view of the recent suicides you expect me to do the same, but I am not that kind of a person."

"Wilhelm Froehlich"

No firearms or other weapons were found in his pockets. He carried a German passport made out under the name of "Hansen," but other papers taken from him bore the name Joyce. An intelligence officer said that Joyce, after going to Germany a week before the war began, became a German national and adopted the name "Wilhelm Froehlich."

Another British officer said tonight: "We can all breathe easier. It would have been awful if the British had not had the honor of capturing this traitor."

A German Citizen?

An authoritative informant told the Associated Press in London there was a strong probability Joyce would have to stand trial for treason in England. Some reports said he became a German citizen after going to that country in 1939, but these were not confirmed.

Joyce, born in New York of Irish parents but educated in Ireland and at London University, throughout the war broadcast for the Propaganda Minister, Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, in a precise, almost exaggerated Oxford accent that gained him the name Lord Haw Haw.

He twitted British and American radio audiences over the achievements of German arms and was generally arrogant and sarcastic. Far from undermining British morale, however, his broadcasts came to be highly regarded in that country for their entertainment value.

The Last Time

The last time Lord Haw Haw was heard—at least outside Germany—was on April 30, just before the Nazis' unconditional surrender, when his voice broke in a choking, stuttering admission that Germany might be beaten.

The London Daily Mail said May 4 that a cell in the Tower of London was waiting for Joyce.

The former Deputy Prime Minister Clement R. Attlee said in Commons fourteen months ago that British subjects broadcasting from enemy radio stations would be brought to trial in British courts. Any charges against Joyce probably would be based on giving aid and comfort to the enemy.

Six Americans, who, like Joyce, lent their voices to Goebbels's propaganda, were indicted by the United States for treason in 1943 and are believed still to be at large in Germany.

They are Frederick Wilhelm Kaltenbach, of Dubuque, Iowa; Robert Henry Best, born at Sumter, S.C.; Douglas Chandler, a former captain of the Cornell rowing team; Constance Drexel, formerly of Roslindale, Mass., and Philadelphia; Edward Leo Delaney, of Olney, Ill., and Max Oscar Otto Koischwitz.

The American poet, Ezra Pond, who broadcast for Mussolini, was captured several weeks ago in Italy.

'Lord Haw Haw' Wounded And Captured

Lueneburg, Germany, May 29 (AP)—Scarfaced William Joyce, better known as "Lord Haw Haw," Goebbels's anti-British mouthpiece, was shot in the thigh and captured at the Danish border near Flensburg yesterday. His condition is reported to be critical.

A British soldier fired when Joyce made a threatening move with his hand in his pocket.

Joyce is being transferred to Lueneburg by ambulance, a senior intelligence officer with the British 2d Army said.

His wife was also captured.

Treason Trial Probable

An authoritative source in London said there was a strong probability that he would have to stand trial for treason in the country he tried vainly to undermine.

"Lord Haw Haw" is William Joyce, 39, a native of New York, where he was born of Irish parents. An early British Fascist, his face was slashed by a razor twenty years ago during a fight with British Communists.

Joyce was a tool of the Goebbels Propaganda Ministry. His polished voice and precise English accent were attained at London University, where he was graduated with honors in 1927.

Boasted Of Nazi Deeds

Throughout the war, he taunted the British and American radio audiences with accounts of German air blows at London and other British cities, and gloated over every achievement of German arms. Even while he was boasting of the Blitz, German bombers destroyed the London home of his father, Michael Joyce, who died in February of 1941.

"Haw Haw," far from undermining British morale, however, steeled the British and provided them with one of their few grim entertainments during the dark days of the war.

At one time, his sarcasm and "Views on the News," frequently dealing with British internal problems, were broadcast over a wide German network.

Attlee Promised Action

Joyce's name appears on no announced list of war criminals. Any charge against him probably will come from the Attorney General's office in Great Britain, based perhaps on accusations of giving aid and comfort to the enemy. Former Deputy Prime Minister Clement R. Attlee said in Commons fourteen months ago that British subjects broadcasting from enemy radio stations would be charged with offenses against British law and brought to trial in appropriate British courts.

"Haw Haw" made his last recorded broadcast on April 30 from Hamburg just before the unconditional German surrender. His bravado was gone. His voice broke in a stuttering, choking statement that Germany might be defeated.

Once Mosley Adherent

He was an adherent of Sir Oswald Mosley's small but noisy British Fascist group in 1933, when Hitler assumed power in Germany. He became Sir Oswald's "minister of propaganda" but broke with him four years later and organized his own "National Socialist League," which was disbanded shortly before Germany invaded Poland.

Joyce went to Germany on August 25, 1939. Some reports said he took German citizenship, but this was never confirmed. His broadcasts were beamed to Britain but attracted many short-wave listeners in the United States.

Arrogant and bombastic when Europe lay beneath the Nazi jackboot, "Haw Haw" eventually changed to a pleading tone. He asserted that Germany was actually fighting Britain's battles against Bolshevism.

Others Still At Large

MAY 30 1945

His capture marks the beginning of the end for a small group of radio quislings who became hangers-on of the Nazis and lent their voices to Goebbels's propaganda. Six of those believed still at large in Germany were indicted in the United States in 1943 for treason.

Among these is Frederick Wilhelm Kaltenbach, of Dubuque, Iowa, whose voice was beamed to the United States. He became known as "Lord Hee Haw."

Other fugitives from American indictments are Robert Henry Best, Douglas Chandler, Constance Drexel, Max Oscar Otto Koischwitz and Edward Leo Delaney. The American poet Ezra Pound, who broadcast for Mussolini, was captured several weeks ago in Italy.

Chandler Ex-Baltimorean

Best, 49, was born in Sumter, S.C., educated at Wofford College and the Columbia School of Journalism and went to Vienna as a news correspondent in 1923. His voice was heard regularly in a "Guess Who" program over the Berlin radio from April, 1942, to August, 1944.

Chandler formerly was captain of the Cornell rowing team and was a New York broker and Baltimore newspaper man. Before Pearl Harbor he spoke to the United States under the name of "Paul Revere."

The Dexel woman, a German-born United States citizen, formerly lived in Roslindale, Mass., and Philadelphia. Stars and Stripes described her as a "baggy-eyed, weasel-voiced, self-styled writer and radio speaker."

Delaney Lampooned Roosevelt

Koischwitz was German-born and posed on the airways as "O.K." of Berlin." He devoted most of his broadcast time to reading names of captured Americans in a tantalizing fashion aimed at sustaining listener appeal. He was a naturalized American who gave up a professorship at Hunter College to go to Berlin.

Delaney, of Olney, Ill., formerly was an actor and film-distributing agent. He lampooned President Roosevelt over the Berlin radio.

In October, 1940, Associated Press Correspondent Preston Grover cabled from Berlin an interview with Joyce, which contained the following statements by him:

Became British Fascist

"I was born in New York in 1906. My father's people had lived in Ireland since the Norman conquest. I went to school in Ireland.

"From my earliest days I was taught to love England and her empire. Patriotism was the highest virtue I knew."

Joyce told Grover that he joined the British Fascists in 1923, when he was about 17 years old, and saw a "certain amount of street fighting" against the Communists. He added that he joined Mosley's "British Union of Fascists" in 1933 and instilled in it a definite anti-Jewish policy.

As Britain moved toward war, he said, he prepared to leave. He said he felt that if "for perfect reasons of conscience, I could not fight for her [England], I must give her up forever."

Used Name Of Froelich

Grover said that Joyce was then using the German name of Froelich.

The London Daily Mail said on May 4 that a cell in the Tower of London was waiting for Joyce.

Joyce was dubbed "Lord Haw Haw" by Jonah Barrington, of the London Daily Express, because of his exaggerated British accent.

Call for Speedy Trial.

London, May 29 (A. P.).—The London newspapers called today for a speedy trial for Lord Haw Haw. The Evening Star called him "the arch traitor" in large black type, and commented: "Happily, no fumblings by the War Crimes Commission are required before this traitor can be awarded justice."

Like other newspapers, the Star chafed because the details of his capture were not released immediately.

It was stated authoritatively that Haw Haw would be charged with treason.

The Evening News said he would be brought to London Tower and charged with treason under the old Statute of Treasons of 1351. This law provides that convicted persons should be "hanged, drawn and quartered." The Star said that enough evidence had been collected to justify a charge under the treachery act of 1940, which also provides death by hanging. The Evening Standard suggested that Haw Haw may deny that he is a British subject, because he was born in New York of a father from Southern Ireland. The Standard added: "He may claim he is an American citizen or a citizen of Eire."

British Name War Crime Prosecutor

London, May 29 (AP)—Attorney General Sir David Maxwell Fyfe was appointed British representative today on the big power board of prosecution for leading Nazis.

He will serve with Justice Robert H. Jackson and presumably with representatives of Russia and France who have not yet been named. Jackson was here reviewing the progress of indicting prominent Germans accused as war criminals.

Prime Minister Churchill announced in Commons the appointment of Sir David after Lieut. Col. Anthony Marlowe, Conservative, asked if Churchill would see that notorious Nazis "are dispatched with maximum speed and, pending that, maintained in prison cells and not in hotels."

Some Already "Settled"

Churchill replied:

"As I anticipated some time ago, a good many cases seem to have been settled by local adjustment. As far as the great powers are concerned, the movement of thought has tended toward establishment of a military tribunal."

Pressed for assurance that the trials would proceed "as soon as possible," Churchill said "they ought not to be proceeded with until they are properly arranged and the method is agreed upon between the great powers."

"Dignified Action"

John McGovern, Independent Labor, asked sarcastically, "will you see that these criminals are given adequate supplies of chicken, wine and champagne?"

Laborite McElwyn Highes asked assurance that the proceedings "will not be of the character instituted by the Norwegian Government, but that they will be short and spectacular."

Churchill responded that the Norwegian Government had shown "dignified action by a jury instead of mob violence, while implacably pursuing justice."

Quizzed By Morrison

"How long will it take to dispatch Field Marshal Goering to his proper destination?" asked Herbert Morrison, Laborite and former home secretary. Churchill replied:

"I know no more than I did the day before yesterday when I shared this want of knowledge with Mr. Morrison."

Jackson, immediately following his arrival from Paris, called into conference Lieut. Col. Joseph Hodgson, American representative on the War Crimes Commission. He was expected to see other commission members later in the day.

Speed Is Urged

Coincident with Jackson's arrival here the British Foreign Office issued a statement expressing hope that his visit would result in "rapid progress" in the discussions "which have been actively proceeding for several weeks" to establish machinery for the trial of major war criminals.

The statement said the British and United States governments "have always been as one with regard to the point made by President Truman in appointing Justice Jackson, namely, that quick and stern action should be taken."

The statement, however, did not indicate when such action was to be expected. The War Crimes Commission repeatedly has declined to disclose the identity of those it has listed as war criminals with the exception of Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering.

BRITISH NAME PROSECUTOR

But Churchill Says War Crimes Trials Face Delay

London, May 29 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill named Britain's chief prosecutor of German war criminals today but told an impatient House of Commons the trials should not begin "until they are properly arranged and a method agreed upon between the great powers."

Attorney General Sir David Maxwell Fyfe, who was nominated to the big powers board of prosecution, will serve with Supreme Court Justice Robert H. Jackson of the United States and the representatives of France and Russia yet to be chosen.

Churchill's implication that the trials of Hermann Goering and other Nazi big shots would have to wait until various details were worked out among the Allied powers supported a statement by Justice Jackson yesterday that they could not start for "some time."

Tory Leads Attack

A member of Churchill's own Conservative party, Lieut. Col. Anthony A. Marlowe, led the Commons chorus against the seeming delay in getting started when he demanded of the Premier whether he would see that high Nazis were "dispatched with maximum speed, and, pending that, they are maintained in prison cells and not in hotels."

Marlowe, amid cheers, described the "tangled machinery" of the proposed trials as an "inappropriate farce."

John McGovern of the Independent Labor party interjected sarcastically: "Will you see that these criminals are given adequate supplies of chicken, wine and champagne?"

Laborite Herbert Morrison, former Home Secretary in the recently disbanded coalition cabinet, asked "how long it will take to dispatch Field Marshal Goering to his proper destination."

Dignified Action

When another member commented adversely on Norway's method of proceeding against Vidkun Quisling and others of its accused war criminals, Churchill replied that the Norwegians had "shown dignified action by jury instead of mob violence, while implacably pursuing justice."

Justice Jackson, who arrived here late yesterday from Paris, went into immediate conference with Lieut. Col. Joseph Hodgson, American representative on the War Crimes Commission, to obtain up-to-the-minute news on the progress made in indicting prominent Nazis.

Individual Oppressors

The War Crimes Commission announced that a three-day conference of its members would open here Thursday to discuss "how to accelerate and improve detection of war criminals of both the European and the Japanese wars."

The commission promised to pursue "not only the major offenders whose victims are counted in hundreds but individual oppressors who have beaten up, shot or tortured one or a dozen victims."

Churchill announced that lists of criminals being drawn up by the commission would be forwarded to Allied commanders in the field.

A responsible source reported that the United States and Britain were conferring with Russia on a high diplomatic level on the procedure to be employed in bringing prominent Nazis before an international military tribunal, but that no hard-and-fast decision had been reached.

Justice Jackson said yesterday in Paris that the Russians had shown an inclination "to go along with us."

HONOR IS PAID TO WIEDORFER, IN HOSPITAL

General Koenig Presents Congressional Medal To Baltimore Hero

London, May 29 (AP)—Staff Sergeant Paul Wiedorfer, 24-year-old infantryman from Baltimore who knocked out two machine guns, killed three Germans and captured twenty last Christmas Day during the Nazi breakthrough into Belgium, sat up in a hospital bed today to receive the Congressional Medal of Honor.

The presentation was made by Brig. Gen. E. F. Koenig, commander of the United States Army United Kingdom base, in a ward at the 137th United States Army General Hospital, where Sergeant Wiedorfer is recovering from his second battle wound.

The sergeant was cited for his daring Christmas Day action which enabled his unit to advance toward besieged Bastogne in the face of fierce enemy opposition. General Koenig stepped back and saluted him after placing the medal about his neck.

Text Of Citation

The citation said:

"Then a private, Wiedorfer was advancing with his company across an open clearing near Chaumont when they were met by heavy machine-gun fire from two German positions dug in at the wood's edge.

"Wiedorfer, realizing his platoon could not advance until the enemy machine guns were destroyed, voluntarily charged alone, without protective cover of any kind.

"Miraculously escaping injury, Wiedorfer reached a point 10 yards from the first machine-gun emplacement and hurled a grenade into it, killing three men manning the gun.

Attacks Second Position

"Taking cover in the first emplacement he began to attack the second position with his rifle. One of the enemy was wounded by his fire, and the other six immediately surrendered.

"A few minutes later, when his platoon leader and sergeant were wounded, Wiedorfer assumed command of the platoon and led it until the mission was successfully accomplished.

"Fourteen other German soldiers who had witnessed the action from a near-by woods decided they had seen enough, and came out with hands up to surrender to the American private. His commanding officer gave him an immediate battlefield promotion to his present rank."

Recovering From Wounds

Wiedorfer is a member of Company G, 318th Infantry Regiment, of the 80th Division.

He is recovering from multiple wounds received February 10 near Biesdorf, Germany, during the crossing of the Saar river. He was hit in both legs and the stomach. He had been wounded earlier, though not seriously, during the fighting in France.

Army doctors said Wiedorfer would be flown back to the United States soon. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wiedorfer of 2431 McElderry street, Baltimore. His wife lives at 911 East Bank street, Baltimore.

Tight Control Of Nazis Urged

London, May 29 (AP)—Creation of an inter-Allied panel of scientists to control, and if necessary prevent, German use of any scientific discovery dangerous to mankind was urged today by Lord Vansittart.

Declaring "the science of destruction has got out of hand," he told the House of Lords that if the Germans' V-1, V-2 and V-3 weapons had been brought into action a year earlier, "it would probably have meant the end of this island.

"Had they been brought into action at the beginning of the war, it would have meant the destruction of civilization. . . . We have had the very devil of a lesson and it would be our fault if we have another."

Vansittart declared there should be "control of the grant of permission by any country to Germany to use any apparatus or invention of a potentially dangerous character developed elsewhere than in Germany itself.

"There ought to be an inspectorate—which might eventually become a world inspectorate—to guard against developments or overdevelopments of secret devices. Otherwise in a short while nations may find themselves gradually engaging in a secret armaments race of a far more terrifying character than any of its overt or semi-overt predecessors."

GI Spending To Aid Trade In The Far East

London, May 29 (AP)—Comparing the personal spending of American troops to the income derived from "tourist traffic," the Financial News said today that the "withdrawal of a major part of the AEF from the European to the Far Eastern theater of war is an event of first rate importance from the point of view of the international dollar position."

The News said the American spendings "constituted a welcome addition to our depleted dollar reserves" and added that France, Italy, Egypt and other Middle East countries also must have benefited because of the presence of large forces of Americans.

"One country's meat is another's poison," the News added. "It is now the turn of countries of the Pacific to benefit by American military spendings. China and various Pacific islands will become holders of substantial dollar reserves which should help American trade with the Far East after the war."

"From this point of view," the News said, "American military spendings in the Far East will add to the difficulties of European exporting countries in recovering their Far Eastern markets, since the Far Eastern importers will be in a position to buy in the United States."

SUBS GOT VESSELS IN D-DAY DRILL

Army Reveals Successful Nazi Attack In Channel

HENRY B. JAMESON

Weymouth, England, May 29 (AP).—German submarines slipped into the English Channel and torpedoed several landing craft laden with American troops during a preinvasion exercise near here last summer, the United States Army disclosed today.

No details of the incident were given but it recalled the many setbacks and hardships that had to be endured during the gigantic preparations for the invasion.

The submarine espisode was revealed in an army announcement that it was discontinuing its activities at the twin ports of Weymouth and Portland, which served as the main embarkation points for the D-day assault on the Normandy beaches and as bases of supply.

Casualties High

A year ago this week Allied troops began massing on the south coast of England for the invasion. While the actual storming of the beaches may have caught the Germans by surprise, it was no secret to the enemy that something was in the wind. What the Nazis did not know was whether it was the real thing or just another dress rehearsal.

Regardless of that, they s' out to make it as rough as possit' for the Allies.

Thousands of troops movin, into the marshaling areas constantly were exposed to air attack. Many staging and marshaling bases, regardless of how well hidden or camouflaged they were, suffered direct hits. Casualties were high in some.

One witness reported the bombing of a D-day assault force outside Weymouth on last May 31. This was called as big as any seen during two years in London. It lasted two hours. Approximately 2,000 invasion ships sprinkled around the harbor offered a ripe plum for Nazi bombers.

But thanks to anti-aircraft gunners, the night fighters which flocked into the sky like bees did only slight damage. Only two craft were sunk that night, it was believed.

There were smaller raids every night until the eve of the invasion when troops were loaded under cover of a brewing storm that delayed D-day but kept the Nazi bombers away.

Secret Camps Set Up

A series of large marshaling camps, where troops from all over England were to gather for rest and final briefings, were set up long before D-day throughout the Dorsetshire Hills.

Every hedgerow grove was a base for some outfit whose location and identity was not even known by his buddies across the field. The gates of every camp were "sealed."

When the time came to load the ships, men, guns and tanks seemed to pop out of the ground like magic.

After the invasion these secret camps continued to feed a steady flow of troops and supplies across the Channel.

Army records show that since D-day the ports of Weymouth and Portland embarked 515,459 soldiers and loaded 143,399 vehicles for a total of 1,057,493 deadweight tons.

A. P.'s Kennedy Gets Trinidad Boat in Error

MAY 30 1945

Sought Aid of Lieutenant, Former U. P. Man, Who Found Mistake Too Late

From the Herald Tribune Bureau

Copyright, 1945, New York Tribune Inc.

PARIS, May 29.—Edward Kennedy, war correspondent of The Associated Press who was disaccredited and ordered home for sending out the story of the German surrender before the official release time, is aboard a ship bound for Trinidad, which he boarded by mistake.

The circumstances surrounding his departure have been described by persons who arrived here from Le Havre. Kennedy went there to await a ship home. Having been disaccredited, he had a non-priority rating and received quarters in a tent to await passage on a ship.

What with all the soldiers going home, Kennedy began to think that he might have a long wait. He hunted up Lieutenant Ellis Brandt, public relations officer of the port, and appealed to him for help in getting a berth on a ship.

Lieutenant Brandt, a former employee of the United Press, felt the ties that bind all correspondents, including disaccredited one, and agreed to help. After scrounging around he came back and told Kennedy he would have to hurry because there was a boat leaving at 5 o'clock. This was a week ago last Saturday. The two men hurriedly collected Kennedy's things and rushed to the boat, where Kennedy was established in a berth below deck.

Brandt went asore, but while still on the dock he heard someone remark that it sure was a long trip to Trinidad. Confirming that the ship was bound for Trinidad and not America, he tried to dash back aboard and rescue Kennedy. But the gangplank already was being hauled up and they would not let the officer back on the ship.

So Kennedy sailed away to Trinidad, where he will be almost as far from New York as he was before he left France.

Russ Army Calls Boys 15 And 16 For Training

Moscow, May 29 (AP)—All Soviet youths of the eighth and ninth grades—between 15 and 16 years old—have been called for army training scheduled to begin June 1, it was announced today.

In announcing the call-up, which, he said, would be 100 per cent, Lieut. Gen. N. N. Pronin, chief of administration of general training of the People's Commissariat for Defense, declared "the general military training in the present period would be conducted on an even higher level than in the days of war."

Record Training Schedule

The new program is the largest training schedule ever ordered for peacetime in Russia.

General Pronin said "there should not be a single youth to miss these musters."

The 15 and 16 year olds will be trained in the field by the best veterans of World War II.

This training of the two class follows upon the graduation of th seventh class, or 17-year-olds, w will undergo examinations for officer specialists June 1.

Asks Young Communist Aid

"The peaceful period into which our country has entered," General Pronin said, "should not lessen our attention to the problems of defense."

He called on all members of the Young Communist League to aid in the muster and training program.

Wants Boys Toughened

Pronin cited as specific aims of the program the inculcation of "decisiveness, endurance, stubbornness and initiative."

"Officers and teachers," he said, "are responsible for the patriotic military education of the youth. All camp training should be founded on the basis of experiences in the patriotic war. Camp muster should play an important part in the cause of military training and the physical hardening of our youth in a peaceful state."

Sergei Kaftanov, chairman of the committee of affairs of the higher schools, writing in the newspaper Moscow Bolshevik, said that the Russians during the war built improved and powerful combat ships for the Red Navy. He gave no further details.

At the same time Red Star announced that Siberian garrisons and students in Siberian military schools were preparing for a summer of combat training along the banks of the Tom River.

Russia Calls Up All Boys 15-16 to Train in Army

Peace-Time Muster To Be Nation-Wide; Siberian Troops Start Maneuvers

GILMORE

MOSCOW, May 29 (AP).—In the biggest peace-time military training schedule ever ordered in the Soviet Union, thousands of fifteen and sixteen-year-old boys from all parts of Russia will be called up Friday for Red Army training, it was announced today.

The new nationwide muster will be a 100 per cent call-up, said Lieutenant General N. N. Pronin, chief of the General Training Administration of the Commissariat for Defense.

In announcing the muster, General Pronin said: "General military training in the present period should be conducted on an even higher level than in the days of war." He said that not a single youth should miss the muster, and called on the Young Communist League to aid in the call-up.

"The peaceful period into which our country has entered," said General Pronin, "should not lessen our attention to the problems of defense."

Meanwhile, the Red Army newspaper, "Red Star," reported that army garrisons in Siberia and troops in Siberian military schools had left their bases for summer combat training camps.

The summer operations will center around a tent city on the banks of the Tom River, with the Tomsk Military School laying the groundwork for the maneuvers, which will begin early in June. The general area was visited by former United States Vice-President Henry A. Wallace last year.

The muster of fifteen and sixteen-year-old boys on Friday will coincide with the end of training for boys seventeen years old, who, on graduation, will undergo examinations for specialist jobs.

The new classes will receive their training in the field from veterans of the European war, and General Pronin said that the training would be based on the experiences of the war.

"The period of camp muster should play an important part in the cause of the military training and physical hardening of our youth in a peaceful state," Pronin said.

Chinese Nearing Shulo, 60 Miles From Nanning

MOOSA

Chungking, May 29 (AP)—Chinese forces pressing along the highway leading southwestward into Indo-China have reached the vicinity of Shulo, more than 60 miles from recaptured Yungning (Nanning), the high command announced tonight.

The advance widened the breach in the main highway in Japan's China-Indo-China corridor to approximately 120 miles.

The high command said fierce fighting was raging in the vicinity of Pinyang, highway hub 60 miles northeast of Yungning. Both sides were reported suffering heavy casualties in the Pinyang area.

Japs Retreat In Hunan

Observers in Chungking speculated whether the Japanese if forced out of Pinyang would withdraw northeastward to the railroad junction city of Liuchow or eastward in the general direction of Canton and Hong Kong.

In Hunan province, Japanese counterattacking from Tantow, 20 miles northwest of their main base at Shaoyang (Paoching), were beaten back.

In Honan province, the high command said, Chinese forces registered gains against the Japanese bastion at Hsihsiakow, 400 miles northeast of Chungking, capturing two heights.

Chinese attacks were continuing south of Shanhsien, Lunghai railroad town 50 miles east of the Honan-Shensi border.

Unconfirmed reports said today the Japanese were withdrawing from the former American airbase at Liuchow in Kwangsi province.

Chinese forces advanced from captured Hwaiyuanchen, crossed a north-south stretch of the Yung River 7 miles west of Ishan and drove on toward that Japanese stronghold, 43 miles west of Liuchow.

General Withdrawal Expected

Meanwhile, there was a growing opinion in the Chinese capital that Japanese forces, with the exception of scattered pockets, might be planning to withdraw at least to north of the Yangtze and possibly north of the Yellow River. A withdrawal to the nearest point on the Yangtze from Liuchow would mean a retreat of about 460 miles.

Some Chungking quarters attributed indications of a Japanese withdrawal northward to a Japanese fear that Russia might enter the war.

Another unconfirmed report said that Japanese forces in the Netherlands East Indies were attempting to evacuate to southeast Asia as part of a general withdrawal toward Manchuria.

6th Army Smashes Drive

All observers agreed that the Japanese, by allowing their China-Indo-China corridor through Nanning to be so extensively breached, had virtually jettisoned their forces in Indo-China, Thailand, Burma and Malaya.

Meanwhile, it was revealed that China's American-trained new 6th Army, recently flown over the Himalayas from Burma in an unprecedented air transport operation, was responsible for smashing the recent Japanese offensive against the United States Fourteenth Air Force base at Chihkiang in Hunan province.

It was disclosed that troops of the new 6th were spearheading the Chinese drive along the Chihkiang highway toward the former American base of Shaoyang (Paoching), some 220 miles northeast of Liuchow.

120M Gap Torn In Foe Line

Veteran Chinese Troops Battle To 30 Miles Of Indo-China.

JAPS PREPARE NEW RETREAT

Chungking Believes Enemy Is Giving Up South End Of Lifeline.

By Spencer Moosa

CHUNGKING, May 29 (AP)—Chinese troops widened to 120 miles a gaping breach in the ruptured southern end of Japan's land bridge to southeast Asia today and pursued fleeing enemy forces across south China toward the French Indo-China border, 93 miles from the capital city of Hanoi.

As five Chinese battle groups tore into the Japanese supply corridor from Manchuria to Singapore at points along a 900 mile front across China's heart, veteran Chinese troops battled within 30 miles of Indo-China and 123 miles from Hanoi, a Chinese communique disclosed.

Preparing New Withdrawal

Unconfirmed reports in Chungking said the Japanese apparently were preparing a new withdrawal in the central sector of their overland corridor—this time from the Yangtze river port of Ichang, westernmost Japanese bastion in China and 290 miles northeast of Chungking.

Swarms of American U. S. 14th Air Force bombers and fighters hammered Japanese lines along the entire 900-mile front from the Yellow River to the Indo-China frontier in close support of Chinese ground forces.

Chinese veterans under famed Gen. Chang Fah-Kwei widened the breach torn in the southern end of the Japanese transcontinental supply lifeline by reaching the vicinity of Shulo, more than 60 miles southwest of liberated Yungning (Nanning).

The Chinese communique indicated that the Chinese were battling along the entire length of the primary Japanese supply highway between Yungning and the Indo-China frontier town of Dong Dang, an artery which was severed Sunday by Yungning's capture.

Bitter fighting also was in progress 58 miles northeast of Yungning, where Gen. Chang's widely-dispersed forces were attempting to seize the highway hub of Pinyang.

An official statement issued by the Chinese combat command—an American Advisory and liaison outfit—confirmed that the Japanese were withdrawing southwest from fallen Yungning toward Indo-China and northeastward toward the great Kwangsi province communications center of Kweilin.

There was little doubt in Chungking that the Japanese were preparing to sacrifice the south end of their lifeline to southeast Asia and were willing to leave Japanese armies in Burma, Malaya, Thailand and Indo-China completely isolated by land.

Between Yungning and Kweilin, Chinese forces pressed forward against stiff Japanese resistance toward the former American air base of Liuchow, and were battling into the outer defenses of Ishan, a Japanese bastion 43 miles west of Liuchow and 340 miles south of Chungking.

In Hunan province farther north, the Japanese counter-attacked from Tantow, 19 miles northwest of their base at the one-time U. S. airdrome town of Shaoyang (Paoching), but were beaten back by nightfall.

West of Shaoyang, a see-saw battle swirled 12 miles from the air base. The Chinese combat command said that all Japanese forces between Sinning, 60 miles southwest of Shaoyang, and Taohwaping, 20 miles west, had either been wiped out or driven across the Fui river, protecting Shaoyang's southwestern approaches.

A revised announcement said that China's American-trained and equipped new Sixth Army, which arrived in the sector from Burma, had not yet been thrown into the fray.

At the northern end of the 900-mile front from Indo-China to the Yellow river, Chinese forces in Honan province gained in attacks from the south against the Japanese stronghold of Hsihtsiakow, 400 miles northeast of Chungking.

They captured two stragetic heights and "now are pressing toward Hsitsiakow," the Chinese high command said.

While American fighter-bombers unloaded incendiaries on Japanese supply centers and troop and ammunition trains in the Yellow river area, Chinese forces fought from the south toward Shanhsien, on the Lunghai East-West Railroad, and made "considerable progress" against Japanese resistance.

The China Times predicted that the decisive battles in China would be fought along the Lunghai Railroad which runs deep into China's interior from Tunghai (Haichow) on the Yellow Sea.

In connection with reports of Japanese withdrawals in South China and east of Chungking, the China Times said the Japanese appeared to be planning to conserve their fighting strength rather than to expend it on the defense of remote hinterland outposts or coastal pockets between Shanghai and Hong Kong.

Another Chungking newspaper thought that the contraction of Japanese lines was to be attributed to Japan's fear that Russia would enter the war. It added that if China's relations with Russia were well conducted "Russia sooner or later will fall on Japan."

A Chinese central news agency dispatch reported fighting behind Japanese lines in Kwangtung province near the Chinese-held highway center of Hoyun, 105 miles northeast of Hong Kong. The Japanese, in an apparent attempt to take the town and consolidate their positions for a possible American landing east of Hong Kong, launched several attacks, but were driven back to a point 12 miles southwest.

ENEMY IN INDO-CHINA IS SEALED OFF BY SEA

PARIS, May 29 (AP)—American submarines have sealed off Indo-China so effectively that the Japanese have not been able to move a pound of that country's rice crop to Japan for many months, a French officer who escaped from Indo-China in March said today.

A French officer who escaped from Indo-China after the Japanese had taken over the country on March 9 estimated that 100,000 Japanese troops were concentrated at key points in the country, with 25,000 to 30,000 in the neighborhood of Saigon, the capital, the French Press Agency (AFP) said in a wireless dispatch to Europe reported Tuesday by the Federal Communications Commission.

The Japanese distributed rice reserves "with no thought of the future," the officer said, according to AFP. He added that a famine between harvests was "probable" because of transportation difficulties.

The officer said that "enemy material is getting scarcer, and one can now see Japanese pulling carts, which is detrimental to their prestige in the opinion of coolies."

GI's Chinese Girl Friends Defended

Chungking, May 29 (AP)—Gen. Ho Yan-otsu, mayor of Chungking, in a statement today condemned the disrespect shown by crowds in Chungking to Chinese girls seen in company of Americans.

As an example of this disrespect, a United States Embassy official said that when he was escorting a Chinese girl home, a crowd followed them, shouting insults at his companion.

"Friendship Threatened"

"Misunderstandings and rumors have developed into an anti-social gesture threatening to undermine Chinese-American friendship," General Ho said. "It is a gross mistake to interpret every association of Chinese girls with Americans as something evil. If there should be a breach of the law, the law will decide, not the mob."

The mayor said Americans had generously supplied lend-lease materials to their Allies, and "have come to China from the other side of the Pacific to fight for permanent world peace."

"This deserves our respect and appreciation," he said.

NEW SHIPMENT OF GOLD TO CHINA

Chungking, May 29 (A. P.).—The Chinese Ministry of Finance said today that a fresh shipment of gold bullion had been started from the United States to China, but it gave no indication of the amount involved.

The ministry announcement said that a portion of this shipment would be used to pay persons who made six-month forward purchases of gold by buying gold certificates. Many holders of these certificates have been unable to cash them because of a shortage of gold, and to avoid a recurrence of this the sale of gold certificates has been temporarily suspended.

It was presumed that the new gold shipment will come under the American $500,000,000 loan to China, of which only a portion has been absorbed.

It was an abnormal purchase of gold certificates at the end of March by buyers with a foreknowledge of an increase in the price of gold which caused the Chungking gold scandal.

BURMA JAPS ATTACK

Calcutta, May 29 (A. P.).—Japanese forces fighting a diehard battle in lower Burma savagely attacked British positions throughout the night in the Mokshitwa area fourteen miles northwest of Pegu, but were repulsed by troops of the Fifth Indian Division. Pegu is about seventy-five miles north of Rangoon on the road to Mandalay. Farther to the northeast, where Japanese troops were attempting to flee into Thailand, Nineteenth Indian Division forces forced the enemy to abandon sixty bunker positions east of Toungoo.

Protest Palestine Censorship

JERUSALEM, May 29 (AP).—Abolition of press censorship of Palestine newspapers was demanded today by most of the Palestine press, on the ground that freedom of writing is a democratic fundamental and the military reasons for censorship no longer exists. There was no official indication that for the time being any change was intended in censorship, either of local Jewish and Arab dailies or periodicals or in connection with outgoing news of foreign correspondents.

NAVY TO RESCUE

Fleet Headquarters, North Pacific, May 25 (Delayed) (A. P.).—Six Navy search planes were sent to the lower reaches of the overflowing Yukon River today to rescue some 900 persons stranded around Galena, Alaska. The big river began to flood when an ice jam broke. The planes are PBYs, —four-engined craft used in the Pacific war to land on water and rescue Allied airmen and seamen cast afloat.

Little information on the flood was available here, but it was assumed the threatened 900 included military personnel stationed in the area along the Bering Sea.

Canadian Air Force To Cut Its Strength

Ottawa, May 29 (AP)—Air Minister Gibson today announced a reallocation and demobilization plan by which Royal Canadian Air Force strength will be scaled from about 165,000 to 100,000.

The 100,000 figure will provide units for the Pacific, for the occupation of Europe and personnel for training and administration in Canada.

Air revolunteers for the war against Japan will be brought home to Canada for 30 days' leave before continuing to their new bases.

Petain-Churchill Pact Cited By 'Negotiator'

Montreal, May 29 (AP)—Professor Louis Rougier, who says he negotiated an agreement between the Vichy and London governments in 1940, said in an interview here today that a book which he has written on the subject has as its only object "to favor French reconciliation."

Rougier was in Montreal on the occasion of the publication of his book printed by a Montreal publishing firm.

The book, entitled "Accords Petain-Churchill," deals with a mission which he says he accomplished in the Fall of 1940 on behalf of the Vichy and London governments. The book, he says, relates that the agreement was adhered to until Marshal Petain became a prisoner.

Middle Powers Get Enforcement Offer

Big Five Extend Right To Take Part In Decisions Of World League Affecting Maintainance Of Peace By Force.

By Douglas B. Cornell

SAN FRANCISCO, May 29 (AP)—The Big Five held out to middle powers today the right to take a hand in peace enforcement decisions of a new world league when their armed forces would be used to prevent war.

Additional Developments

There were these additional developments as the major powers tried to spur the United Nations conference into a finishing sprint:

1. The American delegation was reported willing to back a Norwegian request that Denmark be admitted as the fiftieth nation at this Golden Gate meeting.

2. Though Russia has raised some new questions, assurances were circulated that final agreement is near among the great nations on the question of international trusteeships.

3. American delegates now talk informally of completing the new charter for a new world league by June 11. The unofficial goal has been June 6.

4. The big five—the U. S., Britain, Russia, France and China—considered asking the policy making executive committee of the conference to prod laggard committees and, if necessary, write agendas for them to follow from now on.

Three-hour Meeting

5. In a three-hour meeting with Assistant Secretary of State Nelson Rockefeller, Latin American delegates looked over such conference issues as veto powers, political aspects of trusteeships, future amendment of the charter, and compulsory jurisdiction of a new international court.

No decisions were made and Latins said there had been no intention to make any, since, they explain, their states are not acting as a bloc but as individual nations.

6. United States delegates were reported to have decided to support an "optional" clause for jurisdiction of the World Court. Under the clause, a nation would be free to decided whether to submit cases to the court, and thus be bound to accept the tribunal's decisions.

Canada Insistent

Canada, in particular, has been insistent that countries which would contribute military forces for the suppression of international hostility should sit in when a proposed Security Council of the world organization votes on measures requiring use of force. The United States has supported her northern neighbor in principle.

The Big Five were said to have approved a compromise arrangement under which one outside power at a time could be brought into deliberations of the 11-member council.

Russian acceptance of the plan was understod to have cleared the way for the Big Five agreement.

Delegates also heard that Russia might have to message the text of the final charter draft to Moscow for approval.

France was trying to reopen and broaden a section of the charter allowing nations to act immediately in defense against renewed aggression by enemy states of this war.

The French were reported to want to drop the "enemy states of this war" limitation, thus making bilateral defense treaties applicable to any aggressor. China, Britain and the United States were said to be opposing this change, with Russia non-committal.

Behind Schedules

Key committees were sagging behind schedule and wrangling over details as the conference ended its fifth full week of work today.

Delegation chiefs of France, China, Russia and Britain met with Secretary of State Stettinius to attempt to draw up a definite time table for winding up the conference.

The question of how big-five veto power will operate in the security council of the proposed world organization remained the biggest obstacle ahead of the conference. Nothing could be done about prying it out of the way until word came back from Moscow and other capitals on an interpretation of the veto authority.

Acommittee which will handle the issue did not expect to take it up before tomorrow afternoon, at the earliest.

One sign of progress was the scheduling for tomorrow of the second meeting of a conference commission. It will receive and act on a report from a committee which has worked out some of the structure and procedures for a general assembly in which all members of the world organization will have representation.

France Would Modify

The part of the charter that France wanted to modify says regional groups of nations — there might be only two nations concerned — may take measures against "renewal of aggressive policy" by enemies of this war, until the security council takes charge of preventing further aggression "by consent of the governments concerned."

France, which has a treaty with Russia aimed at preventing Nazi resurgence, sought to change the word "consent" to "request," thus giving greater leeway to the states involved.

France also was reported seeking the addition of language which would make sure that existing treaties would not be supplanted by the world organization.

The American delegation appeared willing to accept the change of the one word.

But it was resisting any further change.

United States delegates were reported concerntd lest any large scale revision open the way for a Russian request to reshape another section of the charter which gives recognition to the Pan-American defense system as a means of halting aggression.

U. S. Blocks Frisco Internal Action

San Francisco, May 29 (AP)—A conference committee drastically revised today an Australian proposal on international economic cooperation after a blunt warning that the United States does not intend to take instructions on internal affairs.

A drafting subcommittee reversed a previous decision—made over the sole opposition of Virginia Gildersleeve, an American delegate —and voted unanimously to rewrite the pledge.

Roland Wilson, an Australian delegate, reserved the right to appeal to the full committee of the United Nations conference.

The Australians had won committee approval of a plan by which each state pledged "separate and joint action" to achieve purposes of the proposed social and economic council of a new world league. The eighteen-member council would be set up to facilitate solutions of economic, social, cultural and humanitarian problems.

Under the original Australian proposal, member nations would pledge themselves to take action at home, and through a world assembly to improve economic conditions. American delegates said this conceivably might bind them to accept a decision of the council that would require continuance of the lend-lease program as a means of stabilizing international economic conditions.

The New Wording

After a speech by John Foster Dulles, an American adviser, the committee rewrote the pledge in American-sponsored language to state that "all members undertake to co-operate, jointly and separately," with the objectives set forth for the council.

In forceful language Dulles was reported to have questioned whether the conference should attempt to pledge individual governments to take "separate action" in the economic and social field.

United States delegates were getting a little tired, Dulles was quoted as saying behind closed doors, of having other countries tell them how to maintain what he contended were the highest standards of living and the greatest measure of personal freedom in the world.

Dulles, prominent in the 1944 Republican Presidential campaign and an international legal consultant, said other countries were willing to follow the United States' lead in practical attempts to elevate their own standards, but seemed inclined here to instruct the Americans on how to go even further.

CLOSER UNITY WITH RUSSIA SOUGHT BY U. S.

Stettinius Swings Nation Over to Mediator Role Among Big Five.

HE DEFENDS VETO PROPOSAL

Says World Peace Depends Upon Ability of Great Powers to Work Together.

San Francisco, May 29 (A. P.).—A frank bid by Secretary of State Stettinius for closer relations with Russia focused American foreign policy on Soviet issues today and swung the United States toward the role of mediator among the great Powers.

Events abroad and blunt words here made even more clear that the success of United Nations efforts to preserve world peace will depend largely on the ability of the big Powers to work together. This would have to be under self-imposed restraints, since the organization being drafted by the United Nations conference imposes few restraints upon the top Powers.

Mr. Stettinius summed this up in a defense of the veto voting formula by which each of the Big-Five nations could prevent a world security council from using force against an aggressor. The question has been raised, he said, as to what happens if one of the Big Five—Russia, the United States, China, Britain or France—"embarks upon a course of aggression and refuses to recognize the machinery of the world organization."

"In such an event," Mr. Stettinius continued, "the answer is simple. Another world war has come, vote or no vote, and the world organization has failed."

Kind of Iffy Question.

But he added that is a kind of "iffy" question and "the five great nations have come here with the other united nations to form an organization for peace—not to conspire for war," he predicted success in this endeavor.

San Francisco confined itself largely to the conference except for Mr. Stettinius's seventeen-page broadcast.

The report was interpreted by delegates as an attempt to accomplished three objectives: (1) Help prepare the Truman administration's case for Senate ratification of the league charter being completed here; (2) restore the United States to a middle, or mediator, role between Britain and the Soviet Union; (3) bulwark the American reputation for sponsored democratic ideals of freedom and anti-Fascism.

The Secretary made these chief points:

1. Major considerations of American foreign policy are to render Germany and Japan forever harmless, to extend Allied unity, to help establish international justice and fair dealing, to advance world social and economic conditions as essentials of peace, and finally to realize that "we in America can never again turn our backs upon the world."

2. The United States must maintain its worldwide interests in its relations with the other great Powers and "we must mediate between them when their interests conflict among themselves."

3. It is the American purpose to try constantly for greater unity among the Powers. Mr. Stettinius added pointedly, "we have the right to expect the same spirit and the same approach on the part of our great Allies." He made this comment in a discussion of relations with Russia, which he deliberately singled out from all other American relations by asserting that the desire for unity "is as true of our relations with the Soviet Union" as it is of those with Britain, China and France.

To Settle Polish Problem.

4. For a solution of the Polish problem the United States intends "to exert all its influence, in collaboration with the Soviet Union and Great Britain, toward fulfillment of the Yalta agreement."

5. Trusteeship arrangements for the supervision of dependent peoples under international control have been worked out so that they would assure to the United States control of strategic Pacific islands. (This is in line with the demands of powerful senatorial and Army-Navy groups.)

In his review of conference accomplishments Mr. Stettinius made it quite clear that he has no doubt a world organization will be turned out here early in June, but whether it will really preserve peace depends on whether the peoples of the world are determined to make it work.

Arab Leader Speaks.

San Francisco, May 29 (A. P.).—Prince Faisal, the Foreign Minister of Saudi Arabia, declared yesterday that there is no question that France has committed aggression in Syria. He told reporters that all the Arab States sympathize with Syria, and indicated that they may move jointly in support of the Levantine country if the conflict with France grows. Prince Faisal is the son of King Ibn Saud and the head of his country's delegation here.

Japan's Charge Of Deliberate Sinking Denied

Relief Ship Was Off Course and Unlighted, U.S. Says, Warns 'No Retaliation'

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP).—The United States has denied Japan's charge that the sinking of the Japanese relief ship Awa Maru was deliberate, and has warned against any retaliatory treatment of Allied war prisoners.

The State Department disclosed this today, making public an exchange of notes over the incident, which occurred in the Straits of Formosa April 1. The Japanese said more than 1,000 passengers perished. Only one survivor was picked up.

The Japanese protest, received through the Swiss government, charged that an American submarine had "deliberately and wilfully sunk" the Awa Maru while it was returning to Japan after delivering relief supplies to American and Allied prisoners of war and internees in southern Asia. The note called the sinking "the most outrageous act of treachery unparalleled in the world history of war."

The ship had been guaranteed safe conduct, although the relief supplies constituted only a part of her cargo.

The American reply disputed Japan's claim that the ship was carrying the prescribed lights and was on her designated course. The American version was that the Awa Maru was unlighted and was forty miles off the agreed course.

The note disclosed, however, that the submarine commander has been ordered tried by a court martial to determine the question of responsibility.

In an apparent threat to retaliate against American prisoners, the Japanese note said that "United States government are to be deemed to have abandoned their former desire relating to the treatment of United States prisoners of war and civilian internees in Japanese hands."

The American reply warned that "any retaliatory acts against Allied nationals in Japanese custody will be a matter of the gravest concern to this government, and any persons issuing or executing orders in this connection will be severely dealt with at the appropriate time."

The State Department note denied there was any connection between the sinking and the way Japan treats her prisoners. It assured the Japanese that their nationals in this country will continue to receive good treatment.

The note questioned the propriety of Japanese use of a designated relief ship to evacuate large numbers of Japanese, including officials, from war zones. It expressed regret over the loss of life, but pointed out this was partly due to the refusal of survivors to let themselves be picked up by the submarine, which made every effort to rescue survivors.

U-boat and Baby Flat-top Lost in Hour's Clash

Washington, May 29 (A. P.).—A German U-boat sank an American baby flattop, damaged an escort and then itself was sent to the bottom in an action-filled hour one year ago today.

The Navy marked the anniversary by disclosing the story of the escort carrier Block Island's final dramatic action as well as her fourteen-month career as a scourage of U-boats before she became the only United States carrier lost in the Atlantic. Her name already has been perpetuated in a new vessel, built, like its predecessor, at the Seattle-Tacoma Shipbuilding Corporation, and commissioned December 30 last.

The Block Island's final action began about 8 P. M., May 29, 1944, after she and her four destroyer escorts, the Elmore, Ahrens, Barr and Paine, had been at sea about two weeks on that cruise. The baby flattop was shaken by two violent explosions below the waterline and her skipper, Capt. F. Massie Hughes of Selma, Ala., soon gave the order to prepare to abandon the hopelessly damaged ship.

A third explosion shook the vessel, and the abandon ship order was given.

Six men were killed when the torpedoes struck but the survivors—more than 950 officers and men, including eighteen wounded—went over the side and climbed aboard rafts without additional loss.

After the U-boat's assault on the carrier, she sent a torpedo into the Barr near the stern, damaging but not sinking her. The Barr's casualties were listed as five dead, twelve missing and sixteen seriously injured.

Meanwhile the Ahrens, under command of Commodore Morgan H. Harris, Newport, R. I., had moved in to pick up the Block Island's survivors. She took aboard seventy-three officers and 601 enlisted men, and the remainder were picked up by the Paine.

Area is Scoured.

As the Ahrens moved in to the rescue, she obtained a positive "fix" on the U-boat, and guided the Elmore to the attack. The Elmore quickly located the enemy craft, and exactly one hour after the first torpedo struck the Block Island, delivered her assault on the enemy attacker. A tremendous explosion indicated it had been destroyed.

An all-night search of the area followed, ending at 8 A. M. Then a three-day voyage to Casablanca, French Morocco, got under way, with the Elmore towing the crippled Barr.

Six fighter pilots out on patrol from the Block Island when the ship went down, headed for an island in the Mediterranean. Two were rescued after making water landings, but the other four never were found.

The Block Island first went to sea in March, 1943, and received her battle initiation a few days later when a U-boat was sunk by one of her escorts, the De Buckley.

Capt. Hughes took over the Block Island command from Capt. Logan C. Ramsey of East Falls Church, Va., in March, 1944. In his first week as skipper, the group disposed of two submarines. One was found lying dead on the surface, its crew enjoying a swim. It was spotted by one of the baby flattop's Grumman torpedo planes piloted by Lieut. (j. g.) Mark E. Fitzgerald, 83 Broad street, Salamanca, N. Y. A depth charge explosion broke the sub in two.

LIGHTED SHIPS SAIL ATLANTIC

Convoying Comes to End—U-Boat's Finished.

Washington, May 29 (A. P.).—With the end of the U-boat menace in the Atlantic, merchant ships operating in non-combat areas again are sailing fully lighted and without naval escorts.

Suspension of convoy regulations, effective 8:01 P. M. (Eastern war time) last night, was announced simultaneously by the United States Navy and the British Admiralty.

While latest official announcements said a few German submarines still are unaccounted for, the convoy suspension indicated either that the remaining few were either presumed sunk or did not constitute a serious enough threat to warrant continuation of convoys.

The suspension, the Navy announced, is effective in all "non-combat areas," which presumably includes all Atlantic and Mediterranean waters. Ships which would have sailed in trade convoys under wartime regulations will be sailed independently. At night merchant ships will burn navigation lights at full brilliancy and need not darken ship.

The suspension brings to an end more than five years of wartime convoy operations. During the European war, the United States Navy escorted 16,760 ships across the Atlantic in 3,552 escort trips. In that time only fifteen sailings in convoy were lost to German submarines.

The number of U-boats estimated to be still at large—although they all may have been sunk—dropped to eleven today with disclosure that one had run aground off Denmark. The crew abandoned it and got ashore. Some of them were captured but others got away.

The remaining eleven U-boats unaccounted for are based on original estimates of the number at sea at the time of Germany's surrender. There have been no cases of offensive action by German U-boats since then.

Senator Willis Calls Stettinius' Dismissal Sure

Tells Committee His Role of WhiteHouseSuccessor Assures His Replacement

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP).—Senator Raymond E. Willis, Republican, of Indiana, declared today that replacement of Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius is "a foregone conclusion" because his Cabinet position places him first in line of Presidential succession.

Senator Willis proposed to the joint committee studying the reorganization of Congress a Constitutional Amendment allowing the House of Representatives to elect an "interim Vice-President" in event of a White House vacancy where the duly elected Vice-President becomes Chief Executive.

"It has been the cause for no little concern among members of the majarity party," the Republican Senator said, "that as matters stand now, if anything were to happen to the present Chief Executive, a man comparatively unknown and unversed in party politics would be catapulted into the highest party and official position in our land."

Since President Truman succeeded from the Vice-Presidency on the death of President Roosevelt, Mr. Stettinius, as Secretary of State, would succeed to the White House if anything happened to Mr. Truman.

However, there is "extreme hesitation abotu removing him (Stettinius) from his post of great importance," Senator Willis said, and if he resigned "it would be a blow to successful handling of delicate foreign-policy negotiations."

"Yet I think I reveal no secrets when I point out that, under the present laws of Presidential succession and considering his inexperience in political affairs connected with his party, his replacement is a foregone conclusion, and the wide acceptance of this conclusion hinders the effectiveness of his work in these critical days."

BALLOONS STARTED FROM JAPAN'S ISLES

Forestry Chief Says Sandbag Mechanism Kept Bags High Until They Reached U. S.

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP)—Lyle F. Watts, chief of the United States Forest Service, said tonight that Japan's bomb-carrying balloons being sent against this country were launched in the enemy's home islands and were controlled by an automatic ballast-dropping device.

He told in a radio interview prepared for the Blue Network how the unmanned balloons operated. The Forest Service has been assisting the Army in preventing damage from the balloons, he said.

The Army and Navy recently disclosed that some of the balloons had landed in the western part of this country, but they had not caused any property damage.

Mr. Watts said that the balloons, made of five layers of silk paper and thirty-five feet in diameter, were taken to Japanese war plants where officials "make a lot of speeches, stir up workers to a frenzy and then launch the balloons from the plant for their trip to the United States."

The hydrogen-filled bags ascended to 25,000 to 35,000 feet, where they met air currents which travel constantly from west to east, he said. Each time they descended to 25,000 feet from loss of gas a barometric pressure switch automatically dropped a sandbag. Release of this sandbag caused the balloon to rise again to about 35,000 feet.

"If the Japs have figured right," Mr. Watts said, "the last sand bag has been dropped only after the balloon has reached this country."

A second automatic switch, which controlled the bombs, then took over, he continued.

"When the balloon drops to 27,000 feet a bomb is released. The balloon goes back up, then down again and another incendiary is released and so on as it travels across the United States. When the last incendiary is dropped a fuse is ignited automatically and sets off a demolition charge which destroys the balloon."

The only balloons found on the ground are defective ones which failed to explode, he said.

The balloons traveled up to 125 miles an hour, taking from eighty to 120 hours to reach this country, it was estimated.

Mr. Watts reported that the Forest Service has increased its air patrol to sight as many as possible of the bags in the air and shoot them down. It also had increased the number of parachuting fire fighters.

"There is a point I'd like to bring out," the forestry chief said. "We are less worried about this Japanese balloon attack than we are with matches and smokes in the hands of good Americans hiking and camping in the woods. Lumber for crating our war goods going to the Pacific is still a very critical item. We must protect our timber."

KILLS ACTION ON REPORTER

House Veterans Group Retracts Contempt Charge

Washington, May 29 (AP)—The House Veterans Committee today killed its own contempt charge against Albert Deutsch, New York author of an attack on the Veterans Administration hospitals.

Then it went on with its own investigation. The first witness said hospital conditions generally are good, despite critical newspaper and magazine articles.

The committee which last week cited Deutsch, reporter for the New York newspaper PM, for refusing to give the sources of his information on veterans hospitals, voted to rescind the citation after Represetnative Domengeaux (D., La.) declared:

"I think this is necessary to re-establish the confidence of the public in this committee."

Rankin Votes "No"

Only Chairman Rankin (D., Miss.) and Representative Gibson (D., Ga.) cast audible "no" votes against Domengeaux's motion which also required that Deutsch be given a further opportunity to testify.

Rankin said he would telegraph the reporter today, asking him to return.

In New York John P. Lewis, managing editor of the newspaper PM, said in a statement that "by its action today, the House World War Veterans Committee served notice that the American press is not subject to Mississippi lynch law."

"Committee Had No Choice"

Lewis said that "the reaction from the press, people and Congress against railroading a reporter for refusal to violate journalistic confidences was so overwhelming that the committee had no choice but to rescind its contempt action."

"The episode had an importance far beyond any personal consideration involving Albert Deutsch or PM," Lewis said, "for it is by meeting tests such as this that the free press of America retains and reinvigorates its freedom."

The vote erasing the contempt charge climaxed a hectic committee session during which the members took control away from Rankin.

"You'll be here until frost," Rankin protested as most of the committee members demanded that an investigation of the Veterans Administration be continued "without interruption." Rankin had sought to put it off for a bill establishing a bureau of surgery within the Veterans Administration.

Secret Vote Rejected

Member after member clamored for recognition and a vote on the motion to get on with the probe. At one point Rankin banged his gavel and shouted:

"I'll do the presiding, at least! If this motion carries we'll be here from now on."

As soon as the motion to go on with the investigation carried, Domengeaux moved to backtrack on the Deutsch citation. Members rejected Rankin's suggestion of a secret vote and shouted their approval of the Domengeaux motion.

Clean But Understaffed

Almost immediately the committee resumed the investigation it started several weeks ago. Committee members who inspected veterans' hospitals during a congressional recess were asked to report.

Representative Cunningham (R., Iowa), who visited hospitals in Ohio, Nebraska and Iowa, told the committee he found the institutions generally clean but understaffed. The patients appeared happy, he said, and the food in all of them is "good and plenty of it."

He recommended that hospital doctors discard army uniforms, be paid for ability rather than army rank and that each hospital be placed under the supervision of a general manager.

29th Hero Awarded Medal Of Honor

Washington, May 29 (AP)—Tech. Sergt. Frank Peregory, Virginia infantryman, who single-handedly captured an enemy position that had halted a battalion advance at Grandcampe, France, has been awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor posthumously.

Announcing this today, the War Department said Peregory was killed in action June 14 near Covains, France, while storming another enemy machine-gun position.

The medal will be presented to his widow, Mrs. Bessie Peregory, of Charlottesville, Va.

In D-Day Landings

Sergeant Pereogory participated with his unit, the 116th Infantry Regiment, 29th Infantry Division, in the initial assault on the French coast June 6, 1944. The action at Grandcampe was described by First Lieutenant Charles H. Maus, 7 Westmoreland avenue, Westminster, Md.

FARM BOY WINS HONOR MEDAL

Sergeant Johnson Held Off 5 Nazi Companies 48 Hours

MAY 30 1945

Washington, May 29 (AP)—Sergt. Oscar G. Johnson, Jr., one-time Michigan dairy worker who held off ceaseless attacks by five German paratroop companies for two days and nights, has been awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor.

By the time the battle ended, the War Department reported today in announcing the award, Johnson had captured 25 Germans and the ground around his position was strewn with 150 to 200 Nazi bodies. The citation officially credited him with accounting for twenty German dead but his buddies said that he had killed most of the 150 to 200.

Came Out Unscathed

The 24-year-old Foster City (Mich.) doughboy came out of the action unscathed although the brush, grass and trees were scorched for yards around the point where he made his stand.

Johnson, along with other men of the 91st Division, had started an attack on the German Gothic Line near Scarperia, Italy, last September 16. Heavy fire from a ridge stopped the assault and Johnson's company holed up behind an embankment.

Johnson took a squad of seven men and established an outpost 50 yards to the left of the company to cover its flank. By afternoon, repeated enemy attacks and artillery, machine gun and mortar fire had killed or wounded all the squad except Johnson.

The Heaviest Attack

That night, the Germans loosed their heaviest attack with the brunt of it falling against Johnson's solitary position. Using the weapons of his fallen comrades, Johnson stood erect in a shallow trench and repelled the Nazis with grenade and rifle fire.

He stayed awake that night, foiling all German attempts to sneak up on him, and the following day 25 Germans surrendered to him during one of many assaults.

The same day two men sent to reinforce him were caught in a mortar and artillery barrage and were seriously wounded. Disregarding his own safety, Johnson dashed to the shellhole where the wounded men lay half buried and protected them with a submachine gun until a medical corpsman arrived.

Keeps Watch Until Relief

He beat off several German attacks on the shellhole and that night helped a medical corpsman, Sergt. James L. Christopher, of Marengo, Ohio, take out the wounded.

Christopher said he asked Johnson if he were coming back then to better cover and got this reply from him:

"I'm staying out here to the end."

He stuck there, keeping watch, until his company was relieved.

A month later, he was slightly wounded but soon went back into action. He last was reported with his unit overseas.

Sergeant Johnson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar G. Johnson, Sr., live on a dairy farm near Foster City. Johnson worked on the farm while attending school and prior to entering the Army.

U.S. Takes Up Terms Of Italian Armistice

Washington, May 29 (AP)—The United States has taken up with Russia and Britain the matter of announcing the terms of the Italian armistice, it was learn today.

The terms have not been disclosed officially, although it is nearly two years since Italy surrendered unconditionally. Joseph C. Grew, Acting Secretary of State, said last February they had not been made public "because of overriding military considerations."

The State Department suggestion to Britain and Russia came as a consequence of Germany's collapse.

Only 77 Survive Warship Sinking

Washington, May 29 (AP)—Only 2 officers and 74 crewmen of the destroyer escort Frederick C. Davis, sunk in the Atlantic two weeks before V-E day, survived, the two surviving officers revealed today.

Normal complement of a ship of this type is about 200 officers and men.

A third officer, traveling aboard the vessel but not a member of her crew, also survived.

Ensigns R. E. Minerd, of Smethport, Pa., and P. K. Lundberg, of Durham, N.C., told a news conference their vessel was operating with other destroyer escorts northwest of the Azores on the morning of April 24 when it made contact with a submarine.

The submarine surfaced, he said, and fired a torpedo point-blank as the Frederick C. Davis bore down on the sub. The torpedo struck amidships and the destroyer escort sank rapidly.

The submarine was subsequently finished off by another destroyer escort and the submarine's skipper was captured, Minerd said.

KNUDSEN RETIRES FROM ARMY SERVICE

Five Years of Service Has Been Given to War Production by Former GM Head

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP)—After five years of service on war production, Lieut. Gen. William S. Knudsen will retire Friday as the department's director of production.

Twice decorated for his work with the air forces, the 66-year-old expert is expected to rest a few weeks in Detroit, the War Department said. His future plans were not announced.

The General Motors Corporation, of which he was president until he entered the Government service as a dollar-a-year man, wants to give him an important post, but he was reported undecided. He is known to have a great interest in automobiles of the future and to be intrigued with models using light metals and higher octane gasoline.

Mr. Knudsen was the Army's production trouble-shooter, traveling all over the country. He first became a member of the old National Defense Advisory Commission and then headed the Office of Production Management which succeeded it.

In announcing the coming retirement, the War Department stated that Mr. Knudsen had received an Oak Leaf Cluster to add to a previous Distinguished Service Medal for his work with the air forces.

Robert Patterson, Under-Secretary of War, paid tribute to Mr. Knudsen for his work, describing him as "one of the foremost leaders of the nation in this war."

"By his foresight and ability he has not only saved this country millions of dollars, but by expediting production of critical weapons he has saved countless American lives," Patterson said.

Biddle to Return To Private Practice

Washington, May 29 (A. P.).—Attorney General Francis Biddle will return to private law practice some time after July 1. But Mr. Biddle, whose resignation as Attorney General was accepted by President Truman last week, told newspapermen today he first was going to take "a long loaf." Later he will resume law practice but he said he has not yet decided where or when that would be.

Both Mr. Biddle and Assistant Attorney General Tom C. Clark, nominated by President Truman to succeed him on July 1, said that the Justice Department's anti-trust program will be continued. In response to a reporter's question, Attorney General Biddle said that he felt confident the mass sedition trial would be resumed as soon as possible but with fewer defendents.

Wallace Comes Out For Free Competition

Washington, May 29 (AP)—Praising "free competition" in business, Secretary of Commerce Wallace told a congressional committee today that he had not had "a change of heart," but had always believed in this principle.

A discussion of his economic philosophy arose when Wallace advocated sweeping revisions of postwar taxes as necessary to "full production and full employment."

"Free competition," Wallace said, "is the great regulatory agency which ideally causes industry and trade to adapt themselves to social purposes. As free competition disappears from our economy, its place is inevitably taken by Government regulation.

Wallace's Book Quoted

Representative Leonard W. Hall (R., N.Y.) asked Wallace if he hadn't experienced "a change of heart." He read passages from the Cabinet member's book "Whose Constitution?"

At one place, Hall said, the book refers to a system of "free competition and the devil take the hindermost," and in another mentions a "co-operative commonwealth." Hall commented that Wallace's book and his statement today "seem to shoot in two different directions."

Not at all, Wallace said, explaining that he believes in a co-operative way of life where it is most efficient and a corporation way of life where it is most efficient. "Co-operative commonwealth," he said, means an understanding among business, agriculture, labor and other leaders on things affecting the common welfare.

Submits Aid Program

Wallace submitted to the House Small Business Committee a financial and tax program for aid to small business development. For immediate encouragement to growth of small business, he advocated:

1. Government guarantee of long-term loans made by private financing institutions, as a means of providing capital financing for new and established small business enterprises.

2. Immediate revision of taxes to allow a larger "plow back" of capital by small business. For this program he suggested increasing the excess profits tax exemption from $10,000 to $25,000.

His Tax Views

Describing his specific tax proposals as "only for the immediate or near future," Wallace declared:

"For the postwar period, the whole tax program has to be drastically revised. The tax burdens imposed on business must not be so great that they restrict expansion of production and employment; they must not discourage the opening and development of new and small business and they should have a minimum of influence on business decisions."

Five "Major Fears" Listed

Five "major fears" of small business were listed meanwhile by the committee.

These "fears," Chairman Patman (D., Texas) said, have become apparent since the surrender of Germany. Many business men, he added, hesitated to complain sooner "for fear of having their criticisms and complaints construed as detrimental to the war effort."

The Five Fears

Summed up, the Texan said, letters to the Small Business Committee indicate that small business fears:

1. That cutbacks in military procurements will not be offset by direct channeling of an equitable share of available materials to small manufacturers in an amount or in a manner which will enable these small firms to effect a changeover from war to civilian production while their cash reserves hold out. (This fear expressed notwithstanding the special treatment for small firms announced in recent WPB and OPA reconversion programs.)

2. That, in disposition of government-owned surpluses, small firms of all types will not be given adequate consideration by the disposal agencies.

Taxes And Loans

3. That alleged inequities in our present tax and renegotiation laws which affect small business will not be corrected soon.

4. That proposed programs (both public and private) for opening up sources of long-term capital and venture capital for smaller firms are mostly "lip service" and will never become effective in time to meet the needs of small firms in the months to come.

5. That the postwar competition of large distribution outlets such as manufacturer - owned retail stores, chains and mail-order houses will increase and make it definitely hazardous for many small, locally owned retail firms to engage or stay in business.

U. S. Locomotives for Europe

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP).—The Foreign Economic Administration said today 180 locomotives have been ordered for use in liberated Europe.

Protests Sending U. S. Lumber Abroad

Washington, May 29 (A. P.).—Representative Carlson (R.-Kan.) protested in the House today against sending lend-lease lumber overseas at a time it is needed to build farm storage bins in the Mid-West.

"There is an extreme shortage of lumber in the West and Mid-West," he told the House. "We are going to have thousands of bushels of grain on the ground unless something is done."

Mrs. Truman Shows Changes In White House

Furniture Regrouped, More Spaciousness Is Achieved in the Presidential Home

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP).—Mrs. Harry S. Truman showed Washington newspaper women today that she has made the White House living quarters a Truman family home, not just a repaint job following previous tenants.

Dressed in a black sheer, with daughter Margaret in a gay print beside her, Mrs. Truman received newspaper women in the red state drawing room, from which they were ushered to the sun-flooded state dining room for formal tea.

For the first time since before the war the scarlet-coated Marine Band, led by Captain William F. Santelmann, struck up tea-time music in the White House as the first guest was greeted by Mrs. Truman.

Saying after tea that she knew newspaper women wanted to see the changes upstairs, the First Lady allowed the scores of reporters to prowl through the family rooms for more than half an hour.

Aside from much-needed fresh paint in pale green, dove gray and —for Margaret—Madonna blue, the first impression was of added spaciousness because much of the furniture used by the Roosevelts was removed.

The familiar furniture was so rearranged as to make every room appear different from what it was a few months ago.

The musical Trumans have three pianos upstairs, one in the President's study, one in Margaret's sitting roo mand a spinnet in the living room.

Mrs. Truman explained that the President had the piano from the Monroe room moved into his study a few days ago, "to amuse himself" evenings while she will be in Missouri next month.

The first lady said that Margaret had tried the great gilded piano in the famous East Room, found the tone wonderful, but that the family preferred to have their musical moments upstairs.

Reporters exclaimed over Mrs. Truman's removal of most of the huge, darg, overbearing wardrobes from the bedrooms.

The first lady said she coudn't stand to live with them.

The walls look lighter, not only because of fresh paint, but because the Trumans have not hung hundreds of pictures and photographs as did the Roosevelts.

A portrait of the late Franklin D. Roosevelt, painted by Emma Ellet Rand in 1934, has been hung in the right niche of the White House foyer.

President Truman has placed his desk, used by half a dozen previous Presidents, in front of the oval windows of his upstairs study. In addition to working papers and tools, a pair of curly-maned lions, a model airplane and a civil war book were on his desk.

UNRRA Doing Poor Job Abroad—Dirksen

Washington, May 29 (AP)—Representative Dirksen (R., Ill.) told the House today that the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration is doing a poor job overseas.

Dirksen returned last week from a 32,000-mile, three-month tour which took him to twenty countries in Europe and the Middle East.

UNRRA, he said in a House speech, has refused to take advice and to integrate itself with other operations in the foreign field that were devoted to the work of relief and that had successfully administered a relief program.

"Slow-Moving"

"It is slow moving and cumbersome," he declared. "There has been undue emphasis on publicity. Its distribution facilities are extremely faulty and it has failed to maintain in proper order the trucks that were made available for this purpose."

He praised State Department officials in each country, describing them as diligent and devoted to their work, but he was sharply critical of the facilities and housing afforded them.

"Even the small nations of the world maintain buildings and facilities that are infinitely superior to those of this country," he said.

Dirksen said he found the Office of War Information "efficient" after an examination of "at least a dozen overseas branches."

1,900,000 Idle Seen By End Of August

Washington, May 29 (AP)—Manpower requirements for war and war production will drop by 4,800,000 in the next six months, Chairman J. A. Krug of the War Production Board predicted today.

Reconversion unemployment will reach its peak during the next three months, he forecast.

Krug drew this picture of the labor situation:

War production will require 2,900,000 fewer employés during June, July and August. Some 1,100,000 of these will not find work, increasing the nation's jobless total to around 1,900,000.

Fewer Idle By December

Of the remaining 1,800,000 workers, about 700,000 will stay in the same plants where they now work or will find jobs in other plants shifting to civilian goods production. The others will be absorbed in other civilian manufacturing, construction trades and services and other civilian occupations.

Although the number of persons no longer needed by the armed services and for war production will increase to 4,800,000 by the end of November, unemployment will decrease.

After Six Months—

"Six months from now," Krug continued in his monthly report on munitions production, "the picture will have changed more sharply. The number of persons no longer required for war activities will have increased to 4,800,000. This will include 1,000,000 dismissed from the armed forces.

"The persons absorbed by the expanding civilian economy and the armed forces will amount to 4,100,000. At the same time, the withdrawals from the labor force are expected to exceed entrants by 200,000, leaving 1,300,000 persons unemployed, or 600,000 less than at the end of the first three months."

Krug predicted that most of the unemployment would be concentrated in a limited number of areas "where it is not possible, despite our best efforts, to match increases in civilian production against decreases in military production."

This is partcularly true, he said, in some of the cuts in shipyards and aircraft plants.

Truman Plans Speech Work

Washington, May 29 (AP)—President Truman plans to start work tomorrow on the speech he will deliver to the closing session of the United Nations Conference at San Francisco.

Press Secretary Charles G. Ross said today no engagements had been made for the President tomorrow—Memorial Day—and that he would spend most of the day on the Potomac River aboard the Presidential yacht, the Potomac, where he will work on the speech. It is scheduled for delivery on or about June 6.

Bitter Expense Money Fight Draws Blood In Capitol

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP)—The bitter fight over congressional expense money drew blood today and Rep. Taber (R-N.Y.) emerged from the office of Rep. Cannon (D-Mo.) with a lacerated upper lip.

Criticizes Action

Taber, who is 65 and ranking Republican on the House appropriations committee, had been criticizing the House's action in voicing itself a $2,500-a-year tax-free expense allowance. Cannon, 66, is chairman of the House appropriations committee.

Taber told reporters it was a one-sided fight, the only blows being struck by Cannon.

"If I had hit him I might have killed him," added the New Yorker, who is bigger and stockier than his antagonist.

Cannon would not even discuss the incident, replying to all queries that he had been sitting with the committee during the afternoon. He declined, though, to deny Taber's account of it.

In Speaker's Lobby

The two started their argument in a corner of the speaker's lobby just off the House chamber. They then headed into Cannon's office just outside the chamber on the second floor of the Capitol.

Taber said he went into Cannon's office at the latter's suggestion. No one else was there, he added.

"He said some things that weren't true and I told him so," Taber said. "He tried to get me to hit him first, but I wouldn't do it."

After Cannon struck him, Taber said, "I grabbed him by the wrists and held him over a couch until he cooled off. Then I walked out."

"I have been sitting with the committee all afternoon," was all Cannon would tell reporters.

"Well, do you deny what Mr. Taber said?" a reporter asked.

Hasn't Anything To Say

Cannon did not answer, except to say "I haven't anything to say."

Only a short time before the altercation, Taber told the House he had sought to keep the expense allowance from coming before the chamber as a rider to an appropriation bill but had lost that fight. He suggested that the House reverse the action, and pass a straight 15 per cent pay raise, in line with the Little Steel Formula limiting industrial wage increases.

Cannon did not participate in the House debate. But, normally, the legislation containing the rider could not have emerged from the appropriations committee if both the chairman, as well as the ranking minority member, had opposed it.

Today's incident was the second time in recent months that heated tempers have flared into physical action. Not long ago Representatives Rankin (D-Miss) and Hook (D-Mich) clashed on the House floor.

Hagers as well as wastepaper are

Taber's speech to the House followed a plea by Representative Ploeser (R-Mo.) for the members to stick to their guns and get their expenses, even though the Senate declined yesterday to vote itself a similar allowance.

" Stand By Your Convictions"

"Stand by your convictons," he shouted. "Don't be moved by misinformation."

The Senate yesterday refused to vote its own members the $2,500 a year that the House will get, and came close to knocking out the House money, too.

But Ploeser said that doesn't mean senators necessarily will get less money than representatives. Actually, he argued, senators fare much better in paid expenses..

The Senate, for example, has voted each member the right to 26 long distance calls a month at government expense, he said. That's $1,500 a year—which the House doesn't get.

"The aggregate allowances for both bodies probably will show the Senate far in excess of the House," he said.

Rep. Brown (R-Ohio) pointed out the Senate voted itself $401,762 for "miscellaneous expenses" not otherwise identified.

"I find no comparable item for the House," he observed.

BOMBS FOR JAPAN HALTED BY STRIKE

Empolyes, 3,400 Out, Force Closing of Up-State Plants Making Incendiaries

ROME, N. Y., May 29 (AP)—Three plants of Revere Copper and Brass, Inc., one of which was manufacturing parts for a new incendiary bomb now being used over Japan, were closed today by a strike of about 3,400 employes.

The walkout coincided with an Army announcement that one of the plants, together with Oneida Ltd, Oneida, and Bossert Company, Inc., Utica, had been making component parts of the M-74, described as a fire bomb which "spouts synthetic lava" and "cannot be extinguished by any of the standard fire-fighting devices."

The plants affected by the strike are the Rome division, the Rome manufacturing division and the refinery division.

Members of Locals 1, 2 and 10 of the Interstate Copper and Brass Workers Union, an affiliate of the Confederated Union of America, voted 2,404 to 538 Saturday to authorize the strike call after company officials and union representatives failed to agree on terms of a new labor contract.

James Kozma, national president of the union, declined to make a statement, but a company spokesman said the points of difference concerned "wages, hours and working conditions in general." The company spokesman said that Revere's three Rome plants "had been engaged almost 100 per cent in war work."

Aircraft Workers Quit

ST. LOUIS, May 29 (AP)—Production of parts for Superfortresses and transport planes was halted today at five plants of the McDonnell Aircraft Company by a strike of 1,250 workers. About 1,550 additional employes were forced to remain idle.

The walkout began yesterday at the company's Lambert-St. Louis field plant when fifteen employes quit work in protest against the down-grading of two mechanics. It spread later to other plants where members of the AFL International Association of Machinists joined the strike.

Los Angeles To Fete Patton And Doolittle

Los Angeles, May 29 (AP)—This city is planning a celebration to top all celebrations in honor of two famous guests, Gen. George S. Patton and Lieut. Gen. James Doolittle, who will be here June 9 and 10.

Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, informed Mayor Fletcher Bowron that the two generals will be able to accept the city's invitation and that General Patton will fly here from Europe. General Patton's home town is near-by San Gabriel. General Doolittle once attended high school here.

304 Planes In From Europe

MANCHESTER, N. H., May 29 (AP).—The North Atlantic Division of the Air Transport Command announced today that 4,958 Army Air Forces personnel aboard 304 heavy bombers from Europe have landed at various New England fields during the last week. One plane was lost en route, the A. T. C. said, but all crew members and passengers were saved. The command would not specify how the plane was lost.

Lindsey To Stay In Army Awhile

Mobile, Ala., May 29 (AP)—With a Congressional Medal of Honor and 137 points, Sergt. Jake W. Lindsey, of Lucedale, Miss., still wants to do something to avenge the cruelty of the Nazis.

"They don't deserve anything but the worst," he asserted.

"I saw two concentration camps which had just been abandoned, and I talked with some of the boys who had been tortured."

Can Get Discharge

Lindsey can get an honorable discharge for the asking but said: "I might spend a couple of months more with the Army helping in any way I can."

The 24-year-old platoon leader said he lost 35 men in one campaign. He pointed to his Congressional Medal of Honor, the Purple Heart and decorations designating five campaigns and said:

"These don't mean anything. It's mothers of those boys I had to leave under German soil I'm thinking about."

Plenty Of Fan Mail

He told of the large volume of mail he was receiving. He said he got a mail sack full every day and had not had time to read even a small part of it.

Before leaving here for Lucedale, his home town, where he married Miss Beverly Hargreaves, of Lexington, Mass., Sunday after a big homecoming celebration, Lindsey said they would visit New Orleans before going to the home of the bride's parents.

Tired Of Fanfare

"I'm awfully tired of all this fanfare," Lindsey said. "All I want to do now is to find time to answer some of those letters to the mothers who want me to tell them about their boys."

R. B. Chandler, publisher of the Mobile Press Register, who had heard the letter-writing troubles of the soldier, stepped up and said:

"Jake, you bring all the mail you want to answer to our editorial rooms. I'll place you in a private office and let you have a private secretary as long as you need."

There was every indication that Jake would accept the offer.

Presbyterians Protest Ambassador At Vatican

Montreat, N.C., May 29 (AP)—The Presbyterian Church in the United States, today formally protested the maintenance by this country of "an unofficial or official ambassador" at the Vatican, and requested President Truman to recall Myron C. Taylor, named by President Roosevelt as a personal representative in Vatican City.

The denomination's eighty-fifth general assembly adopted a resolution saying:

"Mindful of our cherished heritage of separation of church and state, and believing that the prestige of maintaining an unofficial or official ambassador at the Roman Catholic Vatican is out of accord with the ideals and principles of the American people, the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States, respectfully, requests the President of the United States to withdraw the personal representative of the late President to the Vatican."

Refuses To Quit Council

After voting down several overtures asking the church to sever relations with the Federal Council of Churches, the Assembly named five members of the council, the Rev. J. M. Alexander, Fayetteville; the Rev. M. A. Boggs, Little Rock; the Rev. Albert Kissling, Jacksonville, Fla.; Judge D. H. Edington, Mobile, and the Rev. J. H. Marion, Richmond.

The meeting adopted by a rising vote a resolution introduced by C. R. Botton, Tupelo, Miss., commending President Truman for using Solomon's prayer in his message to Congress.

Campaigns Approved

Two campaigns were approved, one for $500,000 for the Assembly training school at Richmond, and the other for the same amount for equipment and endowment of Stillman Institute for Negroes at Tuscaloosa, Ala.

A stewardship budget of $2,665,000 for next year, an increase of more than $500,000 over the last, was adopted. Dr. Boggs submitted the report of the stewarship committee.

The assembly is scheduled to adjourn tomorrow.

Three Missionaries Released

Boston, May 29 (AP)—Three Congregational missionaries who were interned by the Japanese when Foochow was taken last fall have been released unharmed, the American Board of Foreign Missions announced today.

Two Army Flyers Rescued

Were Aboard One of Two Planes That Crashed Near Kingston

NEWBURGH, N. Y., May 29 (AP).—Two injured Army flyers were rescued today after an aerial searching mission located two crashed planes in the Ashokan region near Kingston.

A ground searching party reached only one of the AT-6 ships missing from Stewart Field since Sunday night, Colonel Joe W. Kelly, commanding officer, said. Nothing had yet been learned of the occupant of the second.

The rescued men, Lieutenant Joseph W. Cook, of the Bronx, New York, pilot, and Sergeant Michael R. Lucidi, of Arnold, Pa., were in good condition at the field hospital. Both planes crashed in returning from Buffalo on a routine combat training mission, Lieutenant Cook said. Cause of the crash had not been determined.

Luce Charges Red Soldiers, Officers Quit

Says They Were "Deceived In Search For Freedom."

NEW YORK, May 29 (AP)—Rep. Clare Booth Luce (R-Conn.) said tonight that "Russian soldiers by the thousands. and Russian generals by the dozens" deserted the Red Army to fight "beside the Nazis."

"They were, of course, deceived in their search for freedom, just as deceived as the German soldiers who deserted to the Russians," she said in a Blue Network broadcast.

"Today in the Balkans over 300,000 Russian soldiers have deserted victorious Russian armies to seek a better, richer, happier way of life," Rep. Luce continued. "Their search becomes every day more fruitless — because the hand of Communism reaches out for them—reaches over the Balkans."

Wall of Censorship

Mrs. Luce, discussing "America and the Kremlin," said "180 million Russians are today incarcerated behind a towering wall of censorship. They are unaware that there is a world in which the words law and justice, charity and freedom, have a real and personal meaning for great masses of men."

The Connecticut congresswoman asserted that now that Germany's war machine has been destroyed and her industrial strength "all but obliterated" Russia remains the strongest military and industrial power in Europe.

"Russia has a fresh, untried and powerful army in Asia. Because it is to Soviet Russia's own national interests to get into the Pacific war, that army is certain to be used against the Japanese before the final kill.

Strong In Asia

"When the Japanese are at last beaten to the ground, their army destroyed, and tehir factories pulverized, Russia will emerge as the strongest military and industrial power also in Asia.

"There is no question that Russian physical strength—her iron muscles and machine brawn, make her the world's No. 2 power—and the military and industriay titan of Eurasia."

"It is a pity," seh added, "that the heroic Russian people—the common men of Russia—are not free to aid us in an effort to enlarge the area of human freedom.

"We must never act or speak as some people do, as though the gerat Russian people were our enemies. The Russian people are and must continue to be our friends, for the peace of the world depends on that friendship."

10,000 GI's Reach N.Y. On Five Ships

New York, May 29 (AP)—More than 10,000 troops — liberated prisoners of war, wounded and rotational personnel—arrived in New York port of embarkation today aboard five vessels ranging from a converted prewar luxury liner to a hospital ship.

And in at least one case, the trip across the Atlantic was made with the vessel's portholes open for the first time since the war started.

The transport Ericsson, formerly the Swedish liner Kungsholm, carried the largest load of passengers.

Another troopship, the Gen. George Goethals, had 2,336 wounded, liberated prisoners and rotational troops aboard; the army transports Santa Rosa and Thomas H. Barry 4,225 between them, and the mercy ship Charles A. Stafford, 671 passengers, all wounded.

Aboard the Barry, too, were 62 war brides, the first to arrive here since V-E day, and nineteen children from 3 months to 2 years old.

Gripsholm To Leave For Europe Tomorrow

New York, May 29 (AP)—The exchange ship Gripsholm will leave Jersey City at 4 P.M. Thursday for Europe with about 1,200 passengers, a State Department spokesman said today. The ship's departure had been set originally for today.

The spokesman said 1,000 of the passengers were persons who were illegally in this country and were being deported to their homelands.

The Gripsholm will dock first at Naples and will return with repatriated Americans.

Source Of Her Nylons? It's A Military Secret

New York, May 29 (AP)—Miss Margaret Jennings, English hosiery firm employé who toured American hosiery and cotton mills as a guest of the AFL and CIO, said today she would take home two pairs of Nylons.

Asked where she got them, Miss Jennings replied: "That's a military secret."

Suicide Corps to Handle Japanese Rocket Planes

'Human Bomb' Group To Be Used in Battle of Okinawa

The Japanese Domei agency said yesterday that a new suicide corps, the Jinrai, or "Human Bomb Special Attack Corps," has been organized to handle rocket bombs against American land and sea forces in the Battle of Okinawa.

The officers of the Jinrai are between twenty-three and twenty-four and the men under them are still younger, their average age being twenty-one or twenty-two, said the Domei wireless dispatch as reported by the Federal Communications Commission.

The effectiveness of the Jinrai rocket bomb has now been proven, the dispatch said, and its explosion is "like 100 thunders roaring at once."

Battle Damage To Franklin Put At $35,000,000

But Carrier Officer Adds There Is $30,000,000 Worth of Good Ship Left

Lieutenant Commander Robert C. Downes, damage control officer of the carrier Franklin, said yesterday at a Greater New York Fund luncheon at the Hotel Pennsylvania that the carrier could be rebuilt from the third deck up for $20,000,000 less than the cost of a new carrier. The Japanese, he said, did $35,000,000 worth of damage to the Franklin, but there was $30,000,000 worth of good ship left.

Lieutenant Commander Downes, who directed the fight to save the burning carrier after it was bombed off Japan on March 19 with a loss of 832 dead or missing, said that motion pictures of the fires and explosions had terrified him. He said that he had suffered a skull fracture and fractures of several ribs on the Franklin and had lost the hearing in one ear.

He told of having aboard the Franklin a Japanese girl sniper about twenty-nine, whom he described as "a tough little customer" but quite attractive. Her first question, he said, was when she was going to be killed. He, thinking she meant when was she going to be fed, replied, "Tomorrow."

"She really took off after that," he said.

He said two sailors had to hold her when her hair was cut off. She wore a marine's boots, size 12, large enough for her to face about in them without lifting the soles off the floor.

J. Stewart Baker, general chairman of the fund campaign, said that $3,023,875, or 67 per cent, of the goal of $4,500,000 had been raised for the support of 408 hospitals and welfare agencies.

10,000 IN U.S. GO ON STRIKE

15,000 Others, Already Out, Return To Work

New York, May 29 (AP)—More than 10,000 workers remained away from their jobs today in six work stoppages in various parts of the nation while another 15,000, who had been idle, returned to work.

Three plants of Revere Coppper and Brass, Inc., Rome, N. Y., were closed by a strike of 3,400 members of the Interstate Copper and Brass workers Union, affiliate of the Confederated Union of America.

One of the plants makes parts for a new incendiary bomb being used over Japan. The union seeks a new contract.

Parts For B-29's

Production of parts for Superfortresses was halted at five St. Louis plants of the McDonnell Aircraft Company by a strike of 1,250 workers. Some 1,550 other workers were forced to remain idle.

The strike began Monday when fifteen workers left their jobs in protest, they said, against the downgrading of two mechanics. The walkout spread and the AFL International Association of Machinists joined the strike.

In Gadsden, Ala., a walkout of 3,300 CIO-United Rubber Workers interrupted production at the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company plant for the second time this month. Union officials said the stoppage was unauthorized.

Vote To Strike In Akron

Members of the same union working in Goodyear's three Akron (Ohio) plants have voted almost three to one in favor of a strike. URW leaders claim company-union negotiation machinery has broken down.

About 375 employés of the American Can Company's Jersey City (N.J.) plants joined 1,000 other Federal Labor Union (AFL) members already on strike in a wage dispute.

While 4,300 employés of General Motors' diesel engine division in Detroit and 2,000 Fruehauf Trailer Company workers returned to their jobs, 1,000 employés of the Aluminum Company of America in that city were involved in a sympathy work stoppage.

Blind Employe Involved

The Diesel employés, members of the United Automobile Workers (CIO), had been idle since May 19. They agreed to arbitrate a grievance over discharge of a blind employé.

The 20-day Fruehauf strike was ended in accordance with a decision of Local 99, UAW-CIO, which previously had been unable to settle a dispute over grievance procedure.

The ALCOA workers, members of the United Steel Workers of America (CIO), joined 90 furnace tenders who have protested suspension of a worker.

Airplane Cutbacks

Some 400 members of the Scranton Street Car Workers Union (AFL) continued their strike for a new contract as the Regional War Labor Board awaited appearance of two union officials to show cause why the walkout should not be terminated.

Approximately 8,300 workers in the Berwick (Pa.) plant of the American Car and Foundry Company went back to work after being idle since last Tuesday. The AFL union seeks War Labor Board approval of a wage increase.

At the Bell Aircraft Corporation's Buffalo and Niagara Falls (N.Y.) plants a "stay-in" of 200 workers ended. Discussions continued between the firm and the UAW-CIO on union proposals to "temporarily ease the critical economic situation" resulting from airplane cutbacks.

Car Strike Threatens

Meanwhile, in Boston the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway and 1,800 union employés conferred again with the State Board of Conciliation and Arbitration in an effort to avert a strike called for Saturday.

The workers, members of the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Operators of America (AFL) seek higher wages, shorter hours and other concessions.

New Incendiary Spreads Fiery Lava for 25 Yards

Magnesium and Asphalt 'Goop' Is Used in M-74 Bomb

The devastating new M-74 fire bombs now being dropped on Japan cover their target with a violently burning synthetic lava, Colonel S. E. Whitesides jr., commanding officer of the New York district of the Army Chemical Warfare Service, announced yesterday.

The colonel said that one of the ingredients of the bomb mixture is a substance known as "goop," a magnesium powder coated with asphalt particles. Its fire qualities were first discovered by accident when a quantity in storage in California burst into flame.

"Inside the bomb," he said, "is loaded a plastic cup containing half a pound of white phosphorus, a few pounds of synthetic lava filling and a dome-shaped ejection diaphragm. Blown open by a burster charge, the diaphragm works like a piston, expelling itself, the cup of phosphorus, the lava and the collapsible tail out of the bomb in a miniature eruption. Gobs of lava fly for twenty-five yards, landing under the eaves and walls of the target, clinging tenaciously to the surface as they burn."

Colonel Whitesides said it was almost impossible to put out the fire with standard fire-fighting tactics.

LONDON, MAY 29-(AP)-THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT HAS REFUSED RHYS DAVIES, LABOR MEMBER OF PARLIAMENT WHO HOLDS SOME PACIFIST VIEWS, A PERMIT TO LEAVE TO DELIVER LECTURES IN THE UNITED STATES UNDER SPONSORSHIP OF THE QUAKERS.

THE FOREIGN OFFICE SAID SUCH PERMITS, UNDER REGULATIONS, MUST FIRST BE APPROVED BY A GOVERNMENT DEPARTMENT AS IN THE NATIONAL INTEREST.

BRENDAN BRACKEN, WHO WAS MINISTER OF INFORMATION WHEN THE CASE FIRST AROSE, SAID HIS OFFICE TOOK THE VIEW THAT "A DEPARTMENT WHOSE BUSINESS WAS TO PUBLICIZE THE BRITISH WAR EFFORT COULD NOT POSSIBLY BECOME RESPONSIBLE FOR SPONSORING DAVIES' PROPOSED LECTURE TOUR AS BEING IN THE NATIONAL INTEREST."

DAVIES DECLARED HE INTENDED TO CHALLENGE THE DECISION. HE TOLD THE FOREIGN OFFICE THAT, ALTHOUGH HE HOLDS "CERTAIN VIEWS ON THE PRESENT WORLD SITUATION," HE WOULD NOT SAY OR DO ANYTHING IN THE UNITED STATES THAT WOULD MAR GOOD RELATIONSHIPS BETWEEN THE TWO NATIONS.

LONDON, MAY 29-(AP)-BRITISH MERCHANT SHIPS TODAY SAILED THROUGH NON-COMBAT WATERS--UNOFFICIALLY DESCRIBED AS INCLUDING THE ATLANTIC, THE MEDITERRANEAN, NORTH SEA AND ENGLISH CHANNEL -- WITHOUT CONVOY PROTECTION AND BLACKOUT RESTRICTIONS FOR THE FIRST TIME IN MORE THAN FIVE YEARS.

SUSPENSION OF CONVOYS, ANNOUNCED BY THE BRITISH ADMIRALTY AS EFFECTIVE LAST MIDNIGHT, INDICATED THAT THE LAST OF THE GERMAN SUBMARINE RAIDERS HAD BEEN ACCOUNTED FOR.

THE ADMIRALTY DISCLOSED THAT UP TO THE BEGINNING OF 1945 MORE THAN 9,000 CONVOYS SAFELY ENTERED OR CLEARED BRITISH PORTS. THE SUBMARINE MENACE WAS ALL BUT ELIMINATED LAST YEAR, WITH ONE SHIP OUT OF EVERY 1,000 FALLING VICTIM TO U-BOAT RAIDS.

CONVOYS WERE INSTITUTED IMMEDIATELY AFTER THE DECLARATION OF WAR AGAINST GERMANY AND THREE MONTHS AFTER THE BEGINNING OF THE WAR PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL, THEN FIRST LORD OF THE ADMIRALTY, ANNOUNCED THAT 2,000 BRITISH SHIPS WERE CONSTANTLY AT SEA AND THAT LOSSES WERE ONE OUT OF EVERY 750.

THE GERMANS STEPPED UP THEIR SHIPPING RAIDS IN 1941 AND ONE SHIP OUT OF 181 WAS SUNK. IN 1942 THE RATIO WAS ONE SHIP SUNK IN 233 SAILINGS. IN 1943 IT WAS ONE SHIP TO 344.

BRITISH MILITARY CASUALTIES IN THE FIRST WORLD WAR WERE LISTED BY CHURCHILL AS 3,286,000, INCLUDING 996,230 DEAD.

CHURCHILL'S REPORT CAME AS ONE OF THE FIRST ORDERS OF BUSINESS AS BRITAIN RETURNED TO PARTY POLITICS AND THE PRIME MINISTER LED HIS NEW "CARETAKER" GOVERNMENT INTO COMMONS FOR THE FIRST TIME. CONSERVATIVES CHEERED AND WAVED. LABOR MEMBERS QUIPPED: "ARE YOU WAVING HIM GOODBYE?"

CHURCHILL FACED ON THE OPPOSITION BENCH SOME LABOR MINISTERS OF THE COALITION CABINET WHICH WAS DISSOLVED LAST WEEK. THE HOUSE WAS TENSE, AWAITING THE FIRST CLASH BETWEEN LEADERS OF TWO MAJOR PARTIES WHICH FOR FIVE YEARS FORMED A UNITED FRONT TO FIGHT THE WAR AGAINST GERMANY.

THE PRIME MINISTER APPEARED IN GOOD SPIRITS. HIS SON, MAJ.RANDOLPH CHURCHILL, A CONSERVATIVE MEMBER OF PARLIAMENT ONLY RECENTLY RETURNED FROM WAR SERVICE IN THE MIDDLE EAST, WALKED CLOSE BEHIND HIM.

SIR JAMES GRIGG, SECRETARY FOR WAR, WAS THE FIRST MINISTER TO SPEAK. HE SAID ABOUT ONE FOURTH OF THE ITALIAN PRISONERS HELD IN GREAT BRITAIN STILL WERE CLASSIFIED AS "NON-COOPERATORS." HE DENIED AN ALLEGATION RAISED BY ONE MEMBER THAT BRITISH SOLDIERS HAD BEEN BILLETED WITH GERMANS. HE SAID THAT NON-WORKING GERMAN PRISONERS OF WAR NEVER HAD RECEIVED MORE OF NATIONALLY RATIONED FOOD ITEMS THAN BRITISH CIVILIANS

SIR JAMES SAID THAT OF 180,000 BRITISH COMMONWEALTH PRISONERS OF WAR IN GERMAN HANDS ON JAN.1, SOME 156,000 ALREADY HAD BEEN LIBERATED.

MAJ.GWILYM LLOYD GEORGE, WHO DEFIED HIS LIBERAL PARTY LEADERSHIP TO REMAIN IN THE CHURCHILL GOVERNMENT AS MINISTER OF FUEL, DECLARED THAT NONE OF THE 1,000 GERMAN PRISONERS IN BRITAIN WHO WERE MINERS HAD ACTUALLY STARTED DIGGING. HE SAID THEY MIGHT BE USED IN GERMAN MINES TO DIG COAL FOR ALLIED USE.

CLEMENT ATTLEE, FORMER DEPUTY PRIME MINISTER AND LEADER OF THE LABOR PARTY, ARRIVED LATE AND WAS CHEERED BY THE LABOR BENCHES.

LABOR MINISTERS OFFERED A PROFUSION OF QUESTIONS ON MANY SUBJECTS WHEN CHURCHILL ROSE FOR THE FIRST TIME.

TO A QUESTION ABOUT TRANSFER OF ROYAL NAVY VESSELS TO THE RUSSIAN FLEET, CHURCHILL SAID HE WOULD MAKE A LENGTHY STATEMENT NEXT WEEK. LABORITE RHYS DAVIES REMINDED CHURCHILL HE ONCE SAID HE DID NOT PROPOSE TO PRESIDE OVER LIQUIDATION OF THE BRITISH EMPIRE, TO WHICH THE PRIME MINISTER REJOINED:

"THIS PARTICULAR EPISODE WAS PART OF A PROCESS BY WHICH THE CONSOLIDATION OF THE BRITISH EMPIRE WAS ACHIEVED."

NORMANDY

BY DON WHITEHEAD

CARENTAN, NORMANDY, MAY 29-(AP)-NORMAN TOWNS RAVAGED BY THE GRIM WARFARE WHICH SWEPT ACROSS THE HEDGEROW COUNTRY LAST SUMMER STAND TODAY AS SAD AND FORLORN MONUMENTS TO ALLIED VICTORY ON THE BEACHES.

ALMOST A YEAR HAS PASSED SINCE THE INVASION, BUT BODIES STILL ARE BEING PULLED FROM THE HEAPED DEBRIS BY FRENCH WORKERS TRYING TO BRING SOME ORDER OUT OF THE CHAOS CREATED BY BOMBS AND SHELLS.

NOT MUCH PROGRESS HAS BEEN MADE IN REBUILDING THE BATTERED TOWNS. ABOUT ALL ANYONE HAS BEEN ABLE TO DO IS TO REMOVE THE DEBRIS FROM THE STREETS AND HAUL AWAY THE WORST OF THE WRECKAGE. SOME HOUSES HAVE BEEN PATCHED UP AND MADE HABITABLE, BUT IT WILL BE MANY YEARS BEFORE THE TOWNS CAN BE REBUILT.

LACK OF BUILDING MATERIALS AND TRANSPORTATION FACILITIES ARE THE PRINCIPAL PROBLEMS RATHER THAN A SHORTAGE OF LABOR. UNTIL BRICKS, LUMBER AND OTHER MATERIAL CAN BE OBTAINED THERE IS LITTLE THE FRENCH CAN DO ABOUT RESTORING THEIR HOMES AND BUSINESSES.

ST.LO, SCENE OF PROLONGED AND BITTER FIGHTING, IS THE MOST RAVAGED OF ALL THE NORMAN TOWNS. ONLY A FRACTION OF THE DEBRIS HAS BEEN CLEARED AWAY, AND THE STREETS ARE WALLED IN BY PILES OF RUBBLE WHICH ONCE WERE BUILDINGS.

FOR A TIME THE FRENCH CONSIDERED LEAVING ST.LO JUST AS IT WAS -- A PLACE WHERE TOURISTS COULD SEE THE HAVOC WROUGHT BY THE FURY OF WAR. FINALLY THEY STARTED TRYING TO CLEAR UP THE WRECKAGE, BUT THEY HAVE BARELY MADE A START.

NORMAN HIGHWAYS, LIKE NORMAN TOWNS, STILL BEAR THE SCARS OF WAR. THEY ARE PITTED AND ROUGH, BUT THE FARMLANDS THROUGH WHICH THEY PASS SHOW LITTLE TRACES OF FIGHTING. NATURE HAS HEALED MOST OF THE GAPING WOUNDS LEFT BY BOMBS AND SHELLS, AND CATTLE GRAZE IN PEACEFUL FIELDS.

FOOD IS NO PROBLEM IN THE COUNTRY AND IN ALMOST ANY SMALL TOWN ONE CAN GET AN EXCELLENT MEAL OF VEGETABLE SOUP, BEEF, POTATOES, GREEN SALAD, WHOLE WHEAT BREAD, BUTTER AND WINE FOR ABOUT TWO DOLLARS -- A MEAL WHICH WOULD COST FIVE TIMES AS MUCH IN PARIS.

SUGAR, TEA, COFFEE, CHOCOLATE, SPICES AND OILS STILL ARE LUXURY ITEMS, BUT THE NORMANS ARE LIVING WELL.

SO PEACEFUL IS THE LUSH COUNTRYSIDE THAT IT IS STARTLING TO COME NOW AND THEN UPON A FIELD WHITE WITH CROSSES -- THE RESTING PLACES OF HUNDREDS OF AMERICANS WHO GAVE THEIR LIVES FOR THE LIBERATION OF EUROPE AND EVENTUAL DEFEAT OF GERMANY.

IT IS SURPRISING, TOO, HOW MANY OF THE GRAVES ARE DECORATED WITH FLOWERS -- PLACED THERE BY FRENCH FAMILIES WHO CAME TO LOVE THE BOYS BILLETED IN OR NEAR THEIR TOWNS. EACH SUNDAY DOZENS OF MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN VISIT THE CEMETERIES AND DROP FLOWERS ON THE GRAVES.

ONE OF THE MOST BEAUTIFUL IS LA CAMBE CEMETERY, WHICH ORIGINALLY WAS A BURIAL PLACE FOR MEN OF THE 29TH INFANTRY DIVISION WHO FELL IN BATTLE -- MOST OF THEM FIGHTING THEIR WAY INTO ST.LO. LT.GEN. LESLIE MCNAIR, WHO WAS KILLED BY ALLIED BOMBS DURING THE GREAT BREAKTHROUGH BOMBARDMENT, IS BURIED THERE, AS IS BEDE IRVIN, ASSOCIATED PRESS PHOTOGRAPHER WHO WAS KILLED IN THE SAME BOMBING.

ONLY A FEW MILES AWAY IS ST.LAURENT CEMETERY, WHICH OVERLOOKS "OMAHA BEACH", BLOODIEST BATTLEGROUND OF THE INVASION, WHERE THE FIRST DIVISION AND THE 116TH REGIMENT OF THE 29TH DIVISION SPEARHEADED THE ASSAULT LANDING.

NEAR THE CEMETERY ARE THE REMAINS OF CRUMBLING WEEDGROWN TRENCHES AND PILLBOXES FROM WHICH THE GERMANS POURED A WITHERING FIRE AT THE AMERICAN TROOPS.

LT.MICHAEL BILLITCH, 2285 DAVIDSON AVE., NEW YORK CITY, IS SUPERVISING THE LANDSCAPING OF ST.LAURENT AND LA CAMBE CEMETERIES AND HAS CREWS OF GERMAN PRISONERS TO DO THE WORK.

"LATER A CIVILIAN SUPERINTENDENT WILL BE LEFT IN CHARGE OF EACH CEMETERY," HE SAID. "RIGHT NOW WE WANT TO GET THEM READY FOR ANY PILGRIMAGES OF GOLD STAR MOTHERS FROM THE STATES."

AMERICAN TROOPS WHO LANDED ON "UTAH BEACH" DOUBTLESS WILL REMEMBER THE PRISON CAGE WHERE THE FIRST CAPTURED GERMANS WERE HELD IN AN OPEN FIELD. THERE WERE ONLY A FEW HUNDRED PRISONERS THERE THEN, BUT THE CAGE HAS GROWN INTO A GREAT CAMP WHICH NOW HOUSES 43,000 PRISONERS OF WAR--INCLUDING 80 GENERALS AND THREE FIELD MARSHALS.

SINCE V-E DAY THERE HAS NOT BEEN A SINGLE ATTEMPT TO ESCAPE, ACCORDING TO CAPT.CLIFFORD BOLTON OF SOUTH OHIO ST., CHRISMAN, ILL.

"THOSE WHO TRIED TO ESCAPE BEFORE THE WAR ENDED AVERAGED ABOUT THREE DAYS OF FREEDOM," BOLTON SAID. "USUALLY THEY WERE CAUGHT BY FRENCHMEN AND RETURNED TO THE CAMP."

ON V-E DAY THE GERMANS CAREFULLY REMAINED INSIDE THE BUILDINGS, OUT OF SIGHT OF THE WILDLY HAPPY FRENCH.

"THE FRENCH WENT WILD AND FOR THREE DAYS THEY PARADED DOWN THE ROADS WITH A BRASS BAND, SINGING, SHOUTING AND SHOOTING OFF PISTOLS AND RIFLES," BOLTON SAID. "THAT KEPT THE GERMANS INSIDE. THEY WERE AFRAID IF THE FRENCH SAW THEM THEY MIGHT GET SHOT."

THE HAGUE, MAY 29-(AP)--CENTRAL FOOD KITCHENS ARE PLAYING A LARGE ROLE IN SUCCORING THE HUNGRY PEOPLE OF WESTERN HOLLAND, AND IN AMSTERDAM ALONE SUCH KITCHENS ARE SERVING 500,000 MEALS DAILY--- ABOUT ONE MEAL A DAY FOR NEARLY TWO-THIRDS OF THE CITY'S POPULATION.

MAY 30 1945

FIFTY-ONE SPECIAL FEEDING TEAMS WERE RUSHED INTO THE AREA BY THE DUTCH TO LOCATE MALNUTRITION CASES AND HELP THEM TOWARD RECOVERY WITH SPECIAL FOOD AND PLASMA, LT.-COL. H.A. SANDSTEAD OF LINCOLN, NEBR., ADVISOR TO THE DUTCH MEDICAL AUTHORITIES FOR THE SHEAF MISSION TO THE NETHERLANDS, SAID.

THESE TEAMS, SUPPORTED BY LOCAL DOCTORS AND NURSES, HAVE ESTABLISHED HEADQUARTERS IN CLINICS AND ARE VISITING HOMES, AND THUS FAR HAVE INVESTIGATED ABOUT 150,000 CASES. OF THEM THREE-FOURTHS REQUIRED SUPPLEMENTARY FOODS, AND TWO TO THREE PERCENT NEEDED HOSPITALIZATION. ABOUT 1,500 PERSONS ARE IN STARVATION HOSPITALS.

THE CENTRAL FOOD KITCHENS WERE ESTABLISHED CHIEFLY BECAUSE OF THE FUEL WOOD SHORTAGE. OTHER PERSONS TOO WEAK TO STAND IN LINE FOR HOURS EACH DAY ARE BEING TREATED AT THEIR HOMES OR HOSPITALS.

MAY 30 1945

SANDSTEAD, ONE OF EIGHT U.S. PUBLIC HEALTH OFFICERS TO ARMY DUTY IN THIS THEATER, SAID THE FOOD SITUATION IS IMPROVING STEADILY, BUT THAT THE DEATH RATE IS NOT EXPECTED TO DECREASE IMMEDIATELY SINCE THE WORST EFFECTS OF THE FINAL WEEKS OF THE NEAR-STARVATION DIET OF THE GERMAN OCCUPATION STILL ARE BEING FELT.

CONDITIONS WHEN THE SHEAF MISSION ARRIVED PROVED LESS SEVERE THAN ANTICIPATED, BUT STILL PRESENTED A TREMENDOUS PROBLEM. THERE WERE A GREAT NUMBER OF CASES OF STARVATION, EDEMA, AND SEVERE EMACIATION, ESPECIALLY AMONG OLDER PERSONS.

THE FEEDING TEAMS, ORGANIZED AFTER A PRELIMINARY SURVEY OF URBAN AREAS BY NUTRITION EXPERTS, HAVE MADE EXTENSIVE USE OF SUCH SPECIAL FOODS AS POWDERED MILK AND POWDERED EGGS. THEY ALSO WERE PREPARED TO HANDLE INTRAVENOUS FEEDING, BUT HAVE FOUND VIRTUALLY NO NEED FOR THAT.

MAY 30 1945

STRICT CONTROL OF THE EASTERN AND SOUTHERN BOUNDARIES OF THIS AREA WHICH THE GERMANS PLANNED TO MAKE "FORTRESS HOLLAND" HAS SO FAR SUCCESSFULLY BLOCKED THE INTRODUCTION OF ANY DISEASE. NOT A SINGLE CASE OF TYPHUS HAS BEEN REPORTED, ALTHOUGH THERE WERE LOCAL OUTBREAKS OF TYPHOID FEVER.

U.S. 3RD ARMY HEADQUARTERS, BAVARIA, MAY 29-(AP)-SGT. JOSE M. LOPEZ OF BROWNSVILLE, TEXAS, RECEIVED THE MEDAL OF HONOR TODAY FOR KILLING DOZENS OF GERMANS AND ENABLING HIS COMPANY TO WITHDRAW FROM AN APPARENTLY HOPELESS TRAP IN THE ARDENNES CAMPAIGN LAST WINER.

LOPEZ WAS A MACHINEGUNNER OF THE SECOND DIVISION'S 23RD REGIMENT WHEN HE SET UP HIS WEAPON LAST DEC. 17 IN A SHALLOW HOLE WHICH AFFORDED NO PROTECTION FOR THE UPPER HALF OF HIS BODY. HE KILLED TEN GERMANS IMMEDIATELY.

AN ENEMY TANK 150 YARDS AWAY STARTED SPRAYING MACHINEGUN BULLETS AND 88-MILLIMETER SHELLS, BUT LOPEZ KILLED 25 MORE GERMANS FOLLOWING THE TANK.

THEN THE TEXAN PLAYED HAVOC WITH WAVE AFTER WAVE OF GERMANS POURING TOWARD THE COMPANY'S POSITION. A SHELL FROM THE TANK ONCE LANDED SO CLOSE THAT THE CONCUSSION KNOCKED HIM BACKWARD, BLOWING HIS GUN SEVERAL FEET FROM HIS POSITION. BUT LOPEZ YANKED IT BACK AND RESUMED FIRE.

THE SERGEANT POURED OUT SUCH A HAIL OF BULLETS THAT AMMUNITION BEARERS HAD TO BRING UP BOX AFTER BOX OF CARTRIDGES TO KEEP HIS MACHINEGUN FED. WHEN THE COMPANY WITHDREW FINALLY, LOPEZ CARRIED HIS WEAPON 100 YARDS TO THE REAR AND FIRED FOR TEN MORE MINUTES FROM ANOTHER DEFENSE POSITION UNTIL HIS AMMUNITION WS EXHAUSTED. THEN HE JOINED HIS BUDDIES.

DURING THE SEVEN HOURS BATTLE, LOPEZ FIRED MORE THAN 5,000 ROUNDS.

MAJ.GEN.JAMES A. VAN FLEET, THIRD CORPS COMMANDER AND FORMER FOOTBALL COACH AT THE UNIVERSITY OF FLORIDA, DECORATED THE SERGEANT. VAN FLEET ONCE WAS ASSISTANT COMMANDER OF THE SECOND DIVISION.

LOPEZ HAD BEEN EN ROUTE HOME FOR DISCHARGE WHEN HE RECEIVED WORD THAT HE HAD WON THE HIGHEST UNITED STATES AWARD. HE RETURNED TO THIRD CORPS HEADQUARTERS FOR THE CEREMONY.

GUAM, MAY 19-(DELAYED)-(AP)-SHE'S A TOUGH TO SINK. TWICE BEFORE SHE WITHSTOOD BLOWS AND TODAY OFFICERS AND MEN OF THIS WARSHIP TOLD HOW A JAPANESE KAMIKAZE (SUICIDE) PLANE HIT.

"WE WERE OFF OKINAWA WAITING WORD TO OPEN FIRE ON LAND TARGETS WHEN BOGIES SUDDENLY APPEARED IN THE AIR," SAID COMDR.EDWARD E. GRIMM, 6318 SOUTH DUKE, YORK, PA.

"YOU HAVE TO KNOW THE BACKGROUND OF THIS SHIP, A FAMOUS ONE IN THE NAVY, TO GET THE WHOLE STORY. WE HAD 600 CASUALTIES IN ONE TRAGEDY. WE WERE HIT ANOTHER TIME.

"IT WAS ROUGH," SAID HARRY STRIEGEL, BOATSWAIN, ROUTE 2, BIRDSEYE, IND., WHO WAS TOPSIDE THIS SPRING MORNING.

"THE SHIP BACK OF US STARTED FIRING AND SHOT DOWN ONE PLANE. THERE WAS A BURST FORWARD AND WE SAW A PLANE COMING IN HIGH OVER OUR BOW.

"HE STARTED DOWN IN A DIVE AND WE BARELY HAD TIME TO FIRE. THERE WAS ONLY TIME FOR A FEW BURSTS, THEN THE JAP STRUCK. IT SEEMED THAT EVERYTHING WAS FLYING AROUND. HE MUST HAVE HAD A SPEED OF 400 OR 500 MILES PER HOUR.

"THE PLANE STRUCK NEAR THE SICK BAY WHERE 20 MEN WERE STANDING IN LINE WAITING TO SEE THE DOCTORS ON DUTY. THE DOCTORS AND MANY MEN WERE KILLED."

IN A METTER OF SECONDS HOSES WERE AIMED AT THE RESULTING FIRE. SEVEN MEN WERE RESCUED THROUGH THE HUGE HOLE THE PLANE TORE THROUGH THE DECK. MANY OTHER MEN WERE TRAPPED BELOW. SOME SUFFOCATED, OTHER DROWNED.

THE PLANE PASSED WITHIN 30 FEET OF THE STATEROOM OF LT.EDWARD RYAN OF NEPTUNE AVENUE, MADISON, CONN.

"THERE DIDN'T SEEM TO BE A BLAST AND THERE WAS NO NOISE, BUT THE WHOLE PLACE FILLED WITH FLAME," SAID RYAN. "I TRIED TO GET OUT A HATCH, BUT IT WOULDN'T OPEN AND THEN I TOOK A BIG BREATH AND STARTED THROUGH THE FLAMES AND FELL DOWN. I GOT UP AGAIN AND REACHED THE WARDROOM. THEN I CALLED FIRE CONTROL AND TOLD THEM WHERE THE HOLE WAS BUT THEY ALREADY KNEW ABOUT IT.

B58WX

"SOME MARINES CAME IN BADLY BURNED AND I GAVE ONE MORPHINE, BUT HE HAD A THICK SKIN AND I HAD TROUBLE GETTING THE NEEDLE IN HIS ARM AND HE MADE A FUSS ABOUT IT. THE PLACE WAS FILLING WITH SMOKE. WE GOT THE INJURED OUT AND TOOK THEM TO THE CHIEF'S QUARTERS."

CORP.CHARLES D.GALEY, 1135 RAYNER ST., MEMPHIS, TENN., SAID A LOT OF SMOKE AND FIRE CAME FROM BEDDING, BUT THAT THE FLAMES WERE SOON EXTINGUISHED. GALEY KNOCKED OPEN A HATCH WITH A SLEDGE-HAMMER AND RESCUED A NUMBER OF MEN TRAPPED IN A FLOODED COMPARTMENT.

MEDICAL AID CAME FROM OTHER SHIPS. THE INJURED WERE QUICKLY CARED FOR.

"THE BOMB WENT OFF RIGHT OVER THE AMMUNITION MAGAZINES AND WE HAD TO FLOOD THEM IN A HURRY TO KEEP THEM FROM GOING UP," SAID LT. PATRICK O'DAY, 567 DELAWARE, BUFFALO, N.Y.

"THEY ASKED THE SKIPPER FOR A STATEMENT LATER FOR THE PRESS," SAID ONE OFFICER. "HE SAID 'THEY'RE TOUGH.' THEN HE ADDED 'THEY'RE TOUGH, BUT WE ARE SOFTENING THEM UP.' THEN HE WROTE A COMMENDATION FOR THE CREW AND SAID THEY ARE THE BEST IN THIS MAN'S NAVY."

THE FINAL CASUALTY LIST SHOWED 46 KILLED, FOUR MISSING AND 83 WOUNDED.

TWENTY FIRST BOMBER COMMAND, GUAM, MAY 29-(AP)-FIRES ARE "BURNING ALL OVER YOKOHAMA," CREWS RETURNING TODAY FROM THE 450 PLANE SUPERFORTRESS RAID ON JAPAN'S SECOND LARGEST PORT REPORTED.

"WE LEFT YOKOHAMA BURNING BLOCK AFTER BLOCK," SAID SGT. EDWARD BENDER, (314 LEISURE AVE.) NEWCASTLE, PA. "SMOKE WAS RISING AS HIGH AS 20,000 FEET.

"WHENEVER JAP FIGHTERS WOULD ATTEMPT TO COME UP AT OUR FORMATION WE WOULD CHASE THEM RIGHT BACK DOWN INTO THE GROUND."

FLAK WAS DESCRIBED AS ACCURATE AND INTENSE BY CAPT. JOHN MIRANDA, (901 AVENUE J) GALVESTON, TEX. "WHEN WE WENT OVER THE TARGET," HE SAID, "SMOKE WAS COMING UP 10,000 TO 15,000 FEET."

CAPT. JEROME A. ZEE, JEWETT CITY, CONN., SAID THE WEATHER WAS CLEAR AND BOMBING CONDITIONS WERE GOOD.

"THE LEAD SQUADRON WAS EXCIPTIONALLY ACCURATE," ZEE REPORTED, "AND WE OBSERVED BOMBS CONVERGING ON THE AIMING POINT."

THE 21ST BOMBER COMMAND'S FIRE-BOMBING TECHNIQUE IS TO SPREAD INCENDIARY LOADS AROUND AIMING POINTS IN THE TARGET AREAS IN THE SHORTEST POSSIBLE TIME. THE OBJECTIVE IS TO START WIDESPREAD, INTENSELY BURNING FIRES AGAINST WHICH IT IS DIFFICULT TO CONCENTRATE FIRE FIGHTING EQUIPMENT.

"THERE WERE FIRES ALL OVER THE PLACE, EXCEPT WHERE WE WERE SUPPOSED TO BOMB AND WE REALLY TOOK CARE OF THAT," SAID LT. AL EKMAN, (5181S WALLACE ST.) TAMPA, FLA.

EKMAN SAID HE SAW FEW ENEMY FIGHTERS AND THEY DIDN'T PRESS THEIR ATTACKS. ONE BURST OF FLAK CUT THE OXYGEN LINE TO BOMBARDIER LT. LEON CANNON, WICHITA, KAS. BUT, EKMAN SAID, WE GOT ENOUGH OXYGEN TO HIM SO THAT HE COULD DROP HIS BOMBS SQUARE ON THE TARGET."

LT. FRANK KLASSEN, FORD CITY, PA., COMMANDING THE PLANE "CITY OF OKLAHOMA," SAID, "I COULD SEE THE SOUTHERN PART OF THE TARGET AREA AS WE WENT IN ON OUR BOMB RUN AND IT WAS BURNING LIKE HELL."

THIS AREA IS YOKOHAMA'S MATCHWOOD COMMERCIAL CENTER. KLASSEN REPORTED "BLACK SMOKE, SUCH AS COMES FROM BURNING OIL STORAGE TANKS, WAS BILLOWING HIGH INTO THE SKY. A STRONG WIND SEEMED TO BE BLOWING ON THE GROUND."

OKINAWA,MAY 27-(DELAYED)-(AP)-TWO NAVY PRIVATEER SEARCH PLANES, SWEEPING "THE LAST HUNTING GROUND FOR JAPANESE SHIPS," ALONG THE KOREAN COAST, SANK SEVEN ENEMY VESSELS, INCLUDING A DESTROYER, AND DAMAGED TWO OTHERS TODAY.

MOST OF THE SHIPS WERE FAIRLY SMALL, SO THE TOTAL TONNAGE SUNK PROBABLY DIDN'T EXCEED 5,000. HOWEVER, IT WAS A RECORD IN NUMBERS WHICH INCLUDED A WARSHIP, A TYPE OF VESSEL NOT NORMALLY ATTACKED BY THESE PLANES.

FIVE FREIGHTER TYPE SHIPS WERE SUNK AND TWO DAMAGED BY PRIVATEERS PILOTED BY LT.CMDR.GEORGE HICKS, OAKLAND,CALIF., AND LT. LEO KENNEDY, ETHLYN,MO.

TURNING HOMEWARD WITH JUST ONE BOMB LEFT -- A 1,000 POUNDER IN KENNEDY'S PLANE -- THEY SIGHTED TWO DESTROYERS OF A FAIRLY NEW CLASS 30 MILES OFF KOREA. THE SHIPS WERE HEADING [illegible] KYUSHU.

MAY 30 1945

HICKS STRAFED ONE OF THE DESTROYER'S GUN CREWS HEAVILY, ENABLING KENNEDY TO MAKE A GOOD, STRAIGHT BOMBING RUN.

THE BOMBARDIER, ARM 2/C, GERALD M.KENYON, OWATONNA,MINN., DROPPED HIS THOUSAND-POUNDER SMACK AMIDSHIPS. THE TAIL GUNNER, S1/C PERRY GOODSON, CUSSETA,ALA., SAW THE SHIP EXPLODE AND SINK.

THE PLANES, OUT OF EXPLOSIVES, HAD TO LET THE OTHER DESTROYER GET AWAY.

THE THOUSAND POUND BOMB BLEW THE BOW COMPLETELY OFF THE DESTROYER, HICKS SAID.

"WE STRAFED ALL THE FREIGHTERS AND THE GUNNERS SET THREE OF THEM AFIRE," HE ADDED. "IN FACT, ONE SHIP WAS SUNK ENTIRELY BY STRAFING. IT'S EASY TO MISS WITH A BOMB, BUT THOSE ARMOR-PIERCING 50 CALIBERS DON'T MISS, SPECIALLY FROM MAST-HEIGHT, WHICH IS HOW WE ATTACKED."

HICKS' CREW INCLUDED THE COPILOT, ENS.DONALD F.HANSELMAN, 1521 SARATOGA ST., DETROIT; NAVIGATOR, ENS.WILLIAM M.WOLFRAM, 4151 LOUCST ST., PITTSBURGH,PA.; ROBERT O.BLAKE, ACRN, 104 CLINTON ST., GLENS FALLS,NZMY.; GEORGE MCKEEBY, AMM 3/C, NEWTON,N.J.; FRANK GRAVES, AOM 2/C, PEKIN,IND.; JOHN W.DAVIS, AMM 3/C, LITCHFIELD,ILL.; ALBERT E.VICH,JR., ARM 3/C, NEW HAMPTON,N.Y.; ROGER W.CLEMONS, AMM 1/C, 208 SOUTH VAL AVE., COLUMBUS,OHIO.

OKINAWA, MAY 28-(AP)-MARINES OF THE SIXTH DIVISION MET RELATIVELY LIGHT RESISTANCE AS THEY CAPTURED A MAJOR PORTION OF NAHA, CAPITAL OF OKINAWA, TODAY.

COL. HAROLD C.ROBERTS' 22ND REGIMENT, VETERANS OF ENIWETOK AND GUAM, STARTED THROUGH THE CITY BEFORE DAWN. THE MOST RESISTANCE WAS BY A PLATOON OF JAPANESE WHO TRIED TO THROW UP A ROAD BLOCK WITH A ROW OF BARRELS.

MOST OF THE JAPANESE WERE KILLED AND THE REMAINDER FLED.

MARINE GUARDS WERE POSTED ALONG THE STREETS, WHICH WERE BELIEVED TO BE HEAVILY MIPD. OTHER LEATHERNECKS FANNED OUT ALONG THE WEST COAST TO NAHA HARBOR.

FROM THERE, A DETACHMENT LANDED ON A TINY ISLAND, YONO-YOMA, IN THE MIDDLE OF NAHA BAY. THEY DREW MACHINE GUN FIRE FROM HIGH GROUND ON THE WEST SIDE OF THE NORTH-SOUTH CANUL WHICH RUNS THROUGH NAHA AND MAKES THE MAIN DISTRICT AN ARTIFICIAL ISLAND WITH THE ASATO RIVER ON THE NORTH, NAHA HARBOR ON THE SOUTH, AND NAHA BAY ON THE WEST.

POUNDED FOR DAYS BY NAVAL GUNFIRE, BOMBS AND ARTILLERY, NAHA IS A MASS OF RUBBLE, WITH ONLY HULKS OF LARGER BUILDINGS LEFT STANDING.

TO THE NORTHEAST, THE FIFTH REGIMENT OF THE FIRST MARINE DIVISION ADVANCED TO THE ASATO TOWN AREA, 1,200 YARDS SOUTHWEST OF SHURI FORTRESS, WHERE THE JAPANESE STILL ARE DEFENDING VIGOROUSLY. NAHA, OKINAWA, MAY 29-(AP)-AMERICAN MARINES PATROLING DOWNTOWN NAHA TODAY, AFTER THEIR SWIFT ENTRY INTO THE HEART OF OKINAWA'S CAPITAL-CITY, FOUND THE STREETS STRANGELY QUIET.

ASIDE FROM WARNINGS OF "LOOK OUT FOR MINES AND SNIPERS" THE WAR SEEMED FAR AWAY. ACTUALLY, IT WAS JUST ACROSS THE HARBOR WHERE RADIO TOWERS STOOD ON A STRETCH OF HIGH GROUND.

BRIG.GEN.WILLIAM T.CLEMENT OF RICHMOND, VA., ASSISTANT COMMANDER OF THE SIXTH MARINE DIVISION, SAID NAHA WAS THE LARGEST CITY EVER INVESTED BY THE LEATHERNECKS IN THE HISTORY OF THE CORPS, WHICH GOES BACK 169 YEARS.

THERE ISN'T MUCH LEFT OF THIS CITY, ONCE INHABITED BY AROUND 60,000 PEOPLE. THERE'S NOT A WHOLE BUILDING LEFT STANDING.

THE SHATTERED BANK BUILDING, ITS VAULT FILLED WITH JAPANESE MONEY, WAS GUARDED BY PFC GEORGE TAYLOR OF WICHITA, KAS., AND PFC ERNEST WILLS OF (51 MAPLE ST.), WILKES-BARRE, PA.

"WE'VE MONEY TO BURN TODAY," GRINNED TAYLOR. "WE HAVE NO IDEA HOW MUCH OF THIS STUFF IS HERE, BUT THERE'S PLENTY.

AN ADJOINING BUILDING, ALSO PART OF THE BANK, WITH PFC WILLIAM K. WILL OF BERLIN, PA., AND PFC MARVIN C.CHRONIS OF SPRINGFIELD, MO., ON GUARD AT THE BALCONY ENTRANCE TO THE VAULTS.

ON THE FLOOY BELOW THE TWO MARINES ON THE BALCONY LAY THE NUDE BODY OF AN EMACIATED WOMAN. HER CLOTHES LAY BENEATH THE BODY. HER'S AND TWO OTHER BODIES WERE THE ONLY ONES I SAW IN THE ENTIRE DOWN-TOWN DISTRICT. ON THE LEFT SIDE OF THE NARROW CONCRETE MAIN STREET LEADING INTO THE CITY FROM THE NORTH STANDS WHAT IS LEFT OF THE TWO STORY CONCRETE MILITARY HOSPITAL. MARINES PATROLING THE ROAD INTO THE DOWNTOWN DISTRICT CONTINUAL-LY WARNED ME, "DON'T GET OFF THE SIDE OF THE ROAD; THERE'S LOTS OF MINES." FIFTY OF THE MINES HAVE BEEN DUG UP ALREADY, SAID 1ST LT.JACK VAUGHN OF ALBION, MICH.

EVEN THE LEATHERNECKS WERE IMPRESSED BY THE ABSOLUTE DEVASTATION OF NAHA BY NAVAL GUNFIRE, ARTILLERY SHELLING AND AERIAL BOMBING.

"YOU CAN TELL SHE WAS A BEAUTIFUL CITY ONCE, BUT LOOK AT HER NOW," SAID PVT.KENNETH M.PORRTEUS OF SEATTLE, WASH. "IT'S ALMOST UNBELIEVABLE. YOU CAN'T EVEN PICK OUT A LANDMARK."

EVERYBODY, IT SEEMED, HUNTED FOR THE SITE OF THE GEISHA HOUSE--THERE WERE SUPPOSED TO BE 3,000 GIRLS THERE BEFORE THE AMERICAN LANDING--BUT NO ONE HAD THE SLIGHTEST IDEA WHERE IT HAD STOOD.

ABOARD ADMIRAL CLARK'S FLAGSHIP, OFF OKINAWA, MAY 22-(DELAYED)-(AP)-THE FIRST SHIPS FOUND ATTEMPTING TO RUN SUPPLIES TO THE BELEAGUERED JAPANESE BASES ON OKINAWA AND THE RYUKYUS ISLANDS SINCE APRIL 2 WERE SUNK WITHIN FIVE MINUTES TODAY.

THE THREE JAPANESE SURFACE CRAFT, INCLUDING A THOUSAND TON TRANSPORT SIMILAR TO AN AMERICAN LST AND TWO ESCORT SHIPS OF ONE HUNDRED TONS EACH, WERE LOCATED BY NAVY SEARCH PLANES AS THEY STEAMED SOUTHWARD ABOUT 200 MILES NORTH OF OKINAWA.

'CARRIER BASED AVENGER BOMBERS AND HELLCAT FIGHTERS CARRYING BOTH ROCKETS AND BOMBS FLEW OUT TO MEET THE CONVOY.

THE TRANSPORT AND ONE OF THE ESCORT SHIPS WERE BLOWN UP AND THE SECOND ESCORT SUNK BY BOMBS. APPROXIMATELY 100 JAPANESE SEAMEN WERE LEFT SWIMMING IN THE WATER AS THE ATTACKERS FLEW BACK.

THE EXPLOSION OF THE TRANSPORT WAS DESCRIBED BY AVENGER PILOT LT. JAMES A. TEW (200 AVACADO ST.,) SANFORD, FLA., WHO INADVERTENTLY MADE A "DRY" BM

WHEN THE SMOKE SETTLED THERE WAS NOTHING BUT AN OIL SLICK ON THE WATER. I FOUND OUT LATER MY BOMBS HAD FAILED TO RELEASE, BUT THE OTHERS IN MY SQUADRON SURELY TOOK CARE OF THAT JAP SHIP."

LT. FRANK SISTRUNK, (2610 FRANKLIN AVE.,) NEW ORLEANS, LA., WAS A MEMBER OF THE LAST GROUP TO ATTACK.

"I HAD ALREADY SEEN THE TRANSPORT BLOW UP," SAID SISTRUNK, A FIGHTER PILOT. "I HAD ONE 500-POUND BOMB LEFT WHICH I SMACKED SQUARE AMIDSHIPS OF THE FIRST ESCORT VESSEL. MY SQUADRON LEADER PUT ANOTHER BOMB NEAR THE STERN AND IT SANK IN 45 SECONDS.

7TH FIGHTER COMMAND, IWO JIMA, WEDNESDAY, MAY 30-(AP)-IN A GIANT DOGFIGHT OVER JAPAN, IWO JIMA-BASED ARMY MUSTANGS TURNED BACK 140 JAPANESE FIGHTER PLANES WHICH ATTEMPTED TO HALT TUESDAY'S 450 B-29 FIRE RAID ON YOKOHAMA.

A TOTAL OF 26 JAPANESE PLANES WERE DESTROYED: TEN MORE PROBABLY DESTROYED, AND 18 DAMAGED.

THREE U.S. PLANES WERE LOST OF WHICH ONE PILOT WAS RESCUED.

"IF IT HADN'T BEEN FOR THE MUSTANG (P-51) ESCORT," SAID MAJ.W.B.CARPENTER, A B-29 PILOT OF MAHAHANS, TEX., "A LOT OF US WOULD HAVE GOTTEN SHOT UP."

THE JAPANESE FIGHTERS MET THE ON-RUSHING 450 SUPERFORTRESSES AND THE MUSTANG ESCORT 40 MILES FROM THE TARGET BUT "WE CHASED THEM ALL OVER THE SKY" ENTHUSIASTICALLY REPORTED ONE P-51 PILOT. HE ADDED: "I AM CERTAIN THEY HAD THEIR FIRST TEAM IN THERE TOO."

THE GIANT DOGFIGHT CONTINUED OVER INDUSTRIAL YOKOHAMA AS THE B-29S LOOSED THEIR FIRE BOMBS.

WHILE BEATING OFF THE ATTACK, FIGHTER PILOTS HAD TIME TO SEE THE GROWING DESTRUCTION BELOW THEM.

LT.JEROME YELLING (ALSO COMES YELLIN IN CABLE) OF 160 GUMAN, HILLSIDE, N.J., REPORTED: "AT FIRST WE SAW A LOT OF LITTLE FIRES IN YOKOHAMA AND THEN ALL THE LITTLE FIRES CAME TOGETHER AND THE WHOLE PLACE WAS BURNING."

"WE SAW OUR FIRST JAP SOME DISTANCE OUT FROM THE TARGET. MATHIS AND I WENT AFTER HIM, SHOOTING. THE JAP CLIMBED OUT ON A WING AND JUMPED--ALMOST ON TOP OF ME."

THE GREATEST SUCCESS OF THE STRIKE WENT TO CAPT.ROBERT W.MOORE, OF ANCHORAGE, KY., WHO SHOT DOWN TWO JAPS AND PROBABLY A THIRD. HIS KILLS WERE CONFIRMED BY HIS WINGMAN, LT.GRADY L.PATTERSON OF CALHOUN FALLS, S.C., WHO DECLARED: "IT WAS DAMN FINE SHOOTING."

NIGHT LEAD PHILIPPINES (200)
MANILA,WEDNESDAY,MAY 30-(AP)-FIGHTING THROUGH RUGGED TERRAIN IN THE PHILIPPINES, AMERICAN TROOPS TODAY NEARED CAPTURE OF AN IMPORTANT UNIT OF MANILA'S WATER SUPPLY SYSTEM AND CLEARED THE JAPANESE FROM SOME STRONG HILL POSITIONS IN NORTHEASTERN LUZON.
A YANK 38TH DIVISION MECHANIZED COLUMN, STRIKING IN FRONTAL ASSAULT, PUNCHED THROUGH THE MARIKINA GORGE TOWARD WAWA DAM IN THE MANILA WATERSHED. THE AMERICANS ALREADY HOLD IPO DAM, MAIN SOURCE OF DISTRSSED MANILA'S WATER SUPPLY. IT LOOKED AS IF THE JAPANESE IN THE WAWA SECTOR WERE PULLING OUT OF HILL POSITIONS AND FALLING BACK INTO THE MOUNTAINS BEYOND THE MARIKINA RIVER. AMERICAN PATROLS, WITHIN SIGHT OF HE DAM, REPORTED IT APPEARED INTACT.
IN THE MOUNTAINS OF NORTHEAST LUZON DOUGHBOYS OF THE 25TH DIVISION WERE ANCHORED SECURELY IN SANTA FE, ROADSIDE TOWN. TO THE NORTH LIES THE RICH CAGAYAN VALLEY, LAST MAJOR JAPANESE STRONGHOLD ON THE BIG ISLAND.
THREE MILES WEST OF SANTA FE TROOPS OF THE 32ND DIVISION SLUGGED A
ONG THE VILLA VERDE TRAIL. REPORTS FROM THE 32ND'S FRONT SAID MANY OF THE JAPANESE IN THAT AREA, SUBJECTED TO EXTENDED AND INTENSIVE ARTILLERY FIRE AND AERIAL BLASTINGS, APPEARED DAZED.
ON MINDANAO FRONTS IN THE EXTRME SOUTHEASTERN PHILIPPINES, TROOPS OF THE 24TH DIVISION MOPPED UP IN THE HILLS NORTH OF DAVAO CITY WHILE DOUGHBOYS OF THE 31ST DIVISION WORKED ON A JAPANESE FORCE POCKETED IN THE CENTRAL SECTOR.

WHILE THE WAWA VICTORY ELIMINATED WHAT IS KNOWN AS THE SHIMBU FORTIFICATIONS IT DOESN'T MEAN THE END OF THE CENTRAL LUZON FIGHTING, JAPANESE FORCES OF UNREPORTED STRENGTH RETIRED ACROSS THE RIVER, WHERE THE YANKS EXPECT TO FIND THEM DUG IN AGAIN IN CAVES ALONG A SEEMINGLY ENDLESS SUCCESSION OF RIDGES.
THE DAM WAS CAPTURED WITHOUT A FIGHT. THE JAPANESE STOLE AWAY IN THE NIGHT, APPARENTLY FRIGHTENED OUT BY THE PREVIOUS DAY'S BLASTING FROM TANKS AT THE LOWER END OF THE GORGE, AND BY DEADLY BAZOOKA FIRE.
AS A GROUP OF DOUGHBOYS LOOKED DOWN AT THE DAM AND ITS "LITTLE NIAGARA FALLS" CASCADING INTO THE GORGE WHERE BOULDERS ARE AS BIG AS HOUSES, SGT.RAYMOND MILLER OF ROCKHOLD, KY., REMARKED:
"THESE JAPS FIGHT A CRAZY BATTLE. THEY MUST NOT WANT TO DIE FOR THE EMPEROR AS BADLY AS SUPPOSED. THEY COULD HAVE HELD THIS PLACE UNTIL THEIR LAST ROUND OF AMMUNITION WAS GONE."
ONE LONE EMACIATED JAPANESE WAS CAPTURED. HE GRINNED, ATE VORACIOUSLY AND SLAPPED HIS CAPTOR ON THE BACK HAPPILY, SAYING HE HADN'T HAD A DECENT MEAL IN FIVE DAYS ALTHOUGH LARGE STOCKPILES OF RICE AND FLOUR ARE STACKED IN A VALLEY A HALF MILE AWAY.
THE 65-FOOT-HIGH DAM WAS UNDER EXAMINATION BY ENGINEERS FOR MINES OR BOOBY TRAPS. THE ONLY APPROACH UP THE GORGE WAS ALONG A SIX-FOOT PATH CUT FROM THE SIDE OF A ROCKY CLIFF, INCLUDING TWO SHORT TUNNELS. THIS MADE A TREACHEROUS BOTTLENECK APPROACH FOR THE DOUGHBOYS OF THE 149TH REGIMENT.
A CONSIDERABLE AMOUNT OF SUPPLIES WAS LEFT BEHIND BY THE JAPANESE. AMMUNITION DUMPS LINED THE ROAD AND TRAIL. SUPPLY DUMPS YIELDED CARTONS OF LIGHT GLOBES, A SCARCE COMMODITY IN MANILA, NEW TELEPHONES, RADIO SETS, AUTOMOBILE TIRES, BARBED WIRE AND SOAP. MUCH OF THE EQUIPMENT NEVER HAD BEEN UNPACKED.
ONE OF THE NIPPONESE CAVES WAS 40 FEET HIGH, WITH THREE FLOOR LEVELS.

BUENOS AIRES,MAY 29-(AP)-FOREIGN MINISTER CESAR AMEGHINO, ANSWERING THE REFERENCES MADE TO ARGENTINA LAST NIGHT BY U.S.SECRETARY OF STATE STETTINIUS AT SAN FRANCISCO, DEPLORED TONIGHT THE MISUNDERSTANDING WHICH HE SAID HAD ARISEN OVER THE OBJECTIVES AND CHARACTER OF THE ARGENTINE MILITARY GOVERNMENT.

THIS MISUNDERSTANDING, HE SAID IN A STATEMENT, STILL IS PROVOKING UNJUST JUDGMENTS AGAINST THE GOVERNMENT "WHICH IN REALITY IS PURSUING A CONSTRUCTIVE PROGRAM AND WHICH HISTORY WILL JUSTIFY BECAUSE OF THE CORRECT PURPOSES WHICH MOTIVATE IT.

"MR.STETTINIUS EXPRESSED CONFIDENCE ARGENTINA WILL FULFILL EFFECTIVELY ITS OBLIGATIONS," SAID AMEGHINO. "ON THIS MATTER THERE CAN BE NO DOUBT AND I CAN GIVE ASSURANCE THAT ARGENTINA WILL PREOCCUPY ITSELF FAITHFULLY IN FULFILLING THE OBLIGATIONS IT ASSUMED.

"DOUBTS WHICH PERSIST DERIVE FROM PARTIAL AND INCOMPLETE APPRECIATION OF THE ARGENTINE SITUATION. THE FOURTH OF JUNE (1943) REVOLUTION WAS CARRIED OUT FOR THE PURPOSE OF CLEANSING AND IMPROVING THE CORRUPT ELECTORAL SYSTEMS AND THE EVIDENTLY UNJUST SOCIAL SYSTEM."

HE SAID THE FIRST PART OF THE REVOLUTIONARY PROGRAM WAS COMPLETED AND THE REGIME NOW WAS DEDICATED TO THE RESTORATION OF CONSTITUTIONAL GOVERNMENT.

(STETTINIUS IN HIS SPEECH SAID UNITED STATES SUPPORT FOR INCLUSION OF ARGENTINA IN THE SAN FRANCISCO CONFERENCE DID NOT CONSTITUTE A BLANKET ENDORSEMENT OF THE POLICIES OF THE ARGENTINE GOVERNMENT AND ADDED, "ON THE CONTRARY, WITH MANY OF THESE POLICIES BOTH THE GOVERNMENT ADDED, "ON THE CONTRARY, WITH MANY OF THESE POLICIES BOTH THE GOVERNMENT AND THE PEOPLE OF THE UNITED STATES HAVE NO SYMPATHY.")

THERE WAS NO DOUBT HERE THAT STETTINIUS' REMARKS WERE SOMETHING OF A SHOCK TO ARGENTINE OFFICIAL CIRCLES. AMEGHINO CONFERRED TWICE WITH U.S.AMBASSADOR SPRUILLE BRADEN YESTERDAY AFTER AN ADVANCE COPY OF THE SECRETARY'S SPEECH BECAME AVAILABLE.

(ADVANCE) BUENOS AIRES,MAY 29-(AP)-THE UNITED STATES WILL REFRAIN FROM INTERVENING IN ARGENTINA'S INTERNAL AFFAIRS, REGARDLESS OF WHERE ITS SYMPATHIES MAY LIE, BUT WILL DEMAND UNEQUIVOCAL COMPLIANCE WITH INTERNATIONAL COMMITMENTS AND OBLIGATIONS, SPRUILLE BRADEN, NEW UNITED STATES AMBASSADOR TO ARGENTINA, SAID HERE TONIGHT.

BRADEN SPOKE AT A BANQUET GIVEN IN HIS HONOR BY THE AMERICAN SOCIETY OF THE RIVER PLATE. IT WAS HIS FIRST PUBLIC PRONOUNCEMENT OF POLICY SINCE HIS ARRIVAL.

ARGENTINA AND THE UNITED STATES, AS WAR ALLIES, ARE COMMITTED TO THE COMPLETE DEFEAT OF THE AXIS POWERS AND THE DESTRUCTION OF AXIS SUBVERSIVE ACTIVITIES EVERYWHERE, BRADEN SAID.

HE DECLARED BOTH ARE BOUND TO STRENGTHEN THE INTER-AMERICAN SYSTEM, ESTABLISH AND SUPPORT THE GENERAL INTERNATIONAL ORGANIZATION FOR THE MAINTENANCE OF PEACE AND "TO MAKE EFFECTIVE OUR FERVENT ADHERENCE TO DEMOCRACY AND TO THE PRINCIPLES AND PURPOSES OF THE ATLANTIC CHARTER

"ALL THESE AND OTHER UNDERTAKINGS ARGENTINA AND THE UNITED STATES ASSUME AT CHAPULTEPEC (MEXICO) IN COMPANY WITH FELLOW AMERICAN REPUBLICS."

BRADEN SAID CESAR AMEGHINO, FOREIGN MINISTER OF ARGENTINA, YESTERDAY INFORMED HIM THE ARGENTINA GOVERNMENT WILL UNEQUIVOCALLY MEET ALL THESE OBLIGATIONS.

(END ADVANCE FOR USE AT 9:45 P.M., EASTERN WAR TIME, TONIGHT, TUESDAY, MAY 29)

REFERRING TO ARGENTINA'S DOMESTIC AFFAIRS, BRADEN CALLED ATTENTION TO THE FACT THAT THE UNITED STATES IS BOUND BY TREATY TO A POLICY OF NON-INTERVENTION IN BOTH THE EXTERNAL AND INTERNAL AFFAIRS OF OTHER AMERICAN REPUBLICS.

"IRRESPECTIVE OF WHERE OUR SYMPATHIES MAY LIE, DECISIONS MADE AND COURSES OF ACTION TAKEN BY OTHER COUNTRIES ARE TO BE DETERMINED BY THE PEOPLES THEMSELVES," BRADEN ASSERTED.

"IF AS A RESULT OF THESE DECISIONS, DIFFERENCES OF OPINIONS ARISE X X X THEY ARE TO BE SOLVED THROUGH PEACEFUL PROCESSES, CONSULTATION AND, IF NECESSARY, CONCILIATION AND ARBITRATION THROUGH INTERNATIONAL LAW.

"I DO NOT FOR ONE MOMENT IMPLY, HOWEVER, THAT OUR GOVERNMENT AND ALL THE REST OF US ARE NOT INTERESTED IN THE DEVELOPMENT AND EVENTS IN ARGENTINA. X X X BUT BEYOND A FRIENDLY, PERFECTLY NATURAL CONCERN, THE DOMESTIC AND POLITICAL ISSUES OUTSIDE THE UNITED STATES ARE SOLELY THE AFFAIR OF THE PEOPLE IN THEIR RESPECTIVE COUNTRIES.

"IT IS IN THIS SPIRIT THAT OUR GOVERNMENT AND WE AS INDIVIDUAL CITIZENS RECOGNIZE THE FULL SOVEREIGNTY OF ALL THE NEIGHBORING COUNTRIES IN THIS NEW WORLD. WE KNOW THEY, AND ONLY THEY, CAN MANAGE THEIR OWN AFFAIRS. THEY ALONE CAN DETERMINE THE COURSE THEY WISH TO FOLLOW."

BRADEN SAID THAT "DEMOCRATIC PEOPLES IN THIS HEMISPHERE ESTEEM THE FREE, THE BRAVE AND THE NOBLE" AND THAT THE GREATEST MEASURE OF FRIENDSHIP AND COOPERATION GROWS BETWEEN THOSE NATIONS WHICH POSSESS THESE QUALITIES IN THE LARGEST DEGREE.

MONTEVIDEO, URUGUAY, MAY 29-(AP)-ARGENTINES IN MONTEVIDEO ESTIMATED TODAY THAT BETWEEN 2,500 AND 3,000 POLITICAL PRISONERS NOW WERE BEING HELD IN JAILS AND CONCENTRATION CAMPS IN ARGENTINA, BUT SAID THAT THE TOTAL OCCASIONALLY WAS SWOLLEN TEMPORARILY BY WAVES OF ARRESTS SUCH AS THOSE DURING CELEBRATIONS OVER THE FALL OF BERLIN.

THE PRISONERS, ALMOST WITHOUT EXCEPTION, WERE REPORTED KNOWN FOR THEIR PRO-DEMOCRATIC IDEAS AND ACTIVITIES.

(350) WASHINGTON,MAY 29-(AP)-THE FOLLOWING IS THE TEXT OF DIRECTOR OF CENSORSHIP BYRON PRICE'S ANNOUNCEMENT OF THE DISCONTINUANCE OF IMPORT AND EXPORT CENSORSHIP OF MOTION PICTURES:

JUNE 9, 1945, CENSORSHIP OF MOTION PICTURES, INCLUDING NEWSREELS, WILL BE PUT ON A VOLUNTARY BASIS. IN DECIDING TO DISCONTINUE ITS PRESENT COMPULSORY CONTROLS, OVER IMPORTED AND EXPORTED FILMS, THE OFFICE OF CENSORSHIP HAS BEEN INFLUENCED BY MANY CONSIDERATIONS, BUT TWO OF THEM ARE DOMINANT. THE FIRST IS THAT THE END OF THE EUROPEAN WAR PERMITS A GENERZL READJUSTMENT OPGJMVBRSHIP POLICIES, HAVING IN MIND THE LESSENED RISK TO OUR NATIONAL SECURITY

FILMS, THE OFFICE OF CENSORSHIP HAS BEEN INFLUENCED BY MANY CONSIDERATIONS, BUT TWO OF THEM ARE DOMINANT. THE FIRST IS THAT THE END OF THE EUROPEAN WAR PERMITS A GENERAL READ

JUSTMENT OF CENSORSHIP POLICIES, HAVING IN MIND THE LESSENED RISK TO OUR NATIONAL SECURITY AND THE NEED FOR ECONOMY IN PUBLIC EXPENDITURES. THE SECOND IS THE RECORD OF THE INDUSTRY ITSELF, WHICH HAS SHOWN A SPLENDID UNDERSTANDING OF CENSORSHIP PRINCIPLES AND AN EARNEST AND LOYAL READINESS TO COOPERATE. THIS RECORD HAS MERITED CLEARLY THE TRUST AND CONFIDENCE WHICH MUST PROVIDE THE FOUNDATION FOR VOLUNTARY CENSORSHIP.

IN ACCEPTING THE TASK OF SEEING TO IT THAT OUR NATIONAL SECURITY IS CONSIDERED IN MAKING EVERY MOTION PICTURE, THE INDUSTRY WILL HAVE TWO SPECIAL GUIDES. THE FIRST WILL BE THE SECURITY CODE WHICH IT WILL SHARE WITH PRESS AND RADIO, BOTH OF WHICH ARE ALSO DOING THEIR OWN CENSORING. THE SECOND WILL BE THE MOTION PICTURE CENSORSHIP CODE, WHICH NOW CEASES TO BE A SET OF LEGAL REGULATIONS BUT WHICH SHOULD CONTINUE TO BE A HELPFUL REFERENCE IN MAKING VOLUNTARY DECISIONS.

IT SHOULD BE MADE CLEAR THAT IN ESTABLISHING THIS VOLUNTARY ARRANGEMENT THE OFFICE OF CENSORSHIP CONTINUES TO RECOGNIZE ITS OWN RESPONSIBILITY UNDER WARTIME LAWS. IT DOES NOT SEEK TO ESCAPE THAT RESPONSIBILITY BY DELEGATING ITS POWERS TO ANY PRIVATE GROUP OR ANY OTHER GOVERNMENT AGENCY. IT DOES NOT, HOWEVER, FORESEE A NEED FOR USING THOSE POWERS SINCE THEY WOULD BE EXERCISED ONLY TO INTERVENE IF THE SUCCESS OF VOLUNTARY CENSORSHIP BECAME IMPERILLED FROM ANY SOURCE.

WITH THIS CHANGE IN CENSORSHIP POLICY, THE FILM BOARDS OF REVIEW AT BOTH LOS ANGELES AND NEW YORK WILL BE DISCONTINUED. IF EXPERIENCE SHOWS THAT THE FILM INDUSTRY STILL REQUIRES THE CENSORSHIP COUNSEL WHICH THESE BOARDS HAVE PROVIDED AS PART OF THEIR FUNCTIONS, THE PROBLEM WILL BE FACED WHEN IT ARISES. IT IS NOT MY INTENTION THAT THE INDUSTRY BE DENIED ANY ASSISTANCE WHICH THIS OFFICE MAY PROPERLY GIVE IT.

MONTREAL, MAY 29-(AP)-PROFESSOR LOUIS ROUGIER, WHO SAYS HE NEGOTIATED AN AGREEMENT BETWEEN THE VICHY AND LONDON GOVERNMENTS IN 1940, SAID IN AN INTERVIEW HERE TODAY THAT A BOOK WHICH HE HAS WRITTEN ON THE SUBJECT HAS AS ITS ONLY OBJECT "TO FAVOR FRENCH RECONCILIATION."

ROUGIER WAS IN MONTREAL ON THE OCCASION OF THE PUBLICATION OF HIS BOOK PRINTED BY A MONTREAL PUBLISHING FIRM.

THE BOOK, ENTITLED "ACCORDS PETAIN-CHURCHILL," DEALS WITH A MISSION WHICH HE SAYS HE ACCOMPLISHED IN THE FALL OF 1940 ON BEHALF OF THE VICHY AND LONDON GOVERNMENTS. THE BOOK, HE SAYS, RELATES THAT THE AGREEMENT WAS ADHERED TO UNTIL MARSHAL PETAIN BECAME A PRISONER.

"THERE CAN BE NO REAL RECONCILIATION IN FRANCE WITHOUT THE TRUTH," ROUGIER SAID.

"MY BOOK CONTAINS DOCUMENTS WHICH HAVE REMAINED UNTIL TODAY UNKNOWN BY THE FRENCH PUBLIC AS WELL AS THE ENGLISH, AMERICAN AND CANADIAN PUBLIC. THE TIME HAS COME TO REVEAL THEM AND AT THE SAME TIME SERVE THE TRUTH WHICH WILL BE THE FOUNDATION OF THE FRENCH RECONCILIATION."

"FRENCHMEN AND THE PUBLIC AT LARGE MUST BE MADE TO KNOW THAT ONE OF ADOLF HITLER'S GREATEST MISTAKES WAS TO GIVE FRANCE AN ARMISTICE AND THAT THIS ARMISTICE HAS WON THE WAR," ROUGIER ADDED.

"EVERY ONE ALSO MUST KNOW THAT THE SO-CALLED VICHY COLLABORATION WAS OFTEN THE MASK OF RESISTANCE. IF MARSHAL PETAIN HAD WANTED TO COLLADORATE, HE WOULD HAVE CEDED THE FLEET TO THE GERMANS."

EXCEPTION TODAY TO REPORTED STATEMENTS BY CREWMEN OF THE RAF "ARIES" THAT THEIR EXPLORATIONS RECENTLY HAD FOUND THE MAGNETIC NORTH POLE TO BE 200 TO 300 MILES NORTH-NORTHWEST OF WHERE IT PREVIOUSLY WAS BELIEVED TO BE.

A GROUP OF MEMBERS OF THE CANADIAN MINES AND RESOURCES DEPARTMENT ISSUED A STATEMENT SAYING THE LOCATION OF THE POLE [redacted] "AS SHOWN ON MAPS ISSUED BY THE DEPARTMENT IS BASED ON INVESTIGATIONS AND NUMEROUS OBSERVATIONS OVER MANY YEARS AND IS UNDOUBTEDLY CORRECT."

THE SCIENTISTS' STATEMENT SAID THE MAGNETIC POLE WAS LOCATED ON BOOTHIA PENINSULA AND WAS AN AREA WHICH MIGHT SHIFT AS MUCH AS 100 MILES DURING A SEVERE MAGNETIC STORM, BUT THAT A SINGLE SERIES OF [redacted] OBSERVATIONS TAKEN FROM A PLANE IN FLIGHT WOULD NOT PROVIDE CONCLUSIVE EVIDENCE OF ANY DEFINITE CHANGE IN THE POSITION OF THE [redacted] MAGNETIC POLE.

MAY 30 1945

THE REPORT ON WHICH THE CANADIANS BASED THEIR REBUTTAL SAID THE CREW OF THE [redacted] ARIES HAD LOCATED THE MAGNETIC POLE IN AN AREA OF ABOUT 100 SQUARE MILES IN THE SVERDRUP ISLANDS, 1,500 MILES FROM THE GEOGRAPHICAL NORTH POLE. THIS LOCATION WAS ESTABLISHED BY A MEA "DIP" OF 89 DEGREES REGISTERED ON COMPLICATED INSTRUMENTS, BUT THE CANADIANS CONTENDED SUCH A "DIP COULD OCCUR ANYWHERE IN AN AREA 600 MILE LONG AND 200 WIDE.

NEWS FREEDOM (500)

SAN FRANCISCO, MAY 29-(AP)-THE UNITED STATES IS PLANNING NEW MOVES TO PROMOTE WORLD-WIDE NEWS FREEDOM, BASING THM ON A GENERAL FREE SPEECH DECLARATION SLATED FOR ADOPTION BY THE UNITED NATIONS CONFERENCE.

FREEDOM OF SPEECH IS ONE OF THE FOUR FREEDOMS FROM THE ATLANTIC CHARTER WHICH IS BEING WRITTEN INTO THE CHARTER OF A WORLD ORGANIZAT-ION. ITS MEANING WAS INTERPRETED BY SECRETARY OF STATE STETTINIUS IN HIS WRITTEN REPORT TO THE NATION LAST NIGHT ON THE WORK OF THE CONFERENCE, ALTHOUGH IN DELIVERY THE PASSAGE WAS OMITTED TO SAVE TIME.

"FREEDOM OF SPEECH," THE SECRETARY SAID, "ENCOMPASSES FREEDOM OF THE PRESS, FREEDOM OF INFORMATION AND FREEDOM OF COMMUNICATIONS."

ORIGINALLY, STETTINIUS PLANNED TO SEEK HERE A DETAILED AGREEMENT AMONG THE UNITED NATIONS ON PRINCIPLES OF NEWS FREEDOM. HIS ADVISERS HAD SOME THOUGHT THAT HE MIGHT USE THE PAN-AMERICAN RESOLUTION ADOPTED

AT MEXICO CITY IN MARCH AS A BASIS FOR CALLING XOR A PROMPT END THROUGHOUT THE GLOBE TO WARTIME CENSORSHIP, AND PLEDGING THE AMERICAN GOVERNMENTS "TO PROMOTE A FREE EXCHANGE OF INFORMATION AMONG THEIR PEOPLES."

PLANS TO HAVE AN EQUALLY DETAILED STATEMENT ADOPTED HERE HIT TWO SNAGS: (1) THE UNITED STATES DELEGATION DECIDED THE CHARTER SHOULD BE LIMITED TO GENERAL STATEMENTS OF PRINCIPLE RATHER THAN TO EXACT GUARANTEES OF SPECIFIC RIGHTS, IN ORDER TO GET MAXIMUM AGREEMENT ON THE SUBJECT QUICKLY; (2) THE DELEGATION AND ITS ADVISERS ALSO DOUBTED WHETHER RUSSIA WOULD ACCEPT AT THIS TIME ANY OTHER THAN VAGUE GENERALIZATIONS ON THE EXCHANGE OF NEWS.

STETTINIUS SET FORTH HIS PERSONAL VIEWS EARLIER THIS MONTH IN A PUBLIC LETTER TO A GROUP OF EDITORS AND WRITERS. HE SAID HE HOPED THE CONFERENCE WOULD, AS SLATED, ORDER CREATION OF A COMMISSION ON HUMAN RIGHTS TO CARRY FORWARD THE WORK OF EXPANDING AND WINNING ADHERENCE TO THE BASIC PRINCIPLES PROVIDED IN THE CHARTER.

"YOU MAY REST ASSURED," HE WROTE, "THAT WHEN SUCH A COMMISSION IS ESTABLISHED, I WOULD EARNESTLY URGE, ON BEHALF OF THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT, THAT IT SHOULD EXAMINE MEANS OF PROMOTING FREEDOM OF COMMUNICATIONS, FREEDOM TO TRAVEL AND FREEDOM OF ACCESS TO SOURCES OF KNOWLEDGE AND OF INFORMATION."

A15UN

LONG BEFORE SUCH A COMMISSION COULD BE SET UP AND PRODUCE ANY CONCRETE STATEMENTS, HOWEVER, THE UNITED STATES MAY UNDERTAKE IN SPECIAL AGREEMENTS WITH OTHER GOVERNMENTS TO CLEAR THE CHANNELS OF INFORMATION AMONG NATIONS. IN SUCH AGREEMENTS, THE UNITED STATES WOULD SEEK THE SAME FREEDOM OF OPERATIONS FOR AMERICAN REPORTERS ABROAD THAT FOREIGN NEWSMEN ENJOY IN THIS COUNTRY.

THE MEXICO CITY DECLARATION, BRANDING TRUTH AS "THE ENEMY OF TYRANNY," SET FORTH THESE OBJECTIVES OF NEWS FREEDOM IN THIS HEMISPHERE:

1. THAT THE AMERICAN NATIONS "RECOGNIZE THEIR ESSENTIAL OBLIGATION TO GUARANTEE TO THEIR PEOPLE, FREE AND IMPARTIAL ACCESS TO SOURCES OF INFORMATION."
2. THAT THEY PUT AN END TO CENSORSHIP AS QUICKLY AS POSSIBLE.
3. THAT THEY COOPERATE "TO PROMOTE A FREE EXCHANGE OF INFORMATION AMONG THEIR PEOPLES."
4. THAT WHEN A RULE OF LAW PREVAILS THROUGHOUT THE WORLD, THE AMERICS SEEK ESTABLISHMENT OF "THE PRINCIPLE OF FREE TRANSMISSION AND RECEPTION OF INFORMATION, ORAL OR WRITTEN, PUBLISHED IN BOOKS OR BY THE PRESS, BROADCAST BY RADIO OR DISSEMINATED BY ANY OTHER MEANS, UNDER PROPER RESPONSIBILITY AND WITHOUT NEED OF PREVIOUS CENSORSHIP, AS IS THE CASE WITH PRIVATE CORRESPONDENCE BY LETTER, TELEGRAM OR ANY OTHER MEANS IN TIME OF PEACE."

RAW MATERIALS (300)

BY JOHN A.PARRIS,JR.

SAN FRANCISCO,MAY 29-(AP)-CONVINCED THAT EUROPE CAN SURVIVE ONLY THROUGH AN ORGANIZED ECONOMIC SYSTEM, FRANCE IS ASKING THE UNITED NATIONS TO ALLOW ALL COUNTRIES EQUAL ACCESS TO THE RAW MATERIALS OF THE WORLD.

A FRENCH PROPOSAL, AIMED AT ESTABLISHING INTERNATIONAL ECONOMIC AND SOCIAL COOPERATION, PROBABLY WILL BE TAKEN UNDER CONSIDERATION AND DISCUSSED BY A CONFERENCE COMMITTEE TODAY.

FRANCE WANTS A RAW MATERIALS EQUALITY CLAUSE INSERTED IN THE UNITED NATIONS CHARTER AND DELEGATIONS FROM BELGIUM, HOLLAND, LUXEMBOURG AND NORWAY ARE EXPECTED PARTICULARLY TO BACK THE PROPOSAL.

THE QUESTION OF ACCESS TO RAW MATERIALS, THE FRENCH POINT OUT, HAS BEEN AT LEAST PARTLY RESPONSIBLE FOR WORLD WARS I AND II. BOTH GERMANY AND ITALY EXPANDED IN EUROPE AND AFRICA, CLAIMING THEY NEEDED RAW MATERIALS. EUROPEAN ECONOMISTS SAY THE FUTURE PEACE OF THE WORLD WOULD ALWAYS BE UNDER A POSSIBLE THREAT IF SUCH CLAIMS AGAIN WERE POSSIBLE.

THE FRENCH PROPOSAL IS PART OF A WELL-STUDIED PLAN TO ESTABLISH A MUTUAL ECONOMIC SYSTEM IN EUROPE, A SYSTEM ORGANIZED IN SUCH A WAY THAT IT WOULD WIPE OUT THE OLD IDEA THAT ANY STATE CAN BE SELF-SUFFICIENT.

FOR MONTHS FRENCH ECONOMISTS HAVE BEEN STUDYING POST-WAR PROBLEMS, PARTICULARLY IN RELATION TO FRANCE, BUT ALWAYS WITH EUROPE AS A WHOLE IN MIND. THEY HAVE BEEN TRYING TO ASCERTAIN WHAT FRANCE AND EUROPE MUST DO TO GET BACK ON THEIR FEET ECONOMICALLY. THEY BELIEVE THEY HAVE THE ANSWER.

THEY BELIEVE THAT IF EUROPE CAN AGREE ON A COMMON POLITICAL ECONOMY, THEN A EUROPEAN ECONOMIC SYSTEM CAN BE CREATED WHICH WOULD SUPPLY THE NEEDS OF EVERY STATE. SIMPLY, THEY EXPLAIN, IT MEANS THAT ONE EUROPE CAN BE CREATED IN A SPIRIT OF COOPERATION.

THE BIG PROBLEM, MOST ECONOMISTS AGREE IS GOING TO BE IN CONVINCING EACH STATE THAT IT IS NOT SELF-SUFFICIENT.

THERE ARE SOME 20 STATES IN EUROPE THEORETICALLY INDEPENDENT AND SELF-GOVERNING. EACH HAS ACTED AS IF IT WERE ALONE AND, IF NEED BE, -&-8,'5 -)) 5£3 95£34'. NOW THE WAR HAS PROVED, THE ECONOMISTS POINT OUT, THAT NO STA

SPEAKING AT A NEWS CONFERENCE PRIOR TO DEPARTING FOR AUSTRALIAN, VAN MOOK SAID HE HAD NO IDEA WHEN THESE TROOPS WOULD BE READY.

"THE NETHERLANDS WILL BUILD UP FORCES JUST AS SOON AS WE CAN GET THEM EQUIPPED," HE EXPLAINED. "WE WILL NEED ASSISTANCE FROM THE ALLIES. WE CAN PROVIDE THE PERSONNEL AND THE TRANSPORTATION."

HE DECLARED THAT THE LIBERATION OF THE NETHERLANDS INDIES IS "VERY MUCH IN THE FOREFRONT OF OUR THOUGHTS."

"WITH HOLLAND FREED FROM THE GERMAN YOKE," VAN MOOK SAID, "WE ARE DETERMINED TO DO EVERYTHING POSSIBLE TO CONTRIBUTE TO THE WAR AGAINST JAPAN."

VAN MOOK DECLARED THAT "WE ARE EAGER TO PROVIDE TROOPS TO MOP UP POCKETS OF RESISTANCE EVEN AFTER FORMAL CAPITULATION OF JAPAN."

EMPHASIZING THAT HE WAS SPEAKING WITHOUT OFFICIAL INFORMATION, THE DUTCH DIPLOMAT SAID HE BELIEVED THE MAIN ALLIED FORCES MIGHT BE DIRECTED AGAINST JAPAN PROPER FIRST, BY-PASSING THE DUTCH INDIES AND OTHER TERRITORIES IN THE PACIFIC.

"IT IS MY OPINION," HE SAID, "THAT EVEN IF JAPAN PROPER CAPITULATES, JAPANESE GENERALS IN THE FIELD WILL CONTINUE FIGHTING. THAT IS WHERE WE WILL HAVE A JOB TO DO. AND WE ARE PREPARING FOR IT."

VAN MOOK SAID HE WELCOMED THE FACT THAT TRUSTEESHIPS WERE DISCUSSED HERE AT THE UNITED NATIONS CONFERENCE.

"THE IDEA OF TRUSTEESHIPS IS HUMANITARIAN," HE SAID.

HE EXPLAINED, HOWEVER, THERE WERE COUNTRIES STILL CLASSIFIED AS DEPENDENT AREAS WHICH WERE WELL ON THEIR WAY TO SELF-GOVERNMENT. THESE AREAS, HE SAID, COULD NOT BE BROUGHT UNDER TURSTEESHIP.

VAN MOOK SAID HE WAS SPEAKING SPECIFICALLY OF THE DUTCH INDIES WHICH ARE "ON THE ROAD TO SELF-GOVERNMENT" AND WHICH WOULD "CONSIDER IT A BACKWARD STEP IF THEY WERE PLACED UNDER TRUSTEESHIP."

UNDATED LEVANTINE (600)
BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

THE CONTRASTING POSITIONS OF FRANCE AND THE LEVANTINE COUNTRIES ON QUESTIONS WHICH HAVE LED TO STRIFE IN SYRIA AND LEBANON WERE SET FORTH IN DETAIL YESTERDAY (TUES).

THE FRENCH CABINET WAS TOLD BY FOREIGN MINISTER GEORGES BIDAULT THAT FRANCE INTENDS TO GIVE BOTH COUNTRIES COMPLETE INDEPENDENCE BUT WILL INSIST UPON A GUARANTEE OF HER CULTURAL, ECONOMIC AND STRATEGIC INTERESTS THERE.

SEVERAL HOURS AFTER HE OUTLINED THE FRENCH POSITION IN PARIS, THE SYRIAN AND LEBANESE LEGATIONS IN LONDON ISSUED A "JOINT STATEMENT SAYING THAT FRANCE WAS PRESENTING DEMANDS WHICH HAD NEVER

MAY 30 1945

BEFORE BEEN MENTIONED AND WHICH NEVER WOULD BE ACCEPTED.

THE FRENCH PRESS AGENCY, REPORTING BIDAULT'S REMARKS, SAID THIS IS THE FRENCH POSITION:

"IT IS KNOWN THAT SYRIA AND LEBANON ARE JURIDICALLY UNDER A MANDATE CONFERRED ON FRANCE AND THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS. UNTIL SUCH A TIME AS AN INTERNATIONAL DECISION PERMITS FRANCE TO REVOKE THIS MANDATE, THE FRENCH GOVERNMENT HAS RECOGNIZED THE COMPLETE INDEPENDENCE OF SYRIA AND LEBANON ON CONDITION THAT IT CAN MAINTAIN TROOPS WHICH ARE NECESSARY FOR MAINTAINING ORDER.

"CONCERNING THE FUTURE THE DESIRES OF FRANCE ARE VERY SIMPLE: SHE WIS

"CONCERNING THE FUTURE THE DESIRES OF FRANCE ARE VERY SIMPLE: SHE WISHES TO COMPLETE DEFINITELY THE INDEPENDENCE OF THE LEBANESE AND SYRIAN TERRITORIES BY WITHDRAWING ALL GARRISON TROOPS WHICH ARE THERE. HOWEVER, FRANCE INSISTS THAT A CERTAIN NUMBER OF QUESTIONS WHICH SEEM TO HER ESSENTIAL SHOULD BE SETTLED WITH THE SYRIAN AND LEBANESE GOVERNMENTS.

"FIRST OF ALL, SHE INSISTS ON THE ASSURED PROTECTION OF THE CULTURAL INTERESTS IN THOSE COUNTRIES OF FRENCH INFLUENCE WHERE SHE HAS CREATED MANY SCHOOLS. SHE DESIRES THE STATUTES, LIBERTIES AND RIGHTS OF SUCH ESTABLISHMENTS BE RECOGNIZED, ENSURED AND PROTECTED AFTER THE DEPARTURE OF HER TROOPS.

"FURTHER, SHE WISHES AN AGREEMENT TO BE DRAWN UP THAT WILL GUARANTEE HER ECONOMIC INTERESTS. IT IS KNOWN THAT ACCORDING TO THE TERMS OF TREATIES THAT BROUGHT AN END TO THE 1918 WAR FRANCE RECEIVED AN IMPORTANT SHARE OF THE MOSUL OIL. THIS OIL IS SENT TO FRANCE BY TANKERS LOADED IN SYRIA, WHICH IS CROSSED BY A PIPELINE THE PROTECTION OF WHICH MUST BE ENSURED.

A96

"FINALLY, FRANCE INTENDS TO ENSURE THE GUARANTEE OF HER STRATEGIC INTERESTS SO THAT THE AIR BASES OF SYRIA AND LEBANON CAN BE UTILIZED ON THE FRANCE-FAR EAST LINE AND SHE ALSO WISHES HER NAVY TO BE ABLE TO PUT IN AT CERTAIN PORTS."

THE DISPATCH SAID FRANCE HAD TOLD THE TWO COUNTRIES SHE WAS READY TO COME TO AN AGREEMENT, BUT THE TWO GOVERNMENTS HAD REFUSED SUCH DISCUSSION. AT THE SAME TIME FRANCE FOUND IT NECESSARY TO REPLACE TWO BATTALIONS THERE.

"MISCHIEVOUS PROPAGANDA DISTORTED THE INFORMATION," THE BROADCAST CONCLUDED, "AND HAS LED TO THE BELIEF THAT FRANCE WAS RESORTING TO INTIMIDATION AND BLACKMAIL HOPING TO GAIN BY FORCE AND THREATS WHAT SHE BELIEVED SHE COULD NOT OBTAIN BY NEGOTIATION. THIS OPINION IS INCORRECT AND IS BELIEF BY THE FRENCH ATTITUDE."

THE JOINT SYRIAN AND LEBANON STATEMENT SAID:

"THE PRESENT SITUATION IS BUT ONE CHAPTER IN A LONG DISPUTE WHICH STARTED 25 YEARS AGO. THE MOST VOLUMINOUS FILES OF THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS ARE PROBABLY THOSE WHICH CONTAIN THE PROTESTS OF SYRIA AND LEBANON AGAINST THE ACTIONS OF FRANCE.

"IT WAS HOPED THAT THE PROCLAMATION OF THE ALLIED NATIONS ON SYRIAN AND LEBANON INDEPENDENCE IN 1941 WOULD END THIS LONG DISPUTE. THE FRENCH, HOWEVER, HAVE REPEATEDLY TRIED TO PREVENT SYRIA AND LEBANON FROM EXERTING THEIR RIGHTS OOF INDPENDENCE AND OF SOVEREIGNTY. NOW FRANCE IS PRESENTING DEMANDS WHICH HAD NEVER BEEN MENTIONED BEFORE. THE ANSWER OF THE SYRIAN AND LEBANESE PEOPLES AND GOVERNMENTS IS THAT THEY WILL NEVER ACCEPT SUCH DEMANDS."

THE STATEMENT TOLD OF CLAHSES IN SYRIA AND SAID THE SITUATION WAS BECOMING INCREASINGLY SERIOUS AND THAT CONSEQUENCES COULD NOT BE FORESEEN UNLESS FRANCE MODIFIED HER POSITION.

Shuri Castle Captured by Marines, Japanese Survivors Are Encircled; Allied Troops Asked to Quit Iran

MAY 31 1945

JAPS CONTINUING FANATICAL FIGHT FROM CAVE FORTS

Weather Holds Down Both American and Japanese Air Forces.

REAR GUARD ACTION

Stars and Bars of Confederacy Raised by Marines Over Castle.

By LEIF ERICKSON

GUAM, Thursday, May 31—(AP) Leathernecks of the First Marine division raised the American flag over Okinawa's Shuri castle at 1:45 p.m. yesterday. Old Glory went up as Marines on the west flank and doughboys on the east moved to encircle Japanese survivors in the moated medieval fortress.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz reported today that Marines of Maj. Gen. Pedro A. Del Valle's First division strengthened and built up their positions in the castle ruins, first reached Tuesday in a swift dash by Company A of the Fifth regiment, led by Capt. Julius Dusberry of Charlotte, N. C.

On the west flank, Maj. Gen. Lemuel C. Shepherd Jr.'s Sixth Marine division veterans pushed southeastward from occupied Naha toward the Kokuba river, which empties into Naha harbor. Nearly all of Naha, blasted capital of Okinawa, is in Yank hands.

On the east flank Maj. Gen. Archibald V. Arnold's seventh Infantry division, driving westward, captured high ground near the town of Yonawa, near American held Yonabaru harbor.

The objective on both flanks is to close a circle about a mile south of Shuri castle to compress the enemy garrison ordered to hold the fortress. Many troops and civilians have been observed leaving Shuri for points south.

The most westerly patrols of the Seventh Infantry division were near Chan, about a mile due south of Shuri. Forward elements of the Seventh infantry and the Sixth Marine divisions were only about two miles from an encircling link-up.

Broadin Holdings

Capture of Yonawa served to broaden the Seventh infantry holdings along the east coast. Advance units were more than two miles west of the town.

Northeast of Shuri castle, rock-walled fortress which housed the 16th century kings of the Ryukyus the Japanese continued fanatical resistance against the 77th and 96th Infantry divisions.

Strong combat patrols of the First Marine division were reported probing through the western sector of Shuri town, which, like Naha, was reduced to rubble in the weeks-long American pounding from land, sea and air.

Mud and rain still hampered ground operations and posed a severe supply problem for forward elements.

Admiral Nimitz said the poor flying weather reduced Japanese aircraft activity. Several isolated raids were made Tuesday, resulting in damage to two light units of the American fleet. Eight Japanese planes were shot down during the day.

Carrier planes attacked targets in the Sakishima group of the southern Ryukyus and the Amami islands in the northern part of the chain on Tuesday.

Search planes of Fleet Air Wing One sank or damaged three small cargo ships in Korean waters Tuesday night and Wednesday. A twin-engined transport plane was shot down near Honshu island by a naval search plane of Fleet Air Wing 18.

Collapse Near

American 10th Army troops exploiting the collapse of the Japanese line on Okinawa sliced through enemy rear areas today with the south coast of the island in sight.

The Seventh Infantry division's thrust southward from Ozato Mura heights, combined with the dramatic dash into Shuri castle by Fifth regiment units of the First Marine division, heightened the pace of battle despite heavy rains and clinging mud.

While Fifth Regiment Marines penetrated Shuri castle Tuesday in a lightning flank move, units of the Sixth Marine division in Naha crossed the canal bisecting the city to smash Japanese resistance in the eastern district. This move virtually completed conquest of Okinawa's capital.

The Seventh division strike southeast coast. Lt. Col. Jackson Gillis, of Hollywood, Cali., member of the division's staff, said that half of the remainder of southern Okinawa in Japanese hands should be occupied by the Yanks within a week.

Relatively light resistance encountered by the Seventh indicates that the bulk of the Nipponese defenders are still holding out in the Shuri sector, center of the shattered Japanese line, despite withdrawal efforts.

The Marine dash into ancient Shuri castle was made by Company "A", first battalion of the Fifth regiment and not "C" company as reported yesterday in American fleet headquarters' communique, said Vern Haugland, Associated Press correspondent at the front.

The Devildogs' dash into the 16th century castle from the left flank was made over a mile of deep mud, but nevertheless was speedy enough to catch some of the Japanese defenders bathing in the moat.

Col. John Griebel, Oxford, Md., Fifth regiment commander, said the remainder of the First battalion moved in behind "A" company. The battalion apparently is maintaining its hold on the pile of rubble.

Maj. Gen. Pedro Del Valle, commander of the First Marine division, expressed astonishment at the swiftness of his Leathernecks' thrust into the castle under existing weather and terrain difficulties, said Al Dopking, Associated Press correspondent with the division.

The Marines left their armor and supply vehicles behind them in Asato town in their quick push across draws which had stood between them and the castle for the past two weeks. They passed Shuri barracks without much fighting, and asked Del Valle for permission to strike toward the castle.

"Of course I gave it to them," Del Valle said.

Raise Star and Bars

Capt. Julius D. Dusenberry, Charlotte, N. C., led his "A" company into the ruins and quickly raised the stars and bars of the southern confederacy over the beaten walls, as he and his outfit had done on Peleliu island.

Japanese defenders entrenched north and northeast of Shuri castle were still putting up a stiff fight on an arc facing some of the First Marine division elements and the 77th and 96th Infantry divisions.

Apparently the Nipponese were trying to hold open an escape corridor running southeast from Shuri. With a decent break in the weather 10th Army troops likely could completely encircle the survivors of the Shuri garrison. They appear to be the main enemy force left on Okinawa.

Marines Reach Jap Keystone On Okinawa

AMCON

Guam, May 30 (AP)—American Marines have penetrated rock-walled Shuri Castle, sixteenth century fortress and keystone of Japanese defense on Okinawa which withstood attack for eighteen days, as gains elsewhere led to the prediction half the remainder of the island would fall within a week.

Vern Haugland, Associated Press war correspondent, reported from the front that Company C Marines of the 5th Regiment, 1st Division, spearheaded their battalion's advance on Shuri and entered the castle yesterday after surprising Japanese defenders swimming in the moat.

By midmorning, Col. John H. Griebel, regimental commander, of Hartford, Conn., reported the entire first battalion had reached the castle. Griebel reported resistance only from rifle and light mortar fire during the advance.

Other elements of the 5th Regiment advanced southeast from the Asato village area toward the Naha-Yonabaru highway, which runs east and west south of Shuri and which already has been cut at its eastern end by the 7th Infantry.

Almost All Naha Taken

Sixth Division Marines virtually completed investing of Okinawa's capital city, Naha, moving eastward across the Naha Canal. They met stiff opposition as the Japanese fought back fiercely among the Christian cemetery tombstones in the southeast part of the city.

The 22d Regiment seized all of the city north of the harbor, except for scattered pockets.

Considerable artillery fire was directed on the advancing Marines from Kobakura Hill, across the harbor.

DAY

Correspondent Alva N. Dopking, with the 6th Division, reported the harbor was "clogged" with sunken Japanese ships. He counted the superstructures of a dozen small vessels, two large freighters and other craft sticking out of the water.

The once-beautiful city of 66,600 population was nothing but a heap of rubble.

Battle North Of Shuri

Japanese in the area north of Fortress Shuri also stubbornly resisted.

Haugland reported the first regiment of the 1st Marine Division was able to gain but slightly as it moved down Wana ridge into the valley northwest of Shure "against bitter defenses."

The 77th and 96th army divisions, north and west of Shuri, found the Japanese line still firm, Haugland said, and failed to make gains.

Thus, although the garrison in and around Shuri seemed to be withdrawing, the shell-torn medieval structure still remained the center of the strongest Japanese resistance on the island.

On the extreme eastern flank, the 7th Infantry Division again extended its positions south of Yonabaru, moving southward approximately a mile to kill 250 Japanese and capture heights overlooking the remains of Karadera, 2 miles southeast of Yonabaru. Japanese suicide swimmers, carrying explosives, tried to attack near Yonabaru but all were killed in the water.

Patrols Reach Saskiki

Other 7th Division patrols reached Sashiki, below Baten Bay at the base of Chinen Peninsula, and fanned south to isolate the peninsula.

Directly south of Shuri, 7th Division units pushed south of Chan, where a number of mud-mired enemy guns and vehicles were destroyed, to high hills a mile distant overlooking the south shore of the island.

Lieut. Col. Jackson Gillis, member of Maj. Gen. Archibald V. Arnold's 7th Division staff, said the patrols were within sight of the southern shore of Okinawa and would reach it today.

"We should see considerable gains in the next three days," Gillis, former New York and Hollywood actor, said. "I believe we will take at least half of what's left of southern Okinawa within a week."

One U.S. Ship Damaged

Admiral Chester W. Nimitz's communique today, telling of the broad gains, also reported further Japanese air strikes against American shipping at Okinawa. One light unit of the fleet was damaged.

The count of enemy planes destroyed in the vicious raid Sunday night and Monday morning, meantime, was raised from 77 to 115 on the basis of complete information. That assault, the most destructive yet launched against the United States fleet there, sank one light unit and damaged twelve others.

Search planes of Fleet Air Wing 1 sank three Japanese cargo ships in Korean waters Tuesday. United States planes have sunk 92,620 tons of enemy shipping and damaged 84,680 tons more in that vital sea route in the past six weeks.

Eden Tells Commons Situation in Damascus Has Become Serious.

WASHINGTON WORRIED

Identical Notes Sent to America, Russia and England by Iran.

TEHERAN, May 30.—(AP) With the European war ended, Iran has demanded that the United States, Britain and Russia live up to their agreement to remove all troops from the country, it was announced today.

The tripartite treaty by which Allied forces operated in Iran stipulated that they would leave within six months after hostilities ceased, and Iranian authorities viewed the period as dating from the German surrender.

Foreign Minister Sepahbodi told the Iranian parliament that identical notes had been sent to the Big Three Allied powers.

"We demanded that in view of cessation of European hostilities and in order to restore a normal situation in this country, British, American and Russian troops evacuate Iran," he reported.

Russian and British troops entered the rich oil country of Iran Sept. 19, 1941, after joint notes had been sent to the Iranian government protesting against the activities of Nazi agents in the country.

Reza Shah Pahlavi rejected the protests and refused to surrender or expel all Axis nationals. He abdicated Sept. 16 in favor of his son, Shaphur Mohammed Reza, an three days later British and Russian armies drove in from the north and the south.

Americans joined in sending forces to Iran in 1942, when lend-lease supplies began moving across Iran to Russia, and for the next two years a stream of tanks, trucks, and aircraft poured into the Soviet Union by the Persian gulf route.

Recall Big Three Pledge

The Big Three meeting at Teheran in 1943 pledged post-war economic aid to Iran and agreed upon the "maintenance, sovereignty and territorial integrity of Iran."

The Americans began liquidating their Persian gulf command as long ago as January after a shorter supply line to Russia was opened through the Dardanelles and the Black sea, but American military railway service troops lingered. As much as 4,380,430 tons of war equipment had been shipped by

Iran Demands Allied Forces Withdraw

Tehran, May 30 (AP)—The Iran Government has demanded the withdrawal of all British, United States and Russian troops from Iran.

Iran's Foreign Minister, Sepah Bodi, informed Parliament that identical notes had been sent to the British, American and Soviet embassies, in which "we demanded that, in view of the cessation of European hostilities and in order to restore a normal situation in the country, British, American and Russian troops evacuate Iran."

Article 5 of the Russian-British-Iran Treaty of 1941 stipulated that Allied forces would leave Iran within six months after the cessation of hostilities.

Jackson Pleased With War-Trial Conferences

London, May 30 (AP)—The Moscow radio said tonight that Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov had been named Russian representative on the Allied Control Commission for Germany.

Moscow said the appointment completed the membership of the control commission which included General Eisenhower for the United States, Field Marshal Montgomery for Great Britain, and Gen. Jean de Lattre de Tassigny for France.

London, May 30 (AP) — Justice Robert H. Jackson, United States special prosecutor for war criminals, departed today for consultations in Washington, but left a statement saying he hoped to return "in about two weeks with a sufficient staff to carry our share of the work involved."

He said his conferences with British officials were aimed at coordinating the preparation of cases to avoid "unnecessary duplication of effort" and emphasized that the talks had shown no "substantial difference of opinion on procedure."

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden told Commons that "very great progress" had been made during Jackson's consultations.

16 Nations Represented

Representatives of sixteen United Nations will discuss the procedure for trial of war criminals at a meeting here tomorrow. Lord Wright, chairman of the International War Crimes Commission, will preside. Lieut. Col. Joseph Hodgson, a commission member, will represent the United States.

Professor Rene Cassin, vice president of the French Council of States, arrived here today to represent France. Britain will be represented by Sir David Maxwell-Fyfe.

He said that relations between the Russians and the local Danish authorities were cordial. When the Russians landed on Bornholm on May 9, their commander issued a statement "to the effect that the island had been occupied by Soviet forces provisionally until questions of Germany relating to the war were solved," Mr. Eden said.

He disclosed that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower had known of and approved the Russian occupation beforehand. General Eisenhower had intended to send an Allied force to Bornholm to accept the surrender of the German forces there, but before doing so he asked the Russians on May 8 whether it would interfere with their plans.

Mr. Eden said that the Russians had replied that, 'in view of the fact that the Germans [on Bornholm] were within the sphere of operation of Soviet armed forces and that the commander of the German garrison had requested assistance with food, the island was being occupied by Soviet forces."

Asked whether he was aware of Swedish anxiety over the Russian occupation, Mr. Eden said that he "knew nothing" of such anxiety. Bornholm is only twenty-two miles southeast of the Swedish coast.

11 Of 15 American Bases In Britain Are Closed

London, May 30 (AP) — The redeployment of United States Navy amphibious forces from Europe to the Pacific is progressing swiftly.

Eleven of the fifteen main American bases in the United Kingdom have been closed or are being decommissioned, it was announced today from headquarters of Commodore Virgil E. Korns, commander of United States Navy ports and bases here.

Maintenance Bases

The United States bases once were strung from Land's End in Cornwall to the London docks. The four remaining in commission are big ship maintenance and repair bases at Plymouth, Falmouth, Southampton and Exeter.

It was disclosed that the famous Royal Navy College at Dartmouth had been turned over to the Americans for headquarters for LCI's (landing craft infantry). Coast Guard cutters which served as a rescue flotilla off the Normandy beaches were based at Poole. The largest American base in England was at Weymouth, from where 500,000 troops and 200,000 vehicles were [illegible]atched to France.

U.S. Comment Disturbs Labor

London, Thursday, May 31 (AP)—The Laborite Daily Herald asserted today that a "campaign against the Labor movement is being conducted in the United States" by certain newspapers which, it said, apparently feared a Labor victory in Britain would lessen British participation in the Japanese war.

Declaring that "the British Labor movement is resolved to pursue the 'war against Japan with utmost vigor" the Herald, organ of the Labor party, said that Labor's determination in this respect had been expressed repeatedly by party statements and the utterances of its leaders.

New York Chicago Papers

In mentioning "disturbing" United States newspaper comment, the Herald said:

"For example, the New York newspaper PM reports 'a strong rumor that the Left Wing in Britain speaks of the Japanese war as an imperialist war which they cannot support.'

"The Chicago Daily News goes further. It says, 'Most Americans will interpret a Churchill victory as a guarantee that Britain will go through with the Japanese business to the bitter end. We wish we could be as sure of the intentions of other British politicians, but candor compels the admission that we are not so sure at this time.'

Source Adds To Surprise

"Neither of those newspapers belongs to the section of the American press which delights in disturbing Anglo-American relations, nor has either shown hitherto a desire to intervene in British domestic politics.

"Their remarks are therefore as disturbing as they are bewildering. What is the source of these innuendoes? Who started this dangerous mischief, and why?"

The Herald observed that the Labor party conference at Blackpool pledged the party to support in every way the war against Japan and quoted Laborite A. V. Alexander, former First Lord of the Admiralty, as saying, "There is no party that would not be 100 per cent in support of the most ruthless prosecution of the war against Japan."

DAVIES ENDS LONDON TALKS

But Only Big Three Can Break Deadlock, Is View

London, May 30 (AP)—Joseph E. Davies, President Truman's special envoy, completed a series of conferences in London today amid increased indications that only a meeting of the "Big Three" could break deadlocks on European questions confronting the United States, Russia and Britain.

A meeting of the leaders of the three countries was expected to be held shortly after the San Francisco conference, which is expected to close June 6.

Davies said he would fly to Paris tomorrow for a meeting with Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and then return directly to Washington to report to the President on the results of his conferences.

Talks With Gusev

During the day he and United States Ambassador John G. Winant conferred with Soviet Ambassador Fyodor Gusev, concluding three days of conferences with Prime Minister Churchill, Foreign Minister Anthony Eden and other members of the British Government. The discussions included a wide range of subjects preparatory to a meeting of Truman, Churchill and Marshal Stalin.

Reports from Moscow said that Harry Hopkins, in the Soviet capital on another special mission for Truman, had had highly satisfactory conversations on a wide range of subjects with Stalin and high Russian officials.

"Disquieting" Issues

In Commons, Eden today avoided a full-dress discussion of foreign issues, but the Foreign Minister clearly indicated that little progress had been made since his return from the San Francisco world security conference two weeks ago when he said there were a number of "serious and disquieting" issues facing the Big Three.

Two new problems disturbing the international scene have arisen since then—threat of revolt in the Levant through the landing of new French troops in Syria and Lebanon and British and American difficulties with Marshal Tito, who has Moscow's sympathy in the Yugoslav occupation of Trieste.

United On Two Issues

Britain and America are reportedly standing united on two of the main issues—Poland and Austria.

Eden frankly told Commons today that the next move in both questions was up to Moscow. He said the British Government was still awaiting further information regarding sixteen Polish leaders arrested by the Russians and accused of attempting sabotage against the Red Army.

The Foreign Secretary also said that Britain had no intention of recognizing the Austrian provisional government of Dr. Karl Renner until the British section of the Allied commission in Austria had a chance at "seeing for itself."

Trieste Still In Discussion

Eden asserted that the Allied commision "should be in Vienna" and expressed hope that "before long obstacles in this matter would be removed and we should have representatives there."

The Russians liberated the Austrian capital and though there has been no official announcement of Soviet recognition of the Renner regime its formation was first announced by the Moscow radio.

Eden said negotiations were "still proceeding" with Tito over Trieste but he gave no details.

As to the situation in Greece, Eden said that it had improved considerably and that the present Greek Government "in spite of considerable provocation from both extreme Left and extreme Right" forces was "doing its best to re-establish democratic principles in Greece and to prepare for a plebiscite and an election as soon as the necessary machinery can be created."

PROGRESS SEEN ON WAR TRIALS

Eden Cites Results Of Talks With Justice Jackson

London, May 30 (AP)—Foreign

MAY 31 1945

30.24-27129

Secretary Anthony Eden said today that "very great progress" had been made in arranging for trials of German war prisoners as a result of conversations with Supreme Court Justice Robert Jackson, special United States prosecutor.

Jackson, after completing a preliminary two-day survey of the work of the War Crimes Commission here and talking with Allied officials on the Continent, left for consultations in Washington. He said he hoped to return "in about two weeks with a sufficient staff to carry our share of the work involved."

No Clash Of Views

The American representative emphasized that his talks with British officials had shown there was no "substantial difference of opinion" on procedure to be employed at the trials.

Eden, sparring with Commons members who demanded to know whether the Allies had agreed upon essential arrangements for the trials of Hermann Goering and others, would say only that there had been "most useful consultations with Judge Jackson in the last few days that have resulted in very great progress being made."

The 3 Categories

Although there was no official confirmation, it was understood that Nazi war criminals had been classified in these three categories:

1. Those whose crimes cover more than one country—such as Goering and Rudolf Hess.

2. Those who have been accused by only one country.

3. Those regarded as renegades or traitors—much such as William (Lord Haw Haw) Joyce and Vidkun Quisling, who will be tried under the laws of their native lands.

It was established definitely that Russia would not have a representative at the three-day conference of the Allied War Crimes Commission meeting here tomorrow. The Soviet has a similar commission of its own.

Viewed As A Threat

Russia's absence was viewed as a threat to complete success of the conference. Although the announced purpose of the meeting was to perfect the machinery for detecting war criminals, the chief difficulty in speeding the trials thus far has been the lack of a working accord between the great powers on plans for bringing Nazi leaders to justice.

Signs mounted that a meeting of the four major powers — Britain, France, Russia and the United States — would be necessary to avoid confusion and conflicts. Justice Jackson, just before leaving for Washington, said he hoped Russia and France soon would name their representatives to the prosecution panel.

Amery And Haw Haw

The London Evening Star declared editorially that "an early announcement on the Allies' plan would dispel public disquiet, which has already found expression in Commons."

There yet had been no official announcement of the charges expected to be lodged against "Lord Haw-Haw," who broadcast propaganda for the Germans throughout the war.

Asked what would be done with Joyce and with John Amery, son of L. C. Amery, Secretary for India, Eden told Commons it was a matter for the whole Government to decide. Amery also broadcast for the Nazis and now is in Allied hands.

British Cabinet Goes Into Emergency Session

London, May 30 (AP)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden told Commons tonight that the British Cabinet was in emergency session on the warlike situation in the battle-torn Syrian capital of Damascus where he said French-Arab fighting had caused "a serious loss of life and destruction of property."

With the situation in the Levant "greatly deteriorated," Eden said his Government was "in actual communication with the United States Government."

Events 'Deplored'

Rushing from an emergency session of the Cabinet, Eden told Commons sharply: "the British Government deplores these events."

Eden said that the British Cabinet was considering "action that may be required as a consequence" of the new outbreaks.

A full statement on the situation in Syria and Lebanon will be made to the House of Commons today by either Prime Minister Churchill or Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, London morning papers reported.

Well Into The Night

After his statement in Commons, the Foreign Secretary rushed back to the cabinet meeting which lasted well into the night.

Eden's disclosure of gunplay brought outbursts of protests from members of Parliament, who jumped up in rapid succession to criticize French policy in the Levant and to demand "stern steps" by the British Government.

"It is time they were told quite straight where to get off," angrily declared R. R. Stokes, a Laborite. "The French are behaving as if they had won the war."

Firing Continues

The Syrian and Lebanese legations in London said that the French had bombarded Damascus all last night. The intervention of the British Minister stopped the bombardment, a statement said, but firing continued.

[A Reuter dispatch from Damascus said that a British military commander in the city had appealed to General Humboldt, commander of French forces in the Levant, to halt the "inhuman carnage" in Syria.]

Exchange Telegraph reported from Cairo that the Egyptian Government had protested to Britain, the United States, France and Russia regarding the situation in Syria and said the staff of the Egyptian legation had taken refuge in the Iraq legation in Damascus.

Evacuation Reported

[An American Broadcasting Station in Europe broadcast said that British women and children had been evacuated from the Syrian capital. The broadcast was heard by the OWI.]

The Paris radio asserted that the battle began after French barracks were attacked by Syrian gendarmes and civilians.

The broadcast quoted "reliable" French sources as confirming that French airplanes and artillery were in action.

The radio said that other clashes had occurred "all over Syria." Most took place in southern Syria "where nationalists are said to have assaulted French troops," the broadcast said.

Disorders Not Confined

Eden revealed that the disturbances were not confined to Damascus. Serious disorders, he said, had taken place for several days at Aleppo in northern Syria, and at Homs and Hama, 85 and 110 miles north of the capital.

"We have been trying for months past to promote final settlement of the situation, the dangers of which were apparent to us all," Eden said. As a result, he said, the chances of negotiation between the French and the Levant states had been by no means unhopeful.

"But in the last few days," he added, "all this improvement has been entirely swept away."

British Troops There

The Foreign Secretary told Commons that British troops still were in Syria, when he denied a statement by Maj. Gen. Sir Edward Spears, former British Minister to Lebanon and Syria, that British troops had been withdrawn.

The British, he said, were prepared, however, "to withdraw all our troops from Syria and Lebanon as soon as an agreement was reached between the French and the Levant states.

Spears, a Conservative member, rose in Commons and said:

"I am certain that the Government will have the full support of the whole House and of opinion everywhere in taking strong steps in bringing home to the French our insistence that this bloodshed must cease and that they must respect the independence of the two republics (Syria and Lebanon) which they and we have guaranteed."

Urges Truman Mediation

Maj. W. W. Astor, a Conservative, urged that President Truman take a prominent part in the mediation of the dispute.

[In Washington, the White House said that the President had not been asked to mediate the dispute.]

"What does San Francisco mean if immediately there are two members of the United Nations shooting each other up?" Astor asked.

Eden made no reference to a reported message which Prime Minister Churchill was said to have sent Syria's acting Prime Minister, Jamil Mardam Bey, counseling Syrians to be calm.

Reuter reported from Damascus that Churchill had asked the Syrians to be tolerant until the situation was more settled.

French Shelling Damascus, Eden Says

London, May 30 (AP)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden told Commons today that "reports indicate there has been considerable shelling of Damascus by French artillery with serious loss of life and destruction of property."

"Unhappily, news has reached us within the last few hours of the situation in Syria which shows that the position has greatly deteriorated," he declared.

"Serious disorders have also occurred for some days past at Aleippo, Homs and Hama."

Bombardment Charged

Both the Syrian and Lebanese governments earlier had said that the French bombarded Damascus last night.

It was the Syrian and Lebanese legations which said that the French bombarded Damascus, capital of Syria, last night.

Intervention of the British Minister stopped the bombardment, the legations said in a joint statement, but firing continues. The statement did not explain the extent of the firing.

[The British radio said heavy fighting was in progress in Damascus and that "French troops entered the city and the Parliament House." The report said the Syrian youth movement had decided to resume the general strike.]

The Beyrouth radio said Syrian artillery had been used against the offices of the French Legation and "all French military positions in Damascus" last night. It added that "French military authorities, therefore, have taken all necessary measures."

Fighting was reported to have reached Deraa, 60 miles south of Damascus, near the Transjordan border, where natives were said to have attacked French garrison barracks.

No Compromise Indication

Neither France nor the two Levantine governments showed any inclination to compromise.

French Foreign Ministry circles in Paris were quoted as saying they would not welcome outside mediation and the Paris radio emphasized that France "intends to insure the guaranteeing of her strategic interests."

The Syrian and Lebanese Ministers in London countered with a statement declaring:

"Now France is presenting demands which had never been mentioned before. The answer of the Syrian and Lebanese peoples and governments is that they will never accept such demands."

The Paris radio said French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault had made a comprehensive report to the Cabinet yesterday on the situation in the Middle East.

Without quoting Bidault directly the broadcast gave a summary of France's position.

"The French Government has recognized the complete independence of Syria and Lebanon on condition that it can maintain troops necessary for maintaining order," the broadcast added. It said France wishes "to complete definitely the independence of the Lebanese and Syrian territories by withdrawing all garrison troops," but only on these conditions:

"First of all, she insists on the assured protection of the cultural interests in those countries of French influence where she has created many schools. She desires the statutes, liberties and rights of such establishments to be recognized, insured and protected after the departure of her troops.

"Further, she wishes an agreement to be drawn up that will guarantee her economic interests, and it is known that, according to the terms of treaties that brought to an end the 1918 war, France received an important share of the Mosul oil. This oil is sent to France by tankers loaded in Syria, which is crossed by a pipeine the protection of which must be insured.

"Finally, France intends to insure the guaranteeing of her strategic interests so that the air bases of Syria and Lebanon can be used on the France-Far East line (to Indo-China) and she also wishes her navy to be able to put into port in certain harbors."

Plans Revealed By Montgomery

London, May 30 (AP)—Field Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery in his first proclamation to the German people since his appointment as British representative on the Allied Control Commission, has promised to give first attention to food, housing and disease.

"My immediate object," he said, "is to establish a simple and orderly life for the whole community. The first step will be to see that the population has (a) food, (b) housing and (c) freedom from disease.

"Harvest must be gathered and means of transportation must be re-established. Postal services must be restarted. Certain industries must be got going again. All this will mean much hard work for everyone.

'German People Will Work'

"Those who have committed war crimes according to international law will be dealt with in proper fashion. German people will work under my orders to provide the necessities of life for the community and restore the economic life of the country.

"There are in the British area very large numbers of German soldiers, sailors and airmen and all these now are being assembled in certain areas. . . . All German soldiers, sailors and airmen are being sorted out by trades and occupations. In a few days they will start to be discharged from the armed forces so that they can get on with the work.

Harvest Most Urgent

"The most urgent need is the harvest. Therefore workers on the land are going first. Men of other occupations and trades will be discharged to work as soon as it can be arranged.

"It will be seen to that all German soldiers and civilians are kept informed by radio and newspapers of how the work is going. The population will be told what to do. I shall expect it done willingly and efficiently."

Release Recalls North Sea Drama

London, May 30 (AP)—Lieut. Daniel N. Myers, Mustang fighter pilot, of Harrisburg, Pa., has been freed from a German prison camp where he was confined after failure of one of the longest and most daring air-sea rescue attempts of the war.

Myers went down into the North Sea March 30 when his engine failed while he was returning from a mission over Germany.

"I'm going to ditch," were his last words by radio.

Sea Searched For Six Days

These started the gallant but futile effort to rescue him. More than 170 American and British planes of seven types and four British launches searched the icy waters for six days.

Six Americans in a Catalina flying boat spotted Myers in a dinghy, but the Catalina was damaged so badly in landing on the rough sea it could neither take off nor taxi to Myers. One time when Myers almost reached the flying boat, German jet planes started a strafing attack.

Rescue Crew Finally Rescued

Mustangs from Myers's outfit drove off the Nazis, but the pilot's boat had drifted far away from the Catalina, whose crew finally had to abandon ship. A Flying Fortress dropped a rubber life raft to the crew, which drifted for six days while fighters flew protection. Late on the sixth day, a Royal Navy launch edged to within shooting distance of the gun-studded German naval base at Helgoland and picked them up.

Myers drifted toward one of the German-held Frisian islands. The enemy fished him from the sea and imprisoned him.

74 Lost With Air Marshal

London, May 30 (AP)—Exchange Telegraph said today that 74 British airborne troops disappeared with Air Vice Marshal J. R. Scarlett-Streatfield on four planes lost May 9 while en route to Oslo for occupation duty. The 36-year-old marshal was reported missing on Monday.

No News Yet on 16 Poles

Eden Says Russia Has Not Given Full Data on Their Arrests

LONDON, May 30 (AP).—Moscow has yet to supply the British government with full details of the circumstances leading to arrest of sixteen prominent Poles, Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden told Commons today.

In other comment on foreign affairs he said that Britain will not recognize the Austrian provisional government of Dr. Karl Renner until the British section of the Allied Commission slated to sit in Vienna has a chance of "seeing for itself."

ABSIE To Pass Out July 4

London, May 30 (AP)—The American Broadcasting Station in Europe, which beamed its transmissions toward occupied Europe, will cease operations at midnight, July 4, OWI announced tonight.

Control Commission To Be Set Up Soon

London, Thursday, May 31 (AP)—The Moscow radio said early today that an Allied Control Commission consisting of Soviet, American British and French representatives would be established in Germany within a few days.

Not Invited, Attlee Says

London, May 30 (AP)—Clement R. Attlee said today he had not been invited by Prime Minister Churchill to attend the projected next meeting of the Big Three. The former Deputy Prime Minister in the old coalition government now is the leader of the opposition in Commons by virtue of his position as head of the Labor party.

Quarrel With Woman Led To Arrest Of 'Haw Haw'

Lueneburg, Germany, May 30 (AP)—The capture of William (Lord Haw Haw) Joyce, renegade British broadcaster, indirectly resulted from a quarrel between him and the 34-year-old English woman who said she was his wife, it was announced today.

The senior intelligence officer of the British 2d Army said further questioning of the wounded prisoner disclosed the quarrel with the woman, who spent last night under guard in the house where Heinrich Himmler poisoned himself. It was learned she was arrested about the same time as "Haw Haw," not previously as was believed yesterday.

Met British Officers

Joyce, who called himself Wilhelm Froelich (William Joyous) in Germany, left their house near Flensburg, apparently in a huff after the quarrel, the officer said. The subject of the spat was not learned.

He was strolling through the woods cooling his ruffled spirits when he came upon two British officers gathering firewood and started a conversation. They recognized his voice.

The officers said he admitted his identity and was shot when he made what appeared to be a threatening move with his hand in a pocket as if he had a gun.

Woman Kept Diary

"Haw, Haw," remaining cynical and sarcastic as he has been ever since he was taken Monday evening, spent an uncomfortable night in the 2d Army hospital here, officers said the bullet entered his thigh and passed through the buttocks.

"Haw Haw" and the woman were being held for the arrival of an "expert" from Paris, presumably an operative from Scotland Yard, for further questioning before being flown to London.

The woman's diary, written in cramped handwriting, suggested that her name was Margaret Hansen.

A German passport found in Joyce's clothing had been taken out in the name of Hansen. The suit, incidentally, was expensive.

Before the two were brought to Luenburg from Flensburg, Haw Haw was permitted to tell her that he was all right, despite his wound. They have not met since last night, although she has requested to "see my husband again to make up with him after our quarrel."

She said that since her arrest, she had been treated by some British soldiers in "an extremely insulting manner." Others, she said, treated her better.

The woman was taken last night to the house where Himmler had committed suicide. She was examined thoroughly for any hidden vial of poison, but none was found. A sentry was posted in an adjoining room for a continuous watch and five Dutch and French refugee women were assigned to be with her at all times.

Had 150 Snapshots

She arrived in Lueneburg with three traveling bags, one containing the belongings of Joyce. Others contained her clothes and 150 snapshots of various Germans in uniform, swimming trunks and civilian clothes.

She asked for a cigarette, which was refused. She was permitted to have a copy of Shakespeare from her belongings. She wore four rings and a silver bracelet.

Lord Haw Haw's Bullet Removed

Lueneburg, Germany, May 30 (AP)—British surgeons, in a simple operation, removed a bullet from William (Lord Haw Haw) Joyce's buttocks today and a report from the British 2d Army Hospital said the renegade British broadcaster would be "quite fit" in several days.

Joyce, who broadcast Nazi propaganda during the war, was under heavy guard in the hospital.

"Haw Haw" captured recently by two British officers who recognized his voice, had been shot when he made what appeared to be a threatening move.

To London By Plane

As soon as his condition permits he will be transferred to London by plane.

The senior intelligence officer of the British 2nd Army said the arch propagandist's capture resulted indirectly from a quarrel between him and a 34-year-old Englishwoman who said she was his wife.

Joyce left the house where they were staying near Flensburg apparently in a huff after their quarrel and came upon the British officers as he strolled through the woods. The woman was later arrested and spent last night under guard in the same house in which Heinrich Himmler poisoned himself.

REVERENCE HONORS U.S. DEAD IN EUROPE

Simple Rites Pay Homage to 166,000 Americans Who Fell in Two World Wars

PARIS, May 30 (AP)—United States Ambassador Jefferson Caffery, speaking at Memorial Day services at the American Military Cemetery at Suresnes, near Paris, said today that "no clear-thinking man in the civilized world will ever again advocate a policy which would permit Germany to threaten international tranquility."

Throughout Europe soldiers, civilians and diplomats of the other United Nations joined with those of the United States in honoring the memory of the American dead who fell on the battlefields of Europe in two world wars. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower flew from his headquarters in Frankfort, Germany, to attend a service near Liège in Belgium.

[According to a United Press computation, more than 166,000 American soldiers of the past two wars are buried in Europe. Some 117,500 American dead of this war and 31,000 of the last war are buried in France. About 18,000 others killed in this war are buried in isolated graves on the Continent.]

The American Ambassador declared that the American dead deserved more than flowers, monuments and speeches, and "I believe the finest contribution each individual can make to a common memorial is to think clearly about the causes of the two wars and about what can be done to prevent another."

Graves in Reich Decorated

Earlier in the day Mr. Caffery placed a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Paris and, accompanied by diplomats and military representatives of the United Nations, attended a memorial service in the American Protestant Cathedral. A memorial mass also was held in the Catholic Church of Saint Pierre de Chaillot.

At American cemeteries in North Ireland, Great Britain, France, Belgium, the Netherlands and in the Mediterranean theatre other memorial services were held. In Germany the temporary graves of American dead were decorated. Soon the bodies of the 8,000 Americans who fell in the Reich will be removed to American cemeteries in liberated lands of Europe.

Gen. Jacob L. Devers led troops of the Sixth Army Group in paying homage to their fallen comrades. He placed a wreath at the base of the flagpole at Heidelberg University and declared:

"The warm, red glow of their memory should and must—every day of our lives—be the eternal flame that forever will kindle the bright light of the cause for which they died."

Salutes were fired over the graves of Americans who had fallen storming the beaches of Normandy, Italy and North Africa, and taps was sounded over the Americans who had died in liberating France, Belgium and the Netherlands.

Near Liège, United States Ambassador to Belgium, Charles Sawyer, addressed a group of diplomatic and military officials, including General Eisenhower, gathered at the Henri Chappelle military cemetery—largest American cemetery in Europe. General Eisenhower placed a wreath at the base of the flagpole.

John G. Winant, United States Ambassador to Great Britain, placed a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Warrior in London, and with other American and United Nations representatives attended a solemn service at St. Margaret's Church.

Special services were held at the Air Force cemetery at Cambridge, Brookwood Cemetery in Surrey and Lisnabreeny in Northern Ireland. At the Twenty-second General Hospital at Blandford Camp, Roosevelt Park and a monument were dedicated to the American war dead.

Lieut. Gen. Lucian K. Truscott Jr. and soldiers of the United States Fifth Army gathered at the Anzio beachhead cemetery in Italy and paid tribute to the 6,600 Americans who had fallen there.

Throughout all of western Europe American soldier graves were decorated with small American flags, a single flower or a spray. And at each cemetery Lincoln's Gettysburg address was read, followed by a short benediction by an American line officer. Firing squads saluted the dead, after which taps was sounded and a minute of silence observed.

Relatively few American soldiers who died in the battles of Europe in this war remain unknown.

Of the more than 117,000 killed in western Europe, positive identification has been made of all but 1.46 per cent, the Army graves' registration service of Supreme Headquarters said. It reported that in World War I 5½ per cent of those killed never were identified.

The hunt for isolated graves still is in progress, and when found the bodies will be reinterred in regular United States Army cemeteries in liberated countries with full military honors.

SHAEF said the Germans had adhered to the Geneva Convention in respect to burial of battlefield dead and kept detailed records.

'Gosh, Why Did You Do That?' Said General of Bridge Capture

By DON WHITEHEAD

PARIS, May 30 — (AP) Events which thrill the world and change the course of history sometimes are as comical as they are dramatic when the full story becomes known.

Such was the case when the U. S. First army's Ninth Armored division seized the Remagen bridge and established an unexpected bridgehead across the Rhine.

All the story of that spectacular development in the last drive to defeat the German army was not told at the time, simply because all the facts did not become known until days after the gallant charge led by Sgt. Alexander A. Drabik of Holland, Ohio, which captured the span.

The capture was not in the plans. Nobody expected it and Maj. Gen. John W. Leonard, commander of the Ninth Armored division, found himself standing right in the middle of a history-making military operation which grew up like Topsy.

For months, the high command had been making plans on how and where to cross the Rhine. In brief, the First army had begun to attack across the Roer river merely to protect the right flank of Lt. Gen. William H. Simpson's Ninth army. Once on the Rhine, the First army of Gen. Courtney H. Hodges was to stop while the Canadian, British and Ninth armies massed their power for a grand crossing of the lower Rhine.

But Drabik's charge threw the Army into turmoil, all the way up to Supreme headquarters. And the Army would have been in even greater turmoil had it known that, for the first 12 hours, the First army was holding the bridgehead with one company of infantry.

Luckily the Germans were more confused than the Americans. Three companies of infantry went across the Remagen bridge that night of March 7, but for some unexplained reason two companies returned to the west bank.

The situation began to sort itself out the next day and troops and armor flowed across despite the fact that columns were snarled in one of the biggest traffic jams of the invasion.

When the order came down to expoit the bridgehead, everybody took to the roads at once. The confusion was magnificent to see. Columns were piled up for mile upon mile. An ordinary three-hour jeep ride stretched into seven or eight hours. As units were fed across the bridge, they were sent directly into action.

The situation reminded one of signs on the road near Maj. Gen. Terry Allen's 104th division: "front line 500 yards ahead. Dismount and begin fighting."

A few weeks after the Remagen bridgehead was seized, this correspondent sat with Gen. Leonard in his command post hearing him discuss the progress of the campaign and the fine work done by his Ninth Armored division. He recalled the capture of the bridge and gave this version:

"That morning I sent out my combat teams toward the rivers, which was our objective. Late in the afternoon, one of my commanders called and said, 'General, we've got that bridge.'

"I said, 'what bridge?'

"He said, 'why that big Ludendorff railroad brigde. We've got men across and we're holding a bridgehead across the Rhine.'

"And I said, 'gosh, why did you do that! Now we'll all get in trouble.'"

One will always like the general for that story because his was such a normal reaction. But after that first uncertainty and when the high command gave the green light to exploit the bridgehead, Leonard's Ninth Armored division distinguished itself many more times in daring exploits.

REPORTER KENNEDY IS ON WAY TO U.S.

PARIS, May 30—(AP) Edward Kennedy, Associated Press correspondent who was disaccredited by Supreme headquarters after he sent the news of Germany's surrender a day before the official announcement, is enroute to New York aboard a steamer scheduled to touch first at Trinidad, British West Indies.

Kennedy boarded the ship at Le Havre May 18 in the belief that he was getting direct, speedy passage to New York. He was helped by the public relations officer at Le Havre in arranging with the port commander to get aboard and neither Kennedy nor the PRO knew of the scheduled stop at Trinidad until the ship was leaving.

The ship was due at Trinidad yesterday or today.

A Paris dispatch to the New York Herald Tribune said the PRO who assisted Kennedy was Lt. Ellis Brandt, former United Press employe. It said Kennedy, having been disaccredited, had a non-priority rating and received quarters in a tent at Le Havre to await passage. Seeing so many soldiers en route home he began to think he might have a long wait and appealed to Brandt for help.

Brandt had returned to the dock after seeing Kennedy aboard before he heard of the Trinidad destination. He tried to get back aboard and rescue Kennedy but the gangplank already had been lifted.

French Censorship To Continue, Report

Paris, May 30 (AP)—French censorship, which Minister of Information Pierre Teitgen announced yesterday would end June 1, now seems destined to continue indefinitely.

After he had made his announcement, it was pointed out to Teitgen that France was involved in the war against Japan and that certain types of news relating to the Pacific war still would need to be censored.

PARIS, May 30 (AP)—Several thousand repatriated prisoners demonstrated today on the Avenue de l'Opera and before the Prisoners Reception Center at Place Clinchy demanding clothes. Later they marched down the Boulevard Sebastopol crying, "Down with the Jews." Some broke into shops and forced clerks to fit them in clothes and shoes.

The Ministry of Prisoners said it had taken steps to prevent recurrences. The police watched the demonstrations, but were not asked to interfere.

'Camp Baltimore' Set Up In France

SHAEF, Paris, May 30 (AP). Camp Baltimore — the first of seventeen camps being established in central France to speed the redeployment of troops to other theaters—will get its first shipment of soldiers during the first half of June. All seventeen camps are named for American cities.

The camps will be operated by the newly created Assembly Area Command, which has the task of starting nearly 300,000 soldiers a month on their way home or to the Pacific theater.

The other sixteen camps will be Camps Boston, New York, Brooklyn, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Atlanta, Norfolk, Miami, Detroit, Chicago, Oklahoma City, Washington, San Antonio, St. Louis and New Orleans.

Commanding Camp Baltimore is Col. Richard S. Wheeler, of Edenton, N.C., who has served with the 1st, 6th and 7th Armored Divisions.

PRESS CENSORSHIP IS ENDED BY SHAEF

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Paris, May 30—(AP) Supreme headquarters announced today that censorship in the European theater of operations had been discontinued "except for major troop movements and details connected therewith and such other matters of high military importance as may require reference to the supreme commander."

The terse directive was handed down from advanced Supreme headquarters and surprised the censors themselves as much as the correspondents, for both had been told that the SHAEF censorship branch expected to maintain a measure of control over all news sent from the theater for some time.

Previous directives, which appeared immediately after V-E day, called for censoring all copy for such things as inaccuracy and "reports likely to injure the morale of the Allied forces or the relations between the Allied nations" despite the cessation of hositilities. Censorship officials here were not able immediately to explain the change in plans.

Col. George Warden, head of SHAEF censorship, and Lt. Col. Richard H. Merrick, his first assistant, both were in Germany.

Although the announcement was issued, SHAEF said, "To clarify the position of this headquarters," it failed to explain what matters would be considered of such importance as to require reference to Eisenhower.

More than 300 censors had been assigned to the European theater—about half of them at SHAEF—but a number of them have been transferred to other posts. The status of the remainder probably will not be altered by today's announcement since all press copy will require scrutiny for matters still censorable.

The text of the directive:

"In order to clarify the position of this headquarters, all correspondents are informed that censorship in this theater is hereby discontinued except for major troop movements and details connected therewith and such other matters of high military importance as may require reference to the Supreme commander."

Denmark Banishes Princess Helene

Copenhagen, May 30 (AP)—Princess Helene, wife of Prince Harald, was expelled from Denmark today with the full consent of her brother-in-law, King Christian of Denmark.

Born the Princess of Schleswig-Holstein-Sonderbourg-Gluecksberg, she left by special plane for southern Schleswig, where she will stay with German relatives at the castle at Gluecksberg.

An official announcement on the expulsion is expected later.

The newspaper Extrabladet said high German officers were guests at her home during the occupation of Denmark, and that on such occasions her husband always was "ill" or absent. Armed guards, the newspaper added, protected her village two days before Denmark's liberation because Danes began to threaten her.

Syrians Answer Fire With Every Available Weapon

By FRANK O'BRIEN

Damascus, May 30 (AP)—This Syrian city has been a battleground for French and Syrian forces since 6.55 P.M. Tuesday, in one of the most inexplicable outbreaks of violence on record.

Artillery, mortar and machine-gun fire, as well as bombs, have been raining on Damascus almost unceasingly from the French forces while Syrian gendarmes and police have given answering fire with every available weapon.

[The British radio said "French troops entered the city and the Parliament House." The report said the Syrian Youth Movement had decided to resume the general strike.]

Trapped In Government House

Clay Gowran, of the Chicago Tribune, and I were trapped in the Serail (government house) when Damascus exploded suddenly yesterday evening into utter chaos.

We were held in the Serail for three hours by the constant shooting, but finally were able to dash through a lull in the firing to reach the British Officers Club, halfway to our hotel. Then, after another wait of two hours, we were able to get to the hotel.

Telegraph Office Cut Off

Eventually we decided to take refuge in the British consulate, going there this afternoon to escape the continual mortar fire. Even there safety was not assured, for one British officer was killed there this morning by a mortar.

Although written in Damascus, this dispatch had to be sent 75 miles by messenger to Beirut, the Lebanese capital, in order to be transmitted because it was impossible to pass 300 yards through the rain of fire isolating the Damascus telegraph office.

3 Memorial Services Honor Guam's Dead

MAY 31 1945

Guam, May 30 (AP)—The hundreds of army, navy and marine men who died in the battle to reconquer Guam last summer were honored today at three Memorial Day services and three cross-dotted cemeteries near the native villages of Agat, Assan and Anigua.

Marine Major General Henry L. Larsen, of Denver, the island commander, attended all three services, conducted by military chaplains of Catholic, Protestant and Jewish faiths.

Floral wreaths fashioned by Guam natives were placed on the graves by military details.

Earlier in the day, children from Guam schools brought flowers to the graves. The children participated in a Memorial Day ceremony supervised by Mrs. Aguedai Johnston, widow of a former American service man and present principal of George Washington High School.

Memorial services at the Guamanian cemetery were conducted by the Rev. Carl Calvo, Guamanian priest.

A naval officer at one cemetery told the gathering that Americans who paid with their lives to reconquer Guam passed on an unfinished job in the war.

"We cannot and will not let them down," he added.

Last Fire Raid Worst Yet, Japs Say; Dead Still Uncounted

San Francisco, May 30 (AP)—American fire bombs spilling on Yokohama yesterday made 250,000 Japanese homeless, killed and injured an uncounted number, destroyed 60,000 houses and knocked out communication and transportation systems, the Tokyo radio reported today.

"Hundreds of doctors and nurses were rushed to the stricken city from the outlying districts as well as from Tokyo," the broadcast said. "It may take some time before an estimate of the number of civilians dead and injured can be made, pending the restoration of transportation and communication."

Kawasaki, Tokyo Also Hit

Six former Premiers met with [illegible] Government leaders in an unusual session while Emperor Hirohito heard a report on the "ravages of war suffered yesterday centering around the city of Yokohama" from Home Affairs Minister Genki Abe.

Destruction extended on a smaller scale, Tokyo said, to nearby Kawasaki and metropolitan Tokyo where an area larger than the city of San Francisco has been burned out by mass B-29 fire-bomb raids.

The raid on Yokohama, the Japanese radio said, was made by "far the largest number of planes" yet to attack Japan. It claimed that 2[illegible] Superforts and 12 escorting Mustang fighters were shot down and 58 more planes damaged. United States communiqués announced the loss of two B-29's and three Mustangs.

"Congenial Discussions"

The effectiveness of American fire raids unquestionably was a major subject [illegible] special meeting today of [illegible] statesmen with Premier Kantaro Suzuki, although Tokyo radio told Japanese only that the leaders indulged in "various types of congenial discussions."

The Premier met with his war, navy and foreign ministers and six former premiers—Gen. Kuniaki Koiso, Gen. Hideki Tojo, Baron Kiichiro Hiranuma, Prince Fumimaro Konoye, Keisuke Okada and Koki Hirota.

Russia On Japs' Minds

The "congenial discussions" may well have included defense of the islands against invasion and Russia's attitude toward the Pacific war, both of which are daily subjects of Nipponese broadcasts.

A radio commentator, Kusuo Oya, declared yesterday that in Tokyo "no one believes that the relation between Japan and the Soviet Union has become worse."

Oya commented that Soviet-Japanese relations appeared to be improving, as "was revealed in the more than ordinary cordiality accorded to the Japanese resident by the Soviet authorities at the time of the fall of Berlin, and it was indeed very unexpected."

Japanese were exhorted by an unidentified naval officer to emulate the Special Attack (Suicide) Corps to halt American forces who "bring to the fore two ships for each one lost and twenty planes for each one downed."

51 Square Miles Of Tokyo In Ruins

Guam, May 30 (AP)—Fifty-one square miles of Tokyo, seared by 3,500 tons of six-pound gasoline jelly bombs, are in ruins, Maj. Gen. Curtis E. Le May, commander of the 21st Bomber Command, announced today.

Photographs showed conclusively the extent of the destruction, he said.

Wood and paper ashes drifted over the ruins, borne on today's southerly wind blowing from Yokohama, Tokyo's teeming port city 11 miles south, where fires were kindled Tuesday by 3,200 tons of incendiary clusters sown by more than 450 Superforts.

Biggest Day Raid

The Yokohama raid was the biggest daylight Superfortress attack against Japan.

Scrutinizing the reconnaissance photographs of Tokyo while the 90-minute whirlwind of destruction was being loosed upon Yokohama, Le May declared:

"We destroyed every target we set out to destroy."

The 1,500 Superforts scattered more than 11,700 tons of incendiaries upon Tokyo and Yokohama Thursday, Saturday and yesterday.

Thirty-three of the B-29's, with crews totaling more than 350, failed to return from the past week's record fire raids. Thirty-one were lost in the two Tokyo night attacks, two in Tuesday's daylight raid.

Mustang Cover

The Mustang pilots from Iwo Jima who accompanied the 450 Superforts to Yokohama and stood off 140 Japanese interceptors—of which they shot down or damaged 54—said that Yokohama's industrial area was a seething bed of leaping flames.

Lieut. George S. Tallha, of Weed, Cal., said that Yokohama was a "great mass of smoke billowing up to about 23,000 feet (more than 4 miles) while beneath its edge were rolling flames that looked like an ocean of fire. The smoke was carried as far as we could see toward Tokyo by a good surface wind."

While Le May talked of Tokyo's devastation, his aides pointed out photographs to illustrate his remarks. The area in ruins is nearly as large as the New York Bronx district.

MAY 31 1945

In the last six raids, almost 100 important individual targets, principally manufacturing plants, have been destroyed or badly damaged.

They include 30 plants turning out heavy war products or electrical equipment, 14 transportation installations, 3 aircraft plants, 8 utilities, 3 oil plants, 12 military installations, 15 war materials factories and 9 miscellaneous military objectives.

In addition, an uncounted number of small industrial plants and "shadow factories" have been destroyed.

Many businesses and governmental buildings have also been wiped out. The high winds whipped flames into this area, housing the Diet (Parliament), the Greater East Asia Administrative headquarters, the embassies of the United States and other nations and the vaunted Fifth Avenue of Tokyo, —Ginza.

Spread Beyond Palace

The burned areas spread in all directions from the Emperor's Palace grounds and up and down the waterfront of Tokyo Bay, where much of the city's industry was located.

"Numerous buildings within the palace yards were destroyed," a spokesman said, "but only minor damage was sustained by the imperial palace."

The series of six incendiary Tokyo raids started last February 25 when 200 B-29's hit the capital in a snow storm. Fifty Superforts have been lost in the six Tokyo raids—a ratio of one lost for each square mile of Tokyo laid waste.

demonstrates not only the successful employment of the American-developed long-range bomber but also of the American-developed gasoline-impregnated petroleum jelly M69 fire bomb.

Speed Essential

Maj. Gen. Curtis M. Le May, the 21st Bomber Command's leader, explains that a successful fire-bomb attack requires a great concentration of bombs dropped in the quickest possible time to start a conflagration all across the target area as nearly simultaneously as possible so that fire fighters cannot cope with the resulting conflagration.

The M69 fire bomb is a cluster of 38 small, six-pound bombs filled with gasoline-impregnated petroleum jelly. The cluster package has sufficient weight to insure accuracy. When the cluster nears the ground a small explosive charge breaks the cluster, scattering the fire bombs.

These splash and spill clinging petroleum jelly over walls and roofs. The gasoline provides high inflammability.

A spokesman of the 21st Bomber Command said heat generated by the M69 fires can reach such intensity it cracks concrete.

This type of incendiary weapon was not available for large-scale use in the European theater.

The great Tokyo fires ravaged even modern office buildings, Government structures and industrial plants of steel and concrete.

G. I. Turns Midwife and Is Paid

OKINAWA, May 27 (delayed) (AP).—Private First Class David L. Ward, of Miami, Fla., a former Dade County reputy sheriff, turned midwife today, delivered a boy for a native woman and received two fresh eggs in payment.

Strategy In Use Of New Fire Bomb Is Explained

Guam, May 30 (AP)—Virtually complete destruction of Tokyo's important war industries in six Superfortress incendiary raids, which burned out 51.3 square miles of the world's third largest city is an unparalleled achievement in strategic bombing.

The economy of losses suffered and effort expended for the destructive results attained are unique. Fifty B-29's were lost to enemy action in six raids in three months, including the greatest missions yet flown by the new heavy bomber that was perfected specifically for crushing Japanese industry.

He Warns Of Snakes, Is First To Be Bitten

Okinawa, May 30 (AP)—For weeks before Americans stormed Okinawa's beaches, Lieut. (jg) John H. Stover, Jr., 36, North Arlington, N.J., lectured Marines and doughboys about the danger of the habu snake—the island's most poisonous reptile.

He was the first of six Marines bitten by one of the habus and was sick for weeks, at times critically.

Before Stover's recovery, Marine Lieutenant Herndon G. Dowling, of Tallahassee, Ala., caught one of the reptiles 25 yards from a field hospital. He milked the four-foot snake and is sending its venom to the Navy's Bureau of Medicine and Surgery, where a counteracting serum may be developed. Dowling says the habu is a kin to the United States cottonmouth and rattlesnake.

JAPS YIELDING ON MINDANAO

Two Yank Divisions Press Enemy Back Into Hills

MAY 31 1945

Manila, Thursday, May 31 (AP)—Japanese forces on Mindanao, pushed out of their Sayre highway positions in the center of the island and from Davao on the southwest coast, were being gradually compressed today in largely-unexplored mountain country.

The 31st Division was driving them eastward along the Kibawe-Talomo trail, the 24th Division forced them westward.

Jap Pocket Weakening

A spokesman at Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters said enemy resistance was slowly weakening in the pocket between the Talomo and Davao rivers, but the 24th Division reported strong Nipponese forces still in its area. However, the best Japanese positions and weapons were gone, and fighting was less intense.

In northern Luzon the 25th Division killed 150 Japanese Monday and Tuesday in mopping up around Santa Fe, on the rugged southern mountain approach to the Cagayan Valley. The 38th Division, consolidating its position around the captured Wawa Dam east of Manila, killed more than 200 of the enemy.

Fifth Air Force fighters continued their near-record support of Luzon ground operations, dropping 510 tons of bombs in more than 600 sorties Monday and Tuesday. Most of the explosives were dropped in the Cagayan Valley, last major enemy stronghold in the archipelago.

Compress Japs On Tarakan

On northern Borneo's Tarakan Island, the Australians compressed the Japanese into an area east of the Djoeata oil field, where naval units shelled them.

Heavy bombers from Philippine bases returned to the Indo-China coast area Tuesday for the second successive day. They dropped 103 tons of bombs on the coastal railroad between Saigon and Phan Rang, at times flying low to strafe freight cars and near-by buildings.

Night patrols sank two cargo ships at the mouth of the Yangtze River and harassed air facilities near Hong Kong.

Naval units supported ground operations on Tarakan, off the eastern coast of Borneo, by shelling Japanese defenses in the interior. Other light naval units strafed shore installations on the northeast coast of Borneo and in the Halmaheras, to the southeast.

Borneo Defenses Strafed

Air activity against Borneo included bombing and strafing of gun positions and personnel areas at Balikpapan and Manggar on the eastern coast, and Japanese positions at Sandakan, Jesselton and the Brunei Bay area.

Adverse weather hampered the air attack on Formosa but medium fighters and search planes managed to get through to strike fuel plants and communications from Takao on the south to Taihoku in the north. They also made heavy hits on rail equipment, personnel, loaded vehicles and industrial areas.

Australian forces in the Wewak area of New Guinea, meanwhile, advanced 4 miles into the coastal hills south of the town. Other units, probing inland and converging on the Japanese from the west, drove 4 miles east of Maprik through difficult jungle terrain.

Japs' Shimbu Line On Luzon Cracked

Manila, May 30 (AP)—After three months of bitter fighting, United States 6th Army troops have completed the smashing of the cave and tunnel Shimbu Line fortifications in the Sierra Madre mountains east of Manila.

A headquarters spokesman today described the capture of Wawa Dam by the 38th Infantry Division as the fall of the last strongpoint in the Shimbu Line. More fighting undoubtedly lies ahead, however, against Japanese withdrawing into mountain ranges east of the Marikina river.

Four divisions and elements of other units have taken part in the assault on the mountain defenses since soon after the fall of Manila in February. Two divisions have been kept in the line at a time.

Junction Near Santa Fe

The operations have been extremely rugged, as have been those in northeastern Luzon, where, today's communiqué said, the 25th and 32nd Infantry Divisions have made a juncture 2 miles west of Santa Fe in the Caraballo Mountains.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's communiqué today said the juncture near Santa Fe brought "to an end organized enemy resistance in this vital area flanking the main highway into the Cagayan Valley. That valley is expected to prove the last-stand battleground of the Japanese on Luzon.

In support of the Luzon fronts, attack bombers and fighters dropped 521 tons of explosives over the last week end.

SOUTHERN FLAG RAISED ON SHURI

Marine Company Winning Castle Flies Stars And Bars

MARYLANDERS ON OKINAWA:

Two Maryland men are mentioned in the dispatch below.

With the 1st Marine Division, Okinawa, May 30 (AP)—The Marines asked for the job of penetrating ancient Shuri Castle, key fortress of the Japanese defense, and even their commanding general was astonished when they made it through more than a mile of mud sometimes knee deep.

Company A of the 5th Regiment, led by Capt. Julius D. Dusenberry, of Charlotte, N.C., reached the castle, now a rubble heap, in 2 hours and 45 minutes of wading through muck yesterday morning.

"Miracle," Says General

"It's a miracle how they ever got up there," said Maj. Gen. Pedro A. Del Valle, commander of the 1st Division. "They passed the ruins of Shuri barracks on the easy side without much fighting and asked permission to continue toward the castle. Of course, I gave it to them."

When Dusenberry reached the castle grounds he raised the Stars and Bars ensign of the Southern Confederacy, just as he and his company had done at Peleliu Island in the Palaus last September.

[Other dispatches said the American flag was raised later, signifying the capture of the castle.]

The Marines had left all their armor and supply vehicles behind in Asato when they struck out across the mud-covered draws which had stood between them and the castle for the last two weeks.

They jumped off from a hill called "Beehive" because it is honeycombed with scores of Japanese caves. It had been captured by the 1st Battalion, of which Company A was a part, commanded by Lieut. Col. Charles W. Shelburne, of Kerrville, Texas.

Jap Documents Burned

Staff Sergeant William Boniface, Belair, Md., Marine combat correspondent formerly of the Baltimore Evening Sun, said that two bonfires smouldered in the castle courtyard, probably the remains of documents of the Japanese army which had been in headquarters there.

While Boniface was inspecting the castle two young women, probably Okinawans, came through a break in the outer wall.

"They could speak a little English," he said. "One of them kept saying she wanted to go back into the rubble and get her baby.

"After she had gotten her baby she seemed content and sat around smoking cigarettes one after another as long as the Marines would give them to her."

Find Small Garrison

Staff Sergeant Walter Wood, Marine combat correspondent formerly with the Washington (D.C.) Post, said that when the company reached the castle there were only a few dead Japanese and less than 50 to defend the bastion. All were killed.

General Del Valle said he believed there was only a shell of defense left at Shuri castle, sixteenth century home of Ryukyu kings.

"The Japs were able to take most of their military gear with them," Del Valle said. "It's obvious to me that a withdrawal had taken place. These men we met were those who had volunteered to stay behind and die for their emperor."

Walls 8 To 10 Feet Thick

The castle walls, heavily battered by hundreds of land artillery and offshore naval gunfire, may have once been 8 to 10 feet thick, said Sergt. Kenneth A. Shutts, Delmar, N. Y., Marine combat historian.

Sergt. Paul Trilling, Wallington, N.J., who was with Shutts, said that just before they reached the courtyard they came to a tomb which he described as his first glimpse of anything that looked like Grecian architecture on the island.

"It was made of smooth concrete walls with carvings running around them just below the roofline," Trilling said. "The building was about 50 feet square and its roof was still on. Shells had merely dented it. You wouldn't hardly call this strictly of Grecian design, but sort of a cross between Grecian and Italian. The tomb had wrought-iron doors."

Difficult To Move Wounded

It was difficult to get American wounded out of the castle, since even amphibious tractors and weasels were unable to negotiate the foot-deep mud.

General Del Valle said that every available Marine not on the line would be used to carry supplies to those in the castle, who were sharing the water and rations they had carried with them.

Shutts said the approaches to the castel were generously sprinkled with mines and booby traps, some of them tremendous boxes of explosives with grenades tied to them with trip strings.

3 FLYERS SAVE SUB FROM JAPS

Silver Spring Pilot In Trio Who Went To Rescue

Seventh Fighter Command Headquarters, Iwo Jima, May 30 (AP)—Three Iwo-based Mustang fighter planes, which turned aside from a raid on Tokyo to answer a distress call from an American submarine, seriously damaged and probably sank three Japanese coastal vessels.

The story of how the airmen repaid in part their debt to the underseas service for its many rescues of downed airmen in the Pacific was told today by Lieut. John F. Galbraith, of Silver Spring, Md., as the press censorship was relaxed on many phases of submarine activities in the Pacific.

3 Jap Picket Boats

Galbraith was one of the three P-51 pilots who turned aside from escorting B-29 Superfortresses on the Tokyo raid to aid the submarine.

The underwater craft had been spotted by three 75-foot Japanese picket boats, heavily armed coastal vessels, which even then were bearing down for the kill, he related.

The other pilots were Second Lieutenant Harry B. DeRieur, of Bainbridge, Ga., and Second Lieutenant Dale F. Meyer, of Beloit, Wisconsin.

"Boys, We Love You"

The picket boats were spread out in a line as the Mustangs reached the scene. So each pilot picked a boat and made simultaneous strafing runs, clearing the decks with their .50-caliber bullets the first time over. After two more passes one ship exploded and the others were left burning fiercely.

"Boys, we love you," radioed the relieved submarine as the Mustangs flew homeward. "Good luck and good work."

FLEEING JAPANESE HARASSED IN CHINA

Enemy Believed to Have Set Fire to Liuchow in Move to Withdraw Northward

By The Associated Press.

CHUNGKING, China, May 30—Chinese veterans, pursuing Japanese forces who are reportedly pulling out of South China, ripped along a fifty-mile front tonight toward the great former American air base city of Liuchow, now swept by fires.

30.24- 2.7133

Battering seven miles through Japanese fortifications, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's battle groups reached the outskirts of the fortified Japanese stronghold of Ishan, forty-three miles west of Liuchow, while the Japanese reportedly evacuated points only thirty-eight miles northwest.

Great fires were reported raging in Liuchow, Kwangsi Province rail hub. The Japanese garrison apparently put the torch to the city yesterday in preparation for an abandonment, which is believed planned as part of a general Japanese withdrawal from all South China.

Chungking was flooded with reports that the Japanese were pulling out of South China and planning to evacuate strategic Liuchow, following the Chinese capture of Nanning. Nanning's fall cut Japan's primary supply highway to Indo-China, running through the enemy's transcontinental corridor from Korea to Southeast Asia.

Dr. Wang Shih-chieh, Chinese Minister of Information, warned that although Japan's land bridge to Singapore definitely had been cut, there was no indication that enemy troops in South China would pull out without a desperate fight.

Liuchow Vital to Enemy

Liuchow is the greatest key in enemy communications in South China. While its recapture would strengthen American air power in the area, Chinese seizure of the city also would shatter the last tenuous links the Japanese still have by land with Indo-China, Burma, Thailand and Malaya. It is the junction of the important north-south Hunan-Kwangsi railroad and the east-west Kwangsi-Kweiyang railroad.

Pressing along the Kwangsi-Kweiyang line, the Chinese advanced to the vicinity of Ishan, the Chinese High Command said, and were laying siege to the town's approaches after a seven-mile gain.

The High Command indicated that the Japanese were withdrawing from a number of outposts north of the Kwangsi-Kweiyang railroad and said that the Japanese were evacuating Tienho, Locheng, Changan and Junghsien, in an arc fifty miles north and fifty-two miles northwest of Liuchow.

Changan is only thirty-eight miles northwest of Liuchow, and the eastward withdrawal toward Poshow and the Hunan-Kwangsi railroad northeast of Liuchow supported reports of a general enemy contraction of the Japanese overland corridor.

At one point the corridor had been narrowed to 100 miles in width. Reports said that the Japanese were withdrawing from Kweihsien, an important river port eighty-five miles southeast of Liuchow on the east flank of the Japanese corridor. One hundred miles to the west, the Chinese were biting deeper into the west flank from captured Nanning.

Thirty miles north of the Indo-China border, local militia joined Chinese troops under Gen. Chang Fah-kwei in pursuit of enemy forces fleeing southwest of Nanning into the occupied French territory.

Two hundred and thirty miles northeast of threatened Liuchow, Chinese forces battled toward Paoking, former United States airbase. After a night-long engagement, the Chinese yesterday breached enemy defenses near Tantow, nineteen miles northwest of Poaking, and cut the invaders into several pockets, a front dispatch said. Several hundred Japanese were killed.

At the north end of the Chinese front, Chiang Kai-shek's troops advancing from the south, cut a highway leading west to Shensi Province from the endangered enemy stronghold of Hsihsiakow, 400 miles northeast of Chungking. The highway was cut three miles west. The Japanese were resisting stubbornly on the outskirts of Hsihsiakow.

The Chinese regained all positions south of Shanhsien in Honan on the Lung-hai railroad, which they had held until May 16, when the Japanese began a thrust southward.

Along China's east coast, forces in Fukien Province captured Ningteh, forty-one miles northeast of liberated Foochow, after the town changed hands several times. Japanese forces were reported retiring northeastward toward Siapu, thirty-five miles northeast of Ningteh, to join a naval force that landed on the coast last week.

A report reaching Chungking said that the Japanese were pulling out of Kinhwa, a once-famous ham-producing center on the Chekiang-Kiangsi railroad 180 miles southwest of Shanghai.

Chinese Nearing Ishan, 43 Miles From Liuchow

Chungking, May 30 (AP)—Chinese troops striking down the Kwangsi-Kweichow railroad have reached the vicinity of Ishan, 43 miles west of Liuchow, a former United States airbase which field reports said the Japanese may be preparing to evacuate.

The Chinese high command, announcing this new success today, told of fighting at points along a 900-mile front, with the Chinese making new inroads from the western side of the enemy corridor stretching from the Yellow River to French Indo-China.

In the coastal province of Fukien the Chinese also recovered Ningteh, 45 miles north of liberated Foochow, and the Japanese retreated toward Siapu, near the coast 75 miles northeast of Foochow.

In Honan province at the northern end of the 900-mile front Chinese forces were attacking northward in the direction of Shanhsien, on the Lunghai railroad less than 50 miles east of the Honan-Shensi border.

Chinese Near Paoching

Farther south, in Hunan province, Chinese forces made progress toward the Japanese base of Shaoyang (Paoching). Latest reports had told of fighting 12 to 19 miles west and northwest of the town.

The high command indicated that the Japanese were withdrawing from different outposts north of the Kwangsi-Kweichow railroad. It said that enemy garrisons at Tienho, Locheng and Changan—All north of this line—were evacuating.

Kweihsien, important river port 85 miles southeast of Liuchow, also was reported abandoned by the enemy.

Large fires observed in Liuchow suggested that the Japanese were setting the torch to the city preparatory to leaving.

In Kwangsi, at the southern end of the front, local militia co-operated with Chinese regulars in attacks on other Japanese retreating southward from freed Yungning (Nanning) toward Indo-China.

Chiang Denies Agreeing To Hurley as a Censor

Ambassador Says He Was Not Consulted by Taylor

CHUNGKING, May 30 (AP)—An official Chinese statement said today Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek had told Henry J. Taylor, special writer for "The New York Telegram," that he was ready to liberalize Chinese political censorship, but denied he had agreed to place this "domestic affair" in the hands of the American Embassy.

[Taylor said in a dispatch Tuesday from Chunginkg that Chiang had agreed to a proposal advanced by Taylor that "all news going to the United States be passed by Chinese censors if it was acceptable to two American officials—Major General Albert C. Wedemeyer for military news and Ambassador Patrick J. Hurley for political news." Taylor said Chiang said he "would initiate promptly a measure . . . for a basic revision of censorship."]

Ambassador Hurley said in a statement he was not consulted in advance about Taylor's proposal and emphasized that the American Embassy did not desire and would not accept the right of censorship on behalf of the Chinese government.

Foreign correspondents here adopted a resolution denouncing Taylor's proposal. The resolution pointed out that news relating to American forces in the China theater by long-established practice had been subject to American military censors.

CHIANG KAI-SHEK OUT AS PREMIER

T. V. Soong Replaces Generalissimo — May Attend Conferences.

CHUNGKING, Thursday, May 31—(AP) Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek resigned today as president of executive Yuan (Premier) and was succeeded by acting Premier T. V. Soong.

Elevation of Soong to the full Premiership raised the possibility he might attend any impending meeting of the big five leaders (China, France, Russia, United States and Great Britain). It also would give him greater face if he makes an expected visit to Moscow on his way back to China from the San Francisco conference.

Wong Weh Hao, minister of economic affairs and head of China's war production board, was appointed Vice Premier, succeeding H. H. Kung. The appointment probably was a reward for his long labors as head of the Chinese WPB.

Chiang's relinquishment of the position of premier to Soong did not affect the former's position as president of China and the head of the state.

He announced his resignation of the premiership at a meeting today of the newly elected central executive committee of the Kuomintang, the national people's party.

It is presumed that Chiang, in view of the accelerated tempo of the far east war, intends to devote himself primarily to his main job—supreme commander of the Allied forces in the China theater.

In addition to the presidency, Chiang holds numerous other posts.

Soong had been serving as acting premier since last December 4. As such he had attended to most of the Generalissimo's duties as Premier. His transition from acting premier to premier therefore was not surprising. In fact, it had been expected here for some time.

Other government changes are expected to result from the present session of the central executive committee.

JAPAN WRITES OFF SOUTHERN BATTLE

By CLYDE FARNSWORTH

KUNMING, China, May 29—(Delayed)—(AP) The Japanese abandonment of Yungning (Nanning) in south China was authoritatively interpreted here today as a sign that Japan had written off its entire southeast Asia conquest—except for its pending nuisance value.

In this big American base, it was believed that the Japanese Imperial headquarters now regarded the conquest of southeast Asia as an irretrievable investment in men and material.

This interpretation was predicated, of course, on the idea that Japanese redisposition and the strength of Chinese reoccupation forces will forbid any reopening of the Yungning passage to and from southeast Asia. The only reservations from complete optimism here were based on these considerations.

Other changes of enemy dispositions in China are almost as startling as the withdrawal from Yungning, a strategic road hub on the enemy's corridor to southeast Asia. For example, reported Japanese movements out of such east coast areas as Wenchwo, Swatow and Foochow, as well as signs of northward movement along the corridor above Yunging suggest even that the Japanese are in the process of abandoning southern China.

It appears that the enemy may intend to leave only small suicide forces holding the south while he masses his major strength between the Yangtze and Amur rivers for a decisive last-ditch battle on the Asiatic continent.

One cannot rule out the likelihood that a fear of Russian intervention along the Amur has figured importantly in reshaping Japan's Asiatic battle plan. Possibly a greater factor was the prospect that Japan's lifeline to southeast Asia could not be held open against Chinese and American land, sea and air offensives when they finally are mounted.

The enemy's recent reversal before the U. S. air base at Chihkiang in Hunan province at the hands of resurgent Chinese troops aided by American planes, may have had a profound effect on Japanese calculations.

Any possible Japanese general withdrawal would explain the Japanese failure to commit their formidable reserves to that losing battle.

It also is noteworthy that the Chinese won their battle before Chihkiang without sending into action their American-trained new Sixth army — their best-equipped outfit which had been flown to Chihkiang from Burma by American transport planes.

British Slowed in Burma

Suicidal Japanese Charges Curb Advance on Toungoo Road

CALCUTTA, May 30 (AP).—Suicidal Japanese charges slowed the advance of the 19th Indian Division today on the Toungoo-Mawchi road north of Rangoon as the enemy fought hard to keep open the escape route into Thailand. Empire forces have advanced twelve miles east of Toungoo along the road after several weeks of bitter fighting.

The Japanese still hold a bridgehead across the Irrawaddy River north of Prome and have made seven futile attempts to break out and escape eastward. Each assault has been beaten back by the 7th Indian Division.

EX-PREMIERS IN JAP PARLEY

Consult With Cabinet As Yokohama Counts Loses

San Francisco, May 30 (AP)—Premier Kantaro Suziki and other Cabinet ministers conferred today with six former premiers, the Tokyo radio said, after which a report was made to the Emperor on the Superfortress raid on Yokohama which left 250,000 homeless.

The broadcast, recorded by the FCC, gave no hint as to the nature of the "various types of congenial discussions" conducted, but the Domei news agency reported the nation was filled "with trepidation" because of raid damage to the Imperial and Omiya palaces.

Former Premier Present

The former premiers attending the conference were listed as Kuniaki Koiso, Hideki Tojo, Baron Kiichiro Hiranuma, Prince Fumimaro Konoye, Keisuke Okada and Koki Hirota.

Besides reporting a quarter of a million homeless in Yokohama following the B-29 fire raid of yesterday, the Tokyo radio said 60,000 homes were destroyed. It added it "may take some time before an estimate of the number of civilians dead and injured can be made."

Other broadcasts from Tokyo reported seven more of Nippon's admirals had died in battle, bringing the total to more than 100 in less than a year, and said Viscount Kikujiro Ishii, "dean of Japan's diplomatic service," probably was killed in last Saturday's Tokyo raid.

Other Prominent Victims

Two other prominent men probably killed in the Tokyo raid were identified as Tsuneji Taniguchi, vice governor of the Bank of Japan, and Dr. Yorozu Oda, Japanese authority on international law.

Tokyo termed the Yokohama raid "by far the largest in the number of planes" participating and continued to make unconfirmed claims of shooting down twenty Superfortresses and twelve escorting Mustang fighters, with another 59 planes damaged. American communiqués have announced the loss of two B-29's and three Mustangs.

A continuation of attacks by Japanese suicide planes on "enemy ships" around Okinawa Tuesday night was reported by another Tokyo broadcast. It said, without confirmation, that reports had been received "that all attacking planes had crash dived on their targets."

3 Promi Japs Killed In Raid

San Francisco, May 30 (AP)—The Japanese Domei news agency said in a Tokyo broadcast that three prominent men, including the diplomat who concluded the "gentlemen's agreement" in 1917 with reference to Japanese immigration to the United States, were killed during last Saturday's B-29 raid on Tokyo.

In the broadcast, recorded here, Domei listed the three as:

Viscount Kikujiro Ishii, diplomat and Privy Councillor.

Tsuneji Taniguchi, vice governor of the Bank of Japan.

Dr. Yorozu Oda, Japanese authority on international law.

Ishii, 78, was described by Domei as "dean of Japan's diplomatic service" who concluded the so-called "gentlemen's agreement" with Robert Lansing, then Secretary of State under President Wilson. In 1907 he investigated anti-Japanese disturbances in California and British Columbia for the Japanese Government. In 1923 and 1926, he sat as president of the Council and Assembly of the League of Nations in Geneva. He was Japanese Foreign Minister from 1915 to 1916.

Oda at one time was a judge of the International Court of Arbitration at The Hague.

7 More Admirals Killed In Battle, Japan Reports

Brings to More Than 100 Total of High Navy Officers Lost

SAN FRANCISCO, May 30 (AP).—Seven more Japanese admirals have died in battle, Japan's chief naval station at Yokosuku announced officially today, the Tokyo radio said in a domestic broadcast recorded by the Federal Communications Commission.

These latest high-ranking naval casualties bring to more than 100 the number of Japanese admirals reported to have met death in less than a year.

The Tokyo radio said those reported killed included two vice-admirals, one of whom was identified as Nishio Hayakawa. The second name was inaudible to monitors. The other five were listed as Rear Admirals Murata, Ozaki, Inouye, Okano and Odawara.

Japs 'Apologize' For Palace Damage

San Francisco, May 30 (AP)—Japan's Domei news agency said today that destruction of parts of the Imperial and Omiya palaces by American Superfort fire raids "fills the nation's 100,000,000 subjects with trepidation."

"They offer their humble apologies," added the dispatch, broadcast to occupied Asia and recorded by the FCC.

The Omiya, detached from the Imperial palace compounds, is the home of the Empress Dowager.

Canada Names Commander

Gen. Hoffmeister Heads Far East Force to Fight Under U. S.

OTTAWA, May 30 (AP).—Major General Bert M. Hoffmeister, thirty-eight, has been appointed head of the Canadian Far East force which will fight against Japan under American over-all command, Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King's office announced today.

The Far East force was officially identified as the 6th Division. It will be organized as an infantry division and include armor and other units, from 30,000 volunteers. The organization probably will follow American lines, but the men will wear Canadian uniforms.

Hoffmeister led the Seaforth Highlanders in Sicily and later commanded the Canadian 5th Armored Division.

U.S. Mourns War Dead On Memorial Day

(By the Associated Press)

Millions of Americans mourned the nation's war dead today.

Work for victory over Japan continued in most war plants and Government offices as the nation observed its seventy-seventh Memorial Day with parades, religious services and quiet ceremonies in cemeteries.

Saddened by memories of soldiers who rest at Gettysburg and Flanders Field and, more keenly, by thoughts of those who died on Normandy beaches and Iwo Jima, in Italy and on Okinawa, Americans also gave thanks for V-E day and for the safe return of many fighting men from Europe.

Two Famous Graves

Few of the 240 remaining Civil War veterans took part in observances of the day which was inaugurated 77 years ago in honor of their fallen comrades.

Wreaths were to be placed on two famous graves—on the grave of the Unknown Soldier of the World War in Arlington National Cemetery and on the grave of Franklin D. Roosevelt in Hyde Park.

Walker Speaks

"Rarely in history," said Postmaster General Frank C. Walker in a Memorial Day address prepared for ceremonies at Mr. Roosevelt's grave, "have whole peoples so taken from one man's fire the flame of courage. Never before did whole peoples look so searchingly and hopefully to one man to win for themselves and their children peace among nations."

Walker will be replaced in the Cabinet June 30 by Robert E. Hannegan, Democratic national chairman.

In Chicago, the Memorial Day program centered about Gen. Mark W. Clark and 50 heroes from his 5th Army who arrived there this afternoon.

Veterans' Graves Decorated

During the day, veterans' graves in 122 Chicago cemeteries were decorated under the general banner of the Grand Army of the Republic and graves of Confederate veterans were decorated by the Daughters of the Confederacy.

In the San Francisco Bay area, memorial services were limited to brief army and navy rites and a civic program at Oakland.

Traditional Memorial Day services and parades were on the New England program. In Boston, recently returned veterans of World War II were to march in a parade, followed by a military review on Boston common.

Kansas City stores, schools and public offices closed down for the holiday, with the exception of war plants. A special marriage license deputy remained available to the hundreds of returning service men.

25,000 In New York Parade

About 25,000 persons were expected to march in New York city's largest Memorial Day parade, up Riverside Drive to the Soldiers and Sailors Monument. Most military installations planned services, and a regimental review was to be held at the USS Hunter, Waves' training school.

More than 300 survivors of the U.S.S. Franklin, bombed off Japan's shores, paid homage to their fallen comrades at a special service on the flight deck of the "U.S.S. Fighting Lady," a model aircraft carrier in Rockefeller Plaza, New York.

Capt. Leslie Gehres, commanding officer of the Franklin, and Lieut. Com. Joseph T. O'Callahan, its senior chaplain, called on the nation to honor not only the Franklin's dead but all those who have given their lives in battle.

Dead Of Two Wars Honored

Meanwhile, in Europe and the Pacific, American fighting men and diplomats attended Memorial Day services in honor of the dead of two world wars.

Taps sounded over the graves of the dead throughout the European war theater while soldiers placed flags and flowers in military cemeteries.

In London, United States Ambassador John G. Winant placed a wreath on the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier. Services also were held in St. Margaret's Church, Westminster, and in other parts of the city.

Services Held In France

Religious services were held at 62 American cemeteries in France, 8 of them holding 31,000 American soldiers who died in World War I and the others, 117,502 killed in the present war.

In Paris, United States Ambassador Jefferson Caffery laid a wreath at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

A small American flag, a single flower or a spray was placed on each soldier's grave in Italy, Sicily, Corsica, Sardinia and Gibraltar.

More than 900 United States 5th Army soldiers attended a service at Anzio beachhead, where 8,000 men fell.

At Anzio Lieut. Gen. Lucien K. Truscott said: "We pray that when the soldiers' job is done the statesmen of the world will make sure of that lasting peace for which their soldier comrades died."

Services also were held in Germany, where more than 8,000 Americans lie in temporary graves.

SHIP REPAIRS WORRY NAVY

Leaders Cite Pacific Damage, Workers Leaving Jobs

Washington, May 30 (AP)—With the Japanese stepping up their aerial attacks as the war approaches their shores, the United States Navy gravely announced today that the home front "battle of ship repairs" is not progressing satisfactorily.

Naval leaders called an unusual news conference to make known that they are worried. They said workers are quitting their jobs in West Coast repair yards in the face of existing manpower shortages and growing work loads.

Only the necessity for keeping valuable information from the enemy, it was emphasized, prevented recitation of facts and figures to back up the urgent appeal of the Navy Department's heads for shipyard workers to stay on the job and for others to answer the call.

In lieu of any precise disclosure of numbers of ships involved, Secretary Forrestal cited that 4,270 personnel of naval supporting forces were killed or missing in action in the battle for Okinawa between March 15 and May 23, compared with 5,332 for the ground forces in the same action.

Admiral Frederick J. Horne, vice chief of naval operations, commented that it could easily be seen "what that must mean in ship damage."

Details Of Situation Revealed

Specifically, the department heads revealed:

1. That some $300,000,000 in new ship construction, originally scheduled for the West Coast, had been transferred to the East Coast to release facilities for ship repairs.

2. That it would take nine months to get the damaged carrier Franklin back into action.

3. That some cruisers would require six months and some destroyers three months.

4. That destroyers, intended for overhaul after 40,000 miles, are now operating after 240,000 miles without overhaul.

5. That the Mare Island (Cal.) Navy Yard was 9,000 workers short and lost 600 net last month despite widespread recruiting drives and intense efforts to keep workers; Puget Sound (Wash.) Navy Yard was 5,000 short and lost 600 net last month; Hunters Point (Cal.) navy dry docks was 6,000 short and lost 700 net, and "the situation is comparable in private yards."

Efforts To Solve Problem

In an effort to solve the problem, the Navy—at the urgent request of Fleet Admiral Chester Nimitz, Pacific Fleet commander in chief—obtained blanket deferment of skilled workers in West Coast yards, gave priority to repair work over new construction, and agreed to provide transportation and subsistence to workers recruited in the East and mid-West.

Admiral Horne said every ship damaged in action "reduces the fleet's fighting power by just that much. As the war approaches the Japanese homeland the fleet more and more is subject to heavy Japanese air attack. We hear about many Jap planes being knocked down, but they still have a lot. Every attack is in the hundreds.

"What we are trying to do in the states is the battle of repairs. If only we could get the people to understand that their part is just as vital as the fight in the Pacific.

"If critically needed workers don't come forward we are going to have more and more damage and more and more people will be killed on the beaches."

Loss Of Workers On Coast

Rear Admiral F. G. Crisp, director of shore establishments and civilian personnel, told the conference, "Those leaving jobs today on the Coast are reaching alarming proportions."

Describing the intensity of the Okinawa action now in progress, Secretary Forrestal said that total Japanese plane losses in combat during April exceeded 2,500 to set a new monthly record. The previous record was set in October, 1944, when Jap losses were slightly below 2,000. The April losses, Forrestal said, were estimated to have reduced the Japanese Air Force by about 13 per cent net.

The Secretary also revealed for the first time the dramatic story of the destroyers Hugh W. Hadley and Evans off Okinawa May 11.

"Both destroyers had been at general quarters throughout the night of May 10-11, which means that no one had had a night's rest, due to attacks by several enemy planes which harassed their formation during darkness," the Secretary related.

"Shortly before 8 o'clock on the morning of May 11 a low-flying seaplane attempted a suicide attack on the Hadley and was shot down; the pontoons of this plane, which were apparently filled with explosives, were seen to explode as the plane hit the water.

"Soon after, several formations of enemy planes, totaling about 160 aircraft in all, were reported to the north. They were immediately attacked by our fighters, but many of them broke through and attacked the Hadley and Evans.

"Firing All Guns"

"For the next hour and a half the two destroyers, maneuvering at high speed and firing all guns, were under continuous attack by suicide planes.

"In the ensuing melee, navy fighter planes shot down about 50 enemy planes, and the two destroyers accomplished the amazing feat of destroying 42 enemy planes between them, the Hadley 23 and the Evans 19.

"Toward the end of the battle, as our navy fighter planes ran out of ammunition, there were several cases in which our pilots actually 'rode' enemy planes into the water, flying closer and closer and above the Jap until he was forced into the sea. In two instances a heroic Marine pilot interposed his plane between the Hadley and an attacking suicide plane, forcing the Jap aircraft to break off its attack.

"Both of these gallant destroyers were hit before the Jap attack was repelled."

GENERALS START RETURN PARADE

WASHINGTON, May 30 — (AP)

Return of the nation's top fighting generals from Europe will swell to a parade in the next few weeks.

Three already have arrived home and many others, including Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, are expected to follow within a month.

After short visits in this country some of the generals, including Eisenhower, will return to Europe to tackle the problems of redeployment and the occupation of Germany. For others, like Gen. Courtney Hodges and Lt. Gen. James H. Doolittle, who already are here, the trip is just a leg on the journey to Tokyo.

The latest to arrive in the United States is Gen. Mark W. Clark, commander of the 15th Army group in Italy, who reached Chicago today to take part in Memorial Day ceremonies. Following a general policy, Clark brought with him a group of veteran officers and men who have distinguished themselves in battle.

Gen. Omar Bradley, 12th Army group commander whose troops smashed through the heart of Germany, is expected to arrive in the U. S. within a few days.

Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., Third army chief and veteran of North Africa, Sicily, France and Germany, also will be among the early arrivals. With Gen. Doolittle, he is scheduled to receive a welcome in his home state of California.

Under tentative plans, the generals will go to various cities for official receptions before reporting to Washington. An exception may be Eisenhower, although it is possible the Supreme Allied commander will make his first appearance in New York city.

Vets Get Wallace's View On Business

Washington, May 30 (AP)—Secretary of Commerce Walace said today he believed it would be "unfortunate" if more than 500,000 war veterans decided to establish new businesses.

He also told a Congresional committee that he believed repeal of the excess profits tax should not be automatic with the war's end, but should await the pasing of postwar inflation dangers.

Wallace said chaos may result if veterans start their own business in such numbers that productive and distribution fields become overpopulated and financial risks mount with growing competition.

Questioned By Committee

Wallace appeared before the House Small Business Committee to discuss the problems of small enterprises. Committeemen led him through a discussion of finance, taxation, competition and character banking.

The Secretary declined to make specific statements on taxation and corporation law revisions, saying these subjects were in the province of the Treasury Secretary and the Attorney General, respectively.

However, he did say he thought the excess profits tax should be repealed when the postwar danger of inflation has passed, and that he believed the present excess profits exemption should be more than $25,000.

"Enforcement Is Answer"

"Enforcement is the answer," Wagner said. "And the key to enforcement is the Federally inspected slaughter house."

Wagner predicted a Senate floor fight on the extension measure. Some senators, he said, favor an amendment by Senator Thomas (D., Okla.) that would require the OPA to guarantee processors' profits. Wagner said Bowles and Davis termed this proposal "fantastic" and impossible to administer.

Wants Jobs For All

Vinson said "a good beginning to the fulfillment of the Four Freedoms, and to the prevention of war" is a job for every man and woman who wants to work.

"There will be something wrong with mankind, too, if we allow wars and depressions to return with clocklike regularity as of old," he said. "Depressions, like wars, are not acts of God. Man makes them. If we make them, we can unmake them. We must create, in place, a new prosperity and a greater opportunity for jobs than ever existed before."

Previously he received the Distinguished Flying Cross, the Legion of Merit and the Air Medal.

Lewis's Demand, Strike-Notice Rise Cited

Washington, May 30 (AP)—The number of strike notices served by unions under the War Labor Disputes Act has soared since John L. Lewis's twin demands for strike votes among his miners.

The first was taken during negotiations for a bituminous contract, the second during anthracite wage talks. In each case Lewis won overwhelming union support.

Since February 26—the date Lewis served his first notice under the Smith-Connally Act—the number of unions taking similar steps has more than doubled, whether prompted by the mine union's chief's maneuver or not.

Few Result In Strikes

However, only small precentages have materialized into actual strike votes or strikes.

A comparison with year-ago figures showed these notices by months:

	1945	1944
February	61	58
March	196	83
April	164	69
May	131	91

The United States Conciliation Service and the National Labor Relations Board, both of which keep records, say that during the week of February 28 there were 23 strike notices filed. There had been 9 in the week of February 21 and 8 the week before that.

Soared In March

As the March 28 date for the bituminous vote approached, the number of notices leaped upward. Eighty were filed that week, compared with an average of between 30 and 35 in the first weeks of March.

The NLRB said that in February only 12 strike votes actually were conducted because 45 petitions were withdrawn and the others were left pending.

In March, of 196 notices, 82 were withdrawn, 13 strike votes were taken and 153 cases were pending at month's end.

Forty-one votes were conducted in April after 103 of 164 notices were rescinded. There were 173 cases pending May 1.

131 This Month

So far this month there have been 131 strike notices filed; 31 in the week of May 2, 34 in the week of May 9, 33 in the week of May 16 and 33 in the week of May 23.

NLRB said that since enactment of the Labor Disputes Act over President Roosevelt's veto in July, 1943, a total of 2,072 notices were filed through April, 1945. More than half, or 1,384 cases were withdrawn. A total of 515 strike votes were taken up to May 1.

Neither NLRB nor the conciliation service would place any interpretation on the sudden rise since Lewis's action.

Aimed To Influence Agencies

In its ninth annual report, the NLRB said, however, that an analysis of the major issues revealed "that a large proportion of the strike notices were filed for the purpose of attempting to influence by threat of strike the action of Governmental agencies in cases pending before them, or were filed for the purpose of expressing an objection to action already taken by such Governmental agencies."

The agency reiterated an observation during the preceding year that "this tactic has not been successful."

Rationing Of Food Till 1950 Predicted

Washington, May 30 (AP)—Food rationing until 1950 was forecast today by Senator Wagner (D., New York).

The chairman of the Senate Banking Committee told reporters that controls on the prices and volume of edibles would be necessary until that time.

Wagner's committee yesterday approved legislation continuing the Government agency that handles those problems—the OPA—until June 30, 1946.

The Calculation

Wagner reasoned that perhaps another year would be required to defeat Japan; then, to avoid a disruption of the nation's economy, the Government would have to keep a clamp on food for another three years or so.

Wagner noted, however, that an unexpected collapse of Japan or some other unforeseen circumstance would necessarily affect that line of reasoning.

Better Situation Foreseen

The price-control extension for another year was voted, 10 to 5, by the committee. A proposal by Senator Taft (R., Ohio) to extend the controls for only six months was defeated by the same vote.

The action was taken after a day of testimony behind closed doors by Price Administrator Chester Bowles and Economic Stabilizer William H. Davis. They said, in effect, that the food situation would be better soon.

Members of the committee, quoting Bowles and Davis, said the key to shortages now is the meat black market. Two factors were advanced as helpful for the future. One is the Treasury's announced campaign to hit black-market operators through their tax returns. The other

Vinson Optimistic On Frisco

Washington, May 30 (AP)—The San Francisco conference and other international conferences will succeed because the people of the world have demanded it," War Mobilizer Fred M. Vinson declared today.

In an address prepared for delivery at Memorial Day services in Arlington National Cemetery, across the Potomac River from the Capital, Vinson said "the homage we pay our dead here today will be a mockery unless we use to the utmost the opportunity for which they fought and died."

"We can alter the shape of things so that war is no longer an ever-constant threat," Vinson continued. "It is within our power as man, as members of the United Nations to accomplish this."

The War Mobilization and Reconversion chief asserted that wars do not "just happen" and he decried "the idea that wars are beyond control.

Not "Acts Of God"

"Wars are not 'acts of God.' They are caused by man, by man-made institutions, by the way in which man has organized his society. What man has made man can change."

To prevent future wars, Vinson said, the world must work together. He added:

"The separate nations of the world must not only be willing that brother nations should have economic security, but they should as-

BRITISH DECORATE AMERICAN AS HERO

All Royal Navy Knows Courage of J. C. Clifton as Air Leader, Says Sir James Somerville

MAY 31 1945

WASHINGTON, May 30 (AP)—"There's no one in the British Navy who hasn't heard of Joe Clifton," said Admiral of the Fleet Sir James Somerville today as he presented to a 35-year-old Kentucky naval officer the award of Honorary Companion of the Distinguished Service Order "on behalf of His Majesty, the King."

Comdr. Joseph C. Clifton of Paducah, former Naval Academy fullback, modestly accepted the honor for valor displayed on April 19, 1944, while serving on the aircraft carrier Saratoga.

The citation states that Commander Clifton "showed great courage, leadership and skill as the air commander of two carrier-borne air groups in the successful attack on the Japanese base at Sabang."

At the informal ceremony Sir James, now head of the British Admiralty delegation, recalled that he was present on the occasion as commander in chief of the British Eastern Fleet.

"Commander Clifton was working under my orders," he said. "He led all the air squadrons, both British and American, at that time, and at other times in the Indian Ocean."

Sir James described how Commander Clifton aided in saving his wingman, shot down two miles from the Sabang shore batteries. The Kentuckian, he said, led fighters in driving off a Japanese tor-

Tariff Cuts Held Need For 'Free Enterprise'

Washington, May 30 (AP)—Assistant Secretary of State Clayton told senators today that the Administration needs new tariff-cutting power to promote world "economic liberalism and free enterprise."

Unless the nations of the world are willing to co-operate in the economic field, any peace organization established at the San Francisco conference will "fail of its purpose," he said, adding:

"Nations which act as enemies in the market place cannot long be friends at the council table."

Halving Of Rates Sought

Clayton was the first witness at hearings of the Senate Finance Committee on the House-approved legislation extending and broadening the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act.

As the committee met, Senator Walsh (D., Mass.) suggested that the hearings be confined to the issue of whether the Administration should be allowed to make trade agreements cutting tariffs 50 per cent below the level of January, 1945.

Under the present act, tariffs may be cut 50 per cent below those set in the Hawley-Smoot Act of 1930, the last Republican tariff law.

Would Extend Pact Time

The pending legislation, in addition to granting the new tariff-cutting power, would extend the Trade Agreements Act for three years from June 12.

Action on Walsh's suggestion was deferred after a general discussion during which opposition was expressed by Senator Bushfield (R., S.D.).

Chairman George (D., Ga.) said he hoped to expedite the hearings. Even so, he said, it is doubtful that the legislation can be sent to the floor and passed before June 12, when the present law expires.

Americans In Europe May Return To U.S.

Washington, May 30 (AP)—Every American stranded in Europe by the war who wants to come home will have the chance to do so by the end of the year, the State Department announced today.

Americans may bring close relatives with them, the announcement added.

The veteran repatriation liner Gripsholm has been assigned to the task and will leave New York tomorrow on her first trip since the end of the war in Europe.

The Gripsholm goes this time to Naples, Piraeus and Port Said, carrying "some 250 individuals traveling in the national interest in addition to approximately 700 Italian and Greek nationals who are returning or who are being sent back to their native lands."

On her way back from the Mediterranean the Gripsholm will bring back stranded American citizens and their close relatives.

BELGIAN MINISTER CITES MEAT CRISIS

WASHINGTON, May 30—(AP) Belgium was described by her minister of supplies and foreign purchases today as being in desperate need of meat.

Paul Kronacher, the minister, told reporters after calling on Acting Secretary of State Joseph C. Grew that Belgian cattle are down to 30 per cent of prewar numbers and 50 per cent of prewar weight.

Belgium doesn't care where or how it gets additional meat supplies, he said, whether through lend-lease, direct purchase, or otherwise.

He said the present daily meat allowance in Belgium is 35 grams per person, and Belgian milk cows and young beeves are being slaughtered to supply this.

The country is living off its meat capital, he said, and when this is gone there will be no meat at all unless Belgium gets it somewhere else.

Kronacher, who was accompanied by Embassy Counselor Louis Goffin, said the situation was urgent right now because Belgium soon will take over supply problems entirely from the military and will be on her own.

He said he could buy all the meat his country needs tomorrow from Argentina, for instance, but that Belgium wanted to follow Allied policy in this respect and was putting the matter up to the joint American-British-Canadian combined food board to get a formal allocation to buy the meat.

He asserted that during the war Belgium had pooled her resources with the Allies under lend-lease and contributed as much as four-fifths of her palm oil and other food products produced in the Belgian-Congo.

U.S. SAVED YANKS BY CARE OF NAZIS

Enemy Officers Disobeyed Hitler Order To Kill Airmen

Washington, May 30 (AP)—The American Red Cross said tonight that more than 99 per cent of United States prisoners of war in Germany have survived their hardships and are gradually returning home.

The high percentage, the Red Cross said in a general letter distributed to families of war prisoners, was due "in great part to the correct observance by the American Army of the Geneva Convention."

All But Russians

"Much anxiety appears to have been caused in the United States by the lack of understanding of the difference between concentration camps and prisoner of war camps," the letter said.

"The latter, so far as American and other Allied prisoners of war (except Soviet Russian) were cerned, enjoyed the protection the Geneva Convention."

Hitler Orders Executions

The letter also said that German officers refused to carry out an order by Adolf Hitler to execute all imprisoned American and British airmen because they knew that both American and British governments had discharged their treaty obligations toward enemy prisoners.

Carl J. Burkhardt, president of the international committee of the Red Cross, recently stated that Hitler gave the execution order last March.

First Lady Swings Champagne Bottle, And Swings And Swings

By EDITH GAYLORD

Washington, May 30 (AP)—Mrs. Harry S. Truman tried valiantly to christen two hospital planes today, but the Army and Navy hadn't arranged for the champagne bottles to break properly.

Sponsoring the planes purchased by the Congressional Club's war bond sales, the First Lady banged the bottle first on the Army C-54 to be called the U. S. Capitol.

Nine times she bounced the bottle as Army officers scurried aimlessly. A military aid banged the bottle four times.

Ship Has Dented Nose

The ship has a dented nose to show for it.

Navy officers, forewarned, found an axe and gave the bottle the business from below when Mrs Truman turned to christen their plane, the Congressional. The First Lady got spattered with champagne.

Once again she was led back to the army plane, but this time merely to pose for photographers.

Although this has been her first such public appearance as First Lady, Mrs. Truman refused to be rattled by the turn of the event.

She had even broken her no-speech rule to read from a manuscript over a nation-wide broadcast hookup just before attempting to christen the ships, one of which is scheduled to fly to Okinawa tomorrow.

"In sending forth these planes," Mrs. Truman said, "we send with them our love and sincere desire that the wounded whom they carry will be brought safely home."

After the unfinished ceremony it was learned that no one had thought to tell Mrs. Truman to hit the bottle against the sharp edge of the wheel well, nor had the thick bottles been properly "scored" to assure breakage instantly.

The Navy "Saw To It"

Lieut. Barney Capehart, of the Navy Air Transport Service, urged reporters to write the story as though the ceremony had gone smoothly. He denied that the Navy had accomplished their ship's christening by means of an ax, but said that the Navy saw to it that the bottle broke."

The crew of the Army plane asserted they would proudly fly their plane with its nose dented by Mrs. Truman.

Levantine Dispute Worries Washington

Washington, May 30 (AP)—Acting Secretary of State Joseph C. Grew said today the American Government is deeply concerned about the Levantine dispute and is in active consultation with all parties involved.

Asked for comment on developments in Syria and Lebanon, Grew made this statement:

"Developments in Syria and Lebanon in recent days are causing the United States Government deep concern. We are employing every means to assist in finding a peaceful solution and preventing further bloodshed and disorder. Consultations with all the parties involved are proceeding actively."

Grew's statement came after high official quarters in Washington privately had expressed pessimism over the tangled affairs of the two former French mandates where fighting has broken out between French and native forces.

REPORTS DIFFER ON RESULTS OF CONGRESS BATTLE

By HOWARD FLIEGER

WASHINGTON, May 30—(AP) Reps. Clarence Cannon and John Taber gave the House a memorial Day description of their one-punch fight today—and to hear them tell it they both won.

Said Taber: "I could have held him indefinitely."

Said Cannon: "The gentleman neglected to state that he ran out of the room."

They agreed on one point—that Cannon popped Taber in the mouth during an argument in the former's office and that Taber didn't hit back. But from that fact on there were two sides to the story.

Cannon, a Missouri democrat of the Appropriations committee. Taber, a New Yorker, is the ranking Republican member of the committee. They clashed yesterday shortly after Taber made a speech denouncing the House action in voting itself an annual $2,500 tax-free expense account for every member.

Cannon spoke to the House for 15 minutes today. He said Taber gave his side of the argument to newsmen yesterday so he got up "to give the other side."

First, he said, Taber's opposition to the expense allowance was a bit of a surprise because the New Yorker had been for it in committee conversations.

"At no time did he indicate any opposition to me or any disposition to oppose it on the floor."

However, the expense account played no part in the fight, Taber said. He swung on the New Yorker, he explained, because Taber made "a very insulting remark" to him on the floor.

Taber said yesterday that after he was struck, he grabbed Cannon by the wrists and held him "until he cooled off."

But Cannon declared today:

In the lurid account which the gentleman from New York gave the reporters, the gentleman neglected to state that he ran out of the room.

"He ran out to a room where a hearing was being held, but he didn't stop at his seat. I'll leave it to anyone of the 30 or 40 persons present as to the state and condition of the gentleman."

Taber, doing the best he could with a swollen lip, told the House he walked to the washroom to clean his lip, then walked to the doctor's office to have the bleeding stopped.

"Maybe that's running," he said.

Cannon, he went on, "is not an easy gentleman to get along with."

He insisted he never told anybody he was for the $2,500 expense allowance the way it was handled. "It was submitted to me and I made suggestions because if it was going to be done I wanted to see it done in a manner that would cause as little trouble as possible."

Of the fight:

"The only thing I'm proud of is x x x that I was able to hold my temper."

The two men made their explanations between several House Memorial Day speeches on lasting peace.

600 More Vets Return

New York, May 30 (AP)—The 16,000-ton British hospital ship Atlantis docked today at Staten Island, bringing 600 wounded American soldiers and sailors from Europe.

Fifty British Brides Of GI's Arrive In N.Y.

New York, May 30 (AP)—Fifty English girls who married American service men were "sort of scared" today at the prospect of meeting their new in-laws, but eager to see the sights of New York.

The war brides, some with babies, arrived yesterday aboard a troop ship. They are guests of the American Red Cross while transportation to their new homes is arranged.

British accents were their only identifying characteristic. Otherwise they looked like American girls.

105 Planes with 1,435 Fliers Arrive from Europe in State

MAY 31 1945

BRADLEY FIELD, Windsor Locks, May 30. — (AP) American war eagles who had chased the Luftwaffe from the skies over El Alemein, Bengasi, Naples, Rome and Brenner Pass came back to this part of the United States today.

Spokesmen here tonight said some of them were part of "the oldest units of the 15th Air Force —the desert rats" who started flying against the enemy from desert air strips soon after the African invasion.

With them were parts of the oldest units of the 8th Air Force.

There were a total of 1,435 men and officers in the 105 planes that landed at Bradley field today. They will be processed and furloughed before being re-deployed for service in the Pacific, it was said.

The bombers in which they arrived at intervals throughout the day came in from Newfoundland, on the third leg of the their homing flight out of Europe.

It was the largest number of bombers to arrive at Bradley field in a single day. Previous high total was 91 which arrived last Friday.

Dr. Kung Stays as Envoy

HOT SPRINGS, Va., May 30 (AP)—Dr. H. H. Kung said today that illness had forced him to resign as vice-president of the Executive Yuan (council) of the Chinese government at Chungking.

Dr. Kung said he also had relinquished his post as governor of the Central Bank of China but will continue to act, "as well as I can in my present state of health," as Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's personal representative to the White House while in this country.

Dr. Kung explained that he has just passed five months in a New York hospital, where he underwent two major operations for kidney trouble.

"Since last December," he said, "the Generalissimo has asked me to return to my post in Chungking, but my doctors tell me I am still too weak to travel. Consequently I must rest for some time longer."

Dr. Kung came to this country last summer as China's chief delegate to the Bretton Woods world monetary conference. Soon afterward he resigned as Finance Minister, and there was a shake-up in the Chungking government which assigned some of his more important government functions to his brother-in-law, Dr. T. V. Soong.

TAFT ATTACKS PEACE DRAFT

Senator Cites 'Secret' Propaganda For Training

Gettysburg, Pa., May 30 (AP)—Senator Taft (R., Ohio) said today that "secret" Government propaganda is being used in support of compulsory postwar military training.

The Ohioan spoke at a Memorial Day observance in the Gettysburg National Cemetery where 800 school children placed flowers on graves of 3,900 soldiers killed in the War Between the States.

Taft said "there is no doubt" that the Government, particularly the War and Navy departments, "are straining every nerve to secure enactment" of compulsory military training before the war ends.

Limitation On Freedom

He told an estimated 1,200 persons that "we are indeed bankrupt of ideas if we cannot provide a method by which necessary military forces and reserves are provided (during peacetime) by an American voluntary system."

"The power to take a boy from his home and subject him to complete Government discipline is the most serious limitation on freedom that can be imagined," he said.

Taft called for consideration of the issue "by argument and not by propaganda," adding if "the methods being used . . . are successful they can be used to fasten upon us every kind of regulation, price control for business, wage control for labor, production control for farmers."

Secret Meetings Alleged

The Senator said "secret meetings are being held in the Pentagon Building and elsewhere" in referring to support of the military-training issue.

". . . Government propaganda is bad enough when it is open, but it is inexcusable when secret," he added.

Taft contended that on April 26 "chief executive officers of some 40 or more women's organizations were invited" to Washington.

Addressed By High Officials

". . . It is said they were addressed by" Secretary of War Stimson, Secretary of the Navy Forrestal, Under Secretary of State Grew, Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, and Admiral Ernest J. King, chief of naval operations, "and other high-ranking officers."

"The ladies were requested not to disclose the substance of the speeches or to identify the War Department or its officials with the sponsorship of the plan," he said.

GEN. CLARK HOME FROM WAR

Chicago Turns Out To Greet Allied Commander

Chicago, May 30 (AP)—Gen. Mark W. Clark came home from the European war today.

The lanky hero of the North African and Italian campaigns, who commanded the Allied armies in Italy, was the first to emerge from the Army cargo planes which carried him and his aides, as well as a group of enlisted men, to Chicago from Paris in 28½ hours.

General Clark, with Lieut. Gen. Geoffrey Keyes, of West Point, N.Y.; Maj. Gen. Nathan F. Twining, of Monroe, Wis., and Maj. Gen. Raymond McLain beside him, later held a press conference at which he described the Allied campaign in Italy as one of "inadequacy."

"In Italy," he said, "it was a case of inadequacy most of the time. Just before the final battle the Allies had 75,000 men and the enemy had 74,000."

Ammunition Short

However, he added, the Allies had great air superiority and a 2-1 advantage in artillery. The big guns could not be used to greatest advantage because of a lack of ammunition, he said.

There were twelve nationalities represented in his fighting force during the final phase of the Italian campaign, the General declared, adding that "all of my boys are perfectly willing to go to the Pacific."

"We must not relax and forget that there still is a big job ahead," he said. "I'm sure we'll give the Japs as hard a licking as we gave the Germans."

The flight was "my best trip in a long time," Clark told Mayor Edward J. Kelly and city officials who greeted him at the airport.

Escorted By Fighters

Two other cargo planes disgorged other members of the party of more than 50 officers and men who flew with Clark from Paris, and the grinning commander called to the ten generals who returned with him to join him in having their pictures taken.

Hundreds of spectators lined the airport fence and as Clark stepped from the plane they cheered enthusiastically.

Three squadrons of P-40 fighter planes escorted General Clark's aircraft to the field, then circled overhead waiting to join the fifteen-mile Memorial Day parade to The Loop.

Acknowledged Cheers

The parade, boasting all the vehicles the Army's 6th Service Command could provide, moved slowly toward the downtown district, with General Clark acknowledging onlookers' cheers from an open staff car.

Congress plaza, the parade's terminal point, was jammed with thousands of celebrants anxious for a glimpse of the man who once lost his pants when a rubber boat capsized during a night-time escape from French North Africa, and later won a promotion and the Distinguished Service Medal for his exploit.

"Where's My Wife?"

Chicago considered General Clark's arrival a "home-coming." As a boy, Clark lived in suburban Highland Park and attended grammar and high school there while his father, Col. Charles Carr Clark, was commander of Fort Sheridan, Illinois.

Gen. Clark interrupted the civic reception before an estimated 35,000 persons today to ask a personal question—"where's my wife?"

He hadn't yet seen his wife and daughter, who arrived last night from Washington.

"Do It Again, General"

Mrs. Clark rushed from the crowd assembled before Congress plaza, where she had been quietly watching the ceremonies.

As the two embraced, a photographer yelled "do it again general, it's your privilege—and I missed my shot."

The general enthusiastically obliged.

General Clark's assignment has not been announced by the Army, but reports from Paris earlier this week said a plan to establish a separate occupation zone for Austria, with Clark as American representative on a four-power governing council at Vienna, was under consideration by the Allies.

Powell Warns U.S. On 'Peace-Feelers'

Hannibal, Mo., May 30 (AP)—A warning to the United States that the Japanese are likely to seek peace so that the war lords can prepare for a new conflict was made by J. B. Powell, former editor of the China Weekly Review, in an address here last night.

Powell, who lost part of both feet while being held prisoner by the Japanese for three years, returned to his home town as a guest of honor. He said he hopes to go back to the Orient and re-establish his magazine.

Powell said that "these attempts of the Japanese to wriggle out of their part in the war have naturally been rejected by both China and ourselves in the realization that a peace on such terms would only provide a brief respite and a period of preparation for another and more terrible conflict."

PENALTY CLAUSE IS DISCUSSED BY UNITED NATIONS

Loss of Voting Rights May Be Price for Refusal of Cooperation.

REPORT IS APPROVED

Atlantic Charter Promises Are Included in Proposed Measure.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 30. — (AP) The loss of voting rights may be the price of refusal of any United Nation to support a new world league with its military resources.

This possibility developed at the United Nations conference today when a committee reported to its parent commission that this penalty is under consideration and may be adopted.

The bulk of the committee report, recommending some of the structure and procedure for a projected general assembly of all nations in the world organization, was approved almost automatically at the second public meeting of a conference commission.

Russia, however, blocked acceptance of a formula for electing the top administrative officer of the world organization, explaining she had taken the matter up with the conference Steering committee and wanted action deferred pending a reply.

As nine working committees ground ahead on the job of drafting various portions of a charter for the world organization, it became known that:

1. The American delegation is leaning toward the idea of including in this charter terms of the Atlantic Charter's promises of access by all nations, "on equal terms, to the trade and to the raw materials of the world which are needed for their economic prosperity."

2. Denmark, apparently assured of a belated invitation to the conference table, has three delegates scheduled to arrive here tomorrow. They are Henrick Kauffman, minister to Washington, and Hartvig S. Risch and E. Husfeldt.

3. French desires to maintain (1) a Franco-Soviet pact aimed at Germany and (2) her independence of action in Europe have given added weight to an old issue of regional security.

4. Britain and Russia have collided head on over a Soviet desire to eliminate from a plan for international rule of dependent and strategic areas a declaration that trusteeships should not apply to existing mandates (from World War I) without the consent of the nation holding the mandate. British delegates also were reported ready to battle a Russian suggestion that dependent people be specifically offered the hope of ultimate independence.

The conference itself will have to decide the trusteeship question if the Russians and British are unable to reconcile differences in Big Five deliberations.

A decision on cancelling voting rights in the general assembly if a country declines to place military might at the disposal of a peace-enforcing security council has been deferred until the conference straightens out one of its tangles.

A committee is trying to figure out now whether individual nations should agree by treaties among themselves or by pacts made directly with the council to supply whatever armed forces are needed for a powerful international police force.

Tied into the same problem is the question of requiring all the United Nations to agree to grant transit across their territories whenever the world organization's army has to move against a country threatening the peace.

Technical experts of the big five —China, Britain, Russia, France and the United States—have agreed tentatively that league forces should be assured the privilege of moving through any nation.

France has made the specific proposal for "the right of passage."

Another French suggestion was encountering heavier going. That was that security zones be created in various parts of the world and that United Nations forces be stationed in them.

The American delegation was showing an inclination to help France out in writing into the world charter more definite assurances that mutual assistance pacts designed to keep German aggression from rising again will not be scuttled by the international organization.

Under a plan already approved in the committee phase of conference action, preventive, coercive measures could be taken against enemy states of this war under such alliances as the Franco-Soviet until the time the interested government's consent to let the world security council take on the job of preventing further aggression.

San Francisco, May 30 (AP)—France told other United Nations delegations today she intends to hold the Aosta Valley in northwestern Italy until the Allies answer her request for a definite occupation zone in Germany.

The official France Journal, distributed at the security conference, said that the French had made this request six months ago.

Parley Divided on Plan For Amending Charter

Small Nations Ask Changes by Majority Vote

SAN FRANCISCO, May 30 (AP).—Even before completion of a first draft, big and little nations are in heated argument over how to amend the charter for a world organization. Delegates reported today that committee debate over this question has been as hot as any heard at the United Nations conference.

Australia is leading the small powers, in opposition to a unified stand by the Big Five. Divergent proposals finally were shunted to a fifteen-nation committee which will try to effect a compromise.

The Big Five are proposing that the world charter can be changed only when they have all agreed on the change, and when a majority of the other nations agree.

Australia contends that since this would permit just one of the Big Five nations to prevent any change, the proposal is "undemocratic and indefensible." New Zealand backed her up, terming big-power proposals "iniquitious."

Australia is proposing a modification which would permit changes in the charter after two-thirds of all the nations have agreed, and only three of the Big Five powers have concurred. Still different amendment proposals came from Brazil and Canada.

Egypt said that at San Francisco, "the small powers have had most of their hopes dashed. We must give the small nations some ray of hope, even though we don't carry so many of our points at San Francisco."

Parley Debates Problem Of How to Apply Force

Decision on Penalties for States Refusing Aid Is Deferred

SAN FRANCISCO, May 30 (AP).—A committee decision on canceling voting rights in the general assembly of the projected United Nations organization if a country declines to place military might at the disposal of a peace-enforcing security council has been deferred until the United Nations conference straightens out one of its tangles.

The committee is trying to figure out now whether individual nations should agree by treaties among themselves or by pacts made directly with the council to supply whatever armed forces are needed for a powerful international police force.

Optional Jurisdiction By World Court Is Voted

Parley Subcommittee Votes to Let Nations Decide

SAN FRANCISCO, May 30 (AP).—A subcommittee at the United Nations Conference today voted 8 to 3 to let members of the New World League decide for themselves whether they will accept compulsory jurisdiction of the international court.

The action is subject to review by a full committee. In the subcomittee vote, Australia, New Zealand and Mexico opposed adoption of the optional clause. These three had sought to force all league members to accept compulsory jurisdiction of the court.

Under the optional clause, a nation could voluntarily agree to abide by court decisions. It also could, if it chose, place reservations on the type of decision which it would consider final.

If a nation chose to accept compulsory jurisdiction it might be subject to suit in the court without its specific consent. Any nation could decline originally, however, to accept court decisions as final.

In another committee, a proposal was adopted which would permit the economic and social council to exchange observers with inter-governmental organizations. The committee also approved in principle a proposal under which members of the league who are not represented on the social and economic council could participate in council discussions without vote.

World Army Due Right To Cross Any Country

San Francisco, May 30 (AP)—Big Five technical experts tentatively agreed today that United Nations armies enforcing the peace through the proposed security organization can send troops across any country on the globe.

Thus, if Russia sped armies toward Berlin, she would have the unquestioned right of passage across Poland. Canadian troops could cross the United States to strike an enemy south of the Rio Grande.

This problem of troop movements, one of several tangles over enforcement action engaging committees of the United Nations Conference, was brought up by the French. Paris asked that this right be specifically included in the world security charter.

Anglo-U.S. Argument

Britain and the United States are still arguing over whether agreements to make troops available for international action should be between governments or with the world organization.

These points were disclosed today after representatives of Britain, France, the United States, China and Russia met to discuss the military side of the new peace agency being planned here.

The French have proposed two important amendments to the Dumbarton Oaks charter on military arrangements. One would pledge each member state to grant "the right of passage," as well as its armed forces and facilities, for the security of the world.

Security Zones Opposed

Considerable opposition was reported to a second French amendment which would set up security zones in different parts of the world and keep United Nations' forces there. Some delegates argued that this referred mainly to the French desire to keep the Ruhr occupied. They contended that it should be dealt with outside of San Francisco.

Other conference officials said they thought the United States would swing toward the British view on negotiation of military agreements to supply national force contingents.

The original Dumbarton Oaks text provides only that the members shall make agreements "among themselves." The next steps would be left to the security council, which would call the military staff committee into existence.

In plans being considered thus far, the idea of an international airforce set out at Dumbarton Oaks has apparently already fallen by the wayside.

It is argued that no nation would want to make its latest inventions and developments open to everyone else. Instead, the British are proposing fixed amounts of national forces that would hold joint maneuvers perhaps once a year. Such a show of united might at regular intervals would be a strong deterrent to would-be aggressors, they say, as well as providing practice in working together.

The Australians have suggested that land and sea contingents be added to this force to be kept permanently on the alert for quick action. The Big Five show signs of agreeing.

GOSLAR, GERMANY, MAY 30-(AP)-AMERICAN AND BRITISH INQUIRIES ARE BEING RUSHED THROUGHOUT THE RHINELAND TO DISCOVER ELEMENTS OF THE POPULATION WH-

30.24-27141

XXXXX CAN PROVE THEY WERE NOT MERELY NON-NAZI BUT ANTI-NAZI DURING ADOLF HITLER'S REGIME.

THE MATTER WAS CONSIDERED IMPORTANT IN VIEW OF SUGGESTIONS FROM SOME QUARTERS IN THE UNITED STATES AND BRITAIN THAT THE RHINELAND SHOULD GET FAVORED TREATMENT IF REPORTS CAN BE CONFIRMED THAT PASSIVE RESISTANCE TO THE NAZI PROGRAM WAS WIDESPREAD HERE.

ALLIED MILITARY INVESTIGATORS HAVE ESTABLISHED THAT A TINY UNIT OF THE "EDELWEISS," GERMAN UNDERGROUND YOUTH MOVEMENT FORMED IN OPPOSITION TO THE HITLER JUGEND, OPERATED IN THIS LITTLE VILLAGE NEAR THE NETHERLANDS FRONTIER.

MAY 31 1945

BRAWNY 19-YEAR-OLD ANTON THEMANNS, IDENTIFIED AS ONE OF THOSE WHO HELPED FOUND THE UNIT IN 1943, XXXXXXXXXXXX STOPPED SHOEING A FARM HORSE TODAY TO TELL ABOUT IT, FULL OF BOYISH PRIDE IN HIS ACHIEVEMENT. HIS STORY INDICATED THE VILLAGE EDELWEISS XXXXX MOVEMENT CARRIED ON SMALL-SCALE JISANCE ACTIVITIES MAINLY FOR ITS OWN MORALE, HELD TOGETHER AND KEPT ITSELF INFORMED, BUT NEVER ASSUMED THE PROPORTIONS OF A REVOLT OR SERIOUSLY THREATENED NAZI AUTHORITY.

HARD-MUSCLED ANTON, A BLACKSMITH LIKE HIS FATHER, XXXXXXXXX WATCHED WHILE THE ELDER THEMANNS JOINED THE NAZI PARTY IN 1942, BUT SAID HE "WASN'T CONVINCED." HE WAS ONE OF "ABOUT 20 BOYS IN BOSLAR" WHO "WERE PUT AUTOMATICALLY INTO THE HITLER JUGEND, BUT FIVE OR SIX OF US DID NOT LIKE ALL THE FOOLISH DRILL AND DISCIPLINE," HE SAID.

"THE LEADERS OF THE HITLER JUGEND LORDED IT OVER US BUT WE EVENED THE SCORE. WE XXX WAYLAID A PAIR OF THEM AT NIGHT AND BEAT THEM. AT MEETINGS SOMETIMES WE LAUGHED WHEN WE WERE SUPPOSED TO BE VERY SERIOUS ABOUT NAZI POLICIES. WE ALSO SOMETIMES MARCHED OUT OF STEP WHEN IT WAS A SERIOUS PARADE."

XXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXX THEY FORMED A UNIT OF THE EDELWEISS, NAMED AFTER THE LITTLE ALPINE FLOWER THAT BLOOMS IN SPITE OF COLD, AND XXXXX SECRETLY WORE PAPER FLOWERS CUT IN THE DESIGN OF THE EDELWEISS BLOOM ON THE XXXXX UNDERSIDE OF THEIR LAPELS. THE PURPOSE WAS MAINLY SYMBOLIC.

"ALL OF US KNEW EACH OTHER IN BOSLAR -- IT WASN'T EXACTLY NECESSARY," HE ADMITTED. "I HAVE HEARD HOWEVER THERE WERE LARGER UNITS IN KREFELD AND JUELICH WHERE A METHOD OF IDENTIFICATION MAY HAVE BEEN NECESSARY."

YOUNG THEMANNS SAID THE GROUP USED TO LISTEN TO BRITISH BROADCASTS BUT DID NOT ENGAGE IN REAL SABOTAGE OR ATTACKS WHICH WOULD HAVE BEEN VERY DANGEROUS." HE SAID HE HEARD A RUMOR THAT EDELWEISS BOYS IN A NEARBY LARGER UNIT HAD FIRED ON A GESTAPO MAN, BUT HE DID NOT KNOW WHETHER THEY HAD WOUNDED HIM. "IF THERE HAD BEEN SOMETHING TRULY BIG WE WOULD HAVE HEARD ABOUT IT."

"I WAS IN THE EDELWEISS UNTIL I WAS MOBILIZED IN THE WEHRMACHT IN DECEMBER, 1943," THEMANNS RELATED. "LAST APRIL 27 AFTER OUR UNIT WAS CUT AS AN INFANTRYMAN. OFF I PUT ON CIVILIAN CLOTHES, CAME BACK TO BOSLAR AND TOLD YOUR MILITARY GOVERNMENT WHAT I HAD DONE. THEY HAD NO OBJECTIONS TO MY BEING A BLACKSMITH AGAIN WITH MY FATHER."

MAY 31 1945

HE SAID HE TOLD HIS FATHER OF HIS UNDERGROUND ACTIVITY ONLY AFTER HE ENTERED THE WEHRMACHT. "MY FATHER WAS A PARTY MAN BUT HE DID NOT REPORT ME," ANTON SAID. "HE WAS SURPRISED AT ME BUT, AFTER ALL, I AM HIS SON."

A LARGE AUDIENCE OF SOLDIERS, SAILORS AND MARINES WITNESSED THE SHOWING AFTER ATTENDING RELIGIOUS SERVICES IN TWO HUGE MARINE CEMETERIES FLANKING MT.SURIBACHI ON THE SOUTHERN BEACHES.

THOUSANDS OF MEN LINED THE NEARBY SLOPES AND KNELT BETWEEN THE ROWS OF WHITE CROSSES.

MANY OF THE MEN SEEING THE FILM IN THE SEABEES' AMPHITHEATER HAD WORKED TO CONVERT SHELL-TORN IWO JIMA INTO A BASE FOR AERIAL ASSAULT OF THE JAPANESE HOMELAND.

MEMBERS OF THE FOURTH MARINE AIRCRAFT WING WATCHED THE FILM SCENES OF THEIR INFANTRY COMRADES FIGHTING OVER FAMILIAR GROUND.

OKINAWA, MAY 28-(DELAYED)-(AP)-NIGHT LONG ATTACKS BY JAPANESE PLANES ON SHIPPING OFF OKINAWA, COUPLED WITH THE FACT THAT THE NAVY LEADS IN THE OKINAWA CAMPAIGN FATALITIES, DEMONSTRATE ANEW THE FIERCNESS WITH WHICH THE DYING ENEMY AIR FORCE IS ATTEMPTING TO CRIPPLE THE U.S. PACIFIC FLEET.

A LIGHT UNIT OFFICIALLY REPORTED TO HAVE BEEN SUNK SUNDAY NIGHT WAS HIT IN A VITAL SPOT AND WENT DOWN WITHIN A FEW MINUTES.

ON THE OTHER HAND MANY OTHER RAID VICTIMS HAVE BEEN SO SUPERFICIALLY DAMAGED THAT THEY HAVE BEEN REPAIRED AND RETURNED TO DUTY TO SHOOT DOWN MORE NIPPONESE PLANES.

OF LATE THE JAPANESE IN A NUMBER OF CASES HAVE BEEN TURNING AWAY FROM SUICIDAL ATTEMPTS AND RELYING MORE UPON ATTEMPTED BOMBING AND TORPEDOING. THEY SEEM TO BE RECOGNIZING THE INEFFICIENCY OF THEIR "BAKA" BOMBS ALSO. ONLY ONE OF THESE HAS BEEN SIGHTED AND DOWNED RECENTLY.

ONE DAMAGED SHIP SPLASHED THREE JAPANESE PLANES. NEARBY, ANOTHER SHIP DOWNED ONE ON EACH SIDE, ESCAPING DAMAGE HERSELF. ANOTHER ENEMY PLANE EXPLODED IN THE WATER WHEN IT GLANCED OFF THE SHIP'S OVERHANGING BOOM.

MEANWHILE THERE IS THE LIKELIHOOD THAT THE ALREADY HIGH ENEMY A[illegible] LOSS RATIO WILL INCREASE WITH EACH SUCCEEDING ATTEMPTED RAID.

WHILE BONIFACE WAS INSPECTING THE CASTLE TWO YOUNG WOMEN, PROBABLY OKINAWANS, CAME THROUGH A BREAK IN THE OUTER WALL.

"THEY COULD SPEAK A LITTLE ENGLISH," HE SAID. "ONE OF THEM KEPT SAYING SHE WANTED TO GO BACK INTO THE RUBBLE AND GET HER BABY.

"AFTER SHE HAD GOTTEN HER BABY SHE SEEMED CONTENT AND SAT AROUND SMOKING CIGARETS ONE AFTER ANOTHER AS LONG AS THE MARINES WOULD GIVE THEM TO HER."

MOST OF THE UNDERGROUND CAVES WERE EMPTY. SOME OF THEM HAD BEEN KNOCKED IN BY AMERICAN SHELL FIRE. ONE OF THEM HAD BEEN THE ARMORY AND CONTAINED ABOUT 50 RIFLES.

ON ONE JAPANESE BODY MARINES FOUND TWO AMERICAN DOLLAR BILLS, A DIME AND A PENNY WHICH HAD BEEN HAMMERED OUT AND THE LORD'S PRAYER ENGRAVED ON IT.

IF LATER DEVELOPMENTS BEAR OUT THIS APPARENT TREND IN JAPANESE STRATEGY IT WILL SEEM THAT THE ENEMY VIRTUALLY IS INVITING THE LONG-HERALDED AMPHIBIOUS OFFENSIVE AGAINST THE SOUTHEAST CHINA COAST. AT THE SAME TIME THE ENEMY WOULD BE PREPARING FOR A FIGHT TO THE FINISH--NOT THERE WHERE COMMUNICATIONS ARE EXTENDED BUT IN NORTH CHINA AND POSSIBLY IN MANCHURIA AGAINST THE RUSSIANS.

MAJ. GEN. CLAIRE L.CHENNAULT, U.S. 14TH AIR FORCE COMMANDER WHO IS NOT THE SOURCE OF OTHER MATERIAL IN THIS DISPATCH, APTLY PHRASED HIS IMMEDIATE REACTION TO JAPANESE ABANDONMENT OF YUNGNING:

"IT LOOKS LIKE THEY THINK THERE'S A THREE-BALL ALERT IN MANCHURIA." A THREE-BALL ALERT IN CHINA AIR BASE TERMINOLOGY IS AN URGENT ALARM AGAINST IMMINENT ATTACK.

(MANCHURIA IN NORTHERN CHINA ADJOINS THE SOVIET FRONTIER. LARGE UNUSED JAPANESE FORCES HAVE BEEN STATIONED THERE THROUGHOUT THE WAR. RUSSIA IS NOT AT WAR WITH JAPAN BUT THE SOVIETS SOMETIME AGO DENOUNCED THEIR NEUTRALITY PACT WITH TOKYO.)

WHEN CHENNAULT SENT P-51 RECONNAISSANCE PLANES OVER YUNGNING ON SUNDAY TO ASSAY THE AMAZING CHINESE REPORT THAT THE JAPANESE HAD YIELDED TO SLIGHT CHINESE PRESSURE AND PULLED OUT, THE PILOTS WERE GREETED BY FRIENDLY WAVES FROM TOWNSPEOPLE AND CHINESE SOLDIERS. IT WAS THE VISIBLE RESULT OF ONE OF THE MOST DRASTIC SHIFTS OF ENEMY STRATEGY SINCE THE BEGINNING OF THE WAR.

FOR, IN THE ABANDONMENT OF YUNGNING THE JAPANESE PERMITTED CLOSURE OF THE OVERLAND DOOR TO PERHAPS 200,000 JAPANESE TROOPS SPREAD OVER MALAYA, THAILAND, FRENCH INDO CHINA, AND PARTS OF BURMA. THE ONLY HOPE OF A WITHDRAWAL OF THESE TROOPS TO ANY CHINA CITADEL LAY IN THE RETENTION OF YUNGNING, GATEWAY INTO SOUTHEAST ASIA. HUNDREDS OF AMERICAN SEA-SWEEPING PLANES ALREADY HAD FORBIDDEN ANY MAJOR WITHDRAWAL BY SEA.

AT 7 P.M. SATURDAY THE CHINESE ENTERED AND CLEARED THE TOWN BY SUNDAY. THE JAPANESE MOVED NORTH AND EAST TOWARD LIUCHOW.

YESTERDAY THE FIRST 14TH AIRFORCE PLANE OF THE LIGHT LIAISON TYPE LANDED ON THE YUNGNING AIR STRIP WHICH HADN'T BEEN REPAIRED SINCE THE AMERICAN AIRMEN BLEW IT UP LAST YEAR DURING THE JAPANESE DRIVE.

INDEED THE ENEMY, BECAUSE OF THE 14TH'S AIR POWER, NEVER SUCCEEDED IN BRINGING TO FULL OPERATIONAL STATUS ANY OF THE 13 BASES CAPTURED IN SOUTHEAST CHINA BETWEEN JUNE 24, 1944, AND JAN. 30, 1945. AT MOST THE FIELDS SERVED FOR FLY-BY-NIGHT STAGING.

THUS JAPAN'S OFFENSIVE FROM YOCHOW THROUGH CHANGSHA, HENGYANG, AND KWEILIN TO LINK UP WITH FORCES FROM CANTON IN THE YUNGNING-LIUCHOW AREA WAS, IN THE LIGHT OF THE LATEST DEVELOPMENTS, NO MORE THAN A COLOSSAL DISSIPATION ALTHOUGH IT WAS TO BE EXPLAINED AT THE TIME AS PRINCIPALLY LAYING AN OVERLAND SUPPLY LINE TO SOUTHEAST ASIA.

BY TOM REEDY
WASHINGTON, MAY 30-(AP)-THE STATE DEPARTMENT PREDICTED TODAY AN ANNUAL TEN-BILLION DOLLAR POSTWAR EXPORT TRADE FOR THE U.S., TRIPLE THAT OF 1939.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY WILLIAM L.CLAYTON TOLD THE SENATE FINANCE COMMITTEE THIS WAS A LOGICAL EXPECTATION, PROVIDED CONGRESS GRANTS PROPOSED NEW TARIFF CUTTING POWER TO PRESIDENT TRUMAN AND SANCTIONS FULL AMERICAN PARTICIPATION IN THE BRETTON WOODS WORLD FINANCING PLAN.

CLAYTON SAID THE ADMINISTRATION NEEDS THE EXTENDED TARIFF POWER TO PROMOTE WIDER TRADE, AND THAT IT IN TURN WOULD BE REFLECTED IN GREATER PROSPERITY AT HOME.

CLAYTON WAS THE FIRST WITNESS IN THE SENATE HEARINGS ON THE THREE-YEAR EXTENSION OF THE RECIPROCAL TRADE AGREEMENT AUTHORITY. THE LEGISLATION WAS PASSED BY THE HOUSE LAST WEEK.

THE WIDER AUTHORITY WOULD ALLOW TRADE AGREEMENTS REDUCING TARIFFS 50 PER CENT BELOW THE LEVEL OF JANUARY, 1945.

CLAYTON REITERATED THAT UNITED STATES DOLLARS WILL BE NEEDED TO FINANCE THE WAR-TORN NATIONS. WHERE TARIFFS CAN BE CUT WITHOUT INJURING AMERICAN BUSINESS, HE SAID, THOSE SAME DOLLARS WILL BE RETURNED IN INCREASED PURCHASE OF AMERICAN GOODS.

HE SAID IT WOULD BE "MANY YEARS" BEFORE GERMANY, JAPAN, CHINA OR RUSSIA WILL BE "SERIOUS COMPETITORS" FOR THE AMERICAN MARKET AND DECLARED THAT THE 11-YEAR-RECORD OF THE RECIPROCAL TRADE PLAN HAS "FAILED TO TURN UP" A CASE WHERE AN AMERICAN INDUSTRY WAS INJURED.

SENATOR BAILEY (D-NC) OFFERED AN AMENDMENT WHICH WOULD FORBID LOWERED DUTIES ON STRATEGIC MATERIALS, CONTENDING THAT THE NATION SHOULD DEVELOP THESE WARTIME NEEDED COMMODITIES AT HOME AS FULLY AS POSSIBLE.

SENATOR WALSH (D-MASS) SAID HE HEARD THAT RUSSIA PROPOSES TO INCREASE ITS 10 MILLION TON STEEL OUTPUT TO 60 MILLION TONS AND ASKED IF EVENTUALLY THE SOVIET UNION WOULD BE A SERIOUS COMPETITOR.

"RUSSIA WILL EXPAND VERY GREATLY," CLAYTON SAID. "BUT I DO NOT FEAR THEM AS A COMPETITOR IN THE WORLD MARKET FOR MANY YEARS TO COME. THEY NEVER WERE A GREAT FACTOR IN INTERNATIONAL TRADE AND THEY ARE COMMITTED TO DEVELOP THEIR OWN COUNTRY."

ANNOUNCING THE RESULT OF THE SCHOOL'S RESEARCH TODAY, PRESIDENT PAUL F. DOUGLASS CALCULATED THAT THE EXPENDITURES FOR WAR SINCE 1934 AMOUNT TO MORE THAN $500 FOR EVERY MAN, WOMAN AND CHILD IN THE WORLD.

DR. DOUGLASS SAID THE TOTAL, MORE THAN $1,000,000,000,000, "DOES NOT INDICATE THE DESTRUCTION AND DAMAGE OF PUBLIC AND PRIVATE PROPERTY." IT LIKEWISE DOES NOT INCLUDE CHINESE EXPENDITURES IN THE 14-YEAR WAR WITH JAPAN WHICH THE UNIVERSITY HAS BEEN UNABLE TO DETERMINE.

TOTAL ALLIED EXPENDITURES UP TO THE PRESENT WERE ESTIMATED AT $558,000,000,000. AXIS EXPENDITURES WERE CALCULATED AT $442,900,000,000. DR. DOUGLASS SAID OTHER "FLOATING STATISTICAL DATA" BROUGHT THE OVERALL TOTAL ROUGHLY TO THE ANNOUNCED FIGURE.

THE COLLEGE PRESIDENT SAID EXACT ACCURACY COULD NOT BE ATTAINED BUT THAT "THE INFORMATION WE ACQUIRED AFTER CONSIDERABLE RESEARCH INTO FINANCIAL REPORTS AND ESTIMATES SHOWED THAT THE TOTAL SUM COULD NOT POSSIBLY FALL UNDER THE TRILLION DOLLAR MARK."

WILL LEAVE THE UNITED STATES FOR GREECE WITHIN A FEW WEEKS. IN ADDITION, 300 BRED HEIFERS AND 300 MARES PROBABLY WILL BE SHIPPED SHORTLY TO YUGOSLAVIA.

UNRRA SAID ITS LIVESTOCK PROGRAM WAS DESIGNED TO REPLACE ONE PER CENT OF THE 5,000,000 ANIMALS DESTROYED DURING THE WAR IN GREECE, ALBANIA, YUGOSLAVIA, CZECHOSLOVAKIA AND POLAND. THE FIRST SHIPMENT WAS DIRECTED TO GREECE, IT SAID, BECAUSE OF HER "EXTREME NEED."

"THE LIVESTOCK REHABILITATION PROGRAM IS RESTRICTED BY THE LIMITED AVAILABILITY OF ANIMALS AND OF SHIPPING SPACE," E.R. HENSON, UNRRA'S AGRICULTURAL REHABILITATION DIRECTOR SAID.

"IT WILL ONLY PARTIALLY MEET THE MOST URGENT NEEDS OF THE LIBERATED AREAS FOR MORE MILK PRODUCTION AND MORE DRAFT ANIMAL POWER TO INCREASE OUTPUT...THIS TYPE OF FARM REHABILITATION IS PART OF THE ESSENTIAL POLICY OF HELPING THE LIBERATED PEOPLE TO HELP THEMSELVES."

KRONACHER SAID BELGIUM COULD BUY ALL THE MEAT SHE NEEDS FROM ARGENTINA TOMORROW BUT INSTEAD HAD PUT THE MATTER UP TO THE AMERICAN-BRITISH-CANADIAN COMBINED FOOD BOARD BECAUSE SHE WANTED TO FOLLOW ALLIED POLICY IN THIS RESPECT.

WASHINGTON, MAY 30-(AP)-JAPAN'S BOMB-FERRYING BALLOONS ARE BEING LAUNCHED AGAINST THE UNITED STATES FROM NIPPONESE HOME ISLANDS. THEY TRAVEL UP TO 125 MILES AN HOUR AND TAKE SOME ~~80 TO 120~~ 45 HOURS TO REACH THIS COUNTRY.

LYLE F.WATTS, CHIEF OF THE U.S. FOREST SERVICE, GIVING THESE FURTHER DETAILS IN A BLUE NETWORK INTERVIEW LAST NIGHT, ADDED THAT THE UNMANNED BALLOONS ARE CONTROLLED BY AN AUTOMATIC BALLAST-DROPPING DEVICE. THE FOREST SERVICE HAS BEEN ASSISTING THE ARMY IN PREVENTING DAMAGE FROM THE ENEMY WEAPON.

MAY 31 1945

WATTS SAID THE HYDROGEN-FILLED BALLOONS ATTAIN HEIGHTS OF 25,000 TO 35,000 FEET WHERE THEY REACH AIR CURRENTS WHICH TRAVEL CONSTANTLY FROM WEST TO EAST. EACH TIME THEY DESCEND TO 25,000 FEET FROM LOSS OF GAS, A BAROMETRIC PRESSURE SWITCH AUTOMATICALLY DROPS A SANDBAG, HE EXPLAINED. RELEASE OF THIS SANDBAG CAUSES THE BALLOON TO RISE AGAIN TO ABOUT 35,000 FEET.

"IF THE JAPS HAVE FIGURED RIGHT," WATTS SAID, "THE LAST SANDBAG HAS BEEN DROPPED ONLY AFTER THE BALLOON HAS REACHED THIS COUNTRY."

A SECOND AUTOMATIC SWITCH WHICH CONTROLS THE BOMBS THEN TAKES OVER, HE SAID.

"WHEN THE BALLOON DROPS TO 27,000 FEET A BOMB IS RELEASED. THE BALLOON GOES BACK UP, THEN DOWN AGAIN AND ANOTHER INCENDIARY IS RELEASED AND SO ON AS IT TRAVELS ACROSS THE UNITED STATES. WHEN THE LAST INCENDIARY IS DROPPED, A FUSE IS IGNITED AUTOMATICALLY AND SETS OFF A DEMOLITION CHARGE WHICH DESTROYS THE BALLOON."

THE ARMY AND NAVY, ANNOUNCING RECENTLY THAT SOME OF THE BALLOONS HAVE LANDED IN THE WESTERN PART OF THE COUNTRY, SAID THEY HAD CAUSED NO PROPERTY DAMAGE.

SAN FRANCISCO, MAY 30-(AP)-SECRETARY OF STATE STETTINIUS HAS TOLD ARAB LEADERS WHO PROTESTED AGAINST FRENCH POLICY IN SYRIA AND LEBANON THAT THE UNITED STATES STANDS BY ITS SUPPORT OF THE INDEPENDENCE OF THOSE TWO UNITED NATIONS MEMBERS.

STETTINIUS SAID, HOWEVER, THAT THE DISPUTE WHICH HAS BROKEN OUT IN THE LEVANT IS NOT A PROPER SUBJECT FOR CONSIDERATION AT THE CONFERENCE HERE. HE ADDED THAT THE STATE DEPARTMENT IN WASHINGTON IS DOING ALL IN ITS POWER TO BRING ABOUT A PROMPT END TO THE TROUBLES.

ON MAY 10, THE WAR DEPARTMENT ANNOUNCED THAT A HUGE TRUCK CONVOY OF SERVICE TROOPS HAD MADE A 6,000-MILE TREK FROM THE PERSIAN DESERT TO CHINA, AND WAS ALREADY AT WORK TRANSPORTING MUNITIONS AND SUPPLIES TO THE CHINESE.

A GOVERNMENT OFFICIAL, WHO DECLINED TO BE QUOTED BY NAME, SAID TODAY THE PROCESS OF WITHDRAWING U.S. FORCES FROM IRAN WILL BE COMPLETED WITHIN A NORMAL TIME. HE DID NOT SAY WHAT WAS CONSIDERED NORMAL.

THE STATE DEPARTMENT CONFIRMED THAT THE AMERICAN EMBASSY IN TEHRAN HAD RECEIVED THE IRANIAN FOREIGN MINISTRY'S NOTE REQUESTING THAT RUSSIAN, AMERICAN AND BRITISH TROOPS LEAVE NOW THAT THE WAR AGAINST GERMANY IS OVER.

MAY 31 1945

ALTHOUGH BRITAIN AND RUSSIA HAVE TREATIES WITH IRAN WHEREBY THEIR TROOPS ARE BOUND TO LEAVE THE COUNTRY WITHIN SIX MONTHS AFTER THE WAR, THE UNITED STATES HAS NO SUCH TREATY.

THIS IS PARTLY BECAUSE AMERICAN TROOPS--CONSISTING MOSTLY OF ENGINEERING AND OTHER TECHNICAL FORCES USED TO OPERATE PORT FACILITIES AND THE SUPPLY RAILWAY UP TO RUSSIA--WERE SENT IN AT BRITISH REQUEST TO SERVE UNDER BRITISH DIRECTION.

THIS COUNTRY EARLY PROPOSED TO IRAN THAT THE SITUATION BE REGULARIZED BY A TREATY, AND THE IRANIAN GOVERNMENT AGREED. DRAFTS WERE PREPARED AND EXCHANGED, BUT AFTER THE TEHRAN CONFERENCE OF DECEMBER, 1943, THE IRANIANS ALLOWED THE MATTER TO LAPSE.

THIS WAS PRESUMABLY BECAUSE THE TEHRAN DECLARATION ON IRAN, SIGNED BY MARSHAL STALIN, PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL AND MR.ROOSEVELT, SAID THAT THE SOVIET, BRITISH AND AMERICAN GOVERNMENTS "ARE AT ONE WITH THE GOVERNMENT OF IRAN IN THEIR DESIRE FOR THE MAINTENANCE OF THE INDEPENDENCE, SOVEREIGNTY AND TERRITORIAL INTEGRITY OF IRAN."

THE IRANIANS APPARENTLY ACCEPTED THIS BIG THREE STATEMENT AS SUFFICIENT GUARANTEE THAT AMERICAN TROOPS WOULD WITHDRAW AFTER THE WAR ALONG WITH BRITISH AND RUSSIAN FORCES.

450 Superforts Pour Fire Bombs On Osaka in Big Daylight Raid; Report Fighting Halted in Syria

JUN 1 1945

B-29S BLAST CITY WITH 3,200 TONS OF INCENDIARIES

Mustang Fighters from Iwo Jima Escort Big Bombers on Raid.

INDUSTRIES HIT

Jap Interceptors Attacked B-29s with Good Results, Tokyo Says.

GUAM, Friday, June 1—(AP) At least 450 Superfortresses, escorted by about 150 Mustang fighters based on Iwo Jima, poured 3,200 tons of fire bombs on Osaka, Japan's second largest city, in a daylight raid today.

It was the second daylight incendiary strike by fighter-escorted B-29s in three days. It came 72 hours after an equally strong force dropped an equivalent load of fire bombs on Yokohama, the enemy's fifth greatest city.

Osaka was hit once before by B-29 incendiaries, on March 14, when 300 planes struck in the early morning darkness. More than 2,000 tons of bombs on that raid destroyed or damaged 8.1 square miles of the city.

Densely Populated

Osaka, located centrally on Japan's main island of Honshu, has a population of 3,252,340 and ranks among the three most densely populated cities in Japan, with an average of 45,000 persons per square mile.

Today's target area was a section bordering Osaka and south of the Shin Yodo river — probably the city's most highly industrialized district.

Important among the objectives today was the Dural sheet metal and aircraft propeller plant. Near this are ship yards, two large electrical equipment plants, machinery factories, textile mills and several power stations.

The main Osaka railway station, with an extensive rail network and freight wards, stands near the Shin Yodo river. Destruction there would break the heart of the city's communications.

Attack Harbor Facilities

The target area included Osaka's harbor facilities — the Customs House and Municipal Harbor department besides important docks and warehouses.

B-29s have unloaded nearly 15,000 tons of bombs in four raids on Honshu island within nine days. A total of more than 1,000 Superforts dropped 8,500 tons of bombs on Tokyo Thursday and Saturday of last week. Yokohama was hit by 450 bombers dropping 3,200 tons last Tuesday.

Tokyo radio's version of the Osaka strike was that "some 300" B-29s dealt the blow and were engaged by Japanese interceptors as well as opposed by anti-aircraft fire.

These "counterattacked the enemy with good results," said the broadcast.

"Damage caused on the ground remains to be made known later, pending a checkup."

The swing back to Osaka as a B-29 target followed the announcement by Maj. Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, commanding the 21st Bomber command, that his sky giants have wiped out all the targets they have set out to destroy in Tokyo. Photographs show that nearly half of Tokyo has been laid in ruins.

BRITISH TANKS DEPLOY ON ROADS NEAR DAMASCUS

Reports of 'Cease Firing' Order by French Government Unconfirmed.

CAPITAL IS QUIET

London Demands Gen. Humboldt Quit Battle in Syria, Lebanon.

LONDON, Friday, June 1—(AP) The Morocco radio quoted a Beyrouth dispatch today which indicated that French troops in Syria had ceased firing, after receiving instructions from the French government to comply with British wishes.

There was no official confirmation from any official source of this report. A Paris radio report on the situation today made no mention of any "cease fire" order.

Britain earlier had ordered her troops in the Middle East to intervene in the explosive situation after sternly demanding that the French discontinue firing on the Syrians. A Damascus dispatch said British tanks had been deployed on roads leading to the Syrian capital.

Comply With Wish

The Morocco radio report, quoting the Beyrouth dispatch, said:

"French troops have brought to a conclusion the establishment of order in the greater part of Syria yesterday. The British commander-in-chief in the Middle East has communicated with the commander-in-chief of French forces of the Levant, asking him to give orders for "cease fire. The French government had instructed the French commander-in-chief beforehand to comply with the British wish."

Associated Press Correspondent Frank O'Brien, in a dispatch from Damascus last night, said the Syrian capital was tensely quiet after an almost continuous barrage from French 75's and mortars lasting through Wednesday night and until 4 p. m. Thursday.

This lull began, however, two hours before the British ultimatum was broadcast and it was not known whether French troops had withdrawn to their barracks as demanded by Prime Minister Churchill.

O'Brien, who made the 75-mile trip from Damascus to Beyrouth to file his dispatch, said the highway between the Syrian and Lebanese capitals was busy with British motor transport and that he saw British tanks with alert crews alongside villages on the way.

400 Reported Dead

He said the Syrian public health officer, Dr. Ahmet Kadry, told him ambulances had picked up 400 dead and 500 wounded in the narrow streets of the old section of the town where French fire had prevented rescue efforts.

In a firmly-worded note Prime Minister Churchill notified Gen. Charles De Gaulle that the British commander-in-chief in the mid-East had been ordered to "intervene" to prevent further bloodshed and to protect Allied communication lines for the Japanese war.

He called upon the French leader "immediately" to order French troops in Syria to cease fire and withdraw to their barracks "in order to avoid a collision between British and French forces."

"Once the firing has ceased and order has been restored, we shall be prepared to begin tripartite discussions here in London," Churchill said, leaving the obvious implication that Britain's intervention would be extended beyond the shooting period.

De Gaulle Surprised

A dispatch from Paris said the sharp note came as a stunning surprise to Gen. De Gaulle, who quickly called an emergency meeting of his key ministers to discuss the situation.

The note reached Paris at the very time a French foreign office spokesman was reiterating at a press conference that his country did not wish British-American mediation in the Levant dispute. He said French reinforcements might be sent to Syria "if the situation becomes critical."

The United States, it was disclosed in Washington, sent a note to France last Monday urging it to review its policy toward Syria and Lebanon and saying there was an impression in America that the French were using the threat of force to obtain concessions in the two mid-east states.

Coming from the third special meeting of the British cabinet within 24 hours, foreign Secretary Anthony Eden told a tense House of Commons:

"We have not acted until our overall responsibility was so serious that we simply had to act or stand by and see a situation develop which would have shamed us all."

Reports reached Cairo of fighting between Arabs and French forces throughout Syria, with heavy battling in the ancient city of Damascus.

London, May 31 (AP)—Britain today ordered her army in the Middle East to halt the French-Syrian fighting in the Levant and, in effect, served an ultimatum on France to silence her guns or face the consequences. In a firmly worded note Prime Minister Churchill notified Gen. Charles de Gaulle that the British commander in chief in the Middle East had been ordered to "intervene" to prevent further bloodshed and to protect Allied communication lines for the Japanese war. He called upon the French leader "immediately" to order French troops in Syria to cease fire and withdraw to their barracks "in order to avoid a collision between British and French forces."

Eden Tells Commons

"Once the firing has ceased and order has been restored, we shall be prepared to begin tripartite discussion here in London," Churchill said, leaving the obvious implication that Britain's intervention would be extended beyond the shooting period.

Coming from the third special meeting of the British Cabinet within 24 hours, Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden told a tense House of Commons:

"We have not acted until our over-all responsibility was so serious that we simply had to act or stand by and see a situation develop which would have shamed us all."

Settlement Only Desire

The Syrian Minister in Paris disclosed that he had been in consultation with Jefferson Caffery, the American Ambassador to France and expressed the opinion that the crisis now could be resolved only through Allied intervention.

Britain and the United States were reported in hour-by-hour communication on developments. Eden said his Government was "in the closest touch" with all governments concerned.

In his report to Commons, the Foreign Secretary emphasized that "our desire throughout has been to get a settlement of this trouble, some business, and I think it is abundantly clear to all—and I underline it—that we desire to withdraw our troops the moment a settlement can be reached."

No Opposition In Commons

There appeared to be no substantial opposition within Commons to Britain's firm policy with de Gaulle. Labor Leader Clement Attlee asserted. "Under the circumstances we had no option in our responsibility of endeavoring to restore order."

Eden quoted the British Minister in Damascus as reporting that there had been heavy fighting and shelling there during last night and that two great fires were burning in the heart of the city.

After a brief armistice yesterday during which British and Americans were evacuated, "the center of the city was subjected to the heaviest and most concentrated shellfire as yet directed upon it," Eden said.

Cries of "shame" ran through the chamber as he reported that French planes had bombed ancient Damascus.

Churchill in his note to de Gaulle said that General Sir Bernard Paget, British commander in the Middle East, had, with "profound regret," been ordered to intervene to protect Britain's communication in the war with Japan and to protect the security of the whole Middle East.

Paget, 57, former commander in chief of British home forces, has had command of the British 9th Army in the Middle East since 1943. He served as a major in the first World War and was thrice decorated for military valor. He participated in the Norway campaign early in the recent conflict.

British and Free French troops entered Syria side by side in 1941 to thwart attempts of the Vichy Government to trade with the Germans in that country. With France, Britain is coassurer of Syrian independence, which was proclaimed in 1943.

Quiet In Lebanon

Negotiations between the French and Syrians became complicated in recent months by French insistence upon reserving air and naval bases and maintaining protection for a French pipeline across the country to the Mosul oil fields. An open break came last week when the French sent some 500 reinforcements into the country.

Although there had been serious clashes at several points, heavy fighting did not break out until late Tuesday, when the French opened fire on Damascus, the Syrian capital, with artillery and mortars. Casualties were reported running into the hundreds. Quiet prevailed in the neighboring state of Lebanon.

The French delegation in the Levant charged in a statement broadcast by the Beirut radio that events were "solely the activity of certain Syrian elements and show signs of premeditation."

"The French delegation in general is not thinking of holding the entire Syrian population responsible," the statement said, "but since the very security of all French troops and the civil population has been placed at stake, certain countermeasures have been considered indispensable."

"Relative Calm" Reported

LONDON, May 31 (AP).—The radio at Beyrouth, Lebanon, said radio at Beyrouth, Lebanon, said tonight that Damascus, seventy miles to the east, had been "relatively calm" for the last forty-eight hours and that the situation had improved at some smaller towns, although clashes were continuing in Hama. Occasionally rifle duels continued in Damascus, the broadcast said.

Saadula Jabri, Speaker of the Syrian Parliament, said in Lebanon that Syria expects "assistance beyond advice from Britain and America, considering both powers responsible for the loss of hundreds of Syrian lives." In Beyrouth en route to Cairo for a meeting of Arab leaders, he charged that France was aiming at domination of Syria by either mandate or treaty.

Allied Notes to de Gaulle

WASHINGTON, May 31 (AP)—The State Department announced today that the following note was delivered to the French Provisional Government in Paris by United States Ambassador Jefferson Caffery:

I have been instructed by my Government to convey to the Government of France the deep concern which my Government feels with regard to recent developments in Syria and Lebanon.

An impression has been created in the United States and elsewhere that French represenatives have been using the threat of force to obtain from Syria and Lebanon concessions of a political, cultural and military nature. It is understood that, at a time when the French Delegate General to the Levant States was presenting to the Governments of Syria and Lebanon proposals which, if accepted, would give France a special position in those countries, a French warship was landing fresh armed forces in Beirut.

Syria and Lebanon are recognized by France and the United States as independent countries. They are also members of the United Nations whose representatives, including representatives of France and the United States, are now discussing in San Francisco means for guaranteeing world security and for combating aggression.

Security Policy Stressed

It is important, at the very time when the international security organization is in process of being created at San Francisco, that, in order to inspire confidence in its future effectiveness, all nations, both great and small, refrain from any act which might give rise to a suspicion—however unjustified—that a member of the future organization may be pursuing a policy not in conformity with the spirit and principles which that organization is being established to defend.

The United States places a great value upon the historic friendship which, since its founding, has bound it to France. It considers that France and the United States, which share the inheritance of a common democratic past, have a particular responsibility for the vitality and influence of the democratic tradition, and that the extent to which that tradition will continue to influence the course of history depends upon the manner in which the great nations which are its exponents make use of their position and their power and upon their willingness to cooperate with one another.

The Government of the United States, therefore, in a most friendly spirit earnestly urges the Government of France carefully to review its policy toward Syria and Lebanon with the purpose of finding a way to make it clear to those countries and to all the world that, in its dealings with the Levant states, France intends to treat them as fully sovereign and independent members of the family of nations.

Eden's Statement

LONDON, May 31 (AP)—Foreign Secretary Eden's statement in the House of Commons on Britain's position in Syria:

I informed the House last night of a very serious situation which had developed in Syria, where there is fighting between Syrians and French troops. I promised last night to keep the House fully informed as early as I could of any decision His Majesty's Government might take.

The situation has deteriorated still further since last night. Our Minister in Damascus reports that there was heavy firing and shelling during the night and that two great fires were burning in the center of the city, about one mile apart, but spreading.

All telephone communication has been cut between Damascus and the seacoast and we are only in touch with our Minister by wireless.

An armistice was arranged with the French military authorities yesterday afternoon and British and United States civilian colonies were evacuated from Damascus. After that the center of the city was subjected to the heaviest and most concentrated shellfire yet directed upon it. It was also bombed from the air.

The Government of Hama has appealed to the Ninth Army to arrange for an armistice in order that the many dead and wounded may be evacuated.

Fighting is spreading to other parts of Syria, notably the Djebel Druze, where French officers have been taken prisoner.

The President and Government of Syria has sent an urgent appeal to the British Government, reminding us that we had endorsed the promises of independence and that we had also said that the treaty negotiations with France should be conducted freely and not under duress.

The greatest concern had been caused throughout the Middle East and serious fears were entertained for the state of tranquality which was so necessary in that area if the vital line of communication to the Far East was not to be disturbed. Every possible effort had been made to enjoin calm on both sides and he did not think that a further appeal in this sense would have any effect.

Churchill's Message to de Gaulle

In all the circumstances, the British Government have come to the conclusion that they can no longer stand aside and the Prime Minister has accordingly today sent the following message to General de Gaulle:

"In view of the grave situation which has arisen between your troops and the Levant states and the severe fighting which has broken out, we have with profound regret ordered the commander in chief in the Middle East to intervene to prevent further effusion of blood in the interests of the security of the whole Middle East, which involves communications for the war against Japan.

"In order to avoid a collision between British and French forces, we request you immediately to order French troops to cease fire and to withdraw to their barracks.

"Once the firing has ceased and order has been restored, we shall be prepared to begin tripartite discussions here in London," the message concluded.

I feel sure that the House will agree with me in deploring these events and will share my hope that, once order has been restored, we shall be able to resume the diplomatic initiative which I mentioned last night and might arrange a peaceful settlement which will be satisfactory to the parties concerned.

We also have in mind, of course, an arrangement by which the Syrian and Lebanese Governments will be associated with these discussions. We are in the closest touch with all the Governments concerned, including the United States of America, but I would not wish to say more about the diplomatic arrangements which we contemplate at this stage. I feel sure the House would also share my hope that nothing should be said at this stage which will make that diplomatic initiative more difficult.

FRANCE FAILS TO TAKE STEPS TO END FIRING

Cabinet Session Breaks Up; No Public Announcement Made

JUN 1 - 1945

Paris, May 31 (AP)—Surprised by the stern tone of Prime Minister Churchill's note, Gen. Charles de Gaulle and his ministerial advisers were reported tonight not yet to have reached a decision whether to comply with Britain's demands that French troops cease fighting in Syria.

De Gaulle left his office at 9.30 P.M. and went home without having issued a statement.

A responsible authority said that French troops in Syria definitely have not yet been ordered to withdraw to their barracks, although the text of Prime Minister Churchill's note was issued here as a communiqué and probably was communicated to French commanders.

Ministers Seem Calm

De Gaulle, Foreign Minister Georges Bidault and other ministers appeared perfectly calm as they left the cabinet building tonight. An authoritative source said there was no disposition to take hasty action.

Deepest resentment was being voiced in unofficial circles, never the less. The British action was called power politics and the sensitive French temperament was rowelled by Churchill's announcement that "tripartite" talks would be held when calm is restored. The French regarded this as something other than an invitation.

News of the British demand was released to the French press after a delay of several hours.

De Gaulle To Washington?

One report was that de Gaulle might leave tomorrow for Washington to discuss the Levant crisis personally with President Truman. The trip previously had been planned following an invitation from Truman.

It was considered improbable that France would order its troops to resist the strong British force in Syria, though the greatest bitterness was being manifested tonight.

Observers said the only immediate response possible would be a statement condemning Churchill's order as arbitrary and a show of strength. After that, they said, France could place her case before the world and cite evidence—which the French claim they have—that the crisis was "artificially inspired."

No Action Was Planned

At the time Churchill's note arrived a Foreign Office spokesman was reiterating France's disinclination to accept any mediation.

He said France stood by her assertion that Syria and Lebanon would be given complete independence as soon as they gave France required guarantees.

It was plain that the French—prior to the arrival of Churchill's bombshell note — had planned to take no action to end the fighting, but simply to wait for Syria and Lebanon to make the next move.

The French have consistently minimized the seriousness of the situation. In his press conference today the Foreign Office spokesman said French reinforcements might be sent to the Levant "if the situation becomes critical."

He reiterated that the battalion of French troops which landed early in May was a replacement force and not reinforcements, and reasserted the French opinion that Syria and Lebanon only used this as a pretext for breaking off negotiations.

French Consult Hurriedly.

Paris, May 31 (A. P.).—The London announcement that Britain is intervening in Syria surprised the French Government today and officials refused all comment for the time being.

Prime Minister Churchill's message was delivered directly to Gen de Gaulle, who immediately summoned a number of key ministers for consultation.

Meanwhile today there was no confirmation of reports that De Gaulle may leave for Washington tomorrow. The trip had been planned previously, at the invitation of President Truman. De Gaulle may now seize upon the opportunity it offers to discuss the crisis personally with the President, it was believed here.

Some Frenchmen asserted that Major-Gen. Edward Spears, the former British Minister to Syria and Lebanon, now a Conservative member of Parliament, has been pursuing an anti-French policy since his retirement, and that professional agitators had been at work among the Arabs, trying to arouse them against France.

Damascus, May 31 (AP) — This Syrian capital was lying tense but at least momentarily quiet tonight under a column of smoke rising from the shattered center of the town where all during the night Wednesday and through to 4 P.M. today the French had poured a barrage of mortar fire.

[A strike has begun without incident in Beirut, the Lebanese capital, and the French Government has instructed its commander in chief in the Levant "to comply with British wishes," according to broadcasts from Beirut. The British were said to have approached the French commander in the matter.]

Walled Off By French Fire

The latest estimates of the dead and wounded were given by the director general of public health, Dr. Ahmet Kadry, who said that during the brief truces his ambulances had picked up 400 dead and 500 wounded.

It was believed that hundreds or possibly thousands more were lying dead or wounded in the narrow streets of the old section of town.

It had been impossible to get to that area because of constant French fire there.

American nationals were removed from the capital by American Chargé d'Affaires Joseph C. Satterthwaite during a truce today. They were taken to a British military camp on the Bagdad road, along with British nationals.

French Block Broadcast

The announcement by Prime Minister Churchill that British troops had been ordered to intervene in the strife was not heard by Damascenes because the French cut off electric current in the center of the town just as the radio started

Beirut Radio Reports Strike In Lebanon, Says French Commander In Levant Has Been Ordered "To Comply With British Wishes" to broadcast the statement.

The British announcement was heard elsewhere at 6 P.M.

The road to the Lebanese capital of Beirut, 75 miles away, was busy with British motor transport during the day, perhaps moving to a rendezvous from which to carry out Churchill's instructions to the British commander in chief in the Middle East, Sir Bernard Paget.

I traveled this highway twice during the day and when returning across the mountains after 7 o'clock tonight saw British tanks with alert crews parked near some villages.

British Not Talking

The British were not talking about what they were going to do in the next few hours, but Syrians generally expected and hoped that they would occupy the country thoroughly and put an end to the fighting so that negotiations with the French could be resumed on a basis other than force.

At 1 A.M. Thursday the French turned a terrific barrage of fire by 75's and mortars on the Serail (government house) and French troops later rushed it.

The result was not known because French fire during the day was too heavy for observers to get into the region of the building. The parliament building was occupied by Senegalese troops.

U.S. Consul Barred

During the morning the French shelled a deserted American school in the Amas sector, but when Satterthwaite telephoned to say that he was going to the school and place a bigger American flag on it the French ceased fire on that area.

A French officer this morning refused to allow American Vice Consul William Porter, of Fall River, Mass., to return to his room in the Orient Palace Hotel after the building had been taken over by Senegalese troops.

Porter had left the hotel earlier when it was being subjected to heavy shelling. He telephoned a complaint against mortaring the undefended target to the French vice consul, Count Jean de la Garde, but more mortar fire followed.

A British subject, the wife of a missionary, was killed in the lobby today. She was shot through the chest by machine-gun fire while in the missionary hostel.

A Syrian doctor riding in an ambulance marked with a red crescent was killed in the ambulance and Dr. Kadry said he himself had been shot at on six different occasions.

Serious Looting By French

Eye-witnesses said the Senegalese began serious looting in Damascus during the afternoon following their occupation of the Orient Palace Hotel. American and British consular officials said they saw them looting in the hotel, which contains the personal effects of many American, British and other nationals, including consular and diplomatic officials as porter.

The Bank of Syria and Lebanon was also looted, it was said.

The entire center of the town and the heavily populated northern district were the worst hit by the French shelling. Transport into the city has been cut off now for so long that food has become a serious problem for residents of the capital.

Syrian Premier Free

Acting Premier Jamil Mardam Bey still was alive and free late this afternoon, when he was seen by the Egyptian charge d'Aaires.

This dispatch had to be taken to Berrut to be filed because of the lack of communications from Damascus.

When I left the city this evening, French and Senegalese patrols still were moving in trucks, armored cars and tanks. The terrified populace had deserted the streets.

It was generally assumed that the British command in the Middle East would interpret teh order to "intervene" as meaning that the British weer to take over in Syria, although British officials would say nothing tonight about their intentions.

French May Fight

If they do it is still possible that the French may fight. The patrols last seen in Damascus were grinning and waving their caps, seemingly satisfied with their work of the last few days and ready for more.

No reliable reports reached either Damascus or Beirut today concerning the situation at the smaller Syrian towns of Aleppo, Homs and Hama where violence also had broken out between the French and Syrians. Hama was bombed and shelled heavily last night.

Story of Bombardment.

Damascus, May 30 (Delayed) (A. P.).—This Syrian capital was in chaos today after an all-night French bombardment, and late reports from Hama said the situation there was equally bad, with British military authorities receiving what they described as "piteous appeals" for relief. Indiscriminate firing thus far probably has cost 300 lives and threatens to cost many more. The latest report from Hama put the casualties in today's fighting there at more than 200. The town has reported being bombed and under fire from arms of all sorts.

Tuesday night four Syrian soldiers from Troopes Speciales Levees, conscripts under French command, attempted to desert into the crowd between the Serail (Government House) and the French barracks. The French fired at them. Somebody in the crowd fired back.

The Syrian Parliament buildings were badly shot up by mortar fire and the Serail took heavy punishment from mortars and 75's. Acting Premier Jami Mardam Bey personally directed the defense of the Serail, which contains his office.

Later in the night Mardam Bey was taken to the Soruja district where an American high school is located. He said the French bombed that part of the town during the night from American-made Baltimore planes, presumably lend-lease to the French.

Dr. Christine Essenberg, director and only American teacher of the school, was reported safe this afternoon. No Americans had been hurt up to 4 P. M. The American Charge d'Affaires, Joseph C. Satterwaite, rounded up the Americans and took them to places of comparative safety in the British Consulate to await armored cars that would take them to the American Legation in the city's outskirts.

Other Americans now in Damascus are Vice-Consul William Porter of Fall River, Mass.; Lieut. David Dodge, son of Bayard Dodge, director of the American College at Beyrouth, and William Gillespie of Stamford, Conn., who is with the Office of War Information.

Lebanon Begins To Mobilize, Levies Troops And New Taxes

San Francisco, May 31 (AP)—Foreign Minister Henri Pharaon, of Lebanon, urged the United Nations today to intervene in the French-Syrian troubles to "put an end to a situation which has become intolerable."

Beirut, May 31 (AP)—Syria expects "assistance beyond advice from Britain and America, considering both powers responsible for the loss of hundreds of Syrian lives," Saadula Jabri, Speaker of the Syrian Parliament, said today.

Jabri, here en route to Cairo for a meeting of the council of the League of Arab Nations June 4, charged that France was aiming at domination of Syria, either by mandate or by treaty and was using troops on the "absurd" ground of protecting communications with the Far East.

Lebanon Prepares

The tiny republic of Lebanon, which has not thus far experienced the violence that has swept over her sister state, Syria, moved today to prepare for resistance if the battle should spread.

A decree signed by the President provided for immediate creation of a volunteer army and levied special taxes for national defense.

All business in this Lebanese capital was at a standstill as the result of a four-day general strike called to protest what the Lebanese National Congress called "acts of aggression" by France in Lebanon and Syria, where British troops were ordered to intervene in the fighting between French and Syrians.

No Concessions

The Council of Ministers approved a memorandum of protest against French use of force in Syria and dispatched Premier Karami and three deputies to Cairo for the meeting of the Arab council which is to discuss the disturbed situation.

The Lebanese Government, commenting upon the statement by the United States Acting Secretary of State, Joseph C. Grew, that the United States is "employing every means to assist in finding a peaceful solution," said in a communiqué that Lebanon "is willing to conclude treaties with the Allied states on condition that none should have a privileged situation here.

"Such concessions are incompatible with the sovereignty independence of Lebanon," the Government asserted. "But the French Government, in order to liquidate questions pending between Lebanon and France, presented as a base for negotiations proposals and offers which, if accepted, would have given France a privileged situation in Lebanon.

National Guard Ordered

"This is why the Lebanese Government refused to negotiate on this basis."

A Government spokesman added that if regrettable incidents occur "the responsibility is on France alone."

A decree today ordered formation immediately of a national guard among volunteers 18 to 35 years old as a nucleus of a Lebanese army. New taxes to finance it include levies on postage, theater tickets and gasoline.

A Government order banned dancing and music in all Lebanon as a sign of mourning for Syrian victims of the strife.

U.S. FOR SYRIA INTERVENTION

Sent Note Asking French To Review Levant Policy

Washington, May 31 (AP) — The United States has told France, in effect, that she should stop and think about her Levantine policy, because it looks like the use of a big stick to wring special concessions from Syria and Lebanon.

A note, couched in friendly but pointed diplomatic language, was delivered to the provisional government headed by Gen. Charles de Gaulle in Paris on Monday, Acting Secretary of State Joseph C. Grew announced today.

President Truman approved of the British intention to take action if it were necessary, Grew told newsmen.

The Gist Of The Note

The American note, delivered by Ambassador Jefferson Caffrey on May 28, told the French that "an impression has been created in the United States and elsewhere that French representatives have been using the threat of force to obtain from Syria and Lebanon concessions of a political, cultural and military nature," and that a French warship had landed fresh troops in Beirut, the Lebanese capital, just at a time when France was demanding a special position in both countries.

Although the United States has not been requested to mediate, it naturally would be interested in any meeting to settle the Levantine question, it was learned.

No Lend-Lease

Grew, who announced the contents of the note at his news conference, made plain that this country would strongly disapprove any use of lend-lease materials by the French in the Levant.

France got lend-lease aid, he said, to help in the war on the Axis, and this country does not intend to provide military equipment for any other purpose. No equivalent has been assigned for use in Syria, he said.

The May 28 note "in a most friendly spirit" urged France "to review its policy toward Syria and Lebanon with the purpose of finding a way to make it clear to those countries and to all the world that, in its dealings with the Levant states, France intends to treat them as fully sovereign and independent members of the family of nations."

Friendship Recalled

The note stressed that all nations, great and small, should avoid giving the impression, especially while the San Francisco conference is going on, that a member of the projected United Nations organization may be pursuing a policy contrary to the purpose of the United Nations.

America's traditional friendship with France was recalled, and the note pointed out that both countries shared "particular responsibility for the validity and influence of the democratic tradition."

ship was landing fresh armed forces at Beirut."

Points to San Francisco.

The note then pointed out that Syria and Lebanon are recognized by France and the United States as independent countries and members of the United Nations, and said: "It is important, at the very time when the international security organization is in process of being created at San Francisco, that in order to inspire confidence in its future all nations, both great and small, refrain from any act which might give rise to a suspicion—however unjustified—that a member of the future organization may be

Grew Says U. S. Backs Britain

Reveals Note Was Sent to Paris Urging French to Review Their Syrian Policy.

Washington, May 31 (A. P.).—The United States has sent a note to France urging the French to review their policy toward Syria and Lebanon in order to facilitate a solution of the controversy there.

Acting Secretary of State Joseph C. Grew said today that the note was delivered to the French Provisional Government in Paris last Monday by the American Ambassador Jefferson Caffery.

Grew said that no reply has as yet been received. He also declared that President Truman approved the British intention to take such action as might be necessary to avoid further bloodshed.

As released by the State Department, the note declared that an impression had been created in this country and elsewhere that the French were using the threat of force to obtain concessions from Syria and Lebanon. "It is understood," it continued, "that at a time when the French delegate to the Levant States was presenting to the governments of Syria and Lebanon proposals which, if accepted, would give France a special position in those countries, a French warpursuing a policy not in conformity with the spirit and principles which that organization is being established to defend."

Asked whether American equipment sent to France under lend-lease was being used in the Levant, Grew replied that lend-lease goods were furnished to France in accordance with an agreement by which such equipment was to be used for the defense of France against the Axis. He said that the United States Government does not intend to provide "military equipment for any other purpose. This Government has not assigned any material for use in Syria, he added.

The French Ambassador, Henri Bonnet, called on Grew earlier today but told reporters afterward that the Levantine situation had not been discussed. Grew had said yesterday that the disorders in Syria and Lebanon were causing the United States Government deep concern. Bonnet would not disclose the subject of today's conference.

Levant Issue Enters Argument On Tariff

Washington, May 31 (AP) — France's policy in the Levant and Russia's future steel production plans were drawn today into Senate committee consideration of new tariff-cutting power asked by the Administration.

Senator O'Mahoney (D., Wyo.) cited them in arguing against an extension of reciprocal trade agreements authority without provision for Congress to pass on changes in import duties.

He told the Banking Committee that France apparently was pursuing a "strong policy" toward Syria and Lebanon. And he expressed opposition to permitting the State Department "to agree to bring into the United States products of exploited colonies in competition with American products."

Russia's Plans

Senator Walsh (D., Mass.) brought up Russia's steel plans by saying he had heard the Soviets intend to increase their 10-million-ton annual output to 60 million tons.

O'Mahoney, citing this as one of the uncertainties of the future, said American steel production had been increased during the war in order to supply Russia with lend-lease materials. Now some of the expanded American facilities are threatened with idleness, he added.

The Wyoming Senator said the Geneva (Utah) steel plant, built at a cost of $186,000,000, probably would run out of Government orders by fall.

Clayton's View Asked

He asked Assistant Secretary of State Clayton for his view of an amendment to require congressional review of trade agreements.

Saying it would be "unfortunate," Clayton told O'Mahoney one advantage of the trade agreements was that it avoided the "political pressure" he said was exerted on Congress in connection with tariff changes.

Already approved by the House, the Administration's requested legislation would extend for three years its authority to make reciprocal trade agreements and allow a reduction in tariffs to 50 per cent under the January (1945) rate.

The present trade agreements law expires June 12.

Levant Row Has Frisco Echo

San Francisco, May 31 (AP)—The fighting in Syria put to its severest test today the good-neighbor policy on which the United Nations are seeking to erect a new world league to keep peace.

Topping off Iran's demand for withdrawal of Allied troops and the prolonged Big Three dispute over Poland, the trouble in the Levant aroused new apprehensions here over the ability of the big powers to work out their world interests in a friendly and unselfish manner.

American officials, however, are telling the small-nation representatives that had the projected league already been in existence such problems as that in the Levant, especially, would probably have been more easily solved.

U.S. For Arab Independence

Secretary of State Stettinius threw his influence against letting any current issues interfere with the work of the conference. Officials seemed confident that he would succeed.

Stettinius was drawn directly into the Levant situation when a group of Arab delegates protested to him against French policy in Syria and Leban. The United States, Stettinius told the Arabs, stands firmly by its support of their independence.

Involved in the situation, according to diplomatic reports here, is French fear of losing prestige unless special privileges are gained in a area where French power has long been predominant, and also French rivalry with Britain for influence in the Middle East.

The French Explanation

The French explanation for having troops in the Levant is that, under agreements with Syria and Lebanon, France is responsible for military security in the two countries. The French also argue that if they pulled out completely some other power would replace them. They have investments in the country which they say need protection. Further, they say they intend to use these troops against Japan.

Questions of what to do about maintaining peace and security until the projected world league is functioning came up last night in a conference committee.

The original Dumbarton Oaks plan provides that until the security council has armed forces at its al a Russian-British-Ameriinese agreement signed in cow in 1943 should prevail. In at the Big Four pledged themselves to use their forces during the interim for the maintenance of peace and security.

The Veto Problem

The Big Five were still awaiting word from Moscow on a proposed interpretation of the veto-voting formula that would permit any state to get a hearing before the security council without the possibility that one of the big powers could gag it with a veto.

American officials contended that this interpretation—which still lacks full Moscow approval—should be particularly reassuring to small nations now because of the Syria-Lebanon crisis. If the council were functioning, they said, France could not, if it desired, prevent Syria and Lebanon from getting a hearing.

If it came to a question of seeking peaceful settlement of the dispute, France still could not veto action because under the formula a party to a dispute must refrain from voting on such questions. However, if it came to a question of using force to restore order, France would have a veto.

U.S. Prepares Own Docket For War Criminals' Trials

London, May 31 (AP)—The United Nations War Crimes Commission was told tonight that the United States is preparing a list of accused criminals for submission in full and every case is "ready for immediate trial."

P. H. B. Kent, British delegate to the commission, made the disclosure while telling the commission of difficulties encountered in dealing with the masses of evidence uncovered by the recent liberation of Allied prisoners of war.

The American accusations have not yet been announced.

Mass Method Suggested

Kent's statement came shortly after Lord Wright, chairman of the commission, had called for speedy prosecution and punishment of nearly 3,000 persons charged as war criminals by eleven Allied countries.

Kent suggested that some method be devised of dealing with certain war criminals en masse. This would apply in the cases of large numbers of the enemy concerned in cruelties and tortures suffered by inmates of concentration camps and persons in occupied areas, he said.

Lord Wright declared that some liaison might "gradually grow up" between the commission and the separate Russian War Crimes Commission, which is not a member of the United Nations groups.

To Lift Secrecy

He asserted the commission has decided to lift its rule of complete secrecy on its work, save in cases in the Far East, and made several new disclosures about its operation. No new names of war criminals were released.

Speaking at the opening session of the three-day conference of the United Nations commission, Lord Wright revealed that the commission had elaborated a system of inter-Allied courts, to be established if needed by treaty between the Allied nations, to handle any trials falling out of the scope of military courts or courts of the countries in which war crimes were committed.

He said the commission also has formulated a plan under which it could constitute a central advisory bureau or liaison department to bring together the work of the war crimes offices and the military in the various nations.

Collection Into Action

Military authorities, he added, have already arrested a large number of war criminals.

"The time has now come when the mere collection of material must change over into action," the Australian chairman said. "Action here means the trial of criminals and their conviction, sentence and punishment where appropriate."

He declared that approximately 800 names of Germans had been cleared for publication in the next list of war criminals. He did not announce when the list, which also includes the names of 185 suspects, would be made public.

To date the name of Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering has been the only name published by the commission, although names have been released of some others recommended to it by some of the United Nations.

"Systematic Terrorism"

A public relations officer will be appointed by the commission, and he will release the lists, as well as details about the present closed conference.

Lord Wright announced that 2,787 persons had been charged as war criminals by eleven member nations and three by the commission itself. There are sixteen member nations on the commission.

In addition the commission listed 561 Germans on the general charge of systematic terrorism.

The nationality of the 2,787 charged was broken down as:

Germans, 2,524.
Italians, 110.
Japanese, 93.
Hungarians, 39.
Bulgarians, 17.
Albanians and Romanians, 2 each.

France led the list with charges against 1,116 Germans and ten Italians.

Most By National Courts

Others included Australia, 93 Japanese, in addition to several units of an unknown number of persons; Belgium, 250 Germans; Czechoslovakia, 248 Germans; Greece, 11 Germans; Luxembourg, 1 German; Netherlands, 56 Germans; Norway, 98 Germans; Poland, 544 Germans, in addition to several groups of an unknown number of persons; United Kingdom, 127 Germans, 27 Italians, 2 Romanians; Yugoslavia, 70 Germans, 73 Italians, 2 Albanians, 17 Bulgarians and 39 Hungarians.

Wright explained that most of the war criminals could be tried by national courts in the occupied countries in which the crimes were committed. Others could be tried by military, or in case of major criminals, by a mixed military court "which may be established by the commander in chief or by the heads of the Allied military control in the respective areas of their jurisdiction."

He indicated the list of war criminals would grow considerably with further investigations.

"In the case of the liberated countries there is an enormous unexplored field," he said, "such as the investigation of the atrocities committed in each country by the Germans during occupation, mass murders, mass deportations of slave labor, forced prostitution, torture, and looting."

2,657 Charged With War Crimes

London, May 31 (AP) — Lord Wright told the United Nations War Crimes Commission today that 2,657 individuals had been charged with war crimes by various Allied nations and the commission itself. Of these, 2,524 are Germans.

"The time has now come when the mere collection of material must change over into action," said the Australian chairman of the conference, representing the United States and fifteen other nations. "Action here means the trial of criminals and their conviction, sentence and punishment where appropriate."

110 Italians

Of those charged with war crimes in addition to Germans, 110 are Italians, 17 are Bulgarians, two are Hungarians, two are Albanians and two are Romanians.

None of the names was given.

Germans in key positions listed by the War Crimes Commission on a general charge of "systematic terrorism" total 561.

Lord Wright also disclosed that the War Crimes Commission on its own initiative " in respect of specific crimes" had put the names of three Germans on the list

Round Table Discussion

Lord Wright's speech will be followed by a round-table discussion on the work of the various national commissions in preparing cases against Nazi war criminals.

The United States delegation was led by Lieut. Joseph Hodgson, its representative on the commission, and included Navy Captains Frank Gary and J. J. Robinson, Brig. Gen. Adam Richmond, judge advocate for the Mediterranean theater; Brig. Gen. E. C. Betts, judge advocate for the European theater; Lieut. Col. Eberhard Deutch, for the 15th Army Group, and Colonels A. McGregor Goff and Howard A. Vrundage, from the Washington War Crimes Office.

Destroyer Of GI Gifts Relieved

London, May 31 (AP)—Major D. C. Jernigin, of Fort Worth, Texas, commanding officer of the United States Army First Base Post Office at Sutton, has been relieved on a charge of neglect of duty.

Villagers at the Warwickshire town complained that soldiers' packages from home were being burned by German prisoners of war, on his orders.

Dismissal Explained

Brig. Gen. E. F. Koenig, base commander for the United Kingdom, announced Jernigin's dismissal today, saying:

"An investigation by United States Army officials disclosed that Major Jernigin had failed to follow in every detail army regulations governing the disposal of parcels that have lost their identifying wrappers or are badly damaged in transit.

"Through lack of proper supervision, a very small number of undamaged items were burned along with articles damaged beyond any possible use or value."

Jernigin's Statement

Jernigin said in a statement through army headquarters last week that "only spoiled food and items damaged beyond use are burned." Army regulations do not permit in any circumstance the destruction of goods that can be consumed or salvaged.

The mayors and citizens committees of several neighboring towns had complained of having seen truckloads of canned foods, cakes, cigarettes, whisky, cigars, lighters and watches being dumped into an old bomb crater and burned.

London newspapers, which reported the allegations in considerable detail, said children raided the dump and carried home "staggering quantities" of canned food, including pineapple and grapefruit.

British Fogs 'Burned' Off To Permit Bombing of Nazis

JUN 1 - 1945

LONDON, May 31—(AP) Another war secret that could not be told until now is how the jinx of English fogs was overcome—for the first time in history—so that Allied planes were able to maintain around-the-clock bombing of Germany regardless of weather.

The fog simply was burned off the airbases by means of ingenius oil burner devices strung along the runways like lights.

They generated enough heat to ment the fog like magic, turning wartime air offensives that used to be impossible into a matter of routine and offering great possibilities for safe peacetime flying.

Six-Minute Action

With visibility nil outside one man sitting in a control tower could press a button and within six minutes planes were landing with perfect visibility up to two or three miles—even the sky and stars showing overhead. When the last plane was down safely the operator pressed the "off" button and the fog immediately settled over the field.

Details of the scheme which saved the lives of hundreds of airmen and kept the bombing offensive going night and day during the most crucial stage of the war last winter were released today at a joint press conference of the Air Ministry and Petroleum Warfare Office. Solely a British scientific undertaking the project was known among insiders as "operation FIDO"—meaning "fog investigation dispersal operation."

From the start of the war the weather was one of the air force's biggest enemies. German Marshal Von Rundstedt launched his Christmas offensive in Belgium under cover of heavy fog that also enveloped most of the bomber fields in England. But he didn't know about "FIDO."

The Nazis were throwing everything into this battle in an effort to break Allied lines and a great weight of U. S. and British Bombers was needed to smash German supply centers and cripple transport routes leading to the Ardennes area.

Air Vice Marshal D. C. Bennett, chief of the famous RAF Pathfinder Force which finds and marks targets for night bombers, asserted that FIDO prevented the war from continuing possibly another six months to a year by helping to stop the Ardennes offensive.

Von Rundstedt also declared after his capture that "Allied strategic bombing of my supply lines caused the failure of the push."

Although FIDO installations were situated only at strategically located RAF bases they have been used on considerable scale to assist American daylight bombers caught in fogs. In one day alone last winter 91 U. S. Eighth Airforce planes landed at one FIDO base when their own field was blacked out by fog.

Plane and Crew Saved

Lt. Lloyd Lewis of Topeka, Kans., pilot of a Flying Fortress, said the lives of himself and his crew were saved once by FIDO. They came in with one engine out and just enough gas for five minutes' flying and would have been unable to make it across England to another base that was clear.

The glow from the oil burners sometimes could be seen for miles at night but Air Ministry officials said there had not been a single incident of German planes being attracted by the lights. "When the fog was that bad they seldom ventured out," one officer said.

The first operational use of FIDO took place Nov. 19, 1943, and since that day more than 2,500 Allied aircraft with crews of more than 10,000 airmen have been safely landed in conditions of heavy fog.

Similar fog clearing installations now are being installed for peacetime use at new British civil airdromes under construction near London.

730 British Warships Lost In Battle Action

London, May 31 (AP)—A total of 730 British naval vessels, including 5 battleships and 8 aircraft carriers, have been sunk or destroyed in the war, the Admiralty announced today.

Another 812 warships flying dominion or Allied flags—excluding the United States—have been lost by enemy action or marine hazards in all theaters, the announcement said.

Losses of light coastal ships and landing craft were not included in the figures.

Big 3 May Meet In Germany

3 Scottish Women Win Right to Hide Their Age

Sisters Gain $1,200 Annuity and Keep Their Secret

LONDON, May 31 (AP).—A British court has upheld woman's treasured privilege of refusing to tell her age, and three defiant Scottish sisters getting on in years have come out richer by $1,200 a year.

They are the Misses Petrie, Helen and Alise Divorty, of the little Highland village of Ballinluig in Perthshire, Scotland.

Asked how old they were by the executors of the estate of a married sister who died at the age of eighty-six, the three put down Petrie's age as forty-nine, Helen's as fifty-nine and Alise's as forty-four. Counsel was a bit doubtful, but the sisters, when pressed for revised figures, countered by refusing the $1,200 annuity bequeathed to them.

Now Sir Raymond Evershed, of the High Court, has ruled that the Misses Divorty can keep the annuity—and their secret too.

SECRET ARMS PLANTS UNDER PARLIAMENT

LONDON, May 31 — (AP) The British government disclosed today the existence of a secret munitions plant in the vaults directly beneath the Houses of Parliament.

Known officially as the Westminster Munitions unit it has produced quantities of many munitions components, including weapons used to repeal flying bomb attacks. Still in operation on contracts for the Japanese war, the plant is directed by a committee of members of Parliament and manned by volunteers.

Joyce To Be Flown To England

London, May 31 (AP) — William Joyce, the notorious Lord Haw Haw of the Berlin radio, will be brought to England by plane today or tomorrow in custody of military guards and Scotland Yard men.

Joyce, American-born Britisher who served as a radio propagandist for the Nazis, and Norman Baillie-Steward, former British Army officer who also broadcast for the enemy, will be treated as civilian prisoners and will be arraigned in London's Bow Street Court on their arrival. Then they will be lodged in Brixton prison.

There was speculation here that both might claim German naturalization. If they succeeded in this, they would have to be dealt with not as British subjects who aided enemies of the Crown, but as war criminals.

Joyce was shot in the thigh when he was captured. In a British Army hospital at Lueneberg, Germany, British surgeons yesterday removed the bullet and said the renegade would be "quite fit" in a few days.

At Brixton Prison Joyce and Baillie-Steward will be given their choice of sewing mail bags or remaining in solitary confinement cells.

SAYS FAMINE MAY BREED 'ISMS

London, May 31 (A. P.).—Minister of Food J. J. Llewellin told the Grocers Association today that the internal "terror of either a Fascist or Communist regime" might well be bred in liberated countries by famine.

Llewellin is a Conservative. The British Press Association said his reference to communist terror" was the first by a Conservative party member since the wartime Coalition Government ended last week.

The Minister said the Allies could not leave the freed people to starve or the job of liberawould be only half done.

"The Germans must reap what they have sown," he said, declaring the British people would not be required to make sacrifices to feed the beaten enemy.

G. I. SIGHTSEERS DIE

Bury St. Edmunds, England, May 31 (A. P.).—Fifteen American servicemen died today when a Flying Fortress of the Eighth Air Force crashed at the take-off of a sightseeing trip over Germany. The crew of five and ten passengers were victims. Their names were not announced immediately.

GEN. EISENHOWER TO VISIT NEW YORK

Paris, May 31 (A. P.).—Gen. Eisenhower will visit at least five places in the United States when he returns home around June 15. These are Washington, New York, West Point, Kansas City and his home town of Abilene, Kans. His plans still are incomplete.

Several other generals and a quota of combat officers and men will accompany Eisenhower, but they have not been selected yet.

Gen. Eisenhower has been awarded the Cross of Liberation, the French Government announced today.

APPLY CENSORSHIP ONLY TO JAPANESE

PARIS, May 31—(AP) Lt. Col. G. Duncan-Clark, deputy censor at Supreme Headquarters, declared today that "our attitude now is to censor only for military security insofar as it affects the conduct of the war with Japan."

The American officer made the comment in discussing yesterday's surprise announcement of relaxation of censorship policies formulated to govern news of postwar Europe covered by correspondents accredited to Supreme Headquarters.

He said the new series of instructions was handed down by the combined chiefs of staff after lengthy conference with the highest American and British censorship officials, both military and civilian.

Announcement of a new "level of security" came as a surprise to both censors and correspondents here, although discussions concerning a more liberal policy after V-E Day had been underway since last August.

Troop Movements Secret

Broadly the instructions call for censorship only on three principal points:

One—Major troop movements, including identification of units moving directly to the Pacific or destined for movement to the Pacific, their estimated strength and the like. It does not necessarily include units going to the Pacific via the United States.

Two—Details connected with major troop movements. In addition to routes and method of transportation, it includes hitherto undisclosed tactics and methods and equipment, Allied or German, which might be used in the war against Japan.

Three—Matters of high military importance that may require reference to the supreme commander.

This last point is not so broad as it sounds, if action taken during hostilities may be regarded as a precedent. Duncan-Clark said censorship had received no new instructions outlining matters to be referred to Gen. Eisenhower.

He recalled that only in rare instances, such as the news black out during the Ardennes breakthrough, were matters taken as high as Eisenhower for a censorship decision.

Can Interview Nazis

Under the new rules any correspondent interviewing or photographing Nazi bigwigs can get his material through censorship. Duncan-Clark asserted that the ban on such interviews originally was placed by SHAEF, and was not a censorship matter.

He said no interzone agreement for co-ordination of censorship in Europe had yet been worked out with the Russians or with the Southern Allied Forces under Field Marshal Sir Harold Alexander. That is being done on a government level, he added.

As far as SHAEF is concerned three classes of censorship will continue, although in a modified form. They are censorship from SHAEF accredited correspondents, censorships in an advisory capacity to the press of the liberated nations, censorship of all news distributed in occupied Germany.

Blum Is Bitter At Vichy Betrayal

Paris, May 31 (AP) — Former French Premier Leon Blum said here that he never could forgive the Vichy officials who handed him over to the Germans in 1940.

In French Government circles, it is taken for granted that the 72-year-old French leader will testify against Marshal Henri Philippe Petain and will enter the Government of Gen. Charles de Gaulle.

But for the time being, the ex-Premier said in an interview, he is unable to make any statement on these matters.

In his only reference to political matters, Blum said: "That Frenchmen should have handed me over to the Gestapo is something I can neither understand nor ever forgive. I thought I would never get out alive. They must have thought so too. It is a thing unheard of in the history of France."

means of trapping enemy agents who reportedly were plotting to assassinate Eisenhower.

The story of the deception was carried exclusively by the Associated Press last week and named Lt. Col. Baldwin B. Smith of Chicago as the officer who rode in the car on trips between St. Germain and Versailles.

Subsequently high ranking officers of Eisenhower's staff denied the account as a "cock and bull" story.

Smith Blames Staff

Smith, who is chief of staff to Eisenhower, said that there had been some "confusion of understanding" upon the part of those called upon for information and added, "I feel this is largely the fault of my staff."

Smith said that the ruse was intended to assist in the capture of a group of Germans headed by Lt. Col. Otto Skorzeny, Gestapo aide of Heinrich Himmler, and not to provide Eisenhower a double for his personal safety.

He said the Security Division had learned of plans "to assassinate a number of senior Allied commanders and "felt certain their information was sufficient to warrant taking measures to defeat the plot."

100 Captured, Shot

Within three or four days "more than 100 men definitely proved to be associated with Skorzeny's organization" were arrested or shot and "the security people felt they had the matter well in hand," Smith stated.

When captured recently Skorzeny said the story of the plot against Eisenhower and other Allied generals was merely to intensify the interest of German agents while they were being specially trained for sabotage assignments and that assassination never was to have been their real mission.

After the Associated Press story had been printed, Col. H. G. Sheen, chief of counter-intelligence, told a press conference that the reported plot was a hoax designed to raise the morale of the Germans and confuse the Allies, but never had been intended as an attempt on Eisenhower's life.

Of this the chief of staff said today: "Many other officers believed

Occupation-Zone Amity Seen

Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force, Paris, May (AP)—Moscow's disclosure yesterday that an interallied control council for Germany will meet within a few days was interpreted today as an indication the four powers had agreed on zones of occupation and were ready to carry out details.

There seemed reason to believe they were ready to set up headquarters, probably in Berlin.

The Moscow announcement, which apparently took supreme headquarters by surprise, said the Russian representative on the commission would be Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov, conqueror of Berlin. The American representative, the broadcast said, would be General Eisenhower; the British, Field Marshal Montgomery, and the French, Gen. Jean de Lattre de Tassigny.

Historical Session

Such a meeting would be historic in many ways. It would mark the first meeting of General Eisenhower with his Russian counterpart. It also would be the first time the military leaders of the four powers had met personally to confer on mutual problems. Previously negotiations had been carried out by joint chiefs of staff in Washington.

No one in authority at SHAEF was able to give any information on details of the meeting—when it would take place or what would be discussed.

It was believed here that the Russians had made their radio announcement without previously notifying the Allies of their readiness to set up this council.

Berlin Situation

One point under consideration has been the outlining of a French occupation zone in Berlin. This detail now apparently has been worked out. But there was no word available here on whether this would mean immediate occupation of the German capital by the four powers.

Thus far the Allies have stayed about where the war had left them, although British and American officers had elaborate maps prepared for the Russians, delineating their plan to withdraw and let Soviet forces take over certain areas.

Zone Of Occupation Announced For British

Canadian Army Headquarters, Germany, May 31 (AP) — Britain's zone of occupation in Germany was disclosed today. It will comprise four provinces in the northwestern section of the country—Schleswig-Holsteiin, Hannover, Westphalia and the Rhine province.

Four army corps under the command of Field Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery will comprise the military force maintained in this zone and the Canadian Army of Occupation—the socalled 3d Division—will form part of the Hannover District Corps under British command.

U.S. Craft Used In Algeria

Rome, May 31 (AP)—A delayed dispatch from Casablanca to the Stars and Stripes said today that American planes helped transport Moroccan troops from Casablanca to quell Arab disturbances in Algeria during the week following V-E day.

The dispatch, dated May 28 and written by Stars and Stripes Correspondent Jack Foisie, also said that French airmen in medium and heavy bombers obtained from the United States "made more than 300 sorties over the brown, sunburned hinterland, leveling entire communities" in Algeria.

British Craft Follow

"French fighters in British-made aircraft followed up the bombers to strafe the fleeing population or dive-bomb Arab strongholds in the mountains," he wrote.

Foisie placed the number of Arabs killed or wounded by French countermeasures at more than 10,000, between May 8 and 16.

[A French War Ministry announcement in Paris May 25 gave the number of casualties as 300 Europeans and 905 Arabs and described the Algerian disturbances as ended.]

Foisie's dispatch said that "because of severe French censorship and the inaccessibility of the embattled area—up to now no Allied newspaper men have been able even to reach Constantine (East Algerian port)—the true picture of events and causes is obscure.

"While the severe food shortage is regarded as one of the primary reasons for the revolt, interwoven is always the present political complications of French colonial policy."

Argentina Receiving Nazis, Red Charges

Moscow, May 31 (AP)—The Soviet commentator Vladimir Linetsky accused Argentina in the newspaper Moscow Bolshevik today of continued service to Hitler by harboring his henchmen.

"During recent days," he said, "the reception room embraced the Fascist spy and intimate of Admiral Doenitz, Count Karl von Lusburg, Richard Schroeder, Robert Ley's chief assistant, and the leading Gestapo men Wilkenitig and Schekenbrack, nothwithstanding that Argentina politicians continue their shameless, impudent claim that their state is nothing less than a stronghold of democracy."

Moscow, May 31 (A. Moscow, May 31 (A. P.).—Vyacheslav Kopecki, Czecho-Slovak Minister of Information, said today in a letter to the Communist party newspaper Pravda that Dr. Wilhelm Frick, former German protector of Bohemia and Moravia, should be handed over to Czecho-Slovakia by the Americans for trial.

U.S. FORCES KILL MORE THAN 1,000 JAPS NEAR SHURI

Last Core of Enemy Defenses on Southern Okinawa Crumbles.

NIPPONESE LOSSES HIGH

Report 61,519 Killed in Island Campaign; 1353 Prisoners Taken.

GUAM, Friday, June 1—(AP) U. S. 10th Army divisions, killing more than 1,000 Japanese daily crumbled the last formidable core of enemy defenses across southern Okinawa yesterday in a general assault which gained up to 1,200 yards and virtually pinched off Shuri.

The fall of Naha on the west coast and Yonabaru on the east had left only Shuri in the center and, for all practical purposes, the Japanese around Shuri are through.

First Marine division patrols advancing yesterday through the wrecked city of Shuri were within sight of westbound forward elements of the 96th Infantry division.

Thus one encirclement virtually has been completed around any enemy troops within Shuri's boundaries and another is forming more than a mile to the south.

61,519 Japs Dead

Today's fleet communique, disclosing these successes, listed 61,519 Japanese dead in the campaign up to May 30.

Maj. Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner, Jr., 10th Army commander, estimated the original enemy garrison on Okinawa at about 85,000. Whether the Japanese succeeded in withdrawing the about 25,000 they have left was not clear. It is likely the enemy is split up into a rear-guard force holding in the northeast portion of Shuri and other forces which have pulled into hill positions to the south.

Tokyo radio said today that Japanese losses on Okihawa were piling up and the situation was worsening.

Admiral Chester W. Nimitz' communique, in a highly optimistic view of the overall situation, said the once stoutly defended Naha-Shuri-Yonabaru defence line "has now been outflanked and the entire Shuri position is being pinched out."

Looking from west to east across that defense line, this is the current situation as officially reported today:

On the west end, the Sixth Marine division which captured Naha has advanced southeast as one arm of a pinchers around Shuri, reached the Kokuba river and by nightfall Thursday held a line south of Kobakura village.

Marines in City

Next to the Sixth, the First Marine division has driven into Shuri city where the American flag floats over the 16th century castle of the Ryukyu kings.

Near the center of the line, the 77th Infantry division advanced 200 to 800 yards yesterday. By nightfall, these Yanks were on the northeast boundaries of Shuri.

Abreast of the 77th, the 96th Infantry division pushed out of rugged terrain southwest of Conical Hill. They advanced 80 to 1,200 yards and captured strong hill positions 600 yards south of Shuri.

The Seventh Infantry division, which circled southwestward recently from fallen Yonabaru on the east coast, captured a hill yesterday 500 yards east of Chan village and another elevation 300 yards northeast of Chan. The Seventh forms the other large arm of the pincers on Shuri and its successes Thursday prompted the communique report of a threat to the "whole central island position." Chan is a mile and a half south of Shuri.

With three-fourths of the original enemy garrison either killed or captured, it appeared certain that the Japanese will be unable to make a prolonged stand anywhere in the remaining area of southern Okinawa.

The operations below Shuri were fast closing a corridor of possible escape for any Nipponese pulling out of that sector. There were indications some of the enemy there were trying to join other elements to organize a new defense line.

The new total enemy dead reported was an increase in 13 days of 13,416. In addition today's communique raised the total of enemy prisoners from 1,038 reported May 10 to 1,353 through May 30.

The strongest resistance along the shattered enemy defense line was met by the Seventh Infantry in driving toward Kamizato town, little over a mile south of Chan.

Suicide Planes Missing

For the first time in several days, the communique reported a complete absence of Japanese suicide plane attacks on American ships, due to heavy rains and electrical storms. Despite the adverse weather, escort carrier planes of the U. S. Pacific Fleet got in some blows on enemy airfields, barracks and installations in the Sakishima group of islands, southernmost of the Ryukus.

The total given for enemy casualties covered Okinawa "and surrounding islands," referring to such nearby points as Ie Shima. No new total was given of American casualties, last reported up to May 24 as consisting of 9,602 killed or missing and 25,514 wounded. These figures were for the Navy, Marine and Army forces.

Today's communique reported attacks Wednesday by search planes in the east China sea on enemy shipping during which two large transports were damaged.

YANKS ATTACK FLANK OF JAPS IN SHURI CITY

ADVANCE THROUGH DEEP MUD

Leathernecks Also Clear Most of Naha on West Coast—Few Japs Remain.

JUN 1 - 1945

Guam, May 31 (A. P.).—First Division Marines, who yesterday raised the American flag in victory over Shuri Castle, pressed a flank attack today against the Nipponese Shuri town garrison fanatically holding out against two divisions north and east of the ruined city.

The advance patrols of the Fifth Regiment met slight opposition as they advanced toward the western flank of the almost encircled enemy.

The already knee-deep mud which has slowed the whole Okinawa campaign for weeks was made more soupy by fresh downpours. All available Tenth Army men not in the front line were set to carrying munitions, water and rations afoot to the fighting fronts.

Company A of the Fifth Regiment, under Capt. Julius D. Dusenberry of Charlotte, N. C., first occupied Shuri Castle, medieval fortress which was the home of sixteenth century Ryukyu kings and in recent months the headquarters of the Jap command on Okinawa.

The invading Leathernecks found only fifty Jap troops, which they killed, and two women and a baby. The garrison had withdrawn with most of its equipment before the attack into the pile of shattered masonry.

One of the first acts of the occupying company was to raise the stars and bars of the American civil war confederacy, which was the company's victory flag at bloody Peleliu. The American standard was officially raised twenty-five hours later.

Marines of the First Division hoisted the colors at 1:45 P. M. yesterday while Leathernecks and infantrymen, slogging through mud and rain, threatened to encircle Shuri town.

Advance units of the Sixth Ma-

The Division on the west flank and the Seventh Infantry Division on the east were, at last reports, less than two miles apart. Their expected juncture about a mile south of Shuri will ring the city and halt apparent Jap efforts to withdraw troops.

Yank Reinforcements in Castle.

The Fifth Marine Regiment sent patrols 100 to 200 yards east of Shuri Castle without encountering material opposition. Admiral Chester W. Nimitz's communique today said Marine reinforcements reached the castle.

Shuri's defenders, apparently a stand-and-die garrison, fought fiercely northeast of the town. The stiffest resistance was encountered by the Seventy-seventh Infantry Division. Jap efforts to slow the American advance through deep mud was described not only as strong but fanatical.

Naha, the Okinawa capital on the west coast, was wholly in American hands except for isolated pockets. Sixth Marine Division units advanced eastward from Naha 100 to 300 yards toward the Kobakura Hills, where mortar and machine-gun fire was encountered from an estimated 350 troops, mostly Koreans. The Marines neared the Kokuba River, which empties into Naha harbor.

On the east flank, the Seventh Infantry Division expanded its holdings by moving onto high ground near Yonawa town, adjacent to captured Yonabaru, and sent patrols far to the west toward an imminent juncture with the Sixth Division Marines south of Shuri.

Rain and mud, sometimes knee-deep, slowed ground operations and posed further supply problems for advance troops.

Two more American light vessels were damaged in small Jap air attacks carried out on the Okinawa area Tuesday despite bad weather. Eight Jap planes were shot down.

Strike Out From Shuri

With 1st Marine Division, Okinawa, May 31 (AP) — Marines launched out from Shuri castle today in an attack on Japanese near Shuri town, the Leatherneck fighters were supplied by a line of strong-backed, mud-treading fellow Marines.

The 1st Marine Regiment, commanded by Col. Arthur Macon, of Washington, D.C., started the northwestward assault. Mason's regiment took over from the 5th Regiment, which captured the castle yesterday.

JAPS PREPARE NEW SUICIDE ASSAULTS

SAN FRANCISCO, May 31—(AP) Tokyo radio told the Japanese people today that Nipponese losses on Okinawa were "gradually increasing" and tried to reassure them with word that new suicide attacks to beat off the Americans were being planned.

The Okinawa fighting was described as "becoming more and more furious with the passing of the days." The broadcasts were recorded by the Federal Communications Commission.

Tokyo told the people that the Americans had penetrated south of Yonabaru after an "all-out" offensive started May 21. Yonabaru is the former eastern anchor of the now collapsing Japanese Shuri line.

The broadcast insisted the "morale of our fighting forces is higher than ever before" and that "our men are inflicting tremendous bleeding on the enemy day after day."

A Domei News Agency dispatch had previously admitted to the outside world that the single defense line had given way to "plural" battle lines on Okinawa.

Plan "Special Attack"

A Tokyo radio commentator informed the Japanese that all branches of the Imperial Navy, surface and air, were being readied for new "special attack" suicide efforts.

Domei News Agency, in an English language dispatch directed to North America, repeated claims that Japanese suicide fliers had inflicted "appalling" losses on American ships off Okinawa but added: "These devastating blows appear not effective enough to sever completely enemy supply lines to his ground forces."

The dispatch reported the Okinawa ground fighting was becoming "critical" and confused.

Reveal Navy Shakeup

Kusuo Oya, the Tokyo commentator, said in the domestic broadcast that the shakeup of several days ago in the Japanese navy high command was in line with the increased "special attack" tactics.

Vice Admiral Jibsaburo Ozawa, new navy and combined fleet commander-in-chief, was described as an officer who "has thoroughly familiarized himself with surface special attack tactics"

Vice Adm Takijiro Onishi, new vice chief of the Naval General Staff, was declared to be "the originator as well as one of the persons who perfected the air special-attack tactics."

Another Domei dispatch reported that Yomiuri Hochi and Tokyo Shimbun, two of Tokyo's leading newspapers, had resumed regular publication in new quarters. Their previous quarters had been burned out by last Saturday's American Superfortress raid.

Reappearance of the papers' regular editions was hailed as "another tangible sign of speedy progress in the rehabilitation and reconstruction work now in full progress in the metropolis."

Okinawa Situation Serious: Japs

San Francisco, May 31 (AP)—The Japanese Domei news agency claimed today that Mikado's kamikaze (suicide) air force is inflicting "appalling" losses on the United States fleet off Okinawa Island, 325 miles south of Japan, and that the island's land "battle situation" was "stalemated."

The broadcast, recorded here, admitted, however, that the "devastating blows (of kamikaze pilots against the fleet) appear not effective enough to sever completely enemy supply lines to his ground forces."

As a result, the Okinawa battle situation is "serious," the broadcast said, adding:

"Indications are that enemy pressure on our garrison force will be further increased unless our air operations succeed in completely cutting off the enemy ground forces from supplies from the sea."

Aims Of Shift Told

San Francisco, May 31 (AP)—The recent shakeup of the Japanese naval high command was designed to prepare all branches of the Imperial Navy for "special attack suicide) tactics," a Tokyo radio commentator said today.

"The strategy that Japan must naturally take is to launch her special attack tactics" in the face of overwhelming American power closing in on Nippon, Kusuo Oya told the Japanese in a broadcast recorded here.

In the last week suicide pilots of the Kamikaze Air Corps attacking United States shipping in Okinawa waters, 325 miles south of Japan, have sunk one light American naval unit and damaged 26 others.

Experience In Suicide Attacks

Ranking Japanese admirals, Oya said, were reassigned to posts where their experience in developing suicide assaults could be employed to the greatest advantage in extending these Kamikaze operations.

Oya said "over-all strategy" for suicide forces will be mapped by Admiral Soemu Toyoda, who was shifted two days ago from the three top fleet commands to naval chief of staff. The commentator asserted Toyoda's "actual experience in the decisive naval battles between the Japanese and American navies" qualifies him for this task.

Vice Admiral Jisaburo Ozawa was reported selected as the new three-fold fleet commander because he "has thoroughly familiarized himself with surface special attack tactics" and has "brought perfection to the special attack tactics of today."

Bombed Jap Papers Back

San Francisco, May 31 (AP)—Two leading Tokyo newspapers, burned out in last Saturday's Superfortress fire raid, resumed regular publication in new locations today, the Japanese Domei news agency reported.

The dispatch, intercepted here, termed the reappearance of Yomiuri Hochi and Tokyo Shimbun "another tangible sign of speedy progress in the rehabilitation and reconstruction work now in full progress in the metropolis."

During the five-day suspension, "emergency editions" for the burned-out dailies were published with the joint co-operation of three other Tokyo dailies—Asahi, Mainichi and Nippon Sangyo Keizai.

Elaborate precautionary plans saved the Yasukuni shrine, where all Japanese war dead are honored, from destruction, although fire bombs fell within the compound Saturday and the surrounding residential area was "virtually reduced to ashes."

YANKS STAVE OFF NEW JAP ATTACKS

Counter Assaults in Luzon and Mindanao Prove Unsuccessful.

MANILA, Friday, June 1—(AP) Japanese forces have attempted widespread counterattacks against Filipino guerrillas and American infantrymen on Luzon and Mindanao as well as against Australians on New Guinea, but a headquarters spokesman said today they were "almost uniformly unsuccessful."

While the actions were small in scale, with the Japanese attacking in company strength or less, they were persistent and ferocious.

On Northern Luzon guerrillas bloodily repulsed several hundred Japanese troops attempting to cross to the west bank of the Cagayan river on rafts between Aparri and Tuguegarao. The guerrillas previously had pushed the enemy out of the rugged mountain country onto the east bank of the river, and thus maintained control over the area they had fought to clear.

Clear Cave Positions

At the southern entranceway to the Cagayan Valley, where the last major Japanese force now is being compressed by the 25th and 32nd divisions, the Yanks cleaned up 32 Japanese-infested cave positions one mile northeast of Santa Fe.

On Sunday and Monday nights the Americans fought off a bloodthirsty series of Banzai charges in hand-to-hand clashes.

Advance American patrols were reported in frontline dispatches to be already in the Cagayan valley, last major enemy strongpoint in the Philippines.

On Central Luzon, the dauntless 38th division followed up their conquest of the Wawa Dam by driving the enemy into the rugged Sierra Madre mountain peaks to the south and east.

Fight Near Mountains

Relentless Americans fought their way up near the slopes of Mt. Lamita and Mt. Ayaas, about one mile east of the dam. The Japanese have formed a new strongpoint for the broken Shimbu line atop neighboring Mt. Purro.

A spokesman said Maj. Gen. William C. Chase's veteran outfit was now within one mile of this objective.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's communique today said doughboys on Northern Luzon, with strong air support, were liquidating Japanese remnants in the Santa Fe sector and in two areas of Mindanao.

Formosa took a 520-ton bombing Tuesday and Wednesday. Escorted Liberators concentrated on the Keelung and Takao waterfront areas.

A medium cargo vessel was sunk at Shanghai and seven coastal ships were destroyed in the Hong Kong area as heavy bombers patrolled the China Sea.

The 24th division doughboys in the Davao sector of Mindanao drove through a tight interlocking defense system of pillboxes and machinegun nests 2,000 yards northeast of Mintal.

This brought them to the Bancal-Mintal road, where they found an enemy minefield sowed with aerial bombs and covered by mountain artillery pieces. The minefield was cleared and the infantrymen continued their advance.

The first important Japanese line of resistance on Mindanao since the capture of the Syre-North-South highway was encountered by the 31st division, which beat off two night counterattacks Monday night.

At Wewak on Northeastern New Guinea the Japanese made a strong daylight counterattack against the Australians about a mile southeast of Wirui mission. Aussia artillery broke up the attempted breakthrough.

GI's In Cagayan Valley On Luzon

Manila, May 31 (AP)—Yank patrols probed today into the Cagayan Valley, last important Japanese-held area in the Philippines.

The appearance of American forces in the valley, a narrow lowland area in northern Luzon which runs to the island's north coast, was made while 32d and 25th Infantry Division troops cleared up Japanese from hills around Santa Fe.

Delay In Battle

The nearness of rains and the time needed for consolidating positions at Santa Fe probably will delay the start of the battle with the enemy garrison.

On Mindanao, close-quarter fighting flared between trapped Japanese north of Davao and the 24th Infantry Division, but the three-week-old fight definitely was on the wane.

Pfc. Joseph Stewart, of Courtney, Mo., stumbled onto eight Japanese in cogon grass and killed six with his automatic rifle.

Today's communiqué of Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported an air raid Monday on fuel plants, railroads and communications on Formosa by more than 30 5th Air Force Mitchell medium bombers and raids on the coastal rail line of French Indo-China between Saigon and Phanrang by more than 45 Liberators.

Approximately 150 bombers and fighters of the 13th Air Force attacked the oil center of Balikpapan, Borneo, the same day.

Philippines Change Over To Driving on Right Side

U. S. Army Orders Reversal of 400-Year-Old Custom

MANILA, June 1 (Friday) (AP).—The Philippines broke a 400-year-old custom today when horse-drawn calesas, caribao carts and motorized traffic started traveling on the right side of streets and highways instead of the left.

The changeover, to conform with the United States traffic practice, was ordered by the American Army, whose vehicles are built for right side driving. Impetus for the change also came from Manila automobile dealers, who handle United States-built cars.

Signs advising the public of the changeover have been posted for weeks, but military police anticipate some trouble. They pointed out that many United States Army jeep and truck drivers have become used to left-hand travel in Australia, New Guinea and the Philippines during the last two or three years.

3 Men's Thirst Saves A Plane Crew

Mindanao, Philippines, May 4 [AP—Delayed] — The thirst of three United States artillerymen saved the lives of an army transport plane crew.

30.24 27155

The thirsty three—Staff Sergeant Allen H. Conser, of Portland, Ore.; Lieut. M. D. Melody, of Lexington, Mass., and Staff Sergeant Marion D. Sturtevant, of Canon City, Col. —found an abandoned Japanese refrigerator in the hills.

They took it to their airfield battery positions and fixed it, but a short circuit started a fire. One of them mistakingly sprayed oxygen on it, intensifying the flames.

High above them a lost transport plane nearly out of gasoline was hunting the field in the darkness. The blazing icebox was beacon enough for a landing.

Briton Applauds Pacific Setup

Abroad H.M.S. King George V., May 28 [AP—Delayed]—Co-operation in the Pacific between British and American forces is forging a new link toward permanent peace, Vice Admiral Sir Bernard Rawlings, second in command of the British Pacific Fleet, said today:

"At the bottom of everybody's heart," he said, speaking for the fleet at a news conference, "is the feeling that if the Americans and us stick together our children and grandchildren will not face another war like this.

Stage Set For Peace

"When you learn to be good fleetmates, the stage is set for peace.

"The root of all trouble (in the Pacific) lies in the Japanese military. If we can break them and discredit them, we will go very far. I dislike them intensely."

Asked how the pilots of the British fleet compared with the Japanese flyers they have been knocking down off Okinawa, Sir Bernard commented, "You can't compare kamikaze (suicide pilots) with trained pilots, and the Americans removed the best of the Japanese pilots before we had a chance for comparison with them.

Defense Methods Changed

"The Japanese pilots now are not particularly skillful."

The kamikaze technique, however, has forced some change in the method of operations of the fleet's air defense.

"Kamikaze takes much more hitting" than the dive bombers, which were the principal hazard in the Mediterranean, Sir Bernard explained, adding:

"We have got to tackle kamikaze, using our weapons to greater advantage or developing new weapons. I think getting more out of present weapons will be the answer."

Wants More Fighter Planes

One of the developments, the Admiral said, was the use of greater numbers of fighters in the patrols to knock down the suicide planes before they reach the fleet.

Sir Bernard reported the morale of the fleet high and that it had adapted its operations readily to the changed conditions of warfare in the far reaches of the Pacific.

The British fleet, he added, is "proud to operate" under an American commander in chief "as the Americans did at Scapa Flow" under British command.

Navy Reveals Two-Year Saga Of A Submarine In The Pacific

A Western Pacific Submarine Base, May 31 (AP)—Neutralization of Japan's formidable naval base at Truk, permitting the last year's swift advances toward Tokyo, is one of the feats performed by American submarines during three and a half years of silent warfare in the great reaches of the Pacific.

Only now has the Navy begun to relax its ban on news of the undersea fleet which Admiral King once declared "determined the course of the war" in this area.

Slipping in and out of the area surrounding the forbidding base which then appeared certain to delay American advances in the Pacific, submarines sank many ships there—and some of the submarines failed to return.

Ripped Jap Supply Lines

But the biggest contribution of the underwater fleet to neutralization of the areas, which then could be bypassed, was through the ripping of supply lines.

Constantly hitting at convoys, men of the submarines destroyed ship after ship of the Nipponese merchant fleet until Japanese supply efforts virtually were abandoned.

Lifting of the veil of secrecy heretofore surrounding the "silent service" also permits disclosure of its role in making possible the occupation of the Marianas, whence the B-29's strike at Japan.

This also was accomplished primarily by consistent blows against supply lines.

Giant Convoy Destroyed

Most spectacular, however, was destruction of a giant Japanese convoy carrying reinforcements from Japan. This convoy was intercepted and sunk far north of its destination.

Submarine warfare began almost simultaneously with the attack on Pearl Harbor.

Many of the undersea boats were on maneuvers throughout the Pacific—off the Hawaiian Islands and in Philippine waters. They shifted immediately to war patrols, beginning the attacks which since have resulted in destruction of more than 1,000 ships.

An example of the speedy switch from routine patrols to war activity is the Gudgeon, which for more than two years was a principal scourge of the Japanese. Its total bag may not be disclosed, but it runs into the dozens.

Aided Filipino Guerrillas

It also helped supply guerrilla forces prior to the liberation of the Philippines and aided in rescue of Allied troops marooned on Jap-held islands. It began its work the day after Pearl Harbor.

She was new, operating off Pearl Harbor on her shakedown cruise. Her orders—which had provided for a return to Mare Island navy yards—were changed. She was ordered to Japanese waters.

"We left for Kobe with the Plunger" (another famous boat of the early days of submarine warfare), says Chief Machinist Ray E. Cain, son of Mr. and Mrs. Archie R. Cain, of Seattle, "but the Plunger had to go back because of mechanical trouble."

The Gudgeon continued alone, and roved up and down at the entrance to the Inland Sea, getting "a ship or two" to begin evening the Pearl Harbor score.

Down Goes A Jap Sub

"On the way back, off Midway," Cain continued, "we picked up three enemy subs. So we dove and caught one Jap sub coming along. We planted a fish in him and down he went."

"Then we had liberty at the Royal."

Throughout his story, Cain, veteran of a dozen or more years in the Navy, referred frequently to the Royal Hawaiian, a palatial hotel in Honolulu taken over by the Navy as a rest home for submarine crews.

In fact, he seemed to regard the rest and recreation periods as definitely more interesting than war-patrol actions.

Those periods of relaxation never last long, though, and this one was no exception. The Gudgeon, refitted, headed out again for Nagasaki, Japan's biggest shipyards, on the northwest coast of Kyushu.

"Caught A Couple Of Ships"

"We caught a couple of ships off Nagasaki and had to make most of the run back to Pearl submerged." That was the way he dismissed thousands of miles of cruisin through thickly patrolled Japanese waters.

The Gudgeon needed a lot of work, "but we put her back together in a big hurry for the Midway operation. The biggest thing there was when we chased a Jap cruiser squadron pretty nearly to Alaska.

"Then we went down to Truk," said Cain. "Most of the Jap Fleet was in there, and they welcomed us in and they welcomed us out."

The "welcomes" he dismissed so casually were depth-charge attacks.

"We got five or six Jap ships there, but it's been so long ago I can't remember exactly how many."

Tells Of Trip To Perth

He told them of a trip to Perth, Australia, through Japanese territory, for refitting.

Cain had to leave the boat there because of illness and missed a run into the Solomon Islands, where "they got a good bag."

But he was back aboard for a patrol through the Macassar Straits, where the Gudgeon "picked up a big tanker," Cain related, "and stopped him with the first fish.

"But the guy started to shoot and it took six fish to push that dude under." Another tanker, a short time later, only took one shot.

They took off from Perth to rescue 28 Australian soldiers marooned in the Dutch East Indies.

"We slipped in between Jap air patrols after we'd stuck up our periscope just when the guys ashore waved a sheet. The sheet and the periscope both disappeared when the Jap patrol came over. Those were a swell bunch of fellows and one of the boys took me to his home in Perth."

Describes Another Run

On another run:

"We caught a Jap steamer with two fish and he went down. Then we took on a trawler with our gun (surface action) and down it went, but one of our officers got hit. We wanted revenge and chased another trawler and took him on with the 3-inch.

"What shells were missing him were hitting in a Jap-held town in the Philippines. From there we went down the channel at Cebu, but didn't get anything."

That series of runs had beaten up the boat pretty badly. She went into San Francisco for a general refitting.

Later, between Guam and Saipan (both then held by the enemy), "we got a couple and tangled with a DE (destroyer escort) and made out all right."

Cruise To China Coast

By that time it was possible to refit at Midway, and there fifteen members of her crew were replaced —sent home for rests. Cain stayed aboard and "we went to the China coast and got some more ships. We took one Jap prisoner that trip."

That run ended Cain's service on the Gudgeon—he's doing refitting work now and is out of patrol activities, but the Gudgeon always will be his favorite boat—"don't put any part of me in your story, it's just the boat that counts."

CHINESE TROOPS TAKE RAIL TOWN

Ishan, 43 Miles from U.S. Air Base Is Captured.

CHUNGKING, May 31. — (AP) Chinese troops were reported tonight to have captured the South China rail town of Ishan, 43 miles west of the former U. S. air base city of Liuchow, as they dug deeper into the narrowing corridor leading into French Indo-China where thousands of Japanese are isolated.

The Chinese high command had not confirmed the capture of Ishan, but the Chinese troops yesterday had fought into its outskirts in their converging drive on Liuchow, the enemy's most important road hub in Kwangsi Province. Other Chinese columns were reported 55 miles southwest and 40 miles northwest of Liuchow, swept by fires apparently set off by the retreating enemy.

Japs Withdrawing

Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, U. S. Army commander in China, declared the Japanese were without question withdrawing from the trans-continental land corridor connecting enemy forces in China with perhaps 200,000 Japanese in Indo-China, Thailand, Malaya, and Burma. At a point near the Indo-China frontier the corridor is now only about 100 miles wide.

Wedemeyer said he was "very optimistic about the military future in China" with Allied supply improving in contrast to the enemy's deteriorating position. He said China was not yet ready for a grand counteroffensive but "we are around the corner psychologically."

Batting eastward through gorge-cut Kwangsi province on an irregular 250-mile front the Chinese were extending their gains above and below Ishan, which is 335 miles southeast of Chungking.

At the lower end of this front they had reached the vicinity of Suilo, approximately 40 miles from the Indo-China border, and 60 miles southwest of Yungning, (Nanning), whose capture last Sunday effectively sealed off powerful Japanese garrisons in southeastern Asia. The enemy's sea routes to his conquered holdings in lower Asia are constantly exposed to American aerial and submarine attack.

Chinese troops by Monday had completed the mopping of enemy remnants on the south bank of the Siang river opposite Yungning, a stronghold which Wedemeyer said t, uetaoin shrdlu shrdlu shrdluuuu the Japanese destroyed before retreating and carrying with them all able-bodied Chinese.

In the drive northwest of Yungning one Chinese column had bypassed Pinyang, nearly 60 miles beyond Yungning, and reached the area of Chienkiang, 55 miles southwest of menaced Liuchow. One column was attacking Pinyang itself, the high command said.

Northeast of Ishan, on the Kwangsi-Kweiyang railway, the Japanese were reported withdrawing from a number of localities, including Chongon, 40 miles northwest of Liuchow.

Prisoners Discouraged

"A few prisoners were taken in recent clashes," Wedemeyer said. "They were a discouraged group who feel Japan has lost the war. They say that. Some are cognizant of the terrific damage caused by air attacks on their homeland."

Far to the northeast of the Kwangsi battlefront other Chinese troops attacking along China's east coast had penetrated beyond captured Ningteh, 45 miles north of the treaty port of Foochow, to the southern bank of the Kiao river, after killing and wounding more than 200 Japanese.

Only 12 Japanese prisoners were taken as the enemy retreated toward Siapu, 75 miles northeast of Foochow and where an enemy naval force landed last week.

This Chinese battle area is about 500 miles across the east China sea from embattled Okinawa, and Wedemeyer in his war review praised the accomplishments of the American Pacific forces as contributing to the enemy reverses in China.

JUN 1 - 1945

The American chief of staff to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek promised increased aerial support to the Chinese ground forces and the Chinese announced that Chinese planes shot down ten enemy craft Wednesday in combat over Nanking. This was the biggest bag ever claimed by that airforce in one engagement.

Chinese Close In on Liuchow

City Reported in Flames—Foe Is Believed Burning It Before Retreating.

Chungking, May 31 (A. P.).—Chinese front dispatches reported today that Chinese forces had recaptured Ishan on the Kwangsi-Kweichow railway, forty-three miles west of the railhead of Liuchow, former site of an important American air base. Another Chinese column striking northeastward along the highway from Indo-China was reported within fifty-five miles of Liuchow.

[A dispatch from Kunming reported that Liuchow was being swept by fires set by the Jap defenders, apparently in preparation for evacuation.]

The new threat to the flame-swept communications hub was disclosed by the Chinese High Command, which reported the column advancing from the southwest had by-passed Pinyang, sixty miles above captured Yungning (Nanning), and reached the vicinity of the strongly fortified Jap positions at Chienkiang, twenty-five miles beyond. Fighting was in progress, Another Chinese column was attacking Pingyang.

Wedemeyer Is Optimistic.

At the other end of the spreading wedge driven into the Jap north-south corridor the Chinese reached a point sixty miles southwest of Hanning and 145 miles from Chienkiang on the highway to Lungchow and Jap-occupied French Indo-China.

Lieut.-Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, American Army commander in China, said today he was "very optimistic" about the military situation since the Japs began withdrawing from their corridor across the country of French Indo China.

"Our supply problems are improving while the enemy's are becoming increasingly difficult," he said. He made it clear, however, that the time had not yet come to launch a general counter-offensive. He commented that the Jap policy probably was one of contraction to provide security for their main positions on the Asiatic mainland and to protect Japan itself.

South Bank of Yung Cleared.

The Chinese announced the southern bank of the Yung River, opposite Yungning, has been completely cleared of enemy troops since Monday. In one south bank river village more than 100 enemy dead were counted. The Chinese said they had suffered altogether 435 casualties in retaking Yungning, where the situation was reported approaching normal, with the population returning and business being resumed.

Meanwhile, in Fukien province to the northeast, in the large Chinese-controlled coastal pocket beyond the enemy corridor, the High Command announced a further advance by troops following up the withdrawal of Jap forces heading for Siapu near the coast, seventy-five miles northeast of Foochow, which is now in Chinese hands.

The Chinese troops pushed beyond Ningteh, forty-five miles north of Foochow, to the south bank of the Kiao River. They reported 200 Japs killed or wounded and the capture of a large quantity of materiel, including three field pieces in the taking of Ningteh Sunday.

Jap Defenders Fire Liuchow

Kunming, China, May 31 (AP)—Liuchow, main Japanese road and rail hub in southern China, was reported swept by fires set by its defenders today as Chinese troops closed in on the city along a 50-mile front.

Signs that the Japanese were preparing to abandon the former American airbase site, coming after their loss Sunday of Yungning (Nanning), 120 miles to the southwest, reinforced a growing belief here that Japan is about to surrender the main military fruits of her conquest of Indo-China, Thailand, Malaya and the Netherlands Indies.

Such a move would mean that imperial headquarters at Tokyo has decided to leave its forces south of China to shift for themselves. The land corridor serving those forces already has been almost severed by the Chinese, and American planes and submarines have made the sea lanes more of a hazard than a link.

May Quit In Southeast

The situation at Liuchow also suggested the possibility that Japan even planned to quit southeast China, leaving only small holdout pockets while concentrating her strength between the Yangtze and Amur rivers for a last-ditch defense of her continental possessions.

One of the reasons for such a concentration in the north may be Japanese fear of Russian intervention along the Amur River. An even bigger Japanese consideration may have been preparations in China for a full-scale offensive against them in the south.

The new threat to Liuchow was disclosed by the Chinese high command, which reported the column advancing from the southwest had bypassed Pinyang, 60 miles above Yungning, and reached the vicinity of the Japanese positions at Chienkiang, 25 miles beyond.

Pinyang Under Attack

Another Chinese column was attacking Pinyang.

At the other end of the wedge driven into the Japanese north-south corridor, the Chinese reached a point 60 miles southwest of Nanning and 145 miles from Chienkiang on the highway to Lungchow and Japanese-occupied French Indo-China.

The Chinese announced the southern bank of the Yung River, opposite Yungning, has been completely cleared of enemy troops.

435 Lost At Nanning

The Chinese said they had suffered altogether 435 casualties in retaking Yungning, where the situation was reported approaching normal, with the population returning and business being resumed.

Meanwhile in Fukien province to the northeast, in the large Chinese-controlled coastal pocket beyond the enemy corridor, the high command announced a further advance by troops following up the withdrawal of Japanese forces heading for Siapu near the coast, 75 miles northeast of Foochow, which is now in Chinese hands.

The Chinese troops pushed beyond Ningteh, 45 miles north of Foochow, to the south bank of the Kiao River. They reported 200 Japanese killed or wounded and the capture of a large quantity of materiel in the taking of Ningteh Sunday.

SOONG TAKES JOB AS CHINA PREMIER

MOOSA

Chiang Kai-Shek Retains Army Command and Other Posts.

CHUNGKING, May 31 — (AP) President Chiang Kai-Shek turned over his job as premier of China today to his brother-in-law, acting premier T. V. Soong, and apparently intends to devote his energies primarily to fighting the Japanese as supreme Allied commander in the China theater.

The elevation of the American-educated Soong possibly paved the way for an accord between the Chungking government and the Yenan Communists, toward whom his attitude always has been moderate.

Soong, 50, is a brother of Mrs. Chiang Kai-Shek and one of the most popular leaders in China. He was educated at Shanghai, Columbia and Harvard. For years he was Chinese Minister of Finance. In addition to the premiership, he is China's foreign minister.

Chiang retains numerous positions, the chief of which are president of China, Generalissimo of her armies and supreme Allied commander in China. He announced his resignation as premier to the new central executive committee of the Kuomintang, the government party.

Wong Weh-Hao, minister of economic affairs and head of the China War Production Board, was appointed vice premier, succeeding Dr. H. H. Kung, a brother-in-law of Soong and Mrs. Chiang.

Soong may take over the Finance Ministry portfolio now held by O. K. Yui as a result of the inflation in China and the recent gold scandal. In that event, he might relinquish the post of Foreign Minister to V. K. Wellington Koo, ambassador to Great Britain.

Soong became acting Premier last December and has been China's leading delegate at the San Francisco Conference. As Premier, he may attend any future meetings of big five leaders.

He may visit Moscow on his return to Chungking, in an effort to improve relations with the Soviet Union. He is known to favor exerting every possible effort to solve the domestic differences with Chinese communists and present a united front against Japan.

CHIANG RESIGNS POST OF PREMIER IN CHUNGKING

MOOSA

Soong Takes Over Office—Held More Likely to Get Along With Reds.

CHIANG STILL CHIEF OF STATE

Expected to Devote More Time Directing Military Drive Against Japanese.

Chungking, May 31 (A. P.).—Chiang Kai-shek resigned today as Premier and turned the post over to Acting President T. V. Soong in a move viewed as a step toward solidifying China at a time when the Allied nations are applying tremendous pressure on Japan from all quarters.

Chiang retained his post as President of China and head of the state. He also remains China's generalissimo, and now will be able to concentrate fully on military tasks in this critical period of the war on the continent of Asia.

When Soong, Chiang's brother-in-law, became acting Premier last December, the shift was regarded as a popular one, possibly paving the way for a working agreement between the central Government and the communists of north China. Soong's attitude toward the communists is known to be moderate.

Strengthening Soong's Hand.

Soong's elevation to the full premiership, or president of the Executive Yuan, as the post is designated in China, raised the possibility that he would attend any forthcoming meeting of the Big Five leaders of the United Nations. Moreover, Soong will be in a better position to talk to Premier Stalin on the matter of improving relations between China and Russia should he visit Moscow on his way back to China from the San Francisco world security conference. He also will be better able to engage in discussions with other international leaders.

In any event, Soong's popularity throughout the country is expected to strengthen the central Government's hand in the military situation. There have been some unconfirmed reports that an agreement already has been reached in principle between the central Government and the communists of the north to wage a single war against the Jap invader.

Chiang announced his resignation from the premiership at a meeting of the newly elected central executive committee of the Kuomintang, or Government party. Soong actually became Chiang's "right hand man" last December on his appointment as acting Premier. As such, he had attended to most of the Generalissimo's premiership duties. Thus his elevation comes as no particular surprise. The Generalissimo's 50-year-old aid, member of a distinguished family and brother of Chiang's wife, is recognized in China and abroad as possibly the country's most brilliant stateman.

Other Changes in Government.

Several other Government changes were announced and more were expected, particularly in the Ministry of Finance. It was announced that Wong Weh-hao, Minister of Economic Affairs, had been appointed vice-premier. In this position he will succeed H. H. Kung, also a brother-in-law of Soong. This change was looked upon as a reward for Wong's labor as head of China's war production board.

It was generally believed that Soong, besides taking over the premiership, might also take the portfolio of the Finance Ministry from O. K. Yui, who possibly might be made the scapegoat for the recent gold scandal and the failure to arrest inflation. In such an event Soong probably would relinquish the Foreign Affairs Ministry, in favor of V. K. Wellington Koo, Chinese Ambassador to Britain.

A native of Shanghai, Soong was educated in St. John's University in Shanghai, Harvard University in the United States, and Columbia University, which he attended after graduating from Harvard in 1915. He was active in the organization of the Canton Nationalist Government, from which he retired in 1928 during the split between the Hankow and Nanking factions of the Kuomintang.

He joined the Nanking Government as Minister of Finance in the same year, and was vice-president of the Executive Yuan. He resigned when the Cabinet fell in December, 1931, and rejoined the Government in the same posts when the Japs attacked Shanghai the following month. He served as acting president of the Executive Yuan for a year when President Wang Ching-wei was abroad.

Soong was China's principal delegate to the World Economic Conference at London. He became chairman of the board of directors of the Bank of China in 1935, and gave up that post about a year ago, after reported differences with Chiang over the amount of foreign aid coming into China.

3 Helicopters Rescue China Crash Survivors

An American Air Base in China, May 31 (AP)—Three helicopters, two of them assembled in an all-night rush job, were used for rescue work for the first time in China Sunday to save three surviving American crewmen of a crashed transport plane.

The C-46 plane set out with a crew of four and eight Chinese soldiers as passengers over the "hump" on the India-China air route.

All those aboard bailed out when the plane crashed Saturday near Yuankiang in a remote section of the Red River valley. The American copilot and a Chinese soldier were killed by the descent.

Funeral services were held in the valley by a German Lutheran missionary, the Rev. Hugo Brunner, who introduced himself as an "enemy" but welcomed and assisted the rescue unit.

BRITISH TROOPS GAIN IN BATTLE OF BURMA

CALCUTTA, May 31—(AP) Tank-supported British Empire troops gained a mile and a half in grim fighting east of Toungoon along the road into the Burmese Shan states and now are more than 13 miles along that escape highway toward Thailand, a communique announced today.

The Japanese, fighting a desperate rearguard action, temporarily halted British armor when they blew a 90-foot gap in a bridge. The enemy also was laying down an extensive artillery and mortar fire.

In the Mokshitwa area, 14 miles northwest of Pegu, a growing concentration of Japanese was showing offensive signs and a minor campaign may be necessary to clean out the force. These Japanese daily are being augmented by stragglers coming from the west.

The whole force still is cut off from the east by strong British garrisons manning the Mandalay-Rangoon rail line.

American Flyers Leave Eastern Air Command

Calcutta, May 31 (AP)—All American aerial units have been withdrawn from the Eastern Air Command in southeast Asia and Maj. Gen. George E. Stratemeyer has relinquished command of the organization which he had headed since it was formed December 15, 1943.

The new destination of the American elements was not announced, but Air Marshal Sir Keith Park said in a special order of the day that they were being withdrawn "to fight the Japs in another theater." Sir Keith is commander in chief of air forces in Southeast Asia.

The integrated RAF and United States Air Forces, of the Eastern Air Command, spearheaded the way for the Allied ground forces in Burma. Stratemeyer, as the commander, evolved new methods of warfare in which the ground forces deliberately cut loose from their overland supply lines and depended on air cargo almost entirely.

Censure Motion Fails In Australian House

Canberra, Australia, May 31 (AP). A motion of censure against the Australian Government, presented by Opposition Leader Robert Gordon Menzies, was defeated in the House of Representatives by 38 votes to 15 tonight.

The Country party, one of the opposition groups, supported the censure motion.

Menzies, former Australian Prime Minister, charged the Government with:

Failure to deal adequately with industrial lawlessness.

Failure to adopt an effective housing policy.

With an attack upon responsible authority of Parliament by refusing to permit discussion of the San Francisco conference.

Stifling debate on important legislative proposals.

Political Parties Given New Life In Argentina

Buenos Aires, May 31 (AP)—Gen. Edelmiro Farrell, president of Argentina, in a decree issued today brought Argentina's political parties back to life and created a new judicial branch to try political cases. This action, his aides said, definitely pointed the nation back toward full democracy in compliance with the Chapultepec commitments although it left the date of a general election in abeyance.

Farrell's decree setablishes rules and regulations to which political parties must adhere to be able to function legally, undertakes to restrict and control campaign funds and provides penalties for fraudulent balloting. The decree also forbids creation of groups of a military character within political parties, specifically mentioning a bar against use of uniforms and salutes.

Brazil Lifts Censorship.

Rio De Janeiro, May 31 (A. P.).—Brazilian censorship was lifted today on incoming and outgoing press dispatches, cable and radio companies were informed officially. Censorship existed during the European war and in occasional periods before 1940.

Bogota Police Raids Nip Terroristic Attempt

Bogota, Colombia, May 31 (AP)—Police seized six men, twenty pistols and twenty sicks of dynamite in dawn raids to prevent what the officers said was expected to be a wave of terroristic attempts today. This capital and country remained calm. Police said the plot appeared to have no important instigators.

ANGLO-U.S. FRONT AGAINST RUSSIA DENIED BY GREW

WASHINGTON, May 31—(AP) A delegation of Congressmen asked Joseph C. Grew, Acting Secretary of State, today whether the United States has "become part of an Anglo-American front" against Russia, and Grew's answer was No.

Representative De Lacy (D-Wash.) was one of four Congressmen who called on Grew to submit a letter asking reassurance about recent press allegations that America had been pushed or fallen off her position as mediator in international affairs.

De Lacy said he called on Grew along with Representatives Coffee (D-Wash.), Patterson (D-Calif.), and Bailey (D-W.Va.). They submitted a letter signed by themselves and Representatives Marcantonio (ALP-N.Y.), Green (D-Pa.), Sabath (D-Ill.), Dickstein (D-N.Y.), Patrick (D-Ala.), Celler (D-N.Y.), Weiss, (D-Pa.), and Hedrick (D-W.Va.).

Ask Five Questions

The letter contained five questions which they said arose out of recent press criticism of American foreign policy. To each of the first four questions, De Lacy said, Grew gave a definite "No." These were:

1. Has there been any departure by the United States from its position, achieved by President Roosevelt, as a "disinterested third power which could mediate in and mollify whatever differences might develop between our two great Allies?"

2. Has our policy on the Polish question and on other Eastern European questions changed since President Roosevelt's death? Has it become an "appendage" to British foreign policy?

3. Has the United States, through some tacit understanding or through day to day working relations, become, de facto, part of an Anglo-American "front" against the Soviet Union?

4. Have old anti-Soviet prejudices, clung to by a group within the State department despite unity achieved among the Big Three at the Crimean conference, caused a shift since Roosevelt's death from American friendliness toward our Russian ally?

To the fifth question—what do you think has caused responsible editorial criticism of the type we have quoted to be made at this time?—De Lacy said that Grew replied merely that a whole textbook could be written about that.

SCHWELLENBACH GETS SENATE CONFIRMATION

WASHINGTON, May 31 — (AP) Lewis B. Schwellenbach, former senator and jurist, was confirmed by the Senate today as Secretary of Labor.

Schwellenbach succeeds Frances Perkins, original member of the Roosevelt cabinet of 1933.

Confirmation was by voice vote without dissent.

Gen. Brooks Heads 4th Service Command

Washington, May 31 (AP)—The War Department announced today that Maj. Gen. Edward H. Brooks, former commander of the 6th Corps of the 7th Army in Europe, has been named commanding general of the 4th Service Command with headquarters in Atlanta.

General Brooks will take over his new duties on June 1, replacing Maj. Gen. Frederick E. Uhl, who has been given an important but undisclosed overseas assignment.

TRUMAN WRITES NOTE TO GARNER

Washington, May 31 (A. P.).—President Truman wrote former Vice-President John N. Garner a "friendly letter" some time ago, the White House said today, but whether Garner was offered a Government post was not disclosed.

Commenting on a Texas report that Garner, a close friend of the President in their Senate days, had been offered any job he wanted in the Government, Charles G. Ross, press secretary, said:

"The President wrote Garner a friendly letter some time ago and told him to come around and see him. What he wanted to see him about I do not know."

Former Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas has accepted an invitation to confer with President Truman.

Secretary Ross said that the President had received a very cordial letter from Mr. Landon, accepting the invitation. He added that a time convenient to both will be arranged.

In reply to a reporter's question, Ross said that no reply had as yet been received to a similar invitation sent to Gov. Dewey of New York. The invitations suggested simply that Gov. Dewey and Mr. Landon drop in at the White House any time they might happen to be in Washington. No specific subjects were mentioned for discussion.

Former President Herbert Hoover called at the White House last Monday, at Mr. Truman's invitation, to discuss food relief abroad.

ANTI-FASCISTS TRYING TO FORM GOVERNMENT

WASHINGTON, May 31.—(AP) Acting Secretary of State Grew said today Italian anti-Fascist leaders are working toward formation of a new government representative of the whole country.

Pointing out that "All Italy is now freed of the German yoke," he added:

"That new government as it comes to grips with the responsibilities facing it will be able to give us the measure of Italian ability and determination to work together in rebuilding the country's economic and political structure and to work with the United Nations in the cause of world peace."

ANDERSON BACKED BY SENATE GROUP

Washington, May 31 (A. P.).—The Senate Agricultural Committee unanimously approved today the nomination of Representative Clinton P. Anderson (D.-N. M.) to be Secretary of Agriculture.

It ordered hearings on June 11 on the nomination of Claude R. Wickard, present Secretary of Agriculture, to be rural electrification administrator.

Senator Thomas (D.-Okla.), the chairman, said all the members had been getting numerous letters and telegrams from rural electric cooperatives opposing confirmation of Wickard "so we decided to let them come in and make their statements."

Both Anderson and Wickard appeared before the committee in a closed session.

Senator Thomas said there was great similarity in the wording of all the telegrams protesting against Wickard's nomination.

"Apparently somebody has been telling them what to say," he said, adding that he understood Earl Murley, manager of a Vincennes, Ind. Cooperative had been communicating with other cooperatives.

Congressional Medal of Honor.

It will be presented to the flyer's widow, Mrs. Evalyn S. Lindsey, of Storm Lake, Iowa.

Seconds after the last crewman bailed out of the stricken craft, Lindsey was killed by an explosion of a gasoline tank that sent the ship hurtling to the earth.

Leading 30 Bombers

The War Department, announcing the award today, said Lindsey earned the nation's highest decoration while leading a flight of 30 B-26 bombers against the L'Isle Adam railroad bridge over the Seine in France last August 9.

The target was highly important because it was one of the few Seine River spans still offering the Germans an avenue of escape from advancing Allied ground armies.

Anti-aircraft fire swept the formation as it approached the bridge and just as Lindsey's plane was ready to start its bombing run, flak peppered it with holes. On the bombing run itself, the right engine received a direct hit and burst into flames.

Goes Over Target Afire

"Fully aware that the gasoline tanks might explode at any moment, Captain Lindsey gallantly elected to continue the perilous bombing run," the citation said. "With fire streaming from his right engine and right wing half enveloped in flames, he led his formation over the target upon which the bombs were dropped with telling effect."

As soon as the bombs were away Lindsey ordered his crew to parachute and, ignoring his own danger, held the ship in a steady glide so they could get away safely.

The last man to leave, the bombardier, offered to lower the wheels so Lindsey might escape from the nose, but the pilot refused, aware that such a maneuver might throw the plane into a spin.

Immediately after the bombardier bailed out the right gasoline tank exploded, sheathed in fire, the plane spun into a steep dive and exploded as it crashed.

CENSURES NAVY LABOR POLICIES

Morse Blames Them for Coast Worker Shortage.

Washington, May 31 (A. P.).—Senator Morse (R.-Ore.) today attributed the shortage of workers in West Coast Navy Yards to the Navy's labor policies.

Commenting on the Navy's expressed concern over delays in repairing damaged ships, he declared: "There need be no real basis for the Navy's fears if it would proceed to iron out its labor policies."

Navy officials disclosed yesterday that the Mare Island (Cal.) Navy Yard is short 9,000 workers, Puget Sound (Wash.) short 5,000, and Hunters Point (Cal.) short 6,000. They appealed for needed workers to "come forward."

Mr. Morse, a former member of the War Labor Board, said that ever since the first world war private ship repair yards on the West Coast from San Francisco north have paid an 11.6-cent differential for repair work.

"Historically and factually there is adequate basis for the differential," he continued. "However, the Navy not only has failed to pay for this deserved differential, but there appears to be some basis for the charge of the labor organizations involved that it has been instrumental in preventing the application of this differential in Southern California ship repair yards although the so-called San Francisco amendments of 1942 to the ship repair agreements of 1941 were participated in by the Government and approved by the heads of the procurement agencies.

"All West Coast Senators are very much concerned about the labor crisis which is developing on the West Coast as outgrowths of the Government's failure to settle the 11.6 per cent differential controversies and they have called upon the War Labor Board and the procurement agencies to give them a statement of the Government's position in the matter."

KNOX HONORED POSTHUMOUSLY

Late Navy Secretary's Wife Receives Merit Award.

Washington, May 31 (A. P.).—President Truman today presented to Mrs. Frank Knox the Medal of Merit awarded posthumously to her husband, the late Secretary of the Navy. The award was presented in a White House ceremony attended by top-ranking Cabinet, military and Naval officers.

Col. Knox died April 28, 1944, while serving as Secretary of the Navy. The citation accompanying the medal said that it was awarded "for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services as Secretary of the Navy from July 11, 1940, to April 28, 1944."

It asserted that during the most critical period in the annals of the nation, Secretary Knox "prepared the Navy Department for the impact of the war abroad while striving to the utmost to concern the public with the imminence of war at home." It added that "unmindful of risk to his health and safety," Col. Knox "constantly maintained close touch with the United States naval activities."

"He promptly inspected the first battlefront at Pearl Harbor to determine our losses to Japanese attack," the citation said.

"He continued his personal contact with the combat areas and major shore establishment through a period of increasing offensive operations as our Navy steadily developed into the mightiest naval force in the history of the world.

"Carrying on his manifold responsibilities of courage of fortitude undiminished to the last, he died gallantly in the service of his country."

Present for the ceremonies were Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. James Forrestal; Fleet Admiral Ernest J. King, commander in chief of the fleet and chief of naval operations; the Secretary of War and Mrs. Henry L. Stimson; Navy Under-Secretary and Mrs.

JUN 1 - 1945

Ralph A. Bard; Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Air and Mrs. Artemus L. Gates; Mrs. Cordell Hull; Miss Dele Reid, a sister of Mrs. Knox; Rawleigh Warner of Chicago, a long time business associate of Col. Knox; Chairman Walsh (D.-Mass.) of the Senate Naval Committee and Chairman Vinson (D.-Ga.) of the House Naval Committee.

President Truman told Mrs. Knox that the citation and the certificate awarding the medal were signed by the late President Roosevelt. They apparently were among Mr. Roosevelt's last official acts.

Mrs. Knox was attired for the occasion in a black suit with a black straw hat. She wore a white lace blouse.

U.S. LOSSES OVER MILLION

Army Had 890,019, Navy 112,868 Week Before V-E Day

Washington, May 31 (AP)—Combat casualties of American armed forces passed the million mark today, roughly 3½ years after the Japanese sneak attack on Pearl Harbor.

The total of 1,002,887, which covers fighting up to about a week before V-E day, includes 227,097 killed, 607,468 wounded, 63,455 missing and 104,867 taken prisoner.

The army casualties totaled 890,019 and the Navy's 112,868. The aggregate was an increase of 6,798 over last week's report with a rise of 3,304 in navy casualties representing almost half of the advance.

5 "Hardest-Hit" Divisions

In releasing the Army's tally, Acting Secretary of War Patterson singled out five infantry divisions as the "hardest hit" of the war and said their losses "emphasize the stern cost of victory."

These divisions—the 3d, 45th, 36th, 9th and 4th—each lost more men than the normal 15,000 strength of an infantry division. Their combined casualties—killed, wounded and missing—totaled 123,394 with the 3d alone losing 34,224. These figures are still incomplete and subject to revision.

Estimates Of Losses

The division estimates follow:

	Killed	Wounded	Missing	Total
3d	6,240	24,793	3,191	34,224
45th	3,747	19,403	4,403	27,553
36th	3,974	19,052	4,317	27,343
9th	3,834	17,424	1,466	22,724
4th	3,808	16,951	791	21,550

With the exception of the 4th, which got its baptism of fire on Normandy beaches, all of the divisions were veterans of fighting in the Mediterranean.

LAFOLLETTE WARNS AGAINST 'TRUCE'

WASHINGTON, May 31 — (AP) Senator LaFollette (Prog.-Wis.) told the Senate today the United States may be heading toward a truce rather than peace, and cautioned against putting too much faith in peace-enforcing machinery.

In a major speech on international relations, the Wisconsin lawmaker also declared:

1—Russia has violated the Atlantic Charter and the Yalta agreements in its dealings with smaller European states.

2—The Dumbarton Oaks world organization plan now under consideration at San Francisco "needs basic overhauling," including revision of the veto machinery, more power for the assembly, a stronger charter amendment and an international bill of rights.

3—The purpose, program and possibilities of the San Francisco conference have been "oversold" to the people.

4—Enduring peace depends in large part upon what finally happens in Poland, Malaya and other liberated areas, as well as in Germany and Japan.

5—The United States thus far has failed to use its bargaining power effectively.

5—"We should strive to create a realistic international organization which will actually work and to create a peace settlement which will endure."

LaFollette told his colleagues the present war grew out of "seeds planted, however unwittingly, by the Allied leaders who thought they were peacemakers" after World War I.

"Thus far," he said "we have been traveling a road which almost step by step parallels the tragic road we took after the First World war. Unless we change our direction soon we shall find that our fantastic expenditure of men, money and materials has brought us only a short and uneasy truce—not the enduring peace we seek."

SEES WEAKNESS IN OAKS PLAN

La Follette Voices Fear It Will Defeat Own Purpose.

Washington, May 31 (A. P.).—Senator La Follette (Prog.-Wis.) declared today that the Dumbarton Oaks plan now under consideration at San Francisco "needs basic overhauling" to become "a genuinely democratic instrument for the preservation of peace."

"The international organization will fail," he predicted in a speech in the Senate, "unless the peace it is erected to enforce is a just and honorable peace, a peace founded on tolerance, not vengeance; on freedom, not imperialism; on genuine international co-operation, not a facade for military alliances; on the genuine principle of self-determination, not power politics and great-power domination; and most of all on a clear realization that the basic causes of war are social, economic and political in character."

Mr. La Follette said he feared that the present draft of the peace preserving organization contains several provisions which in his opinion may defeat the charter's purpose.

"I hope even at this late date," he told the Senate, "that the delegates to the United Nations conference will not be stampeded into accepting the judgment of the Big Three or the Big Four as conclusive, but will redouble their efforts to draft a charter which will strengthen the hope for genuine international co-operation by removing at least some of the more flagrant weaknesses of the original plan as amended at Yalta."

Condemns Veto Formula.

The Senator condemned particularly the veto formula which would permit any one of the big five Powers to veto a charge of aggression against itself.

He had six other suggestions. They were:

1. The charter should be made easier to amend.
2. Membership should be opened eventually to all nations which have proved their willingness to abide by the principles of the world organization.
3. Greater scope should be given to the Assembly.
4. Greater emphasis and prestige should be attached to the work of the social and economic council.
5. The principles of the Atlantic Charter should be incorporated as "a minimum standard of conduct" for member nations.
6. The international charter should include a world bill of rights, with signatory nations pledging themselves to preserve and extend religious and political freedom, civil liberties, racial equality, the protection of minorities and the abolition of human slavery and imperialism.

800 B-29 Field Space Seen On One Island

Washington, May 31 (AP) — The Army Air Forces now have the field facilities to mount 800-plane Superfortress raids against Japan from a single island in the Marianas.

This was diclosed in a delayed navy dispatch from "somewhere in the Marianas" reporting that Seabees on one unidentified island have turned over to the Army the last of four big bomber strips, each 8,500 feet long and capable of accommodating 200 B-29's. The fourth field was in use by March 20.

The island presumably was Saipan, Tinian or Guam—each used as bases for the giant bombers.

U.S. DEMANDS SPAIN GIVE LAVAL TO FRENCH

WASHINGTON, May 31 — (AP) The United States wants Spain to hand French Quisling Pierre Laval over to the De Gaulle government in Paris, Acting Secretary of State Joseph C. Grew disclosed today.

Grew said that the United States government continues to urge Spanish authorities to turn the former Vichy premier over to the French, but he said he understood that the Spanish have indicated only that they will release Laval to the Allied Commission on War Crimes if he is proclaimed a war criminal by that commission.

Laval was last reported imprisoned at Barcelona, where he fled following the collapse of Germany. The French want to try him for treason, and Grew's statement today was the first official indication that this country was actively supporting the French in their efforts to obtain custody of the man who headed the French puppet administration for the Nazis.

Grew said he was not prepared to answer a question as to whether the Spanish had replied to American urgings that they turn Laval over to his own countrymen.

GILLETTE RESIGNS AS PROPERTY HEAD

Senate Committee Withholds Confirmation of Wickard to REA Job.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—(AP) Guy M. Gillette laid a sudden resignation as Surplus Property Administrator on President Truman's desk today, posing a new top-level personnel problem for the President.

Meanwhile Mr. Truman moved ahead as a home front peacemaker with dispatch of an affectionate letter to former Vice President John N. Garner and receipt of a cordial note from Alf M. Landon, 1936 Republican presidential nominee.

On Capitol Hill, the Senate Agriculture committee postponed action on Mr. Truman's nomination of Claude R. Wickard as Rural Electrification Administrator, as a result of a number of protests.

However, the Senate confirmed without dissent the nomination of Lewis B. Schwellenbach of Washington State as secretary of labor.

The Agriculture committee unanimously approved the appointment of Rep. Clinton P. Anderson (D.-N.M.) to succeed Wickard as Secretary of Agriculture.

Gillette, long known to be dissatisfied with his Surplus Property post, did not wait for the White House to announce his resignation.

Announces Retirement

Leaving a brief conference with the President, Gillette, former Democratic senator from Iowa, disclosed to White House reporters that he was quitting, but said the President did not act on his resignation immediately.

He took the job Jan. 3, when his Senate term ended, he said, against his will and with the understanding that the assignment would be only temporary.

Friends in the Senate said that one of Gillette's objections to the Surplus Property job was that he felt he did not have sufficient authority over billions of dollars of accumulating surplus war goods.

The board has responsibility for policy, but not the control over disposal that Gillette has wanted.

Defeated last fall in a race for re-election to the Senate which he made reluctantly in response to party pleas, Gillette was succeeded in the Senate by Bourke B. Hickenlooper, Republican, former Iowa governor.

Was Boomed for Cabinet

He had been boomed by former Senate colleagues for a post in the cabinet, such as Agriculture secretary, and for other assignments. White House Press Secretary Charles G. Ross told his morning news conference of the dispatch of the letter to Garner, vice president for two terms under former President Roosevelt.

Ross did not say whether the President had offered Garner a government post. "The President wrote Garner a friendly letter some time ago and told him to come around and see him," Ross said. "What he wanted to see him about I do not know."

This was viewed here as part of Mr. Truman's efforts to heal wounds within the Democratic party and to bring Republicans into consultation on issues inviting nonpartisan action.

Ross' announcement that Landon had accepted an invitation to consult with the President, fits into the latter pattern.

Landon, Ross said, wrote a cordial reply in which he accepted the invitation, and the date of their conference will be one convenient to the two of them.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, 1944 GOP standard bearer, has not yet accepted a similar invitation, Ross said in reply to a question.

TRUMAN PRESENTS MEDAL TO EARLY

WASHINGTON, May 31—(AP) President Truman, in a surprise ceremony today presented the Distinguished Service Medal to Stephen T. Early, retiring after more than 12 years as secretary and special assistant to the late President Roosevelt and Mr. Truman.

Early was awarded the gold military medal for remaining at his post "at great personal sacrifice" and for rendering "great assistance in helping to arouse the nation in the days of its unpreparedness to a sense of the danger which threatened it from aggression abroad."

Earlier in the day the President in a letter to Early, who is to become executive vice-president of Pullman, Inc., praised him for lightening the presidential burdens of office. Mr. Truman said he was letting Early go but would call on him whenever he felt he could be of help.

The secretary, was dictating a letter when he was called out into the White House rose garden to be presented the medal before several hundred White House employes.

"I never have done so little and received so much," Early said when asked to make a speech.

The medal is given only to military men, but Early still holds a reserve commission as lieutenant colonel of infantry.

EARLY RETIRES TO PRIVATE LIFE

Washington, May 31 (A. P.).—President Truman permitted Stephen T. Early, presidential secretary, to return to private business today, with regret.

The White House made public an exchange of letters between the two in which the President said that he was letting Early go "but not without strings."

"You are to be subject to frequent calls to help me in many ways," the President wrote. "You have been most gracious in offering whatever future help you can render; and I assure you that I shall take advantage of that offer to the fullest."

Early who is becoming a vice-president of the Pullman Company, has been a White House confidant more than twelve years, having served the late President Roosevelt as press secretary and later as appointment secretary.

In his letter he expressed to the President "my admiration and respect for the courageous, efficient and forthright way in which you have assumed your new and burdensome responsibilities."

Early told the President that in all the years of his White House service no member of the press or radio with whom he associated "ever revealed the confidence or violated a trust."

"And," he said, "there have been many confidences and trusts during that time. They have my greatest respect. I cherish the memory of their friendship."

Yanks Saved Tito From Nazi Attack

Washington, May 31 (AP)—American soldiers under fire lowered Marshal Tito down a cliff by a rope to escape the Germans, Field Marshal Sir Henry Maitland Wilson disclosed here today.

"When the German parachute attack developed on June 3," said the field marshal in a statement issued by the British Information Service, "There was general fighting in the area and Lieutenant Colonel Street, of the British Army, took a mixed Anglo-American party to the village. They found that Tito's position was precarious as the Germans were preparing to attack the front of the cave.

"In the best adventure story manner they managed to get Tito out by a back entrance of the cave, using a rope to lower him down the face of a cliff. All this was carried out under medium range machine-gun fire. The whole party then took to the hills where they were under constant attack by enemy planes."

blows to the Japanese. Those already operating are the 20th and 21st bomber commands.

Robert P. Patterson, Under Secretary of War, commenting that the shakeup in the Japanese naval command was another reflection of the setbacks Japan has suffered, added:

"American power will see to it that no newcomer will do better than his predecessor."

58,000 Tons In 3 Months

It was disclosed meanwhile that Superfortresses based in the Marianas dumped 58,000 tons of bombs on Japanese targets in the three months ended May 30, with the bulk of the explosives and incendiaries falling on Tokyo, Nagoya, Osaka and Kobe.

The 20th Air Force said war factories in six critical industries in the four cities had been hit.

In addition, the B-29's also have shattered dock yards and seven transportation centers around the Japanese capital. During the three months, the 20th Air Force reported on the basis of photographs, an estimated 51.3 square miles of Tokyo; 11.3 square miles of Nagoya; 3 square miles of Kobe and 3.1 square miles of Osaka have been destroyed, a total of 73.7 square miles.

tars and tank-borne machine guns, swept up to within twenty yards of the American force and began hurling grenades. One dropped into the foxhole where Private Wilcox and two other infantrymen were lying.

Without hesitating, Wilcox stamped the grenade into the ground and held it there. As it exploded, he slumped back into the hole, his foot smashed but the others unharmed.

U.S. TO WATCH BIG CASH DEALS

Financial Groups To Help Treasury Catch Tax Cheaters

Washington, May 31 (AP)—The Government set a grim watch on cash deals throughout the country today in order to catch tax cheaters.

Henry Morgenthau, Jr., Secretary of the Treasury, ordered all financial institutions in the country to report the name and address of anybody engaging in a suspiciously big-currency transaction.

Failure to make these reports can be punished by ten years in prison, $10,000 fine, or both. The order is effective tomorrow, June 1.

Morgenthau said many "cheaters" are using large currency in their financial dealings, trying to hide the size of their income.

His order applies not only to banks, building and loan associations, and brokers—but also to currency exchanges and "other persons or organizations engaged primarily in cashing checks and exchanging currency."

Honest People Safe

This is the first time currency exchanges have been included in a Treasury order. A currency exchange is an establishment which cashes checks for a fee and performs other services. There are thousands of these establishments but they are not under Federal regulation and Morgenthau said he doesn't know the exact number. He gave an indication of their growth by saying he has been told there are 62 banks in Chicago, and about 400 currency exchanges.

Under the order, institutions are not required to report transactions which in their judgment are in keeping with "legitimate and customary" business. Morgenthau said "no honest person needs to fear the results of our investigation."

Other transactions must be reported if they involve $10,000 or more in currency. If the money is in bills of $50 or higher, $1,000 transactions must be reported.

Officials said the legal basis for the order is the Trading With the Enemy Act of 1917, as amended and repeated in the first War Powers Act of 1941. The authority was delegated to the Treasury by President Roosevelt early in 1942.

To Ask Congress To Help

Secretary Morgenthau will ask Congress tomorrow to enlist in the war on alleged tax dodgers by appropriating funds to hire 10,000 new employés for the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

He will appear in the morning before the House Appropriations Committee and in the afternoon before the Senate Appropriations Committee.

Morgenthau says a supplemental appropriation of between $30,000,000 and $50,000,000 is needed, depending on how fast the new personnel can be recruited. He says this relatively small amount will bring in at least $1,000,000,000 that otherwise would not be collected.

ARMY OPPOSES RELEASE OF SOLDIERS OVER 35

WASHINGTON, May 31—(AP) The Army today turned the cold shoulder on proposals to discharge soldiers above the age of 35 and those with special skills needed in civilian life.

Acting Secretary of War Patterson said the soldiers now designated for release—those 40 or over and those eligible under the point system—are all that the Army can safely spare at this time.

On the basis of present plans, the Army expects to release approximately 2,000,000 in the next 12 months including 1,300,000 under the point system. With new inductees, this will leave a force of 6,968,000 for the war against Japan.

ARMY DISCHARGE LIMIT IS REACHED

Washington, May 31 (A. P.).—Under-Secretary of War Patterson said today that the soldiers now slated for discharge are all the Army thinks it is safe to release at this time.

Announcing this at a news conference, he said that it was in answer to proposals to release men over 35 or to discharge those whose skills are especially needed in civilian life. Chairman May (D.-Ky.), of the House Military Committee recently urged the Army to discharge all soldiers over 35 except for certain key personnel.

Patterson said the Army does not favor such ideas, asserting that if they were adopted it would either delay release of soldiers entitled to discharge because of long and arduous service or would reduce Army strength below the safety margin for the war against Japan.

He said that the Army made its "best judgment" of the number of men needed to defeat Japan with the fewest casualties.

FREED SOLDIERS ON WAY HOME

10,000 Due by Sunday, Says Patterson.

Washington, May 31 (A. P.).—Under-Secretary of War Patterson said today that an additional 10,000 American soldiers freed from German prison camps will reach the United States by Sunday night.

He told a news conference that these arrivals will boost to 37,571 the number of liberated prisoners brought back to this country by ships and airplanes. The number represents, he said, more than one-third of the 90,000 former prisoners of war in Europe who have been returned to American lines, who are in the hands of Allied forces, or in the process of being returned to American control.

The figure of 90,000, he said, represents in the opinion of the War Department, "substantially all" of the United States soldiers taken prisoner in the war against Germany. It is not expected, he said, that many of those who are listed as missing in action will later turn up as having been prisoners of war.

Exchange Points Set Up.

Return of American war prisoners freed by Soviet armies, Patterson said, is being made under arrangements between Gen. Eisenhower and Soviet military authorities. Five exchange points have been established, at Wismar, Wustmaru, Ludwigslust, Magdeburg and Leipzig in Germany, and two additional exchange points are being established in the Reich and Austria.

From the exchange points and other assembly stations, the former prisoners of war are sent to special camps, including a large one near Le Havre, France.

The Army is making every effort, Patterson said, to provide for the well-being and rehabilitation of the former prisoners. All are receiving a sixty-day furlough or leave at their homes.

As soon as the former prisoners reach American forces, Patterson said, they are encouraged to send a fifteen word message to their next of kin over Army radio or cable facilities. When these facilities are overloaded, he said, the surplus messages are flown to the United States by special air courier. More than 15,700 such messages were received last Sunday alone, he said.

'Tremendous Progress' Made By Labor, Says Mrs. Perkins

JUN 1 1945

WASHINGTON, [illegible] — (AP) Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, leaving the cabinet after 12 years, said tonight "Tremendous progress" had been made during her administration and she intends to continue in public life.

Her successor, Lewis B. Schwellenbach, jurist and former senator from Washington State, was confirmed by the Senate today without dissent. He will take office July 1.

Miss Perkins, first woman to hold a cabinet office, predicted a "long, long period of high level employment" with a postwar national income of 130 to 140 billion dollars.

The 63-year-old former Boston social worker whose interest in working conditions for women and children led her into the rough and tumble of New York state and national politics, said she hopes to "carry that thread on" through the remainder of her life.

All but one of the major objectives she wrote down for Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1932 have been accomplished, she said. The exception is medical insurance for the masses of people. She said the Wagner-Murray-Dingell bill recently introduced would not exactly fill that need, but expressed the opinion it would be possible to devise some system acceptable to the medical profession.

Reviewing the accomplishments, she said those original New Deal objectives seemed "far around the corner" in 1932 but have come to be generally accepted.

These include legislation guaranteeing the right of collective bargaining, old age insurance, unemployment compensation, maximum hours and minimum wage laws, child labor regulations and a planned back log of public works.

She said "We know enough now to put these measures into effect at the beginning of any threatened depression rather than at the end when it becomes very difficult to raise employment levels."

14 Million in Unions

On March 4, 1933, when she took office with President Roosevelt there were some 2 to 3 million workers in unions. Today there are 12 to 14 million, she said, and that in itself presents many new problems.

Labor unions now have new responsibilities for establishing a code of ethics, she said, and she has started work on this with Philip Murray and A.F.L. William Green.

She said the unions must now assume responsibility for "tremendous power over the lives of people to see that it is used wisely."

A code of ethics should help prevent use of the strike she remarked, establish new relationship between rank and file and their officers and outline obligations to an employer with whom contracts are signed.

THOMAS SEES DANGER IN U.S.-RUSSIA RIVALRY

NEW YORK, May 31—(AP) Socialist Leader Norman Thomas said tonight that "the present economic and political setup of the world encourages rivalries which may become dangerous between the United States and Russia."

In an address prepared for delivery on "America's Town Meeting" over the Blue Network, (8:30 p.m., EWT) Thomas urged that the war against Japan be brought to "the earliest possible end appropriate to lasting peace," and added:

"Stalin or his successor will be the only victor in the war of annihilation we fight against Japan at such tragic cost without even defining our objectives."

Superfortresses Included In Force Doolittle Heads

Washington, May 31 (AP)—Lieut. Gen. James H. Doolittle, who struck the first air blow against Tokyo, will have B-29 Superfortresses as well as smaller planes in his 8th Air Force when he hurls it against the Japanese, it was announced today.

Doolittle, whose carrier-based attack on the Nipponese capital three years ago thrilled the nation, now has more than 3,000 Flying Fortresses, Liberators and fighter planes in the force which played such a part in toppling Germany.

Announced By Arnold

Gen. H. H. Arnold, Army Air Forces chief, made known that Superfortresses would be added to this array. Arnold is head of the 20th (Superfortress) Air Force and it is understood that as such he will retain over-all direction of the giant planes which will operate under Doolittle.

Trod Japanese Grenade In Ground, Saved 3 Lives

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 31—The Army told today the story of a Tennessee infantryman who saved his own life and those of two companions by stamping a Japanese grenade into the ground and holding it down with his foot as it exploded.

The hero is 31-year-old Pfc. Dora Wilcox of St. Elmo, Tenn., rifleman, whose foot was shattered by the blast. He is now receiving treatment at Letterman General Hospital in San Francisco.

Private Wilcox, along with other men of the Thirty-second Division, had just completed a three-day forced march to a ridge on Leyte from which they could cover the strategic Ormoc road. Soon after the outfit had dug in, the Japanese discovered them and started a heavy attack.

There were a few red swollen eyes and a few smiles. But most of the men were stony-faced and unemotional as they filed up the gangplank. The groups were all men who for some reason or other were ineligible for citizenship.

Among them were 523 Italian seamen and officers interned in the United States and 148 Greeks.

The deportees carried everything from expensive leather luggage to burlap bags. They wore everything from derby hats to baseball caps and cowboy felts, and from velvet collared overcoats to lumberjackets.

Boston, May 31 (A. P.).—Gen. George S. Patton Jr., will visit Boston June 7 en route from Europe to his native Los Angeles, Gov. Maurice J. Tobin announced today.

Gen. Patton and a party of about fifty officers and men are scheduled to arrive by air. Gov. Tobin with Mrs. Patton, who has been staying in Hamilton, and Major-Gen. Sherman Miles, of the First Service Command, are to meet Gen. Patton at Bedford.

The party will come to Boston by automobile and tentative plans call for a brief stop at the Hatch Memorial Shell on the Esplanade where the General may speak.

The Commonwealth of Massachusetts will be the host that night at a State dinner for the Gen. Patton party with the Governors of the other New England States as guests. Gen. Patton leaves the following day for California.

90 P.C. Of Total Wounded Held Employable

Chicago, May 31 (AP)—Millard W. Rice, national service director of the Disabled American Veterans, declared today that 90 per cent of them are employable.

"Service disabled veterans constitute about ten per cent of the total number of all veterans," Rice said in an address to the National Conference of State Veterans' Employment Representatives.

"Inasmuch as the Veterans' Administration provides compensation for total disability for only about ten per cent of the total number of all service-connected disabled veterans it must be assumed that the other 90 per cent of them, who are only partially disabled, are employable."

Supplemental Incomes Needed

"Being compensated for only partial disabilities, their incomes must necessarily be supplemented, preferably by suitable gainful employment, to enable them to maintain a decent American standard of living for themselves and their families . . ."

Rice expressed the belief that service disabled veterans will "probably never constitute more than four per cent of the total number of employables in the country." He said the disabled veterans prefer employment to pensions and more jobs for the disabled would relieve the potential burden on taxpayers.

Stresses Proper Placement

Rice declared that handicapped veterans properly placed are as capable as able-bodied persons and he proposed that Government agencies "should set the example for private industry by employment of more than their share of service disabled veterans."

He said special preferences for disabled veterans "are justified on the basis of the special sacrifice that service disabled veterans have made."

JAP BALLOON BLAST BARED

Secrecy On Killing Of 6 Persons In Oregon Lifted

Lakeview, Ore., May 31 (AP)—The only survivor of the Japanese balloon bomb explosion that killed his wife and five youngsters near here told tonight how the first victims of a World War II enemy attack on the United States mainland died.

Disclosure of the May 5 tragedy was made by Robert P. Patterson, Under Secretary of War, to warn the public against touching strange objects in the forests.

The survivor, the Rev. Archie Mitchell, said he had taken his wife and five neighborhood children on a fishing trip. Later in the day, he related, they decided to eat lunch at a picnic site a short distance from the stream.

Minister Gives Warning

Mitchell said his wife and the children were walking through the woods to the spot while he drove the car there. As he stopped the car, he said he heard someone shout, "Look what we've found."

The minister said he called, "Don't touch it," and started running toward the group. He explained he had heard of the Japanese balloons and was afraid that was what they'd found.

"As I ran through the woods," he said, "there was a terrific explosion."

Secret Until Today

He found the six of them dead, all within a ten-yard radius of the balloon fragments. A piece of burning balloon lay on Mrs. Mitchell's body.

Two Forest Service workers who were operating a road grader in the vicinity got to the scene almost as quickly as Mitchell did.

He talked about the tragedy for the first time today because military officials had asked him not to discuss the explosion as it was a military secret.

Warning By Patterson

Killed were Mrs. Mitchell, Joan Patske, 11; her brother Dick, 13; Eddie Engen, 13; Jay Gifford, 12, and Serman Shoemaker, 12.

Patterson said it was the only fatality caused by hundreds of bomb-carrying balloons the Japanese have dispatched toward the United States in recent months. He said the story was being released to emphasize the need for precautions.

He warned that any future damage caused by the balloons, now being fought by both the Forest Service and military officials, must be kept under strict censorship.

"It is our natural aim to keep from the enemy any information that will make his futile attack any more effective," he said. "Any information at all which would indicate the time or place of the arrival of a balloon, or their numbers or their particular effects or anything on their technical aspects would aid the enemy to correct and improve their flight and mechanism and encourage their continuance."

DELEGATES AGREE INDEPENDENCE AIM OF TRUSTEESHIPS

SAN FRANCISCO, May 31—(AP) United Nations delegates agreed today to make independence an objective for territories under trusteeships, but to leave only self-government as the pledge to other dependent areas, such as colonies.

The decision, taken in the conference trusteeship committee, meant that another major obstacle has been passed; wording remains to be decided.

Chinese delegate Wellington Koo withdrew his country's amendment which would have included independence within the general policy of united nations toward all "peoples not yet able to stand by themselves."

In return, it was promised that the word "indendence" and a reference to self-determination or the wishes of the people would be included as a basic objective of the trusteeship system.

New Zealand Prime Minister Peter Fraser, head of the committee, reported the results of today's meetings and took pains to emphasize that only the machinery for trusteeships now is under consideration, not the future of any given area.

Avoid World Quarrels

"I don't want quarrels in other parts of the world to be taken up here," he told a news conference.

Some of the committee members have a different idea, however, during the debate, an Iraq delegate jumped up demanding to know about provisions for ending trusteeships, since both self government and independence in the two clauses are listed as future aims rather than dated promises.

"Or," he asked in apparent reference to the clash between French and Syrians in the middle east, "Do we always have to wait for the shooting?"

Fraser just rapped for order.

Although the argument over including independence is considered virtually solved, the committee still has several controversial points to take up. Fraser said he expected that it could finish its work and report to a conference commission "early next week."

Consolidate Policies

United States delegates moved today to consolidate big five policies on a half dozen vital problems facing the conference.

Still lacking word from Moscow on an interpretation of the Security Council voting procedure, drafted by the major powers, the Americans nevertheless sought a meeting of delegation chairmen of the United States, Britain, Russia, France and China in order to reach agreement on other issues and speed conclusion of the conference.

The veto question implied in the security council voting procedure heads the list of controversial issues the Americans feel must be settled soon among the major nations.

But in addition the Americans have listed the following for discussion by big five chairmen:

1. Provision for amendment of the United Nations charter, once it is adopted.
2. Method of election of a secretary general for the proposed international court.
3. Procedure for electing judges of the international court.
4. The question whether a provision for expulsion of members should be written into the charter.
5. Whether to authorize the security council to make agreement with individual nations for furnishing military enforcement contingents.
6. Disposal of several economic and social council problems, including the "Australian pledge" of promoting such policies as full employment, and a French amendment dealing with equal access to raw materials.

SUGGEST OPENING OF CONFERENCE FOR REPORTERS

SAN FRANCISCO, May 31—(AP) A Peruvian move to have the World Security Charter open the doors of the future general assembly to newsmen from all nations gained favor today among influential delegations.

The suggestion was advanced by Luis Fernan Cisneros, a newspaperman for over 40 years and now Peruvian ambassador to Mexico.

Cisneros asked that the World Security Charter specifically provide that the world press have access to the general assembly, except in instances when it may go into secret session to discuss delicate matters.

Since it was presented late, the conference executive committee must first decide to consider the proposal as an amendment and authorize a technical committee to deal with it.

Herbert V. Evatt, Australian foreign minister and a member of the executive committee, said he is "strongly in favor" of the Peruvian suggestion and "we will support it."

Mexican Foreign Minister Ezequiel Padilla, also a committee member, said he will "Definitely support it because the assembly is to represent the world conscience and world opinion and therefore the people of the world should know what is going on."

A spokesman for the U. S. delegation said "the whole policy of the United States government has been toward a free press."

The Chilean foreign minister, Joaquin Fernandez Y Fernandez, told a reporter he would "enthusiastically support everything relating to the freedom of the press."

A British delegation spokesman commented that the proposal was made quite late and that he didn't know what the sentiment of the British delegates or the big five would be.

Cisneros in an interview went a step beyond his official proposal by supporting the idea that all nations give newspapermen reciprocal and equal freedom to report the news to and from all parts of the world.

"But the newspaperman should be a professional," he said, "And reporting should be his career and not just a sideline so that press freedom is not abused."

Danes Attend At Frisco

San Francisco, May 31 (AP)—Denmark's delegation to the United Nations Security Conference is scheduled to get in today without an official invitation but with the prospect of receiving one in a few days.

The members are Henrik Kauffman, Danish Minister to Washington; Hartvig Srisch and E. Husfeldt.

A formal invitation to Denmark is to be proposed by Norway at the next meeting of the conference's steering committee. It is expected to be promptly approved, but whether the committee action will be final or will require ratification by the full conference remains to be decided.

Denmark would raise the conference membership to 50 nations.

PARIS, MAY 31-(AP)-THE FIRST GI COSSACK WHO FOUGHT HIS WAY INTO BERLIN WITH THE RUSSIANS WHILE SUFFERING FROM "TEMPORARY AMNESIA" HAS TURNED UP IN THE AMERICAN HOSPITAL HERE, STARS AND STRIPES REPORTED TODAY.

THE GI THINKS HE IS PFC WILLIAM WALKER, PROBABLY FROM NEW YORK CITY, BUT HE HAS NOT BEEN POSITIVELY IDENTIFIED AS YET.

"PFC WILLIAM WALKER KEEPS RUNNING THROUGH MY MIND, SO I GUESS THAT'S WHAT I AM CALLED," HE TOLD THE STARS AND STRIPES," AND I FIGURE I AM FROM NEW YORK BECAUSE WHENEVER PEOPLE TALK ABOUT THAT CITY I RECALL STREETS AND PLACES. I GUESS I HAVE GOT A WIFE OR FAMILY OR SOMEBODY BACK HOME. THEY THINK I AM DEAD. MAYBE I AM."

WALKER REMEMBERS LEAVING A LANDING CRAFT ON THE BEACHES AND THEN ONLY REMEMBERS COMING TO IN A GERMAN HOSPITAL WHERE HE STAYED THREE MONTHS. THEN HE WENT TO A PRISON WORK CAMP.

"WHEN WE SLACKED OFF A LITTLE THEY WOULD JAB US WITH BAYONETS. SEVERAL TIMES THEY CAME THROUGH THE CAMP AND BEAT UP A BUNCH OF THE BOYS JUST FOR THE HELL OF IT. ONCE THEY MADE ME RUN THE GANTLET. WE PRISONERS HAD TO GO THROUGH A DOUBLE LINE WITH THE GERMANS WHO WERE ARMED WITH CLUBS. ONE HIT ME ON THE HEAD AGAIN AND I AS LAID UP FOR THREE WEEKS."

WHEN THE RUSSIANS SHELLED THE PRISON CAMP WALKER MADE HIS WAY TO THE RUSSIAN LINES WHERE HE WAS OFFERED A HORSE AND A CHANCE TO JOIN THE COSSACKS.

"WHEN WE GOT TO THE SUBURBS OF BERLIN THE WHOLE DAMC PLACE LOOKED LIKE IT WAS BURNING" HE SAID, TELLING HOW HE HAD KILLED THREE GERMANS IN THE FIGHT TO TAKE THE CITY.

HE STAYED NEAR THE TEMPELHOF AIRDROME UNTIL A C-47 CAME IN WITH SOME SIGHTSEEING AMERICAN PILOTS AND HE RODE BACK TO THE AMERICAN LINES.

AT THE AMERICAN HOSPITAL HIS ILLNESS WAS INVESTIGATED AND THE DOCTORS SAID HE HAD "TEMPORARY AMNESIA."

"I SURE HOPE IT'S TEMPORARY," HE SAID, "SUPPOSE I GO HOME AND SOME GOOD LOOKING BABY RUSHES UP AND SAYS 'DARLING YOU ARE BACK' AND I DON'T EVEN RECOGNIZE HER. THAT WOULD BE TERRIBLE."

BRITISH FOREIGN SECRETARY ANTHONY EDEN'S PUBLISHED TELEGRAM TO THE SYRIAN AND LEBANESE GOVERNMENTS URGING THEM TO REMAIN CALM WAS DESCRIBED IN PARIS AS "SOMEWHAT USELESS" BECAUSE THE TWO LEVANT GOVERNMENTS HAD BROKEN OFF NEGOTIATIONS WITH FRANCE.

FRANCE WAS WILLING TO RESUME TALKS IMMEDIATELY BUT WOULD NOT BE INTIMIDATED BY VIOLENCE, IT WAS STATED.

ANTAGONISM DEEPENED IN GOVERNMENT CIRCLES AGAINST A PROPOSAL FOR MEDIATION. THE ATTITUDE HERE IS THAT THE ISSUES ARE DIRECTLY BETWEEN FRANCE AND THE LEVANT COUNTRIES, THAT THEY ARE NOT INSOLUBLE AND THAT THEY HAVE BEEN EXAGGERATED BY "OTHER INTERESTED PARTIES."

THE FRENCH ATTITUDE WAS DECLARED TO BE THAT THE SITUATION TODAY IS IDENTICAL WITH THE CRISIS OVERCOME BY NEGOTIATION IN 1943 AND THAT IT CAN BE MET IN THE SAME WAY.

THE FRENCH PRESS REPORTED THAT THE OUTBREAK OF FIGHTING IN DAMASCUS WAS PROVOKED BY SYRIAN ATTACKS AGAINST THE FRENCH. OFFICIAL REPORTS STILL ARE UNAVAILABLE.

FRANCE'S INTERESTS IN THE MIDDLE EAST WILL BE MAINTAINED, FRENCH SOURCES SAID, ADDING IT WAS HOPED THEY WOULD NOT CLASH WITH THOSE OF ANY OTHER NATION.

DESPITE THE XXXX IMPROVEMENTS THAT HAVE BEEN MADE AT THE CAMP THERE STILL ARE MANY SAD CASES IN THE HOSPITAL -- VICTIMS OF NAZI BRUTALITY. XXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXX THEY ARE RECEIVING THE BEST POSSIBLE CARE, BUT A LARGE NUMBER OF THEM WILL NEVE RECOVER.

AS I WAS ADOUT TO LEAVE THE CAMP TODAY, A LITTLE BOY WITH SAD EYES APPROACHED OUR JEEP AND ASKED IF HE COULD RIDE INTO WEIMAR, WHERE HE WISHED TO VISIT A FRIEND. HE WAS DRESSED IN AN AMERICAN UNIFORM, GREATLY SHORTENED BY SOME G.I. TAILOR TO FIT HIS SMALL FRAME.

HE TOLD A SIMPLE STORY IN HALTING GERMAN:

"MY NAME IS ROMEO BOEXELMAN. I AM A JEW. WE LIVED NEAR KATOWICE (POLAND). MY MOTHER WAS MURDERED BY THE GESTAPO, AND THEN BURNED. I WAS AT THE AUSCHWITZ CONCENTRATION CAMP FOR TWO YEARS AND THEN AT BUCHENWALD FOR ONE YEAR. I WORKED IN A QUARRY.

JUN 1 - 1945

"MY FATHER ALSO WAS AT BUCHENWALD. HE WAS REMOVED WITH THOUSANDS OF OTHERS JUST BEFORE THE NAZIS RAN AWAY. HE'S PROBABLY DEAD NOW. XXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXX MAYBE SOMEDAY I CAN GO TO XXXXXXXXXXXX PALESTINE WHERE I HAVE AN UNCLE."

SUDDENLY A SATISFIED SMILE CREPT OVER THE BOY'S FACE.

"YESTERDAY MY COMRADE AND I CAUGHT AN S.S. MAN. HE WAS DRESSED IN CIVILIAN CLOTHES AND THOUGHT NOBODY WOULD RECOGNIZE HIM. BUT WE REPORTED HIM TO THE AMERICANS-- AND NOW HE'S WHERE HE CAN DO NO FURTHER HARM.

XXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXX

"WE'LL GET THEM ALL," HE ADDED DETERMINEDLY.

IN CONTRAST TO THE WEEPING WHICH GREETED HITLER'S BLOODLESS CONQUEST IN MARCH, 1939, IT WAS A GALA AND HISTORIC DAY FOR THE HOMECOMING FIGHTERS WHO WERE SEEING THEIR CAPITOL FOR THE FIRST TIME IN SIX YEARS. AFTER THE FALL OF FRANCE THEY WENT TO BRITAIN, WERE REEQUIPPED AND THEN CAME BACK TO FIGHT ON THE CONTINENT.

BENEATH TODAY'S SURFACE GAIETY THERE WAS AN UNDERCURRENT OF UNCERTAINTY AMONG THE FREEDOM-LOVING CZECHS OVER THEIR FUTURE.

THE TOKEN OF CZECH MILITARY POWER IN PRAGUE ON THIS MEMORIAL DAY BOOSTED THE SPIRITS OF PRAGUE'S PEOPLE WHO CHEERED THE LOUDEST SINCE THE RED ARMY CAME IN THE CITY FROM THE EAST. THEIR IS TILL AN OCCUPIED LAND, HOWEVER, AND THEY ARE ANXIOUS FOR THE OCCUPATION TO END.

"OUR GOVERNMENT IS RAPIDLY GETTING HOLD OF THINGS BUT ITS HANDS IN THE ADMINISTRATION OF THE COUNTRY ARE PRETTY MUCH TIED BY THE PRESENCE OF THE OCCUPATION FORCES," ONE CZECH SAID.

THERE WAS TALK IN PRAGUE OF A RUSSIAN WITHDRAWAL IN THE MIDDLE OF JUNE. BUT THIS IS WHOLLY UNOFFICIAL AND THERE WAS NO CONFIRMATION FROM ANY SOURCE. NOR WAS THERE ANY SUGGESTION AS TO WHEN THE AMERICANS WOULD WITHDRAW.

MOSCOW, MAY 31,(AP)- FOREIGN COMMISSAR V.M.MOLOTOV AND MADAM MOLOTOV ENTERTAINED TONIGHT AT THE SPERIDONIFKA PALACE ON THE OCCASSION OF THE VICTORY OVER GERMANY.

THE ENTIRE DIPLOMATIC CORPS TOGETHER WITH THE MARSHALS OF THE RED ARMY, ADMIRALS OF THE NAVY AND THE LEADING FIGURES OF RUSSIA'S POLITICAL, ARTISTIC AND THEATRICAL LIFE WERE INVITED.

MOSCOW, MAY 31-(AP)-LT. GEN. ANDREI TARASOV, ASSISTANT IN CHARGE OF THE BIG RED ARMY SPRING AND SUMMER COMBAT TRAINING WHICH BEGINS TOMORROW, SAID TODAY THAT DETAILED ATTENTION WOULD BE GIVEN TO PHYSICAL HARDENING OF TROOPS.

THOUSANDS OF 15 AND 16-YEAR-OLD RUSSIAN YOUTHS HAVE BEEN CALLED UP FOR THE TRAINING WHICH HE SAID WOULD INCLUDE CROSS COUNTRY RACES, GYMNASTICS, RIFLE PRACTICE, GRENADE THROWING, SCALING OF DIFFICULT OBSTACLES AND CROSSING OF WATER BARRIERS. EIGHTEEN-MILE MARCHES WITH FULL KIT WILL BE MADE.

MOSCOW, MAY 31-(AP)-THE IZVESTIA COMMENTATOR "OBSERVER" SAID TODAY THE "SOBERING STATEMENTS" OF MRS. ELEANOR ROOSEVELT AND U.S. SECRETARY OF STATE EDWARD STETTINIUS HAD HELPED TO COUNTERACT FEAR OF THE SOVIET UNION IN THE UNITED STATES.

THE WRITER DECLARED THAT SUCH FEAR HAD REACHED UNHEARD OF PROPORTIONS. HE BLAMED SOME SECTIONS OF THE AMERICAN PRESS AND ALSO SOME POLITICIANS, WHO HE SAID "WERE AFRAID OF VICTORY" AND THE QUESTIONS LEFT UNDECIDED BY THE CRUSHING OF HITLER.

MOSCOW, MAY 31-(AP)-THE RUSSIAN ARMY NEWSPAPER RED STAR SAID TODAY CIVILIAN SELF-GOVERNMENT HAS BEEN ESTABLISHED IN ALL GERMAN CITIES UNDER MARSHAL IVAN S.KONEV'S FIRST UKRAINIAN ARMY, WHICH COVERS THE SOUTHERN HALF OF RUSSIAN-OCCUPIED GERMANY.

A DISPATCH TO THE RED STAR SAID 250 SOVIET COMMANDANTS OF OCCUPIED CITIES, TOGETHER WITH POLITICAL ASSISTANTS, HAD COMPLETED A CONFERENCE DEVOTED TO COORDINATING THEIR WORK.

ALTHOUGH THE DISPATCH DID NOT ELABORATE, IT WAS BELIEVED HERE THAT THE REFERENCE TO ORGANS OF SELF-GOVERNMENT INCLUDED BURGOMEISTERS OPERATING UNDER THE SUPERVISION OF RED ARMY COMMANDANTS, WITH THE GERMANS FREE TO CHOOSE REPRESENTATIVES IN THE MUNICIPAL GOVERNMENTS, COOPERATIVES, RATION BOARDS AND OTHER INSTITUTIONS.

MOSCOW, MAY 31-(AP)-PROF. KONSTANTIN BAZILEVICH, RUSSIAN AUTHORITY ON SLAVIC AFFAIRS, SAID TODAY THAT "THE SOVIET UNION IS NOT INTERRUPTING THE INNER LIFE OF THOSE IN LIBERATED COUNTRIES BUT IS HELPING THEM GET RID OF "FEUDAL REGIMES."

JUN 1 - 1945

WRITING IN PRAVDA REGARDING OF RUSSIAN POLICY IN POLAND, CZECHOSLOVAKIA, YUGOSLAVIA AND BULGARIA, HE SAID THE VICTORY OVER GERMAN INVADERS "GIVES FOR THE FIRST TIME A POSSIBILITY OF REAL INDEPENDENT DEVELOPMENT OF ALL SLAV PEOPLE NOT ONLY IN THE SENSE OF THEIR ASSERTION OF POLITICAL INDEPENDENCE BUT ALSO LIBERATION FROM OUTSIDE PRESSURE ON NATIONAL LIFE."

HE SAID NON-COMMUNISTS IN THOSE COUNTRIES HAD DENOUNCED ATTACKS ON RUSSIA FOR HER POLICY IN LIBERATED REGIONS. "THE SOVIET UNION," HE SAID, "HAD SOLVED HXXXXXXXX A HISTORICAL ASSIGNMENT WHICH CZARIST RUSS WAS NEVER ABLE TO DO. ONLY THIS MOST DEMOCRATIC STATE IN THE WORLD, THE SOVIET UNION, WAS ABLE TO OVERCOME THE NATIONAL CONTRADICTIONS OF THE XXXX SLAVS."

moscow, may 31-(ap)-civilian self-government has been established in all german cities under marshal ivan s.konev's first ukrainian army which covers the southern half of russian-occupied germany, it was reported to-a dispatch to the russian army newspaper red star said 250 soviet commandants of occupied cities together with political assistants had completed a conference devoted to coordinating their work.

"in all the cities in this district of germany the organs of civil self-government already xxxxxxxx are established," the dispatch said.

the conference was reported to have drafted plans for restoring "municipal economy" including factory plants, in the occupied xxxxxxx district, bounded by the polish and czech frontiers on the east and south and by the elbe river on the west up to dessau-rosslau southwest of berlin. dresden is the biggest city in the district.

JUN 1 - 1945

although the dispatch did not elaborate, it was believed here that the reference to organs of self-government included buergermeisters operating under the supervision of red army commandants, with the germans free to choose representatives in the municipal governments, cooperatives, ration boards and other institutions.

this system is being followed in the districts of berlin and appears is serving as a pattern for all of russian-occupied germany.

reports here said the russian zone of the xxxxx conquered reich was recovering quickly from widespread disorganization which marked the defeat of german defeat. germans were reported returning to their homes and places of business in large numbers and the soviet authorities were said to be encouraging the resumption of trade on the previous profit basis.

THERE APPEARS TO BE NO SOLUTION IN SIGHT EXCEPT OUTRIGHT BRITISH-AMERICAN SEIZURE OF CONTROL. A HIGH FRENCH OFFICER SAID THE FRENCH MUST BE "FIRM," AND THE SYRIANS ARE DETERMINED NOT TO BOW, FEELING THAT GIVING IN WOULD PREJUDICE THEIR INDEPENDENCE.

BRITISH AND AMERICAN AUTHORITIES IN SYRIA AND LEBANON WERE REPORTED TO HAVE TOLD GEN. HUMBOLDT, FRENCH COMMANDER IN THE TWO COUNTRIES, THAT THE BLOODSHED WAS "ABSOLUTELY INDEFENSIBLE."

THE VIOLENCE ERUPTED AT 6:55 P.M. TUESDAY. ARTILLERY, MORTAR AND MACHINEGUN FIRE AS WELL AS AERIAL BOMBS RAINED ON DAMASCUS ALMOST UNCEASINGLY. SYRIAN GENDARMES ANSWERED THE FIRE WITH EVERY AVAILABLE WEAPON.

DAMASCUS EXPLODED INTO UTTER CHAOS AFTER A WEEK OF HIGH TENSION OVER FRENCH INSISTENCE UPON SYRIAN AND LEBANESE ACCEPTANCE OF A TREATY GIVING FRANCE SPECIAL RIGHTS. THEY ACCOMPANIED THEIR DEMANDS BY LANDING NEW TROOPS IN THE LEVANT STATES.

CROWDS GATHERED DAILY BEFORE THE SERAIL (GOVERNMENT HOUSE) AND OTHER GOVERNMENT INSTALLATIONS, DEMANDING ACTION AGAINST THE FRENCH. THE SIGHT OF FRENCH TROOPS WOULD PROVOKE INSTANT TROUBLE, USUALLY IN THE FORM OF SHOOTING.

ALMOST PRECISELY THE SAME THING HAD OCCURRED REPEATEDLY IN THE PAST FEW DAYS. SYRIAN GOVERNMENT GENDARMES ALWAYS TOOK CHARGE IMMEDIATELY, DISPERSED THE CROWDS AND PUT A QUICK END TO THE DISORDERS OR MANAGED TO LOCALIZE THE FIGHTING.

JUN 1 - 1945

A81

BUT THIS TIME, ALTHOUGH THE GENDARMERIE WENT INTO ACTION QUICKLY, THE ENTIRE AREA AROUND THE SERAIL BURST INTO A DIN OF FIRE FROM ALL SIDES.

THE FRENCH SAID THEY WERE FIRED UPON FIRST BY THE SYRIANS. THE SYRIANS CLAIM THE FRENCH WERE READY AND WAITING IN POSITIONS SURROUNDIN THE SERAIL, READY TO OPEN FIRE AT A SIGNAL.

THE FRENCH HAVE INFORMED BOTH AMERICAN AND BRITISH AUTHORITIES OFFICIALLY THAT THEIR POLICY WAS TO "INTIMDATE" THE SYRIAN POPULACE AND THAT THEY SAW NO OTHER WAY OF HANDLING THE SITUATION.

THE SYRIANS DECLINE TO BE INTIMIDATED, AND THUS FAR HAVE GIVEN EVERY EVIDENCE OF STANDING FIRM TO THE BITTER END.

I CAN PERSONALLY VOUCH ONLY FOR THE CONDITIONS IN DAMASCUS. THERE BOTH THE BRITISH AND AMERICAN LEGATIONS WERE SHOT UP BY MACHINEGUN AND RIFLE FIRE FROM FRENCH SENEGALESE TROOPS, AND POSSIBLY ALSO BY SYRIAN FIRE.

THE WIFE OF BRITISH MINISTER TERENCE SHONE WAS CUT ON THE FACE BY FLYING GLASS WHEN A BULLET CAME THROUGH THE WINDOW OF HER RESIDENCE.

IT IS UNSAFE TO VENTURE INTO THE STREETS.

THE ORIENT PALACE HOTEL, WHICH IS THE TOWN'S MAIN HOSTEL, WAS CUT TO RIBBONS ON THE GROUND FLOOR BY A CROSSFIRE FROM FRENCH POSTS NEARBY. THIS HOTEL WAS MANNED BY SYRIAN GENDARMES, BUT WITHIN TEN MINUTES AFTER THE OUTBREAK OF THE BATTLE THEY WERE ORDERED AWAY TO PREVENT FURTHER FRENCH FIRE.

SINCE THEN THE NATIONALS OF MANY COUNTRIES LIVING THERE, INCLUDING THE RUSSIAN PATRIARCH ALEXEI, WHO ARRIVED IN DAMASCUS A FEW HOURS BEFORE THE SHOOTING BEGAN, WERE SUBJECTED TO MACHINEGUN AND RIFLE FIRE, AND TO SHELLING BY 75'S AND MORTARS.

A BRITISH MAJOR WAS KILLED BY A RIFLE GRENADE FIRED INTO THE BASEMENT OF THE HOTEL WHERE HE WAS TAKING SHELTER THIS MORNING.

THE WORST BOMBING WAS DIRECTED AT THE DAMASCUS CITADEL, WHICH IS THE CITY'S STRONGPOINT. LATE REPORTS PUT THE DEAD AS HIGH AS 150, INCLUDING SOME PRISONERS KILLED IN THE TOWN JAIL, LOCATED IN THE CITADEL.

THE SYRIAN GENDARMERIE, NUMBERING ALTOGETHER APPROXIMATELY 1,200 MEN ARMED ALMOST EXCLUSIVELY WITH OUTMODED RIFLES, FIRE ON THE BOMBERS WHEN THEY COME OVER, THUS FAR WITHOUT RESULT.

A BOMBER AT HAMA, HOWEVER, WAS REPORTED TO HAVE BEEN SHOT DOWN WHEN IT VENTURED TOO LOW.

THE STREETS OF DAMASCUS ARE DESERTED, EXCEPT FOR AN OCCASIONAL BRITISH ARMORED CAR OR TRUCK UNDER THE UNION JACK.

A82

THE FRENCH ACTION IN DAMASCUS WAS PRECEDED BY THE SURRENDER MONDAY OF THEIR ENTIRE GARRISON IN ALWAYS REBELLIOUS JEBEL ED DRUZ WHERE THE DRUZ REVOLT OF 1925 TOOK PLACE. MOST OF THE TROOPS THERE WERE SYRIAN LEVEES, BUT 16 FRENCH OFFICERS ALSO SURRENDERED.

THE CRITICAL QUESTION NOW IS WHETHER THE DRUZ TROOPS WILL MOVE ON DAMASCUS.

THE SURRENDER TOOK PLACE IN THE DRUZ CAPITAL OF SOUCIDA, WITHOUT BLOODSHED, AND THE FRENCH WERE TAKEN INTO PROTECTIVE CUSTODY. THE SYRIAN FLAG WAS HOISTED, REPLACING THE TRICOLOR.

THE NEARBY GARRISON AT EZRRA ALSO SURRENDERED.

IN LEBANON THUS FAR IT IS QUIET. FRENCH SOLDIERS STILL ARE SEEN ON THE STREETS OF BEYROUTH BUT THERE ARE NO INCIDENTS. LEBANESE, CHRISTIAN AND MOSLEM YOUTH PARTIES, MEETING TOGETHER, WERE TRYING TO WORK OUT A CONCERTED POLICY CALLING FOR A GENERAL STRIKE IN SYMPATHY WITH SYRIA, BEGINNING THURSDAY. IF CARRIED OUT, THIS MIGHT BRING ABOUT TROUBLE IN LEBANON.

DURING THE NIGHT, BONIFACE REPORTED, THE JAPANESE TRIED CONSTANTLY TO INFILTRATE BACK INTO THE CASTLE GROUNDS. THESE PROWLERS WERE SILHOUETTED BY MARINE FLARES IN DISTORTED PATTERNS AGAINST THE ANCIENT WALLS.

ONE OF THEM MANAGED TO REACH THE TOP OF A WALL BEFORE HE WAS SHOT BY PVT.L.A.CARTER OF DES MOINES, IA. THE JAPANESE FELL FROM THE WALL INTO A FOXHOLE OCCUPIED BY SGT.L.E.KREGER OF (12763 LAUDER ST.) STRATEMEYER WELDED UNITED STATES AND BRITISH AIR UNITS INTO A SINGLE INTEGRATED FORCE WHICH SPEARHEADED THE ATTACKS OF ALLIED GROUND FORCES AND DEVELOPED ARMY SUPPLY BY AIR TO AN UNPRECEDENTED DEGREE.

BECAUSE OF THE EFFICIENCY OF THE EASTERN AIR COMMAND, GROUND FORCES WERE ABLE TO IGNORE DELIBERATELY GROUND SUPPLY LINES IN [redacted] BURMA AND INDIA--SOME OF THE WORLD'S MOST TORTUOUS TERRAIN--AND DEPEND ON AIR CARGO TO EXIST AND FIGHT.
